Applications may be made to the Secretary of the Edward Kylie Trust on or before February 8th, 1946, by candidates for the Edward Kylie Trust Award for the year 1946-47. These applications should be made in writing and should give particulars of the qualifications and record of the applicant with a view to the following requirements. The Award will be made to a male student who is a British Subject, either a graduate or an undergraduate of Arts, preferably in the course of Modern History, at the University of Toronto, to enable him to pursue his studies in Great Britain. The Trustees shall make their award to that candidate who appears from his record at the University, to be most likely to occupy a position of leadership and influence in the Community.

The sum available is Eight Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($850.00) for the year 1946-47 and the Trustees may renew the award for a second year if they are satisfied with the first year's record.

The Trustees, upon receiving applications, will arrange for the examination of the candidates and if the Trustees are not satisfied as to the suitability of any of the candidates they will have the right to withhold the award.

DATED this 21st. day of January A.D., 1946.

THE HONOURABLE DANA PORTER, K.C.,
Parliament Buildings, Toronto.
Secretary, Edward Kylie Trust.

Flowers for All Occasions

COOPER FLORIST

PARK PLAZA HOTEL

MI. 6361

10 Avenue Road

WE DELIVER

CASH! CASH!

FOR USED TEXT BOOKS FOR EVERY COURSE

Bring them in today—we will pay
HIGHEST CASH PRICES

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 10 P.M.

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE RA. 1148
(1 Block south of Bloor)

Formal Attire for the
VIC - AT - HOME
Ladies' and Men's Complete Outfits and Accessories for Rent

AT FREEMAN'S FORMAL

256 COLLEGE STREET, at SPADINA, KI. 0991
571 YONGE STREET, Near Wellesley, KI. 3270
Special Student Rates, Open Evening

DAVID A. CROLL

M.P. for Toronto — Spadina
Former Mayor of Windsor
Former Ontario Minister of Public Welfare And Municipal Affairs

SPEAKING TO

The Liberal Association

— On —

LABOR RELATIONS

TONIGHT—WOMEN'S UNION—8.00 P.M.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

HANS GRUBER, CONDUCTOR

Next Recital for Full Orchestra, Trombones Included

TONIGHT — 7.30 p.m., Sharp

AT CONVOCAATION HALL

(SOUTH-BACK ENTRANCE)

Confusion Said Mark Of College

"A student can learn in college everything he wants to know except one—the science of the whole, the art of living," said Father Dore, professor of Philosophy at St. Michael's College at the meeting of the Thomistic Society.

"The most striking fact about the higher learning in America is the confusion which besets it," he continued, "a supreme need of American education is for a unifying principle and idea" . . . In recent times the question of unity has become insistent. This unity consists essentially in preparing man for what he must be and do in order to attain the end for which he was created.

Our knowledge, said Father Dore, is first of the nature of things; its perfection is wisdom terminating in the truth which is the perfect good of the human intellect. It is in wisdom where the image of a true man is to be found. The road to wisdom is the road of education; it is the journey of everyman to ultimate truth.

"It necessarily terminates in God; without this terminus man would be meaningless, no unity."

"Such was the Greek tradition," said Father Dore, "the foundation of our Western Culture."

In Roman civilization law was substituted as the principle of unity. Generations since have seen a gradual deterioration of wisdom from love of man to a love of science in its efforts to conquer nature, to love of material factors, he continued. Belief in the dignity of man has no rational basis in its dissociation from wisdom. Though it may persist for a time it is bound to deteriorate when cut off from its roots.

In the realm of action it is the end which acts as the principle. If the true goal has been lost, if temporary and shifting ends are to be established, then the provisions for reconstruction in education theory are already doomed to failure, concluded Father Dore.

Havelock to Open U.C. Lecture Series

Professor E. A. Havelock of the Victoria College Classics Department, will open the University College Easter Term Lecture Series on Thursday with an address on "The Sophistication of Homer".

The series, an annual event of University College, is being arranged this year by Professor R. S. Knox of U.C.'s English Department. The lectures will be given on successive Thursdays at 5 o'clock in Room 8, U.C.

A graduate of Cambridge, Professor Havelock has been on the staff of Victoria for 17 years. In 1941, a foundation at Yale enabled him to engage in the study of Greek philosophy. He is a former associate editor of "Canadian Forum" and has been Honorary President of the Victoria College Debating Parliament for several years.

Having dealt with the primitive aspect of Homer several years ago in a public lecture, Prof. Havelock intends to supplement this by a discussion of the "mature and con-

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 71 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, January 30, 1946

Stulberg, O'Shaughnessy to Visit Cornell In Two-Way Debate On Palestine Question

An international "two-way" debate, the first since pre-war days, is scheduled for Convocation Hall on Feb. 7.

Cornell University will engage the University of Toronto on the subject of Jewish immigration into Palestine.

Explaining that a "two-way" debate meant that a team crossed from each university to its opposition for two simultaneous debates, Debates Commissioner of the S.A.C. Graham Cotter announced that home teams would in each case take the negative. The negative will disapprove Jewish immigration into Palestine.

To Ithaca, N.Y., home of Cornell University, will go Gordon Stulberg, U.C., and Ruth O'Shaughnessy of Loretto College. The Toronto representatives on home campus have not yet been confirmed. These debaters, along with the Cornell representatives on both camps, will be announced in a later issue of The Varsity.

The travelling debaters will in each case arrive in the opposition city Sunday, the day before the debate.

Referring to this, the last inter-collegiate debate of the '45-46 session, Mr. Cotter said "We hope each year to have at least one debate across the border."

In establishing for the first time a proper Debating Union this year, we have actually been too busy to plan a proper program. This year we have had to settle the actual details of committees, procedure such as the election of a speaker, etc.

This establishing for the first time a proper Debating Union is the ground-work for a full inter-collegiate program next year."

Paradise Of Spies Described

"Three hours after a convoy was outboard, the news was sure to be in the hands of the enemy," declared the guest speaker, Rowley Murphy, addressing the Medical Arts and Letters Society last evening at Wymilwood. "Norman's Restaurant, a typical navy rendezvous was in itself a spy's Halifax paradise and fulfilled the role of an information filter for even the most inebriated of individuals," he said.

Mr. Murphy, saw the war through from its initial stages in his role of a naval war artist, and his voluminous supply of artistic records displays an astonishingly vivid capture of varied phases of the naval war.

"We shall start out as if in a convoy leaving Halifax in 1940," began the speaker, and led his audience through submarine-infested, Atlantic waters in the sinister darkness with graphic word pictures outlining convoy routine.

Little publicized episodes, smothered in official war secrecy were pungently sketched in apt naval terms. Mr. Murphy lauded the invaluable functions performed by the overtaxed pilot services, the responsive destroyers, and the West Coast fishing vessels incorporated into the navy for patrolling assistance. Conversion processes of some-

(Continued on Page 8)

Revealed: A Slide-rule's Function — By Bob Cooke

It is definitely proven in the Bible that Moses' magic wand was a sliderule. In Chapter 4 of Exodus is this statement: "And thou shalt take thy rod in thine hand (said the Lord) wherewith thou shalt do signs".

The working, or doing, of signs mentioned in the Bible is just one of the functions of the sliderule. With the sliderule it is possible to calculate the distance to the sun obtaining the answer 9.3, but there one runs into a snag, for the sliderule doesn't say whether it is 9.3 potatoes, 9.3 decibels or 9.3 Cassinoettes. Most certainly the sliderule doesn't give the information that it is $9.3 \times 1,000,000$.

It is up to the man who is working the problem to determine what the right answer is, and here it is that the special qualifications of the schoolman come into the picture. Fearless Slipstick User

When confronted with a problem he fearlessly whips out his sliderule and within a few seconds he has the answer. He may be calculating the horsepower of an engine, the amount of water flowing over a dam per hour or he may even be making the wozzle calculation. Of course he is not infallible and sometimes he will come out with an answer such as the statement that the temperature of a room is 208.6 degrees fahrenheit. Perhaps working at that temperature he wasn't able to concentrate on his work.

Seriously speaking however, the sliderule provides a simple method of multiplying, dividing, doing trigonometric calculations and calculations involving logarithmic functions. With it complex calculations can be quickly made giving an answer that is accurate to three figures, all that is usually wanted in an engineering problem. If more figures are wanted in the answer a "Differential Analyser" might be used, but it is only too obvious that a sliderule is much more easy to carry. What It Is!

The sliderule is really a set of logarithms measured out on a piece of wood. Logarithms change multiplication into addition and division into subtraction, while the sliderule does these automatically. With one movement of the sliderule two numbers can be multiplied together. It is because of this sliding of one part inside of another that it is called a "slipstick".

The sliderule comes in many models. There is the "Woolworth Special" for forty cents, complete with an instruction book. There is a more expensive model, priced $1.75, used by High School and Arts students and there is a much more expensive model, priced $16, that is used by engineering students. Even more expensive models are on the market among which is a special large size (about six feet long) that is used in many High Schools to explain the operation of the sliderule. The difference in price may mean that it is a better made and more accurate sliderule or that it is possible to do a wider variety of calculations on it.

The standard model is only a foot long, and complete with case it fits comfortably into the inside pocket. The presence of this case, either black or brown, peeping out of his coat has been revealed as the only certain way of distinguishing schoolmen from the members of affiliated colleges.

What's your problem? Haven't got a date for tonight? "I am sorry that is not one of the problems a sliderule will solve."

scious art" in the writings of Homer.

Future lectures in the series will be:

Professor G. Edison—Plato and Freud.

Professor J. G. Andison—Pascal. Professor Barker Fairley—Goethe's Attitude to Society.

Professor D. Savan—The Philosophy of John Dewey.

Platforms, Promises Fill The Air At Ajax

Ajax students yesterday afternoon flocked to the recreation room to hear the campaign speeches of nominees for office in Ajax' first Engineering Society.

Speeches climaxed an intensive battle of campaigns involving wallpaper, posters, paint, P.A. system, sound trucks, and parades. Jokes were the feature attraction of the session which was attended almost wholly by the male students.

R. A. Chassels, who launched his campaign last Friday, was first to decorate the cafeteria and sundry walls with varietal publicity, while Barry Hayes held his fire until yesterday morning, when Ajax busses bore his banner.

Speakers were allotted three precious minutes to state their platform and comply with the heavy demand for jokes from the audience.

R. A. Chassels, first of the presidential candidates, made known that as he had been first in all campaigns so he would be first to comply with students' needs and demands, if elected.

W. A. Clews said that he would promote a better understanding between staff and students utilizing experience gained in the R.C.A.F.

C. F. Dixon stated that he firmly believed in a close alliance between all the functions of Ajax and those of the Queen's Park campus.

B. Hayes also advocated a close association with the Toronto branch of the Engineering Society.

McAuliffe announced that if he were elected weekend transportation troubles would be solved.

T. B. Reid emphasized that the Engineering Society was a very powerful organization, and that its offices should be ably filled.

G. G. Pyper promised that Ajax would get the best possible use out of Engineering Society funds, should his be the presidential honour.

Candidates for First Vice-President were: Beatty who admitted difficulty in obtaining girls for social functions—Caldwell who asserted that up to 1500 "jeunes filles" could be obtained for faculty social events—Draper who advocated better housing accommodation for married ex-servicemen—Kling who assured the gathering that the social life of Ajax must surely be a success should he be elected.

Candidates for Second Vice-President were Hodgson, who reminded all of the training and ability of ex-servicemen to shoulder responsibility, and P. McBain whose main stand was the necessity of removal of long lines and waiting at the Engineering and Press stores.

For Secretary, Milsop and Rogers promised to put their weight behind the Society and the students.

Andrews and Dobson likewise promised an all-out effort in the sport section of the Society.

The election will take place today at Res. 723 from 12:00 to 2:30.

CHANGED ADDRESS?

All Ex-Service students who have applied for discharge dental treatment, and have not yet received authorization for this, should notify the Chief, Dental Services, D.V.A. Ottawa, of any change of address since application was made, in order that treatment will be arranged in your present district. Ajax students note particularly. In residence at Ajax please

Cell Growth Continues After Maturity—Ryerson

"The idea that we stop growing when we reach maturity is entirely false," said Dr. E. S. Ryerson yesterday in one of a series of lectures on "Health." "New cells are always being formed in the body to replace those that were worn out or damaged in an injury, but in middle age the rate of growth of new cells is much slower than in childhood or adolescence."

The replacement of cells is dependent upon the food supply to the cells and the general health of the individual, he explained. If an injury is received by any part of the body the capillaries expand and reproduce to increase the flow of blood, and food, to the injured part, thus speeding the rate of reproduction of new cells. Inflammation is just a sign of expanded capillaries carrying more blood to the injury.

In older people because the rate of production of new cells is slower, injuries take longer to heal. Particularly in the joints, where the rate of growth of new cells is very slow, this slowing up is noticeable, showing itself in the form of stiffness and perhaps arthritis is just a symptom of this.

At the end of the lecture a movie showing the function of the heart in supplying blood to the body, and explaining such things as high blood pressure resulting from the hardening of arteries was shown.

Honduras Wrigglers Pets For Student

By BOB COOKE

Recently a native of British Honduras travelled to join the army with his pets—three large snakes. To his dismay he discovered that the snakes could not join the army. Going to the British Museum in desperation, he asked the girl at the desk: "Would you take care of my pets for me?"

"Yes," she replied, "where are they?"

"Here!" he said, removing them from his pocket and putting them on her desk.

She fled, screaming.

According to Henry Fairweather, the story is true. "There are so many snakes in Honduras that we think nothing of them," he says. "In one of the camps we had a pet boa constrictor, that was allowed to wander around the camp." It knew me by sight and used to climb up and curl itself around my neck. It was cold and slimy, but it wouldn't hurt me."

JUST A SMALL ONE

"Of course it was only a small one," he admitted. It was only twelve feet long; there were some in captivity that were thirty-eight feet long."

In the bush, where he did surveying, Mr. Fairweather often saw poisonous snakes. "We had a special antidote for snake bites," he says, "and often a syringe to inject it into the punctures." People were seldom bitten however, he explained, because the snakes spend most of their time sleeping and will not bite unless disturbed. The moral is, "Let sleeping snakes lie, or die."

"I ran across a sleeping snake once when I was tracking a deer. I was stalking the deer when I saw the snake on a log in front of me. My gun was filled with buckshot and I fired at the snake. It killed the snake but I lost the deer."

LOOK AT IT'S HEAD

"You can tell a poisonous snake by the shape of it's head. If it has poison sacks the head is different shape."

On another occasion Mr. Fairweather was listening to his radio when he felt something cold on his ankle. Looking down he saw a Coral snake, small, but one of the most deadly snakes in British Honduras. It had been attracted by the music of his radio and was completely oblivious to its surroundings. If the music stopped the snake would wake up to the fact that it was close to a human being and it would have bitten him. This Mr. Fairweather knew, and with a quick movement he turned off the radio and kicked the snake away from him. Then he jumped out of the window of his cabin. When he came back the snake was gone.

CAT vs. SNAKE

Perhaps the funniest sight he ever saw was a cat boxing a poisonous snake. It was in the middle of his camp and the fighters had a crowd of people gathered around them. The cat would wait until the snake struck and then it would duck, taking a swipe at it with its paw at the same time. "The cat won the bout," he says.

"There were snake charmers in the Colony who could handle poisonous snakes and never get bitten. There is one story of one who was a trade union leader. The union started a riot and the police arrested the leaders. Before the police got him, however he stuck one of his pets inside his shirt and took it to jail with him. When he was inside the jail he dropped it on the floor, and while the police ran in one direction the prisoners ran in the other. Before the police knew what happened the prisoners had escaped."

WATCH 'EM RUN

Commenting on the fear of snakes that most people in Canada have Mr. Fairweather says, "I would have liked to bring a couple up to Canada with me. When there were people in my room I would have liked to let the snakes loose. Then you would have seen the fellows run."

ignatz sez:
WATCH for the U.S.S.

TAG DAY

J.M.

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m. a 2:30 p.m.
b 7:45 a.m. b 3:55 p.m.
(a—except Sun. and Hol.)
(b—except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m. 8:40 a.m.
7:30 a.m. 9:30 a.m.
and every hour
on the half hour
until 10:30 p.m.
Also 11:40 p.m.
(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES

Bay at Dundas—Adelaide 4221

U. N. O. Visit Vassar —In Search Of Site

What's On Today

S.C.M.

Rev. J. M. Finlay, of Carlton St. United Church, and Rev. Harold Toye of the Religion-Labor Foundation, will conduct the noon-hour lecture today in the Victoria College Chapel at 1:30 p.m. Their subject will be "Christianity and Labor."

V.C.F.

Meds Group meets today at 1:10 in Room 410, Banting Institute continuing the study of the Book of Hebrews.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Jan. 28.—(Exchange) — The International Delegation of the U.N.O. visited Vassar last week for the purpose of choosing a site for their headquarters. Representatives from the United States, Russia, Gt. Britain, China, Iraq, Uruguay and France were present and the head of the delegation, Dr. Gavrilovic, was interviewed by the Vassar Miscellany News.

Dr. Gavrilovic feels that the U.N.O. is the greatest hope for humanity and its site will necessarily be of historical importance. Hyde Park, with the nearby Vassar facilities, including an auditorium seating 1400, which could be used for meetings of the General Assembly, may be a possible choice.

Mayor O'Dwyer of New York was said to have been very disappointed when that city was pronounced unsuitable for the U.N.O.'s site.

Correspondence

(Continued from Page 2)
the gang "underling" that turns on his boss.

WILLARD G. HENRY
Graduate School.

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

Many people in the past few years have thought that the conclusion of the war, with victory on our side, was going to bring peace and comfort to the world. Many Canadians felt that as soon as hostilities ceased and Canada as a warring nation reconverted its energies towards improving itself in a state of peace in the post-war world, that prosperity and content would flourish for its citizens. Such chimerical figments vanish before the reality of existing conditions to-day. It is more than obvious that peace is not present in the world. It is equally evident that Canada is showing no true progress towards its sought after prosperity. Strikes spreading throughout the country illustrate the discontent on the part of labour; and the sudden crime wave that seems to be permeating the communities of our provinces portrays the individuals' utter disregard to sensible principles of morality and justice.

We see the advocates of different "isms" offering their panacea for the vicissitudes and misfortunes of life. Communism, socialism, individualism, pragmatism, utilitarianism, all in their own way are striving for a unity or peace. None, however, seem to realize that regardless how right or true their system may seem, that it cannot work without the voluntary co-operation of the individual persons who go to make up a society. Everyone, in his own field, has the potentialities of doing something in a practical way to help the society in which he lives. If each person would try to correct the weakness and faults that are seriously pronounced in his character, if he would at least try to follow the dictates of his reason with regard to the obligations and duties which flow from his position in life, he would do much to reform his society.

Here at the University, a student should look upon his position in society as a student and thus should faithfully abide by the obligations and duties that the life of a student demands. The people of Canada are naturally going to look for its leaders amongst the educated class. Not everyone has the privilege of going to University. In fact statistics would show that approximately one percent of the nation are capable economically or otherwise of following courses of higher learning. If society, then, is going to depend on the learned for what they can give them, and that is truth and knowledge, then students should conscientiously attempt to acquire truth and knowledge to the best of their abilities. The more they conform themselves to the duties of a student striving for a real education, the better citizens will they become. It should be remembered that Education means not only being trained in the powers of intellect but also being disposed to live a morally good life. The better the student is as a citizen the better can he help his fellow man and society in solving its most serious problems.

JOHN McDONOUGH
III St. Michael's

JOAN RIGBY

COATS
DRESSES
TWEEDS
SWEATERS
SUITS

54 BLOOR W.

MI. 4969

Co-ed Curlers

So Fast — So Simple

- Natural Full Curl
- Pleasant to Sleep in

SEE DEMONSTRATION NOW
AT NOTION DEPT., ROBT. SIMPSON CO.

Big occasion... have a Coke

Drink

Coca-Cola

COCO-COLA LTD. - TORONTO

INTERESTING JEWELLERY SHOP

NECKLACES,
EARRINGS
BANGLES and BROOCHES.

32 Bloor St. East

(Near Red Cross Headquarters)

MI. 5875

FELT CRESTS

Official University felt crests are sold only at the S.A.C. office, Hart House

Price 50c

To be worn only on University Blue.
Suitable for sweater, gym suit or blazer.

Moonlight Music By Beneke?

Of The Memorable Mr. Miller . . .

Beneke to front the old Miller band—how much of it we wonder? The forty or fifty odd with which the U.S. Army in its generosity endowed him or the modest sixteen of pre-military days. We predict success. If the Miller band of the A.E.F. can tie up London traffic (little as there was) during 45-46 why not the enterprising Mr. Beneke (he of the unusual voice) with a smaller edition and the password "Miller" in '47 in the U.S. Doubtless Ray McKinley and Mel Powell of the military Miller aggregation will be absent—rumor hath it that Powell has let grow the G.I. haircut with classical intent.

And Speaking of Mel. Powell

What about this tune of his fastly becoming a hit in America a year after it was introduced and clicked in Britain. We digest the story behind it with tongue in cheek. But is it easy to believe that the cat of even such a renowned pianist-arranger as Powell should casually leap to the keyboard and give with a riff that brother Powell complacently develops into a hit, aided and abetted by drummer McKinley in the lyrics department? Even such a deed by the redoubtable Champus is almost unbelievable. Sounds to all who hear very much like something purloined from "Benny's Bugle" of Powell-Goodman days—but nonetheless good. Benny must have thought so, since he cut it for Columbia.

The WE're Disappointed With W. Herman Club

Is open for new members. We're sorry but we don't find Apple Honey exciting except in Old Golds and Your Father's Moustache fails to tickle us. Louis Jordan appeals to us with Caldonia but we think W.W.H. on wax has been off the beam of late. We yearn for the old days when Woody went woodshedding! Woody—what make's your big head so hard?

And as for Harry Chames

We do not doubt that Waitin' for the train, etc., will sell better than ice-boxes to the Greenlanders. Even so WE can't see how Ain't Misbehavin' lives on the same record as 9.20 Special. We can't see how his 9.20 Special lives. We can't even see how Harry lives (thin, isn't he) unless maybe it's Betty, and his income. And we recall the happy days when Harry blew so adequately for Mr. Goodman and sat down at the back when he was through his solo, and hadn't even heard a violin except on a streetcorner maybe.

Perry Coma Comma or what have you

Doesn't exactly put us in a coma but he is selling lots of records, a-hubba hubba hubba, as his latest "Dig You Later, etc.," would indicate. Is Frankie's star waning—'tis said that Como is much more athletic, and will outlive him, altho' not till the end of time.

Alas, Woody!

And That Brings Us to Vaughn Monroe

What it is that brings us we don't quite know, nevertheless we have arrived. The man who performs such Supermanish feats as "racing with the Moon" is being backed heavily by RCA Victor as a sure money maker. And no doubt he is. Such numbers as "No More Tougies Lamour" "Fishin' For the Moon," "Story of Two Cigarettes" and the swoon producing "There, I Have Went And Said It Again," all bear this out. Witness his latest "Let It Snow." With the commercial tunes Victor has Monroe right out there in front, and selling. Don't you think he sings through his nose? He can afford to.

In Defence of Stewa:

We don't care what you say about Slam, we're all for him and immune to such criticisms as prolonged solos, monotony, etc. We like the way Mr. Stewart operates on "Gotta Be This," and we're still disappointed and swindled that he didn't want to leave 52nd. street and tour with Poppa Goodman. And why didn't he cut more sides with Goodman and Norvo? Even more so we like him when he gets together with Johnny Guarneri—of which Savoy has issued several sides and an album. We still think "Bowing Singing Slam" and "Gliss Me Again" are right there on top. Are you for us or agin' us?

—R. FERGUSON.

Manitoba U. Has Buffalo Can Alberta U. "Bear" It?

Edmonton, Jan. 28.—(CUP)—Students at the University of Alberta are on the hunt for a bear cub.

It seems that the University of Manitoba flung out a challenge to students at Saskatchewan and Alberta to appear at the coming basketball tournament in Winnipeg with a live mascot. Since Manitoba already has its mascot—a buffalo, emblematic of the Manitoba BISONs—the proud possessors of the title ALBERTA GOLDEN BEARS must arrive with a bear in tow.

A trio of ultra-resourceful Manitoba students have already tracked down the buffalo—named Kanna Keena—and then slapped an insurance policy on the three year old mascot. The policy covers public liability up to $10,000; property damage up to $1,000 and $250 for the animal itself.

So great is Kanna Keena's fame that Winnipeg's local snack bars have begun to serve bisonburgers. Housewives, discovering that buffalo meat is not rationed, are looking around for it and one grocery store is trying to corner all the available meat in the city.

The bison story has been run for four consecutive days in the Winnipeg newspapers and has also received space in Vancouver, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Regina. Other cities received the yarn via Canadian Press, while the Canadian Broadcasting System worked the story into a radio network round-up.

The problem of obtaining a bear for Alberta has been left in the hands of Alberta's Students' Council.

So far no steps have been taken but one thing is certain—no "Bear-burgers!"

Pass Arts Club to Listen to Reason

"Too many people believe everything they hear literally," said Professor C. W. Leslie of the Department of Ethics, Victoria College.

"Unless we keep reason foremost in our minds we are liable to resort to rationalization. Even if our assumptions can not be proven, they should at least, be of such quality so that they may be defended."

With these remarks as a prelude to his lecture, Professor Leslie will address Victoria's Pass Arts Club this evening at 8 p.m. in Wymilwood.

Come One And All S.P.S. Open Tonite

Green ties will flutter at the "School Open House" tonight when the engineers entertain their friends in all the School buildings with the exception of the "School House" itself.

For this event the chemical, electrical, thermodynamic, hydraulic, and materials testing departments plan to get together to show the life, the work and the secrets of the engineer. Experiments in most of the laboratories will be performed by third year students.

After the show, refreshments will be served either in the new study room in the Mechanical Building or on the first floor of the Mining Building.

This is the third year that this event has been put on. Last year a crowd of 700 couples came out for it.

Only fourth year students, their friends and members of the faculty are permitted to attend the "Open House."

Who Will Be The King of Hearts ?

Have You Lost Anything?

Have You Anything For Sale?

For quick results put a Classified Ad. in "The Varsity"

Phone MI. 6221

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762 (Ground Floor St. George Apartments) OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING

Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

5 GOOD SENSES —Senses, That Is

(Thank You, Senator Claghorn)

HEARING Sonny Dunham at the Arts Ball

SEEING the handmade clothes at Louis Cohen's

TASTING the delicacies of chicken chow mein

FEELING the imported wool-lens at Louis Cohen's

SMELLING the Great Hall Kitchen

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE at College RA 8995-6

Open nine to nine. Saturdays until six.

Three to four week service. (Sooner if you prod us.)

"WAXY" WELCOMES SONNY DUNHAM

The Great Trumpet and Trombone Stylist

On His Appearance At The Arts Ball

HEAR

SONNY DUNHAM ON

BLUEBIRD RECORDS

And Meet The Genial Maestro "In Person"

BETWEEN 4.30 AND 5 P.M. THURSDAY, JANUARY 31ST

AT THE

Campus Record Bar

658 Spadina (at Harbord)

RA. 3636

"Let Us Put Good Wax In Your Ear"

Please Patronize The People Whose Appearance Periodically In This Paper Makes Publication Possible . . .

Our Advertisers!

SORRY! ARTS BALL SOLD OUT

Speaking OF SPORT

By Don Mason

WORRY—WORRY

It would appear that the Sport Department has suffered another set-back. We have lost ground. We are being swept under by a sea of MacLean by-lines. We are now on Page 6. Rumour has it that, as News and Entre-news swells in size (it's the spring weather) we may be shoved right back to the front page! This would be the end, sports readers, as a recent opinion poll has shown beyond a doubt that only .001% of our subscribers even glance at the front page. Chins up, though, we'll fight 'em every page.

AND MORE WORRY

Varsity intercollegiate teams are definitely winning much too consistently. It is impossible to write a decent column on activities in the sporting world without exhorting in the grand manner some hapless hockey team, some beaten basketballers.

But no. We have none of that. The Senior Pucksters have lost exactly one game in ten starts. They are now riding on the crest of a 6-game win streak. They appear unbeatable. Certainly nothing there to write a good, scathing SOS about. (Our English Composition teacher turns over in his grave).

The Junior Bees are editorially useless, as they now top their six team league, haven't been defeated in six starts. In fact they haven't lost a game (league gamethat is, son).

Same goes for the Senior hoopsters. They've beaten two top Canadian teams in the past three weeks—Assumption, and Western U. They knocked off Queen's in their first league game. How are we to write really hot stuff if this keeps up? No way out. Or is there?

NOW READ THIS

Yes we have a beef, and we don't care to mince words about it. Just take a good look at the above facts and figures. You know what it means. We're tops this year. But what do you do? About 10 of you turn out to watch the red-hot Junior Bees. A few hundred have enough spirit to walk up to Varsity Arena and witness some of the best hockey you'll ever see. Some even summoned up enough nerve to burst forth with a shy Varsity yell. The Basketballers get better support, mainly, we suspect, because you recognize a bargain when you see one. We mean Athletic Nights.

Don't you realize that, speaking of sports in general, your University teams are tops in the Canadian intercollegiate sporting world? Aren't you proud of it? Just what is the matter?

LET'S HAVE IT

If you think that we're not doing a good job in publicizing these events, say so. Nothing would please us more than to find the cause of this lack of University spirit. If it's our fault, we want to correct it.

Saturday's Varsity-Ann Arbor game was a shining example of what we're talking about. Eleven thousand students at this University, and only a few hundred can turn out to cheer their team on. The boys on the team certainly aren't asking any favours. The brand of hockey they play is just about as good as you'll ever see anywhere.

We could go on for hours like this, but what's the point. We've been deliberately belligerent in writing this in the hope that we can draw out some comment on it. If this lack of enthusiasm continues we can well become the laughing stock of the other Universities—a College with winners in every branch of sport—and no supporters.

We throw the torch to you. What do YOU say about it?

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

COKE-DATE GALS

Thursday night the feature attraction of the Arts Ball will be the choosing of TGWWWMRWSALTAACDW by three anonymous judges. They should have a difficult time picking the most personable from the four semi-finalists. Though this event is not to be confused with a beauty contest or typical co-ed show, all four could enter either . . . as well as the search for personability now under way. The judges are looking for someone who is as effervescent as a coke . . . whose conversation adds to the flavour of students' favorite between-lectures beverage.

Alphabetically, Barb MacDonald is first . . . once a model in Simpson's Junior fashion council, now a student in the Arts faculty . . . is 5' 3" of charming naturalness and endowed with a dazzling smile and spontaneity of expression. Nancy Marlowe is ex-Navy, saw Canada from Halifax to Prince Rupert during her 19 months in the service . . . now a student of Soc. and Phil. . . played in the tennis tournament last fall . . . belongs to the Players' Guild and the Poli Sci Club . . . her conversational topics vary with her escorts.

Shirley Smith is the third candidate . . . 5' 6", blond and blue-eyed, has a low soft voice . . . likes to ski, swim, play tennis and ping-pong for the exercise and social values rather than competitive angle . . . wears tailored clothes, and her conversation centres around school, professors' personalities and social activities.

Dodie Robinette rounds up the foursome . . . prominent

(Continued on Page 8)

Kingdon Stellar Sprinter

Spot-lighted by runners and teams from Vic., this week's track event came to a conclusion yesterday afternoon. The 100 yd. dash was won by Kingdon of Vic., placing ahead of college-mate Hikichi, who ran on Monday, by 1 seconds. Their respective times were 11.2 and 11.3 seconds.

Typifying the keen rivalry among the 70-odd sprinters, was the fact that four men tied for third spot. They were Calhoun of Meds., Gregory of S.P.S., Dzupina, P.H.E. and Mart of Vic., all clocking 11.4 seconds.

The 2 mile relay event was also well-attended, as 10 teams, comprising 40 put forth their best in Monday's and Tuesday's relays. The 9.41.9 time chalked up by the Vic. Firsts in the first afternoon was not beaten yesterday. This fast-moving four-some was represented by Spears, Preston, Sloan and Flack.

It was Vic again, as McNeil, Aird, Horning and Gordon of the Victoria Seconods, took the runner-up position with a time of 9:52.1 seconds. Placing third with 9:59.9, were Hickman, Glen, McLaughlin and Goring of the Trinity team. A quartet from School captured the fourth position.

Ajax Sports

Hockey had its opening night at Ajax last night as intramural sports got further into the swing of things. On cushion 1 Res. 727 defeated Commuters A 7-2, and Res. 736 defeated Res. 734 15-3. Referee McCreey and Linesman White. On Cushion 3 Res. 729 Defeated Res. 728 6-2, Res. 726 defeated Res. 731 8-5. Referee Stefanyshyn and linesman Caldwell.

Basketball—Res. 729A 22, Commuters B 22, Res. 728 24, Commuters A 16, Res. 725A 22, 724A 16, Res. 730B 29, Res. 731B 5.

Bowling—Res. 731D 1810, Res. 733C defaulted; Res. 727 1511, Res. 726C defaulted; Commuters A 1984, Commuters B defaulted; Res. 725A defeated Res. 724A 1923-1374; Res. 730A defeated 731A 1973-1647; Res. 727B defeated 726B 1946-1446; Res. 723C defeated Res. 724C 1662-1522; Res. 732B defeated Res. 733B 1900-1614.

Volleyball Up

The women's volleyball schedule began to function this week. The Saints, O.T. and Meds teams have carried off individual victories, each winning by at least 30 points. The players have not as yet learned to act as a team, and are all out for personal plays. The grade of volleyball is expected to improve as of today when two P.H.E. teams meet on the floor of the Lillian Massey gym.

Correspondence

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:—

How touching it is to see the ingenuous faith of Messieurs Sublet and Cambull in a smattering of ignorance! What a brave chauvinism with their incoherent babbling about Democracy! Such delight in hearing the puerile prattlings of blind mouths!

Your avid reader,

J. Clark.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

12:00 TRIN. B vs. VIC. III.Weedon, Miller
4:00 ST. M. B vs. EMMAN.Lawler, Atkinson

WATER POLO

4:15 ST. M. vs. U.C. (PHE).Thilston
6:15 SR. MED. B vs. VIC. I.Rosen

BASKETBALL MAJOR

1:00 VIC. III vs. TRIN. B.Jackson
4:00 EMM. A vs. KNOX A.Maxwell

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00 VIC. IX vs. PHE V.Kennedy
4:00 VIC. VIII vs. FOR C.Babcock
6:30 FOR E vs. I ELEC.Strathearn
7:30 VIC. XI vs. TRIN. V.Strathearn

MEN'S SR. INTERFACULTY SKI MEET

SAT. FEB. 2nd. 2.30 p.m.—Cross Country & Jumping

SUN. FEB. 3rd. 10.30 a.m.—Downhill

2.30 p.m.—Slalom

Entries must be filed in Athletic Office by faculties and college, not by individuals, NOT LATER THAN 5.00 p.m. Thur., Jan. 31st. Limit of 8 entries per faculty or college—5 men may participate in any one event, 4 of whom shall score.

TRANSPORTATION WILL BE PROVIDED—Full details will be published in Friday's Varsity.

MEETINGS

SQUASH STANDING COMMITTEE TODAY 1.00 p.m. To arrange Intramural tournament—Athletic Directorate Room, Hart House.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS COMMITTEE TODAY 5.00 p.m.—re intramural points.

BASKETBALL REFEREES—TODAY 5.00 p.m.—Intramural office. final arrangements re intramural meet.

BASKETBALL REFEREES—TODAY 5.00 p.m.—Intramura office.

WRESTLING CLUB—Fri. Feb. 1st—5.00 p.m. Will all faculties please have representative present.

ATTENTION EX-SERVICEMEN

Special classes are offered under trained instructors for ex-service men and students who are not required to take regular physical training classes. Men who wish to take a hygienic work-out, or have exercises prescribed for them are also welcome at these classes which are under the direct supervision of the University Health Service.

TIME TABLE CHANGES—INDIVIDUAL EXERCISES

Classes are now being offered at 4.00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday

Hurtling Wurteles Star At Collingwood, Kingsmill Tops Men

Last week-end the racing season finally got underway in the form of a Ladies Invitation Meet at Collingwood. An extremely high standard was set by the presence of the Wurtele twms who more than out-classed the field. The downhill was run on the Tsom hill which proved to be very tricky at a certain tree-lined corner. Many of the gals are nursing the odd bruise and bump when they tried to take the oak tree wide open. Of the Varsity entries, Helen Proudfoot placed fourth in third class. We hope that next season we can give these girls a little more practice on the bigger hills. From the large numbers of crippled limbs it was plain to see that the gals were putting all they had into the struggle in an effort to beat the cream of the Laurentian skiers.

After the girls had finished running, the Varsity Men's team held a race on the same course. Peter Kingsmill topped the men but was still six seconds behind the Wurteles who flashed over the course in one minute and ten seconds.

These Wurtele twins are really something to see on a pair of skis. It has come to the state that every race is a personal duel between Rhoda and Rhona. This year Rhona beat her sister by only three-fifths of a second.

The slalom in the afternoon once again featured the Wurteles. Sad to say but none of the Varsity entries had the training or the condition to give serious competition to these flying sisters.

Congratulations go out to Mark Guppy II S.P.S. who skied beautifully down the well rutted course to beat the time of one of the Wurteles. The rest of the men trailed him by a good ten seconds on a seventy-eight second course. Considering that the best men in the Laurentians have trouble coming close to Rhona and Rhoda we name Mark one of the Varsity team's big hopes.

This weekend features a big interfaculty meet at the Varsity ski

(Continued on Page 8)

MARRIED EX-SERVICE STUDENTS

The Ex-service Committee of the Students' Administrative Council is conducting an immediate survey of housing requirements for married ex-service students and for those who have children. All married ex-service students who will require living accommodation during this summer and particularly for the next academic term, opening in September are asked to leave their names now at the Students' Administrative Council office, Hart House. Women may register Room 82, University College.

Type of accommodation required and number in the family is necessary.

Only by securing accurate statistics of those who require accommodation can steps be taken to meet the situation this summer and next fall. Nothing will be left undone in attempting to secure adequate living quarters, so that families of ex-service students may not be separated while in attendance at the University.

Do not delay to register.
DO IT NOW

The Ex-Service Committee of the Students Administrative Council.

UNIVERSITY BRANCH IMPERIAL LIFE

CLOSEST TO YOU!

FIRST THINGS FIRST

is the only way, whether it's a government, a business, or a student. Governments have budgets—businesses have budgets—and smart students have budgets, too. Did you ever stop to think that because of this YOU you will earn a fortune—and that because of this RIGHT are by far the most valuable thing you own? And that others have willingly spent a great deal of time—and money—so that you can be a student? And that all this could be lost if anything happened to you?

For less than a coke a day you can insure part of your fortune—all of yourself—and guarantee others against loss. To our mind that would be putting FIRST THINGS FIRST.

published by b. a. stevenson, c.l.u. and associates of the university branch.
57 bloor street, west. ki 4136.

AJAX!

Don't Make a Mistake

VOTE CHASSELS

1st. Year President

AJAX ENGINEERING SOCIETY
PRESIDENT

- 6 YEAR'S EXEC. EXPERIENCE
- FULL SUPPORT FOR NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF STUDENT VETERANS
- CLOSE AFFILIATION WITH TORONTO SOCIETY

But Your Interests Capably Administered

Vote M. J. McAULIFFE

"The Man For Ajax"

Ex-Service Students

To all ex-service personnel registered as students in the University:

The following amendments of legislation and regulations relating to Re-establishment, are quoted for your information and guidance:

Re: Adjustment of Grants and Entitlement Period for certain Post-Graduate Students who accept half-time teaching posts in Canadian Universities.

In order to assist Canadian universities in obtaining suitable instructional staff during the present emergency, a post-graduate student who is appointed to a half-time university teaching post while pursuing approved post-graduate study shall be eligible for payment of one-half of the normal tuition and other fees while so employed.

In determining the "entitlement period", two months of half-time combined training and teaching shall be regarded as the equivalent of one month in full-time training.

The appointment to a full-time teaching post in a Canadian university during the present emergency shall be regarded as satisfactory reason for deferment of commencement of such training.

Re: Modification of Regulations Governing Deductions from Training Grant.

(a) As of November 1, 1945, no deduction shall be made from the training grant payable to full-time trainees on account of earnings—exclusive of wages paid by employer-trainer in training-on-the-job—where such other earnings do not exceed $75.00 per month.

(b) As of November 1, 1945, no deduction shall be made from a married veteran's basic grant of $80.00 unless the monthly earnings of his wife are in excess of $75.00. Where wife's monthly earnings are in excess of $75.00 a month, the grant shall be on the basis of a single man.

Re: Amendment of Regulations Governing Supplemental Examinations.

In no case shall a grant be continued to a discharged person who, having failed in one or more classes or subjects in any academic year, fails in more than one of the supplemental examinations next offered by the University in any of such classes or subjects. The above amendment to be retroactive in operation to and including the 1st day of July, 1945.

A. B. FENNELL, Registrar.

January 2, 1946.

Engineers' Exams Sooner At Queen's

Kingston, Jan. 29.—(CUP)—First year science examinations at Queen's University will be earlier this year the Registrar's office has announced. Regular exams close on March 23rd, supplementary examinations will be tried at the end of April.

The freshmen will enter their sophomore year on April 9th unless they possess a priority entitling them to begin in October. Science freshmen will be required to register on April 4th this year.

Arts examinations will be condensed into two weeks instead of being spread over the usual four.

Correspondence

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

In your issue of January 28 there appeared a news item under the headline "Newman Club Discusses Socialism" which went on to say that "the Pope's latest encyclical, directed against socialism, was being studied."

As a matter of fact the encyclical, which was issued in March 1937, dealt with the position of the Church in Germany, and was entitled "Mit brennender Sorge" (With deep anxiety . . .). In it the Pope, besides condemning Nazis Germany for numerous breaches of the concordat of 1933, vigorously attacks the totalitarian concept of the state.

Having participated in these discussions it appears to us that your misreporting or misprinting presents a serious deviation from the truth and casts an entirely unwarranted light on the group, on its chairman Capt. McQueen and, by implication, on the social philosophy of the Catholic Church. Unfortunately not all your readers can be expected to know that there has never been an "Encyclical against Socialism"—unless one about ten years old dealing with atheistic communism be taken as referring to socialists at large, which we are sure many of them will be the first to deny.

We hope that in future the reporting of The Varsity will measure up to the high standards of your editorials.

Walter Hirschfeld (IV S.P.S.)
Peter Neurath (IV S.P.S.)

Frattention

Sorores and Frates:
Editing a book Is

A heckuva raht race

Tell you what I mean—Here it is January 29, already. By the middle of May we ought to have Torontonensis ready for distribution to the graduating classes. So, how many fraternities have already obliged with their pictures for this publication? It comes to six. Almost all have long since been contacted.

We await the text from 39 fraternities, the pictures (group and campus life) from 33.

We have had heartening words at one time or another from most of these other fraternities, from Alpha Chi Omega to Xi Psi Phi.

Most of them have shown an eagerness to conform to Torontonensis' Kenner-created motif; the streamlined prose and the attractive, vibrant pictures.

Most of them have agreed that the overall appearance of the year-book was enhanced by the abandonment of the lists and pigeon-hole pictures that marred the book in years previous.

Most of them liked last year's Fraternity Row with its zephyr text and its interesting candid pictures.

Most of them have agreed to let Torontonensis "show-case" their fraternity by attractive and professional make-up again this year.

We are indeed pleased.

Last year's incubated idea has this year taken wing.

Torontonensis will again portray a breathing campus and will again give an exciting glimpse of life along the renowned Fraternity Row.

And now: Let's receive your pictures speedily. Direct contact to Ralph Jones, KI. 0316, will provide a photographer for campus life scenes around the frat if there are no others available.

Your text and pictures ought to be in our hands within a week.

With your co-operation we can deliver your year book on time.

Ross McLean,
Editor.

10 gals=1500 guys
AT AJAX

CALDWELL

CAN BALANCE
THIS EQUATION AS
1st. VICE-PRES.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO BRASS BAND

Full Attendance Required at Practices on TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS, 5 P.M.
at the Drill Hall

BAND IS NEEDED TO SUPPORT ATHLETIC EVENTS
DANCE IS PLANNED IN FEBRUARY FOR THE BAND

Art, Music and Drama

A Night To Remember

Whenever the services of an artistic or musical organization are enrolled in aid of a worthy cause, the tendency too often seems to be to relax the rigid standards which inevitably would attend a gathering for the sake of the art itself. To the great credit of the artists concerned, this penchant was at no time visible or audible at yesterday's Remembrance Night in Maple Leaf Gardens. Contrariwise, the nature of the concert served to impel Sir Ernest MacMillan, the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and the Mendelssohn Choir to quite undreamed of summits.

The Gardens, of the gigantic total spaces, does strange things to an orchestra, and to a group of voices. First of all, much volume is dissipated, making such an aggregation resemble a toy ensemble. Secondly, a good deal of echo is heard, blurring phrases that were meant to be crisp, and engulfing rapid passages in a great backwash of resonance. Despite this sizable drawback, the orchestra rang out with remarkable sweetness, and the choir, though quite muffled, satisfied the auditor who does not demand acoustical flawlessness. Thus the combined forces caught the barbaric splendour of the Borodin, Polovetsian Dances. Not so impressive vocally was a choral setting by John Ireland, which tended to be repetitious and over-bombastic.

Alec Templeton is unique in music; he has never been surpassed and rarely equalled in his characterizations. The versatility of this extraordinary man constantly takes the breath away. Mr. Templeton has the distinction of being one of the few pianists to hold his own with the orchestra this season; in Liszt's tremendous Hungarian Fantasia he sounded out above the accompaniment like a clarion, true and clear. This is bravura playing at its best, but history's greatest pianist-composer got matchless treatment at the hands of this 20th century paragon. The pianist also obliged his hearers with a group of his own incomparable musical take-offs, as well as executing several fantastically clever improvisations on suggestions from the audience. The unquenchable humour and largesse of spirit of Alec Templeton remain permanently with his listeners.

If excellence of performance is any indication at all, then those whom this Remembrance Night has honoured may rest assured that our debt to them is understood and appreciated always.

D. GORDON ROSS.

Sportswoman

(Continued from Page 6)

ent characteristics are sincere friendliness, humour, pleasing laugh . . . Dodie dabbles in bridge, sailing and swimming, her conversation features the latest argument in the Varsity editorials, interesting anecdotes of campus friends . . . a freshette in Modern Languages and History, she was in the Short Chorus of the U. C. Follies.

All seem a bit bewildered by the strange turn events have taken . . . Dodie was under the misapprehension that the Red and White Ball was the end of the affair . . . was somewhat nonplussed when, after answering a barrage of questions such as "Do you intend to be a school teacher?", she was told the final eliminations would take place at the Arts Ball. So the latter event should prove interesting . . . if all keep in mind that it is not to be a crowning of the Campus Queen, but a picking of pleasing personalities.

Psychologists Frankensteins?

"Graduates in honour Psychology are fashioned into social Frankensteins," said Ralph Shepherd, B.A., the affirmative in last night's Psychology Club debate.

No attempt was made to declare a winner to the subject "Resolved that further entrants to honour psychology should be discouraged."

The main arguments of the affirmative was that honour psychology did not fit a student for any practical vocation and so did not fulfil the primary requisite of education. Bruce Quarrington, IV Psych., claimed that psychology was a "twilight zone between the social sciences and the biological sciences and was rejected by both."

In opposition to these arguments Rosalind Dymond, B.A., pointed out the demand for psychology in research, social sciences, society in general, the home in particular. "To understand the quirks of human behaviour is a step in the direction of collecting and controlling them for the benefit of society," she said. Mrs. Dymond also stressed the need for the social sciences to become as developed as the physical sciences.

The argument of Don Dewar, IV Psych., in support of the opposition was that psychology was no less practical than any other course.

To Ralph Shepherd's contention that the demand for psychology was deteriorating rapidly June Cumberland, B.A., speaking from the floor, said that in the field of clinical psychology there was an adequate demand.

The debate concluded in discussion, centred mainly on the practicability of psychology in the business field and its value as a pure science.

Hunting Wurteles

(Continued from Page 6)

club property. The meet gets under way on Saturday at 2:30 with the start of the cross-country race which will be an interesting struggle up hill and down dale. After this the crowd will move to the jumping hill to watch the would-be birds throw themselves into the air in an effort to make distance and show style. It is hoped that Bill Robinson, noted Laurentian skier, will judge the jump.

On Sunday morning at ten thirty the downhill event takes place. Although the club property does not afford very steep hills the course setters have plans of setting a few very tricky turns which will be a good test of ability.

The meet will be completed by the slalom on Sunday afternoon which will consist of a short but very interesting challenge.

Points for this meet will be counted for the Reed Trophy which is indicative of a hotly contested ski duel.

It is expected that buses will be on hand both days to transport the contestants to the hills. Don't forget to bring your lunch and pray for lots of snow.

Paradise of Spies

(Continued from Page 3)

what inadequate and obsolete ships, resorted to in the dire straits of the early stages of the war, were discussed and also the relative efficiency and working details of the more popularly used war craft.

"Esquimaux is a darling little place which Dickens would have loved, and where regulations were strictly adhered to. One allied ship, lax in hoisting the proper flags was apprehended by the gunfire of vigilant, conscientious army shore batteries. Above all, the tremendous battle of the Atlantic should be sufficiently publicized as it deserves", he concluded.

WATER MAKES LAND

A flood plain is a level land area on a river border, formed in times of inundation by deposits of silt, sand or gravel which have been eroded and transported from higher ground.

MAY EXAMINATIONS

All students in the Faculty of Arts must make application for the May examinations before February 1st at the office of the College or University Registrar.

Put Crisp Colour Under Your Collar

SMOOTH FABRICS . . . CLEVER DESIGNS

Here is a tie selection that merits your interest. Combining colours that are bright or conservative, in attractive modernistic and conventional patterns. Expertly fashioned from real silks, fine rayons, wools and imported rayon satins. Each

1.50 to 3.50

Main Store - Main Floor
Eaton's College Street—Main Floor

THE T. EATON CO. LIMITED

In The Muddle of "Maybe"

- Torontonensis' work-wilted Editorial Board no longer can pretend to serve as entrepreneur between photographer-seeking groups and group-seeking (or evading) photographers.
- Direct appointments between cameraman and society, fraternity or team minus the muddling middleman seem to be a better system.
- Watchful of an alleged deadline on January 31 for pictures and copy, Torontonensis suggests that an immediate telephone call to Ralph Jones at KI 0316 will assure all as-yet-unphotographed groups an early satisfactory sitting.
- Other photographers able to render the same speedy service on group pictures may have this publicity by calling MI 5840.

LOST

Parker vacuumatic pen, in Economics Bldg., Thurs. afternoon. Finder please phone Jacobson, MI 2700.

WANTED

One "Text-book of College Physics." Chant and Burton. Phone LL 6911, after five.

TYPING

Notes, theses, etc. Very reasonable rates. JU 5667.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

TIPS

'n Tunes for all students. Nightly, 11.05 to 12.00. CKEY.

FOR SALE

Microscope, 3 lens including oil immersion. $50. Phone AD 0736, after 7. Ask for Jarvis.

RADIO REPAIRS

For Radio Repairs at Ajax, see Gus. Room 10, Bldg. 733.

LOST

Parker pen and pencil in black leather case. Between Medical Bldg and Women's Union. Phone MO 4758.

WANTED

Qualified teacher for private tutoring for entrance. 2 hours daily. Phone MI 9988.

DEAR HANDSOME

Accept invitation to Ball, cause I want to see you chosen as the King of Hearts. Dorothy.

Married Student Can't Find Rooms

By George Forster

"My wife and five year old son are back in Saskatchewan; I've been trying to get a room for them since last October but no one seems to want boarders with children."

The graduate student leafed through the S.A.C.'s list of rooms for students. In spite of the ceaseless efforts of the Housing Bureau family accommodation is practically unavailable in Toronto.

Married veterans have been flocking in and out of the S.A.C. office for the last two days in response to the Ex-Servicemen's Committee's request that they register for housing in order to facilitate placing the students and their families during the summer and fall.

One Emmanuel student reported that he and his wife were paying $14 a week for one room and the use of a kitchen.

"That makes a big hole in $80 a month," he commented.

Another student and his wife are living in one room; the wife is expecting a baby in the summer, and bringing up a baby in one room is rather difficult.

With his wife and two children still in the United States because he has been unable to find accommodation for them in Toronto, a student in Business Administration is forced to maintain two establishments on his $80 per month D.V.A. benefit. His financial and marital position would be immensely enhanced if he could find quarters for them in Toronto, but - - -

A Medical student, married for one month, is forced to live with his parents because he cannot find any other accommodation. A couple from British Columbia managed to find one room—at $30 a month—through a friend.

"If it hadn't been for him we'd still be back in British Columbia," grinned the husband, an army veteran.

Typical of the rooms available—for men or women only but not for couples—is one offering two meals a day through the week (three meals a day on the week-ends) for only $45 a month. The room is situated six blocks north of St. Clair off Yonge St. Another room is near Jane St.—for a single man at $5 a week without meals.

The S.A.C. by dint of combing every house in the City Directory can still find accommodation for all single students and the occasional married couple, but as accommodation becomes scarcer and scarcer, the rooms become farther

(Continued on Page 8)

Robinette Trophy Open to U.C. Men

The Robinette Debates are once more looming on the very near horizon. All male undergraduates of University College wishing to participate must select a partner in their own year and submit their names and year to the Literary and Athletic Society Office (mail box) in the Junior Common Room by Wednesday, Feb. 6.

All debating will be impromptu, the contestants receiving a topic a few minutes before the debate is to begin. When one team is left in each year, first and third years, and second and fourth years will compete in the semi-finals. The finals will be held at the last open Lit. meeting, and prizes will be awarded the winners.

All judging will be done by members of the faculty and the Lit.

Lists will be posted in the Junior Common Room and the Rotunda on Monday, Feb. 11, notifying participants of the time and place of the respective debates, which will be held in the noon hour.

New Astronomer Gets Dunlap Post

President Smith announced recently the appointment of Dr. Frank S. Hogg as Professor of Astronomy and Director of the David Dunlap Observatory, at Richmond Hill.

Dr. Hogg, who succeeds to the post on the retirement of Dr. R. K. Young, received the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts from Harvard University after graduation from Toronto in Mathematics and Physics in 1928. Armed with a travelling scholarship, he also attended university at Cambridge, Mass.

After some time at Amherst College, Mass., and the Dominion Observatory in Victoria B.C., he joined the staff of this University in 1935, and gradually rose from the post of Associate Professor of astronomy.

Nurnberg Trials Upheld In Debate

The government went down to defeat Tuesday night at the St. Michael's Senate Club debate, when the opposition piloted through the house a motion supporting the war guilt trials at Nurnberg.

Backed by a vote of 46-29, with 18 members refraining from voting, the speakers for the opposition, headed by Milwood O'Shaughnessy (III Loretto), of the Loretto College Congress, stressed the fact that the trials were on a sound legal basis. "Although there has been no precedent for such action in the past," said she, "these trials are laying the groundwork for a revised system of international law."

The government speakers, led by Frank Rocchi (III Pass) repudiated the attempt of the allied authorities to establish judicial procedure and phraseology as a substitute for justice.

The second speaker for the opposition, Sally Chiovetti, deplored attempts to pass off the trials as a travesty. Said Miss Chiovetti: "The trials after the last war may justly be called a travesty of justice, but a concerted attempt is being made this time to act correctly."

The second speaker for the government party, Bob White (III Pass) based his argument on the share which allied armies may have in the war atrocities.

"Allied jurists must realize that the German leaders are not the only men responsible for the war. Therefore, their manner of conducting the trials is simply a sham covering up their own culpability."

Before being put to a vote, the formal debate was followed by discussion from the floor of the house.

NOTICE

Varsity Ski Club Bus, to leave Hart House Sunday, 9 a.m. Tickets 85c.

Chancellor's Screen Debut Will Aid Needy Students

From the nation's screens this week-end, Chancellor H. J. Cody, perennial friend of students everywhere, will speak an appeal for the destitute students of the occupied countries and the Far East. Dr. Cody will appear in an Associated Screen News short produced last week in aid of the International Student Service.

It was the Chancellor's first movie assignment.

No—not his first screen appearance. "As a matter of fact, I hear I was in a newsreel a week ago..." "Eisenhower", The Varsity prompted.

"Yes, that was it. I didn't see it myself, though."

We had seen it. We assured him he had photographed excellently.

The Chancellor had not, even, as it developed, seen "rushes" of the I.S.S. featurette, though he had devoted a Saturday morning to making it.

It had been an interesting if time-consuming assignment. "I simply sat at a desk," he said, "and read what they gave me. I read a little bit, and if the young man in charge thought it was too fast or too slow, I read it again."

Original plans had called for two shorts—one in French and one in English. At the last minute the French script was abandoned.

"They had the script all prepared, and I modified it in conjunction with the man in charge."

"I spoke freely, of course, I extemporized and deviated from the text so as not to make the manuscript too evident."

"What was it all about? Well, he did not have the text available. But it was an appeal on behalf of the students of the Occupied Countries and the Far East."

"They have lost everything," the Chancellor reminded us. "Books, notebooks, clothing, even adequate food. They are in desperate need of all we can give them so that they may be re-established in the Universities that are slowly starting to

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 72 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, January 31, 1946

DISTRICT COMBED FOR QUEEN'S COED

Arab vs. Zionist Topic Next Week

Mr. A. J. Salloum, a graduate of the University of Beirut in Commerce and Finance, will be one of the speakers in the panel discussion on conditions in Palestine, sponsored by the International Affairs Club. A Canadian citizen by naturalization, Mr. Salloum has been associated with local business firms since his arrival in Canada in 1937.

Mr. Salloum will present the case of the Arabs, while Max Rosenfeld will speak on behalf of the Zionist Movement, at a meeting in the Women's Union, February 4, at 4.30 p.m.

As Associate Editor of the Magazine Digest, Mr. Rosenfeld is in constant contact with the latest developments in the Near East; in addition, he is a member of the Toronto Zionist Organization and past president of the Avukah Club.

RECORD HOUR

The record program, held daily in the Women's Common Room in University College from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m. is open to all men and women of every college and faculty. Today's program:

Mendelssohn—Violin Concerto.
Beethoven—Symphony No. 3.

Results of Ajax Engineering Elections

Pres: M. J. McAuliffe.
1st Vice pres: C. W. Beatty.
2nd VP: E. C. Hodgson.
Treas: N. Prochnicki.
Sec: J. R. Rodgers.
Ath. Rep: D. Andrews.

Student Lost in Snow May be Amnesia Victim

Missing Since Tuesday Morning

Special to The Varsity from The Queen's Journal
Kingston, Jan. 30—(CUP)—While wind-whipped snowdrifts slowed the progress of searchers, a 23-year-old Queen's University student remained missing this evening, believed the victim of amnesia.

The student, Jean Myers, of Portland, Ont., became the object of a city-wide search at 3.30 this afternoon following her unexplained disappearance from this campus Tuesday morning.

Hundreds of Queen's students had joined the police-formed dragnet to locate the missing girl following briefing this afternoon by Kingston's Police Chief and were tonight combing the campus area and lakefront.

Last seen leaving the main girls' residence at 8 a.m. Tuesday and thought then to have been on her way to a calculus lecture, she has since vanished.

(Late report that a girl, answering the description of the missing co-ed had been seen at 10 Tuesday morning heading toward nearby Wolfe Island, sent a search party from Royal Military College and the Provost Corps to Simcoe, Wolfe and Garden Islands on a fruitless quest. Police broadcasts beamed to the islands asked residents' assistance.)

Miss Meyer, described as quiet and likable, is reported to have complained of headaches recently. Her parents arrived in Kingston yesterday in response to communication from University authorities.

Shortly after the girl's disappearance, one of the winter's coldest snaps gripped the district. Medium snows whipped by heavy winds into drifts have made footwork slow and difficult for the large searching parties.

Interruption of classes shortly after 3.30 this afternoon came as an emergency measure as police sought student assistance in the search. Meeting in the main women's residence, the searchers were organized by the Kingston Police Department.

Searchers had uncovered no clues at late afternoon.

Miss Myers, in her first winter session at Queen's, had attended two summer sessions at the University.

(At 5 o'clock this morning as The Varsity was going to press, no further news about the missing girl had been received.)

C.&F. Not a Must To Be Accountant

Chartered Accountancy is open to honor students in courses other than Commerce and Finance. The training and opportunities in the accounting profession are probably well known to the students in Commerce and Finance, but information can be obtained on positions in this field by applying to the registrar's office in University College.

Many graduates from Commerce and Finance have entered this field in past years, but special commerce training is not a prerequisite for this profession. The only requirement is that the men be graduates of a university; students from any course will have an equal chance of advancement.

Pillar To Post; Still No Office!

The Undergraduate Newspaper has moved again!

Removal of The Varsity from the University of Toronto Press last week necessitated finding a new night office from which to handle late newsbreaks, make-up, and liaison with the Oshawa printing plant of The Rotary Printing Co.

Temporarily the staff moved to the offices of the Health League of Canada, during the hunt for a new office. Evicted there, the hunt still goes on.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of an office suitable for publishing a daily newspaper kindly phone MI 6221 any evening after 8 p.m.

New Star

reopen throughout the war-scarred world.

"The motion picture was intended as a preliminary appeal to the people of Canada generally on behalf of the International Student Service, whose campaign for assistance is shortly to be launched."

That he pointed out, was a worthwhile Saturday morning's work. He estimated it would take five minutes on the screen. "Five minutes? Oh... less than that. I believe it comes after something. I believe it comes after the news."

Nevertheless, it is the Chancellor's movie debut; and in a great cause.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI. 6611

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Night OfficeMI. 8405

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 4T6
Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 4T8
Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor... John Rooke, 4T7
News Editor.....George Forster, 4T7
Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 4T6
Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 4T7
Assistant.....Reg Herman, 4T6
Sports Editor....Bredin Stapells, 4T5
Assistant.....Don Mason, 4T6
Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 4T8
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 4T5
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor.....Philip Freedman, 4T5
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 4T7
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Thursday, January 31, 1946

Those Exams

(We have heard the arguments of those who are opposed to the Pass course; we have heard the arguments of those who support Pass. We have heard the arguments of those who think that the technical courses should have more "liberal arts". But in all their arguments they ignore the fact that these subjects are taught the same way and that the students must prove that they have "satisfied the requirements" by an unreasonable examination system).

IT IS UNFAIR

The examination system by which students are judged worthy to remain or are eliminated is unfair. To this fact, quoting certain cases they have handled, the Health Service could testify. Students often literally "go to pieces" during their exams: some of them are allowed to continue their studies on the strength of a petition, others are no longer at the University. If they were admitted to the University it is obvious that they had the ability required, and since they were paying their fees and attending their classes it is to be assumed that they were interested in their courses. And yet the examinations eliminated them.

The very fact that a system of petitions exists is an admission that the examination system is not perfect, that under certain circumstances the results of the examinations give a false picture of the interest and ability of the student. But this petition system does not correct all the faults of the examination system and at the very best a petition is but a poor substitute for a good system of examination.

THE BEST SYSTEM

"But", would say anyone who defends the present system, "it is the best and most accurate method of examining and grading a student's work."

That is the basis of the present system. Its aim is to grade the work of the student, but grading on a competitive basis is now recognized as detrimental to a student's education. The present system is a method of examining students for what?

What does an examiner know after reading an examination? He knows that a student either knew certain facts at the time of writing or didn't. Depending on whether he knew these facts or not (he seldom had to understand the subject if he knew the facts well enough) he passed or failed his examination. This and the ability to write a clear logical essay are the main requirements of a written examinaion.

NOT LIKE LIFE

How unlike the problems that face one in life and business these examinations are. The solution one finds to problems in life are based on a knowledge that one has today, tomorrow and any other day. The length of time most of what is learned for an exam remains with one is about a week.

In life such details as the exact value of "g", or dates in History or when Shakespeare was born can be quickly found in a reference book. Education is thus really understanding the relation of the details to one another and knowing where these details could be found, knowing what textbooks and references books contain any information one may desire. For example, before a big case lawyers spend many hours looking up the records to see what was done in similar cases. Yet few are the exams in which one can use a reference book.

The written exam bears little resemblance to the problems that face one in life and as a result the present educational system cannot properly fulfill its aim of training a student for life. The present method of testing the work of a student is an insult to his intelligence and to the very name of the University.

—R. H. C.

Finnegan's Wake

INSTALLMENT NO. 5

The scene is laid in the office of the Grampus. The editors are sitting around disgruntling softly to one another. There is a noise at the door, and a moment later in walks the entire cast of Finnegan's Wake headed by James Joyce and Adolph Knopf. Chief Detective Inspector Brandy seizes the filing system, and Boubloul barking for joy goes about taking fingerprints for all he is worth.

Joyce: I'd like to speak to the editor

Editor: (Smiling shyly) I'm he ... him I mean

Joyce: I like your publication

Editor: (looking at his boots in confusion) Oh its nothing ...

Joyce: (warming to his subject) You've no doubt heard of the treacherous attitude of the United Kingdom towards our own sweet emerald darlin' Isle. Now if you would be willing to undertake a campaign against the absentee landlords I would be willing to furnish you with enough Guinness to float the Young Friends of the Soviet Union from OGPU to Snafu. (A Baltic port. A rather good hunting sherry comes from the same region. -J.)

Editor: (cautiously) Well actually we don't like going off the campus you know ... the university angle and all that. (There is a mutter of thunder offstage, the lights grow dim, and the luminous disembodied head of Trotsky floats slowly across the stage muttering "Betrayed again, betrayed again, betrayed again" fading off into a pianissimo and disappearing into an open box labeled PROPERTY OF THE FACULTY OF MEDICINE)

Mary Cassidy: (Screaming) It's the curse is on us we should have never left Oireland.

Joyce: (Correcting her) Eire, if you please

Editor: (officially) Yes, you should be more careful Miss Cassidy

Mary Cassidy: (in tears) Ivory-boddy's against me—Jist for that I'm not going to play my saxophone (they all heave sighs of relief)

Murphy: Does the Grampus carry want ads Mr. Shacklemann?

Editor: Why of course (he produces a form with a union label on it and hands it to Murphy to fill out. Murphy takes out his notes which are in Erse and slowly transposes the English equivalent on to the form. He reads aloud: "Dear Finnegan: Please come home, all is forgiven. It was O'Shaugnessy who stole your package of peanuts we found them in the box he keeps his geometry instruments in. Your coffin is ready for you. Love from all. M.)

O'Shaugnessy: (In a towering rage) Ol niver took his peanuts Murphy: You're making a mountain out of a moleskin. It's just a little bit of propaganda to get Finnegan back.

Editor: (enthusiastically) I say you fellows have you read the section on Propaganda in Engel's introduction to Das Breittetsundglimmern? As an example of the gastronomical approach to the problems of the role of the ... (but they do not hear him out. It is four o'clock and already the quaint old fashioned glow of the fluorescent lighting strips is filtering through the latticed windows of the Tecumseh Wigwam, the roar of the traffic, and the cries of the oppressed fade into the distance as they make their way down the carpeted stairway Jake

C. O. T. C.

Return of Uniforms

All members of COTC who are not now taking training, are required to return all articles of clothing and equipment issued to them, to 119 St. George Street, IMMEDIATELY.

—H. C. H. MILLER, Major,
U. of T. Cont. COTC.

"I thought you invited me to see your etchings."
"Nonsense! We're here to Light Up and Listen!"

*"Light - Up - and - Listen"
With SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES
Every Thursday 9.30 p.m.

CKEY - CJBC

Again . . .

Thrill to the Satisfaction of Complete
"up-to-the-minute" Formal Attire.

AT

FREEMAN'S FORMAL

256 COLLEGE STREET, at SPADINA, KI. 0891
571 YONGE STREET, Near Wellesley, KI. 3270
Special Student Rates, Open Evenings

You week-end at the Waldorf

YOU FLY TO NEW YORK AND BACK YOU GET $50.00 POCKET MONEY
(or the equivalent of this trip in cash)
That is the grand prize which you may win at the

BIG QUIZ DANCE THE QUEENSWAY

It will be great fun because you can answer the questions while you dance.
Everybody gets a fair chance and every entry is carefully judged. In case of a tie it will be run off at the dance. Decision of the judges is final.
What's more you will be dancing to . . .

TRUMP DAVIDSON
AND HIS ORCHESTRA
$1.25 per person • Dancing from 9.00

Tickets on sale at
MITFORD TICKET AGENCY, 317½ Bay St.—EL 5530
PROMENADE MUSIC CENTER,
83 Bloor St. West—MI. 2437

Quiz starts at 10 P.M.
Winner announced at Midnight

Friday Feb. 8th

ABERDEEN'S Floral Stores

Main Stores: 31 Bloor W., MI. 2495
Special Attention to University Students

15% Discount Upon Presentation

OF ADMIT-TO-LECTURES CARD

Corsages are a Specialty—Have Your Date Wear One to the U.C. Arts Ball.

ORCHIDS AND ROSES ALWAYS IN STOCK

Hart House Bulletin Board

Friday Afternoon Recital

André Asselin, pianist, will give a recital in the music room of Hart House at 5 p.m. on Friday. His programme will include music by Mozart, Haydn, Medtner, Albeniz and Chopin.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 72 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, January 31, 1946

Tanaka To Speak At Jap-Can Rally As Committee Plans to Educate SPS

Mr. K. Z. Tanaka, Chairman of the Japanese-Canadian Committee, will be one of the speakers at the coming rally sponsored by the University Japanese-Canadian Committee. Mr. Tanaka's acceptance of the invitation was announced last night by Shelagh Kennedy, vice-chairman of the committee.

Other speakers who will be featured at the meeting to be held Feb. 13 or 14 include Andrew Brewin, K.C. The Committee are still awaiting a reply from Senator J. Bench who has been asked to be chairman of the meeting.

Fraternities are also being approached for support and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has been requested to broadcast the meeting.

The meeting has been called as part of the educational program promised by the Japanese-Canadian Committee to remedy the claim of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering that they had been supplied with no facts on the Japanese-Canadian deportation question. The Committee feels that knowledge of the facts will force the Engineering Society to reconsider their present neutral attitude to the problem.

Professor Tatham of the Geography Department and Professor Tate of the Greek Department—both members of the Civil Liberties Committee—have consented to act as faculty advisors to the committee as part of the committee's program to streamline itself and obtain campus action on the impending deportation of west coast Japanese-Canadians.

Guests Throng School But Red One Closed

The School buildings hummed with life last night as the fourth year Schoolmen showed their parents and friends around the labs, revealing secrets of the engineer.

With the exception of the "School House" itself all buildings were open and the visitors were able to inspect the labs, and watch experiments being performed by third year men for whom the evening was a regular—well, not exactly regular—lab period. All apparatus was labelled for the convenience of the guests.

"There is a large number of people in Toronto who think the University is just a collection of lecture rooms. The 'Open House' is an opportunity for them to see the amount of equipment we have," explained one of the professors.

"This is the third year that the event has been held. The first year it was on a very small scale, last year certain courses had lab periods

New Scholarships For Young Artists

Four new musical scholarships open to musicians in Canada and Newfoundland have been established recently on the occasion of the Conservatory's 60th anniversary. The Board of Governors of the Conservatory announced that these scholarships, which are open to younger people only, will run for two sessions beginning in 1946-47.

The scholarships, of a total value of $5,000, comprise one for piano, valued at $1,500, one for violin for $1,000, and one open scholarship for $1,000. These three are for persons under 21 years of age. The fourth prize, open to students up to 25 is for vocal work and is valued at $1,500.

Interested persons must apply on special forms, but auditions will be held in main centers of Canada in order to accommodate those living at a distance from Toronto.

All Tickets Gone For Arts Ball

The date bureau for the Arts Ball has hit only one snag since its inception—the supply of interested couples outgrew the supply of tickets early yesterday.

Before this catastrophe occurred, however, 18 couples were mated, (for one night, at least), and it has been announced by a member of the Lit, that the system proved more successful than was expected.

Too bad there weren't enough tickets to go around!

What's On Today

NEWMAN CLUB

A skating party will be held tonight at the stadium. Meeting place: section D, at 8.00 p.m. Refreshments in the Clubhouse after 10 p.m. The discussion group will meet as usual at 7.30 p.m.

AJAX V.C.F.

A group of schoolmen will lead an open forum discussion on "The World Needs More Applied Science," in building 705 at 7.00 p.m.

Croll On Unions

COL. DAVID A. CROLL

No More Bricks And Tear Gas In Strikes As Result Of Rand's Ford Decision... Croll

"Labor and management relations have been taken out of the brick and tear gas stage," said Lt.-Col. David A. Croll in discussing the decision of Mr. Justice Rand on the Ford strike before the Liberal Association.

"The decision," he continued, "gives unions maturity of thought and a legitimate place in the concepts of Canadian economy."

Col. Croll, former Mayor of Windsor and Minister of Public Works and Municipal Affairs in the Ontario cabinet from 1934-1937, then enlarged on the four elements in every strike. First elements, he said, are the merits of the case—with the Ford workers' irregular employment and insecurity led to the drafting of 22 grievances and consequently the merits were all with the men.

The second element of a strike was termed the ability of the parties concerned to hold out—in Windsor, the Ford Motor Co. with its "swollen war profits" had the

Rhodes Scholarships Allotted To Jamaica

Students from Jamaica at the University of Toronto will probably be interested in the announcement of the two Rhodes Scholarships which are being awarded annually in Jamaica, according to A. B. Fennell, registrar.

An extended age limit is provided for service candidates who have had at least one year's war service in any of the armed forces. All candidates must have passed the Cambridge Higher School Certificate or its equivalent and must have School Certificate credits (or their equivalent) in Latin or Greek and one other foreign language.

Calling All Scribes

In case the students of the University haven't noticed, The Varsity has expanded in the last two weeks to eight pages. This means added coverage, more space to get YOUR story printed. This also means that more stories must be covered, which likewise means that more reporters are needed to keep in hourly touch with news that is happening at every minute on the campus.

Any student who wants to know what is happening before it happens, and what has happened before the paper hits the rotary presses, should pay a visit to The Varsity Office, Room 42 A, University College. There he, or she, will see how the undergraduate daily is put together, how news is covered, and, in fact, just how an up-to-the-minute newspaper office really ticks.

You don't have to be in Honor English, all you need is a free afternoon, or even a free hour, to help get those eight pages out to Oshawa, filled with copy that students want to read. No experience is necessary, but it is appreciated. All that is asked is that you can read, and understand English.

The Varsity promises to give the interested student training in practically every aspect of newspaper production, apart from the actual linotyping and printing.

"Whatever your particular tastes may be, they will be satisfied by one or more of the various departments—news, features, sports, or university wire service. Masthead writers will be on hand to instruct the inexperienced reporter, and to answer questions about how a story is put together, what makes it news, or why the students on this campus want to read it.

Ajax-minded Co-eds Wanted—Thirty!

Next Tuesday night, Feb. 5, House 727 in the Ajax Campus is holding a residence dance under the direction of Doug Haldenby. Thirty girls are urgently needed as dancing partners to balance the women shortage among the engineers.

Any girls who are free that night and willing to help out, please register with Martha Schober today in room 5 of University College, between 4 and 6.

Transportation will be provided. All details will be supplied at registration.

Wymilwood Concert

Sunday, Feb. 3rd, at 9 p.m. All faculties invited, no tickets. Guest artist: Miss Greta Kraus, who will give a recital of harpsichord music. The program will include Scarlatti, Bach, Elizabethan and other pieces. Light refreshments served.

On October 1, 1946, an ordinary candidate must have passed his 19th but not his 25th birthday, but a service candidate is eligible if at any time between September 3, 1939, and February 28, 1946, he was between the ages of 19 and 25.

All entries for the 1946 scholarships must be received by the Secretary, Jamaica Schools Commission, Kingston, Jamaica, not later than February 28, 1946. Applications for the 1947 scholarships must be received before June 20, 1946.

Entry forms and fuller information may be obtained from: C. R. Stollmeyer, Adviser to Colonial Students, 37 Board of Trade Building, Montreal, Que.

I. C. I. Fellowship For U. of London

Founded by Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd., a research fellowship, valued at £600 per annum, has been established at the University of London for original research in chemistry, physics, engineering, pharmacology, chemotherapy and biochemistry.

All applicants will be required to do some teaching the department in which their research is being done and will also be required to submit annual reports. At the expiration of the fellowship a final report must be submitted to the Senate of the university.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from the Registrar's Office in Simcoe Hall.

Sleigh Bells Ring For International

"If old man Winter stays around till Friday, the International Students' Club will sponsor one of the most interesting sleigh rides of the year," said Lloyd Singer, a member of the executive. After the ride, sleighers will adjourn to the Sunnybrook stables for barn dancing.

Singer pointed out that all students are invited to the sleigh ride, and not only members of the club. They will meet at the north end of the Yonge St. carlines at 8.00 p.m. Friday night.

In discussing the object and aims of the club, Singer said that the club is not only for international students, but rather for anyone interested in becoming acquainted with the various races and world cultures represented on the campus. It enables the many students from all over the world to discuss their various countries and customs in informal gatherings.

Request Clubs Contact Chum

With the University of Toronto on the air at the break of dawn each day, Harvey Dobbs, master chef of the canteen is officially inviting all campus organizations to 'Breakfast at Chum'.

Although the newspapers of the city have always recognized the University as a lucrative source of news, Dobbs' morning announcements of campus events are the first step that any Toronto radio station has made to recognize the latent possibilities of 11,000 University students. In order to provide a completely informative and interesting bulletin service for the students, M. C. Dobbs is asking University Clubs and other organizations to advise him (via The Varsity office) of meetings at least several days in advance.

"If they're willing to get up at 7.30 and phone the information in to CHUM, it will serve the same purpose," Dobbs declared, "but notice several days beforehand will help a great deal." Dobbs himself claims that sunrise living has opened a great new vista of life for him. "Why spend half your life sleeping?" he questioned rhetorically.

Ajax Sports

Thursday, January 31st

Cus. 1-6.30 p.m.—Res. 723 vs 724.
Cus. 1-7.30 p.m.—Res. 731 vs 733.
Cus. 3-6.30 p.m.—Res. 730 vs 736.
Cus. 3-7.30 p.m.—Res. 727 vs 728.

AJAX BASKETBALL Schedule

Thursday Night, January 31st

Group 2—Res. 733 vs Res. 737—6.30 p.m. J. Crang.

Group 3-732 Team A vs 730 Team A 7.30 p.m. B. Black.

Group 4-725 Team B vs 729 Team B-8.30 p.m. B. McHenry.

Group 5-732 Team B vs 736 Team B-9.30 p.m. J. Robson.

Group 1-727 vs 722-10.15 p.m. E. Caldwell.

Are Our Universities What They Shou

We publish below what is in our considered judgment the most significant pronouncement of a Canadian educator in recent years.

The address of Principal W. R. Taylor of University College to the lecture audience of the Education Series last December has provoked rejoinders and misquotations without number; but pending the publication of the entire series its text has been accessible only to the original audience.

The Varsity is privileged to bring this evaluation of the University student to the campus-wide audience whom it so largely concerns.—Ed.

Virginia Dare

COMFORT—STYLED BY Lee'S

Sleepytime gal—in Lee'S Rosebud printed pyjamas styled for comfort, long wear and easy laundering—in Blue, Dusty Pink. Sizes—small, medium, large. 2.98

Wide awake and ready-for-anything—in Lee'S classic tailored penny-saver blouse—a fine fabric plus an eye-catching design on Tan, Yellow or Blue ground—a blouse that does wonders to pep up dark skirts. Sizes 14-20. 2.98.

MAIL ORDERS

With money order send 10c to cover cost of mailing. Send to Head Office, Kent Building, Toronto.

A Store in Your Neighbourhood

Virginia Dare
LIMITED

I have been asked by this Association of University Teachers under whose auspices I am speaking to deal with the subject of The University and Education. It was not meant, I assume, that the discussion should relate particularly to the University of Toronto, but to University education in general.

In any case, the subject is timely, because during the war there has developed a lively and widespread interest in the methods and the aims of higher education. The flood of books and articles and reports dealing with the pertinent problem indicates the concern not only of educationists but of the public in the adequacy of the current standards of University education; and in many institutions of academic rank there have been committees at work examining curricula and instituting revisions or even revolutionary changes in consequence of a new awareness of the function of the University in the social order.

But the subject, though timely, is also one of great proportions. It was in recognition of this fact that Harvard University set up a committee of twelve men drawn from its several faculties to study University education in relation to the basic problems of general education. After two years of work in which help was received from a great array of experts, this committee was able at a cost of $60,000 to issue a report and recently to publish it under the title of GENERAL EDUCATION IN A FREE SOCIETY.

In this undertaking Harvard has not only pointed the way to all sister-institutions by lifting the problem out of the region of sentiment or fatuous experimentation but also contributed a rich service to those institutions of learning which are moved by the times to inquire into the spirit and the pattern of their educational processes.

One might discount the current critical interest in the subject by recalling both that Universities have been, with a certain regularity, the objects of criticism since their inception, and that some of the points at issue about them in modern times vary little in substance and form from one generation to another.

Let me quote some sentences from the letter of a Princeton graduate by the name of Charles W. Harris in which he discusses the principles embodied in the curriculum of a university in which he held a teaching-post.

"The constitution of this College is on a more liberal plan than any in America.... The notion that true learning consists rather in exercising the reasoning faculties, and laying up a store of useful knowledge, than in overloading the memory with words of a dead language, is becoming daily more prevalent. It seems hard to deny a young gentleman the honour of a College, after he has with much labor acquired a competent knowledge of the sciences; of composing and speaking with propriety in his own language, and has con-ned the first principles of whatever might render him useful or creditable in the world, merely because he cannot read a language 2000 years old.... These old forms 'which have been sanctioned by time but not by utility' ought to be dispensed with."

The letter is dated April 10, 1795, and it relates to the contemporary curriculum of the University of North Carolina. But the argument is so little foreign to us in the middle of the twentieth century, that, had we not known its date and origin, we might have guessed that it was drawn from the editorial page of one of today's newspapers.

This sample of the many variations on the hackneyed theme of The Battle of the Books is naively concerned with only the rudiments of the educational problem, namely, what set of subjects are best adapted to give a student learning or to whet his brain to its sharpest capacity.

Along side this type of criticism may be set another, which equally fails to appreciate the fundamental issues in any evaluation of academic education. It was formulated very clearly some time ago by a Toronto business man who is reported to have said:

"So far as university education is concerned, I believe it is a much-misunderstood disease or epidemic on this continent. Outside of the professions of law and medicine and the school of science, too many students are lacking in purpose and have little idea of objective. They therefore probably find themselves adrift with little but mediocrity for the future."

What he meant by objective and prominence was revealed, as he went on to point out that only a small percentage of the leaders in business and industry in Toronto were graduates of the University. The notion that the measure of the value of a University education is to be assessed by the material success of the graduates is difficult to eradicate from the mind of the average man, because it contains the half-truth that a University education should lead somewhere, but it mistakes the proper end to be attained.

But brushing all these recurrent and superficial criticisms aside, we must recognize the fact that the University of today is confronted with a vigorous summons to self-examination which has had no parallel in modern times. It is provoked by the widespread conviction that the University is failing to fulfill its proper function in a time of major crisis in the thought and the structure of society.

It is said that the greatness of our Universities' opportunities contrasts sadly with the little of worth that is being done for those who look to them for light and inspiration. In 1939 the Head of the Institute of Education in the University of London stated the gravamen of the charge in these words: "There is something amiss, surely, when with young people, their strictly educational activities and their often painful struggles to make sense of their world run in quite distinct channels". Or it is said, "when it comes to the direction of human affairs, all these universities... have far less influence upon the conduct of human affairs, than, let us say, an intractable newspaper proprietor, an unscrupulous group of financiers or the leader of a recalcitrant minority".

In short, the argument against the Universities is that their weight in the things of supreme importance in society is too light when compared with the measure of their opportunity and of their duty to serve the youth of today, because the universities are under bondage to the thought-forms of an age that is dying or already dead.

The unanimity with which writers on university education express this judgment persuades one to believe that in the machinery of our universities

"There's a crack somewhere,

FREE TICKETS

for

"Canadian Party"

Broadcast

SUNDAY, FEB. 3

(doors open at 1:00 p.m.)

BROADCAST AT 1:30 P.M.

over CBC Trans-Canada Network and short-wave to troops overseas.

See and Hear

STANLEY MAXTED

Former War Correspondent

ALBERT STEINBERG

Prominent Violinist

BERNARD BRADEN

Well-known Actor

JACK RAE and ELWOOD GLOVER

Emcees

MUSIC BY

GEOFFREY WADDINGTON'S

Orchestra with Songs by

DOROTHY ALT

Star of "International House Party"

Write, phone or call for FREE TICKETS to Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, 354 Jarvis Street (north of Carlton), Phone MI. 5461.

BROADCAST FROM CBC CONCERT STUDIO
9 McQUILL STREET

Be? Dr. W. R. Taylor Offers Diagnosis something that's unsound

"the rattle."

In order to appreciate the alleged defect in our academic machinery it is necessary to keep clear in our minds the idea of a university, as we have inherited it. We can consider it first with reference to the institution itself and secondly with reference to the students.

As an institution, it is the toughest and most persistent organization in the long annals of the race. For it is a mistake to say, as some do, that the university is the peculiar creation of western civilization. It was created in the East; the ante-type of Bologna and Paris can still be seen in the Al Azhar of Cairo, which is far more venerable than either of these western mothers of learning.

The modern university has, therefore, inherited rather than from the mediaeval universities its traditional formal features, namely, the university viewed as a corporation of masters and scholars, a curriculum of studies laid down as to time and place, promotion by regular examinations, graduation with degrees, the distribution of subjects among faculties, and government by deans, chancellors and rectors.

But the more essential thing which the mediaeval Universities themselves took over from their predecessors and in turn, have transmitted to us is the function of a University.

From time immemorial this function has been recognized to be threefold,—to preserve knowledge, to add to knowledge, and to mediate knowledge. In an ideal university no one of these functions can be exalted at the expense of the others, nor can one be neglected except at cost to the others. The test of the power of survival of a University is the strength of its resolve to enlarge the interpretation of these functions in accordance with the changing circumstances of the times.

In modern times to preserve knowledge and to add to knowledge must be interpreted in the terms of libraries and laboratories; and to mediate knowledge means more than it did in Paris seven hundred years ago, it means in addition to classrooms and students the use of a printing-press, a radio-station, extension courses and every device by which the whole community can be informed and enlightened.

Then we must remember that while there are a great number of things common to all Universities, yet by reason of many accidents there are no two Universities exactly alike; in fact, they diverge in many instances quite markedly from one another. In other words, there is no single ideal university whose pattern is to be imposed on other universities. Each university is conditioned by its environment. Great nations create great universities; there are no great universities in decadent nations. The greatest differences between the English and continental universities therefore springs in the first instances not from the universities themselves but from the extraordinary English character.

And here in America our universities exhibit a rich variety of differences both in respect to themselves and in respect to one another. The Harvard of the twentieth century is not the same as the Harvard of the nineteenth century. And the Harvard which we know differs from Princeton, and Princeton from Chicago and Chicago from California, just as in Canada Toronto is unlike Laval and McGill unlike Saskatchewan. Consequently each university must be understood in the light of its environment and the responses that its environment calls forth.

In the next half century it is probable that as we see a world mind replacing a national or a provincial mind, there will be a convergent movement that will tend to make them more and more homogeneous. There are signs that such a movement is already under way.

When we examine the idea of the University with reference to the student, it is noted that whatever divergences there may be in the organizations of the general universities, there is singular agreement as to the end which they regard as the supreme good of education. It has been summed up in Newman's classic paragraph:

"An assemblage of learned men, zealous for their own sciences, and rivals of each other are brought, by familiar intercourse and for sake of intellectual peace, to adjust together the claims and relations of their respective subjects of investigation. They learn to respect, to consult, to aid each other. Thus is created a pure and clear atmosphere of thought, which the student also breathes, though in his own case he only pursues a few sciences out of the multitude. . . . He apprehends the great outlines of knowledge, the principles on which it rests, the scale of its parts, its lights and shades, its great points and its little, as he otherwise cannot apprehend them."

In his address to the students of St. Andrew's University John Stuart Mill, in the same vein reminds his hearers that the University affords to them an opportunity of acquiring a facility of using their minds "on all that concerns the higher interests of man, which you will carry with you into the occupation of active life."

Any University, I think, would subscribe to these definitions of university purpose. But the essential thing which Newman and Mill were stressing is generally missed, for it is too generally assumed that they thought of a University as a roof to cover discussion-groups. Rather they meant that the product of discussion was not facility of discussion but culture. And culture, according to their thinking, is an integration of thought, the correlation of the vital ideas of a period, a view of the world and men which gives meaning to life and direction to vocation.

To be uncultured, on the other hand, is to be unaware of the system of ideas that belong to the period, or to lack the mind to criticize them. The university is not an advanced collegiate-institute, however difficult it is to establish in fact the proposition. The glory of a university is seen, when, as the Romans phrased it, studia abeunt in mores, that is, when the totality of the regimen of the institution is by some subtle alchemy transmuted into personal values,—manners, morals and poise of mind.

The universities of the Middle Ages because of their scholastic thought, which integrated all the departments and faculties of learning, were able to do this service for the students of their day. And even after the Renaissance the universities by their conventional adherence to the traditional religious postulates in a form which was only a revision of the scholastic metaphysics, and with their ideal of the complete man or the religiously rounded man of affairs, continued to convey to those who came to them a clear conception of a pattern of thought and of living.

All knowledge was welcomed, but knowledge, old and new, must be brought into a relation of unity and symmetry. The mind must make "everything in the whole sort—lead to something else—communicate the image of the whole to every separable portion, till that whole becomes in imagination like a spirit everywhere pervading and penetrating its component parts, and giving them one meaning."

I think that I am not mistaken when I say that we all have cherished some such idea as the proper goal of a University education. But in contrast to this ideal which was highly regulative in higher education up to the end of the nineteenth century, our twentieth century Universities in America present so frequently such evidences of lack of controlling principle, such amorphous design, such desultory practice that the candid Texan, Professor Frank Dobie, is led to describe American higher education as a dismal swamp.

However one describes it, the substantial truth is that during the last forty years there has been an accumulation of factors which have introduced confusion and disorder into the educational process everywhere, but especially here in America. The first of these factors is the rapid increase in the number of students enrolled in our Universities.

In the United States the population increased three times over in the years between 1870 and 1940 but the number of students registered in the colleges grew within the same period from 60,000 to 1,500,000, that is, the college-population multiplied eight times faster than the general population.

In Canada, while the general population has doubled during the last forty-five years, the attendance at our Universities has increased at least five or six times. This movement to the Universities reflects the growing democratization of our society.

And along with this new social point of view and, perhaps because of it, there has developed rapidly the demand that the right to attend a University should not be reserved solely for those who intellectually are best able to profit by it but offered to all who wish to avail themselves of it. No one can fail to understand that this situation implies that the standards of culture tend to fall to the level of the common denominator of the mass.

And the pressure downward is enforced by the concomitant fact that the burden of the responsibility for higher education has preponderantly shifted in the last half century to the state universities, that is, the institutions which depend for their support on the popular good will.

Any hope that men may entertain in the power of the privately endowed institutions to mitigate the problem is doomed to disappointment. For owing to the maturing socialization of wealth and the collapse of interest increments, the outlook is that in the course of the next fifty years the existent private institutions will in one way or another disappear or, at the most, linger on in a starved condition.

It follows naturally from this popular movement to the University that the University is adapted to what those who come expect it to do for them. And what the people want of a University is in blunt terms a job-centred education. Faculties and schools and institutes must be created and expanded in order to prepare students for the higher technical and professional vocations of our complex society. And even in the Arts Faculty there is pressure to introduce a wide variety of courses which will prepare the student on graduation for some kind of remunerative employment.

It is not to be denied, of course, that in past times a University education led to advancement and promotion in a graduate's career, but formerly the pecuniary aims were far less regulative of the design of a curriculum than today. A University of the people ipso facto is expected to give its students the skills required to fill jobs and to hold them. And even those who come to the University professing only a desire for culture, often mean by culture something that the last generation never heard of—they mean training for what is technically called 'life-situations' or 'total adjustment to environmental situations', that is, training specifically for citizenship, marriage, leisure, and what may give one the appearance of being raffiné.

Since many students who follow these career courses either do not graduate or do not follow the way of life for which they have been trained, an extra complication is added to the general educational problem. The imbalance which has developed in the University pattern during the last forty years is exhibited in the registration, for example, at Columbia University where the enrolment in the undergraduate cultural courses is under 2000 whereas the normal enrolment in the professional, technical and vocational courses, graduate and post-graduate, totals 28,000 or at our own University where the number of those in the more or less cultural courses is only one-third of the total registration.

As a result, the number of students who graduate with a knowledge of the skills and practices and techniques of the vocations so far as these rules, practices and techniques hold good up to June, 1946—they may be revised or, in part, abrogated by 1950—far exceed those who graduate with a perception of those basal integers of human life and society that never alter with the tides of history but are as old and new as nature's self.

Simultaneously with the two factors created by the influx of students to the University, a third factor has arrived to aggravate the current difficulties in higher education. This third factor is the result of the combined impact on education of certain psychological and philosophical theories. It is held that the practice of education is to be grounded on the principle of motivation and on the recognition of individual differences.

The University, therefore, like the primary and secondary schools becomes 'student-centred'. The student must be privileged to study only what he wishes to study; he must not be required to learn anything which he does not like to learn. The first article of faith in this theory of education is that since the Creator made all human beings different, it is the function of the University to see that they are kept as different as possible.

President Eliot of Harvard was the first to translate it into practical terms by his system of elective subjects, and since that revolutionary event most universities in America have been following in his wake. For a time it seemed that the apocalyptic day had arrived when "learning was to be without exertion, without attention, without toil," and yes, "without grounding, without advance, without finishing".

When, more recently, it was noted that a smattering of many subjects was not enlargement but shallowness, and that the student having learned nothing tossed aside his education with his note-books on the day of graduation, there were different devices invented to limit the student's freedom of election. But neither insistence on a 'core' of subjects nor regulations for a sequence of courses has up to the moment solved satisfactorily the situation created by the psychological hypothesis.

The resultant confusion has, as if by conspiracy, been augmented by American pragmatic philosophy as applied to education especially by Professor Dewey. It is claimed that the end of education is to develop abilities. The requirement of knowledge is therefore useful only in so far as knowledge is an instrument to further this end. All subjects hence are free and equal since one subject is as good as another for training ability. Radio-broadcasting can be offered with good scientific conscience as an option over against Greek or Mathematics, and EVERY IMAGINABLE SKILL IS TO BE HOUSED IN THE UNIVERSITY.

The line between the subjects that are properly academic and those that are not tends to disappear.

It is also consonant with this point of view that since ours is a world that has had no counterpart in the past, since it is we, not Prometheus, who stole the real fire from the gods, since this is the age for which all past ages have waited, the past not only has nothing to teach us, but is altogether irrelevant to our day.

We must solve our problems as we meet our experience with our abilities. Likewise, our codes of measures and morals and aesthetic tastes must be suited to the contemporary situation. There are no constants or absolutes in human affairs, we are members of a world of relativity.

These notes sounded by the instrumentalists are meant to be the Marseillaise of educational freedom. We are to cast off the tyranny of the collective wisdom gleaned by men and society in the course of the last three or four thousand years and returning to the state of the Garden of Eden to begin afresh to chart a civilized life for man.

This pragmatic philosophy of education has flourished in America and has brought to bear on our Universities more by indirect than by direct influences. The centre from which it is disseminated is Teachers' College in Columbia University where annually thousands of students drawn from every state and country go to pursue courses in the different departments related to education. These students are, or hope to be, teachers in primary and secondary schools, and from these teachers in due course are recruited the professors of Education for the faculties and colleges of Education.

Since it is natural that government departments of Education turn for counsel and policy to the state supported faculties of Education, it follows that the content and the method of education in the schools is being determined on a growing scale by those who in one way or another have been influenced by Dewey's point of view. And so whereas in times not far past (Continued on Page 7)

5 GOOD SENSES —Senses, That Is

(Thank You, Senator Claghorn)

HEARING Sonny Dunham at the Arts Ball

SEEING the handmade clothes at Louis Cohen's

TASTING the delicacies of chicken chow mein

FEELING the imported woolens at Louis Cohen's

SMELLING the Great Hall kitchen

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
at College
RA 8995-6

Open nine to nine.
Saturdays until six.

Three to four week service.
(Sooner if you prod us.)

smoke the mild cigarette

Buckingham

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

BRASS BAND

Practice Today At 5 p.m.

Band is to Play at Varsity Hockey Game on Friday Night

50,000,000 CAN'T BE WRONG

LEARN EXPERT BRIDGE NOW AT

THE BURK ACADEMY OF BRIDGE

NEW CLASSES NOW FORMING

Expert Instruction — Reasonable Rates

PHONE EL. 3669 FOR OUR FREE BRIDGE FOLDER

Make Your Bridge a Social Asset

BLUES vs PEOPLES

HOCKEY - FRIDAY
8:00 P.M. • V. A. • FREE

Speaking OF SPORT

By BREDIN STAPELLS

Bird Bashing
Where are the badminton players of this mighty institution? The fair sex have the facilities and don't use them. We understand that there are on this Campus many enthusiasts who would undoubtedly leap at the chance to train their eye on the elusive missile.

We suggest that the male animal rise to the occasion and secure these unused courts. Besides, think of the co-educational aspects of the proposition.

Seize 'em
We are in complete accord with any sordid plot to steal these monastic courts, openly or underground.

Plan: Object—to abscond with the cherished nets.
Time—in the afternoon before opening time at four.

Place—St. Paul's church Bloor East.

Method—seductively overwhelming force.

Weapons—racquets plugged with lead. Here's the plan men, let's go!

The Britons Will Be Slaves

Albion College basketballers will meet Varsity here next Saturday, being the feature attraction of the Athletic Night. The Britons have a win over Western, 44-42; Varsity's points against the same team were 47-46. Other common ground may be found in Wayne's stellar squad; Albion lost 39-35, and the Blues also, 57-37. We foresee one grand struggle from these two evenly matched quintets.

The Britons boast of a very tall squad, with Lewis Moon, topping the scale at 6'3". They also have four colour men of previous years to add to their strength. Watch these boys watch them—but WE'LL WIN.

Individual Exercises For Male Students

Part of the general program of athletics and physical training, are the classes in Individual Exercises which are held most afternoons at 4:00 o'clock in Hart House. This phase of the program is available to all men in the University. It is under the supervision of specially trained instructors who are well qualified to recommend selected exercises for general conditioning or for a concentrated hygienic work-out.

Men with functional restrictions are also accommodated in the program. They take exercises and activities as prescribed by the University Health Service.

The service is diversified so that a man may take a hygienic workout in a gym or in the swimming pool.

He can learn something while enjoying himself in the pool. Classes in general stroke improvement, practice for the requirements leading to swimming awards from the Canadian Red Cross, or the Royal Life Saving Society, water games, and stunts are included in the pool program.

The classes are under the instruction of Mr. A. Chetwynd assisted by Lew Smith. Mr. Chetwynd was formerly chief instructor in the Medical Reconditioning Program for the R.C.A.F. under the direction of the Athletic Director, Warren Stevens.

In any private institution a substantial amount of money is asked for similar services. Here it's strictly for free. So why not wander to Hart House and see Mr. Chetwynd?

Squash Meet

Yesterday afternoon the Squash representatives decided upon when, why, and how for the coming season in this sport.

The intramural tournament will begin on Wednesday Feb. 6, and all entries must be in by Feb. 4 at 5:00 p.m. at the Athletic Office. These entries may be made by either the individual or faculty representatives. No faculty is limited in the number of men they enter in the competition.

The players will be divided into flights comprised of 16 men. Team championships will be selected from the top four men in each faculty or college: one point awarded for each match won.

The individual championship will be played off by the winners of the separate flights.

Women Swimmin'

The semi-finals of the women's intramural swimming meet took place at Hart House last Tuesday evening. No races were run off, the evening featuring style competitions, to pick the star performers for the final meet tonight, also at Hart House.

In the long plunge, Helen MacNeill, St. Hilda's; Sue Gray, P.H.E.; and Fran Chapman, Vic. placed respectively. Maureen Martin, P.H.E., was awarded first place in the diving event, Lois Lloyd, Meds second and Carol Manning, St. Hilda's third. Judges decisions placed Helen Shaw, O.C.E., at the head of the style competition, Judy McEvel, U.C., in second place, and Pat Patterson, St. Hilda's, in third. Barb Hinchcliffe, Vic. won the Ornamental blue ribbon, Pat Patterson, St. Hilda's, the red, Marg Dale of U.C. the white.

The final swimming meet is to take place in Hart House pool this evening at 7:13. All spectators are welcome, and no fee still be required to open the doors.

The swimmers desiring to enter this meet must have had their medical rechecks at 44 Hoskin before 5:00 this afternoon.

SKI NOTES

By DON YEOMANS

Over the week-end, we were fortunate enough to be in the Laurentians at Mont Tremblant Lodge, where the ski school boasts of the services of Johnny Fripp, an Ottawa boy who has made a name for himself in Canadian skiing circles.

Your reporter immediately quizzed him on the age-old controversy over the Parallel method as opposed to the Arldberg technique. Unlike most experts, he wouldn't condemn Loosli's method, but by the time we were through talking to him, we had gathered that Parallel skiing was restricted to open, well-worn slopes, whereas Arldberg could be used anywhere, being especially practical on trails and deep snow.

Three to four days will see a novice proficient enough to tackle the top of the mountain, but it takes from two to three weeks to perform real christies by Arldberg's method. Only the most experienced Parallel expert could handle deep snow conditions commonly found in this area.

A man in our class of instruction learned to ski the Swiss or Parallel style in Switzerland, and, although he has been skiing for ten years, admitted that he was lost on these trails.

Even Fritz Loosli, who introduced the Parallel technique to Canada, says that a snow plough is necessary on some occasions when skiing trails. Jack Miller from down the line, an advocate of this school, had to teach his classes snowplough before attempting the trails at Tremblant.

The snowplough technique may be taught at any time and on any hill, while the Parallel novice must have an open run due to the lack of control. Besides this, it develops many bad habits, which are found ineffective in deep snow, i.e., weight on the inside of the slope.

Alpine skiing, developed by Herman Gardner, puts the emphasis on

Sport In Short

TUESDAY JAN. 29				WEDNESDAY JAN. 30
Hockey				Hockey
Med. III	5	Dent. B	4	Trin. B	3	Vic. III	0
Bus. Admin.	3	U.C. III	1	St. MB	3	Emm	2
Basketball Major				Basketball Major
Vic. III	26	St. MB	17	Vic. III	26	Trin. B	17
Dent. B	21	Trin. B	13	Knox	34	Emm A	14
Sr. SPS	15	P.H.E. I	15	Basketball Minor
Basketball Minor				P.H.E. V	22	Vic. IX	8
St. M.D.	27	Vic. VIII	10	Vic. VIII	23	For C	12
U.C. V	33	Med. Ser. B	15	Water Polo
III Chem.	23	Vic. V	19	St. M	12	U.C. (PHE)	2
Vic. IV	58	P.H.E. IV	some- thing less

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
1:00	VIC. I vs. SPS I.....	Horkins, Patterson
4:00	TRIN. A vs. ST. M. A.....	Street, Fellow
6:00	FOR B vs. KNOX B.....	Crawford, Smith
WATER POLO
4:15	JR. MED. vs. SPS III.....	MacDonald
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1:00	TRIN. A vs. JR. U.C. B.....	Johnson
4:00	WYC. A vs. SPS V.....	McAdam
6:30	SR. VIC. vs. SR. MED.....	Jackson
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	TRIN. VI vs. VIC XII.....	McPhedran
4:30	TRIN. VII vs. ST. M. E.....	Hamm
5:30	U.C. HOLWOOD vs. VIC X.....	Hamm
6:30	U.C. III vs. III MED. A.....	Bond
7:30	PHE III vs. II MED A.....	Bond
SKI MEETING TODAY 5:00—To make final arrangements re intramural meet. Entries will close at this time.

SPORTS SCHEDULE
Week of February 4th.

HOCKEY
MONDAY FEB. 4
1:00	SPS IV vs. MED III	Farrell, Weedon
4:30	VIC II vs. SPS II	Doyle, Sinclair
8:00	MED II vs. U.C. II	Smith, Crawford
9:00	KNOX B vs. SPS V	Smith, Crawford
TUES. FEB. 5
4:00	TRIN. A vs. DENT. A	Brownridge, Davison
WED. FEB. 6
12:00	ST. M. A vs. SPS III	P. Fyfe, Garfunkel
THUR. FEB. 7
1:00	U.C. I vs. MED I	Anderson, Doyle
4:15	KNOX A vs. U.C. III	Street, Johnson
5:15	PHARM. vs. DENT. B	Street, Johnson
FRI. FEB. 8
1:00	WYC. vs. KNOX B	Mosher, Garfunkel
4:30	TRIN. B vs. ST. M. B	Brownridge, J. A. McClelland
5:30	VIC. III vs. EMMAN	Brownridge, J. A. McClelland
WATER POLO
MON. FEB. 4
6:00	TRIN. vs. WYC.	O'Brien
TUES. FEB. 5
4:30	SR. SPS vs. SR. MED. A	Tilston
5:15	DENT. vs. JR. SPS	Rosen
6:00	SPS III vs. JR. MED.	Rosen
WED. FEB. 6
4:15	KNOX vs. TRIN.	Shubik
6:00	WYC vs. FOR.	Rae
THUR. FEB. 7
4:30	JR. MED. vs. ST. M.	Lindgren
5:15	U.C. I vs. SR. SPS	O'Brien
6:00	DENT. vs. VIC I	O'Brien
FRI. FEB. 8
4:15	U.C. (PHE) vs. SPS III	Allore
6:00	SR. MED. B vs. JR. SPS	Lyon
MAJOR LEAGUE BASKETBALL
MON. FEB. 4
1:00	BUS. ADM. vs. SPS III	Ewins
4:00	JR. VIC vs. SR. U.C.	McAdam
6:30	SR. MED. vs. JR. U.C. A	Rotman
TUES. FEB. 5
1:00	SPS IV vs. MED. SER. A	Johnson
4:00	ST. M. B vs. DENT. B	Jackson
6:30	WYC A vs. EMMAN A	Strathearn
7:30	TRIN. A vs. ST. M. A	Strathearn
WED. FEB. 6
4:00	PHE I vs. SR. VIC.	Lye
6:30	SPS III vs. PHE-MED. A	Habcock
7:30	SPS V vs. KNOX A	Habcock
THUR. FEB. 7
4:00	SR. U.C. vs. JR. MED.	Holman
FRI. FEB. 8
1:00	PHE I vs. SR. SPS	Maxwell
4:00	JR. SPS vs. JR. VIC	Drapino
SAT. FEB. 9
1:00	SR. VIC vs. JR. U.C. A	McAdam
MINOR LEAGUE BASKETBALL
MON. FEB. 4
1:00	MED. SER. B vs. IV CIVIL	Charendoff
4:00	PHE IV vs. IV CHEM.	Peacock
6:30	I MED. vs. II CIVIL	Sansone
TUES. FEB. 5
1:00	VIC. V vs. III CHEM.	Voigt
4:00	TRIN. III vs. VIC VI	Cheltetz
5:00	VIC. VII vs. II ENG. BUS.	Cheltetz
6:00	II DENT. vs. U.C. VI	Farrell
7:00	ST. M. C vs. U.C. ST. GEORGE	Farrell
WED. FEB. 6
1:00	VIC. VIII vs. III AERO.	Ewins
4:00	VIC. IX vs. U.C. ARTS.	Hond
6:30	U.C. HOLWOOD vs. EMMAN B.	Mott
7:30	II MED. B vs. FOR D.	Mott
THUR. FEB. 7
1:00	FOR B vs. U.C. ECON.	Kerrison
4:30	FOR E vs. TRIN. IV	Ewins
5:30	IV MECH. vs. U.C. III	Evans
6:30	TRIN. VI vs. PHE VI	Kennedy
7:30	WYC B vs. TRIN. V	Kennedy
FRI. FEB. 8
4:00	KNOX B vs. ST. M. E.	Kerrison

(Continued on Page 8)

• Sportswoman •

By Henry Westcott

What a game, what a game, WHAT A GAME. Yeah, that was really something to see. Of course its a little strange at first, but one gets used to the odd regulations . . . presumably. The National Anthem is over, the game is about to start. The referee is ready and he . . . oops, he dropped the whistle instead of the puck. He gesticulates wildly, but to no avail. When these girls get started, no one can stop them.

Of course the march music is still being played. As you know, the girls must keep in step with the music. If someone should inadvertently make with the blades out of step, her team is immediately penalized ten yards. When such a horrible item occurs, the offending player trips (!) lightly over to the referee, curtsies, and apologizes profusely for the ghastly misdeameour.

But the game progresses. The official has at last retrieved the rubber, and is about to face-off again. Mary Louise Knoll of St. Hilda's grabs the disc and manoeuvres near the Vic net. She is alone near the net. She must make the decision herself. She turns to her caddy and carefully, but quickly chooses a 2-iron. She approaches the pellet. The backswing is superb. What co-ordination, what foot-work, what precision, what form! The pill soars toward the Vic cage. It's in! St. Hilda's are ahead 1-0.

The Vic team presses . . . but what's this. One of the dainty defencewomen of St. Hilda's has hinted at a body check. Oh Horrors. The St. Hilda's team must now skate three times around the rink, singing Caldonia at the top of their voices.

The Vic team presses harder, but they have to stop. The Presser's Union (local 146) objects. There are only seconds to play. Vic is all around the St. Hilda's goal. The bell. St. Hilda's has won.

What a game!

Our Readers Write—

A Teacher Writes

The Editor, The Varsity:
Dear Sir:

When the editor of the Varsity issues a challenge on the value of our present educational system I cannot keep out of the ring. Nothing in this nation needs such an overhauling as our educational system.

Teaching is so unattractive a life work, that during the war, when there was other work to be obtained, teachers, along with miners, packers and laundry workers had to be frozen onto their jobs to keep them there. Even after those drastic measures were taken dozens of schools were closed, and hundreds of children have been without compulsory education, throughout this fair land, during the last few years. Hundreds of other schools are manned by people with little or no training.

For those who enter the profession how meagre is their training! Then we plunge them into one of the hardest jobs that this world knows, with only one helping hand stretched out to them—the inspectors, whose job is to criticize. Our teachers are given seven years of training with abundant practical experience before they are ever turned loose on the public. They come, when called, to an emergency to patch up the body of the child. But the teacher has complete charge of that child for six hours a day, two hundred days a year. He is supposed to inspire and teach forty children, en masse, from any or every class of society, so that each child should come through his school experience an enlightened individual, capable of exercising his reasoning powers. What a farce! Too frequently the teacher becomes a discouraged pedant, physically and mentally worn down.

What is the remedy? Research—a strong educational faculty in every university; a teacher training course equivalent, at least, to that of a medical doctor; classes reduced to twenty; an adequate salary for teachers; the rural composite high school; bonuses for rural school teachers; many more bursaries to deserving students; co-operation with industry so that students who would profit by it may have half-time schooling and half-time work. But above all let us have smaller classes.

The Varsity editor has also given another essential to good education. Let the home and the church do a bit. Though we flood the world with psychologists, they will never teach the child the reverence and respect he will learn from hearing the Bible stories, the Commandments and the Beatitudes at his mother's and his FATHER'S knees. Let them teach him those principles we must all have in common if we are to survive and progress as a nation.

MARY B. BARCLAY
III Pass Arts and a primary teacher.

de Sade Disciple?

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Long before you struck upon the rather startling idea of writing the editorial of January 8, Marquis de Sade expressed the thought more succinctly by saying, "It is a danger to love men; a crime to enlighten them."

He subsequently became known as the originator of that rather odious art known as sadism.

Whether your frantic efforts to exacerbate the student body by your editorials will entitle you to the dubious honor of being one of his more distinguished disciples I do not know. But even that I rather doubt.

STEFAN STYKOLT
IV Poli. Sci. & Ec.

No Satisfaction at All

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

The "Varsity" has made mistakes, as all good newspapers do, and has usually been more than willing to admit them and apologize. Mistakes can be accepted for what they are and understood, but it is very hard for even the most lenient-minded person to understand how an article such as "No Satisfaction" was allowed to be printed. Not only was it printed but it was in such large print and such a conspicuous place that it couldn't be missed.

No matter what else a college paper does or is, it has no right to stoop to the utterly degrading level that Mr. Waite did in his 'criticism' of "School For Brides." What possible justification could he have for the thoroughly disgusting remarks made?—not only about the play, but about his own ideas, which interest no one, especially on that topic.

A write-up on a play of that type certainly is not even necessary, but if he felt it should be, it would have been more than sufficient to say he objected or disliked it. That might even have raised him in the eyes of most students instead of lowering him to the point where he is a detriment to the staff.

The article, merely in being published, was an insult to every clean-thinking girl and any Christian boy. If articles such as that are allowed to appear, the "Varsity" should close down as a failure. There is no success in cheap remarks—there is no fine motive or true purpose behind a newspaper which would bury itself in the dirt. For it ceases to be a newspaper—it ceases to live, for dirt will choke the very life from it.

I would rather think that the article was printed without your knowledge and that Mr. Waite is alone in his hypocritical talk of "modesties of journalistic practice." I hope I am right.

—KATHLEEN CAHILL,
I Pass Arts.

Tut, Tut, Mr. Ansley

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Harry Ansley, a gregarious animal, of a species distinguished alone by the ability to talk and communicate his ideas to others, cannot be blamed for trying to take up your space. Not even if, in the course of his rambling, he suddenly endows himself with a rational mind and comes to such conclusions as that it is Economics (note the capital E) which makes the world tick—and apparently little else.

Where I join Mr. Chapman's protest, Sir, is that you print such lengthy tirades which are not only based on false premises but are also logically inconsistent in themselves.

NELI I. HEENAN
4 SPE.

living organism, the European man. What we must achieve is that every individual or (not to be Utopian) many individuals, should each succeed in constituting the type of the whole man in its entirety. What force can bring this about, if it is not the University?

All that this writer says applies with equal force to the American man.

Now as to these factors which produce the major problems in contemporary university education. I think that we can agree that they severally possess a recognizable validity in our day. We cannot turn the hands of the clock backward and reproduce the small, aristocratic-minded institutions of former generations.

It is not an evil but an augury of hope that the Philistines are upon us in hosts. The will to learn and to know on the part of the masses is the University's superlative opportunity. Nor need we deplore the fact that the student is not unmindful of the common human need to earn bread in order to live in the world he has to live in.

We must also recognize that our complex society requires the services of many types of vocational experts trained basically in the respective fundamental sciences. Vocationalism is irradicable from our present state of society, since with the progressive disappearances of private wealth there can be no leisure class indifferent to the means of making a living. Nor can we deprecate the interest of our generation in the

(Continued on Page 8)

STAFF MEETING

- It's probably time that you were allowed to meet the people who are helping to produce this year's Torontonensis.
- Wally Belfry, borrowed from The Varsity's Managing Department, whose background includes one year at CP, two years at sea and 22 years with CBC's Claire Wallace who chanced to be his mother. Belfry as a Copy Editor of the yearbook will edit copy. Also: the brisk captions that give the book its college tang.
- Mickey Michasiw, currently sports scribe for BUP and retired sports editor of The Varsity, heads the book's revitalized Athletics Section. Opportunity to compile its picture-prose Sports Parade lured the overworked Michasiw back to the fold of undergraduate publications.
- Polly Mutz, Women's Sports Editor of The Varsity, and Peg Wallace, at present Make-up Editor but long-time sports authority, comprise Torontonensis' Women's Athletics Department.
- John Rooke, who has lately become The Varsity's Rewrite Editor, is another plundered mastheader to serve the yearbook as Publications Editor. Rooke, a Cat contributor from his pre-air-force, pre-war Shuster-and-Wayne collaborating days, is the renowned Jake, re-creator of Finnegan's Wake.
- Doug Lloyd, holdover Proofs Editor from last year's book, has organized the fraternity section of the volume. Phi Gamma Delta-man Lloyd shows no bias.
- Ernst Deutsch, energetic press agent for German, Spanish, etc., Clubs, Varsity feature writer, is assisting with the fraternities and clubs.
- Betty Bates, whose sister aided in the preparation of the 1945 T'nsensis, has taken custody of the Photography Department. Lensmen giving camera - coverage to the campus for the book include Ralph Jones, George Zuckerman, Monty Simmonds, Graham McHattie, Ray Wolfe and others.
- Harry Mills, scholarly freshman who claims as uncle Mr. Augustus Bridle of the Toronto Star, is serving in an undefined capacity. He is charged with the debates section, among many other things.
- Mike Mackenzie, Marg. Bowes, Mary Murdison, John McRae, Julian Rezetnik, Graham Donald, Blanche Stanley, Dot Harley and a youngster named Hugh Kenner are all assisting in the production of your Torontonensis.
- Our faculty representatives, tireless tracers of delinquent biographers, include: Perham Stanley, Mary Mulligan, Bob Wilson, Eleanor Wallace, Ian Marr, Lorna Fraser, Jim Doran, Mary O'Brien, Jacqueline Samson, James Hooton, Doug Anderson, Jack Horrics, Fred Bryans, Ken Hill, Murray Lount, Gord Matheson, Norm Lightford, Edith Martin, Bob Everett, Vince Van Ulymen, Mary June Myles, Lilla Stuart, Doris Hand, Gwen Lewis, Nora Cumberland, and Jean Bateman. Thus, from University College to the School of Social Work, do we blanket the University of Toronto.
- We like to think that we have forgotten some names in this inventory. We're sure we've omitted at least five.
- But what about YOUR name? If you would like to join our staff, there are innumerable unfilled duties. The book can't be OVER-staffed.
- And, of course, there's Lou Gentilcore, third year geography student, who is assistant editor, and I'm the book's editor.

Ross McLean.

Dr. W. R. Taylor Offers Diagnosis

(Continued from Page 5)

The Universities controlled the conditions of admission to their courses, this control is now being exercised increasingly by the framers of the curricula of the schools.

The sum of the matter is that faculties of higher education, encrossed in subjects and in the promotion of departmental interests, are in danger of losing by default the battle for control of educational policy. The professional educationist threatens by an almost inevitable process the authority of the University teaching body in its own domain.

Bernard de Voto, writing in Harpers in criticism of the situation in the United States during the war, said bitterly of the professional educationists "They have the charts, the graphs, the gadgets, and the pretty machines, the programs and gospels and theories, the pretensions and half-lunatic philosophies which will convince Congress (as they have always convinced legislatures) the future of higher education in America will be at the mercy of the Teachers' College mind."

THE LAST COMPLICATING FACTOR in contemporary university education to which I shall refer arises out of that on which the modern university most prides itself, the pure scientific method and spirit in the pursuit of knowledge. Beginning first with the examination of the phenomena of the physical world, it has spread into the fields of language, literature, history and the social studies. Every department now boasts of its science, its research and its projects, for the pursuit of which one must, so it is said, cultivate a neutral or detached mind, aiming to examine the data IN VACUO.

The main-spring of this single-minded devotion to the scientific idea is the conviction that the discovery of new truths will by regular stages lead humanity to a total emancipation from its bondage to the evils of the world. All truth, all power, and all good will be ours. The contemporary situation, however, is that the universities tend to become great mills for grinding out factual material, that each department tends to become more and more isolated from its fellows, and that the whole process is, as some one has described it, "A Ride to Nowhere."

The tons of theses, reports, and monographs, so far from giving meaning to life, individual and social, present the world with only a jig-saw puzzle. This defect of extreme segmentation has brought about the moral bankruptcy of the twentieth century university. And the penalty for the abdication of the university's function is that society will seek to find in its own way some meaning for existence even if it be reactionary theories of blood and race or in a retreat to nihilism or barbarism.

In the words of Ortega de Gasset in his Mission of the University "Civilization has had to await the beginning of the twentieth century to see the astounding spectacle of how brutal, how stupid, and yet how aggressive is the man learned in one thing and fundamentally ignorant of all else. Professionalism and specialism, through insufficient counterbalancing, have smashed the European man in pieces; and he is consequently missing at all the points where he claims to be, and is badly needed."

"The engineer possesses engineering; but that is just one piece, one dimension of the European man; the whole man is not to be found in this fragment called 'engineer.' And so in the rest of the cases. When one says that Europe is broken in pieces, thinking to use a baroque and exaggerated expression, he says more truth than he suspects."

"Indeed, the crumbling away of Europe which we are witnessing is the result of the fragmentation that the European man has undergone . . . We have to reassemble out of scattered pieces a complete

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacleware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service.

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Talking Shop

TWO PIECE SUITS at the Evangeline Shops... wear 'em now under coats and later they will step out as perfect street costumes in their own right. They come in fine wool, precise as to line, up-to-the minute as to styling, conservative in price. The sizes, from 14 to 20 which means there's a fit for any figure, the pricing, an easily managed 11.95 to 19.95. Styled with V-notched collars, cardigan necklines, or the new one button closing.

THREE FLOWERS FACE POWDER clings for hours and is colour blended in subtly smart shades to harmonize with any costume. It helps a face achieve a softly moulded look, that suave softening of line demanded by well-dressed women to subdue highlights, and unobtrusively blend with the background. Freshly fragrant, THREE FLOWERS never "cakes", makes continuous touching up unnecessary because it is gently clinging.

WINTERS SEEM TO BE GETTING LATER every year, which means that a fur coat is destined to see many weeks of good hard wear from now until Spring. A fur coat by Gillespie at 70 Wellington Street West is listed among the elect in the world of fur coats, and we recommend a trip to their upstairs showrooms where you can luxuriate in an orgy of trying on a galaxy of suave new styles in Black Persian, Muskrat with wide roll-back sleeves, coon and other fine furs fashioned by craftsmen.

BECAUSE YOU along with a good many other people like nice things, such a dress house as Joan Rigby's is a distinct asset to any community. Joan Rigby clothes are of the letter-perfect variety which do not grow out of the charm and dignity of their line to accommodate hysterical passing fashion fads. They are designed to maintain a comfortable equilibrium of good taste and perfect workmanship. Joan Rigby clothes are sophisticated, suave, sure of themselves and of your approval.

OF COURSE IT MATTERS... It matters considerably how well-groomed your hair is these days when a gale of wind is apt to take it every way at once or leave it standing on end. That, my girl, is why a moulded cut by one of the highly trained Antoine men, one of those casually careful cuts which seem so easy and yet which require years of training, is highly prized by the worldly wise. A head of hair which has been given an Antoine cut can be made neat as a pin with a quick run-through by a comb. Drop in for a consultation with Mrs. Head if there are matters relating to coiffure-control which perplex you. At Holt Renfrew's.

WHEN PLOTTING THE COURSE of your wardrobe visit Northway's Fashionland for a convenient centre of activities from which to assemble colour harmony between coat, suit, dresses, millinery and so on. There, in one fitting room, and with plentiful daylight to guide you, you can collect your ensemble piece by piece, making certain that each item is in close harmony both as to cut and colour with the remainder. Northway's provide a very real service to fashion shoppers in this centralized "Fashionland" plan.

IT TAKES IMAGINATION skill and experience to assemble such a collection of art jewellery as we have been gazing upon at the interesting Jewellery Shop, 32 Bloor Street East, close to the Red Cross Registry. Many fascinating and original pieces which our New York friends would dearly covet are available... lovely and strange designs which the eye has not wearied of through repetition, in rings and earrings and brooches and neck-pieces. These are costume treasures which, in contrast

LPP Club Open Forum

MARGARET FAIRLY

CANADIAN AUTHORESS

"Spirit of Canadian Democracy"

COMMUNISM and CULTURE in CANADA

WYMILWOOD 4:00 P.M. FRI., FEB 1

Bring Your Questions and Criticisms

Dr. W. R. Taylor Offers Diagnosis

(Continued from Page 7)
richness and variety of modern life.

It is also improper to suppose that the University must of necessity fall apart into a mass of segmental faculties or departments independent of or at war with one another. Surely our strategy is to acknowledge the facts and to adjust ourselves to them.

The University of to-day, as we see it, is in a state of confusion due to a growth and expansion so rapid and unpredictable that the proper balance of its parts has been lost. And just now the time for reflection on our disordered state has arrived. The problem is to infuse into the university organism some awareness of the whole of life and some common attitude of mind towards it, and so to recapture that unity which the older metaphysics did for the older universities. Without some such unifying cultural principle human life can sink into "mere disaster" or "meaningless tragedy."

To effect some measure of reform there must be born in each university a resolve to examine itself and to order itself in its several faculties in accordance with the demands of a common purpose. Practically it would mean, I think, that all specialized, vocational and professional training would be projected on a broad base of cultural subjects selected from the departments of history, philosophy, literature and science.

In the Faculty of Arts, of which alone I can speak with some knowledge, the implications are clear. It would be necessary to reduce the amount of specialization in the undergraduate curriculum of the first and second years; it would compel an examination and evaluation of the present ordering of our courses in accordance with four annual circuits of the earth about the sun over against one in accordance with some other principle of values; it would at least mean that we should punctuate the conclusion of the last fifty years of complacency by raising among ourselves the vital question—how best can we educate Canadian youth.

It would mean that as we broadened the base of our courses, we should heighten the peak by developing the specialist or the expert in the graduate school. In conclusion, it seems to me that we can sum up the challenge of these days by quoting the question that Plato raised in the Republic: "Youth is the time when the character is being moulded and easily takes any impress that we wish to stamp on it. Shall we then simply allow our youth to listen to anything that anyone happens to make up and so to receive into their minds ideas often the very opposite to those we shall think they ought to have when they are grown up?"

Married Student

(Continued from Page 1)
and farther from the campus and the rents go up and up.

With another summer course slated for the campus next April, the housing prospects for local students seem anything but bright.

Already over 100 married ex-service students have registered with the Ex-Service Committee of the S.A.C. who are trying to discover the housing requirements for the spring and next fall in order to formulate some plan of action to relieve one of the most serious problems confronting university students.

AJAX SPORTS RESULTS

Res. 737A defeated 736A: 1768-1761.
Res. 732A defeated 733A: 1984-1832.
Res. 727A defeated 726A: 1911-1705.
Res. 729D defeated 728D: 1858-1845.
Res. 731C defeated 736D: 1709-1460.
Res. 734C defeated 737D: 1691-1635.
Res. 725C defeated 728C: 1701-1546.
Res. 723B defeated 722B: 2073-1813.
Girls' Team—Res. 721-1005.
Hockey—Games postponed.

with the plainest basic frock, can turn you out well-dressed.

IF YOU HAVE NO PATIENCE with minor aches and pains, remember Sloan's Liniment is always there to help get rid of them. A quick patting on of Sloan's, where the trouble is felt, and before long the painful part will begin to feel that warming sensation which is the signal to nature to rush in new blood supplies to exhilarate the area. This increased circulation re-vitalizes the trouble zone and before you know what's happened the pain is nothing but a faint, unpleasant memory. Neat service, we call it.

Ski Notes

(Continued from Page 6)
weight shifting and dropping the shoulders. Arldberg places more emphasis on a very marked shoulder swing.

Loosli has attained fame because most people are impatient, and seize upon the fastest method of achieving some of the so-called grace, gliding down a hill. It may be the fastest but it is far from the surest. The Parallel enthusiast gets along alright in this part of the country, as had your reporter, but we were thoroughly converted by an excursion to where skiing is king.

YOU CAN SEE The Four Queens

AT THE ARTS BALL

BUT

? WHO ?

WILL BE THE KING OF HEARTS

U.C. SOPH-FROSH BANQUET PICTURES

Will those who have not re-identified the pictures they ordered at the Soph-Frosh Banquet please do so immediately in the U.C. Registrar's Office.

Art, Music and Drama

Conservatory Quartet

Yesterday's five o'clock concert at the Conservatory featured the Conservatory String Quartet. I doubt if the quartet itself would pretend to be anything more than mildly competent. Therefore there is little point in criticizing it by any exacting standards. It should be sufficient to say that they play together like a group assembled for an occasion and not like a permanent organization.

The program consisted of the Dvorak Quartet in C Opus 61 and the Kodaly Quartet No. 2 Opus 10, neither of which were of outstanding interest, although the Dvorak was certainly the more mature and engaging of the two. Kodaly is by turns primitive and academic. He is violent by half-measures and formal by fits and starts. His style is predictable without being inevitable, and compares unfavourably even with that of his countryman Bartok.

—MILTON WILSON

Casavant Series

Indubitably the best Casavant Series organ recital of the season was given last night by Carl Weinrich in Eaton Auditorium. Mr. Weinrich's unerring exactness and his pure baroque registration gave flavour to classical and modern compositions alike. Organ Concerti by Bach and Handel were ably performed with incredible clarity rarely achieved on the Eaton organ.

However the success of the evening was somewhat spoiled by the massed choirs of Loretto Abbey and Loretto College School, who laboured through various degrees of tripe in the interlude. This mob of vocalists was egged on to repeat their poorest number by diverse relations in the audience.

A profound relief from the choir was Mr. Weinrich's immense interpretation of the First Sonata in E flat Minor by the famous contemporary composer Paul Hindemith. Although extremely dissonant this Sonata is an amazing example of technical dexterity and depth of thought, none of which was lost in the interpretation.

The next Casavant Concert will be given by d'Alton McLaughlin assisted by the Vaughan Road Collegiate choir, on March 20th.

JOHN GARTSHORE

Classified Advertisements

WANTED

Qualified teacher for private tutoring for entrance. 2 hours daily. Phone MI 9988.

LOST

Brown leather over-the-shoulder bag, with gold initials E.M.R. Phone Edith Read, MI 4733.

TIPS

'n Tunes for all students, Nightly, 11.05 to 12.00. CKEY.

FOUND

Green Parker pen in Applied Maths. Bldg., Tuesday morning. Don, HA 8497.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

LOST

Brown leather zippered key-case, containing round name tag, Ted Gerson, vicinity Hart House, last Sunday. Please contact MI 7515.

WANTED

One "Text-book of College Physics," Chant and Burton. Phone LL 6911, after five.

LOST

Brown leather note-book initialled "L.E.D." Request that notes at least be returned—vital! MI 1649.

LOST

Parker pen and pencil in black leather case. Between Medical Bldg and Women's Union. Phone MO 4758.

FOR SALE

Tuxedo suit, medium build, chest 36, waist 32, inner leg, 30; excellent quality and condition. Complete with shirts and vest, $25. Private, HU 9083.

WANTED

20 Army officers' uniforms and greatcoats. Give size and condition. Dr. Dalziel, AD 1271.

FOR SALE

Men's tails, excellent condition size 38, KI 5330, evenings.

FOR SALE

Suit of tails, size 38, tall, excellent condition. HU 5394.

LOST

White gold watch, broken strap, in or near Room 22 U. C. Friday, Jan. 18. Please leave at S.A.C. office.

SORRY! ARTS BALL SOLD OUT

THERE WILL BE ABSOLUTELY NO TICKETS SOLD AT THE DOOR

Ajax Ex-Servicemen Meet To Find Homes

Yesterday, ex-servicemen in Ajax banded together to discuss the possibilities of discovering housing accommodation on the campus for themselves and their families.

At present, there are approximately 70 married ex-servicemen and their families living in the village of Ajax, but the majority of the wartime houses there are still occupied by employees of the War Assets Corporation and of Defence Industries Limited.

A spokesman, Mr. Lavergne, was chosen to speak on behalf of the group. He is to interview Mr. Gilley, Director of the Ajax Division, in the hopes that housing accommodation somewhere on the campus can be made available to the men and their families, even on a temporary basis, until the employees of War Assets and D.I.L. vacate their premises in Ajax. He is also slated to interview D.V.A. officials about special travelling privileges for ex-servicemen at Ajax.

Many suggestions were made at the meeting, one being that one of the residences be converted into apartments with a community kitchen. It was stated there are at present many empty rooms in some of the residences. If these vacancies were to be filled by single students, one complete residence may be left empty and available.

The results of the interviews are to be made public and discussed at an open meeting next Monday in Hart House Ajax at 1.30. All married ex-servicemen are asked to attend.

Weeds Go, Fruits Flourish Institute Speaker Explains

Hormones and horticulture will be combined with flowers and gardens at the Royal Canadian Institute lecture to be given at Convocation Hall Saturday night at 8.15. Dr. George S. Avery Jr., Director of the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens, will speak at the public lecture and give the latest details on plant and weed control.

Said Dr. Avery: "Synthetic hormones have been developed in the last few years which will make fruits fruitfully much more rapidly and will kill weeds in the back-yard garden of the Victory gardener."

"Industrial growers as well as gardeners who grow flowers only for their own pleasure will be able to reap crops at an earlier date and with less fear of losses from natural catastrophes such as storms, strong wind and hail."

Synthetic hormones, according to Dr. Avery, can be applied externally to plants and they act in the same way as the natural thing.

New compounds, such as the 2-4 D compound, will kill weeds in strong solutions and will produce such things as seedless tomatoes and larger pineapples in weak dilution.

"It must be remembered," concluded Dr. Avery, "that weeds cause three times more damage in the United States than the much maligned insect pests. Hormones used for the control of horticulture have a really bright future."

No Future For Carbon 13? Big Future For Carbon 14?

Predictions and guesses being the current fashion, we made our way to the Chemical Building, looked up Dr. Beamish and inquired into the future of 'carbon 13' that mysterious 'heavy carbon isotope' which is at present receiving so much publicity in scientific circles.

"Future?" queried he, with a lift of the eyebrows, "I doubt if it has one." When pressed for an enlargement of this statement, Dr. Beamish consulted his assistants and collectively they made the following prediction, "We think that Carbon 14 will be used before Carbon 13 and that it will be more generally useful."

Carbon 14 is available in the U.S.A. now, but as yet, as far as they know, none has been produced in Canada; however, if all goes well the next year may see it home-produced in limited quantities. Carbon 14 is made by bombarding ammonium nitrate with neutrons. Such projects, being related to atomic research will probably be subject to some form of international control. Carbon 13, however, does not fall into this category, and therefore work in this direction may proceed without tangling in official red tape; hence the enthusiasm displayed on all sides by 'commercial interests'. It was suggested that the Chalk River plant where further investigations of atomic energy are to be pursued might also be the Canadian home for Carbon 14.

Carbon 13's commercial boosters propose to use it for tracing biochemical processes and in assisting researches into the origin of such diseases as cancer and diabetes. Carbon 14 would do all that and more, says Dr. Beamish, but he was not a man to venture out on a limb and would hazard no guesses as to any other possibilities for the new isotope.

Around the Clock at Vic At-Home

—(Staff Photo by Graham McHattie).

The chorus line at the floor show of tonight's Victoria College At-Home relax in between rehearsals. Aided and abetted by Phil Reid, who arranged the music, terpsichorean trainer Bobs Ewing has been drilling the dance routines for the last two weeks. Reading left to right from the six o'clock position are: Ruth Brafette, Jean Duncan, Joan Len-son, Adele Timmins, Mary Caehidu, Doris Black, Betty Crane, Shirley Griffin, Tikie McArthur, Nonie MacMillan, Lorie Doolittle, Bev Echlin.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 73 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Friday, February 1, 1946

BODY ON LAKE ICE QUEEN'S STUDENT?

Body Found?

Above, pretty Jean Myers, Queen's co-ed, missing since last Tuesday morning, whose body is thought to have been located on ice floating near Snake Island.

Search Party To Brave Treacherous Ice Today

Sighted By R.C.A.F. Plane

Kingston, Jan. 30.—(CUP)—A body, believed to be that of Jean Myers, missing since she left for a lecture at Queen's University Tuesday morning, was sighted on floating ice five miles off the shoreline of Lake Ontario yesterday afternoon. She is believed to be a victim of amnesia.

Darkness and the hazardous condition of the ice forestalled efforts to retrieve the body last night. A further effort will be made this morning.

Police and University officials will cross this morning to Wolfe Island, where they will pick up a team to drag their ice-punt across treacherous ice to Snake Island, near which the body has been sighted. Bad cracks in the ice constitute a grave danger to rescue workers.

The body was first seen by an R.C.A.F. plane pressed into the search from the Air Force station at Trenton.

Observer in the aircraft was William O'Hara, a Queen's student formerly a member of the R.C.A.F. and an ex-prisoner of war.

O'Hara returned by car from the landing-field to lead a search party which left Kingston shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday on what proved a hopeless quest. Darkness and dangerous ice compelled overnight postponement of the expedition.

Meanwhile the systematic search of the frozen harbor area by 600 Queen's students continued. The searchers paralleled the ice in parallel lines, a few yards apart.

Large groups of students, some on skis, searched the harbor with flashlights all Wednesday night. Food was brought them on the ice by sled. Classes at Queen's University were interrupted shortly after 3.30 Wednesday as police sought assistance in the search.

The 23-year-old girl was last seen leaving the Goodwin residence for a calculus class about 8 a.m. Tuesday. She was wearing a long green coat trimmed with brown fur, and three-quarter height brown snow boots. It is believed she wore a scarf of kerchief on her head.

Lois Martin, friend of the missing girl, said: "We had a hard time trying to waken her Tuesday morning. I was told she had taken some sleeping tablets the night before, because she said her nerves were bothering her."

Parents of the missing girl, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Myers of Portland, Ont., have come to Kingston. They could offer no explanation of their daughter's disappearance.

Think One "Small" Space Did Encompass Universe

According to the latest annual report of the Smithsonian Institution, Dr. Subrahmanyan Chandrasekhar of the University of Chicago and Dr. Wladimir W. Heinrich formerly of the University of Prague who have been carrying out research on the origin of the 92 known elements, have put forward the theory that all matter of the universe was once confined to a volume of radius only about 20 times that of the solar system.

Such a sphere drawn around our sun as a centre, does not now contain a single other star. Yet into such a volume there may once have been packed not only all the thousand million stars of our own Milky Way Galaxy, but all the millions of other galaxies.

Since stars and galaxies are not now thus packed, expansion must have started sometime very long ago. The present rate of expansion is such that galactic distances, the distances between the galaxies, are doubled every 1,800 million years. "All this," according to Dr. A. V. Douglas of Queen's University, who described the work of the scientists, "Gives the time elapsed since expansion began as several thousand million years, which is in satisfactory accord with the age of the earth as determined by other physical lines of approach, and regarded necessarily as a lower limit for the age of the universe."

In the same report Dr. Douglas wrote "An investigation of very recent date has led to positive conclusions about planetlike bodies associated with stars other than our sun. This may be the beginning of a new search and a new certainty in a field of astronomy hitherto theoretical and speculative. Already several astronomers on two continents are studying the implications."

New Year's Students Elect March Council

Montreal, Que., Jan. 30.—(CUP)—Peter Hadrill, president of the Dawson Students' council, told those students who arrived in January, that they would be the ones to elect the new Students' Council in March. The students, including 250 veterans, were told how the Students' Council had already improved the food and assisted in the lowering of the rates for board since the opening term in September.

JAP-CAN COMMITTEE

An important meeting of the Japanese-Canadian committee is being held today at 5:00 p.m. in Cartwright Hall. It is requested that representatives from all campus organizations send a delegate, especially S.P.S., Medicine, Dentistry and also the fraternities.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeM.L. 6611

Business OfficeM.L. 6221

Night OfficeM.L. 8405

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor...Peggy Bates, 476
 Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
 Make-up Editor...Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
 News Editor...George Forster, 477
 Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 476
 Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
 Assistant...Beg Herman, 476
 Sports Editor...Bredin Stapells, 476
 Assistant...Don Mason, 476
 Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor...Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant...Dorothy Harley, 476
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor...Philip Freedman, 476
 Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477
 Business and Advertising Manager—K. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Friday, February 1, 1946

On Schooling (3)

The pragmatic method, latest of the unphilosophical diversions with which men at slack periods during the centuries have tided over their temporary unwillingness to think, simply switches attention from reasons toward results.

We have not space just at present to discuss why results alone are not all-important; we merely establish thus late in our survey of compulsory schooling the premise on which much of the argument has been based; a premise which we should probably have established at the beginning, did not experience suggest that we are dealing largely with an audience too weary to grapple with initial premises.

We have devoted two columns to a summary of the main reasons why, as it seems to us, elementary schooling provided by the state and enforceable by the police is so placidly accepted as a principal blessing of our civilization; why, as we phrased it earlier, men who would not trust a politician with a dime entrust him with a dogma.

Those unworthy reasons seem to us, if as we believe they are the basic reasons, sufficient ground for shunning compulsory schooling, unless some better case can be presented in its favor than one based on mere repetition of the words "democracy" and "enlightenment".

We feel, then, that we have made our case; but in the space that remains we intend to assess not the reasons but the thing itself, and to deprive compulsory schooling of even a pragmatic justification.

Our case against the institution itself, apart from its mean basis, is twofold: that the state has no business teaching some of the things it does teach; and that those things are in any case taught wrongly.

The state at present teaches morals; which are none of its business; it claims to provide culture, which is none of its business; and it indoctrinates an official philosophy embracing human responsibilities, human history, and the peculiar blessings of the muddle in which we find ourselves; which is stark propaganda.

It is because of this official philosophy permeating all state teaching that the teaching itself, apart from the state's right to undertake it, is wrong.

We ourself were taught as a matter of course that there is no transcendent standard of morals, and that being good consists chiefly in harming no one. That conflicts with what we were taught at home; and we believe that our parents were righter than the Deputy Minister.

We were taught to value something called "responsible government", which was defined as the right of the people to turn their governors out of office, but which a few years' reading in and behind the newspapers suggests is actually the power of the government to do as it likes by persuading a doubting public that it serves them.

We were taught a great deal of bad and doubtful history; that the Elizabethan buccaners were heroes, for example, which is probably much what German youth hear of their submarine captains.

We were constantly taught out-of-date science as though it were the latest low-down from Sinai; the nebular contraction theory of the origin of the Solar System, for example, was parcelled out to us one morning by the same teacher who a few days earlier had been reverently reading aloud to her class the first chapter of Genesis. Ironically, that hypothesis had even then been abandoned by the scientific world for some years; it lingered only in official syllabi.

Much of everyone's time at University is spent unlearning what he has been taught before; largely because he has been taught by a blind political machine matters which are none of its affair, and which it cannot but utter with a lying mouth or view with jaundiced eyes.

Much of everyone's time at University is spent unlearning more there. Meanwhile the state is creating what it bitterly calls a proletariat; and complaining whenever they manifest their "mass mind": the product of state teaching.

—W. H. K.

News Items

Musician To Leave Ale, Quail

Eustice Ingabit, M.A., Mus. Doc., has resigned as choral director and organist of the Ale and Quail Society to accept a position with the Bell Telephone Company.

Dr. Ingabit will assume his new duties next month. He will hum the busy signal on the MEIrose and MIDway exchanges every day except Sunday.

"I," said Dr. Ingabit, asked to comment on his new office, "feel! 'That,' he amplified, 'at last I belong. This is it."

"Ah," he rhapsodized, "hum, sweet hum!"

Robbers Steal Many Things

Thieves last night ransacked the home of Professor D. Generate of the Department of Applied Poultries and made off with everything but the kitchen sink.

"This kitchen sink," the thieves wrote in a note they pinned to the trap in a trapdoor in the kitchen where they made their clean getaway "is in utterly deplorable condition. Have you never heard of Drano?"

Queried by The Varsity as to whether he had ever heard of Drano, the professor replied in fluent French: "Oui."

—EROS

Oh Nasty!

Whitney Sees One-Ring Bout

Whitney Hall last week saw the climax of four months of growing tension as war broke out between the factions of the "Haves" and the "Have-Nots" in this little known residence. The spark igniting the conflagration was Hairy-Moe Late's new engagement ring—looted (at long last) from Woo Sinner, Varsity editor. This new and enthusiastic addition to their ranks prompted the Haves to open defiance. The Have-Nots retaliated, following an indignant war dance in the Cody House laundry, and the battle was on.

Room-mate turned against room-mate as the corridors were heaped with scratched and bleeding dead. Miss M. B. Gerfuson, B.A., moved rapidly among the corpses counting gleefully on her fingers the prospective vacancies in the overcrowded Hall. Capacities of Miss Spark's C.R.C.C. were taxed by the casualties inflicted by the fiercely wielded "rocks" of the Haves. However the battering-ram attack of the well-organized Have-Nots soon regained the lost ground and to the strains of "Solidarity Forever" their ranks advanced to victory over their glittering opponents. Notwithstanding, the carnage might have continued further had not ten-fifteen signalled the beginning of NOISY HOUR at which time Whitney Hall girls traditionally retire for a few quick rounds of Chox and crackers-and-cheese and refined conversation.

"Hae est pugna Whitney!"—There is divided opinion among informed circles as to whether the matter is settled once and for all or whether Whitney Hall girls will decide in favour of rings on the fingers instead of rings on the bath-tubs.

—BATHLESS.

Like being looked at? Then bring on this "backed-bowed" derby of fur felt. It might remind you of your Dad's, but it's yours when trimmed with soft veiling, and a big, lush, satin bowl! 7.98

Simpson's

FASHION FLOOR—THE THIRD

TRINITY COLLEGE FRENCH CLUB

Presents

La POUDRE AUX YEUX

By

LABICHE and MARTIN

on THURSDAY and FRIDAY
 FEBRUARY 7th. and 8th.

at ST. HILDA'S

8.15 P.M.

ADMISSION - 25c

Come! Bring Your Friends

Hart House Bulletin Board

Midday Sing Song

There will be a sing song in the east common room at 1.30 p.m. today.

Friday Afternoon Recital

André Asselin, pianist, will give a recital in the music room of Hart House at 5 p.m. today. Members of Hart House are invited.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 73 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Friday, February 1, 1946

Presto! Crescendo! Fortissimo!

This commanding pose is struck by Hanus Gruber, student conductor of the University Symphony Orchestra, at Wednesday night's rehearsal. Gruber, 21-year-old University College student, will lead the 70-piece symphony through two Convocation Hall concerts on February 20 and 27.

Homer Was First Topic In U.C. Lecture Series

Homer was portrayed as a pioneer of Greek enlightenment, rather than a voice of heroic archaism, by Prof. E. A. Havelock yesterday afternoon, in the first of the U. C. lecture series. Expressing his belief that Homer lived, not as a wandering bard in the pre-literate Mycenaean era, but as a citizen of an urban civilization about 800 B.C., Prof. Havelock described the poet as working with the first Greek alphabet, and infusing reflective values into the primitive sagas. This explains the penetrating psychological power and evidences of conscious artistry seen in Homer's works, marking a great milestone in the history of human culture.

Homer, he claimed, had the opportunity to write down, reflect upon, and publish the poems carried in the memory of the bards. His art was successful in maintaining a consistent tragic mood while operating on one set of mortals in his Iliad, while introducing truly human comedy in his portrayal of the gods, and a domestic background to heroic deeds in this "Olympian Life With Father". Homer manipulates an inherited vernacular and inelastic form in this way, to a "sophisticated" end.

Those who regard the epic poems as primitive lays only, point to the diffuse and repetitive diction, the rigid idiom, set rhythm, and economy of vocabulary as their evidence. The speaker confirmed the presence of these archaic elements, explaining their function as an aid to memory, the only storehouse of this ancient "tribal encyclopedia" recorded in narrative. Thus in the sagas, the limitations of memory acted on the power of invention, and personal genius was submerged in the collective genius of the poets' guild. The material and diction were a quaint amalgam, producing a rambling historical fantasy.

The stamp of early tonic diction, developed as the Greek alphabet spread abroad, and traces of historical events figuring much later than Mycenaean, the speaker asserted, sound a note of an urban civilization, where leisured classes had discarded heroic values, and are touched with irony and profound insight.

The poet shows his skill in refraining from documenting or labelling his characters, the speaker added, revealing them rather by mutual reactions, and subtle illuminations. Helen was cited as an example of Homer's delineation of

(Continued on Page 5)

Loafer Tied Up in Bag The Ubyssy Deduces

It is a fine old Canadian indoor sport, this taking pokes at Toronto, and we would deprive no one of it.

But when potential pokers start scanning even our minutest advertisements looking for pokeable matter, it's too much.

Take The Ubyssy, for instance. The bright, breezy student paper at the University of British Columbia dives into our classifieds and comes up with this one:

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(CUP)—Lazy boyfriends seem to be popular at the University of Toronto, although they are badly mistreated at times.

"This classified ad was recently run in The Varsity, U. of T.'s student paper:

"Lost: In room 101, Zoology Bldg., Mon., 11 a.m., paper bag containing 2 new pairs of lady's rubbers and one loafer. Please leave at least the loafer at S.A.C. Office."

Badly mistreated, indeed! For shame, Ubyssy!

Recreation House To Be Built Soon

Vancouver, Jan. 24.—(CUP)—Harry Miller, treasurer of the Student Council at U.B.C., announced the planned erection of a recreation building to be financed by a student loan made through an addition to the undergraduate fee.

"The Student Council plans to float a bond issue to finance the expansion," Miller declared. "We would be able to float a loan of at least $100,000, and probably could make one of up to $150,000."

The committee working on the plans for construction gave first priority for extension in the construction of a cabaret style dance floor, an amphitheater to accommodate 250 people, a salon, and 16 clubrooms.

Annual Evening Of Color Photos

Members of Hart House are invited to submit coloured slides and movies in the Annual Evening of Colour Photography which will be held in the Music Room of Hart House at 7.45 p.m. on Tuesday 26th February. Only 35 M.M. slides and 16 M.M. movies will be accepted.

The submitted work is to be left at the Hall Porter's desk by 6 p.m. on Tuesday 19th February.

Symphony Rehearsal Is Variety Program

By John McRae

Variety is the word for a rehearsal of the University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra. Everything, from wandering dogs to improvisations in the pitch darkness, enter into the rehearsals. Yet, in the words of Hans Gruber the conductor, "they struggle on" and gradually a real symphony orchestra is taking shape. There is the spirit of friendly co-operation between all the members and the conductor which makes for a truly successful orchestra.

Last Wednesday night merely the guiding lights of the orchestra were present at the rehearsal in Convocation Hall. About thirty of an orchestra of approximately seventy musicians were there to rehearse the more difficult parts on the programme. Proceedings are conducted on an informal basis and apparently all types of visitors are allowed to attend. When the rehearsing began, a little brown dog of questionable parentage and dubious vintage was an interested spectator. He circled slowly through the orchestra, ignoring the blasts from the trombones and walls of the flutes. When he had inspected each and every member he left for parts unknown and life went on, undisturbed.

The actual mechanics of conducting is a very painstaking business. Each phrase is repeated again and again until it satisfies Mr. Gruber. The passage can't be too slow or too fast, too loud or too soft. It must be right. Mr. Gruber is delighted with the way his orchestra helps him.

"If they don't play right, they know it," said Mr. Gruber, "and co-operate marvellously. We all work together. When a problem comes up, we solve it collectively."

The orchestra started rehearsing early in December, and now it is complete in every detail. All the instruments needed are there and all the pieces played will be just as the composer wrote them. There will be no transcribing or rearranging to suit the orchestra. George Amburst, head-librarian and staff organist, Jean McMillan, personnel manager, and Elaine Fricker, librarian, form a committee without which the orchestra could not function. They have organized the practical end of things so efficiently that the conductor can carry on without any trouble at all.

BLACKOUT

Tonight all was going well. During an impassioned moment the conductor had thrown his baton high in the air; the orchestra entering into the spirit of things were throwing their all into the music. Harmony was pouring forth, when suddenly the lights went out. Harmony continued to pour for a little while, then gradually it turned to a trickle and petered out.

Silence. A woman remarked tartly that she knew this would happen and people began to talk. The whole of Convocation Hall was in pitch darkness with the only light coming in a ghostly glow from the glass dome of the Hall. Soon, however, the effervescent orchestra became bored.

This was another opportunity to tune up. This orchestra loves to tune up. They seize every moment to do it and this was too good a

(Continued on Page 7)

Porter Bob Feted At Trinity

A check, a writing set, a resolution and the cheers and good wishes of the men and women of Trinity College went to Bob yesterday afternoon.

Bob liked the good wishes best. For twenty-five years he has been watching students pass through "the finest arts and theological college in all Canada."

"Some students whose fathers I knew in the old building are students at Trinity today," he recalled.

Bob has been the college head porter for 25 years.

His full name, as many students discovered yesterday for the first time, is Robert G. Robinson. He is married, has a daughter named Rhoda. He became a member of the Trinity staff on January 15, 1921.

Celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary, the men and women of Trinity College feted Bob, Mrs. Bob and Rhoda in the college library yesterday.

T. G. Cossitt, Head of Arts, moved that "the men and women of Trinity express their deepest appreciation at this time for the innumerable and invaluable services Robert has rendered to the various generations of students that have passed through this college since he became a member of the staff on January 15, 1921."

"Be it further resolved that the men and women of Trinity should extend to him at this time their warmest wishes for health and happiness in the years ahead and also the hope that he will long remain with us as the one and only 'Bob', the porter of Trinity College."

The resolution was seconded by Aileen Hughes, Head of St. Hilda's, who said, "Trinity wouldn't be Trinity without Robert. He even reminds us when lectures are about to start." Miss Hughes gave Bob a writing set on behalf of St. Hilda's girls.

Presenting Bob with a check for $500 signed by Bursar Strathairn and Provost Seeley "as a tangible evidence of the affection of the present undergraduates," Al Thompson, Head of College, paid tribute to Bob's peace-making prowess: "He even settles disputes with the Provost."

Mrs. Robinson and Rhoda received flowers from Catherine Bliss, Head of St. Hilda's Lit. and Pat Paterson, Head of the Athletic Ex-

Speaks Today

MARGARET FAIRLEY

who will address an open Educational Forum of the L.F.P. Club at Wymliwood at 4 p.m. today, is a well known Canadian Authoress whose most recent anthology "The Spirit of Canadian Democracy" was chosen as the January Selection of the Book & Union. The topic, with which she is well acquainted, is "Communism and Culture in Canada." All students are invited to hear Mrs. Fairley and bring their questions and criticisms to the discussion period.

Palestine Views Urgent Topic

The Palestine question has aroused great interest in all the daily papers and weekly magazines. Student opinion on the campus is largely divided over the issue. In order to present the problem to the student as fairly as possible, the International Affairs Society have obtained two speakers who are both well versed on the subject: Mr. A. J. Saloum has visited nearly every village in Palestine and Mr. Max Rosenfeld is in close touch with correspondents in Washington and Palestine. Both speakers will give a half hour talk and then the meeting will be thrown open for discussion. Dr. Saunders of the history department will act as chairman. Come to the Women's Union Monday at 4.30 and let us hear your views.

ective. "I've never known a failure among all the students I've seen pass through Trinity," Bob said in reply. "We've had doctors and deans and professors pass through here" (Continued on Page 7)

Vic To Debate Nurnburg Trials

"Too many people have unthinkingly accepted the principles of the Nurnburg trials," said Dorothy Clarke, Prime Minister of the Victoria College Debating Parliament.

"The enforcement of the principles is a fundamental step towards the achievement of world order," countered Leader of the Opposition Stefan Stykolt.

They were discussing Monday night's session of the Parliament when the motion "resolved that this House condemns the Nurnburg trials as undisguised hypocrisy" is put before the House.

Helen Stauffer and Harvie Hay will support the government and will be opposed by Rowena Smith and Torchy Coatsworth.

A slightly modified form of the same resolution was debated last week by the St. Michael's College Senate Club and the principle behind the trials was upheld by a vote of 46-29.

The debate will be held Monday night at 8 p.m. in Alumni Hall.

McGill Politicos Want Stable Wages

Montreal, Jan. 30.—(CUP)—The Labor-Progressive and the C.C.F. will offer amendments to the proposed Progressive-Conservative Party's bill in providing for specific standards of wages and working conditions. Both the C.C.F. and L.P.P. clubs at McGill proposed amendments, including a clause to the effect that nothing in the code would in any way restrict the right of the employees to strike.

The L.P.P. club wants some assurance that provisions for collective bargaining will be carried out, preventing employers from "setting up company unions" and providing penalties for breaches of provisions of the Labor Code. The C.C.F. takes issue with the lack of specific guarantees of trade union rights and conditions of work in the Government Bill. It particularly objects to the suggestion in the original bill that government supervision of Union elections is necessary to insure democratic procedure within the union.

Skule-Girl D. Ellis Is A Systematic Sleeper; Two-Hour Gain Daily Gives Year Extra Month

By Syd Love

"By sleeping in two-hour stretches, I have more time to live in," says Miss Dormer Ellis, who is the only girl in a class of engineers. "By dividing my sleep up, I need only six hours sleep instead of eight, and so save two hours a day or 30.42 days per year," she said as she put her slide rule back into its case.

Dormer is in III year Engineering Physics at S.P.S. and leads a very busy life. Besides her regular studies, which would be more than enough for most people, she tutors ten hours a week in High School subjects to earn her tuition. She studies Spanish also, because she is planning on a bicycle trip to Mexico with her companion, Beverly Meredith who is in III Electrical Engineering.

Having travelled both east and west by bicycle, she is writing a collection of anecdotes on her experiences. She modestly admits she does a good deal of crossing out and rewriting.

"I go to bed after supper and sleep for two hours," said Dormer. "Then I get up and write my lab report which is usually due the next day. I certainly detest those lab reports. One disadvantage of my schedule is that I can't phone my lab reports to compare results because most people are sleeping when I finish my report. I sleep two more hours from 12 to two and then read, write letters or even study a little, depending on the proximity of the examinations.

"Sub-Conscious" Alarm

"Naturally I can't use an alarm clock to wake up because of the family, so I tell my sub-conscious mind to wake me in two hours. It's really very easy and I have never failed to get up on time yet. From five to seven a.m. I visit slumber-land again and then dash madly around the house to get to school on time."

When asked what she thought of her system, she said: "It is psychologically sound, because if you look at a sleeping chart you will notice that the deepest sleep is obtained in the first two hours. If I go out for the evening I miss my first sleep and get very tired early in the evening. However when other people are getting tired, I am just getting my second wind. In spite of these disadvantages, the time saved makes it all very worth while."

Dormer is not going to be an engineer who settles down to earn a share of the earth's wealth. She intends to take short jobs and travel about the world, leading the life of an adventurer.

GOOD FOR YOU that's HONEY DEW

Whether it's a full-course meal or a hurried snack, it sets you up at Honey Dew.

Take Lunch

At Honey Dew the refreshing, zesty goodness of every dish gives you a fresh start for the afternoon and a pleasant memory that will bring you back tomorrow.

HONEY DEW
COFFEE SHOPS

Canadian Campus

University students find a pack cards the cure for any dull moment. Canadian campus reports indicate this week. In the evenings and at lunch hours and occasionally even in labs and classes, bridge, poker, and gin rummy flourish and it's a studious soul indeed who at the end of four years is not an addict of at least one of these extracurricular activities.

Bridge is the most popular card game at McGill. It is played unceasingly through the day in the smoky atmosphere of the Union cafeterias. The monopoly on the tables at lunch hour which bridge players previously held was this year broken when players were ordered to court their luck elsewhere during the noon hour. Nearly all students play the game and the majority belong to a club of some kind. Most of them are working for the day when they can join the Duplicate Bridge club—an aloof society which permits membership only to experts. The McGill Daily periodically publishes problems for friends and also occasionally play by play descriptions of spectacular bids that have been made during tournaments or competitions.

Bishop's University also considers bridge the leading card game. It is played at all hours of the day and night and interest is widespread. Observers there, however, have noticed of late a distinct rise in the popularity of gin rummy.

The West as represented by the University of Saskatchewan holds out for poker. Sinister mumblings about all night games are often heard in classes.

The University of Montreal also reports that bridge and poker are popular ways of killing time. As yet there the University does not have a complete campus so there is no room for general get-togethers. However, bridge games can usually be found going on in any available space.

Again at Queen's bridge is the outstanding card game. Poker takes next place. Students play at meal times in the evenings and at the students' union and in the residences.

Bridge and gin rummy are the favourites at the University of Toronto. Active games of both are reported to take place in the back rows of lecture rooms.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762

(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)

OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING

Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Gymnastic Show At "A" Night

On Saturday night, the senior interfaculty gym competition will be one of the many features of the evening. The results are to be judged on both team and individual basis.

Judges for the meet are all outstanding men in the field. Chief judge will be Robert Bonney former Olympics representative. The remaining staff of three are, Jack McLoud, ex-champion of Canada, Stu MacDonald, three times intercollegiate champ, and Wilson Mark, strong arm man who put on last Saturday's exhibition on the horizontal bar.

Only two faculties have complete teams, P.H.E. (Laxton, Geary, Johnston) and S.P.S. (Curtes, Kaupman, Dalrymple). Meds have two entries, Humphrey and Marsh, and U.C. have produced Phippen and McLaren. If these two faculties wish to compete as teams, they must produce one more man apiece before noon today.

Each man must show his prowess on four pieces of apparatus, namely, high bar, parallel bar, horse, and mats. Points are awarded on four considerations, general approach, difficulty of the movement, variety of the movement, and continuity and combination.

Now you know all the ins and outs of a gym meet, so don't fail to see this event tomorrow night.

Foreign Students Aided By Vassar

Vassar, Jan. 17.—(Exchange)—Jack Smith, the crooner voted the most promising radio personality of the year, is to be the featured artist at the Vassar College Ball. The dance is to raise money for foreign students' courses at the college.

To further swell the collection, flowers will be sold and pictures taken. A cocktail party is also being planned before the ball.

Ernest Eagle Shows you how:

He holds the test pencil at average writing angle . . . bears down . . . and reads on the dial the pressure at which the point snaps.

Every MIRADO point is far stronger than your normal writing pressure.

Make Your own Test! You'll find MIRADO smoother, stronger and longer-lasting, too . . . the finest writing pencil you've ever used, or your money back!

5c each, less in quantities

EAGLE "Chemi-Sealed" (SUPER BONDED) MIRADO PENCILS

$1,600 in ESSAY PRIZES for University Undergraduates

In conjunction with its supplements on the Atomic Age, The Standard is running a nation-wide essay competition with special prizes for undergraduates of recognized Canadian universities. (The university must be a member of the National Conference of Canadian Universities).

Topic of the essay is:

"How should we build a World government in the Atomic Age?"

Prizes: First Prize . . . $1,000.
Second Prize 250.
Third Prize 100.
And ten prizes of $25 each.

Your essay must not exceed 1,500 words. Essays may be written in English or French and they should be typewritten, double-spaced, on one side of the paper only. If a typewriter is unavailable, the essay should be written legibly in ink, also on one side of the paper only. Number your sheets.

If you want us to return your essay, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. No correspondence can be entered into regarding the contest, and the judges' decision is final.

The essay which wins first prize will be published in The Standard, and The Standard reserves the right to publish any other prize-winning essay.

The contest closes April 13, 1946, and all entries must bear a postmark not later than that date.

Your essay will be judged mainly as to the ideas presented, their originality, simplicity and logic of presentation, and the readability of the essay. You must emphasize constructive ideas for the present situation. TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE IS NOT NECESSARY.

Write your name, address and the number (2) on your essay and send it to:

Contest Judges,
The Standard,
P.O. Box 2700,
Place d'Armes,
Montreal.

5 GOOD SENSES — Senses, That Is

(Thank You, Senator Claghorn)

HEARING Sonny Dunham at the Arts Ball

SEEING the handmade clothes at Louis Cohen's

TASTING the delicacies of chicken chow mein

FEELING the imported woolens at Louis Cohen's

SMELLING the Great Hall kitchen

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE at College RA 8995-6

Open nine to nine. Saturdays until six.

Three to four week service. (Sooner if you prod us.)

TEXT BOOKS and SUPPLIES FOR ALL COURSES

Save Money on Your Text Books

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 10 P.M.

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE (One Block South of Bloor) RA. 1148

The Standard

Disc - ussions

'Let us put good wax in your ear', That's Waxy's slogan. We took him up on it and wandered over yesterday. We mentioned that a jazz column was starting in The Varsity, and wanted to review some records for same.

He handed us a Vaughn Monroe record, You May Not Love Me and Just My Luck. Both sides aptly expressed our feelings. However just to humor the man we twisted it. Strangely we found a good alto sax opening and closing the 'Luck' side. On the flipover Monroe tries to sound like the old Glenn Miller band. So What? Vaughn sings both sides. Again—so what?

We walked back, and Waxy seeing the disgusted look on our countenance, handed us a Benny Carter disc. This is getting better. Benny plays superb alto on Malibu in front of some gorgeous sax figures. Somebody plays a trombone like Herman's Bill Harris—and that's good. On the other side Benny switches to trumpet and rides I Surrender Dear at an up tempo. Carter may not be the best trumpeter in the business but he makes his solos interesting which is more than a good many other trumpeters do. Surrender is nearly all jump pace and is one of the best big band renditions we've heard on wax.

Under the Capitol Label
This record is on Capitol and the Harbord purveyor is about the only place in town you can get 'em.

Likewise on Capitol is the King Cole Trio's version of I Thought You Ought To Know and I'm a Shy Guy. Oscar Moore steals the spotlight on both sides with his short guitar work. Give it a listen and you'll see why he's king of the box in the Down Beat poll.

King Cole weaves the intimate lyrics in among some piano chords effectively, but the cuteness wears thin on the 'Shy' side. The Trio does more for the tunes than vice versa.

And then, and then, and then, we got a hold of Herman's latest output, Love Me and I've Got The World On a String. Big band jazz at its best. Unusual arrangements, excellent solos, faultless execution. Martha Wayne sings Love Me like she means it. Flip Philips takes the side out to the unusual, typically Herman coda.

Woody sings the reverse with the wonderful tram section doing the fill-ins. Philips tenors again, Woodrow clarinets a short chorus, and the rhythm drives madly all the way. It may not be as frantic as some Herman records but it's still away above most bands' efforts. And some people still like Sammy Kaye! Yipe! The Liltin' Tiltin'

And then Martha Tilton came on with I Should Care and Stranger In Town. Eddie Miller is also mentioned on the label. He plays about eight bars, and they're corny. He's a wonderful tenor man. Why doesn't he show it? Martha's singing is uninspired. The disc is a complete disappointment.

Johnny Mercer sings If I Knew Then and Personality with the Pied Pipers. Paul Weston contributes excellent backing with plenty of drive.

'Personality' is the one to give a listen to. The tune suits Mercer perfectly. He puts all the laughs possible into the intriguing lyrics. Twist it and grab a laugh. This one: Count's

With this inspiration we went back and nudged Waxy. The nauseated look had been replaced by a somewhat rapt glazed look, he noticed. So he gently manoeuvred another pile of records into our lap. Ah, a Basie number. Waxy catches on fast. Queer Street has a definitely queer intro. It sounds like the opening of a Paramount newsreel. It moves into typical Count pianistics with much the same solos he's been using for years. Harry Edison robs the Count of the honors with his driving trumpet chorus. Jivin' Joe Jackson on the reverse is strictly for the jitterbugs. Ann Moore sings it with a better than average voice. But not much better. The disc is a trifle disappointing for Basie.

Jan's Wax Quota

Gene Krupa must have left his drums at home when he made the coupling Are These Really Mine and Harriet. The beat is horrible. But the punchy brass helps and then there's Anita O'Day. She's the lady 'Handy with the lariat' on Harriet. Twirl it and find out why she's respected as one of the best white vocalists in the business. Buddy Stewart sings the other side which sounds like a rewrite job on the words of There Are Such Things, and These Things You Left Me.

Years ago, when Jimmy Middleton and Dave Tough played bass and drums respectively for Charlie Spivak, the band had a good rhythm section. It hasn't had a decent one since. It rides a little better on You Can Cry On Somebody Else's Shoulder, though. Charlie is back behind his mute in the solo. WHY? The other side, Bells of St. Mary's, has a novel bell-like intro. It's uninteresting from there.

As we were running out the door Waxy caught us and made us listen to Harry James' version I'm Always Chasing Rainbows and Baby What You Do To Me. Buddy DeVito chases the rainbows and Kitty Kallen warbles the other side. Mr. Freedman should review this opus. It sounds like a symphony. If you try dancing to it you'll probably waltz through the first half before realizing its in 4/4 time.

—HANK WESTCOTT

London—Western plans to elect a Queen of their annual Arts-Science Ball to be held on March 1. Western and Brescia girls are eligible for election, and the winning beauty will be crowned campus Queen at intermission.

London—One hundred and forty veterans enrolled at Western in the middle of January in a course lasting until August, were officially welcomed this week by prefect John Haynes, as new members of the student body.

Homer Was First

(Continued from Page 3)

character, in scattered, yet consistent contexts, supplementing each other and "marginal" to the master theme. This central movement of man's pride of power as opposed to his mortality, was not enlarged upon by the speaker, who examined rather a "few marginal samplings where the cloth Homer wove" might be more lucidly exposed, and his full resources and capacities realized.

Logic, Reason Prove Truths

"You cannot prove the existence of fact by logic only," said Professor C. W. Leslie, at Victoria College's Pass Arts Club on Wednesday evening, in Wymilwood.

Professor Leslie compared reason, truth, rationalization, and propaganda. Of reason, Professor Leslie said: "Since people are wont to believe verbatim the doctrines outlined by so-called authoritative persons, it is necessary to examine reasonably the assumptions which form the basis of the doctrine. Before any doctrine can be accepted, its reasoning should be checked in four different ways.

"Firstly, it should be linguistically clear; secondly, it must be logically valid in its inference, inductions, and deductions. Thirdly, is it an accurate representation of the known relevant facts? And lastly, is it morally justified in relation to contemporary social factors?"

"To escape from the dilemma of not knowing what to believe, we must believe only those things that we can show to be the truth."

The address was followed by an informal discussion.

DONALD FLEMING

"WHAT THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY STANDS FOR"

OPEN MEETING

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CLUB

4.00 P.M.

WOMEN'S UNION WED. FEB. 6th.

University of Toronto

Drama Festival

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE —

"Hands Across The Sea"

—NOEL COWARD

VICTORIA COLLEGE —

"Riders To The Sea"

—JOHN SYNGE

TRINITY COLLEGE —

"Family Album"

—NOEL COWARD

DATE: February Twelfth

PLACE: U.T.S. Auditorium

PRICE: Fifty Cents

SPONSORED BY ST. MICHAEL'S, TRINITY, VIC., U.C.

New for Today —for Tomorrow

New suits for TODAY to wear under your topcoat and brighten your Winter wardrobe — for TOMORROW to step gaily forth and greet the Spring days just around the corner.

These fine wool two-piece suits with their precision of line, attention to detail and up-to-the-minute styling come in a sparkling array of materials and colours.

Jackets may have V-notched lapel collars, cardigan necklines or the new casual one-button closing. Skirts are softly flared or trimly tailored with knife-edge pleats back and front. Sizes 14 to 20.

$11.95 to $19.95

Sorry—No Mail Orders

Evangeline

- 113 Yonge at Adelaide
- 751 Yonge at Bloor
- 1458 Yonge at St. Clair
- 3414 Yonge at City Limits
- 444 Eglinton W. at Castleknock
- 656 Danforth at Pape
- In Hamilton—King and John Sts.

Speaking OF SPORT

By Al Cringan

TOMORROW'S THE NIGHT

Doing a bit of ghost-writing, we'll try to tell you all about the big doings at tomorrow night's big "A" Nite, with nothing more than jottings on a frayed piece of tissue paper to go on.

The festivities get under way at precisely 7:00 P.M., in a double-barreled manner, when the Varsity Women's Basketball squad plays host to H.M.C.S. Bytown of Ottawa in the Upper Gym, while Ajax and the Varsity Senior A'S engage in another hoop match in the main gym.

Following the Wrens-Varsity cage match upstairs, at eight o'clock, Charlie Zwygard's gymnasts take over, in the Senior Interfaculty Gym Meet, a newer and larger edition of last week's half-time exhibition.

ALBION, VARSITY IN FEATURE ATTRACTION

Next on the list, gates, comes the big basketball game of the night—it's in the big gym as usual, and the guests of the Blues are the much-vaunted Britons from Albion College. The Albion crew boasts four lettermen of pre-service days, and promises a good fight from start to finish.

Filling in at half-time for the hoop audience, Hec Phillips will take the limelight with a picked gang of Varsity tracksters. Fleet-footed fellahs will run off relays and the mile event on the upstairs track, while on the floor of the main gym, the high-jumpers will display their goods. There'll be no reports of strained necks from the gallery crowd, for from all current reports, high-jumpers Jackes and Kerr will pretty nearly reach the gallery in stride.

Concurrent with the goings-on up above, the scheduled aquatic events in the pool are two—both water-polo matches, with four interfaculty teams competing.

When lusty "Torontos" signal the end of the feature basketball attraction, then those who came for the dancing end of the evening will be in their element.

DANCING, FUN-STUFF, 'TIL MIDNIGHT

As is usual, the Big Gym is reserved for round dancing, and an entertaining program of in-between stunts is planned. In the Upper Gym, a regular old-time square-dance will be held for those who still feel energetic enough.

After a square or two, we'd suggest you look into the "Leisure Lobby", better known as the Fencing Room, but remodelled in the inimitable Vic and Emmanuel manner.

In the Wrestling Room, there will be an Arts and Crafts Display. Here's an opportunity for everyone attending to participate in the making of pottery, in the craft of leathework, and to take a glimpse into the art of fine painting.

Scarlet and Gold will be the motif for the night—reminding you that Vic and Emmanuel are the genial Hosts. Ted Christie and Walt Tong have shared the trouble and time to bring this second Athletic Night to you—and last, but not least, congratulations are in order to Des Gourlie, senior Vicman, who designed the new program, to be presented for the first time tomorrow night.

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

"CRUNCH THOSE BIRDS!"

The atmosphere surrounding the badminton situation has considerably brightened since last heard from. The fans of this sport report that the St. Paul's Church courts are always crowded . . . and last Saturday afternoon a count of rackets fixed the number of players at thirty . . . no less. The co-eds seem to be taking to heart the fact that interfaculty tournaments appear on the agenda very shortly.

P.H.E. has already run off their preliminary matches . . . the top four have been picked . . . Lois Logan, Joan Bailey, Beth Thomas and Helen Sheppard are all excellent badminton-bird-chasers . . . the other faculties will have to produce speedy and artful racket-wielders indeed to keep up to their standard.

The Saints are the next to hold a faculty tournament . . . Sat., Feb. 9, at St. Paul's. The Vic. meet is scheduled for Wed., Feb. 13, and U.C. competitors meet on Feb. 16. No word from St. Mike's. The final intramural meet is to take place on Feb. 23. The finalists of the singles tournament, and the winners of the doubles comprise the team of four to represent the University of Toronto at the intercollegiate meet at Queen's, one week after the finals on the campus.

Janet Hughes, President of the club, has reason to believe that the Blue and White will be stoutly defended . . . St. Hilda's has several stars of the courts, including Pat Patterson, who will proudly uphold the record of their campus re: sports.

THE PREMIERE

Of the intercollegiate women's basketball team comes off this Saturday night when the Varsity team meets the WRENS from Ottawa at the Athletic Night. Mrs. Jean Stevenson, the coach, has a picked team of twelve . . . six from P.H.E. (three of whom will be eliminated after this game), Mary Hicks, Jean Kaufman and Lillian Laakso of U.C., Joan Chalk and Betty Fullerton of Vic., and Rosemary Cunningham of St. Mike's . . . all stars in their own right, needing only a small amount of practice as a team. All in all, the game at 7:00 in the Hart House gym should be well worth attending . . . the debut of the Varsity intercollegiate team, and the appearance of the girls in navy blue from H.M.C.S. Bytown.

Physical Edders Capture Honors Lead in Women's Swimming Teams

By SANDY SMEATON

The swimmers of the faculty of P.H.E. walked off with top honors in the women's interfaculty swimming meet held last night at Hart House. The other teams had a difficult time keeping up to the pace of the Physical Eds., the closest competitor was Vic. with a total of sixteen points, while O.C.E. placed second with eight.

The spectators in the sparsely populated gallery watched Sue Gray, P.H.E., float ahead of Fran Chapman, Vic., and Ellen McNeill of St. Hilda's, in the long plunge. The free style race was the second event, the blue ribbon awarded to Maureen Martin, P.H.E., McKinner of O.C.E. the red, Batton of Vic. the red. Polly Beley of P.H.E. placed first in the breast-stroke race, Barb Hinchcliffe of Vic. second and Margaret Dale of U.C. third. P.H.E. carried the 150 yard medley relay, Vic. and U.C. approaching the finishing line respectively. There was a tie in the 50-yard back stroke race, Diane Low, U.C. and Manser, Vic., sharing top place, Betty Taylor, P.H.E., second. The final racing event was the 100-yard free style relay finishing with P.H.E. in the lead, U.C. a close second, the Saints third.

The style swimming was closely contested, Helen Shaw of O.C.E. awarded three points more than Pat Patterson of St. Hilda's, and four and a half points less went to Sue Gray of P.H.E. The judges decided Maureen Martin, P.H.E. was the evening's champion diver, Lois Lloyd of Meds was second best, and Ann Spencer of U.C. third. The final style event was the ornamental swimming, Barb Hinchcliffe, Vic., placing first, Helen De Jardine, P.H.E. second, April Cohens, P.H.E. third.

This gave the P.H.E. team the lead in six events out of nine, Vic. two, O.C.E. Vic. and U.C. one. The total scores were: P.H.E. 36, Vic. 16, O.C.E. 8, U.C. 7, St. Hilda's 5 and Meds 3. Mike's and O.T. competitors were absent.

The winners of the interfaculty meet are not necessarily now members of the intercollegiate team, but Miss Baxter is assured that any winners of this event stand a fairly good chance of being included if they volunteer to go through a period of training with non-winners.

Bob Lynn of La Grange, Ill., letterman at Albion College in 1941 before going off to the wars for 41 months of service, is a scrappy and expert ball handler for the Britons, appearing in tomorrow night's encounter against the Blues in the Big Gym at Hart House.

Queen's, McGill Await Poloists

By CRAIG CRINGAN

With two inter-collegiate games scheduled for this week-end, the Varsity water polo team is prepared for a climax to the season's competition.

Friday night the Blues will play Queen's in the large university pool at Kingston. According to rumours sifting in via the grape-vine Queen's squad are easy to beat. The winners of the Varsity-

Queen's engagement will go on to Montreal to take on the much-vaunted McGill team. The Redmen, who have always had good swimming and water polo teams are considered very strong this year. In last year's Inter-collegiate telegraphic swimming meet Varsity edged McGill by the narrow margin of 29-27. The team winning Saturday night's game at Montreal will be the 1946 Inter-collegiate champions.

Coach Frank DeMarco feels quite confident about Varsity's chances in the Queen's encounter. As for McGill, well, that will be a game worth watching.

Bailey Blue Boys To Meet People's

The high-riding People's Credit Jeweller's hockey squad tangles with Ace Bailey's Varsity Blues in an exhibition match at Varsity Arena at 8 o'clock tonight.

Currently leading the T.H.L. Major Series, People's will skate onto the ice fresh from a 5-2 win over Maher's on Wednesday evening. Varsity, who have suffered their only loss of the season at the hands of the Jeweller's, will be out for revenge, and to keep their winning streak intact.

Tonight's game will be Varsity's third home appearance of the new year following up last week-end's double thrill with the Michigan Wolverines. It's the last chance for you hockey-conscious guys and gals to see your Blues for some three weeks, for they are on tour for the next two week-ends—at Ann Arbor, Michigan, on the 8th, and 9th, and at West Point, N.Y., the following week-end.

Just remember: the time—8:00 p.m., the place—Varsity Arena, and the price—free.

SKI NOTES

By ED. AXER

A prevalent question on the campus these fine snowy days is, "When is the ski club going to have its next meeting?" So we'll tell you, that is we will. The next congregation of snow worshippers will accumulate this Sunday morning in front of Hart House. Then they will embus for the club's property and chalet at Glendale. And that's the story of the next meeting. Last Sunday there were in attendance three bus-loads of members. So guys and gals, get in on the fun. Get your ticket from the athletic office and c'mon along.

There is a good solid base on most of the favourite hills throughout the province. Another inch or so of powder snow and conditions ought to be just about perfect. Now that we are into the month of February, "old sol" will be putting in a more frequent appearance. A combination of snow and sun is what makes skiing really enjoyable and this is the time of year to capitalize on such conditions.

Tomorrow and Sunday will witness the survival of the fittest in the Interfaculty Ski Meet. . . column one, page two can't be the only one to rate those "Dear Sirs." Remember its your club, so we're mighty anxious to hear your comments. . . free instruction is part of the policy and so far three capable men have been on the job. . . the time-honoured call "track" seems to have been currently replaced by "Clo-ee!"

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
1.00 SPS V vs. Wyc	Brownridge, P. Fyfe
6.00 SPS IV vs. Pharm	Smith, J. C. McClelland
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1.00 Dent B vs. St. M. B.	Maxwell
4.00 Sr. SPS vs. Jr. U. C. A	Lye
BASKETBALL MINOR
1.00 I Med vs. IV Aero	Cochrane
4.00 Vic V vs. V Dent	Swins

GAMES SATURDAY

BASKETBALL MAJOR
1.00 Pharm vs. For A	Holman
BASKETBALL MINOR
1.00 Pre-Med B vs. IV Metal	Stone

Interfaculty Ski Meet

All members of Interfaculty Ski Teams requiring transportation, meet at Athletic Office, Saturday, Feb. 2nd at 12:30 SHARP. The bus for competitors leaves at that time.

BUS LEAVES SUNDAY MORNING AT 9.

WRESTLERS - ATTENTION

There will be a meeting of all those interested in wrestling on Friday (today) at 5 p.m. in the Athletic Directorate Room.

ATHLETIC FEE PRIVILEGES

University students are admitted free, on presentation of registration card with athletic portion attached, to all University hockey games.

Varsity Blues vs. Peoples Credit	8 p. m. TONIGHT
Varsity Blues vs. Queen's	8 p. m. Feb. 12
Varsity Blues vs. McGill	8 p. m. Feb. 22
Varsity Blues vs. Univ. of Montreal	8 p. m. Mar. 8
Varsity Intermediates vs. McMaster U.	8 p. m. Feb. 11
Varsity Junior B vs. Richmond Hill	8 p. m. Feb. 8

AJAX VOLLEY BALL SCHEDULE FOR SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2nd.

9.30 a.m. — 10.15 a.m.	722 vs. 723
10.15 a.m. — 11.00 a.m.	726 vs. 727 Team A
11.00 a.m. — 11.45 a.m.	730 vs. 731 Team A
11.45 a.m. — 12.30 p.m.	727 vs. 728 Team B
12.30 p.m. — 1.15 p.m.	734 vs. 736 Team B
1.15 p.m. — 2.00 p.m.	737 vs. 738 Team A
2.00 p.m. — 2.45 p.m.	728 vs. 729 Team A
2.45 p.m. — 3.30 p.m.	732 vs. 733
3.30 p.m. — 4.15 p.m.	731 Team B vs. 736 Team B
4.15 p.m. — 5.00 p.m.	724 vs. 725

50,000,000 CAN'T BE WRONG

LEARN EXPERT BRIDGE NOW AT THE BURK ACADEMY OF BRIDGENEW CLASSES NOW FORMING Expert Instruction — Reasonable RatesPHONE EL. 3669 FOR OUR FREE BRIDGE FOLDER Make Your Bridge a Social AssetUNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
FULL ORCHESTRA REHEARSAL

Except Trombones

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2nd. 2p.m.WOMEN'S UNION THEATRE
19 ST. GEORGE STREET

How right they were when they said Picobac was every man's tobacco — its so cool and mild!

Picobac
THE PICK OF TOBACCO

BE SMART—LOOK SMART
USE
BRYLCREEM

THE PERFECT HAIR DRESSING

● Applied every morning, BRYLCREEM will keep your hair looking smart and well-groomed all day long. The natural oils in BRYLCREEM overcome dandruff and dry scalp, give the hair a healthy, natural lustre without that greasy appearance. All druggists sell BRYLCREEM in the handy, convenient tube. Buy today.

NO GUM · NO SOAP · NO ALCOHOL · NO STARCH

LPP Club Open ForumMARGARET FAIRLEY

CANADIAN AUTHORESS

"Spirit of Canadian Democracy"

COMMUNISM and CULTURE in CANADA

WYMILWOOD 4:00 P.M. FRI., FEB 1

Bring Your Questions and Criticisms

LISTEN TO

"Canada in the Modern World"

by Professor Bertie Wilkinson, M.A., Ph.D.

Dept. of History, University of Toronto

CFRB — Every Sunday — 2:15 p.m.

Copies of Talks available on request

Sponsored on behalf of the Optical Profession by

IMPERIAL OPTICAL COMPANY

Pioneer Canadian Optical Manufacturers

Porter Bob

(Continued from Page 3)

and they have all been successes." A part-time Cupid, Bob said he was always glad to see Trinity boys come back to be married in the college chapel, though he prefers them to marry old St. Hildians.

"Patronize Home Industry", he admonished.

Old students, he said, frequently come back to him with their problems.

"I remember one who came back to see me when he and his wife had had a tiff.

"Don't worry about that," I told him, "Everyone has tiffs. It's the making-up that's grand."

His final words expressed gratitude to the student body for his assistance during the years of war.

"After all, he concluded, "life's an arduous business when one's past thirty-five."

Varied Program

(Continued from Page 3)

time to ignore. They began to tune up. The trumpet and trombone section broke into rhythmic jazz and the walls of the darkened Hall rocked with a confusion of sound too awful to describe.

Fortunately for the nerves of the conductor this did not last long, the lights came on, and with the remark that they had had their intermission he continued the rehearsal.

This year the University Symphony orchestra will give two performances instead of one, as has been the custom in previous years. It is believed that the interest shown last year warrants this. With the last performance the orchestra will not break up entirely. A nucleus of its members will continue to meet at as regular intervals as possible so that it can be started sooner and easier again next year.

"We have a fairly good turnout," he said, "with the vast majority of the orchestra, Varsity students. There are only a few members from the Conservatory. Still we could have 100% Varsity representation if everyone offered his services. I know of many with ability who have not come. Perhaps the pressure of work is too great, but after all we have studies too. However it is better this year than ever before. We have a very faithful bunch, always here and very co-operative."

Hart House Recital

Andre Asselin, pianist, will give a recital in the music room of Hart House at 5 p.m. today. Mr. Asselin, winner of the Underwood Scholarship, came from Montreal to Toronto to study with Mr. Ernest Seitz. He was heard over the C.B.C. on 9th January in "Concert Artists of Tomorrow." His programme will be as follows:

- I—
Sonata, No. 10, in B flat major Mozart
Andante and Variations
Haydn
II—
Fairy Tale, Opus 26, No. 1
Nicolas Medtner
Leyenda
III—
Waltz in E minor
Nocturne, Opus 27, No. 2
1st Ballade, G minor
Chopin.

Editorial EncoresThe Japanese-Canadians

Below are excerpts from an editorial written especially for the Queen's Journal by Charles Wasserman, President of the Canadian University Press and Editor-in-Chief of the McGill Daily. Mr. Wasserman was in Kingston two weeks ago for the regional CUP conference, which, among other things, passed a resolution protesting the Government's policy of deporting Canadian-born Japanese.

A number of Canadian University publications have devoted a good deal of time and space to publicizing the Canadian Government's plan to deport Canadians of Japanese origin from this country. Without exception editorial opinion has been in favor of preventing Ottawa authorities from taking a step which is evidently the ardent desire of pressure groups in British Columbia, and which is at the same time in direct opposition to the principles of the United Nations Charter to which Canada has so recently affixed her signature.

The Japanese-Canadians, in particular those born in Canada, have proven themselves to be loyal Canadian citizens. A report by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on this subject supports this statement. Moreover, Japanese immigrants who, during the course of many years have acquired Canadian citizenship by naturalization have not been guilty of a single offence against the Defence of Canada Act during the recent war. Although, at one time there was every indication that the Axis powers would win the war and a show of loyalty to the apparent winners might be expected, RCMP records show no sign of any acts of disloyalty to Canada by Japanese-Canadians.

Yet, there are those who would hide their racial prejudice and fear of economic competition, which are the true motives for their noisy plea for the deportation of these men, women, and children behind a screen of false nationalism and concern for the national "integrity" of this country.

One must readily admit that the Japanese-Canadians, with their lower standard of living, pose a difficult problem to the economic stability of the Canadian West. Japanese-Canadians have always been able to underbid their white competitors in trade and labor dealings. But is this problem to be solved by sacrificing the very principles for which we have just fought six years of war?

Not so very long ago Canadians from Halifax to Vancouver united in a condemnation of the racial intolerance of the Nazis in Germany. "We must go and fight this evil," was the national cry, "for although it can never spring here, we must prevent it from spreading." It can never happen here. No, never.

Then what is Bill 15? What is the clause in this statute which empowers the Governor-General-in-Council to revoke the citizenship of any Canadian if such a move is deemed "advisable?" Those who believe in democratic principles hold that citizenship is an irrevocable right which cannot be nullified under any circumstances unless a clear case of treason can be proved against the citizen involved.

The Japanese-Canadians are no traitors. If the Government wants to be doubly sure of this fact, why does it not institute a tribunal to try all those who appear to be doubtful cases?

As Canadian students, fortunate enough to profit by a university education which can give us an understanding of the legal, historical, social and economic aspects of this problem, and as the young men who will either have to fight the next war or whose sons will die for them, if a sense of national and international fairness and decency cannot prevail in politics, we must take an active interest in this first postwar re-appearance of the old and disastrous symptoms of universal murder. It is up to us to take immediate steps to convince the Government that the young people of this country are not willing to fight another war.

Let us not forget that if we permit intolerance to be our master too long, the next war will be fought with atomic power, and uranium kills the just and the unjust alike. There will be no intolerance left on earth after an atomic war... there will be nobody left on earth to be intolerant.

L.S.U. Non-Frat Men Form Own Social Club

Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Jan. 31.

(Exchange)—Non-fraternity and non-sorority students at Louisiana State University have created a new fraternal and social organization called "Fraternity." The organization has been planned for a long time by some of these students but for a long time nothing was done about it.

When the students did organize they obtained a charter, formed three committees, arranged their first project, and hired a new campus swing band within three weeks.

George Black, president of Fraternity, said that the organization's plans for the second term include an all-campus masquerade, parties, musicales and any other form of entertainment that meets with the approval of the members and the faculty.

LOST

Geometry set lost either in lunch room, Hart House, or Convocation Hall, Wed. Jan. 30th. Please phone MI 2707.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

WANTED

Large sturdy wardrobe trunk. Phone MI 5285, between 6 and 8 p.m.

FOR SALE

Men's tails, excellent condition size 38, KI 5330, evenings.

FOR SALE

Suit of tails, size 38, tall, excellent condition. HU 5394.

TYPING

Experienced legal, medical theses, notes, etc. Picked up and delivered daily, Hart House. Fast, accurate, cheap. AD 3922.

TIPS

'n Tunes for all students. Nightly, 11.05 to 12.00. CKEY.

U.C. SOPH-FROSH BANQUET PICTURES

Will those who have not re-identified the pictures they ordered at the Soph-Frosh Banquet please do so immediately in the U.C. Registrar's Office.

LOST

Black fountain pen, in Catalogue Room, Main Library, on Tuesday, Jan. 29. Please leave at S. A. C. office.

LOST

Blue Waterman's fountain pen, Thursday. Please phone HY 5178. Reward.

FOR SALE

Tuxedo suit, medium build, chest 36, waist 32, inner leg, 30; excellent quality and condition. Complete with shirts and vest, $25. Private, HU 9083.

STAMMERING
Stammering corrected by modern scientific methods. Hospital course booklet gives full information. Write today for FREE test. W. D. Dennison, 543 Jarvis St., Toronto

For Pipe Smokers of Discriminating Taste

GOLDSTEIN'S PERIQUE MIXTURE

The Same Old Formula Since 1883

A high-grade blend of Turkish, Perique, Virginia and Latakia Tobacco, approximating those excellent imported brands made in Scotland and England.

Every user of it is an ardent advocate of its merits.

Its popularity is growing fast. You cannot pay less and get as good; you cannot buy better if you pay more.

For the present it is packed in a heavy waxed bag, in a cardboard container. It keeps in excellent condition.

It is put up in half pounds and sells at $1.50, plus tax; and also in a pocket package containing 1/10 lb. at 30 cents, plus tax.

WM. GOLDSTEIN & CO.

152 YONGE STREET
Toronto52 SPARKS STREET
Ottawa

U. N. T. D.

The following U.N.T.D. ratings who have applied for discharge are to report to Ship's Office, 119 St. George Street, as soon as possible re discharge routine:

BALLOU, Henry G.
BRADFORD, James W.
BULL, Frederick G.
CHEESEMAN, Norval L.
COYLE, Francis G.
DEWAN, Wilfred F.
DONER, Robert L.
FINBOW, Stanley T. J.
FORDYCE, George F.
FRASER, Donald A. S.
FREEBERG, James A.
GUEST, Donald E.
HAMLEY, Ernest J.
HENDRICK, Keith G.
HILL, Moffat R.
LENDON, Thomas A.
LOVE, Robert H.
MacDONALD, Donald G.
MacQUARRIE, Douglas R.
McCOMBE, Robert J. J.
McCULLOCH, Murray D.
MEEN, Arthur K.
MILLER, Edward P.
NELSON, Roland E.

The following U.N.T.D. ratings are to report before Thursday, 31st January, to the Ship's Office, 119 St. George Street:

BARCLAY, G. W.
BATE, C. D. S.
BATE, D. L. S.
CASEY, H. C.
HUTCHISON, D. A.
JOHNSTON, W.
MAHONEY, E. F.
McINTYRE, L. B.
NAYLOR, H. K.
PRENDERGAST, J. B.

(Signed)
(D.A.F. Robinson)
Lieut. Cmdr. (SB), RCN(R)
Commanding Officer, U.N.T.D.

DANCING LOVELINESS!

YOU'RE floating along light as a cloud—in a formal dress that's smooth as a waltz! Gaily striped taffeta top is dramatically accented by the slim-as-an-arrow black skirt. There's waistline interest too, in the swish wide band, and blue and black cluster of flowers. Rayon crepe and taffeta in blue and black only. Size 13.

Each 25.00

Main Store—Fourth Floor

T. EATON CO. LIMITED

St. Paul's Anglican Church BLOOR STREET EAST

Rector:
REV. CANON F. H. WILKINSON,
M.A., D.D.
8 a.m.—HOLY COMMUNION
11 a.m.—HOLY COMMUNION
Preacher:
THE RECTOR
Subject: "The Nobler Pride"
Evening Prayer
3 p.m.—BIBLE CLASSES.
7 p.m.—EVENING PRAYER
Preacher:
THE RECTOR
Subject: "The Bankruptcy of Irreligion"
Organist:
Charles Peaker, Mus. D., F.R.C.O.
University Students Welcome at All Services

KNOX CHURCH

Spadina and Harbord

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.
F. SCOTT MACKENZIE
D. Th., D.D.
Professor, Presbyterian College,
Montreal.
8.15 p.m.—Fellowship Hour
MR. JOHN CHESHIRE
Jhansi, India.

Students Specially Invited

Sculpture is Topic At Fine Art Club

Two rising, young Toronto sculptresses, Frances Loring and Florence Wylie, both of whom have had work displayed in the Toronto Art Galleries, will address the Fine Art Club, Monday evening, in the unique surroundings of their Glenrose Avenue home. This novel dwelling, which serves as a combined studio for the two, was formerly a church and has been reconverted into living and working quarters.

Their respective artistic creations will be called into use to illustrate various aspects of their informal talk on "Sculpture", which will prove of considerable interest to all faculty members.

ORGAN RECITALS

The regular organ recitals, given on Tuesday afternoons at five o'clock in Convocation Hall, are to be resumed shortly. The following is a list of the scheduled recitals:

Feb. 12—Eric Rollinson.
Feb. 26—Dr. Willan.
Mar. 12—John J. Weatherseed.
Programs will be announced in later issues of The Varsity.

RECORD HOUR

For Feb. 1

Eachmanoff—Rhapsody for piano and orchestra.
Grieg—Peer Gynt Suite
Haydn—Symphony in D major No. 93.

HOLY BLOSSOM TEMPLE

Bathurst Street At Ava Road

at 11:00 a.m.

RABBI ABRAHAM L. FEINBERG

will speak on
"COMMUNISM, FASCISM, JUDAISM"

Public cordially invited

Free Bus Service from Bathurst and St. Clair every 15 minutes, commencing at 10:40 a.m. until 11:20 a.m., and leaving the Temple at 12:30 p.m. and 12:50 p.m.

RADIO BROADCAST RABBI FEINBERG, CKEY, SUNDAY, 9:45 A.M.

St. Andrew's

KING AND SIMCOE STS.

Minister

Very Rev. Stuart C. Parker,
D.D.

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

DR. PARKER

Students specially invited

BLOOR STREET UNITED CHURCH

Corner Bloor and Huron Streets

11 a.m.
Rev. Preston MacLeod
M. A.
7 p.m.
Rev. Geo. C. Pidgeon
D.D.
Sermon:
'MEMBERS OF CHRIST'S BODY'
6:40 P.M.—ORGAN RECITAL
8:15 P.M.—FRIENDSHIP HOUR.
FREDERICK C. SILVESTER
Organist and Choirmaster

STUDENTS SPECIALLY
WELCOME.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

Huron Street—Just South of Bloor

7 a.m., 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Holy Eucharist
11 a.m.—Junior Congregation.
11 a.m.—CHORAL EUCHARIST
Preacher:
Squadron Leader Rev. D.R.L. Clarke
(Just returned from overseas)
7 p.m.—CHORAL EVENSONG.
Preacher:
Rev. Canon C.J.S. Stuart, M.A.
Cordial Welcome To All University Students.

THE RELIGIOUS SOCIETY OF FRIENDS (QUAKER)

MEETING FOR WORSHIP

on Sunday morning at 11 a.m.

AT THE

Meeting House, 109 Maitland St.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO WORSHIP WITH US.

"Walk cheerfully over the world, answering that of God in everyone."

GEORGE FOX

Westminster Central United

117 Bloor Street East

Sunday Services

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Minister:

Rev. J. Bruce Hunter
D.D., LL.D.Fireside hour at close of Evening Service.

Students Cordially Invited

CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER

AVENUE ROAD & BLOOR

11 a.m.

The Bishop of the Arctic

7 p.m.

Canon R. A. Armstrong

ALL STUDENTS WELCOME

Organist and Choirmaster
OTTO JAMES, A.R.C.O.

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY

Trinity Square

(Off Yonge, 2 below Dundas)

Invites students to join with us in services that combine beauty of worship with progressive Christian action

Regular Sunday services at 8, 9.30, and 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

First Church of Christ, Scientist
St. George St. at Lowther Ave.
Branch of The Mother Church
The First Church of Christ,
Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

SUNDAY SERVICES

11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

11 a.m.

Sunday, February 3rd.
"LOVE"

Wed. Evening Meeting
at 8.00 o'clock

including Testimonies of Healing through Christian Science

Free Public Reading Room where the Bible and Authorized Christian Science Literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

80 Richmond St. West

Art, Music and Drama The Strength of A Nation

...Tucked away in an obscure corner of the second floor of the Royal Ontario Museum, there are at the moment three small galleries devoted to an "Exhibition of Jewish Art and Culture". While they do not contain a great deal of material unfamiliar to regular Museum-goers, being essentially a re-assortment of objects found scattered throughout the permanent collections, with some "flavoring" imported from foreign sources for the occasion, they have nevertheless, as the name suggests, a very considerable cultural interest.

I think the twin feature which appears most clearly throughout the exhibition is on the one hand the remarkable homogeneity of the Jewish people, and on the other hand their equally remarkable capacity to absorb the culture of other lands. For many centuries the Jews, living in the midst of various foreign cultures and often quite an intrinsic part of them, retained through everything their particular characteristics, and although there were undoubtedly numerous individuals who lost their identity and mingled completely with the surrounding population, the body of the Jewish people remained at all times a distinct entity.

We see here how mediaeval Jewish architects in Spain built their synagogues in Moorish style; how in Europe they used Romanesque and Gothic principles, and earlier Roman construction; how the illuminators of Judaism's sacred books followed closely the contemporary Christian manner; how the art of the Jewish colony in China shows the usual blanketing of outside cultures by the Chinese; how in Persia Jewish craftsmen rivalled the exquisitely-fine metalwork of the Persians; and how the awkward, ill-proportioned and yet vigorous figures of German 17th-century woodcuts reappear scratched on Jewish silverplate from that time. Jewish artists who lived in Mohammedan countries found it easy to observe the Second Commandment, since The Prophet had also forbidden images, but in the nominally Christian countries of the Middle Ages and later, amidst a wealth of figurative art, it was a different matter, and we find representations of the human figure appearing quite early in the manuscripts and metalwork of the Western Jews.

Yet, in the very act of noting these marks of absorption of other cultures, we also realize what kept the Jews together and apart from others: it was their religion, that divine monotheistic Law, which kept the Jews distinct in the melting-pot of races that was Palestine in those early periods represented by the Exhibition's cases of pottery and bronzes, as well as in their long exile from it. The centre of this art is religion; the finest creative spirits of Jewry have been employed through the centuries in the creation and embellishment of its synagogues and their contents—the finely-illuminated scrolls of the Torah and the other sacred books, with their cases and crowns, together with all the other accoutrements of ritual and liturgy. Even in such a small exhibit as the present one, the demonstration of the power of religion in a nation's life is driven home with the greatest strength. But to see this you need a little imagination and insight; the authorities apparently didn't overwork themselves to present the exhibition in a lucid way.

—ALAN GOWANS

Thespians Anticipate Inter-Collegiate Series Of Drama Festivals

Inter-university dramatics received added impetus in simultaneous announcements from both Eastern and Western Canada.

Western devotees of the dramatic arts have decided to inaugurate a series of annual drama festivals following the presentation of their first non-competitive attempt at the University of Alberta over the week-end, while Eastern undergraduates are also planning to revive drama festivals between the various universities on the lines of the pre-war Inter-University Drama festival.

The western universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia have decided to promote a permanent series among themselves and annual competitions will be held henceforth. Exchange of ideas and methods of production is also planned for the coming year.

Following an organizational meeting attended at McMaster University by delegates from Toronto, Queen's, McGill and the Ontario Agricultural College, the groundwork for inter-university dramatics was also laid.

Toronto delegates, Vernon Chapman (IV Vic) and Joy Sanderson (II U.C.) state that it is definitely planned to hold the first post-war drama festival in the next school year.

According to Miss Sanderson, the League which died in 1939, held its first meet in that year when Toronto carried off top honors with Eugene O'Neill's "The Rope".

Said Miss Sanderson in an interview with The Varsity: "Delegates from the eastern colleges have now ironed out preliminary difficulties and are ready to start concerted action next fall."

"There is not to be any festival this year because of the lateness of the season, but a skeleton executive has been elected which will carry on next year."

Bill Beggs of the Ontario Agricultural College has been elected president of the executive group, assisted by Mary Hummel, vice-president, a delegate from McGill University which has just gained membership in the group.

Miss Sanderson added that the coming festivals will follow the plan of the pre-war meets when a series of five plays were presented on two successive nights.

"To fill in for this year, however," concluded Miss Sanderson, "the University of Toronto Drama Festival committee has decided to hold a local play night which will be held in the U.T.S. auditorium on Bloor St. on Feb. 12. The four local Arts colleges will participate in this presentation which will give all those concerned in the preservation of dramatics added experience in the matter. Students are in complete charge of production and staging, as well as the actual acting."

HART HOUSE SUNDAY EVENING CONCERT

Pearl Palmason, violinist, will give the Sunday Evening Concert in the Great Hall of Hart House at 9 p.m. on Sunday next, 10th February. Leo Barkin will be at the piano. Representatives of the various colleges and faculties are requested to call at the Warden's office today for their allotments of tickets for this concert.

Expert Gives Lee Collection "Charm"

"Now just picture in your mind a collection of dozen of spoons from the Commonwealth to the Georgian period. How dull! It tires the eyes! Nobody looks at such things and remembers. So I set out a table exactly as it looked in Elizabeth's day. Articles of other periods were grouped in a similar logical way. I tried to put as much feminine charm into it as possible without being extravagant. And that's how I first met Viscount Lee."

Dark-eyed Yvonne Hachenbroch, mediaeval art expert newly arrived from England to catalogue the Lee collection recently presented to Hart House, explained that she was formerly retained by the British Museum, where Viscount Lee became attracted by her original arrangements of mediaeval ivory, metalwork and jewels.

"We became friendly, and Viscount Lee discussed his collection with me. Sometimes he asked my advice about purchases. Then when he decided to send the collection to Canada, he specified that I was to supervise its arrangement," she said. Yvonne, as she hopes to be known in Toronto, first saw the Lee collection shortly before the war, and will soon be unpacking the illuminated manuscripts, antique gold, silver and bronze metalwork and jewelry of which it is comprised. Philadelphia, Washington and Boston museums are to be visited first, however, to study methods on this continent before the actual work of cataloguing and arranging is begun.

This phase of the work may take several months, she said. "I have to write the catalogue and thesis and arrange the exhibits. I don't know how long this will take. As viewed from London, it was most difficult to judge the situation, and I haven't had time to do anything as yet. All I've been doing so far is meeting people, people, and more people."

Presence of the collection in Toronto was announced from London last month, but actually it has been

The Varsity

VOL. LXV—No. 74 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Monday, February 4, 1946

Varsity Blues Avenge Earlier Ice Lacing Down Credit Jewellers

Lyon, Bond To Debate With Cornell

Marie Bond of Victoria and Bill Lyon of St. Michael's will represent Varsity locally at the forthcoming debate with Cornell University next Monday, S.A.C. Debates Commissioner Graham Cotter announced over the week-end.

Gord Stulberg, University College, and Ruth O'Shaughnessy of Loretto College had been previously chosen to go to Ithaca N.Y. as the Toronto team.

The debate to center around the question of unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine, will be held at Toronto and Cornell simultaneously. In each case the home team will take the negative side of the resolution and oppose immigration.

Although the visiting American team is unfamiliar with local debating regulations, which are based upon parliamentary procedure, they have been forwarded copies of the rules of procedure and little difficulty is anticipated by the Debates Committee.

The debate will be held in Strachan Hall, Trinity College with Graham Cotter as speaker.

U. of Manitoba Debaters Go South

Winnipeg, January 29.—(CUP)—Four Manitoba students were sent by the University of Manitoba's Public Relations Committee to debate in Minneapolis and Neepawa Friday night.

John Baker, Law III, and Dave Reece, Arts III took the affirmative of the topic: "resolved that free trade should be established among the nations of the world." Defending the negative of the same topic against Neepawa Collegiate were Joe Mills, Arts IV and Garth Campbell, Commerce III.

Mayor Humphrey of Minneapolis was included among the judges of the American debate.

STUDENT'S ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL (AJAX)

Are now in their permanent offices in Hart House (Ajax) Office hours 1 p.m.—6 p.m. daily.

By Pat Paterson

Varsity Blues gained sweet revenge against People's Credit Jeweller's on Friday night when they defeated the THL leaders 9-7. It was the same People's team which handed the Blues a 7-3 lacing last December for the only defeat suffered by Varsity this year. Ace Bailey's men exhibited too much speed and power however, and overcame the Jeweller's in a convincing fashion, much to the pleasure of the crowd of about 500 fans.

Varsity went ahead in the first two minutes when Ball picked up the puck at centre, passed to Henry at the blueline

Coke-Date Queen Is Poor Choice

It turns out that the judges made a poor choice at the University College Arts Ball in selecting The Girl We Would Most Readily Skip A Lecture To Have a Coke-Date With.

Her Highness-elect Dodie Robinette, vibrant U.C. fresher, refuses in the first place to encourage lecture - skipping. "It's a fatal fad," she explains virtuously.

And there's another reason why 20-year-old Miss Robinette, whose contest trophies include an individually designed evening gown from Eaton's ought not to have been chosen as the campus coke-date queen.

She likes Coffee.

Fleming Approves Of Student Politics

"Young people who take the trouble to study political questions and equip themselves with information are not only helping themselves to be better citizens but are making a positive contribution to their country's welfare," said Mr. Donald M. Fleming when interviewed by The Varsity yesterday.

Member of Parliament for Toronto-Eglinton, Mr. Fleming has been actively interested in civic government for six years and in 1945 was elected to his North Toronto riding. Mr. Fleming will speak at an open meeting of the University of Toronto Progressive-Conservative Club on Wednesday, Feb. 6th, at 4.00 in the Women's Union.

and Henry promptly relayed the disk back to Ball who dented the twine from close in. People's came back strongly when O'Mara scored from Strongman at the three minute mark and fifteen seconds later Farrant put People's ahead 2-1 on a pass from Strongman.

The play in the remainder of the period was very disorganized. Neither team could organize a payoff play until at the sixteen minute mark George Grigor of People's tallied on a clever play to make the score at the end of the period People's 3, Varsity 1.

Blues Defense Slow The second period was five minutes old when Henry scored on a pass from Ball. During the first part of the stanza Varsity threatened on several occasions with Kosick, Bauer and Kryzanowski all coming close only to have their shots deflected or stopped by Goldie in the People's nets.

The Blues defence were guilty of slow clearing in their own end and Strongman made the score 4-2 on a pass from O'Mara. Two minutes later, O'Mara knotted People's fifth goal with Farrant and Junken drawing assists. The Blues defence looked particularly slow on this goal, and seemed unable to cope with the organized attack of the fast stepping Jewellerymen.

Varsity's Blistering Attack

At the midway point of the second period Varsity uncorked a blistering attack which netted them three goals in four minutes. Halder and Henry combined for the first goal and just to make all things fair Halder set Henry up in front of the net for Varsity's fourth counter.

With five minutes left in the period Kryzanowski and Kosick pulled off the best passing play of the evening to put Wally Halder in the clear for the tying goal. Kosick and Kryzanowski just a minute later put Varsity in the lead with Kosick scoring from Kryzanowski, who put on one of the best performances seen this season.

Varsity's lead was short lived however, when Gagnon tied the score on a pass from King with twenty seconds remaining. Varsity fought back strongly in the few remaining seconds and Lawler beat the clock by five seconds to give Varsity a 7-6 lead at the end of the second. The play was much faster in this period and Varsity played heads up hockey except for an early lapse.

More Fast Hockey

The third period produced some of the fastest hockey and heaviest body-checking of the evening. People's scored an early goal which referee Kenny Holmesshaw disallowed because People's had seven men on the ice at the time. After a heated argument the puck was faced off at centre ice.

Bromley gave the fans a thrill when he skirted the defence, drew Goldie out of the People's net and hit the post with his shot. This was the closest call of the game and only Luck kept Bromley from putting Varsity two ahead. Not to be outdone however, Bromley put Dave Bauer in the clear at 7:15 of the period and Varsity seemed to have the game on ice.

More Poor Defense

Dick Ball was called upon to save

(Continued on Page 5)

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University College MI. 5611
Business Office MI. 6221
Night Office MI. 8405

Editor-in-Chief... W. Hugh Kepner, B.A.
Women's Editor... Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor... Wally Belfry, 478
Make-up Editor... Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor... John Rooke, 477
News Editor... George Forster, 477
Assistant... Blanche Stanley, 476
Feature Editor... E. Ross McLean, 476
Assistant... Reg Herman, 476
Sports Editor... Bredin Stapells, 476
Assistant... Don Mason, 476
Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor... Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant... Dorothy Harley, 476
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor... Philip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer... Ralph Jones, 477
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Monday, February 4, 1946

The Role of Radio

This campus can remain mute no longer.

The University of Toronto must receive voice.

It is time to realize that an inevitable acquisition of this University (the largest, we must sheepishly acknowledge, in the British Empire) will be its own radio station.

Radio's role today in the science-shrivelled world in which we live is becoming increasingly important.

A newspaper (yea, two newspapers) can not suffice to serve a student body, so conscious of radio and its essentially complementary relationship to the press.

Overtures made, in zest of public service, to this University's students by Toronto's newest station CHUM provide hope that Varsity's air-bow may be more nigh than a seemingly stagnant public opinion would have indicated.

Why this first year of peace has been allowed to pass without an official proposal for the University students' organized participation in local radio is incomprehensible. While other camps in Canada enthusiastically watched their radio efforts flourish unimpededly, there was stirred to action only one small, zealous fragment of the student body.

This group, whose efforts have only within the past week been given a semblance of co-ordination, has been unable to read of the establishment of an intercollegiate broadcasting network in the United States without envisioning a similar system's ultimate introduction in this country. This group has felt severe, though possibly presumptuous, conscience pangs for the entire University of Toronto in view of its laggardly attitude toward radio.

Busily, this group has compiled information from American universities possessing stations and has communicated with Canadian universities employing either their own radio station studios or the facilities of a local station on a regular broadcast basis.

There seems a strong possibility that with official sanction, which could scarcely be lacking, the University of Toronto may in the not-too-remote future be able to launch a broadcast series.

Thus could this institution's many radio-minded begin the process of pressure that will eventually produce a general recognition of this inescapable fact: sooner or later Varsity must have its own radio station.

That it be sooner is our hope.

E.R.M.

Which Newspaper D'ya Read?

A poll to establish definitely the extent of student awareness of current world happenings would, we feel sure, provide ghastly results.

It is astonishing to discover by casual inquiry and more subtle methods the deplorable disregard which certain members of this (presumably typical) student body hold for happenings in the contemporary world as chronicled with varying degrees of reliability and readability in the daily press.

Somewhat transparent is the popular pose: top heavy timetables permit no regular perusal of the daily newspapers.

Despite inadequate and often far from lucid reports of universal events in the press, it is not too time-devouring a task to maintain close surveillance on such remote proceedings as the present U.N.O. conference.

Dismayingly true it is that too large a number of students choose for assorted reasons to ignore daily developments in any orbit beyond their own cramped field of personal experience. There is acquired, if anything, a haphazardly superficial acquaintance with outer matters.

It is, furthermore, uncanny that more than a few students of political science and economy should enjoy this same incongruous lack of interest and, thus, comprehension of international affairs.

The student trend to live out of the world and to refuse to focus attention on today's news is not, we feel, so widespread as to be a menace.

But it is disturbing and perplexing.

E.R.M.

Finnegans Asleep or Shhhh!

Instalment One

The scene is laid in room twelve in U.C. which is just at the left, or rather the right, of the main entrance as you come in by the rotunda and down the hall to the arrow, if it's still there, which points right to the room, well, not exactly to the room but to a door which will take you there eventually.

Scene is room twelve. Minerva Garifflemeyer sits on an orange crate in the corner of the room. Her feet are propped against the radiator. She is reading The Varsity and absently tugging out her eye-lashes while alternately nibbling at a troublesome hang-nail.

Orlo Kalbfleisch, her class-mate and occasional billiard partner, enters, walking sideways toward her as the sensationalist that he truly is. Orlo: G'mornin' M'nerv, howchad-o? Let's talk about somebody besides me—for a minute.

Minerva: What would you enjoy to discuss, Orlo? I am just reading The Varsity. Would you care to give the Scientific Method a quick once-over?

Orlo: Naw: I got something for you, Minerva, something for you, that is. (Hands her large, unhappily-wrapped parcel.)

Minerva: Oh—but Orlo. (Drops feet from radiator and squirms excitedly as she grapples with the binding cord around the package). But Orlo you shouldn't.

Orlo: It's just a small token of my steam.

Minerva: (Finally opening parcel and peering inside). But it's just what I've always dreamed about.

Orlo (purring): It should go well with your new coat.

Minerva (ecstatically): Oh, it certainly will! It certainly shall!

Orlo: Is it your size?

Minerva: It is. And a perfect match. It will go so, so, so well with the hall wallpaper. Oh, Orlo! Precious Orlo! (That's PRECIOUS Orlo! Curse this typewriter—E.) how thoughtful, benevolent and magnanimous you are.

Orlo: Yeah, I know. I'm kinda generous, too.

Minerva: (Lifting gift from parcel). And coat hangers are so hard to get, besides!

Orlo (uncomfortably): Now, now M'nerv. Stop making a scene about it. You're grateful, so you're grateful. (Noticing tears in her eyes.) Minerva: have you been pulling out your eye-lashes again?

Minerva: Yes.

EROS

Movies

Crawford Come-Back

For a star to defy Hollywood's tyrannical omnipotence by rejecting a proffered part on the preposterous grounds of its imbecility, or some such related characteristic of which screen parts are often guilty, is equivalent to taking the road out of stardom into everlasting-oblivion. Consequently anyone who defies and comes back is regarded with almost as much awe as a performer of a miracle of resurrection. Joan Crawford held out for a suitable part for three years and "Mildred Pierce", currently showing at the Imperial, is her comeback. No doubt Crawford fans will therefore line up to see the show if only to renew an old screen acquaintance. With make-up-man Perc Westmore's expert covering up of the traces of the intervening years, the renewal shouldn't be a disappointment.

James Cain's tract on street-girl-play-boy sordidness is reproduced with as much fidelity as the Hayes' Office, in its hallowed role of protecting the undefiled public from contamination with (Continued on Page 4)

DONALD FLEMING

"WHAT THE
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY STANDS FOR"

OPEN MEETING

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CLUB
4.00 P.M.

WOMEN'S UNION WED. FEB. 6th.

COLLEGE TEXT BOOKS NEW and USED

Try Cole's for that hard-to-get Text book you need

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 10 P.M.

BOOK MARKET
AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE (One Block South of Bloor)
RA. 1148

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

HANS GRUBER, CONDUCTOR

Will Present

TWO CONCERTS

—At—

CONVOCATION HALL

WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 20th.

GEORGE CRUM, Pianist,
Guest Artist

WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist,
Guest Artiste

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

Hart House Bulletin Board

Informal Recital

Ross Fleming (III Medicine), pianist, will give an informal recital in the east common room at 1.30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Library Evening

The Rev. Dr. R. S. K. Seeley, Provost of Trinity College, will talk informally on "The Lost Art of Reading" at a library evening in Hart House Library at 7.30 p.m. on Thursday, 7th. February. Members of Hart House are invited.

Glee Club

A regular rehearsal of the Glee Club will be held in the music room at 5 p.m. today.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 74 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Monday, February 4, 1946

Mystery Cloaks Death Circumstances, Police Decide No Inquest Necessary

Kingston, Feb. 2.—(CUP)—There will be no inquest into the case of Jean Myers, Queen's co-ed whose frozen body was found lying face down on the ice of Lake Ontario Friday.

Missing since last Tuesday, the girl was discovered by Leon McDermott of Wolfe Island and Bert Belyea of Simcoe Island who braved the treacherous ice floes near Snake Island with a six-man search party to bring the body back to the mainland. They found the body, minus gloves and shoes near a crack in the ice which had been openwater, as though she had collapsed in an attempt to reach it.

"She must have been walking through slush ice until she got on thin stuff, then saw a big crack in front of her," said Belyea, "I think she tried to retrace her steps then, and that her shoes froze in the slush. She looked as if she had fallen back in complete exhaustion."

Sqdn.-Ldr. Eric Findlay, who accompanied by William O'Hara of Toronto, a Queen's student first sighted the body from an R.C.A.F. plane described the discovery.

"Even at 50 feet above the ice, things looked too black," said Findlay, "so I put the plane down to about 20 feet. Suddenly O'Hara said, 'That's her!' I circled about a dark spot on the ice and we could see a person lying on her back . . . We went back to our base in Trenton, and O'Hara telephoned the University."

The girl's family and friends were at a loss to understand the mystery . . . There was no cause for concern in her academic standing, according to University officials.

She attended a dance Friday night and had seemed gay and cheerful. She had been taking a mild sedative prescribed by the University doctor to aid in sleep. "If she had taken all six tablets at once, they would not have hurt her," he reportedly declared.

She will be buried from her home near Portland, Ont., where she was born.

Brewin, Tanaka To Address Forum

K. Z. Tanaka, Chairman of the Japanese-Canadian Committee for Democracy has agreed to address an open forum to discuss the subject of deportation of Canadian citizens of Japanese ancestry in the Great Hall Economics Building, on Feb. 14, as a tentative date.

Mr. Tanaka will attempt to show students that there must be radical change in viewpoint in the country in order to bring about general acceptance of the Japanese-Canadians.

He intends to impress upon his audience the fact that relocated citizens must be accepted wherever they may be placed and that there must be no discrimination against them.

Pending approval by the Students' Administrative Council, plans have been set to hold an open forum on the 14th. The S.A.C. approves of the committee as a fact-finding group, and representations are being made to the Council to give its support to the forum.

Andrew Brewin, K.C., has also announced his intention to speak at any forum which might be held on the Legal aspects and test cases on the question.

Col. David Oroll has also been asked to speak and no definite word has been forthcoming so far, although he would speak on the government policy if present.

Attempts are to be made to have the forum broadcast in part by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, but if this is not feasible, a private station will be approached.

The committee wants to clarify its position regarding the Faculty of Applied Science, whose members are getting the impression that all of the group's activities are restricted to the Arts colleges. S.P.S. is asked to participate in the discussion and help to make the committee campus-wide.

McGill Men Promote Jobs From Baby Sitting To Buttlng

Montreal, January 30.—(CUP)—From bombers to babies seem to be an easy step to McGill student veterans who have made "sitting" one of the most popular of the part-time jobs offered to ex-servicemen by Uni-Vet Enterprises. At 40c an hour for sitting, 60c for a trade students can earn up to $40 a month in any one of over fifty jobs offered by this organization formed last fall by John Morton, Commerce I, and Paul LeBrooy, Commerce II, both veterans.

Under the training supervision of the War Services Grants Act and endorsed by Principal F. Cyril James and the Students Executive Council, and backed by the Students Veterans Society, UniVet is setting an example to all cities across Canada containing universities with their veteran students.

At present Paul LeBrooy is handling jobs for about 100 veterans with three helpers. All veterans who apply receive a questionnaire asking how many hours a week they want to work and when. It has a list of every conceivable kind of job which veterans might be expected to do, and that anybody would expect them to be able to do, and that anybody would expect them to be able to do, with a space at the end for their own suggestions.

They include accountants, butlers, caretakers, entertainers, garage help, janitors, jewellers, lab technicians, music teachers, plasterers, tinsmiths, ushers, watch makers and nurses. The applicant fills in, opposite the jobs he has decided he would take if offered by UniVet, whether he is a specialist, experienced or capable.

It is strictly a non-profit organization, although 10% commission on temporary jobs and 5% on jobs lasting more than a month is charged to cover expenses. When all liabilities have been met the 10% commission will be reduced to 5%.

The chief service of UniVet is (Continued on Page 5)

Radio As Education Aid Discussed By C. B. C. Man

M. Aurele Seguin, Supervisor of educational broadcasts for the province of Quebec for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will speak on "Radio as an aid to Education" today in room 8, University College, at 5:00 p.m.

He is also Director of the Organization of the French Network of the C.B.C. called "Radio College", a completely integrated series that has no equivalent in English-speaking Canada. These programs are broadcast every day of the week over the Quebec network.

During the summer, M. Seguin was director of the summer school on radio at Queen's University. He has attended the annual meetings on radio education at Ohio College, Columbus, and has been with the C.B.C. since its inception.

Bobby Soxers Boycott "Bob"

(STAFF PHOTO BY RALPH JONES)

Outraged femininity rose up in righteous wrath at Friday's Victoria College At-Home to protest its exclusion from "The Bob". The Bobby-Sox Quartet was one group of suffragettes included in the intermission satire of college institutions. From left to right are Betty Carty, Val Wilcott, June Barrick and Joan Chalk.

Culture Spread Is Goal Of Communism-Fairley

"The Communist ideal is not the destruction of culture, but rather the preservation and improving of culture and the spreading of its use and enjoyment among the maximum number of people," Mrs. Margaret Fairley told the LPP Club Friday afternoon.

The speaker, wife of Professor Barker Fairley head of U.C.'s German Department, pointed out that while capitalism has done much to advance culture it has fallen far short of the highest goals. There is a tendency under capitalism to stress what happens to people rather than what they do, to stress possession rather than creation and to consider nature as a thing to be enjoyed rather than used.

Mrs. Fairley, an active member of the Canadian-Soviet Friendship League told the audience that they must concentrate on their studies in order to prepare themselves for what she termed the "socialist Canada of the future".

"Socialism is a way of life," she said, "Not just a political theory. Therefore socialism and culture are part of an entity. In all directions Communism fuses the age old aspirations of man with the scientific possibilities of their achievement."

In answer to a question Mrs. Fairley said that Russia now allows churches because the church has shown that it will co-operate with the state in advancing Communism.

Mrs. Fairley was educated at Oxford and the University of Alberta. She is the author of "Spirit of Canadian Democracy" and other books.

Alberta Veterans Protest Move

Edmonton, Feb. 1.—(CUP)—Eighty student veterans at the University of Alberta will move to a former United States Army airbase four miles from the campus this week-end despite protests from the veterans.

Believing conditions at the airbase will be unsatisfactory, the veterans in two meetings this week stated their opposition to the move and endorsed the refusal of 52 of the veterans, now living in residences on the campus, to move unless legally evicted.

An additional 28 students now living outside residence are slated to be moved also to the airbase where meals and accommodation will be provided along with transportation to the university and weekly laboratory periods.

The move has resulted from the overcrowded conditions in the university residences which has necessitated doubling up.

Ajax Chess Fans Meet Need Boards and Men

Andy Mathews and Dunc Marshall were elected temporary president and secretary of the Ajax Chess Club Thursday afternoon, when 27 chess fans gathered to organize a club with the aid of three members of the Hart House club—Roy Orlando, Jack Patterson-Smythe, and Fraser Torrie. The election was made temporary in order to give the members more time to get acquainted before electing a permanent executive.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced in procuring boards and men so all prospective players have been asked to bring their own if possible, but the executive stressed that this was not essential.

The club plans to meet in Hart House practically all the time and will welcome anyone who wants to learn or improve their game.

CULINARY ART REQUIRED IN LAB REPORTS

By Ed. Hamel

It isn't true that Watt invented the steam engine (Hero beat him by an odd two thousand years). It isn't true that Ohm invented the Ohm (it didn't come into existence till several years after he died). And it certainly isn't true that a chap by the name of Cook invented Cook's Variable Constant.

The exact origin of Cook's Variable Constant is unknown. All that we can be sure of is that it was developed long ago by some weary university student. Well, we can imagine him working in his little garret after a long and hard day in the laboratory. Perhaps he was trying to find the weight of air in a light bulb (then again perhaps there weren't light bulbs in those days and his garret was lit by one small flickering candle). But after many hours of work in his dimly, ill-lit laboratory, he found that the air in the light bulb weighed more than the bulb, air and all.

Broken in spirit he had returned to his garret. Late into the night he studied his lab report and compared it with the work of his brother periment.

Even professors aren't above using Cook's Variable Constant. There is one well known professor in the Physics department who teaches several courses to first year students using experiments to illustrate the work. It is a well known fact that he has the results he will obtain written down in his lecture notes. By using Cook's Variable Constant he obtains results in his classroom experiments that are consistently good.

But the use of Cook's Variable Constant, or cooking as it is better known is a fine art. It is a science in itself, cooking a lab book. Baffled students have on several occasions had to obtain help from the demonstrators in cooking their experiments. Many have come away from a session with a demonstrator marvelling at his ability in this important branch of science.

There are many traps awaiting the student who is not skilled at the art. He may in a triumph of self congratulation forget to cook the experiment completely.

Quickly the professors catch on to the mis-use he is making of this aid to Science and enraged by his carelessness they punish him severely. Red ink and nasty comments in his lab book are an inevitable result.

Then again after a hard evening's cooking a student may forget to state what he has obtained. He just writes down a number, when perhaps his results may be in pounds, or feet per second. Such negligence draws more nasty comments. When the professor mentioned above sees a mere number achieved as the result of lab experiment he neatly writes in the lab book right after the deserted number, "cat-tails per acre, no doubt".

In spite of its weaknesses, however, Cook's Variable Constant has been a boon to mankind, and particularly University students. The number of nervous breakdowns it has prevented has never been calculated, but the number is astronomical. Perhaps it was over a thousand (cat-tails per acre).

It Might As Well Be Swing

No. Three

Wandered into Waxie's and caught "Lady Be Good" on the Jazz Philharmonic Concert Album. This one really is good, ladies. Those who heard the other side "How High the Moon" on the 10-10 Swing Club Saturday will know what we mean. But for those careless souls who have not become acquainted with the bright spot on the dial light, or who inadvertently heard the opera, for you we provide a bit of edification.

These records are a duplication of a concert held in the Town Hall of Los Angeles several months ago and they are unique in that they were recorded while the concert was in progress. Most record dates are prearranged with elaborately worked out scores and every musician given a definite cue and pattern to follow. Others are spontaneous and uninhibited by previous organization, except a beforehand knowledge of the sequence of choruses. Otherwise chaos would result.

But here we have as close a proximity to the pure unselfconscious jazz as it is possible to get on discs. The musicians weren't encumbered with the stiffness and apprehension that comes with knowing that your every note is being recorded for posterity—because they weren't told that it was being done.

From the applause of the audience when a certain phrase pleased them, to the exhortations of the players urging one of their comrades on to greater heights, and even to the clinkers pulled by some, the atmosphere is one of complete informality and realism.

The personnel are relatively unknown. Howard

McGhee plays a vicious high trumpet with a smattering of the Gillespie kick. Most of his rapid-fire horn work was picked up from Dizzie when they formed the back-bone of the Billie Eckstine outfit. Previously he played with such names as Andy Kirk and Earl Hines.

For those fans who heard Count Basie last time he hit town, Illinois Jacquette is no stranger. His tenor style which is characterized by a low gruff tone, increases in intensity and pitch as the musical momentum progresses, until he finally winds up screeching to heights which would do justice to any trumpet man. If you like a glimpse of the novel, catch him.

Charlie Ventura of recent Krupa and Hot-terchornia (Dark Eyes) fame, rides right along with Jacquette. Its not very often a new tenor style is heard, but Charlie provides relief by departing from run-of-the-mill Hawk copyists, and playing with brilliant technique and unusual framework of ideas.

Willie Smith, former altoist with James and Lunceford, and Chicago Flash (Gene Krupa), lend interest to an already outstanding musical moment.

At this writing it is believed that the Spadina Wax-Works is the only spot in town where it can be heard.

Duke Slipping?

"The old grey mare she ain't what she used to be", is a proverbial line which can now be applied to the "Swing Fortress" of Duke Ellington. Although still one of the major swing outfits, he has lost much of the punch and fervor that went with his old band.

This illustrates what we've been screaming from the rooftops since way back when—that the Duke musically speaking, is not the Duke himself, but a conglomeration of all the men in his band. Take them away and you have left a skeleton with very little meat. The essence of Ellington was Cootie, Webster, Tizol, Bigard and Rex Stewart, and although he has good men replacing them, they do not lend themselves to the style which is peculiar to the Duke.

Try substituting Al Sears for Ben Webster on All To Soon, or Taft Jordan for Cootie Williams, and see what we mean.

This is not meant as a condemnation of Ellington's replacements. Rather, we agree that Kat Anderson, Taft Jordan, Al Sears and Oscar Pettiford are great in their own right and would be a credit to any band. But we insist that they are not sympathetic with the mood and atmosphere that Ellington tries to create, and as such they could never do justice to him.

Add to this the urge for "gelt" which has apparently possessed him after the commercial success of I'm Beginning to See the Light Without My Glasses, Don't Dare Hang Around Any More, etc., and the result is a band which is rapidly losing its position of leadership and initiative in jazz.

Maybe when his lost sheep start coming home we will have a change; at any rate you can rest assured that this is not the last word from him—but it is from us.

And to corn a phrase, this is where we get off.
Sid Starkman

Manitoba Rally Meet Ice Queens

Winnipeg, Jan. 29.—(CUP)—Candidates for University of Manitoba's Ice Queen were presented during a half-hour pep rally over CKRC Saturday afternoon. Publicizing the coming Ice Carnival the program was produced by Monte Halparin, ex-UMSU president. Pinky Banfield and the Smith Street Sextette were also featured. Two hundred free tickets were distributed.

The candidates for role of Queen Of The Carnival represent all faculties, Engineering and Agriculture being included this year for the first time.

YOU'LL FLY TO THE WALDORF

For the Weekend (or the cash) If you win the QUIZ DANCE, QUEENSWAY, Friday, Feb. 8th.

TICKETS NOW ON SALE - $1.25 EA.
MITFORD TICKET AGENCY
317 1-2 BAY STREET - ELGIN 8330
PROMENADE MUSIC CENTRE
85 BLOOR STREET WEST - MI. 2437

"Your Father's Moustache!"

(Hear4 the Herman Herd's?)

That's what we think of high prices and months of waiting for made-to-measure clothes.

For when you consider imported woollens, hand workmanship, modern stylings, our values cannot be surpassed.

So jump aboard the bandwagon and swing to Louis Cohen Clothes, and be in tune with the times.

Why not arrange to have us compose your new suit, sport jacket or topcoat?

Ask any of Toronto's orchestra leaders about

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)
RA. 8995-6

The workshop hums from nine to nine. Saturdays until 6.

3 to 4 week service. Sooner, if you drum it into us.

Trek Wisconsin-ward, Study Subjunctive In Solar Splendor of Summer School

By Eleanor Dickson and Margery Griffith

As you plod through the snow on these brisk Canadian mornings, try to imagine attending a college where you go to classes in the morning and swimming or canoeing in the afternoon. Doesn't sound like Toronto, does it?

Maybe it's enjoyable to leer over a big book in the U. of T. library, but even Marx's Das Kapital holds some fascination when peered at through sun-glasses while you idly stretch out on the sand and let the sun pour in.

Feeling we had found a painless way to learn subjunctive verbs in Spanish we jogged off to Wisconsin University's summer school. The university is situated beside two lakes and all the facilities for canoeing, swimming, surf-board riding and sailing are open to the students.

Classes in Bascom Hall were the kind dreamed of by Toronto men. With the mercury throbbing at ninety the college girls appreciated the shorts and slacks and even sun-suits of the floating bathing suit variety that were worn to classes.

After classes we either stepped off the front porch of the residence into the water or dashed off to the "Rathskellar", a bathing-suit variety of Mac's. However at the Wisconsin University's rendezvous you can order anything from a chocolate milkshake to a slow gin fizz or your favorite beer along with a hamburger or apple pie.

If the atmosphere of the room doesn't suit you, the terrace is just outside where you can sit around a table watching beautiful figures in bathing suits, or at night enjoy the music coming from the star-lit dancing.

Rathskellar—the name is derived from rats-cellar, but it's developed since then—is just one of the attractions of The Union. The Union is something like Hart House—only much bigger and it welcomes girls with open arms. It has everything from bowling alleys, billiard rooms, three dining rooms to the Rathskellar. There are three ballrooms for dancing and every Saturday night the Wisconsin students' night club—Club 700—goes into full swing with a floor show and all the extras.

Naturally, the Union has its own theatre "The Play Circle", with the latest in movies, but it is famous for its big theatre modeled after Radio City. Sinclair Lewis called it the "nicest little theatre in the States." Here the students get a chance to show their talent in dramatics and concerts, and many celebrated artists have performed on their stage.

One of the unique institutions of Wisconsin University is a very athletic outing club called the Hoofers. Even at night you can usually see a sailboat or two on the lake with two Hoofers in it.

The University isn't all play, though, and one of the most interesting courses is offered by the radio station situated on the campus, station W.H.A., the oldest in the state. However, any course is interesting at a University like Wisconsin.

One Way To Study

Classroom garb at the University of Wisconsin's paradise-like summer school is the above, testify Varsity Reporters Dickson and Griffith who adjourned there last summer. Barb Hinchcliffe, lithe Victoria College aqua-queen, whose pool prowess topped the ornamental swimming honors at last Thursday's women's interfaculty swim meet, demonstrates the attire and the posture for easy study.

Campus Capsules

Bedtime Story

By Ross McLean

Six foot seven is a lot of man and while vertical it just involves ducking low archways but while horizontal it really poses a problem.

Especially when the only sleeping accommodation available is a 6' 1" regulation-size bed such as university residences offer.

John Palmer, ex-air-force officer and now U.C. Lit. Councillor, is the man with the surplus of stature.

Palmer has patiently endured the brevity of his bed in South House for eight months now. He has made do.

That of Palmer that over-lapped was accommodated on a chair "annexed" to the foot of the bed; and duly blanketed by room mate Wes. Knowlton.

But a recent news item proclaiming that manufacture of beds had been resumed provoked Palmer to pen a plea to Col. A. D. Le Pan, seeking consideration.

The Superintendent of Buildings prompt reply expressed sympathy for his plight and promised a king-size bed immediately one became available.

It's a familiar predicament for the lofty Palmer. His service career was marked by beds and cots whose dimensions were less than his own.

An Esquire cartoon at the head of the offending bed in Palmer's room has taken double entendre since the letter from Col. Le Pan.

Cartoon shows a lanky G.I. in bed—or, rather, in two beds. Feet and ankles and a few inches of leg protrude through onto the second one. In the caption the G.I. explains to a perplexed sergeant: "It's O.K. The colonel gave me permission."

We now know the initiation process for the Hubba Hubba Club. One mystifying thing: How did so many male initiators ever become members?

The U. of T. Symphony Orchestra Conductor Hans Gruber was christened at birth in Czechoslovakia as Hanus. To too many people it seemed that the Hanus ought to have been Hans and they said so. Obliging, he has now dropped the "u."

Gruber, incidentally, has a stock anecdote that win's this week's alarm-clock-cat award for absent-mindedness.

Even more priceless than the hoary juxtaposition of these two objects (i.e.: cat and clock) is the tale of a suitor who arrived to collect his date at Whitney Hall. From the Hall he telephoned a local taxery. Forty-five minutes later the cab arrived to take the impatient couple to their destination.

The pair had settled comfortably in the back of the cab when the swain thought for the first time of where he was going.

Awkwardly, he remembered and instructed the driver: "73 St. George Street, please!"

Happened to a chap by name of Hans Something, Gruber claims.

'ANGLES'

... SATURDAY-MORNING LECTURE ...

Northcote's Art-Work Capp-tivates

At the age of eight Jack Northcote had his first rendezvous with crayon and Muse.

It was in Welland. Today Northcote, now in his final year of mechanical engineering, is still drawing. Facilely, he produces for amusement and amazement countless cartoons, his pen-and-ink heroes resembling slightly the cartoon creations of Lil' Abner mentor, Al Capp.

Northcote's future seems directed toward commercial art.

Hitherto published only in Welland High School papers and in his fraternity (Beta Theta Pi) magazine, today Northcote reaches readers of the revitalized Varsity.

From the Northcote inkwell for this debut has emerged a sad-sack-student type whose adventures, The Varsity trusts, will brighten many a classroom.

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE
TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m. a 2:30 p.m.
b 7:45 a.m. b 3:55 p.m.
(a-except Sun. and Hol.)
(b-except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m. 8:40 a.m.
7:30 a.m. 9:30 a.m.
and every hour
on the half hour
until 10:30 p.m.
Also 11:40 p.m.
(a-except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES
Bay at Dundas-Adelaide 4221

Human Organ Transplantation "Very Near" - Markowitz

Fifteen years ago Dr. Jacob Markowitz grafted the heart of one warm-blooded animal to another and watched, thrilled, as it lived for several days.

Working with Dr. Frank Mann of the Mayo Clinic, this University of Toronto physiologist had attached the new heart to the old one to serve as an auxiliary organ, thus lifting some of the load from the old organ.

Medical science hailed the two men's successful experiments.

Today Dr. Markowitz's prediction is that the transplanting of heart, kidneys or other organs from one human being to another may become possible before the end of this year.

Of more benefit than the transplantation of the heart ("People are thrilled at the idea . . . because the heart is an organ so essential to life.") may be the transplanting of kidneys, he suggests.

"Thousands of people die every year from kidney disease," Dr. Markowitz points out. "We have two kidneys but need only one. It would be no loss for a man to give one kidney to his wife if needed to keep her alive. Exactly the same problem is involved in both heart and kidney grafting, that of keeping the transplanted organ alive and the same solution will apply to both."

Who would perfect the technique first, Dr. Markowitz couldn't know. "Scientists in every country in the world are working on it. It is very near. I wouldn't be surprised if it comes this year."

Cinema in Nevada Students To Star

U. of NEV., Jan. 24.—(Exchange) The forthcoming movie, "Margie", starring Ethel Barrymore, is being filmed on the U. of Nev. campus by 20th Century Fox for four days commencing Jan. 31.

The movie company are signing on students for extras at $7.50 per day, old motor cars—preferably pre-1928—for $3.50 a day, and bicycle owners will receive $1.00 a day for the use of their bikes. The back page of their campus daily has an application form to be filled, and approximately 300 students have signed up as extras to date.

The entire movie company will have their lunches in the university dining hall to save time and money. It is expected that $26,000 a day will be spent filming on the campus.

'French Youth' To Be Topic

A joint meeting of the University College, Trinity and Victoria French Clubs will hear Tuesday evening Philippe de Vendevre, a leader of the Resistance Youth Movement of France, discuss La Jeunesse Francaise.

Currently on a restricted lecture tour of American Universities, M. de Vendevre, a graduate of the Ecole Polytechnique of Paris, was secured only over the week-end to speak to the University of Toronto group in Wymilwood.

Baby Sitting

(Continued from Page 3)

that, in providing ex-servicemen with part-time jobs, during the term and also during the holidays, loss of time is avoided in which they would otherwise be looking for employment.

An advertising campaign to make Montreal "UniVet Conscious" has been started: the Montreal Rotary Club, department stores, individual merchants and businessmen have promised full support. UniVet is now building 32 sign boards in the west end of Montreal.

Even the social angle is not neglected. Veterans receive invitations to parties through the organization and plans are underway to obtain free movie passes and things of that nature.

The President hopes that the Veterans Society will be successful in getting the increase asked for from Ottawa, but in the meantime, he feels that UniVet is the only organization doing anything concrete in the way of helping ex-servicemen in their financial troubles.

Blues vs People's

(Continued from Page 1)

the Blues at several times as the Varsity defence appeared to go into another lapse in clearing the puck. With four minutes remaining Q-Mara scored his third goal of the game to bring People's within one goal of Varsity. O'Mara who was flying all night took a pass from Strongman, outskated the nearest check and beat Ball cleanly from about eight feet. Forty-five seconds later Bromley clinched the game for Varsity scoring from Lawler in a scramble near the Jewellers' net. The game ended Varsity 9, People's 7.

Lineups

Varsity—Dick Ball, Kryzanowski, Doyle, Halder, Gord Ball, Henry. Alternates: Wade, Puttock, Kosick, Bark, Bromley, Bauer, Lawler.

People's—Goldie, Junken, Grant, Gagnon, Strongman, Farrant, Alternates: Boll, Maundrell, Grogor, Benson, Percival, O'Mara, King, Lucasick, Tisdall.

Scoring

First Period
1.—Varsity, Ball (Henry) . . . 1:20
2.—People's, O'Mara (Strongman) . . . 3:15
3.—People's, Farrant (Strongman) . . . 3:30
4.—People's, Grogor, . . . 16:00
Penalties: Bauer, Gagnon, O'Mara, Bromley.

Second Period
5.—Varsity, Henry (Ball, Halder) . . . 5:00
6.—People's, Strongman (O'Mara) . . . 8:00
7.—People's, O'Mara (Farrant, Junken) . . . 10:20
8.—Varsity, Halder (Henry, Ball) . . . 12:00
9.—Varsity, Henry (Halder) . . . 13:00
10.—Varsity, Halder (Kryzanowski, Kosick) . . . 14:20
11.—Varsity, Kosick (Kryzanowski) . . . 16:00
12.—People's, Gagnon (King, Ball) . . . 19:45
13.—Varsity, Lawler (Henry, Halder) . . . 19:55
Penalties: O'Mara, Gagnon, Halder.

Third Period
14.—Varsity, Bauer (Bromley) 1:30
15.—People's, O'Mara (Strongman, Farrant) . . 16:00
16.—Varsity, Bromley (Lawler) 17:00
Referees: K. Holmesshaw, Patterson.

Movies

(Continued from Page 2)

the facts of life, could be expected to permit. Cain's own sad comment on his subject matter requires no improvement: "This room needs some fresh air". Cynic, misanthrope and social philosopher should all find a delectable two hours in seeing the picture. Those, however, who will go in in the expectation of enlightenment on some lurid sex details will find the details suitably deftoured.

Though obscurely mooted, the possibility of Crawford's winning the Academy Oscar for her acquittal of the fatal role seems doubtful to me. We aren't yet in the habit of distributing laurels to accomplices in the publication of the seamy truth about our "best-of-all" civilizations.

Eve Arden plays cynically disillusioned Eve Arden as usual and does it refreshingly enough to steal a goodly number of scenes. As for ingenu Anne Blythe, one is again left wondering at the seeming ease with which juveniles become first rate actors.

Incidentally, movie advertising has at last worn out the superlatives Colossal, Stupendous, Unforgettable, etc. It's hitting a new nadir with the theme, started I believe with "The Woman in the Window": "Don't let your friends know about the ending!"—"Warning—no one will be seated in the last five minutes!"—"Don't tell anyone what she did!"

Makes me think of last year's moron joke in which one said to the other, "I betcha don't know what I got in this bag of bananas!"

—OSCAR HALINA.

STUDENTS!

When post war Ring Covers are available, DOMINION will have them.

For the present we will do our best to look after as many orders as possible. Materials for the manufacture of Ring Covers are still very limited.

Ask your bookstore. He will keep you posted.

DOMINION BLANK BOOK COMPANY

A NUMBER of good positions for men members of the graduating year, who are interested in teaching in a boys' private school will be available in September.

There will also be available next September part-time teaching positions for students who will then be in their final year, and who might wish to teach. Any persons interested are asked to see E. A. Macdonald in the Students' Administrative Council Office.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO
BRASS BAND

Full Attendance Required at Practices on TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS, 5 P.M.

at the Drill Hall
BAND IS NEEDED TO SUPPORT ATHLETIC EVENTS
CLARINETS ARE NEEDED

Speaking OF SPORT

By DON MASON

The People's hockey squad may be tops in the Toronto Hockey league, but they're just another team to the Varsity Blues . . . one loss in eleven starts is how the record stands now, and we will bet our last lucky penny that the loss column won't change much . . . Bill Kosick and "Sunny" Kryzanowski are the two K's to which we are referring . . . we would swear that Bill comes from a long line of ballet dancers and sleight-of-hand artists after watching his Friday night performance . . . it was a thing of beauty to watch as he wound up behind his own net and literally danced around all and sundry who came in his way . . . Major Leaguists who consider themselves tricky on the blades might have their ego lowered after watching La Kosick.

"Sunny" Kryzanowski, in our humble estimation, played a perfect defensive game . . . "Sunny" isn't content to merely take the puck from visiting forwards . . . Friday night saw him knock off two well-earned assists, on top of his excellent work around the nets . . . yes, indeed, "Sunny" rates higher in our books every time we see him . . . we might add that the rest of the defence are not playing the brand of hockey we expected of them . . . their checking at times is atrocious, and faulty clearing is making Dick Ball's job no easier . . . their lack of aggressiveness was sadly evident in People's first two goals . . . we doubt very much if either would have been scored if the Blues' defence had been right on their toes.

Don't misunderstand us, we have every confidence in their ability—We merely think they could play more efficiently . . . oh yes—the same Blues will take the Intercollegiate Hockey Championship this year—probably without being defeated . . . any takers ???

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

Huzzah! Those were our gals on Saturday night in the upper gym . . . every single one is registered in a faculty on the University of Toronto. They certainly were a collection of high-voltage players. One bystander commented sagely that the frequent scrambles could be accounted for by the fact that the Navy could not keep up to the pace set by the Varsity team, and it took the latter some time to realize their own power. Only one player had to be warned by the referee about fouls, and rumour has it that she was in His Majesties services . . . and that equals good basketball.

With such a gold star marked up to their credit, the team is on the watch to organize games with some of the city's amateur teams . . . and McMaster. They should be able to pick up some stiff competition, but come all champs . . . Varsity has been tested by fire and come out as fine tempered steel.

Wrens Sunk By Bees 30-17

Sparked by Kay McMillan of P.H.E., the Varsity Senior Women's basketball team defeated the girls representing H.M.C.S. Bytown of Ottawa, to the tune of 30-17, on the floor of the upper gym at 7:00 p.m. Saturday night. From the time the ball first left the referee's hands till the musical blast signalled the end of game time the hoopsters in blue and white controlled most of the play.

The first half of the game got off to a slow start. The playing was ragged with much scrambling for a loose ball, but one break by Kay McMillan started a scoring spurge for Varsity that mounted to 7 points. The Wrens with Dixie Elhatton fought back and brought the score up to 7-5 for Varsity at the end of the first quarter.

At the half time whistle the scoreboard read Varsity 11, Wrens 6, after a quarter where erratic shots still ruled the floor, but the blue tuniced girls tightened up, and the guards, Joan Chalk, Lillian Laakso and Betty Fullerton allowed the ball to slip through the hoop only once.

Kay McMillan, Toronto's flashy forward, succeeded in netting 6 points during the first half, but it was during the second half that the star really shone. She succeeded in dropping the ball through the hoop for 9 more points. At the end of the third quarter the Wrens were lagging behind 7 points. The last stretch featured an unsuccessful attempt of the girls from Bytown to stage a comeback. It opened with a mad scramble under the Varsity basket, Elhatton catches the ball and dropping it in.

Yet a successful 6-man defense system along with their accurate long shot by Kay McMillan, excellently supported by Mary Hicks and Tracy Stinson forwards, and Joan Christie guard, brought about the defeat of the Navy who lack skill around the basket. A beautiful long shot by Rosemary Cunningham ended the game 30-17 for Varsity.

The coach, Jean Stevenson, commented that "The Varsity" team co-operated like veterans: it will be a difficult job cutting the size of the team as all are first rate players and practically equally skilled, yet 3 P.H.E. girls must be dropped; they should do well in intercollegiate games."

Lineups: NAVY: Watson (2), Arnold, Grenon, Elhatton (7), D. Armstrong (8), P. Armstrong, McGuir, Platt, Marion, Ley. VARSITY: Stinson (P.H.E.) (5); Barnett (P.H.E.) (2); M. Barnett (P.H.E.) (2); McMillan (P.H.E.) (15); Hicks (U.C.) (4); Kaufman (U.C.); Cunningham (St. Mike's) (2); Christie (P.H.E.); Woodsworth (P.H.E.); Fullerton (Vic.); Chalk (Vic).

Vic Tracksters Fall To Blues

An all Varsity track team of novices outran a group of tracksters from Vic in a sprint relay at Hart House Saturday night. The experienced Vic runners lost mainly because of an unfortunate fall by their fast first runner, Hkhehi.

The one mile run was won by Preston of Vic, who led the other competitors by finishing in the fast time of 4:39. He was followed by Dennis of P.H.E. and Speers of Vic. Glen hit 6'11" in the high jump, failing to clear the 6'2" mark. Hec Phillips looks forward to a good season in Intercollegiate running next year with Preston, Dennis, and Speers, as representatives.

No. 7 Unlucky For Albion Blues Blast Them 64-18

T. A. REED TROPHY
Intramural Point Standings
For Fall Term

1st—Trinity	3320
2nd—U.C.	2398
3rd—Victoria	2254
4th—Forestry	2162
5th—Medicine	2136
6th—Applied Science	1891
7th—Wycliffe	1870
8th—St. Michael's	1848
9th—Dentistry	1701
10th—Emmanuel	1354
11th—Knox	1155
12th—Pharmacy	886

P. H. E. Wins Interfaculty Gym Meet

A three-man team from P.H.E. captured the Senior Interfaculty Gymnastic Championship Sat. nite on the upper gym floor of Hart House. The winners carried away honors by pleasing the judges to the tune of 1,937 points of a possible 3600. Second in the running were the Senior Schoolmen with a total of 1,447 points.

J. Laxton of P.H.E. placed first in individual scoring by obtaining 900 points, just 300 away from a perfect score. It is the opinion of the judges that Laxton led his team and himself to victory because of near perfect and complete control. Said Judge Robert Bonney, "His control was such that one could not imagine him making a slip on the apparatus." What the other competitors lacked in control they made up for in vigour.

Best on the horse was J. Johnston of P.H.E. who gathered 260 points. Supreme on the parallel bars was G. Geary also of the winning team, who captured 245 marks. On the horizontal bar, J. McLaren of U.C. put on a show that pleased the audience, and pulled 284 orchids from the judges. Laxton gained laurels by leading all other competitors on the mats and winning 284 marks.

When asked to make a statement for The Varsity the engineers remarked, "It was fixed." Maybe you should keep to the other type of bar schoolmen!

STANDING OF GYMNASTS
Laxton (P.H.E.) 900; McLaren (U.C.) 876; Humphrey (Meds.) 840; Johnston (P.H.E.) 824; McAdam (P.H.E.) 818; Geary (P.H.E.) 816; Phippen (U.C.) 757; Curtis (S.P.S.) 746; Dalrymple (S.P.S.) 623; Kaufman (S.P.S.) 545.

Sr. A's Too Much For Ajax, 49-12

The Varsity Sr. "A" basketball team spoiled the athletic debut of the Ajax students in Hart House Saturday night when they trounced their guests by a score of 49-12. The losers showed plenty of the traditional "Skule" spirit.

It was the first game for the lads from Pickering and lack of practice was probably responsible for looseness in their play. The two teams were given good vocal support by a capacity crowd in the big gymnasium.

After the first basket by Andrews the A's, led by the first-string line of Himel, Lowes and Andrews built up a 24-7 lead before the end of the half. The Varsity offensive plays had the 'Jax boys baffled all the way and careless clearing by the latter accounted for the fact that nearly all Varsity's points were scored on dog shots. The close man-to-man checking employed by both teams worked to the Toronto team's benefit for their opponents rarely got away a shot.

Toward the end of the half Torrens and McHenry ran in three quick baskets for Ajax and their popularity with the Toronto crowd was evidenced by the hand they got for this splurge.

The second stanza was a fair replica of the first. A change in the Ajax front line which teamed Freddy Doty with Crang and Torrens failed to help so that Ajax called "time out" again. They must have found the jimmy to crack the Varsity offence in the huddle because they limited that starry

(Continued on Page 8)

Zeaton Spectacular

By BOB MORRISON

Toronto' basketball fans went home happy again on Saturday nite. The reason—the aVrsity Senior basketball team defeated the Albion College Brittons by a decisive 64-48 score in this winter's second Athletic Nite at Hart House.

In winning, the Blues brought to an end a handsome six game win streak which had been established by the American squad to date. In the first half Toronto maintained a slim 25-24 lead which might have been larger but for a closing minute drive by the Michigan crew. Albion took charge with assurance to start the second half but their lead was short-lived as the locals fought back to gain a well-earned victory.

Both of Toronto's five-man strings played effectively during the game but Harry Mayzell was the individual scoring standout of the nite with 18 points to his credit—12 of which he netted in the last half. Guard Wally Zeaton also shone for the homesters with his "octopus" checking backed up by 5 markers. Long overdue captain Gord Wallace shook off his dogging jinx long enough to score 4 points in the second half.

Elkin Isaac was the spark-plug of the Albion machine but was given a lot of help by Bob Linton and Jerry Edwards.

Varsity, whose only outstanding derrick is Don Gibson, was again "out-heightened" by such lanky Yanks as Edwards, Linton, Burnstine, and Moon. Roy Dilworth used two complete strings throughout the forty minutes and the play of the local quintet was co-ordinated effectively, while the Albion mentor was content with injecting no more than a man at a time.

The Brittons grabbed the opening tip but failed to organize their attack. Varsity recovered the ball and veteran Don Gibson hit the ring for the game's first score. After three minutes of unhighlighted play up and down the floor, and the score knotted at 6-6 Toronto made a complete change while Albion was resting. With the scoring still about even in the next five minutes, first Mayzell and then Zeaton missed opportunities to put the Blues ahead.

Unnerved slightly by these close shaves, Albion called for another breather. This gave the locals time to readjust their longies and jump into a six point lead on baskets by Zeaton, Cranham, and Mayzell. The action moved from end to end with the scoring being divided evenly. Toronto was out-penalized 7-2 but lost little ground. Within the shadow of half time Lew Moon, Edwards, and Isaac went up for the Brittons to cut the Blues margin to one point. Half-time score—Varsity 25—Albion 24.

After an exchange of scoring which brought the count up to 29-28 for Varsity, the Michigan crew came back fast in the next 5 minutes. Led by Isaac, the purple and yellow sweated potted three quick ones. At this time the visitors appeared to have a very definite edge so Toronto made a complete change and the fresh string retaliated with eight points and the Blues once more had the top-side position.

Murray Thomson was the spark in this rally, with 2 baskets to his credit. He looked exceptionally good on one, sinking an underhand lob from inside the keyhole after stealing the ball from an enemy basketeer.

The Dilworthmen built their lead up to five points by the three quarter way on a zig-zag exchange of possession with Toronto still an excess of penalties 8-1 because of the rambunctiousness of such gents as Scott and Zeaton.

The Albion clearing was sure in the first half but lacked something in the third quarter whereas Toronto improved with the pace. Moose Rogin was regarded as the foulied by the locals at this time for some calls against the Blues.

The Brittons failed to gain any ground as their counters were more than wiped out by Varsity. With five minutes left the Blues began a powerful surge which took them well out of range of their bating opponents. Fast-breaking Harry Mayzell and Murray Thomson got ten points between them as they slipped into the clear for run-in shots which seldom miss.

A Technicolor climax to the Toronto victory drive came from the busy hands of Wally "Why look at the hoop when shooting" Zeaton. With his back to the basket, he casually looped a one hander from the top of the key-hole which dropped through the mesh without hitting the ring.

Needless to say the rafters shook as Wally yawned and returned up the floor. The visitors never recovered from shock and failed to count till the closing horn. Thus did the Blues record their ninth triumph in twelve starts and fifth in a row by a 12-point margin—64-48.

LINE-UPS:

Albion—Black (8), Lynn (2), Edwards (10), Dies (0), Moon (10), Burnstine (0), Isaac (12), Schofield (0), Linton (6), Johansen (0).

Toronto—Wallace (4), Mayzell (18), Spry (4), Fountain (0), Thomson (10), Gibson (6), Clayton (6), Scott (2), Cranham (4), Zeaton (10).

VOLLEYBALL SCHEDULE

The schedule of the volleyball games to be played at the Lillian Massey gym this week is as follows: Mon., 5:00—St. Hilda's vs. Vic. I; 6:00—St. Hilda's vs. U.C. Tues., 5:00—P.H.E. IA vs. Meds; 6:00—Vic. II vs U.C. Wed., 5:00—P.H.E. III vs St. Hilda's; 6:00—P.H.E. II vs O.T. Thurs., 6:00—P.H.E. III vs Meds. Fri., 5:00—P.H.E. IB vs P.H. E. II; 6:00—Vic. I vs O.T.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
1:00	SPS IV vs. MED III	Farrell, Weedon
4:30	VIC II vs. SPS II	Doyle, Sinclair
8:00	MED II vs. U.C. II	Smith, Crawford
9:00	KNOX B vs. SPS V	Smith, Crawford
WATER POLO
6:00	TRIN. vs. WYC.	O'Brien
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1:00	BUS. ADM. vs. SPS III	Evins
4:00	JR. VIC vs. SR. U.C.	McAdam
6:30	SR. MED. vs. JR. U.C.	Rotman
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	MED. SER. B vs. IV CIVIL	Charendoff
4:00	PHE IV vs. IV CHEM	Peacock
6:30	I MED. vs. II CIVIL	Sansone

BOXERS - ATTENTION

There will be a meeting of all those interested in Boxing on Tuesday, February 4th, at 1:00 p.m. in the Athletic Directorate Room, Hart House. All faculties are asked to have their Standing Committee representative present.

SWIMMING MEETING Wed. Feb. 6th. 1.00p.m.

To make arrangements for Sr. Interfaculty meet.

25 years ago in

The

Varsity

By ELEANOR DICKSON and JOYCE PRATT

Think back 25 years. Remember the days when the typical coed bobbed her hair, moved her waistline down to meet her hips, and wore a sensible felt hat that pulled well down over her eyes,

WHEN—Tip Top Tailors advertised suits and overcoats at $14.50.

WHEN—you took your girl to the matinee at the Royal Alex- to see Mary Pickford in "Suds," and paid 20 cents at the matinee and 40 cents in the evening.

WHEN—there was no Whitney Hall. The girls lived in Queen's Hall and played Cinderella at many a ball to get in on that late 12 o'clock pass.

This was the year registration skyrocketed to 5,500 and Dents beat School in enrolment by 906 to 624. Daringly 30 lassies entered Dental Nursing and many a headache was started when the Department of Education began a one-year course in House Ec.

Fast-living" was in vogue at Varsity. One distracted mother, in a letter to the Editor, wrote:

"What is the fashion now? Instead of young girls being accompanied in a party of ten or so by chaperones, these girls have to be taken to the dances by young men whom they may know well, or very slightly, in taxis or private cars. There is absolutely no one to have any care over them at the ball, and they can smoke, use shady, vulgar language, and be quite the heroine, in fact, without any restraint, and when it is over they ride home at one, two, or three o'clock in the morning in these closed cars with the same young men who may be of high character, or of questionable morals."

"The girls have no say in the matter of their partners, their 'gentleman-friend' arranges this beforehand, and if a co-ed should by chance get into this affair without a male partner she would run a poor show of having any dances. Taking another vulgar side is that tickets are practically always sold in couples. That means if you cannot get hold of some man who will be enough interested in you to buy a ticket for you, give you a free motor ride there and back, well you're out of social life at the University of Toronto.

"Many a mother is anxious over this way of carrying out these functions, for she sees that her young daughter must go without a chaperone, and with a young man, who may be pure gold, but after an evening's excitement neither are normal, and both may do and say things on their way home which both will regret ever afterwards." Signed—A Mother.

Picture the Red Rose Cafe instead of Mac's; gaiters instead of bobby socks; flappers instead of slick chicks and you have Varsity 25 years ago.

The annual Arts Ball had come and gone the night before just as today. The Arts Ball of 1920 was not on the colossal scale of 1946, but it was by far the biggest and best dance in U.C. 'Biggest' for those days was 100 couples and the review in The Varsity the following Friday described the dance in the Great Hall of Hart House as a "gorgeous affair".

The ball started at 8:30 p.m. and after passing through the reception line, the men grabbed their partners with irreproachable dignity, and fox-trotted them off from the eagle glance of the chaperones' eyes.

The Sonny Dunham of the ball was J. Wilson Jardine, doesn't that name send shivers of impropriety down your 1920 back?

The refreshments then were far superior to the glass of ice water—if you can get it—stuff now. In fact "a buffet supper was served in the East Common Room and provided many dainty eats between 10:30 and 12:00. Perhaps that is what father means when he says longingly "those were the good old days".

Since the Arts Ball was one of THE social events, it lasted till morning that is, one o'clock in the morning. Of course in those days everyone went to nine o'clock lectures.

Editorial Encores

Politics and Students

Below is printed an editorial from the "Silhouette," campus paper of McMaster University. On a topic similar to one printed a few days ago, the question is seen from another angle.

Both the above words have been over-worked to such an extent that they tend to produce a feeling of irritation. Since both are vital to our everyday life, a brief comment on their interrelationship is appropriate.

Recent strikes, instability of governments, and world unrest in general, are symptoms of the same ills. Democracy as we know it has reached the crossroads. Is it able to stand the conversion to a more mechanistic form which seems imminent? It is the duty of our political parties to see that this re-formation is peaceful and gradual—the reform must come from within.

It is the obligation of every citizen, regardless of his political views, to discuss such problems sanely and to acquaint himself with its main aspects. The student is far from an exception to this rule; supposedly of the intelligent-ia, he should play an important part in Canada's future.

Politics at McMaster, however, is not treated in any too favourable light. Why is it treated as something later to be met, but at present to be ignored? Religion, as controversial a subject, is freely discussed—in fact, is made a necessary part of every student's curriculum. But not politics.

Surely we are mature enough to have formed opinions; these can only be properly developed by comparison with others. The need of today is political clubs such as exist on other camps. These need not be partisan; they could include all factions. In the past, political speakers have been presented in Assembly, and have been received with great enthusiasm. Here is the nucleus; the problems are pressing; let there be no delay.

Our Readers Write—

Halo On Joe?

The Editor, The Varsity,

Dear Sir:

I rather hesitate to interrupt the interesting discussion on the Scientific Method with a topic which may seem somewhat irrelevant at this point. But I can no longer refrain from posing a few perplexing questions on which I am willing to be enlightened by some interested student. It amounts to this. Why are so many of our "intellectuals" lacking discrimination, or perhaps just common sense in their discussions on Russia? (Do I hear a storm gathering.) During my sojourn in the States, to my surprise I was, not infrequently, confronted with the accusation that Canadians were often blinded with the dazzling light of Stalin's halo. But when I came to the University of Toronto I hardly expected to find the same gullibility among acute, discerning, and penetrating intellects. The editor of one of Toronto's papers (not the Toronto "Pravda" either) has openly stated that it was not his policy to print anything which might antagonize Russia. But surely University students should not have their heads buried in the sand. We are free to storm our own government with as much criticism as it pleases us, but woe betide us! if we offend Stalin or tread on his over-sensitive toes.

Now, I am not a specialist in the analysis of public opinion of the University of Toronto, but merely a faithful and thorough reader of the Varsity—particularly of its political news and comments. The general trend seems to be: (I hope I'm wrong) one of almost humiliating appeasement of the Russian appetite. Why, in heaven's name, must we "be willing to go a little more than half way to meet Russia in building a stable world" when she refuses even the minimum of co-operation—the decency, at least, to sit in on some of our international conferences to listen at least to our proposals before rejecting them? It is about time that Russia met us half way. Furthermore, may I ask whether the nations which have been torn apart by her dripping jaws do not also "take their history seriously?"

I heartily agree with the statement that if you "exclude Russia from the council of Europe you cannot have a stable Europe." But

If she refuses to co-operate, I hardly see any reason for striking our breasts and saying "mea culpa." One mentions Munich, and the stupidity of our diplomats. In my humble opinion, the drama of Munich has been going on ever since Russia became our "ally." We have merely substituted for the tragic hero Chamberlain, other "white-gloved" diplomats, and instead of appeasing a Nordic wolf, we are wooing a Mongolian bear. I do not wish to convey the impression that I am particularly directing my remarks to any one source. This kind of double-talk has been insidiously penetrating our circles long before I read Thursday's Varsity. For example, why do we contend that Russia has an inferiority complex because we have regarded her as a half-civilized state. Anyone with even a smattered knowledge of Russian history knows that such was her actual condition. Perhaps that was just a misunderstanding of terms. But to say that the territorial demands of Russia are a part of her pride since they were "unjustly" taken from her when she was treated as an outlaw, is anything but an ambiguous statement. If we are to proceed on such principles, then what moral force (O pardon me, we don't speak of morality in these affairs) is there to prevent Germany, now the outlaw, from grabbing back Czechoslovakia, France, etc., or for that matter, any nation which has ever suffered defeat in her history? As for her indigenous culture penetrating the west—if her soldiers are the typical torchbearers of that culture, then God forbid that I ever live to encounter it.

"These demands may be annoying to us," they say. How amusing—the very life and integrity of some nations are threatened, and we consider these demands as rather annoying. That realistic approach which is advocated simply in words and is not pursued in reality, is becoming another one of those stale truisms. I would be grateful to know which of the dependent countries which have been taken away from her had belonged to her in the first place?

Another report also strikes my attention—an opinion which was given to the Varsity reporter by a well-known Canadian journalist. We are told that the Russians cannot understand our policy—for example, they believe that any one or group of persons who has co-operated with the Germans should not be trusted or given support by democratic nations. Our support of elements in Greece favouring nazism is cited as an example. If the Russians were to follow out their arguments, they ought to hang Stalin first, for, as anyone who recalls 1939 knows, Russia was Germany's first ally. How such comments pass through the air without anyone re-examining them is beyond my comprehension. Dr. Brown, in speaking of Canadian University students and their knowledge of Chinese affairs, spoke of them as among the worst informed people. One can readily add Russia to the agenda of unknown subjects.

This idolizing spirit seems to have aroused more enthusiasm for Russia than our own Dominion. Perhaps it was merely a technical matter of arrangement, but imagine my surprise, when, on reading in an October issue of Varsity an account of the World Youth Conference, before I could even glimpse the names of our own delegates, I was "assured" that youth from the Soviet and Baltic republic would be present. There was no mention of American or Latin-American participation, but I was graciously given a list of all the Baltic republics.

Again I wish to stress that if the above views have no real basis for justification—that if I need not be alarmed by what I consider superficial thinking, I am willing to abandon my uneasiness of mind. But until the contrary can be forcefully demonstrated, the general tenor of opinion can hardly help but leave one with the impression that shallow thinking has been allowed to creep into our University halls.

MARY A. NOWAK,
1 Soc. & Phil.

Chisholm Says

Few Fit for College

Ottawa, Feb. 1—(CUP)—"Only a few people are now fit to go to university," said Maj.-Gen. G. Brock Chisholm, Deputy Minister of Health, in an address to the Jewish Young People's League.

He claimed that many young people now come to university with erroneous ideas that have been authoritatively imposed on them during their primary education. This is a result of the low salaries paid in Canada to teachers and prevents enough "mature, intelligent, well-educated people" from entering the profession.

"A university should be a place where people are free to think in all directions," he concluded, "only if it is kept so can it function properly."

Enlarge Old Library

Room More Students

Baton Rouge, Louisiana, January 31.—(Exchange)—Louisiana State University is providing space for an additional 100,000 volumes in the main library. There will be from 20 to 30 study alcoves built in for graduate students and faculty members working on individual projects. The addition of the new stacks will relieve the crowded conditions until a new building can be built.

CAMP

GAY VENTURE

GIRLS 5 to 15, BOYS 5 to 11.

Councillors Interviewed Now.

Write—Miss Dorothy Hoyle, Hoylands, Scarborough Junction, Ont.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762

(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)

OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING

Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Classified Advertisements

LOST $10. bill, desperately needed. Thurs. evening probably near Hart House bus stop. HU 3392.	LOST Mottles brown fountain pen. Thursday afternoon, between U. C. and St. George St. Finder please phone Nate Diamond, MI 2015.
LOST Blue Waterman pen, minus clip. in Economics Bldg., Monday, Jan. 28th. Please return to S.A.C. office.	FOUND Oakwood Collegiate pin, Jan. 15th, in U.C. Can be picked up at the S.A.C. office for paying for this ad.
LOST Discharge pin, No. 297-, in University area. Finder please leave at or phone S.A.C. office.	DATE WANTED By Tony Russell, who sings on the Hour of Dreams, 10 to 10.30 p.m. CKEY.
LOST Pair semi-harlequin shell-rimmed glasses, between Yonge-St. George, about Jan. 19. Please leave at S.A.C. office. Reward.	LOST Blue Waterman's fountain pen, Thursday. Please phone HY 5178. Reward.

Have You Lost Anything?

Have You Anything For Sale?

For quick results put a Classified Ad. in "The Varsity"

Phone MI. 6221

Art, Music and Drama

Lehmann & Lieder

It probably will not surprise the reader to learn that a song is a piece of music. Yet the one thing that distinguishes Lotte Lehmann from a host of other singers is that she drives home this truism. In other words she brings out the content of a song by a sensitive feeling for musical phrase and makes it part of a coherent progression. Her recital of lieder at Eaton Auditorium last Thursday was an almost continuous exhibition of such artistry. Occasionally, Lehmann took excessive liberties with time values in order to enhance her interpretation. But these oversights were infrequent and did not spoil the general impression of the concert. Lehmann, at the age of fifty-seven, still possesses the ability to reveal the complete beauty of some of the German lieder. She is a musician rather than a singer.

The fact that most of the program was sung in German seems to have perturbed Mr. Edward Wodson, critic for the Evening Telegram. He says that "the tradition (that German songs are superior to others) is silly, . . . unjust, and iniquitous." Had he stopped there he would have had a good point to argue. But he proceeds to confuse sentimental, political and patriotic considerations with a purely musical one. Having worked himself into a lather, he proceeds to brand "Lotte Lehmann as just another singing propagandist." Mr. Wodson may be surprised to learn that Lotte Lehmann was one of the first non-Jewish anti-Nazis. She left Germany because they demanded a National Art, not much different from what Mr. Wodson would like to see if it were British rather than German.

To conclude, Wodson states that "to listen last evening to German songs sung in the German tongue was to wonder how much longer the lying German tradition would prevail amongst feeling British folk." The answer he seeks is simple. As long as confused people like Wodson are in definite minority and as long as thinking people (as contrasted to feeling people) realize that S. Schubert and Brahms and Hugo Wolf form no part of "the lying German traditions."

Philip Freedman

Wymilwood Musicale

We Torontonians may justly consider ourselves fortunate to have in our midst Canada's outstanding harpsichordist Greta Kraus, who presented a fascinating programme at Wymilwood last night. Miss Kraus, Vienna-born but now a Canadian, showed her extraordinary ability and interpretive genius in an unforgettable evening of music. Miss Kraus opened her programme with a representative group of early English music. J. S. Bach's Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue, played with perfect accuracy and musicianship, was the principal part of the musicale. The French school was represented by the poignant Suite in F major by Francois Couperin, greatest of French clavecinists. Four Sonatas by the 17th century Italian composer Domenico Scarlatti ended a programme which combined clear beauty with musical perfection to give a memorable evening.

John Gartshore.

Intelligible Music

Ettore Mazzoleni did a splendid job of conducting Friday night's Pops Concert in Massey Hall. In a novel and diversified program, only one number offered real meat for orchestral teeth, the Tchaikovsky Overture Fantasia, Romeo and Juliet. Mr. Mazzoleni has an interpretative facility which makes his music intelligible to the listener. Part of this impression may result from the response he evokes from the orchestra, part of it may spring from the efficiency and forthrightness of his conducting itself. At any rate, the Overture Fantasia displayed a smoothness of line that made it an artistic success.

The novelty highlight of the evening was Selections from the Hary Janos Suite, a notably clever bit of modern orchestration. In it Kodaly has scored for a complete range of percussion instruments, including in his instrumentation parts for piano, celeste, bells, and saxophone. No noise is too fiendish for the title character, not terrified screams from trilling piccolos or grotesque grunts from the tympani. One can safely be amused at a single hearing of such a composition, but the thought of a steady diet is appalling. Fortunately the suite is not long, and finishes off with a sprightly and flourishing folk dance. The work, on the whole, is both original and interesting.

Guest artist of the evening was Juanita Carter, American Soprano. Miss Carter sang with sincerity and repose two Arias from Puccini's La Boheme. Unfortunately, her attempt to make herself heard above the orchestra was not successful, in spite of the conductor's attempt to subdue the accompaniment. It would seem a good idea to use only half the orchestra on these occasions, out of courtesy to both artist and audience. The second group of songs, with Leo Barkin at the piano, gave us a chance to gauge the quality and power of her voice. Miss Carter's middle register contains tones of velvet, but the upper register is not always secure. One characteristic of the singer's was a delightfully non-excessive smile. Which proves the fact that prima donnas need not grin like apes.

COURT STONE.

Sr. A vs Ajax

(Continued from Page 6)

Toronto first line to 4 points in the last 5 minutes.

With 15 seconds left the Ajax quintet again asked "time out" but their "never say die" strategy failed to produce another point though they peppered the backboards with shots.

The Senior's first line was terrific as they picked up 34 of their team's points. Himel was good going both ways, and intercepted several passes to set-up Lowes and Andrews who made no mistakes under the basket. Tettmar found time to sink 5 field goals while playing a good game on guard. The Ajax first string was the only one which could formulate an attack with Red Torrens at centre scoring 6 points. Taylor did a good job from the Ajax keyhole in grabbing rebounds and organizing plays.

Lineups: Sr. A's: Lowes 14, Andrews 12, Tettmar 10, Himel 8, Galt 4, Sturgis 1, Henessy, Potruf. Ajax: Torrens 6, McHenry 4, Doty 1, Taylor 1, Crang, Guzanoff, Bate, Pearce, James, Harvey.

Ajax Sports

January 31, 1946.

BASKETBALL

Res. 727-18; 722-17, J. Crang.
Res. 733-46; 737-23, J. Crang.
Res. 730 "A"-82; 732 "A"-18, D. Blach.
Res. 729 "B"-31; 725 "B"-19, B. McHenry.
Res. 732 "B"-12; 736 "B"-11, J. Robson.

BOWLING

Res. 729 "B"-1972; 728 "B"-1501
* 736 "B"-1957; 734 "B"-1763
730 "C"-1833; 729 "C"-1714
723 "D"-2061; 722 "D"-1646
722 "E"-1946; 723 "E"-1588
736 "E"-1787; 730 "E"-1577
723 "F"-1785; 750 "F"-1660
733 "D"-1885; 734 "D"-1737

Sport In Short

THURSDAY

Major Basketball

Sr. Vic.—19; Sr. Meds.—14.
S.P.S. "V"—35; Wycl. "A"—15.
Trin. "A"—19; Jr. U.C. "B"—6

Minor Basketball

P.H.E. III—26; II Meds "A"—15.
U.C. III—25; III Med. "A"—23.
St. Mikes—12; Trin VII—5.
U.C. Holwood—28; Vic. K—21.
Vic. XII—29; Trin VI—6.

Hockey

For. "B"—7; Knox "B"—3.
Trin. "A"—7; St. Mikes "A"—2.
S.P.S. I—4; Vic. I—1.

FRIDAY

Major Basketball

Sr. S.P.S.—27; Jr. U.C. "A"—14.
St. Mikes "B"—16; Dent. "B"—8.

Minor Basketball

IV Aero—20; I Meds.—18.

Hockey

S.P.S. IV—6; Pharm. 1.
S.P.S. V—6; Wycl.—3.

RECORD HOUR

The record program, held daily in the Women's Common Room from 4:00 to 5:30 p.m. is open to all men and women of every college and faculty.

Today's program:

Offenbach—Overture to Orpheus in Hades.
Mousorgsky—Pictures at an Exhibition.
Ravel—Ma Mère de L'Oye.
Albeniz—Nayarra Sevilla.

U.C. ART EXHIBIT

All contributions for the Art Exhibit of work by men and women in University College must be handed in at the Women's Union by Tuesday, Feb. 12. For further information call Evelyn Swartz, MI 2015.

What's On Today

FINE ART CLUB

Florence Wylie and Frances Loring will discuss sculpture at a meeting of the Fine Art Club at 8:00 p.m. at 110 Glenrose Ave.

U.C.—S.C.M.

"Do you Believe"
Forum series
Leader: Rev. D. C. Candy
4:00 upstairs
Women's Union

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS SOCIETY

Panel discussion on "Problems of the Near East" by Max Rosenfeld and A. J. Salloom in the Women's Union at 4:30 today.

Torontonensis

bids

Twenty Clubs!

- Probably there is no group more helplessly aware these days of what a "joining" society we have on this campus than Torontonensis editors.

University students are a clubby crowd.

They like to belong.

Quite honestly, we like them to belong.

- Whether they be German students anxious to indulge in beneficial gymnastics with the Teuton tongue at regular meetings of the German Club or whether they be Sociologists eager to meet and hear someone with first-hand sociological testimony such as Lillian Smith, the students, no matter what their chosen course have a related club.

- By means of such clubs, there is aroused an even keener interest in curricular matters.

It's all very invigorating.

We endorse it.

- Not invigorating and not included in the boundary of our endorsement however is the breakdown in these clubs' machinery that results (so far as we of Torontonensis can determine) in no one being deputized to attend to their pages in the year-book.

We have made (slyly, don't you think?) our point.

- A score or more of the clubs appearing in Torontonensis this year are still on our "waiting-for" list.

These are the organizations who have failed thus far to provide us with copy regarding their year's activities to accompany their group pictures and candid shots which (we naively assume) have already been taken and will arrive anon—or sooner!

- We might absolve, by the way, our two examples; The German Club and The Sociology Club. We've heard from both of them. And, of course, we've heard from a good many others too but if your society is guilty of lax adherence to our January 31st copy-picture deadline, might we exhort you to ACTION?

Thank you,

The Editorial Board

Nurnberg Trials Upheld 24-22 At Vic Debate

Two votes decided the issue in last night's session of the Victoria College Debating Parliament, as the government went down to a 24-22 defeat, on the motion "that this house condemns the principles of the Nurnberg trials, as undisguised hypocrisy."

Helen Stauffer, first defendant of the resolution for the government conceded the justice of the trials themselves but asserted that the right people were not being tried. "German democracy," she continued, "died of starvation." Actually, she continued, supposedly democratic nations sat back and watched Mussolini unhindered carry aggressive warfare into Ethiopia, let the Japanese plunder China, and Russia ravage Finland without a word of protest. In conclusion she stated that the war trials, a sop to public opinion, should also include members of the victorious nations who are guilty of similar crimes, if the trials are to be called just.

Rowena Smith, opposing the motion pointed out the fact that a tribunal such as the one in session at Nurnberg now, is provided for in the opening words of the Charter of the United Nations. She continued by citing as a basis for the legality of the body in the Moscow agreement.

Harvey Hay defending the motion, declared that the Nazi party could not be indicted for crimes which were not in existence when they were accused of perpetrating them. He listed the charges levelled against the Nazis and described parallel cases in which the Allied nations themselves had offended in the same way.

Torchy Coatsworth the last speaker outlined the historical precedents establishing the legality of international law and declared that if the trials which were based on this law were hypocritical then all attempts to punish offenses against any type of law were also hypocritical.

Several University Grads Head Musk-ox Expedition

(The following report was sent in by a CUP reporter who was sent to Churchill to cover the activities of former university students on duty with Operation Musk-Ox.)

Churchill, North West Territory, Feb. 2.—Former University students are active with Operation Musk-Ox in connection with a 3,100-mile Arctic expedition which is scheduled to leave from Churchill to Edmonton Feb. 14.

According to Colonel J. T. Wilson, deputy director of the exercise, the expedition to Edmonton was designed for four main reasons: "Firstly, the snowmobile constructed for the Norway invasion will be tested in winter conditions; secondly, the problem of supply handled by equipment - dropping Dakotas and in the far north by ski planes; thirdly, the difficult navigation problem resulting from Aurora and the magnetic pole in the region; fourthly, scientific information of unmapped territory data and meteorological aspects of the north. All major problems will be handled by university-trained men possessing valuable knowledge."

Several officers were interviewed who are working in key positions on the proposed expedition.

Commander W. W. Goforth, commander of last year's Eskimo expedition, is now the Director of Staff Duties (weapons) at Ottawa. His son, J. D. Goforth, is a driver mechanic with Musk-Ox. He will continue his studies in commerce at McGill next year.

Major R. F. Routhgeneral, Staff Officer II, is a Loyola graduate who was studying law at McGill at the outbreak of the war. Major Routhgeneral is supervisor of airborne equipment research.

Flight Lieutenant Brett was interviewed by the CUP reporter in an air plane cockpit 8,000 feet in the air. He joined the airforce at the end of his first year in engineering at Manitoba. He is looking forward to returning to the Manitoba engineering course. "In the service, engineering knowledge is of considerable aid," he said.

Other people on the flight were Brig. S. F. Clark, deputy chief of general staff at Ottawa and director of exercise, Brigadier Winch, general officer and director of signals, Major Walter Wood, assistant military attache of the U.S. Army, noted explorer of Mount Saint Elias Range in Yukon, of Greenland, and of South America.

BEIT FELLOWSHIPS FOR SCIENTIFIS RESEARCH

The Twenty-eighth Election of Fellows for the Beit Fellowships for Scientific research has been announced by the Registrar's Office.

In announcing that no more than three Fellowships will be awarded, attention of candidates is drawn to the fact that the Trust for these Fellowships is separate and distinct from the Trust relating to the Beit Medical Fellowships.

Applications must be received on or before Apr. 6th, 1946.

Forms of application and all information may be obtained by letter only, addressed to the Registrar, Imperial College, South Kensington, London, S.W.7.

Food "Fashions" Lecture Subject

Today's diet foibles fads and phobias will be discussed this afternoon by Professor Ray Farquharson when he considers the subject "Nutrition" in the current series of public Health Lectures.

In lay language this member of the Department of Medicine will give his audience a clear picture of what should be eaten and why it should be. The current vitamin craze will also be reviewed.

The lecture open to the general public will be held in the North Lecture Room of the Medical Building at 5.10 today.

SKULEMEN BACKSTAGE OF "CHRISTMAS STORY"

By BOB COOKE

The inside of the church was in shambles; there were boards lying in the aisles, there was the banging of hammers and the rasping of saws. There were electrical cables lying on the floor and spotlights and floods lying in the chancel. Right at the back were two fourth year engineering students connecting cables to a switch panel.

"It's the same every year," explained one of them. "At the beginning of December men come in from Eaton's and set up the stage. Then lights have to be set up and tested and the performers have to rehearse before we can put on 'The Christmas Story'."

For the past eight years the story of the birth of Christ has been put on at the Holy Trinity Church down town. The story originally written by the Reverend Patt McCormick of St. Martin's in the Field in London, England, was brought to Holy Trinity when McCormick found its production too much for him. It is now produced by his daughter, Mrs. John Frank, with the assistance of her husband the Reverend John Frank, Rector of Holy Trinity.

Although it is produced in another country, the circumstances of its production resemble those in England. Holy Trinity is in one of the poorer sections of the city. St. Martin's in the Field is in the slums of London. The proceeds of the silver collection at St. Martin's was used for charity. At Holy Trinity it is used for work among the poor and during the war part of the money has been sent to St. Martin's to aid those who were bombed out.

Then again, Holy Trinity, like St. Martin's in the Field, is in a region that was originally the better section of the city. It is part of another age. Originally surrounded by homes and trees, it is now in the perpetual shadow of dirty factories, factories whose soot has covered its exterior, whose shadows cut out its

The VARSITY

VOL. LXV—NO. 75 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Tuesday, February 5, 1946

STUDENTS HERE WILL BROADCAST

King Commends Essay Contest

Wrote Mackenzie King of coming essay contest on atomic power: "This enterprise is one which, I believe, deserves warm commendation. If civilization is to survive, it is essential that mankind adapt itself to life in an atomic age; that men and nations everywhere learn the lesson that over all nations is humanity."

In a series of ten special weekly supplements, the Montreal Standard plans to publish the winning entries of this contest which they sponsor.

The Standard has said that the contest is intended as a medium of expression for Canada to state its views and thoughts on the development and application of atomic power.

The contest is open to all Canadian citizens but contains special sections for university undergraduates and those under 18.

Ranging from a top prize of $1,000, a total greater than $3,000 will be awarded to prize-winning entries.

Full details of the contest are available in the office of the Students' Administrative Council.

Married Students Chance Spoiled

Dog-tags featured many first term "let's-get-together" sessions when the undergraduate body was adjusting itself to a year crowded with returned men, many married. Even now the complaints have not died from co-ed lips that "Yuh can't tell whether they're married or not!" But we're glad to see that Toronto is not the only campus where these problems, source of unrest, exist. As proof we quote below the Associated Press:

Shreveport, La., Feb. 2.—(AP)—When a college class in freshman English met here for the first time, the instructor found the class consisted chiefly of veterans—and one girl. The instructor, undaunted, introduced each boy in turn to the girl. "Now," said one veteran to the teacher, "Make the married ones stand up so she'll know which is which." The teacher obliged.

Now that was kind of the teacher, kind to the girl, but it must have put a lot of cold water on candles eager to burn at both ends!

Sampath C.B.C. Official To Conduct Auditions

Programs For South America

Mr. E. Fitzroy Sampath, of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's Caribbean Service, will be in Toronto at the end of this month to audition Varsity students for the production of three short-wave programs for South American and Caribbean listeners.

In a letter to The Varsity, Mr. Sampath stated that he hoped eventually to be able to leave an entire assignment in the hands of students. The three programs being produced are: Canadian Forum, a half-hour discussion of West Indian problems by West Indians for the benefit of listeners

C.U.P. Flashes

(By the Canadian University Press)

Edmonton-Student Council representatives at the University of Alberta have been successful in their attempt to locate a bear cub as mascot for Alberta's Golden Bears in the week-end's basketball tournament at Winnipeg. Zoos at Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon and Winnipeg were contacted to no avail. The zoo at Saskatoon suggested the North Pole as a possible source of a bear.

Winnipeg—An ice carnival pep rally, featuring a preview of the Ice Carnival dance orchestra for the University of Manitoba Ice Carnival was broadcast over the local station CKRC Saturday afternoon.

Underhill to Open Lecture Series

The annual February lecture series sponsored by the Victoria College Council will begin to-morrow when Professor F. H. Underhill will speak on "The Fabians" in Alumni Hall at 5.00 p.m.

Future lectures will be given by Professor C. W. Leslie, Miss J. MacPherson, and Professor S. H. Gould all of the Victoria College staff who will speak on successive Wednesdays in Alumni Hall.

in the West Indies; Canadian Spotlight, a half-hour variety program designed to portray the effect of Canadian education and culture on students from the Caribbean; and a program for Latin America.

Pointing out that many preliminary arrangements must be made before a date for the auditions could be definitely announced, Mr. Sampath said he was anxious to contact local organizations interested in "the interchange of cultural and intellectual activity between Canada, the Caribbean, and South America."

Transmissions to the Caribbean and South America are still on a test basis, consisting of one hour in English, one hour in Spanish, and half an hour in Portuguese per week. The Canadian Spotlight and Caribbean Forum are featured on these test transmissions each Sunday evening from 7.00 to 9.30 p.m.

The first edition of Caribbean Forum was transmitted last Sunday, carrying greetings to the Caribbean from Dr. F. C. James, Principal of McGill.

The recorded program was made in co-operation with several McGill student societies including the Cosmopolitan Club, The British West Indies Society, and the Radio Workshop.

Plan Meeting For Engineers

The relations existing between the Engineering Institute of Canada and undergraduate engineers will be discussed at a conference of the presidents of all undergraduate Engineering Societies in Canada this week. To be held in the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal, the conference will begin at 9.00 a.m. Wednesday Feb. 6 and will continue till Saturday Feb. 9.

Delegates from Toronto will be M. D. McCulloch, President of the Engineering Society 1945-6, and R.F. Moore, President 1944-5.

"The objective of the conference is to discuss what the E.I.C. can do to assist the undergraduate engineer and to obtain a closer co-operation between the undergraduate Engineering Societies," explained Murray McCulloch. The subjects to be considered at the convention are the ways in which the E.I.C. can help undergraduates in the form of providing speakers and films for meetings, and encouraging of technical and cultural interest by publications and the establishing of awards and prizes.

To be discussed also at the convention is the way in which the E.I.C. can help young undergraduates in the form of counselling and providing social and employment contacts.

"This is the first conference of this kind," states McCulloch, "if it is a success these conventions will become an annual event."

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221
Night OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor...Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
Make-up Editor...Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
News Editor...George Forster, 477
Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 476
Feature Editor...E. Ross McLennan, 477
Assistant...Reg Herman, 476
Sports Editor...Bredin Stapells, 476
Assistant...Don Mason, 476
Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor...Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant...Dorothy Harley, 476
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor...Philip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Tuesday, February 5, 1946

It's YOUR Paper

The Varsity, we told you last fall, is your paper. It is not our paper. We hold it in trust for you.

For two weeks now we have been serving up your morning paper in revitalized form: eight pages instead of four, with the departments redistributed in the interests of breathing-space and reader-interest.

Coyly dabbling a toe in the ice-cold waters of change, we have provided up to a dozen features, designed to make your paper more readable, more enjoyable. We have tried to mirror the campus world more adequately than ever before.

The campus, we believe, is not entirely lectures, meetings, and athletic contests; though the balance of the old Varsity might have suggested that makeup.

The campus is your evening bridge-game, the flash-and-crash experiments of electrical labs, the culinary tastes of the cokedate queen, the views of our readers on Russia, education, and editors.

The campus is a great deal more diversified than you might suspect. We have tried in the new Varsity to mirror that diversity.

Because we are not sure whether we have succeeded, we are going to ask your advice. Starting tomorrow, and for several succeeding issues, we are going to print a questionnaire for you to answer.

On the basis of questionnaire results, our readers are going to help us edit The Varsity.

For your convenience in thinking over the questionnaire, we tabulate the specific changes we have made in the new Varsity.

First, of course, is the eight-page tabloid, delivered across the campus during early-morning lectures. It contains nearly twice the reading-matter of fall issues, and it comes to you earlier than before. AND there are enough to go round.

Second, there is the reallocation of space. News has two front pages, permitting more of the small items that were previously overlooked, as well as more CUP news from other camps. Sport has a solid page. Art, Music and Drama reviews have ample stretching-space on page eight. And a second editorial-features page on seven permits more letters, more editorial encores, more of many interesting things.

There are more pictures. Not just spot-news pictures, but pictures of things that make up the campus: comedians and lecturers and beauty queens and Ajax dormitories. Yesterday we printed our first campus cartoon.

There are new features, too: the Swing column, today's Bridge feature which we hope to run regularly, write-ups of student personalities like School's Belshaw and the Orchestra's Gruber.

Finally, last week we made a supreme act of faith in campus thoughtfulness. In last Thursday's issue we printed intact the 8,000-word text of Principal W. R. Taylor's address on University education in the modern world. We believed that this address deserved a wider audience than it originally had; to that belief we devoted two full pages. With your consent, we intend to do the same from time to time as we encounter similar scholarly and thought-provoking pronouncements.

That, roughly, is the new Varsity. We want to know if you like it; its new appearance, its new contents, its new emphasis on the thousand fascinating particulars of campus life.

Tomorrow's questionnaire is your share in editing your newspaper.

Be hearing from you!

—W. H. K.

P.S.—To Letter-Writers

With more space, we are printing more and longer letters; but there's a limit.

We can't print unsigned letters, or letters signed only with initials. All letters must be signed with the full name, year, and course of the writer. Names will be withheld from publication only if adequate reason is provided.

And we can't print 8,000-word letters, although we have made an exception for an 8,000-word speech. Letters, which have shown an alarming tendency lately to amble on for hours, should introduce a subject, develop it, and quit without further longeurs. We haven't cut a letter yet, but we reserve that privilege. Keep it short and be safe.

The Wink As A Form Of Extra-curricular Activity

Midway through the 19th Century, various astronomical phenomena were observed taking place in a closet of Buckingham Palace. Besides several conjunctions and assorted elongations, three new constellations were discovered. Though the exact cause of all this unattached activity was not known, one school of thought attributed it in some mysterious way to the Palace Gardener, who was in total eclipse at the time.

The experts, however, carelessly overlooked the influence of Wisteria on the situation. As a matter of fact, she was born ten years later, and didn't affect it.

Anyway, the point I am trying to make is that a bird in the hand is better than an overcrowded birdcage. This Wisteria, who later turned up as trainer of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was for several fortnights credited with originating. "Contraction. of. the Peeper," or wink. That she was wrongly accused is proven by the aforementioned case of the gardener, who was up to something, obviously.

According to custom, Wisteria at this point should come right back with a single down the third base line, but since she eloped yesterday with James Joyce, any statement should be made to the Royal Astronomical Society.

(a.) Winking does not cause ossification of the eyelid.

(b.) Ossification of the eyelid does not cause winking.

(c½) Yngvi is not a louse.

This last point precipitated the experts into confusion, throwing as it did a whole new aspect of the affair open to speculation.

An early investigator discovered that Yngvi had emigrated to Montenegro in 1602, and then, in rapid succession, to Cappadocia, Assyria, Sumneria, and Xanadu. Since none of these countries now exist, it was decided that Yngvi must be a louse.

Yngvi must be reinstated! Rarely has such slander been perpetrated against an individual in this, a so-called democratic nation. Discrimination of this nature is a threat to the right of every Canadian Citizen. Where is your tooth brush? Gird up your lions and advance to do battle with the foe, and let this wacky ring from your lips.

YNGVI IS NOT A LOUSE!

'SPLRFSK'

RECORD HOUR

The record program held daily in the Women's Common Room, University College from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m. is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. To-day's program: Gounod — Faust.

LIGHT UP AND Work

It's amazing how the smoking of a Sweet Cap. gives pleasure to the task and makes those study hours fly.

Bank on a Sweet Cap for satisfaction—anywhere... anytime! And when you tune in "LIGHT UP AND LISTEN" WITH

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES

Station CKEY — CJBC

9.30 p.m.—Every Thursday Night

TRINITY COLLEGE FRENCH CLUB

Presents

La POUDRE AUX YEUX

By

LABICHE and MARTIN

on THURSDAY and FRIDAY

FEBRUARY 7th. and 8th.

at ST. HILDA'S

8.15 P.M.

ADMISSION - 25c

Come! Bring Your Friends

Hart House Bulletin Board

Informal Recital

Ross Fleming, (III Medicine), pianist, will give an informal recital in the east common room at 1.30 today.

Talk in the Art Gallery

Mr. John Hall will give a review of his exhibition of paintings in the art gallery at 1.30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Glee Club Rehearsal (as usual)

Glee Club Elections

Elections for the Glee Club Committee will be held in the music room on Tuesday, 18th February, between 4.30 p.m. and 6.30 p.m. Nominations will open at 9 a.m. on Friday, 8th February, and close at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, 13th February. Nomination forms will be available in the Warden's office.

Seek Student Assistance In Self-Improvement Poll

Tomorrow The Varsity begins a week-long pulse-taking process to determine its readers' sentiments about their undergraduate newspaper.

Campus reaction to The Varsity's revitalized and expanded form has seemed favorable, will now be formally tested.

Designed to record reader-opinion, a questionnaire will be published tomorrow and for several days thereafter. By use of the questionnaire form, students may express their views about the revamped Varsity.

Tomorrow readers will be asked to answer a set of questions regarding the new Varsity, its expansion and remodelled appearance, its latest features.

Ever anxious to serve its student audience as it best can, The Varsity's popularity poll is the first formal sampling of student journalistic tastes undertaken for five years.

In 1942 The Varsity under editorship of H. Dent Hodgson polled the campus in similar fashion. Its problem then and now: Do its readers approve of it?

With recent unprecedented alterations in the newspaper, The Varsity staff feels the time ripe for such question-popping.

Croll Accepts Invitation To Join Jap-Can Forum

Col. David A. Croll, Liberal Member of Parliament, has accepted the invitation of the Japanese-Canadian Committee to speak in the forum planned for Feb. 14, it was announced yesterday by the committee executive.

"I will participate in this forum to discuss the political aspects of the issue not to support the government's policy," he continued.

Other speakers include Mr. Andrew Brewin, spokesman of the Civil Liberties Committee, who recently presented a brief to the Supreme Court questioning the government's authority to deport some 10,000 west coast Japanese-Canadians, and Mr. K. Z. Tanaka, chairman of the Japanese-Canadian Committee for Democracy.

Dr. W. R. Taylor, Principal of University College, has been asked to be chairman of the forum, slated for the Great Hall of the Economics Building on Feb. 14, and his decision is expected today.

Hart House's Warden J. B. Bickersteth has invited all speakers and President Smith to dinner at Hart House before the forum. Afterwards there will be a reception for the guests in Wymilwood.

The forum has been planned by the campus Committee on Japanese-Canadians as part of the educational program promised as a result of the Engineering Society's refusal to deviate from its policy to commit itself on what were termed political issues.

Four Universities Present Plays

Edmonton, Alta.—Feb. 4.—(CUP)—Before near capacity crowds, representatives of drama clubs from four universities presented one act plays in convocation Hall, University of Alberta on Friday and Saturday. This program was the culmination of plans initiated last fall to have get-together drama clubs every year, not on a competitive basis but for the exchange of ideas and the common betterment of the clubs. This is the first gathering of its kind in Canada, although parts of the United States have a similar

The VARSITY

VOL. LXV—NO. 75 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Tuesday, February 5, 1946

Enforced Hart House Rule Debarred Women Engineers From Graduation Banquet

"In Indignation"

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

It seems incredible that this university, which poses as a progressive institution, should welcome the presence of a young lady at dances and other social functions, but turn her away from an instructive lecture given by the Head of the Department in which she is registered, solely because the lecture is given in Hart House.

Recently, the Engineering Institute held a meeting at Hart House for the purpose of acquainting the undergraduate engineers with the several prize-winning theses written this year. Although the women students now in third year engineering and architecture must each write a thesis in the near future, they were denied the benefit of this meeting.

Is the university as a whole, proud of the fact that the three women graduating from School last year were barred from the dinner held in honour of the graduation class? And one of these girls possesses the high honour of holding the R.A.I.C. Gold Medal in Architecture.

Those supporting this ridiculous state of affairs put forward the weak argument that the Deed of Hart House restricts attendance at meetings held there to men only. They overlook the obvious fact that when the policy was formulated, there were no women in professional courses to be considered. There is no such thing as a charter that can't be amended to suit present circumstances.

It is now time for the gentlemen whose duty it is to interpret the charter, to light the old oil lamps, pull up their red flannel underwear, and realize that times have changed.

In Indignation,
(Miss) Dormer Ellis
III Engineering Physics

The Hart House "no women" clause, rooted in the deed of gift by which the House became the property of the University, is wreaking concentrated hardship among the girls in Engineering, according to Joan Robinson, President of the S.P.S. Women's Undergraduate Association.

Always a minority, the girls at School, 17 strong this year, are being regularly turned away from departmental club meetings. Last year School's three women graduates were debarred from their own graduation banquet.

"The fault," says Miss Robinson, "lies in the application of Hart House rules."

Course clubs, with an automatic membership embracing the entire enrollment in each department, hold regular meetings featuring speakers and movies which form an important part of the Engineer's education. Traditional meeting-place, and the most practical financially, is Hart House; but women students are turned away at the door.

In a letter to The Varsity published elsewhere on this page, Dormer Ellis, II Engineering Physics, stated that she had been turned away "from an instructive lecture given by the Head of her Department, solely because the lecture was given in Hart House." Miss Ellis also alluded to the exclusion of School's three women graduates of 4T5 from the graduation banquet last June.

The dinner, sponsored by the Engineering Alumni for potential graduates, is held immediately after the presentation of the iron rings, traditional Engineer's trademarks. Last year's women graduates, Sally Macdonald, Pegen Sygne, and Alice Ayre, received their rings and accompanied the banquet chairman to Hart House, where, according to reports, they were turned away at the door despite vigorous protest.

"I can't see why I should not be allowed to go to educational movies and lectures connected with my course, simply because they are held in Hart House," said Marcia Lamont, III Civil. "In three years I have been able to attend only three meetings of the Civil Engineering Club, and then only because they were held elsewhere for my special benefit."

She stated that over 200 members had to pay nearly twice the usual sum for their meals when the meeting was held elsewhere.

"The men have been very good about it," she said. "When a subject in which I'm especially interested comes up, they move the whole meeting. But it puts me on the spot, and it puts all of them even more on the spot."

Questioned on the policy of holding meetings in Hart House, Murray McCulloch, president of the Engineering Society, stated that Hart House offered "decided advantages to male engineers, such as reasonable banquet prices and cheap refreshments for club meetings."

"What we need on this campus, though, is a co-educational common room with facilities for all," he said.

He said it was "most unfortunate that this discrimination exists."

Similar trouble was reported by Bob Clappison, president of the fourth year in Dentistry last year. "Last spring I visited the Comptroller's Office to arrange for a class banquet," Clappison said, "and was told that it was impossible for the one woman in the class to be admitted."

"When the time came for a similar banquet in October," he con-

(Continued on Page 8)

scheme.

The University of Manitoba presented "Still Stands the House" by Gwen Rinwood, directed by Robert Jarman and starring a cast of Meridith Robinson and Fern Little. The University of Alberta presented "Raising Devil" by Robert Gard, directed by Sydney Risk with a cast including Alta Mitchell and Peter Petrashuyk. The University of Saskatchewan presented "To a Dead Man" by Charles Dickens, directed by Lucille Alway and co-starring Jack Hagerman and Don Silversen.

P.T. Or Games Ask Debaters

Should university athletics attempt to foster team spirit as well as physical fitness with less emphasis on calisthenics? Should they attempt to prepare a student to take his place in the community by developing group consciousness?

Or should athletics remain as they are? Should uninterested students have athletics forced upon them or should they only be for athletically inclined students?

The Interfaculty Debating Union hopes that some of these questions will be answered Thursday night when Jim Templeton of Vic and Bunny Joyce of Loretto uphold the resolution "resolved that university athletics should be compulsory." They will be opposed by Ian Alger of Trinity and Helen Harver of St. Joseph's.

Sponsored by Loretto College, the debate will be held in Brennan Hall, St. Michael's College, Thursday at 8 p.m.

AJAX TAKES TIME OUT TO HOLD HOUSE DANCE

Residence 728 broke the Ajax social ice last Thursday evening and held the first house dance of the season. Dancing from 9-12 in the common room to recorded music supplied by Messrs. Bailley and Wilcott, the lads and lasses took time out at intermission for refreshments supplied by the house committee.

What's On Today

NEWMAN CLUB

A sleigh ride will be held tonight at 8:00 p.m. Meeting place: Glen Mawr in Hog's Hollow, about 15 minutes walk north of the Yonge Street car terminal. Refreshments at the Club House afterwards.

FRENCH CLUB

There will be a joint meeting of the U.C., Vic. and Trinity French Clubs at Wymilwood, 4:00 p.m. M. Philippe de Vendevure will speak on "La Jeunesse Francaise". Refreshments and discussion. All welcome.

HEALTH LECTURE

Professor Ray Farquharson, of the Department of Medicine, will speak on "Nutrition" in the current series of lectures on "Health". The lecture will be given to the general public in the North Lecture Room of the Medical Building at 5:10 this afternoon.

"Atlantic World" Centre, America Has Power For World Planning

By HAROLD B. ATIN

"I feel that the greatest necessity for the present world is that it's young people should travel, learn each others' languages, and develop 'team spirit'," said young, dynamic, M. Philippe de Vendevure in an interview yesterday.

M. de Vendevure, is spending the next five months travelling in the U.S. and Canada, with the permission of the French government, though as a private individual, went on to say, "When all nations are working together as a team no one considers who has more power, but all work together for the common good."

He believed that the centre of the "Atlantic world" is the U.S. whose economic power places upon her the responsibility for planning the general prosperity. In his belief that France can contribute her part in world team-work lies his confidence in the future of his native country.

"America must do her economic planning on a world scale for the benefit of all," he emphasized. "Such planning can only come from America which now has the power." It is because of his belief in America's importance that he is visiting this continent, in order to try to discover for himself what America's characteristic economic policy is, and to communicate his thoughts and gain an insight into those of others, particularly of young people who are just entering the active world of affairs and are its future leaders.

M. de Vendevure graduated from the Ecole Polytechnique of Paris in 1941 and entered the Youth Resistance Movement in which he served until the end of the war. "I was just one wheel in a great mass of machinery" he insisted, "and not until the end of the war did I know the ultimate aims of the missions on which I was sent." He had travelled in Germany when younger and so was twice sent to Germany to live in the camps with some of the 2,000,000 Frenchmen who had been deported there by the Germans and to seek with them to ameliorate their conditions and to arrange for the escape of the most important through the forging of papers and like means. At the invasion of Normandy he aided the Intelligence Service, through the Free French forces, of the first Canadian regiments near Caen with what he had learned in Germany. He entered Paris with the tanks of the Second Armoured Division of Gen. LeClerc and then joined the staff of Gen. de Lattre de Tassigny who was leading a second army up the Rhone.

After serving as a tank officer from the Rhine to the Danube, and with the surrender of Germany, he returned to Paris to enter the cabinet of Gen. de Gaulle, where his knowledge of recent events and conditions in France was invaluable. He was also a liaison officer between the French forces occupying Germany and the home govt., a position which he left after the elections. At the end of last year he finally accomplished the "arduous enterprise" of arranging his departure from France.

M. de Vendevure who spoke in voluble, energetic French protested that he was exhausted after having spent a sleepless night on the train, that everyone had been perfectly "adorable" to him, and that he had been particularly struck by the physical, moral, and intellectual health of American young people and by their directness and unquestioning self-assurance. He urged that his activity in the resistance movement not be stressed, "What I have done many others have done" he said. He summed up his purpose in coming here in the words "to speak of France to American young people and to learn of America from them." "I feel already that I understand others and that they understand me."

Take it easy, Fred! It's JUST a meeting of the Victoria College Dramatics Club. (Reprinted courtesy of ACTA VICTORIANA.)

L.P.C.I. GRADS

Tickets For Your

Alumnae

Dance
FEB. 22

On Sale in

U.C. Rotunda

Feb. 6 - 7 - 8

From 12-2 p.m. each day

$2.00

Tell Your Friends!!

Brilliant Varsity Alumni Get Prized Paris Posts

Saul F. Rae and Douglas V. LePan, members of Canada's Department of External Affairs, have been named advisors to Lt.-Col. Maurice Pope, Canadian representative at the preliminary reparations conference in Paris.

The college careers of both these men are brilliant records. Saul Rae, U.C. '36, Sociology, an "all-round student". Winner of many scholarships throughout his course, and consistently head of his class, the present Dr. Rae also won many trophies in sports, occupied many positions, among which vice-president of the S.A.C., president of the U.C. Lit., and guiding spirit of the U.C. Follies, may be cited as examples, and was particularly prominent in debating. He won the Robinet Debates trophy, was a participant in the Hart House Debates, and along with S. F. Hermant represented Toronto on an inter-college debating series sponsored by the Canadian Radio Commission.

Upon graduation Mr. Rae was awarded the John H. Moss scholarship and the Massey Fellowship prize for 1936 and went to England where he entered the University of London School of Economics and received his Ph.D. In 1940 he was co-author with Dr. George Gallup of "Pulse of Democracy", a description of the Gallup Poll and its methods from a sociological standpoint, which won much praise. After three years spent teaching at Princeton University, he entered the Dept. of External Affairs at Ottawa, and was second secretary of the Canadian Mission to the French Committee of National Liberation at Algiers.

In Ottawa, in addition to his official duties, he was active in the productions of the Little Theatre Movement, in which he acted, directed, danced, and composed music.

Douglas LePan, U.C. '35, English and History, emphasized the scholastic aspect of university life and

Books

War... And After

It would be obviously unfair to compare Alan Wood's The Falaise Road (MacMillan of Canada, $1.00) with War and Peace, the standard of comparison for all war books; or even with the more recent and, in their own way, perhaps equally important semi-classics of World War I. Wood was a correspondent with the Allies in northern Europe; his despatches appeared almost daily in the London "Daily Express"; his insight was limited and twisted by time and the pressures of a war of movement and non-penetrative death. And, we may possibly assume, by the directives of did so with splendid results, winning several English Scholarships and prizes in course and the Edward Kyle award for 1935 at graduation. Mr. LePan, who is the son of Lt.-Col. LePan, superintendent of the U. of T., then spent two years at Oxford, a year as instructor in English on this campus, and three years at Harvard in the same capacity.

He resigned from Harvard and went overseas in Sept., 1941, with the Canadian Legion Auxiliary Services as educational advisor for the Canadian Legion. He became chief advisor to Lt.-Gen. McNaughton on education for the entire Canadian army upon the promotion of Mr. J. B. Bickersteth, the Warden of Hart House, to director of British Army Education. Later he enlisted and served as a gunner with the R.C.A. in Italy, from where he was flown back a year later to England to take a position in Canada House, London, remaining here until appointed recently with his old college friend, Saul Rae, to the Reparations conference in Paris.

Latest reports on Mr. LePan have it that he is back in London as advisor to the Canadian delegation to the U.N.O. Dr. Rae's family have received no definite word yet but it is probable that he, too, is now with the U.N.O. in London.

censors and circulation-wise editors.

Still, The Falaise Road has its own value. When there is time for perspective and when men find the courage to look clearly back, it may be of use to some young novelist. I do not stress the fact that war sometimes summons forth a strange nobleness from men; so do the daily tragedies society deals forth, only these less frequently achieve the dignity of news "fit to print". But the careful reader may note one day (August 14, 1944) when, through an apparently unavoidable accident, allied planes bombed allied soldiers; and he may even wonder whether such mockeries do not contain a warning to those little people who are granted power once every several decades—and then only to deliver up death which, in the strange perverse ways of our world, is somehow returned.

Mr. Wood, an Australian, says fine things about the Canadian soldiers; and equally fine things about our European friends, who are so rapidly being forgotten. Especially interesting is his equation of traitors and their social and economic position.

For ten cents you can buy at many newsstands "Nowhere To Lay Their Heads" by Victor Gollancz. Mr. Gollancz is an Englishman, a Jew, and a liberal who has helped to re-affirm some of liberalism's vaunted ethical values. And in spite of haste and an admitted emotional and intellectual bias, he has written a polemic in which quotations and statistics balance feeling, insight and understanding. "Nowhere To Lay Their Heads" was written in support of Zionism, although the author states that he is not a member of any Zionist organization. He appeals not only on behalf of the homeless Jews of Europe but also for those who, although still physically at home, have lost the sense of belonging.

We may leave aside debates about the merits of Zionism, which is certainly a political movement, whatever else it may also be. But I doubt that we can deny the unspoken demand of those who, weak, oppressed and homeless as they may be, remain men. And as certain of our politicians seek to channel voters from abroad, we might remember that our first duty is to these disinherited, whose fundamental rights are no less than our own.

—ROBERT WEAVER.

The Students' Choice:

BLOOR TAXI
LIMITED

Sub-station at
HARBORD and ST. GEORGE

RA. 5151

Switchboard connecting all branches

ALSO GENERAL REPAIRS
AND TOWING

Neilson's

Neilson's
JERSEY MILK CHOCOLATE

The Quality Chocolate

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-
ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

BRASS BAND

Full Attendance Required at Practices on TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS, 5 P.M.

at the Drill Hall

BAND IS NEEDED TO SUPPORT ATHLETIC EVENTS
CLARINETS ARE NEEDED

TONY:

Heard you last night. How about Friday at 8.30? Maude.

LOST

Blue Waterman's fountain pen,
Thursday. Please phone HY 5178.
Reward.

Speaking of Swing

Sonny Shines

Featured among several fine attractions at the Arts Ball last Thursday night was the phenomenal trumpeter Sonny Dunham and his aggregation. Although satisfactorily fulfilling his function of providing smooth dance music for the Art's men and their gals, his band could be considered anything but sensational.

Time was when Sonny was known as the white man's Lunceford. But his style was then patterned on the formula of Sy Oliver: high powerful brass coupled with smooth ensemble work by the sax section, and driven by a thumping rhythm. But most of this has now disappeared. About the only similarity between the Ball Band and the one whose canned music has been blasted all over the U.C. Rotunda, is Sonny's trumpet.

He still knocks off altissimo register notes with the non-chalance of a lung-splitting veteran. It is his fantastic excursion into the realm of high frequency that constitutes the outstanding feature of his blowing and of his band. How any man can hop as frantically and unerringly about a register of four octaves as Sonny does, is a favorite topic for conjecture among musicians.

But he falls down on certain essentials of great trumpeting. For one thing his tone is not all it should be. But after having a look at the all-important mouth-piece, we discovered that it is about as flat as the palm of our hand. And since tone is proportional to the depth of the cup, we could understand the thinness of his vibrato.

But even with this shortcoming, his over-abundance of technical ability and range on both trumpet and trombone, give him a rating equal to some of the finer brass men in the business.

The style of his band is easily definable because there is nothing complicated or involved in any of his arrangements. The element of suspense and mystery which is so essential for interesting and at the same time instructive listening seems to be entirely lacking. For our money what he needs above all is a new writing staff.

But Sonny provided a number of good kicks. For the dancers, his band rode smoothly through the unending book of pops, from Stardust right on through Moonglow, Memories of you, and Symphonic; for the hepcats he obliged with some hard-rocking variations on Perdido, ad infinitum.

The brass bit its jumpy figures fairly well, and nary a fluff was audible, much of the credit being due to Johnny Carol, an ex-Kenton horn. The rhythm and saxes, although weaker, held up their end fairly well, with tenor man, Bill Krebs, carrying most of the load. But much of the credit for a smooth evening is due to Pete Henley, who warbled quite artistically through a multitude of vocals.

All in all, after cubing, and adding and square-rooting the shortcomings and assets, we come up with the proposition that not a great deal of Patience and Fortitude was necessary to thoroughly enjoy oneself at the Arts Ball.

—SID STARKMAN

Boy and Dog Deliver Paper

Kansas, Jan. 28 — (Exchange) — Fourteen year old Edwin Steve and seven year old Skipper, a black cocker, deliver the university Daily Kansan on the campus. The boy and dog deliver 130 papers across the university grounds, stopping at every building and climbing scores of stairs.

The pair have been on the job for over a year, and have missed few afternoons. Edwin begins his delivery after his class at high school where he is in first form.

LOST

Wine Parker vacuumatic pen, lost in U.C. Phone Mildred, KI 5843.

Cinemarathon

THEY WERE EXPENDABLE at Loew's, 90%. If you have seen every war movie in the last five years, or if you like your movie entertainment with legs and lust, you may not enjoy this picture immensely, but you will still come out extremely moved and impressed.

The PT Boats are beautiful things, but they're fast and deadly and thrilling and director John Ford has woven a superb picture around them. Bob Montgomery has been off the screen too long, a tragedy that has been somewhat recompensed by one of the best acting performances since Paul Lukas in 'Watch on the Rhine'.

The picture follows the book closely, but slows down towards the end, when they've lost their boats. It is only here too, where there is a bit of rah-rah talk, about what we're fighting for.

One of the things that keeps the audience mindful of the true-life background of the movie is the fact that you never lay eyes on a Japanese. The realization that it actually happened heightens the excitement.

ONE NIGHT WITH YOU at the Midtown, 60%. The 60% is for the good music, the clever idea of popularizing the classics, and Franchot Tone's care-free acting.

The plot is out of this world, in fact the whole thing is about Susan Foster's dreams as she snuggles into bed each night. A Gilbert and Sullivan treatment of the Barber of Seville is a good example of one of her dreams. Tone plays the part of the most vivid character that has appeared in a movie, but he's more likeable than the rest of the corn-dispelling cast.

No Happy Hunting Ground For Rats Around Varsity

By Helen Newson

Mayor Robert Saunders has recently offered a grand prize of $100.00 to the most enterprising rat-trapper in the city. It was felt that Varsity students should be given some idea of the importance and whereabouts of Toronto's rats in order to have a fair start in the race.

Few people are well acquainted with the family Muridae, of which the member most common to Toronto dwellers is the brown or Norway rat. Dr. Frances Stuart, of the Women's Health Service, although she claims to be no authority on the subject, did state a few facts about rats in our own city.

"Rats breed only where conditions are unsanitary," she said. "We often hear reports of school-children receiving bites from rats in our downtown localities. These bites are painful, and dangerous when infected."

"Of course Bubonic Plague no longer constitutes a real danger in our community, but cases do still occur in sea-ports, where rats land from ships which have come from foreign countries."

Where are the rats most prevalent on this campus? To this question, Colonel Le Pan, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds replied: "Why, we just don't have any rats!"

"Of course," he went on to say, "we generally make use of rat exterminator just in case, but apart from that, rats give us very little trouble at all."

So if you're out to win that $100.00 prize, this university is not the place to look for it!

By Reg. Herman

The climax is the point where Susan chooses between play-boy producer Tone who offers a stage career and an adopted orphan addicted to kicking people's shins, and her old boyfriend who offers a hamburger joint and from the beginning to the end of the picture is continually shouting that he wants her to have his six kids.

The final scene presents the solution rather quaintly.

PRISON SHIP at the Casino, 100%. The entire audience at the Casino enjoyed the picture immensely, naturally, although somewhat restively towards the end. This is, by the way, a first Toronto showing.

The idea of the movie is a brilliant Jap plot, the idea being that they pile a lot of American prisoners onto a Jap freighter which they send out onto the ocean with lights blazing, to be sunk by American subs. Thus for the price of a $100,000 freighter they are saved the expense of feeding 100 prisoners of war.

This reasoning is so deep that the hero and heroine take three-quarters of the picture to figure it out, but I knew about it all the time. The moral of the thing is that Japs aren't very nice.

Hurry right down to see this, we understand it's only staying till next Thursday, because of previous commitments of the theatre management.

As for the stage show, Milton Cadesby, Producer of the U.C. Follies, stated: "The best strip in the show was done by the guy in front of me, who spent half an hour taking off his coat." The rest of the show will be reviewed in the Art, Music and Drama column.

DONALD FLEMING

"WHAT THE
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY
STANDS FOR"

OPEN MEETING
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CLUB
4.00 P.M.

WOMEN'S UNION WED. FEB. 6th.

COLE'S PAY MORE FOR USED BOOKS

UP TO 50% MORE ON ALL CURRENT BOOKS

	We Will Pay
Textbook of Physics-Chant and Burton	1.75
Constitutional Issues in Canada-Dawson	1.50
Modern Inorganic Chemistry, last ed.—Mellor & Parkes	2.50
English Social History-Trevelyan	2.25
Social Framework—Hicks	1.30
Markets and Men—Rowe	1.25
Problems of Philosophy—Cunningham	1.50
Introduction to Philosophy—Maritain	1.25
Introduction to Logic—Maritain	1.50
Introduction to Electrical Engineering—Mueller	1.50

	We Will Pay
Calculus Made Easy—Thompson60
Art Through the Ages—Gardner	2.22
Survey of European Civilization—Ferguson & Bruun	2.75
Statics—Timoshenko	1.50
Introduction to American Government—Ogg & Ray 7th edition	2.00
Test Papers—Ferguson30
Clark's Tables, 19th ed.10
Psychology of Character—Allers	Cloth 1.80 paper .30
Republic—Plato—Lindsay translation45

OLD WIVES TALE—BENNETT
ADAM BEDE—ELIOT
RETURN OF THE NATIVE—HARDY
CULTURE AND ANARCHY—ARNOLD
ARMS AND THE MAN—SHAW
SAINT JOAN—SHAW
PLAYBOY OF THE WESTERN WORLD—SYNGE
LORD JIM—CONRAD
SHORTER PEPYS
VANITY FAIR—THACKERAY
ANTONY & CLEOPATRA—SHAKESPEARE

WE NEED THESE BOOKS TOO.
PRICE DEPENDS ON THE EDITION

BOOK MARKET
AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE ST. (1 Block South of Bloor)
Randolph 1148

WE BUY
BOOKS

Speaking OF SPORT

By BREDIN STAPELLS

Squash, Horrible Vegetable . . .

The noble art of squash has never received much attention on this campus. But after eight long years Canadian squash has come into its own. Jack Leibel of the Hart House triumphantly brought the coveted dominion squash racquets championship back to this side of the border.

Joe Hahn of the Detroit Athletic Club was downed three times out of four at the Carlton club two days ago. Having taken Hahn, Jack may now be considered one of the top racquet players on this American continent. Which only goes to show chill'un that if you play hard in the coming tournament this week, even you may cope a championship like Jack.

What Fools We Mortals Be . . .

Last Friday night shows as conclusive evidence that Varsity men are really gentlemen. Yes sir! They go all out for giving every man a chance. Such was the case last Friday when the junior Blues were defeated by Markham, one of the weaker clubs in the league, by the tight margin of 6-5.

What was the reason for this, you ask? It seems that our second goalie McGuire was given a chance to show his wares with the unfortunate results depicted above.

It's not that we mind giving him his chance, but could we not at least take along our first line man in case of difficulties? This is little enough to ask when the Blues have such a fine record up to date.

• Sportswoman •

The Week in Revue

The hockey scores have all been of a small size this week, teams winning by a margin of one or two goals. Spectators avow that the grade is fast improving, so this item re: goals proves that the goal keepers are worth their weight (plus gear) in nylon stockings. Joan Fletcher of Meds scored the only two points made in the game Meds vs P.H.E. . . . Vic II defeated the Saints 1-0 in a game exceptional only for the casting of Lady Luck's ballot into the laps of Vic . . . the last game of the week was a snappy display between U.C.I. and P.H.E.I. which threatened to be a no-score event when the sole goal by Eileen Cameron was disputed by the opposing team P.H.E.

As for volleyball . . . (still no scores printed by request) Vic. trounced P.H.E. II, but the latter team excuses this loss with the thought that some of their star players were shanghaied by the intercollegiate basketball coach . . . P.H.E. 1A won their game versus P.H.E.3 by 30 points . . . O.T. came out victorious against P.H.E. 1B in the most closely contested event of the volleyball season.

Friday's report of the final swimming meet held at Hart House turned out to contain not a few errors. To set it right we print the following corrections: P.H.E. team first with 35 points; Vic. second, 18; U.C. third, 11. In the breast stroke race Barb. Hinchcliffe and Marg Dale tied for first place. Pat Patterson was awarded third place in the ornamental swimming.

Hanson Of School Outstanding At Annual Interfaculty Ski Meet

Last weekend at the Varsity Ski Club at Aurora the annual interfaculty Ski Meet drew many competitors from all nine faculties.

The meet went into action with the beginning of the jumping. On Sat. afternoon fast snow and a well trapped outrun inspired Hanson S.P.S. to leap 58 feet one inch for the longest jump of the day. His excellent style and long distances on his two jumps netted him 35.50 points out of a possible 40 to win the event with a margin of 2.8 points over Armstrong also of S.P.S. Coburn of Dents followed closely in third place.

Following the jumping, the competitors set out into the hinterland over the Leacherson four miles of dense brush, barb wire fences and fast roadwork which made the one's ability in every phase of skiing and required a great deal of cross-country course. The race tested stamina.

Jack Gall of Bus. Adm. paced all runners over the grueling course to cross the finishing line fully 6 min. ahead of Hanson of S.P.S., who placed 2nd. The times for the four mile course range from Gall's stellar 34 min. run to a Forester's 1 hr. 42 min. bush survey. Thanks to this man it is known how much timber per skier there is in the Varsity Ski Club. Also mentioned is some tireless skier who as far as can be determined is still running.

The proceedings were continued early Sunday morning with the laying of a 600ft. telephone line necessary to time the downhill. Hugh Conover of S.P.S. held a fifth of a second margin on a two run total to edge out Coburn Dents, Firstbrook Vic. and Creed Bus. Adm. all of whom tied for second place. The run though short proved to be fast and tricky, with the result that the loss of time due to any mistake on the part of a contestant would put him out of a closely contested field.

As many of the competitors were very close it was necessary to give the first thirteen of the thirty-two runners a second run. The total times were added for the two runs to give the final results.

After a healthy lunch the skiing hordes migrated to the slalom hill in anticipation of the final struggle of the day. Don Firstbrook of Victoria slithered through the flags to win the slalom with a time of 56.3-5 seconds for two runs over Ed. Creed of Bus. Adm. whose time was 60.3-5 seconds. Hanson of S.P.S. trailed by 2-5 to a second to add third place to his time record of the meet.

For the combined results Hanson of S.P.S. totalled 375 out of a possible 400 points, followed by Coburn of Dents with 351.4 and First-brook of Vic. with 274.2.

Results for the Faculty Standing:	Pts.
S.P.S.	805.5
Bus. Adm.	504.9
Dents	423.9
St. Mikes	341.7
U.C.	301.0
Vic.	374.3
Trinity	157.3
Meds	66.9

RESULTS OF SKI MEET	Slalom
Firstbrook-Vic.	56 3/5
Creed-Bus. Adm.	60 1/5
Hanson-S.P.S.	60 3/5
Manchee-S.P.S. single pen.	62
Coburn-Dents.	63 1/5

Downhill
1	Conover—S.P.S.	32
2	Coburn—Dents	32 1/5
2	Firstbrook—Vic.	32 1/5
2	Creed—Bus. Admin.	32 1/5
5	Hill —S.P.S.	32 4/5
5	McIntyre L.—St. Mikes ..	32 4/5
Cross Country Results

Cross Country Results
1. Gall, Bus. Adm.	34 min. 45 sec.
2. Hanson, S.P.S.	40 min. 10 sec.
3. Sivell, U.C.	40 min. 13 sec.
4. McIntyre, St. M.	41 min. 21 sec.
5. Stephenson, U.C.	43 min. 42 sec.
Jumping Results

Jumping Results	Pts.
1. Hanson, S.P.S.	35.5
2. Armstrong, S.P.S.	32.7
3. Coburn, Dents.	31.5
4. Gall, Bus. Adm.	27.6
5. Firstbrook, Vic.	25.7

Jimmy Steele Here From R.C.A.F. Will Plan Intramural Athletics

By RED JONES

Meet the latest addition to the athletic staff of the University of Toronto: he is Jimmy Steele who came to us three weeks ago from the R.C.A.F. When first seen he was comfortably ensconced behind a desk in the upper confines of Hart House and concentrating on the intramural sport schedules which he tries to plan two weeks in advance. Finding himself cornered he lit up a Pall Mall, and obligingly gave out with all the information he could.

Jimmy is a widely-travelled man and the different places he has visited from coast to coast in North America mark different phases in his life; born in Scotland and brought up in Vancouver, he attended George Williams College in Chicago and graduated in 1934 with a science degree in P.H.E. Sports have always been a major interest in his life and he has consequently made a living out of them even since leaving university.

He was a letter-man at college where he specialized in swimming, gymnastics and track and field. He did not confine his activities to those but played considerable basketball and American football; he admits that there is hardly any sport which he has not had a hand in although he confesses that his efforts in hockey were limited to goal-tending and managing because his right skate wasn't sure what his left would do when he left the security of the posts. His managing prowess in Canada's national sport was enviable however, since he coached an Air Force team from Digby to the overseas R.C.A.F. championship.

For six years after graduation our cosmopolitan Mr. Steele remained in Chicago and coached several city, basketball and swimming teams including the Lawson Seahorses who produced such "aquatic equestrians" as Cy Nelson and Al Green who went on to win laurels in the A.A.U. meets and Olympic games.

From Chicago Jimmy returned to Canada and accepted a government position as director of health and physical education in Newfoundland. Working from St. John's he reorganized their playground system and introduced the game of basketball to the island. He wandered on from there to Halifax; then on to Regina. In both these cities he spent his time coaching basketball and swimming teams. He had

(Continued on page 8)

All-Stars Take Cage "Relics"

A bizarre dish was served up last night in Hart House and we are not referring to the Great Hall meals. This delicacy was a basketball tussle between the All-Stars composed of Varsity Senior and Intermediate team members and the Hart House Old Boys team of varied composition.

Final score was 53-23 for the All-Stars.

Ex-All-Americans Warren Stevens and Lou Hayman flanked by Teacher Jack Fitton Ajax Director Horton and Williams College Letter-man, Jimmy Steele made up the Antique Cagemen.

During the first quarter the Old Boys held their own to the tune of 8-12 but the long pantaloons which they sported helped drag them down further in the scoring. Syd Himel and Jack McReynolds each potted 16 points for the All-Stars. Stevens sparked the five old men with six points.

Line-Ups: All-Stars-Himel (16), McReynolds (16), Maschnom (8), Tetmar (5), Waldon (4), Andrews, Hennessy; Old Boys-Stevens (6), Steele (6), Horton (6), Hayman (5), Fitton.

GAMES TODAY

INDOOR TRACK	5:00	1 MILE SENIOR, 220 YARDS-1 MILE NOVICE.
HOCKEY	4:00	WYC vs. KNOX B Brownridge, Davison
WATER POLO	4:30	SR. SPS vs. SR. MED. A Thiston
	5:15	DENT. vs. JR. SPS Rosen
	6:00	SPS III vs. JR. MED. Rosen
BASKETBALL MAJOR	1:00	SPS IV vs. MED. SER. A Johnson
	4:00	ST. M. B vs. DENT. B Jackson
	6:30	WYC A vs. EMMAN A Babcock
	7:30	TRIN. A vs. ST. M. A Babcock
BASKETBALL MINOR	1:00	VIC. V vs. HI. CHEM. Voight
	4:00	TRIN. III vs. VIC VI. Chelietz
	5:00	VIC. VII vs. II ENG. BUS. Chelietz
	6:00	II DENT. vs. U.C. VI. Farrell
	7:00	ST. M. C vs. U.C. ST. GEORGE. Farrell

SR. WRESTLING

Entries close Wednesday at noon. Lists are posted now in Wrestling Room.

INTRAMURAL PICTURE TODAY 1.00 p.m.

Dept of Photography, 3rd floor Engineering Bldg.

BOXING

Meeting today at 1.00 p.m. Athletic Directorate Room Hart House. Entries for Sr. Meet close Wednesday at 1.00 p.m. Lists are posted now in the Boxing Room.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY SCHEDULE

GAMES IN VARSITY ARENA
TUES., FEB. 5-12-1-P.H.E. II vs. ST. MIKE'S
WED., FEB. 6-1-2-P.H.E. I vs. VIC I
THURS., FEB. 7-1-2-ST. HILDA'S I vs. U.C. I
GAMES ON TRINITY RINK
TUES., FEB. 5-6-7-ST. HILDA'S II vs. O.C.E.
THURS., FEB. 7-6-7-O.C.E. vs. U.C. II

Our Readers Write —

A New Target

The Varsity,
U. of T.
Dear Editor,

Some persons on the campus have rebelled ferociously against Mr. Waite's review of "School for Brides", others have been much amused. Mr. Waite probably felt himself rewarded by both reactions, but that is neither here nor there. The fact is that the contemporary standard of evaluation for feminine beauty does follow uncomfortably closely the curves which Mr. Waite plots.

He may not have been justified in being as blunt as he was, but I believe it was no accident that he left himself wide open to an indignant reaction; the cards are stacked against anyone who publicly rebels against seeing the fact revealed.

The fact to which Mr. Waite points is, I repeat, not that the feminine anatomy includes certain characteristics, but that the perfect form of these outstanding features in the contemporary male mind is the criterion of feminine beauty. Is this fact which makes stage shows like "School for Brides" possible.

O.K. Accusez-moi.
Yours truly,
J. Harding Vowles
Philosophy and History IV

Muddle-Headed?

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

I have followed with growing dismay and concern the unmistakable evidence furnished by your articles, which, when pieced together, reveal an essentially muddle-headed approach. I can reach no other conclusion as to your state of mind from such editorials as The Scientific Method, Santa & Satan, The Winged Donkey, She Stoops To Conquer, The Open Mind, About Debates, That's Cant, On Education, and many others.

I do not deny that the editorial writings in the Varsity show technical proficiency—but this is not a criticism of style; nor can one overlook the learning apparent in the abundance of quotations—even though they may not always be apposite! nor do I for a moment doubt your good faith, your sincerity; unfortunately it is to be recognized that sincerity in itself is not a virtue—it is quite possible to be sincere in the pursuit of unworthy ends.

My contention is that what is lacking in all of your editorials is a genuine understanding of the world around you. It is clear that large sections of the student body disagree, and disagree violently, with the anachronistic evaluations and illogical judgments handed down from the editor's chair. Your views entail a muddle-headedness that is dangerous because it confuses the issues. You refuse to see the issues at hand, or you bury them under a mass of verbalism. You raise issues that have long ago been disposed of unceremoniously.

It is possible to agree with you on many of the premises you base your editorials on, but the conclusions are open to grave doubts. It is true, for instance, that, as H. Belloc maintains, Christianity is of less importance to the modern state than is Nationalism; the reason for this is not far to seek: it is part of a much larger problem; religious, philosophical, economic and social views are products largely of our general social structure. Let me quote Thorstein Veblen:

"The statesmen who guide the destinies of the civilized nations have reason to be apprehensive of what would be due to follow in case the attention of their underlying populations should be at all seriously diverted from the spiritual values of national prestige and patriotic jealousy, and turn to a consideration of their own material circumstances as determined by absentee ownership and control of their industrial system. As is already becoming evident in more than one of these nations, in such a case it would be very difficult to persuade the underlying population that they have anything to lose in discarding the present system of ownership and control. It is not that a better scheme has been devised and is ready to be put in place of the existing system, but only that the existing system is proving itself patently unfit to take care of the country's industries and the material fortunes of its population."

And so it is with most of the problems that are causing you so much writer's cramp. Universal compulsory education, for instance, is not an isolated phenomenon; it is not an evil to be fought; it is a symptom, a product of our social structure which demands that each citizen shall know enough to become a useful cog in the industrial machine, and no more. Solutions cannot be found by a return to the spiritual values of a "better past" but by a determined effort to avoid raising issues that divert attention from the real sickness of the modern world, by dealing with the issues not as they appear in some fanciful ideal state but as they are met with in the real world, a world not of philosophers, but a world of many conflicting, selfish interests.

Letters coming into your office have, in general taken issue with specific points; and you have expressed some surprise, even suspicion at what you call the uniform criticism you have been exposed to. This is surely no accident, nor does it appear to be the result of an organized campaign as you may be taken to imply. This fact only underlines the principal accusation: that you are unable to understand the issues of the times.

Thus I find myself unable to agree with you both on the opinions put forward by you pertaining to specific questions, and much more generally on the whole tenor of your editorial policy. You may pride yourself on being a lone voice in the wilderness; you may comfort yourself in the belief that what the majority believe is not necessarily right.

Nevertheless you cannot expect the reader to leave unchallenged the deplorably illogical views appearing again and again in your editorial columns. If the Varsity were an ordinary commercial newspaper, I could spare myself the trouble of thus expressing sharp disapproval, by simply stopping my subscription. This alternative is not open to a reader of your journal. I therefore feel justified in bringing this matter directly to your attention.

—Paul Pfalzner
IV U.C.

What Tyrant?

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

I greatly appreciate your publication of my "lengthy tirade" a few days ago, and I also admire the feat of editing which included Mr. Chapman's plea in the same issue.

It would seem that Mr. Heenan has been stimulated by my views on education, but it is also apparent that he has so far only been taught to read, and that not very well as he tires quickly. But unfortunately he has not been taught to think about what he reads. If he had, he might have written in favour of my arguments, stating them in a more satisfactory, logical, consistent fashion. Or, if he had disagreed with me (which he is at perfect liberty to do) he might have written a scathing criticism of my opinions, and concluded with a constructive statement of his own beliefs. But no—he attacks my ability as a letter-writer, which is practically equivalent to criticizing a painting because the artist used the wrong brush.

As for Mr. Chapman—what tyrant forces him to read long letters, that he must try to obtain relief by preventing their publication? Could it be his conscience?

Yours faithfully,
HARRY E. ANSLEY,
Engineering & Business.

MAY EXAMINATIONS

All students in the Faculty of Arts must make application for the May examinations before February 1st at the office of the College or University Registrar.

"Your Father's Moustache!"

(Hear! the Herman Herd's?)

That's what we think of high prices and months of waiting for made-to-measure clothes.

For when you consider imported woollens, hand workmanship, modern stylings, our values cannot be surpassed.

So jump aboard the bandwagon and swing to Louis Cohen Clothes, and be in tune with the times.

Why not arrange to have us compose your new suit, sport jacket or topcoat?

Ask any of Toronto's orchestra leaders about

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)
RA. 8995-6

The workshop hums from nine to nine. Saturdays until 6.

3 to 4 week service. Sooner, if you drum it into us.

Editorial Encores

Muscles and Morals

Printed below are excerpts from a recent editorial of the McGill Daily, entitled "An Unfortunate Instance".

For the second time in less than three decades professional sport has become the center of a moral controversy more serious than that ever faced by any other branch of entertainment. The report that a professional hockey player has been expelled from the National Hockey League for gambling is certain to have serious repercussions on professional hockey in particular and on professional sport as a whole.

The role of sport has always been large one in our national life and its influence on the youth of Canada and the United States has been profound. The first idols of the young boys of these countries are professional athletes of one sport or another, and the earliest ambitions of such normal, healthy youngsters are to emulate such athletes. Therefore, it has become a prime interest of leaders of the community to see that these idols do nothing which may have a deep effect on the outlook of impressionable boys.

It is unfortunate that such action had to be necessary at a time when the N.H.L. has risen in the estimation of sport fans for the excellent job it has done in maintaining morale during the war years, and for the integral part it has become of the normal order of things. Now that so dramatic a step has been taken, we may once again expect to hear the cry from a vociferous minority that professional sport be banned on the ground that it is harmful to the public and that it serves no useful purpose.

Such an attitude of itself is misguided and no more proper than demanding the closure of a bank because an employee has been guilty of stealing public funds. Sport has served the public too well and has been free from taint too long to have such a proposal seriously considered. It is an unfortunate circumstance that betting has been connected with sport, even of an amateur variety. The fault that such practices are allowed to continue lies as much with civic leaders as it does with those who control athletics. A concerted drive by such civic leaders on men who are known to take part in betting deals would do much toward clearing up any shady attitude which may be connected with athletic competitions.

The original intention of sporting activities was to improve the minds and bodies of those who partook of them. Any person who has participated in such activities will agree that they are beneficial morally and physically. That a man or woman may so enjoy a sport or may become so proficient at it that they desire to make it a means of livelihood does not mean that they abandon all hope of continuing to gain these moral and physical benefits from the sport. Therefore, one individual case should not be misconstrued as indicating that all or even that many professional athletes have become morally degenerate.

Professional sport has served us well in the past, and there is no reason to expect that it will not do so in the future if we educate our future athletes, as any others who are in the public eye, that they have a moral responsibility, a responsibility that must be kept.

Clothing Drive Begun at Vassar

Vassar, Jan. 17—(Exchange)—To aid the many millions in Europe, the Philippines, and the Far East, a second clothing drive is being held. The campaign is a three day venture, sponsored by the church.

The collection is to be extended to every house in the vicinity. Distribution will be free and without discrimination. The appeal is for all that can be given in the way of clothing.

Preview to Valentine's Eve.

A little girl picked up the 'phone;
A little boy was on the line—
He asked her to the Inter-sorority Ball;
You see, she was his Valentine.
They danced all night to Hallman's Band,
And heard Loraine McAllister sing,
They thought the Inter-sorority Ball,
At Casa Loma was THE thing.
He won the title "KING OF HEARTS"—
And she was proud to be
The girlfriend of the guy who gave Three bucks to charity!

Why don't you buy a ticket at
The door or from a member-gal?
Let February fourteen be A nite you will remember, pal!

smoke the mild
cigarette

University Symphony Orchestra

Hans Gruber, Conductor

Will Present

TWO CONCERTS

CONVOCATION HALL

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 20th.

GEORGE CRUM, Pianist

Guest Artist

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist

Guest Artist

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

Art, Music and Drama

Malc, Mit, and the Min,

Massey Hall was a very exciting place last night. The reason was that the young Polish pianist Witold Malcuzyński, the distinguished Greek conductor Dimitri Mitropoulos, and the famous Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra combined to play an all-Russian program (U.N.O. please note).

Three dances from the ballet Gayane by the Soviet composer Katchaturian started the program, and the furious rhythms and brilliant orchestration set the pattern for the rest of the concert. These were played two weeks ago by Kindler and the Toronto Symphony, but the virtuosity of the Minneapolis made them sound much more interesting.

Malcuzyński followed with a terrific performance of Rachmaninoff's Third Concerto. The fiery, passionate style displayed by the pianist was overwhelming. However, he seemed reluctant to recognize the volume limitations of a piano, and tried to produce orchestral effects, with the result that in most of the loud passages his tone was harsh. Also, his almost hysterical enthusiasm seemed to cause a good many wrong notes, and more important than that, it interfered with his sense of rhythm. Once during a solo passage the conductor actually beat time right under the pianist's nose to steady him down.

In some respects accompaniment was the most remarkable feature of the concerto. Mitropoulos conducted from memory, and treated each passage as if it were the most important in his repertoire. The result was extraordinarily good.

Tchaikowsky's rarely-heard Second Symphony was played with such hair-raising gusto that it sounded like a first-class work. Whether it actually is or not remains to be seen when played by a duller orchestra. There were passages of rather empty noise, but then the celebrated Fifth Symphony has a finale whose development section is so poor that even a self-respecting brass band cuts it.

The Polovetsian Dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor" which Mitropoulos played as an encore after a long conference with his tympanist, left everybody exhausted, particularly the tympanist.

Mitropoulos is a very great conductor. We would like to hear him and his magnificent orchestra again soon in a more varied program.

—BROCK McELHERAN.

Thriller-diller

At the Royal Alex this week is Agatha Christie's little mystery thriller entitled Ten Little Indians, which through a peculiar combination of acting, writing and directing turns out to be the best farce comedy to hit Toronto for some months. In short, they chill you to the point of hysterics. We rather questioned their ability to create ten corpses in one evening without sounding too impossible, and our doubt was justified. Somehow the whole production missed fire.

The only thing with a proper macabre attitude was the set itself—and it was murder. However, the lighting spoiled even this sombre touch. Even if the lighting had been in the proper mood, the effort would have been sabotaged by the actors who were literally "acting their hearts out." Evidently, they thought to increase the terror in the piece by overplaying every line.

The story commences with a down-at-the-heel maid (Georgia Harvey) who obviously imagined she was a Lady Macbeth, and delivered her lines accordingly with a disgusting roll of the eyes. This "Shakespearean trend" was retained by General MacKenzie (Owen Coll) who developed a fit of insanity and uttered his lines in the fashion of King Lear. Despite this overplaying the actors were quite cold and left the audience with a similar feeling.

Highlight of the evening was the "Mad Scene" in which the Judge (Raymond Bramley) almost strangled the heroine in the best melodramatic style accompanied by leers, gurgles, groans and diabolical chortles, only equalled by a Spik Jones record. The scene that appealed to us most was that in which the stage and house were completely blacked-out, and the audience was regaled with a chorus of screams, wails and pistol shots. Terrific!

In addition to this orgy, the string quartet is now augmented by a microphone which allows the public in the last row to suffer as much as those in the front. It is truly an admirable innovation.

If you desire a hearty laugh, see this so-called mystery. And it ran for 2½ years in New York.

—VERNON CHAPMAN.

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

REHEARSAL FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

Wednesday, Feb. 6th., 7.30 p.m.

CONVOCATION HALL

Jimmy Steele

(Continued from Page 6) some experience with university organization while mentoring for the Dalhousie swimming and track teams. He then returned to Vancouver and joined the Air Force in 1940.

Squadron Leader Steele spent the years 1941-45 overseas, in charge of sports, P.T., and synthetic parachute-jumping for the R.C.A.F. He was again on the move and journeyed through France, Holland, Germany, and Belgium while organizing games for the boys in blue.

"The response and interest shown by the men was very encouraging," says Jimmy, "and a good assortment of sports including 12-man, 6-man, and touch Rugby, hockey, basketball, softball, and rugger was provided. Our English cousins showed particular interest in volleyball and softball with basketball running a close 2nd."

Much to his amazement Jim found that he still possessed a good pair of track legs and though his former "10 second 100 yards" was way beyond reach, he still outran several younger competitors in the meets overseas. To us he still looks in pretty fair condition, and though he confesses that his athletic activities now include only demonstrating, he had an anticipatory gleam in his eye when he mentioned an "Old Boys" vs. Varsity Sr. A basketball game to take place on Monday night. He incidentally scored 6 points in spite of the trouncing the "Feeble Five" absorbed.

Upon receiving his discharge in December Mr. Steele says that he heard there was a position here at Varsity, and, when he contacted Warren Stevens, arrangements were concluded to their mutual satisfaction. "How long I stay," laughingly declared Jimmy "depends on how much I like the job but also on how much it likes me." He frankly states that it would be hard to find better associates than Messrs. MacCutchcheon, Griffiths and Stevens.

His duties as a member of the Athletic Association include helping Mr. MacCutchcheon with the intramural sports set-up and coaching the Varsity Senior A hoopers. He also gives lectures on tests and measurements, and aquatics to the P.H.E. students. Of his latter duties he remarks, "I love teaching!"

In connection with the Sr. A team which suffered defeat in both its scheduled games, Jim explains that any laxity in their play to date has been due mainly to the switching of coaches of which he is their third. Interposing different coaches means interposing different plays and the boys just caught on to his system on Saturday night when they trounced the Ajax team. If the team wins their 4 remaining games they may have a chance, provided Western loses a couple. Of his players the coach says that Andrews, Lowes and Tettmars will be moving up in a year or so.

At present Mrs. Steele and her three children are in Ohio awaiting news of a lodging in Toronto. We hope that Jimmy finds accommodation and that the athletic division of the U. of T. will have the benefit of his services and experience for some years to come.

Ajax Sports

HOCKEY

Res. 724 defeated 723 4-0; Res. 736 defeated 730 8-0. Referee White.

Res. 727 tied 728 5-5; Res. 731 defeated 733 15-1. Referee Stefanyshyn.

Res. 732 defeated 734 by default.

Res. 737 defeated 726 10-3; Res. 722 defeated 725 4-3. Referee Stefanyshyn, Linesman Caldwell.

BASKETBALL

Res. 730A defeated 736A 40-11; Res. 728B defeated 734B 28-14. J. Crang.

Res. 724A defeated 723A 38-18; Res. 731A defeated 733 20-22. A. Frame.

Res. 730B defeated 732B 44-14. D. McHenry.

BOWLING

Res. 723G defeated 732E by default.

Res. 737B defeated 734 B 1743-1713.

Res. 736E defeated 733F 1711-1523.

Res. 732D defeated 736D by default.

Res. 724A defeated 722A 1582-1557.

Res. 736A defeated 721 Girls 1568-1087.

Res. 728A defeated 730A 1649-1635.

Res. 730B defeated 728B 1592-1551.

Res. 724B defeated 722B 1624-1506.

Res. 725C defeated 729C 1702-1398.

Hart House

(Continued from Page 3)

tinued, "we didn't even attempt to get her admitted. We sent her flowers instead."

Questioned about the rigidity of the "no-woman" rule, Warden J. B. Bickersteth said that when Hart House was given to the University by the Massey Foundation, the clause that it was to be for men only was one of three major provisions in the deed of gift.

Confirming the inflexibility of this policy, the Warden exhibited letters from the Hon. Vincent Massey.

In 1937, Mr. Massey wrote, "It seems to be occasionally necessary to reiterate the intention of the founders, that the building should be for the men of the University and not the women."

Mr. Massey continued, "Hart House was conceived as a men's institution, and to make exceptions here and there would only lead to a departure from one of the basic principles embodied in the creation."

Women are customarily admitted to the House at dances, monthly

Visitors' Days when the house is opened Sunday afternoon, and special dinners. On these occasions undergraduate women are escorted to the House if they are admitted.

Sport In Short

SATURDAY, FEB. 2

Basketball—Major Pharmacy—20, For. A—19 Minor

IV Metal—46, Pre-Med B—12

MONDAY, FEB. 4

Hockey

Med III—2, S.P.S. IV—1

MONDAY, FEB. 4

Basketball—Major

S.P.S. III—16, Bus. Adm.—14

Sr. Med.—27, Jr. U.C. A—20

Minor

Med. Ser. B—19, IV Civil—18

II Civil—28, Med. I—13

Water Polo

Trinity—5, Wycliffe—0

NOVICE FENCING

TOURNAMENT

The results of the Novice Fencing Tournament last Friday are as follows: First — J. Stanborough; Second—D. Belanger; Third—D. H. Stanley.

A Cup Feature

BRIDGE PROBLEMS

By BRUCE BECKER

North

S. 7 6 5 4

H. 4

D. K 10 8 4 3

C. A 8 5

West

S. A

H. A 8 7

D. A Q J 7 5

C. J 9 4 2

East

S. J 10 9 8 2

H. 3

D. 9 6 2

C. K Q 10 3

South

S. K Q 3

H. K Q J 10 9 6 5 2

D. —

C. 7 6

West, Dealer.

The Bidding:

West
1 diamond
Double

North Pass Pass

East
1 Spade
Pass

South
4 hearts
Pass

Opening lead: Ace of spades.

South's four heart bid is a shut-out try, which in this case paid-off handsomely.

West shifted to the deuce of clubs after winning the first trick. Dummy's ace winning. East signals with the ten. Declarer now realizes West's opening lead was a singleton, East's spade bid being made on five to the jack, and that if he tries to draw trumps West will win with the ace and by putting his partner on lead with a club obtain a spade ruff, setting the contract. So, at trick three he makes a "coup" leading the diamond king from dummy and discarding his last club from his own hand. West wins with his marked ace, but now the club lead comes too late, and the contract is easily fulfilled.

University of Toronto

Drama Festival

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE —

"Hands Across The Sea"

—NOEL COWARD

VICTORIA COLLEGE —

"Riders To The Sea"

—JOHN SYNGE

TRINITY COLLEGE —

"Family Album"

—NOEL COWARD

DATE: February Twelfth

PLACE: U.T.S. Auditorium

PRICE: Fifty Cents

Tickets Now On Sale At

ST. MICHAEL'S, U.C. ROTUNDA, TRINITY—PORTER'S LODGE, VICTORIA—V.C.U. OFFICE

TICKETS 50c

New France To Start Greater Co-operation

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 76 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, February 6, 1946

AIRMAN'S ESTATE WILLED TO U. OF T.

Donald M. Fleming

Donald M. Fleming, K.C. Member of Parliament for Toronto. Eglington who will speak to the Progressive-Conservative Club today at 4.00 p.m. in the Women's Union on "What the Progressive-Conservative Party Stands For".

Swomley To Speak At S.C.M. Meeting

"Weapons for Peace" will be the subject of an address to be given by Mr. John Swomley, Jr. at a noon hour meeting of the S.C.M. in Wycliffe Common Room on Thursday.

Mr. Swomley is Associate Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation (U.S.A.) and is in Toronto as guest speaker at a week-end conference being sponsored by the Toronto division of the Fellowship of Reconciliation in Queen St. United Church.

Any student planning on attending the meeting can make arrangements for lunch at the S.A.C. office in Hart House.

Loyal Student Gives History Scholarships

Died On Active Service

The entire estate of the late Flying Officer John Fraser Gray, R.C.A.F. has been left to the University to provide scholarships for students in Modern History.

The bequest, totalling more than $2,000, is the first recorded instance where an undergraduate has left his entire estate to the university. The terms of the bequest are as follows:

"I desire that, with every $500 or portion thereof of the estate, a scholarship be given to a student in the Honor Modern History course, chosen at the discretion of the faculty of the Department of History and of my father, George L. Gray, on the grounds of outstanding intellectual ability, true Christian integrity, and of high future promise; the award to be made at that point in the student's course when his or her possibilities are realized."

Flying Officer Gray died on active service in England in 1944.

Born in 1920, F/O Gray received his elementary and secondary school education in St. Thomas. He enrolled in Modern History in University College in 1938 receiving scholarships in both his first and second years.

Prior to his enlistment with the R.C.A.F. in April 1941, he was elected president of both the University College Student Christian Movement and the Modern History Club for the next year, offices which he never filled.

Upon enlistment as a radar mechanic, F/O Gray trained at St. Hubert, Que., Montreal and Clinton Ont. He stayed at Clinton as an instructor until he was posted overseas in September 1942. He received his commission in December 1943.

Commenting on the bequest, President Sidney Smith said: "The authorities of the University of Toronto have been deeply moved by the loyalty to and pride in his Alma Mater expressed by this brilliant undergraduate."

F/O Gray is the son of George L. Gray, M.A., an inspector of secondary schools for the Province of Ontario.

Request Art For Exhibit

For 15 years Hart House has held an annual undergraduate art exhibition to give members a chance to display all types of art—oils, watercolors, pencil, ink, or chalk drawings.

Entries for this year's show must be submitted to the Warden's office by 6 p.m. on Monday. Entries must be framed with the name and address of the exhibitor on the back. There are a few frames available for any exhibits without frames.

It is hoped by the committee that with the exhibitors' permission, the show will be moved to Hart House (Ajax) at the end of February for about two weeks.

During the exhibition a noon-hour talk will be given during which the work will be reviewed and criticized. The time of the talk will be announced later.

Sunday, Feb. 24, has been set aside as visitor's day in Hart House and the Art Gallery will be open to visitors.

Soon Out of Prison Is Huey Long Man

Atlanta, Ga.—(Exchange)—Former president of Louisiana State University convicted of using the mails to defraud, James Monroe Smith will leave Federal Prison Feb. 5, according to a recent issue of the newspaper P.M.

Now aging and practically bald, the 57-year-old man whose apprehension broke the Louisiana scandals has served 10 months of a two-and-one-half year sentence. Prior to that he spent six years in the Louisiana State Penitentiary for conviction on three counts of forgery and one of obtaining money through fraud.

Smith's arrest in 1939 bared the Louisiana scandals, sent former Governor Richard W. Leche to the penitentiary, and made physical and mental wrecks of half a dozen of the late "Kingfish" Huey P. Long's lieutenants.

D.V.A. Committee To Visit McGill

Montreal, Feb. 5—(CUP)—The Dept. of Veterans Affairs Committee on University Requirements, headed by Robert England, will visit McGill in the near future, according to an announcement made at an executive meeting of the McGill Students Veterans Society.

A special committee to investigate student opinion and study McGill facilities is being set up by the M.S.V.S. and a report based on these findings and on the N.P.C.U.S. report will be drawn up and presented to the visiting committee.

Student-favorite is blustering Bill Clark, an institution at the Royal Canadian Museum where he has been doorman for 30 years. Former acquaintances of Bill's have graduated returned and introduced their children to him himself the father of five children and the grandfather of twelve.

"France of the future will not be the France of the pre-war period, but a working unit which stresses the co-operation and teamwork learned by French youth during the war," said M. Philippe de Vendevure last evening at a joint meeting of the U.C., Vic, and Trinity French Clubs in Wymilwood.

"As a result of the first world war an entire generation was deprived of leaders and administration was left to older men whose rule was weak and antiquated," continued M. de Vendevure, who is travelling in America as a private citizen in the interests of international good-will.

Speaking in French, the speaker, who served with the Youth Resistance Movement throughout the war and collaborated with the Canadian Intelligence Service at Caen, pointed out that with the horror and deprivation of World War II came also a unity of purpose which bound the French people together as never before.

"This team work," he declared, "will play a major role in the future of France and the whole world."

He predicted American economic leadership but denied that anarchy will result in France, but said that individual freedom must be curtailed somewhat.

"The French people have learned discipline," he said, "and within the confines of certain institutions, individual liberty will fulfill its highest function."

M. de Vendevure then turned to the metaphysical aspects of French life. In opposition to the theories of Descartes, exponent of the old French Catholic doctrine, prevalent for many years, which stressed the conflict between the body and the mind, he predicted a new concept which emphasizes the uniting of the body and mind in the realization of man's highest achievements on earth.

M. de Vendevure served as a tank officer in campaigns from the Rhine to the Danube. He also is a former member of the De Gaulle Cabinet.

Arctic Weather Reports Will Increase Accuracy

The following was received from the CUP reporter covering Musk-Ox operations at Churchill.

It doesn't take a university student to build an igloo, but it does take a university man to tell you when conditions are favorable for comfortable igloo sleeping and that job is up to the meteorologist. Here at base headquarters of Operation Musk-Ox in Churchill, Manitoba, science grad of the Class of 1943, now Musk-Ox moving force meteorological officer Gord. McKay, and your correspondent spent Friday night in a homemade igloo just outside of this camp.

McKay's forecast and wind chill computations on the temperature and wind, indicated that conditions could be favorable for working out despite the thermometer's -28 degrees reading. And he was right, for soon after digging ourselves in for the night, it became evident that the sleeping bags used and which were taken along on the 3,100-mile trek to Edmonton leaving Feb. 14, provide ample warmth for even men clad only in pyjamas.

Igloos will be constructed on the exercise whenever weather conditions prevent the usage of tents.

The Meteorological Dept. on the expedition is one of the most important, yet least-publicized services. The Met., as the weather office is known here, services, in the words of Officer McKay, "two main purposes. Firstly, a moving force will rely on information released from the base and from stations at Yellowknife, Norman Wells and outposts radiated twice-daily, besides accurate reports and weather messages dropped by the daily supply planes flying out to the expedition."

The meteorological outfit will also obtain scientific data on the aurora, and will test the quality, density, and moisture content of types and numbers of layers of the snow with accurate equipment designed especially for Musk-Ox, and of which there are only two in existence in some cases. With these instruments we will be able to determine the best ground for snowmobiles.

"Other opportunities and methods will be employed, but at present it is confidential, for their characteristics are not yet completely known."

In peacetime the results of tests taken on this expedition will be of tremendous value. A great number of weather stations in Canada will be able, for instance, to supply weather forecasts for many days ahead.

Said the meteorologist in charge, W. C. Thurber, himself a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan. Class of '32: "But you need trained university men. All of us here have attended university prior to our meteorological training at the University of Toronto. There's Johnny Lauder, of the University of Manitoba, who took science with the class of '37, and Wilf Stewart, Manitoba, '40. Both are of the

(Continued on Page 7)

Lab Breakages Cost Skulemen Money Earthquakes Cost More Say Teachers

"That'll be so much off your lab deposit," says the demonstrator with a slight leer as he glances at the wreckage of a meter blown by too much current, or a motor smashed by running too fast or a flask dropped on the floor.

Students find that no matter how careful they have been during the year, they seldom receive a complete refund on their lab deposits. They are charged for the slightest breakage in every lab, well every lab but one.

No indeed, the men in charge of the Mechanics of Materials Lab are not renowned for their kindness to students, but in this lab the object of the experiments is to study the conditions under which materials break. "Will the material under test stand the strains imposed upon it in industry," is the main question studied.

In the building trades and in manufacturing a study of the strength of materials used is of great importance. What indeed would happen if the parts of an engine broke frequently or a hotel collapsed after several years of use. This actually happens, in fact some machines are famous for the amount of time they spend in the repair shop.

On the other hand when a machine such as the Flying Fortress is built all its parts are made considerably stronger than normal flying would require. Testimony to the strength of their construction is the fact that many were able to struggle home although riddled by bullets.

In this lab the engineering students are given an idea of the methods used to test the strength of materials and also they learn the properties of building materials. Many interesting facts are learned. For example, after several years of use wood has only half the strength it had when cut. Perhaps this is the reason why the roofs of old buildings droop.

Most of the testing is done by compressing or stretching a material until it breaks, the distortion under different loads and the amount of force required to break it being observed. In these tests it is found that under tension and compression steel and even concrete flow like a liquid before they break.

How are such terrific stresses exerted? Many huge machines that have only the one function, to exert huge forces, are solidly mounted in the lab. On one of these machines a force of 200,000 pounds can be exerted. The other machines are smaller, but to specially prepared samples they can do tremendous damage. Under 60,000 pounds pressure an ordinary brick literally crumbles to dust and only 3500 pounds force are required to break a rope an inch thick.

On the basis of such tests, a set of standards has been drawn up by the American Society for Testing Materials. If a rope or beam, of iron or wood, does not satisfy these standards it is of inferior quality and care must be taken in its use. Even cement is listed in the ASTM Book of Standards, but with cement not only is strength considered but also the time of setting and the likelihood of its shrinking and cracking. The time of setting is of vital importance. If concrete were to harden too soon it would not pour into the forms, and if it were to take too long it could not be used in some jobs.

These standards and a study of the materials to be used enable the engineer to design a building, or a road, or a machine that will stand the strains and damage to which it is likely to be subjected.

Perhaps the best example of good planning is the Empire State Building in New York. When a bomber crashed into it last summer a huge hole was knocked out of its side and several floors were gutted by burning gasoline, and yet otherwise very little damage was done. This huge building would probably be able to stand an earthquake.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University College MI. 6611
Business Office MI. 6221
Night Office MI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief, W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor, Peggy Bates, 4T6
Managing Editor, Wally Belfry, 4T8
Make-up Editor, Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor, John Rooke, 4T7
News Editor, George Forster, 4T7
Assistant, Blanche Stanley, 4T6
Feature Editor, E. Ross McLean, 4T7
Assistant, Reg Herman, 4T6
Sports Editor, Bredin Stapells, 4T6
Assistant, Don Mason, 4T6
Women's Sports Editor, Polly Mutz, 4T6
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor, Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant, Dorothy Harley, 4T6
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor, Philip Freedman, 4T6
Staff Photographer, Ralph Jones, 4T7
Business and Advertising Manager, E. A. MacDonald, B.A.

Wednesday, February 6, 1946

He Snickered

Last Sunday saw the opening across Canada of the Health-League-sponsored Health Week. Working on the principle that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, the drive is aimed at making people conscious of two primary facts about prevalent diseases: the fact that anyone can catch them, and the companion fact that anyone may easily avoid them.

Advice is being circulated on nutrition, pasteurization of milk (Ontario is the only province with a compulsory pasteurization law), diphtheria toxoid, measles, mumps, scarlet fever, posture, vitamins,—in fact anything which affects the health of humans.

A principal campaign is directed against Venereal Disease; and the campaign against VD is as much psychological as informative.

The average person, it seems, cannot so much as take VD seriously—until he gets it himself.

One day last week a pile of folders lay on the S.A.C. Office desk, a "Stamp Out VD" slogan uppermost. Crammed to the doors from dawn to dusk, with house-hunters, job-seekers, and miscellaneous petitioners after services, the S.A.C. Office is an admirable place from which to distribute circulars. But the pile of "Stamp Out VD" circulars was dwindling very slowly indeed.

The reason lay, perhaps, in the reaction of a student last week, who glanced at the slogan and at once began to snicker.

Now why is this? He was not alone in his attitude; we fancy it is shared by many other students on this campus. Why should VD be talked about not at all, or if mentioned, then mentioned lightly? Why should people take more seriously mumps and measles, which can be cured with little or no trouble and cost the victim a maximum of two weeks' quarantine? Venereal diseases are not quarantenable; they can be caught in a second (a kiss will do it); they can result in complete paralysis, or worse still, in the birth of blinded or malformed children.

Yet the student snickered.

It is ironic that only a few cases of spinal meningitis or infantile paralysis suffice to touch off all the publicity of press, radio, and screen, and all the philanthropy that expresses itself in raising of funds for the stricken and financing research into causes and cures.

But no public mention is made of the countless thousands who are forced to go through life blind, lame, or insane from venereal diseases, through no fault of their own but through the fault of parents and of society.

No public record. No public concern. Just a snicker.

VD, whose effect is devastating as that of spinal meningitis, and which is almost as common as measles, somehow cannot be taken as seriously as the former, nor talked about as calmly as the latter.

The university student snickered. He may be a carrier of venereal disease; any of his friends may be carriers. Yet he could not accord VD the grim compliment of a moment's calm thought. And he is a leader of the future.

Addition of statistics shows that over 200,000 people out of Canada's 13 million suffer from syphilis alone; 6,000 of them are in Toronto. Syphilis alone rests a great load of social and economic responsibility on the shoulders of every citizen. The obvious demand is for down-to-earth thinking on the part of everyone; especially on the part of tomorrow's leaders.

Yet the student snickered.

Venereal diseases, which will nip off one-third of the human life-span, can be cured if caught soon enough; but may never be cleared up if allowed to linger. That any cases linger at all is largely the fault of the attitude of society—the snicker-saturated society.

The prevalent attitude seems to be, "Well, I can't catch it; why should I worry?" Students at University, a privileged minority, are the ones who later in life will be in positions demanding a lot of worrying.

A little thought right now might ease the future's burden.

—M. G. B.

Hart House Receives Anthology

"Something big in the offing", we purred as we dashed up the Hart House steps and galloped across the hall flattening a Hall Porter, who happened to be standing there, into the wall. As we entered the Warden's office a young secretary stepped into the picture (she had the frame for it too). "Right in here, they're expecting you", she directed. As we opened the door to the Inner Sanctum we whipped out our boy scout knife, hacked a hole in the blue smoke haze, and slipped in. It is to be regretted that we also took the tip off a proboscis, jutting through the smoke, and sliced a cigarette holder in two.

"Bit foggy I'm afraid", apologized Warden Lickerbreth, whose voice we recognized. "Like you to meet Mayor Blob Squanders and President Kidney Myth", said the Warden as he started the window fan to draw the smoke out. "Must be the Camel I'm smoking, they say the smoke's the thing—smoke that is."

"And that smell—it's my Chesterfield burning," quipped Myth. "That's a joke son", prompted the Mayor.

Pandemonium broke loose as we rolled together hysterically on the floor. But soon we struggled to our feet after helping the Warden to extricate his head from the waste basket. When we had re-arranged the furniture, the Warden continued.

"We have been discussing the donation of two collections to Hart House in recent weeks. One you have heard about already—the historical antiques of the Earl of Whee . . ."

"The other is the gift of the City Council and the citizens of Toronto", added His Worship, rubbing more Mecca on his nose. We are going to present to Hart House, in a fitting dedication ceremony, the rat tails collected in our drive."

We swallowed our gum, but managed to ask what generous thought had prompted the gift.

"Toronto did not wish to be outdone by a mere Englishman", suggested Kidney Myth, biting off the end of his cigarette holder.

"So President Myth is to present the prize money on the City Hall steps at high noon next Wednesday", continued the Chief Magistrate.

"And on Thursday", Myth added eagerly. "Mayor Squanders is to present the tails to Warden Lickerbreth in Convocation Hall. We thought Valentine's Day would be the logical time for a presentation to Hart House."

We laughed, anticipating another Senator Foghorn special, but the President continued.

"We expect Premier Brew and other dignitaries will be present, so we would like to have some publicity in The Varsity."

We nodded affirmatively, meanwhile picking our teeth with the knife.

Lickerbreth beamed, "we are going to display the prize tail bundles in the trophy cups. The others will be used to decorate the Tuck Shop annex. We expect to give any surplus bundles to the Skule building for display."

We had heard it rumoured that they had had relatives down there.

"The Faculty dining room is to be moved to the swimming pool balcony to make way for a display room for the wine treasures", added Lickerbreth. "Should there be any extras we will requisition the wash rooms. The better articles of the collection will be kept behind the swinging doors."

Kidney Myth and Blob Squanders smiled approval.

We nodded pleasantly, but we were visualizing the grey bundles lining the walls of our eatery.

"Perhaps, some could be fixed up as bouquets for table centres", the Mayor suggested.

We disagreed.

The meeting broke up after the President's story about the Scotchman who tried to send a night-letter during the last eclipse of the sun.

We shuffled down stairs and drowned our thoughts in coffee.

—SHERRY.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO DEBATING UNION

announces the

TORONTO - CORNELL DEBATE

Topic:- resolved that there should be unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine.

Time:- February 11th, 8 p.m.

Place:- Strachan Hall, Trinity College

Affirmative — Cornell Negative — Toronto

JOAN RIGBY

COATS
DRESSES TWEEDS SWEATERS
SUITS
54 BLOOR W. MI. 4969

CASH! CASH!

FOR USED TEXT BOOKS FOR EVERY COURSE

Bring them in today—We will pay

HIGHEST CASH PRICES

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 10 P.M.

BOOK MARKET
AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE (One Block South of Bloor)
RA. 1148

Flowers for All Occasions

COOPER FLORIST

PARK PLAZA HOTEL

MI. 6361

10 Avenue Road

WE DELIVER

U. of T. C.C.F. CLUB

PROF. C. B. MACPHERSON

Supervisor of Studies in Political Economy

Will Speak On

"Liberal Democracy"

Wed. Feb. 6, Women's Union — 8 p.m.

ALL STUDENTS ARE WELCOME

Hart House Bulletin Board

Talk in the Art Gallery

Mr. John Hall will give a review of his exhibition of paintings in the art gallery at 1.30 p.m. today.

Library Evening

The Rev. Dr. R. S. K. Seeley, Provost of Trinity College, will talk informally on "The Lost Art of Reading" at a library evening in Hart House Library at 7.30 p.m. on Thursday, 7th February. Smoking. Discussion. Members of Hart House are invited.

Undergraduate Art Exhibition

Members of Hart House are reminded that entries for the Undergraduate Exhibition of Art are to be handed in to the Warden's office by 6 p.m. on Monday, 11th February.

(CBC PICTURE)
Mr. F. Cyril James, Principal and Vice Chancellor of McGill University, who opened the program with greetings from McGill and remarks on the cultural and other ties between Canada and the West Indies.

Student Cafeteria Help
Stage Walkout At Ajax

On Monday night the Ajax cafeteria student staff walked out complaining that they had to work late and that they were short-handed.

At a meeting held yesterday in residence 729 by the student cafeteria help, it was claimed that the walkout was caused by the necessity to work overtime on Monday night. As the eight students walked out the chief supervisor asked that they "turn in their time cards." This was thought to mean dismissal from the cafeteria staff.

The rest of the students on the cafeteria staff objected to the timetable of the students' working days, which only allows the student to work three days a week. This, they claimed, resulted in the staff being short-handed each day, and the work not being done as quickly as possible.

It was decided that a representative of the "fired men" would see Miss Eames, the cafeteria assistant manager, today, and iron out any misunderstanding which may have arisen.

The students were agreed that while Miss Eames was on the floor of the cafeteria work was done quickly and pleasantly. During the last two weeks Miss Eames' was replaced on the floor by the chief supervisor, "who" the students claim, "is hostile towards us." This results in bad feeling between the students and the office. And hence, they say, the work is not done with willingness, as was the case before.

The walkout left the cafeteria decidedly understaffed so that the full time help had to work overtime.

The students claim that if more students were hired, and that if the supervisor adopted an adult approach towards the students, the work could be finished at 7.30 each night and there would be no necessity to work late.

They are hoping that the students' spokesman and the manager will meet today to discuss the matter.

Cafeteria Official Says
Students Not Dismissed

The cafeteria officials vigorously denied yesterday that eight students helping in the cafeteria had been dismissed. Miss Eames, the assistant manager, stated; "Only Miss Ignatieff, Miss Macleod and myself have the power to dismiss anybody from the cafeteria, and if some misunderstanding arose from working hours or type of work I am sorry that no representative was sent to me before this trouble occurred."

The rumor that the cafeteria staff was being reduced to a bare minimum was disclaimed by Miss Eames. "We started with 40 students helping us and at present there are 42 students on the cafeteria payroll. The time-sheets are only temporary, and any student who is dissatisfied with his working day is invited to see me."

"What I feel badly about," said

MISSING ARTSMEN MAY MISS EXAMINATIONS

Five overflowing filing drawers in the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall, bore mute testimony to the industry of those students in the Faculty of Arts who filed examination applications during the month of January. Because of the increased numbers enrolled in that Faculty during the present session, the deadline was moved ahead from March 1st to February 1st. The tidy piles of pink, yellow and blue cards diminished in height as artsmen (and women too) mindful of the future, filled out registration cards for the session 1946-47.

At the present time most of the clerks in the Registrar's Office are sorting the applications alphabetically, in order to check them against this year's roster to see who is missing. These students are notified by mail.

Due to the fact that some Arts students have apparently not registered in the present session, some may be overlooked if they do not complete their registration immediately.

The time-table and seating accommodation for over five thousand students must be arranged. According to the students' handbook, examinations in Arts will begin on Friday, April 26th, (that's just one week after Good Friday) and continue for three weeks or so. The large numbers involved necessitate the greatest possible approach to accuracy in calculating seating accommodation, as well as the number of papers to be printed and distributed to the various examination rooms.

The fact that a great many students are enrolled in courses combining subjects taken from more than one year, adds to the complexity of the time-table. Each year special papers must be set in certain subjects because of time-table clashes.

Students who have not yet applied for their examinations can do their part by filing the applications immediately. By so doing, you may avoid paying the late application fee. Tarrying, however, is not to be condoned.

U.S. Presses and Libraries
Visited by Prof. Woodhouse
To Aid Reorganization Here

Revise Senate
Says Queen's

Kingston, Feb. 5.—(CUP).—The latest question asked by the Institute of Student Opinion was "Do you feel that the Canadian Senate as regards its functions and the methods of selecting its members should be revised, abolished or left untouched."

The results were as follows: revised 43.3%; abolished 21%; unchanged 26%; undecided 9.7%. The majority want the election of younger men for a five year term. Others advocate a check on the government in power to lessen unnecessary drain on countries' finances.

The next query on the program is—"Do you think that Canadian Universities should institute a program on sex education?"

C.U.P. Flashes

Montreal.—The annual ice carnival of Sir George Williams College will be held from Feb. 8 to 10 with the crowning of the Carnival Queen as the main event. Ski races will be held Saturday afternoon with a sleigh ride in the evening. Following this Dean Hall will crown the Queen and there will be a torch-light parade to the dance hall where the Queen will distribute the prizes.

Wolfville, N.S.—Less than 1% of the students at Acadia University failed in their mid year exams this year. Only eight students failed, to set a new record for mid-term failures.

Varsity Fencers
Lose In Detroit

Last Saturday Varsity's four-man fencing team paid a return visit to Wayne University in Detroit, and came off second best. The Toronto foilsters were taken into camp to the tune of twelve bouts to five.

Victoria's Dick Thomson was most successful in the Blue and White cause, winning three of a possible five bouts.

The team, composed of Thomson, Conn, Gillespie and Winter, will play host to a McGill quartet on February 22, in the first scheduled Intercollegiate meet.

Returned from a week's tour of inspection of university presses in the United States, Prof. A. S. P. Woodhouse returned recently with hints and data to aid in improving the organization and efficiency of the University of Toronto Press.

"A University Press ought to set a standard of accuracy in book production and scholarly publication", Mr. Woodhouse told The Varsity. "It deserves all possible support."

He remarked that the University of Toronto Press had the duty of leading other institutions of higher learning by setting such a standard. "Ours is the only university in Canada possessing a press", he pointed out.

During his tour, Mr. Woodhouse also visited the libraries of Harvard and Yale, for both of which his adjective was "Magnificent!"

"Although neither is as large as the University of Toronto, both spend a good deal of money for the maintenance of their libraries", he stated. "Harvard, for instance, boasts the largest academic library in America, with a catalogue of books approaching the five million mark. It is no more than 25 or 30 years old, yet the shelves have already proved inadequate for the number of books available."

The Houghton library, he said, houses a group of special collections. One of the rooms contains nothing but works of Keats, including books once owned by the poet complete with his own marginal annotations. In that room, the Keats seminar is held daily, "adding", Mr. Woodhouse commented, "welcomed interest to the discussions."

Harvard, he said, plans to construct yet another library for its students. "You may wonder at the expense created by such undertakings. Everything is done through gifts. There is no government aid of any kind, since the institution is a private one. Donations, made by graduates who are very wealthy and whose generosity and devotion to their alma mater is commendable, amount to sums so great that they stagger the imagination."

The first cheque presented ran at something like one and a half million dollars. Such gifts show extraordinary interest in education.

"Three morals might be drawn from such a situation: Libraries are very important for a country; libraries are also very important for schools; people should continually support such institutions."

Professor Woodhouse further compared the buildings at Harvard and Yale. "I thought," said he, "while standing in front of the library at

HART HOUSE
SUNDAY EVENING CONCERT

- Pearl Palmason, violinist, will play the following programme at the Sunday Evening Concert in the Great Hall of Hart House on Sunday next, 10th February. Leo Barkin will be at the piano.
- I Sonata in C minor Grieg allegro molto ed appassionato allegretto espressivo allegro animato
 - II Poème Chausson
 - III Præludium and Allegro Pugnani-Kreisler
Romance Rachmaninoff
Jota Aragonesa Albeniz-Dushkin

NOTICE

Students are reminded that applications for Scientific Research Scholarships offered by the Royal Commissioners Exhibition of 1851 must be submitted to the University Registrar not later than April 1st, 1946.

A copy of the general regulations respecting the award of these scholars and forms of application may be obtained at the University Registrar's office.

Yale that the chief library at Harvard, the Widener Library where research is carried on, looked much like a little red schoolhouse in comparison with it. That at Yale is characterised by ornate structure, giving the edifice the appearance of a church."

"Something which I thought very interesting in the Yale library was a fine copy of the final order issued on V-E Day, and signed by Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery. Alongside this order was one issued on the same day by General Alexander."

(CBC PICTURE)
A group of West Indian students of McGill University as they broadcast edition No. 1 of "Caribbean Forum" over the short-wave International Service of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. At the head of the table is E. Fitzroy Sampath, moderator for the Forum. Through the control room window can be seen, Kenneth Brown (standing left) producer of the West Indian programs, Dave MacCallan, President of the McGill Radio Workshop, (standing right), and the control room engineer of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (sitting down).

Tommy's Terrific Trombones

The Varsity really has been keeping poor Waxie on the jump of late. Every time he turns around, some character armed with a vacant look — (a jazz fan y' know), as well as pencil and pad, comes wandering in—demands a stack of records, and proceeds to monopolize the booth for the rest of the afternoon. Come closing time, said character and his precious notebook with its mysterious contents steals silently away. It's all very confusing.

The Campus disc dispenser has all the best jazz on many labels, and some righteous albums too, but he also has some good commercial swing discs in stock which should not be overlooked.

By far the best of these, for our money, is Tommy Dorsey's version of "Chloe". Never before has the old "Song of the Swamp" been served up like this. Ah yes, this is the disc on which THEY are featured! It is very seldom that anything quite like THEM is waxed, so give this record a spin while it's still available, and see if you don't share our opinion.

The Swampland opus gets underway with an intro sounding more like the Song of the Jungle; a weird mixture of baritone sax, and the whole powerhouse Dorsey band. Quite effective. Buddy Rich, now leading his own outfit, takes a couple of short and tasty drum breaks, and then

THEY come on, and how they do come on! THEY consists of T. D.'s fine tram section, with the addition of Mr. D. himself, playing the loveliest low, relaxed and precise trombone ensemble work we've ever heard on wax. Relaxation is the keynote here. Powerhouse brass section work is often recorded, but the trams are usually buried under the trumpets, and the whole thing adds up to a lot of noise.

After lifting the pick-up, and re-playing the all-too-brief tram choir several times, we decide that we must get on with the business at hand. Nicely blended saxes, ear-splitting brass, unusual piano with Charlie Shavers coming in on an echo kick and staying to play a very good solo, some pretty fair tenor, and Buddy DeFranco's clarinet trying in vain to drown out the rest of the band complete this side.

The flip-over, "At the Fat Man's", has Charlie Shavers singing. He should stick to his horn. However, after his vocal he plays some marvellous, crisp, open horn, and winds up in a duet with another trumpet man which is very reminiscent of the good old Ziggy Elman-Chuck Peterson days. This side is typical Sy Oliver all the way; a skilful mixture of the full band, much high register brass, drum breaks, and jive vocal.

Mr. Dorsey, by the way, is the man who, with Mr. Herman, walked away with most of the votes in the recent Down Beat poll. T.D. had the top sweet band and was right up there in the swing band and favourite soloist categories. Shavers, DeFranco, Sy Oliver and Stewart Foster were winners in the trumpet, clarinet, arranger and male singer divisions.

Diggin' TD

Also caught were Spivak's "A Stranger in Town" and the backing, "Home Country". As has been said here before, this band hasn't much of a beat, but we like Charlie's nice long open solo on Stranger. Jimmy Saunders' vocal is better than lots we've heard, and the tune itself is good, which is far more than one can say for most of our pop numbers. The B-side is more typical Spivak horn and arrangement, but the tune is nowhere.

Good news for the many Kenton fans is that Stan's newest release, "Artistry Jumps", is soon expected at Spadina and Harbord. This is a jump version of his old theme, "Artistry in Rhythm". More good news for those who prefer the slow arrangement coupled with "Eager Beaver," is that this hard-to-get disc is expected in at the same time. These are on the Capitol label.

- Dishonourable Mention Department
1. "My Guy's Come Back" by Benny Goodman.
 2. That horrible Hubba-Hubba tune.
 3. Ditto—"Chickery Chick."
- ART BLAKELY.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Gals and Guys Turnabout In Mt. Allison Co-ed Week

Sackville, Feb. 5—(CUP)—At 12 midnight on Jan. 27 the yearly Co-ed Week at Mt. Allison University began. This is a kind of Sadie Hawkins Day which lasts for 168 hours, and during which time the boys wait anxiously for the phone to ring and girls get some idea of the sufferings of the average male pocketbook.

Events started out Monday night with a bang-up house party. Since every-one came stag the local Daisy Maes had a chance to pick out their L'il Abners for the coming week. At 11 o'clock the party ended, the girls helped the boys slip into their coats and then—walked home alone.

The main "do" of the week was a dance held on Wednesday night. Here again the girls asked the boys, but this time the male chivalry showed itself and the boys escorted the girls home.

A skating party on Saturday night, at which it was expected that many couples fell and fell hard, ushered out Co-ed Week. Seriously though this week has seen the beginning of many a steady campus twosome.

Masculine comment on the subject was varied to say the least. Here is what one has to say: "Being a full-fledged bachelor, I have nothing to say."

Another takes a cautious view—"I'll tell you at the end of the week."

"Gives the girls a chance to feel what we feel all the time—that embarrassed feeling. (?) It's also easy on the pocket," was also heard.

One boy spoke in a cultured vein. Said he: "It gives the babes a chance to change horses."

Brief but pithy was the opinion of Kimball Hollis—"Hubba hubba".

This last showed a new slant—"I think it's a good idea. The only thing I have against it is that the girls have to take the boys home and in that way you lose at least ten minutes."

NOTICE

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE
BADMINTON

U.C. women badminton players who wish to enter the college meet on Saturday, February 16th, are asked to sign the list in the Women's Union by Monday, February 11th.

AJAX REPORTERS

The Ajax Varsity has set up temporary offices in the Recreation Hall. A need has now arisen that we must have more reporters to cover the sports, features and news.

If you are capable of writing your name and want to report, see Cliff Dixon, Feature Editor; Sports Editor Ed Caldwell, or for news, Peter Philpott.

"More To Music Than Notes" Conductor Chooses Pass Arts

By John McRae

"Forte, Double Forte, Triple Forte. All the forte you can!" with these and many other phrases of the universal language of music Hans Gruber, 21-year-old Pass Arts student and conductor of the University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra, guides his musicians through the intricate passages in rehearsal. His movements in conducting the Orchestra are precise and rhythmic. His knowledge of music gives him complete control of every phrase. The music seems to flow through him—from the composer who wrote it to the Orchestra who play it.

Despite the odd discordant note in rehearsals there is a feeling of complete harmony between the conductor and his orchestra. A mutual desire to get the most out of, and put the most into, their music. Mr. Gruber has been associate conductor of the orchestra for the past two years and this year took it over completely. He believes that a wide cultural education is necessary to attain a true understanding of music.

"There is much more to music than mere notes," he stated, and went on to describe his various studies. Mr. Gruber is in the second year of the Pass Course studying Philosophy, English and Languages. As well as the piano, which is his favourite instrument, he has studied nearly every instrument of the symphony orchestra. He has also spent a good deal of time studying voice. This wide knowledge of all the mediums of music helps him to understand the problems and difficulties of each member of his orchestra.

Mr. Gruber, who came out to this country six years ago from Czechoslovakia, has spent all his life studying music, and this summer will top it off with a course on conducting in New York. He has been invited there to study at the Juillard School of Music, and will work under Fritz Mahler, nephew of the famous Gustav Mahler. This special course is designed for advanced students who wish to study the rehearsing of modern music. Next Fall Mr. Gruber will be back again to direct the Orchestra.

L.P.C.I. GRADS

Tickets For Your

Alumnae Dance

FEB. 22

On Sale in

U.C. Rotunda

Feb. 6 - 7 - 8

From 12-2 p.m. each day

$2.00

Tell Your Friends!!

HEAR A MESSAGE THAT AROUSES THOUGHT AND HEALS SICKNESS, FEAR, GRIEF AND LACK Plan to Attend This Helpful Lecture on

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Under the Auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Toronto

DATE—THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7TH, 1946

PLACE—MASSEY HALL, 12:15 to 1 P.M. NOON

SUBJECT—"CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: THE HEALING POWER OF SPIRITUAL UNDERSTANDING"

LECTURER—GEORGE CHANNING, C.S.B. of San Francisco, California, Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

A FREE PUBLIC LECTURE - NO TICKETS REQUIRED

Mighty welcome

Drink
Coca-Cola

COCA-COLA LTD. - TORONTO

What is this aria CALDONIA that this Miss Wraithe-Leggatt has chosen to sing next?

Hart House Announces Library Evening Revival

Library Evening will be revived this week in Hart House after four years wartime suspension. It was in 1935 that a library evening was first held for the purpose of creating enthusiasm and interest in recreational reading. The glowing fire-place and permission to smoke in the library on this evening created an informal atmosphere.

Among some of the famous men of letters who have led the discussions in the past are B. K. Sandwell, Napier Moore, Gregory Clark, Hector Charlesworth and Sir Robert Falconer.

Once again this Thursday evening at 7.30 members of Hart House will have an opportunity to enjoy a library evening, when the Rev. Dr. R. S. K. Seeley, Provost of Trinity College and author of "Towards a New Order" and "Sign of the Cross" will lead the discussion with a talk on "The Lost Art of Reading".

London (CUP)—Dr. E. G. Pleva Ph.D., Of the Department of Geology and Geography at the University of Western Ontario, has been elected to life membership of the International Geographical Union by a unanimous vote of the National Committee of Canada. His appointment has been approved by Prime Minister Mackenzie King who commented, "The election of Prof. Pleva is in recognition of the excellent work he has done and is doing as a geographical scientist."

CAMP GAYVENTURE

GIRLS 5 to 15, BOYS 5 to 11.

Counsellors Interviewed Now.

Write—Miss Dorothy Hoyle, Hoylands, Scarboro Junction, Ont.

Nine Girls Among 1371 Men At Ajax

Total registration figures for Ajax are not yet complete but as they stand now there are 1,380 students at Ajax including nine women. Fifty more are on the way from the Ontario Training and Rehabilitation Institute. This will make registration 1,430.

The courses at Ajax are of the same content and length as those at Toronto. The first term started Jan. 14th and ends April 13th. Second term begins April 23rd and ends July 20th.

Examinations are scheduled for July 29th to August 9th. Ajax students should register in person for second year Sept. 29th.

CCF CLUB

Prof. MacPherson, Supervisor of Studies in Political Economy will address an open meeting of the CCF Club at the Women's Union common room today at 8 p.m. The topic will be "Liberal Democracy". All students are invited to attend.

Beware The Static Sun Spots On Rampage

Observers at the David Dunlop Observatory report that an unusual opportunity is now offered to view sun spots with the naked eye. For the first time in many years an unusually large number are visible.

First noticed at Richmond Hill last Friday, the spots are becoming more readily visible with the rotation of the sun and may be seen for another week or ten days.

The larger group of spots is about 200,000 miles long and represents a major disturbance on the sun. Within the next few days there will probably be resulting disturbances in radio transmission and an increasing display of northern lights.

The Observatory advises against looking at the sun spots directly through field glasses or a telescope unless a dark filter is available. They recommend looking at the spots through a heavily blackened photographic negative or dark smoked glasses.

KING OF HEARTS? KING OF HEARTS? KING OF HEARTS?

Who Will Be The

"KING of HEARTS"

AT THE

INTER-SORORITY BALL

ALPHA UPSILON PHI. DELTA PHI UPSILON.
IOTA ALPHA PI.

FEBRUARY 14th., 1946

—at—

CASA LOMA

Featuring

ART HALLMAN

with

LORRAINE McALLISTER

SUBSCRIPTION, $3.00 per couple DRESS OPTIONAL

KING OF HEARTS? KING OF HEARTS? KING OF HEARTS?

LEARN THE FACTS ABOUT THE JAPANESE-CANADIANS

HEAR THESE SPEAKERS

LT. COL. D. A. CROLL

ANDREW BREWIN

K. Z. TANAKA

GREAT HALL
ECONOMICS BLDG.

THURS. FEB. 14
8.15 p.m.

Speaking OF SPORT

By DON COLES

"Big-time basketball is here to stay." That sentiment, to judge by sport-page editorials in Toronto papers the morning of January 17, was accepted as self-evident. No voices were raised to spoil its unanimity, and the self-styled pundits confined their perorations to speculating on how far the movement would go.

What was the reason for this sudden enthusiasm for a game which had barely emerged from the shadow of the society page? Was it because Fort Wayne Zollners had beaten Rochester Royals in Maple Leaf Gardens the night before? No. The two American pro teams had staged "the greatest basketball spectacle in Toronto's history" . . . and that's just what the game was—a spectacle! The erstwhile glamor boys of the All-American circuit had put on a show which might have pleased the cash customers but for one minor detail—the preliminary, of which mention was made in fine type at the bottom of the ads.

For the edification of those who didn't go to the game, this 'prelim' featured two Canadian university quintets, who played with all the 'old college spirit' and with some hazy notion in their minds about winning (horrors!). This, as all good professional coaches know, is a fatal resolve indeed, and any player who is discovered to entertain such dangerous ideas is regarded with the same abhorrence that a suspected 'red' receives from the members of the Board of Trade.

Be that as it may, the aforementioned "clash of the giants" failed to produce anything more exciting than a discordant twang. The thousands of spectator left the Gardens with a fuller understanding of basketball both pro and amateur, than they had entertained before. And the 'simon-pures' didn't suffer by comparison.

That momentous evening three weeks ago marked the first time a Toronto crowd had had the chance to cheer for a team which might even remotely be considered to be representing their city. It was, moreover, for many in the audience, the first chance they had ever had to view a basketball game in an environment other than that provided by a church gym or a "Y" cubby-hole. By numbers and by applause they showed their appreciation.

So what happens? What do the local promoters do with this golden opportunity? (golden, that is.) For several weeks—nothing. Finally, they announce to the waiting world that, after much negotiation, (i.e. after agreeing to an exorbitant guarantee to the visiting Americans) they have secured "the Dow Chemicals, recent victors over the world champion (?) Zollners; who will appear in the main event of a basketball doubleheader on February 22."

Shades of Wladyslaw Talun and Chief Don't Fence-Me-Out (Blackfoot)! More howling referees who are all too reminiscent of those presiding over 'Deacon' Allen's local love-acts! Please, please gentlemen, let's not degrade basketball to the level of a mere sensory spectacle. Jamie Naismith would roll over in his peach basket if he knew what you are doing to his brain-child!

No, we don't think that's what the citizens of our fair city want. They'll probably go to the game (we hope they do—the proceeds are for the Rotarian Sick Childrens Fund), but we'll guarantee there'll be more than a few empty rows of seats up in "the gods". I'm going to lose all faith in the mercenary instincts of local promoters if they continue to ignore the obvious.

The obvious?—a truly Toronto team, sponsored by no firm and representative of nothing but the city itself—a basketball counterpart of the hockey and baseball Leafs. It's as simple as that.

If the fans will fill the Gardens for games between two outside teams—well, what they would do with a team of their own to cheer for, should be only too apparent,—even if your senses have so deteriorated that you can't see and hear anything unless it's a 'glitterin' an' a cracklin'.

The implications of such a move are staggering. Kids all over Canada would strive to emulate their basketball heroes, just as do Apps-inspired hockeyists. Starting with 'American imports, (a reversal of the hockey situation) we would gradually infiltrate local products into the line-ups. We might even (blasphemous thought!) end up with teams which could rival the best south-of-the-border quintets.

Well folks, there's the story. It's not perfect, it has it's fallibilities, but—it's an idea, isn't it? And, to get back to the U. of T., maybe there's some alert (and plutocratic) undergrad around who could hop into the promotional racket and start the ol' ball rolling. Mike Jacobs had to start somewhere too, y'know.

Taylor Tops Senior Tracksters

To condition themselves for Canada's largest indoor track meet, to be held on March 20 at Hamilton, numerous runners turned out for the running of three events in Hart House on Monday and Tuesday. Hec Phillips is pleased with both the large size of the turnout and the results of the races.

A large entry of 26 men completed in the novice mile run which was won by D. Black of Vic 1, in the time of 4:54. Second in the running was D. F. Pocock, Vic 1, time 4:54:04. He was followed by W. Ald, time 4:57. Fourth was S. Hemilt of Forestry, time, 4:58:06.

For the senior mile, Joe Taylor of U.C., was best with a time of 4:41:05. Tied for second spot were D. Sloan of Vic 2 and Preston of the same college. Their time was 4:44:05. Next came George Speers of Vic, followed by Goering.

The 220 yard dash proved a great success as 154 tracksters gathered to burn up the floor of the House. R. Kendon of Vic came in first in 25 seconds. Another second spot tie was recorded as Gregory of Skule and Harris of U.C., reached the finish 25:03 seconds' after starting time. Artisan Hilditch and Engineer Fordice finished together in third place; time, 25:04 seconds. Colquhan and many others followed closely.

Halder Heads Sr. Hockey Race

Wally Halder, starry Varsity centre, is top man in the Intercollegiate Hockey scoring race, with a total of 12 points in only 2 games.

The Blues power is illustrated in the fact that five of the first seven positions are held by Toronto players, with Halder's line-mate, Bob Henry, holding third spot. These standings do not include Friday's McGill-Queen's game.

SCORING STANDINGS

Player, team.	G.	G. A.	Pts.
Halder, Toronto	2	7	12
Pierson, McGill	2	7	10
Henry, Toronto	2	4	8
T. Hale, McGill	2	3	6
Kossick, Toronto	2	4	6
Bauer, Toronto	2	1	4
G. Bell, Toronto	2	3	5
O'Connor, McGill	2	0	5
R. Pepin, U. of M.	3	3	1
Gignac, U. of M.	3	2	4
Sinclair, McGill	2	2	1
G. Hale, McGill	2	2	1
Dion, U. of M.	3	2	1
Gosselin, McGill	2	1	2
Kryzanowski, Toronto	2	1	2
Y. Pepin, U. of M.	1	1	2
Villeneuve, U. of M.	3	0	3
Dolbec, U. of M.	3	2	0
Bromley, Toronto	2	1	1
Spiller, McGill	2	0	2
Wade, Toronto	2	1	0
Elliott, Queen's	1	1	0
Vallancourt, U. of M.	2	1	0
Doyle, Toronto	2	0	1
Heron, McGill	2	0	1
Boekstae, U. of M.	1	0	1
Pinard, U. of M.	3	0	1
Kent, Queen's	1	0	1

Up 1, Down 1 In Waterpolo

In two waterpolo games played over a week-end the Varsity squad broke out even; one win, one loss.

Playing Friday night at Kingston, the Blues took the Queen's team with a 12-2 victory. A large crowd were on hand to cheer the locals who, playing their first organized game of the season suffered from lack of experience.

Scorers for Varsity were Bossin (3), Kohl (3), Lindgren (2), Moffat (2), Boa (1), Arthurs (1).

Playing centre, Martin set up about ten of the goals scored by his team-mates. Rosen, playing defence, also helped set up a number of successful plays besides breaking up the Queen's attacks. Goal-keeper Jones, in top form, played a superb game.

At Montreal Saturday McGill's waterpolo team downed Varsity 4-1. Their enthusiastic swimming and polo club has been competing with various other city teams getting into top shape for the Varsity encounter.

The Blues sole tally of the game is credited to Bossin, a very dependable player.

struction with granite facing, and will be built largely by student endeavor, as was the present gymnasium.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY	12:00	ST. M. A. vs. SPS III.	P. Fyfe, Garfunkel
WATER POLO	4:15	KNOX vs. TRIN.	Shubik
	6:00	WYC vs. FOR.	Rae
BASKETBALL MAJOR	4:00	PHF I vs. SR. VIC.	Lye
	6:30	SPS III vs. PRE-MED. A.	Strathearn
	7:30	SPS V vs. KNOX A.	Strathearn
BASKETBALL MINOR	1:00	VIC. VIII vs. III AERO.	Swins
	4:00	VIC. IX vs. U.C. ARTS.	Bond
	6:30	U.C. HOLWOOD vs. EMMAN B.	Mott
	7:30	II MED. B vs. FOR D.	Mott

SWIMMING MEETING

TODAY 1.00 p.m.—Athletic Directorate Room

To make arrangements, etc. for St. Interfaculty Meet.

INTRAMURAL SQUASH TOURNAMENT

DRAW FOR WED., FEB. 6th.

4.20	Court No. 2.	J. Smith, Med. vs Klotz, Med.
5.00	Court No. 2.	Sage, Trin. vs Sanders, Med.
5.40	Court No. 2.	Wallace, Trin. vs Robson, Med.
6.20	Court No. 2.	Bernhart, Trin. vs Halperin, Med.
6.20	Court No. 3.	Mills, Trin. vs Levenstein, U.C.

DRAW FOR THUR., FEB. 7th

4.20	Court No. 2.	T. Wright, Vic vs MacDonald, SPS
5.00	Court No. 2.	Cleland, Med vs Sloan, U.C.
5.40	Court No. 2.	Ashmore, Med vs Jordan, Med
6.20	Court No. 2.	VanWyck, SPS vs Hay, U.C.
6.20	Court No. 3.	W. Wright, SPS vs Fine, U.C.

RULES GOVERNING TOURNAMENT

1. Each match will be three of five, 15 minute point games.
2. All matches must be played at time scheduled, or defaulted.
3. A match may be played before the time scheduled if the players arrange it, but not afterwards.
4. Winners must post result on the draw sheet on the board beside the main locker room immediately after each match.
5. The date and time posted on the draw sheet will be the only notification of future matches.
6. For all other details consult Athletic Office, Hart House.

AJAX HOCKEY SCHEDULE

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6TH

CUS. 1	6:30 P.M.	RES. 726 vs. RES. 733
CUS. 1	7:30 P.M.	RES. 731 vs. RES. 737
CUS. 3	6:30 P.M.	RES. 722 vs. RES. 724
CUS. 3	7:30 P.M.	RES. 723 vs. RES. 725

REFEREES: CUS. 1—WHITE & CALDWELL — CUS. 3—STEPHANYSHYN & GRAHAM.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURAL SKI MEET UNIVERSITY SKI CLUB

Sunday, Feb. 10

Buses leave Hart House at 9 a.m.

Entries must be filed before 5 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 8. Leave at Room 82 U.C., MI 8226, or call Judy Rowe, MI 8451. Intercollegiate Skiers not eligible.

Control Downhill Slalom

Late Sports Round-Up

WESTERN-QUEEN'S BASKETBALL

The fast Western basketball quintet took a 46-41 decision from Queen's Friday night. The Gaels looked like strong contenders in the first half but fell behind as the game neared the end.

Phibbs and Scorgie were outstanding for Western with 17 and 16 points respectively. McDonnell led the loers, scoring 12 points.

WESTERN-VARSITY BASKETBALL

Varsity lost both ends of a basketball doubleheader with Western Thursday night. The intermediate Mustang squad took a 40-38 de-sion while their Senior A team defeated Varsity 42-38.

In the first game London held a 20-16 lead at half-time. The Blues put on a terrific barrage in the final half, only being turned back by the stellar work of Bob Allen, Curtis and Allen, Chelfitz and Marshall led the Varsity attack.

The visiting Varsity-ites overcame early Mustang efforts to lead the homesters 20-19 at half-time in the senior game. Toronto's scoring aces, Andrews and Lowes, played terrific ball through the last half but the Western group broke the scoring rush to eke out the 42-38 victory.

Student Projects Finance Gym.

Winnipeg, Feb. 5.—(CUP)—A five hundred dollar war memorial gym for the University of British Columbia is the objective of a campaign launched on Saturday by a joint students alumni committee. This is a province wide project, which is strongly approved by the Board of Governors and will be directed to all students alumni and every B.C. resident.

The student body has been pledged to raise one hundred thousand dollars and has already started going about the task in various ways. A marathon inter-faculty mile of quarters race (using perforated cardboard sheets for the quarters) was held. Milk bottle collections were organized and co-eds sold kisses.

The gymnasium will serve a double purpose—it will commemorate the British Columbia youth who served in two world wars and also satisfy a pressing need for a gym at the university. Present gym facilities accommodate only 600 while registration zooms to 7000, with 2500 students using the gym about thirteen hours a day. Robert Osborne, the director of Physical Education stated that only one third of the recreational facilities can be carried out in the present gym.

Other activities, swimming for example, are undertaken in a downtown gymnasium. Plans for the Memorial gym call for a swimming pool, two basketball courts, wrestling and boxing rooms, women's gym, archery and rifle ranges, and an auditorium capacity of 5000. The gym will be of class A con-

Our Readers Write —

Re Franco

Dear Editor:

Many honest people and students have been caught in the flood of propaganda incidental to the all-out campaign to railroad the United States into breaking off diplomatic relations with Franco Spain.

It may be that the Spanish people do need such a change—Franco is not an angel. But the people of Russia need a change of government incomparably more. If we are going to start changing the governments of the world around when they do not come up to the western democratic standard, where better could we start than with the bloody dictatorship of Moscow?

The Russians were our Allies in the war, it is true. Without the fact of their mighty victories over Hitler in the East, England and the United States might now be vassal states of "Greater Germany." But without our help the Russians would also be under Hitler's heel. And we must note as a matter of plain history that the Russians were very unwilling allies. They did not enter the war in order to do us a good turn. The historical fact is that they just happened to be our allies because Hitler chose to invade Russia, as he chose later to declare war on the United States. When Moscow had a chance to do us a good turn by giving us bases in Russia to aid in the Japanese campaign, Moscow turned us down. We received no help whatever from that quarter in the Pacific campaign until the war was practically won; then it suited Moscow, of course, "to stab its neighbour in the back."

The Franco government of Spain on the other hand, adopted a policy during the Allied campaign in Africa which was of great importance to the success of the campaign. Without that favourable policy, as Prime Minister Churchill himself asserted, the invasion of Africa could hardly have been attempted. Recently, Ambassador Hayes, United States representative in Madrid, stated in his book "Wartime Mission in Spain 1942-45" that Franco was prepared to join the Allies and fight against Hitler in the event of his country being invaded. Hayes declares that when the Allies had trouble in Tunisia the Germans were tempted to march their troops through Spain. General Franco then made it clear to them that if they infringed the laws of neutrality his army would fight against them on the Allied side. The Germans refrained.

The majority of Canadians and Americans have not yet begun to consider the connection between ousting the Franco government in Spain and the advance of Soviet power in Europe. Such a connection does exist. Stalin sees it; he wants to get a new jumping-off place on the west coast of Europe and at the gateway to the Mediterranean and at the same time he wants to encircle Europe.

But, it may be asked, will the ousting of Franco necessarily mean the coming to power of the communists in Spain? That is exactly what Mr. Joseph Stalin wants. Franco stops him. Who else will?

The story goes back a long time. When Lenin took his famous train ride in a sealed coach from Switzerland to Russia in 1917 at the expense of the Imperial German Government, his avowed purpose was: "I shall set Europe on fire at both ends." Russia first, then Spain and Portugal. Russia in 1917. But Lenin did not live to light his torch in Spain. Stalin, his successor, took up the work in 1931, 1934, 1936. But in 1936 the Spanish people rose under Franco and drove the Communists out of Spain—the only complete and final defeat administered to Stalin thus far in his career. What this humiliation meant to him is evident in the repeated declarations, threats, denunciations against Franco Spain from Soviet headquarters at every possible opportunity. As a matter of fact, the vociferous demonstrations staged from time to time in the U.S.A. in order to put pressure on the Department of State carry their label plainly enough: "Made in Moscow." On Aug. 17, 1945, there was set up an anti-Franco "Spanish Government in Exile" in Mexico City. It is the height of naïveté or hypocrisy to pretend not to see the hand of Moscow in the move.

By a friendly approach to the problems of Spain, by a judicious use of the economic help we can give that struggling country, and by honest and helpful diplomacy, perhaps we could do much to remove the taint of totalitarianism from the Spanish government. As it is now, we appear to be scratching the back of a big, powerful, shamelessly unprincipled totalitarian under the guise of friendship, and shaking our fists in the face of a small, weak and only partially totalitarian because we do not need his friendship. That is the most venal kind of statesmanship.

M. A. NOWAK
I Soc. & Phil.

Masterpiece

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

When I first saw Dr. Taylor's speech, as printed in Thursday's edition of The Varsity, I was pressed for time and gave it only a fleeting glimpse dismissing it as irrelevant to, and over the heads of the average student. It was not until I was prompted by a friend to read it carefully that I realized my mistake.

The speech is by no means over the head of a student with an average intellect, and the points brought out in its text are vital to every person, male or female, who is now attending or planning to attend any university. Time and again Dr. Taylor strikes to the core of the educational problem, and does so with a liberal-minded outlook which students find most desirable in an educational leader.

In reference to "dead" languages and related subjects, Dr. Taylor quotes from a letter saying "These old forms which have been sanctioned by time but not by utility ought to be dispensed with". His reason, again quoting, "because the universities are under bondage to the thought forms of an age that is dying or already dead". This contains, in the most condensed form I have yet seen, the essence of whole problem which has for some time been a delicate subject between educator and student. Dr. Taylor's definition of culture is "an integration of thought, the correlation of vital ideas of a period", the opposite of culture is therefore "to be unaware of the system of ideas that belong to the period or lack of mind to criticize them." With this in mind, does it not seem rather short-sighted to immediately label "heretic" anyone whose views of education differ "tried and proven" method? Be honest with yourself, at least for a few minutes.

The aims of education, or should I say, the question of education is, "What set of subjects are best adapted to give a student learning or to whet his brain to its sharpest capacity?" To justify this Dr. Taylor says "more recently it was noted that a smattering of many subjects was not enlargement but shallowness (of education).

To temper these ideas was the well-timed, and I must admit, all too true statement of a well-known fact that "too many students are lacking in purpose and have little idea of objective". Many students will be loath to admit this, but it may be that those who are loudest in their denial will be the ones to whom it is most applicable.

Whether a student has read Dr. Taylor's speech or not, I would strongly advise him (or her) to read it again. He may not agree with all the points but I am sure that he will agree with most of the items of this masterpiece of analysis of a knotty problem.

D. MUIR
I Pass A's (U.C.)

Arctic Weather

(Continued from Page 1)

opinion that one has to attend university to get this job."

Walt Fryers, who obtained his B.Sc. at the University of Manitoba in '39, thinks that science today should be stressed more than ever in the educational institutions of Canada.

"We cannot live without science today," he continued. "It is the logical thing for Canada to develop the North in all possible ways. There are tremendous opportunities here in all fields. As for myself, I would sincerely like to continue with meteorological studies at Toronto, when we finish this job in May."

McKay and Manitoba's Musk-Ox meteorologists are thus setting the way for Canada's peacetime weather stations, a link in the nation's post-war prosperity. Co-eds in the near future may be seen sporting furless coats during the winter months. Such is the opinion of B.Q.M.S. George Stevens of Toronto, now of Musk-Ox.

DO YOU EAT LIKE DIET SMITH ??

(Watch him, Dick Tracy)

If not, then you have a taste for tempting treats, an appetite for things you can relish.

—like our new Spring selection of English-bred woolens.

Men, you can have that new suit, sport jacket, or topcoat prepared for you in 3 to 4 weeks (sooner, if you egg us on).

Hungry for new clothes? Do drop in and introduce yourself.

Let us spread the cloth for you at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES
449 SPADINA AVENUE
at College
RA 8995-6

Serving from nine to nine.
Saturdays until 6.

- ### Did You Know . . .
- That your undergraduate newspaper has long been spawning ground for Canada's journalists of tomorrow?
 - That for the sixty-five years of its history it has witnessed a parade of neophyte newsmen and (in recent decades) newswomen?
 - That it's illustrious contributors have included the present Prime Minister of Canada and Canada's outstanding humorist, the late Stephen Leacock?
 - That Ross Munro, ace war correspondent of Canadian Press, once served as its News Editor?
 - That The Varsity's Champus Cat column was journalistic arrowroot for Shuster and Wayne of increasing CBC fame?
 - That B. K. Sandwell, Editor of Saturday Night, was a Varsity mastheader?
 - That Glen Bannerman, prominent in Canadian radio, also worked here?
 - That The Varsity's ace by-liners of yesterday are today writing in every large city in Canada and the United States?
 - That among The Varsity's alumni are included such familiar names as Alan Harvey, Anita Freedman and Mike O'Mara?
 - That the news training provided students as-reporters for The Varsity is almost unexcelled in Canada?

RECORD HOUR

The Record Program, held daily in the Women's Common Room, University College, from 4.00 to 5.30, is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. Today's program:

Gounod—Faust (concluded.)

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE
TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m.	a 2:30 p.m.
b 7:45 a.m.	b 3:55 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)
(b—except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m.	8:40 a.m.
7:30 a.m.	9:30 a.m.

and every hour on the half hour until 10:30 p.m.
Also 11:40 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES
Bay at Dundas—ADelaide 4221

We like OUR STREET—both East and West from number 57.

If our City has an ultra center, Bloor is surely it. Here are some of the smartest shops (Greeds—Springers—Fredericks)—the most modern signs (Weston's accurate, flashing clock—Neilson's super duper at Bay)—the snazziest restaurants (Diana's—Honey Dew—Park Plaza Roof)—THE RINK—THE STADIUM—THE MEDICAL ARTS—all are here.

You receive courtesy and consideration everywhere but especially at 57!

published by b. a. stevenson, c.l.u. and associates of the university branch.
57 bloor street, west.
ki 4136.

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

REHEARSAL FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

TONIGHT 7.30 p.m.

CONVOCATION HALL

Classified Advertisements

PERSONAL I wish this guy Russell would stop stealing my stuff. Mickey Lester.	LOST Black Waterman's fountain pen, without clip, in front of Museum. Please call, HY 5178.
KIDNAPPED One male blue Parker pen, Thurs., vicinity U.C. Junior Common Room. Parent will pay ransom. Phone KI 3932.	FOR SALE Pair boy's skates, size 9, chrome, new. LY 4531.

Art, Music and Drama

More Superlatives

There have been so many good concerts in Toronto during the past three or four weeks that audiences and adjectives alike are getting circles under their eyes. Last night it was Artur Rubenstein and the Toronto Symphony, conducted by Sir Ernest MacMillan.

A number of people claim that Rubenstein is the greatest pianist in the game today. This can be debated at length and to no purpose. But the fact remains that his playing last night was heartrending. Chopin's Second Concerto, in E minor, is not much of a crowd pleaser, but when it was finished the audience cheered and stamped most of its feet. The two Chopin encores which followed were gems. Rubenstein can play the tenderest phrases without becoming sentimental; his rapid scale passages and ornamentation are as evenly graded as a string of pearls; at moments of climax you want to shout. The orchestra accompanied very well, but neither Chopin nor anyone else paid much attention to them.

Rubenstein used the same piano as Malcuzyński had the night before, but unlike the younger man, he gauged its quality so well that only in the first few chords of the Concerto was his tone harsh. After that he kept the volume just under the point where that particular instrument starts jangling.

A lengthy and rather dull tone-poem entitled Charpent by Maurice Blackburn, a young French Canadian, occupied most of the first half. It is inspired by the Canadian Bush, and paints a picture of the mystery of a great forest and the drama of its conquest by Man. Or so the program said. Like most program music, it might have been about anything in similar mood. Someday our Canadian outdoors will inspire a gigantic work of music. Mr. Blackburn might compose it himself, but he hasn't done so yet.

Neither has Graham Godfrey, whose melodious setting of an Irish folk song entitled Waking Thoughts is pleasant enough but is neither Canadian nor Irish.

Brock McElheran.

QUESTIONNAIRE

(In answering the following questionnaire, readers are asked to guard against prejudice by considering the general standard of the various departments rather than any particularly excellent or nauseating articles)

- 1—How often do you read The Varsity? Rarely..... Occasionally..... Regularly.....
 - 2—In your opinion, has The Varsity's general standard: Improved..... Deteriorated..... Remained the same..... since becoming a tabloid?
 - 3—Following is a list of the various departments of The Varsity. In the space opposite each, suggest any improvements you would like to see.

Art, Music and Drama
Books
Bridge Problems
Cartoons
Cinematheque
Champus Cat
Campus Capsules
Editorial Encores
Editorials
Features
Lecture Reports
New and Entrenous
News Stories
News from other campi
Notices of Coming Events
Personality Interviews
Our Readers Write
Speaking of Sport
Speaking of Swing
Sports Stories
Sportswoman
 - 4—In the above list, check your favourite five features.
 - 5—What do you think of the present distribution of space among the various departments?
 - 6—Should allocation of the increased space include more news of other Canadian campi?
 - 7—Should The Varsity's editorials discuss the things they do?
 - 8—What annoys you most about The Varsity?
 - 9—What general or specific improvements would you suggest?
- Signed..... Faculty..... Year.....

ALL FORMS MUST BE SIGNED

This questionnaire will be published for the remainder of the week. Completed copies will be accepted in The Varsity office, Room 42-a, University College, or at the S.A.C. office, Hart House.

Sweater-Like Warmth Without Bulk

CHAMOIS VESTS

They're as soft and light as only English chamols can be. Wear one under your jacket outdoors... wear it at home when you're taking it easy.

They're tailored to fit trimly and easily, with taped edges and zipper front. Sides 36 to 44. Natural shade only.

Each, 6.50

Main Store - Main Floor

T. EATON CO. LIMITED

Coming Events

U.C. ART EXHIBIT

Contributions for the Art Exhibit for men and women of University College must be handed in at the Women's Union by Feb. 12. For further information contact Evelyn Swartz, MI 2015.

CHEMICAL CLUB

Dr. H. G. Thole will address a meeting of the Chemical Club tomorrow evening on the subject "The Mass Spectrometer and Its Application to Chemistry." The meeting will be held in the large lecture room of the Chemistry Building.

VIC MUSIC CLUB

Programs for the 23rd annual At-Home to be held in Burwash Hall, Feb. 15 will be given out to members today from 10 a.m. to 2.30 p.m. in Alumni Hall. Members are entitled to bring a friend free.

JEWISH ART EXHIBIT

In connection with the special exhibition of Jewish art and culture now being featured at the Royal Ontario Museum, Rev. R. J. Williams, lecturer in Oriental Languages in the University of Toronto, will give an illustrated lecture on "Archaeological Exploration in Palestine Between the Wars", at 8.15 p.m. Thursday.

The galleries will be open to the public in the evening.

Ajax Sports

Basketball

724A defeated 722A 36-14. Commuters defeated 729A 29-27; 727A defeated 725A 32-25; 725B defeated 723B 18-10; 734A defeated 732A 31-24.

Hockey

728 defeated Commuters 7-5; 725 defeated 729 5-2.

Bowling

726C-722E 1300-1250; 726B-723B 1679-1561; 723A-726A 1567-1504; 732A-729A, 1700-1593; 731D-723E, 1613-1306; 734A-Commuters A, 1238-1199; 737A-Commuters B, default; 725D-722D, 1659-1503; 733C-737D, 1472-1292.

Have You Lost
Anything?

Have You Anything
For Sale?

For quick results
put a Classified Ad.
in "The Varsity"

Phone MI. 6221

• Sportswoman •

By Mickey Michasiw

FEMININE THOUGHTS AND SPORTS...

Like robins that can't wait for the vernal equinox to call it Spring, some women insits on leading with their chins. In successive announcements, two members of that much admired species have voiced threats to disenthron Jim Coleman's Mere Male.

In Washington recently, Clare Boothe Luce hatched a controversial brainwave. When a Congressman condescendingly said: "You think like a man", Miss Luce replied, "Thought has no sex". Critics packed off to Luceville last week for the opening of "Are Men and Women Intellectually Equal".

Axe-swinging Ann Shipley of Kirkland Lake went one step further. Last Monday at the Northern Ontario winter carnival opening in North Bay, hefty Reeve Shipley upheld her political office and her feminine argument by participating in the "mayors only" wood chopping contest. Other starters included the mayors of North Bay, Sudbury, Timmins, Sturgeon Lake and Kenora. Toronto's whirlwind executive, Bob Saunders and Ottawa's wood-saving Stanley Lewis declined to swing out.

By nightfall Monday, Miss Shipley was acclaimed Canada's yeastiest champion of feminine rights; her re-election next autumn was assured; the two suave mayors were wrestling for explanations of their defeat.

Campus observers were not too worried however. The Luce-like thinkers fell into line but Miss Shipley's breathtaking triumph went almost unnoticed. Said one disinterested representative: "Co-eds have more constructive things to think about. However sports are wonderful especially when the participants are tall, blonde and eligible." Another summed up the situation: "Women lack the crafty, competent leadership enjoyed by the men. No leadership, no enthusiasm, little participation."

One co-ed remained undaunted. It was rumored that Polly Mutz had retired to the woods adjoining Grenadier Pond in High Park and there was preparing a challenge to flaunt, not only in the face of Miss Shipley but also in the faces of Varsity co-eds.

VICTORIA COLLEGE PUBLIC LECTURE

PROFESSOR F. H. UNDERHILL
Department of History, University of Toronto

"The Fabians"

Wednesday, Feb. 6th.

IN ALUMNI HALL AT 5 P.M.

Veterans' Housing Needs Aired At Western Parley

London, Feb. 6.—(CUP)—“The successful rehabilitation of Canada's ex-servicemen is a continuation of the national war emergency,” Maurice J. Testart told a meeting of more than 400 ex-service students in the University of Western Ontario's Convocation Hall Tuesday.

One of the two Ontario members of the National Council of Student Veterans, Testart said this principle was underlying the brief recently presented to the Parliamentary Committee on Veterans' Affairs by the NCSV. The principle, he said, was stressed mainly in connection with the national housing problem.

Mr. Testart alleged that both Walter Tucker, Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee and Parliamentary Secretary to the Hon. Ian Mackenzie, and Walter S. Wood, Deputy Minister of Veterans' Affairs, maintained that housing is a problem for the provinces and private enterprise to solve.

“The council replied that rehabilitation is a federal responsibility and if lack of housing endangers the servicemen's successful rehabilitation, then it is up to the Federal government to take part of the steps to avert failure of its own legislation,” Testart said.

“The survey of student cost-of-living now being conducted by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics will substantiate the aims of the NCSV that present maintenance grants are inadequate,” he added.

Testart stressed the major part played by the Canadian Legion in rehabilitation. “The Legion,” he said, “is mainly responsible for veterans' educational training.”

In addition, he said the Legion as one of the bodies responsible for the first national conference of student veterans, and arranged for the Council's audience with the Parliamentary Committee. He said that the Legion branch at Western had contributed over $300 to bringing student veterans' problems to Ottawa.

Need Private Enterprise Says Conservative Fleming

“In university, the emphasis on theory...often produces radicalism” which “gradually undergoes readjustment because we overlook the human element.

“This factor can never be permanently overlooked”, summed Donald Fleming, K.C., M.P. in the Women's Union yesterday afternoon.

Congratulating the Progressive Conservative Club's recent organization, he said members were contributing to “political education on the campus”, “making a vital contribution to the foundation of democracy.”

The advice was: “Don't ever underestimate your value and influence. If you have ideas—express them.”

“While they literally rotted physically and mentally,” Toronto paid over 100 million dollars, one-tenth of the Dominion's 10-year depression share to keep people alive, it was tated.

“Conditions must be created to encourage private enterprise,” said the Member for Eglinton North, but “under the present pressure of taxation this is impossible”. In connection he advocated easing of wage control, encouraging development of natural resources, and during “inevitable” periods of depression, “ample public works . . . beneficial to the entire country, could be financed by the government.”

“A definite advantage over the other political parties in Canada” Mr. Fleming credited to the Progressive Conservative Party in the respect that it can point to a more recent comprehensive statement of policy than any other party. The last such statement by the Liberal Party was in 1919, the C.C.F. Regina Manifesto was issued in 1933, but the Progressive Conservative Party issued a statement in late 1942 at the Winnipeg National Convention.

Housing Shortage End Said In Sight At Ajax

Yesterday the Ajax ex-servicemen met to hear the findings of their chairman, Mr. Lavergne, and his secretary, who during the past week have been in constant touch with the S.A.C. on the Queen's Park campus in regards to living quarters for the married ex-servicemen.

Mr. Lavergne stated that progress was being made in finding housing accommodation in Toronto about the University campus for 60 families now residing at Ajax who commute daily to the Queen's Park campus. If the houses at Ajax were vacated by the Queen's Park students, the housing shortage for 80 Ajax families would be relieved as in the future more and more houses will be left untenanted by War Assets and Defence Industries Limited employees.

Mr. Lavergne has received the greatest co-operation from Mr. Gilley, the Director of Ajax, and from all the other officials on both

Fabians Swung Br. Socialists From Marxism

“The Fabians diverted British socialism from its revolutionary path,” said Professor F. H. Underhill, in opening the annual spring lecture series sponsored by the Victoria College Council in Alumni Hall yesterday.

A member of Varsity's History Department, Professor Underhill described how the nucleus of the Fabian Society—George Bernard Shaw, Sydney and Beatrice Webb, and Sidney Olivier—conducted a nationwide popularization of socialism.

By publishing countless pamphlets and giving innumerable lectures, the Fabians succeeded in establishing the tradition of gradual legislative change which has since been adopted by both trade unionists and socialists. This tradition, Professor Underhill summed in a statement of Sydney Webb's: “The inevitability of gradualism.”

The Fabian Society, said Professor Underhill, began as a seceding sect of a society committed to a program of social reformation through moral education. The Fabians, strengthened by Shaw, the Webbs, and Olivier, substituted legislation.

The society was considerably weakened during the 'twenties, Shaw, disillusioned as a result of the war, left. Militant Marxists like H. G. Wells, Harold Laski, John Strachey bitterly attacked their policy.

Through the efforts of G. D. H. Cole and other younger Fabians, the society was revitalized until now half the British Cabinet and two-thirds of the Labor members of Parliament are members.

campi, who are doing their best to straighten out the unsatisfactory arrangement of having the students commute from one campus to another.

On the other hand, the interests of these students who are and will have difficulty in finding homes in the Ajax vicinity were also taken up with D.V.A. And it is hoped that in the near future a substantial travelling allowance will be granted to the students.

The function of the married ex-servicemen's organization is not to act on their own volition, but to iron out any difficulties which may arise as to housing and travel, and present their problems to the S.A.C. on both camp.

All the married ex-servicemen are requested to attend the important meeting next Monday at 1.15 at Hart House Ajax for the election of officers to carry out the remedying of troubles which are sure to arise out of the housing and travel questions.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 77 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, February 7, 1946

PHARMACY AWARDS HONOR TILSTON V.C.

Queen's Court Fines Studes

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 6.—(CUP)—Twenty Queen's University science men were convicted of entering Goodwin House, a women's residence, earlier in the term. The students were tried by the court of the Alma Mater Society and fined five dollars.

At first Dr. A. V. Douglas, dean of women, wanted a more severe penalty, but after consideration, and a plea from the women residents, she asked for leniency. Actually, only seven people were summoned after the entrance of the House, but 13 fellow students declared that it was only fair that they stand by their friends who were in trouble.

On the night of January 25, following a class party of senior science men, some of the senior engineers broke into the women's residence, causing a commotion which summoned the dean to the aid of her charges.

The dean of women asked that the matter be referred to the senate, but they decided that it was a borderline case between jurisdiction of the students' government and university authorities and so turned it over to the Alma Mater Society.

C.U.P. Flashes

Montreal, Que., Feb. 6.—(CUP)—Three additional members would be elected to the staff of the McGill Daily if a series of amendments to the Student Society of McGill University are agreed upon, on February 6. The changing of the quorum and number of signatures required for a Students' Society meeting and the increase of the number of Students' Executive Council, which to-day consists of twelve members, will also be under discussion.

For more than a year the Students' Executive Council has felt the need of bringing the Society's Constitution up to date. Last fall the Council held regular meetings devoted entirely to the reorganization of the constitution.

London — Western's basketball Seconds defeated the Port Huron team 41 to 36 in a close game at Classmates Put Up Funds For Prize In Last Year

Award for Four-Year Course

Major Fred Tilston, V.C., who graduated from the University of Toronto in Pharmacy in 1929, is to be honored by a scholarship organized by members of his class.

The scholarship will be of the approximate value of $50 to a student graduating from pharmacy in the new four year course which will begin in 1948. This means that the first award will be made in 1952. The committee for raising funds, represented by Mr. F. N. Hughes, said that they are leaving the details of the presentation, such as to whom it will be given, and on what qualifications, to Major Tilston himself.

All contributions for the scholarship are being made by the members of Major Tilston's year. There will be a reunion of the year of '29, on February 19, to make a personal presentation to the major.

The committee, composed of Don MacFarlane, William P. Smith, William J. Lay, and F. N. Hughes, has not completed their plans as yet but further details will be given later.

Major Tilston received the Victoria Cross for gallantry in the rescue of two men in the European campaign, in which he lost both his legs. He returned to Canada last summer, and was honored by the city of Toronto. Married recently, it is said that Major Tilston is now living in Windsor.

MANITOBA BISONS

Winnipeg, Feb. 1.—With a good crowd of three thousand fans applauding University of Manitoba Bisons won western Canadian inter-collegiate men's basketball crown at Civic Auditorium Feb. 1 with a 44-29 victory over University of Alberta Golden Bears. In the first of a three-game round-robin series Thursday night Bisons defeated Sask. Huskies. In the second event held Friday afternoon at Y.M.C.A. here Sask. Huskies triumphed over Alberta Golden Bears. University of Alberta Pandas had little trouble in winning the women's crown by whipping Manitoba 23 to 17 Feb. 1 after setting back U. of Saskatchewan Friday afternoon 34 to 27.

Port Huron, Tuesday. In their fourth straight win Scott, Horne and Wardle carried the ball for the high scoring, taking the game in the last quarter.

I.S.S. Provides Food For The Body, Too

Licking their fingers, reaching for helpings of their thin daily rations, these European-students are some of thousands whom the International Student Service nourishes at university soup-kitchens. For I.S.S. facts, see pages 4 and 5.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMT. 6611

Business OfficeMT. 6221

Night OfficeMT. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor...Peggy Bates, 478
 Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
 Make-up Editor...Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
 News Editor...George Forster, 477
 Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 476
 Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
 Assistant...Reg Herman, 476
 Sports Editor...Bredin Stapells, 476
 Assistant...Don Mason, 478
 Women's Sports Editor Polly Maltz, 478
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor...Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant...Dorothy Harley, 476
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor...Philip Freedman, 476
 Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477
 Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Thursday, February 7, 1946

"Silence and Darkness"

We publish below a guest editorial from Holland. It is a cry from the heart: a cry not for books nor for food and shelter, but for news.

Its author, Marjolein Heyermans, is an editor of the student weekly at the University of Amsterdam. His plea, originally couched in a letter to his elder cousin, Professor Eda Houwink of the School of Social Work, underlines the tragic darkness of the intellect which the German occupation of Holland left behind.

I.S.S. will help editor Heyermans. It will help rebuild his university, restock its libraries, pay its staff, feed him and his classmates. Characteristically, he mentions none of these needs. His thirst, as it is the thirst of students everywhere, is to know.

"We Dutch students have been so isolated these past years, and we want to know all kinds of things about other universities. There were some congresses where students of all European countries, and many other ones, were present, but not everything was talked about then.

"Apart from that, we get bulletins from F.E.S.E., World Student Relief, and I.S.S., but they don't know all we want to know. Most of the news is about difficulties of different universities in war-time and post-war-time, which is very interesting but not enough.

"Because we'd like to know things about universities which haven't been bombed or stolen bare, or been closed up, or anything which happened here. All I know about the universities of the United States is that they expect their number of students to be doubled and that the Government is bestowing a rough sum of 2 billion dollars on improving the buildings. That's not so very interesting and only very jealous-making kind of information, which doesn't tell a thing about the real student-life.

"I know very little about American students and universities, only that the organization of everything was very good and that some Faculties are very much better over there than they are here, some worse. Could you tell me about them, or if you haven't the time or the enthusiasm, would some student want to do it?

"I'm an editor of our Student Weekly, and I would be very grateful if a weekly of your university could be sent regularly to me. If there's someone in your knowing who can understand Dutch, we might send our weekly to you, but apart from that maybe you would yourselves like to know about the Dutch student, about the very special organizations and work we had during the war, about the things that happened to us and to our universities.

"It's a good story to tell, and I must confess I've worked in all kinds of organizations during the war, but that the student-adventures and workings are most dear to me.

"We got ourselves a certain fame, and though we did it because we felt we had to, and though we knew very well that it wasn't enough, never enough, yet we have a kind of clan-feeling which makes us proud.

"We want to talk about it because our professors were not very 'good', and so the conduct of the universities as a whole didn't seem very worthy in the beginning.

"And we like to talk about it, well, because we've lived through things that changed us for life, that made us older than our ages, and made even the laziest and dreamiest of people—such as I was—fighting natures.

"We had to work in silence and darkness, and could only speak to a certain group of friends, or through the underground papers, and now we are free to talk to anybody about anything without landing in a concentration camp for it. So we talk, talk, talk; we praise (not often), we criticise (more often), and we try to fight on and on.

"There are here in Amsterdam some 20 big newspapers—not much paper available for them!—and perhaps 30 or 40 weeklies. Everybody wants to talk himself, and when the newspapers rage that the weeklies eat up the available paper-rations, the weeklies cry, 'We have as much right as you have, or more,' and things remain as they were.

"Even we are cross, because unknown weeklies get enormous rations, while we, who were the last paper that made fun of the Germans (until 1941, when they closed up the paper and threw some of the editors in jail) don't get enough and break our heads every time trying to get things straight."

There was once a carpenter who gave his awl. He specialized in hope chests which he whimsically called despair chests, thinking of course, of the groom. Of course, there is nothing like a well-groomed man. A man who is well groomed can really go places. There was once a well-groomed man who was told where to go, but he somehow did not see eye to eye with the man who told him. He was cross-eyed. This trouble can be cleared up often by the new contact lenses. Contact lenses are so-called because, when people put them in they yell "Contact". This is a very noisy procedure, so they have developed a new silent model which sells for $300. However three hundred dollars is a lot of money, even when you have it in fives. Five dollar bills are made with the face of the King on them, not just because they are fives, but because they are bills. BUT the word five dollar bill dates back to William of Orange because he was called Bill by his intimate companions. Intimate companions can be condoned as long as they do not get too intimate. Especially. But companionship is always a good thing which is well illustrated by a little anecdote about Bizet. One of his companions asked him if he'd like to slip out to Mac's for coffee, and he cried "Go away, can't you see I'm Bizet?" Busy or not you're going to be caught, and last caught it. But being caught is strictly for fishes which are preferred during passover, known during Leapyear as popover. Leap-year is also well known as the time when frogs leap from which is derived our game of leapfrog. Jumping over things has been a characteristic of cows from time immemorial. That's because we can only remember one other time a cow jumped, and that was when a man started to milk her with gloves on. There was once a girl who was very lovely to look at. (get the point?) But then there are a lot of women who are a lot better to look at than she was, for example there is Veronica Lake. Lovely Lake Louise, where moonlight cruises are to be had for a nominal sum of $300. Of course $300 is a lot of money even if it does...oh wait, we've been over that. Talking of going over things, there is the time the fellow flew over Scotland, and ran smack into the teeth of a Howling Gael. The teeth were found later in the propeller, but then Scottish dentists are noted. Dentists of course are well known for going to college where they indulge in antics. But this is very antiquated now, being an anticlimax. Furniture is often antiquated. That is because it is made by carpenters. There was once a carpenter who gave his awl.

Radio

Airwave Education

M. Aurele Seguin's speech on the application of radio to educational purposes last Monday afternoon deserved to have been heard by all interested in radio not educationalists alone. From the director of the CBC French educational network "Radio College", it was a report on trail blazing in Canadian Radio. The network set a precedent in North American broadcasting by inaugurating a series of productions of French classical drama complete and unabridged. These were each offered in five half-hour sequences. Currently the network is producing or preparing to produce such classics as Macbeth, Crime & Punishment, David Copperfield, etc., in addition to its regular fare of dramatizations of historic events, lives of scientists, etc.

M. Seguin drew attention to a subject closely connected with the charges often heard respecting the shortcomings of rural education. To a child's imagination, he observed, radio is the "real McCoy"—a vital contact with the world. Radio's enrichment of the average school curriculum by providing it the services of experts in music, science,

(Continued on Page 7)

Bank on a Sweet Cap for satisfaction - anywhere... anytime! And when you tune in "LIGHT UP AND LISTEN" WITH

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES

Station CKEY — CJBC
9.30 p.m.—Every Thursday Night

LIGHT UP AND Play

When it's time out for fun and games Sweet Caps just naturally join the party for smoking enjoyment.

OPEN MEETING

8.00 P.M.
WEDNESDAY
FEBRUARY 13th.

BLACKWELL

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CLUB

WOMEN'S UNION

STANLEY B. RYERSON

AUTHOR OF "FRENCH CANADA".

"World Government"

VERSUS

"Peace"

HURON ST., 541 HURON ST.

8.30 p.m. Tonight

SPONSORED BY KENDAL PARK CLUB L.P.P.

Hart House Bulletin Board

Library Evening

The Rev. Dr. R. S. K. Seeley, Provost of Trinity College, will talk informally on "The Lost Art of Reading" at a library evening in Hart House Library at 7.30 p.m. today. Smoking. Discussion. Members of Hart House are invited.

Friday Afternoon Recital

Robert Graham, violinist, will give a recital in the music room of Hart House at 5 p.m. on Friday. Mrs. Kingsley Graham will be at the piano.

Glee Club Elections

Nominations for the Glee Club Committee will open at 9 a.m. tomorrow and close at 6 p.m. on Wednesday next, 13th February. Elections will be held on Tuesday, 19th February from 4.30 p.m. to 6.30 p.m. Nomination forms are available in the Warden's office.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

Convalescence In Shangri-La

VOL. LXV—No. 77 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, February 7, 1946

S.A.C. AT A GLANCE

● The Students Administrative Council meeting last evening in the Medical Board Room:
● Voted an additional $125 to the Interfaculty Debating Union to pay travelling expenses of Gordon Stulberg and Ruth O'Shaughnessy, Varsity delegates in the exchange Cornell-Toronto debate. Accepting the Finance Commissioner's report, Council agreed that such intercollegiate debates were "good publicity" for the University.

● Opened its "locked doors" to Ken Morrison, L.P.P. Club President, whose request to attend Council meetings was accepted. All undergraduates, it was pointed out, have the right to enter Council chambers as spectators. Were admission sought on a widespread scale however, the present meeting place could scarcely accommodate an orderly session, it was stated. Council decided to risk it.

● Heard a report from the recently-endorsed Ex-Service Committee outlining that group's activity in the preparation of a brief to be presented to the Board of Governors seeking improvements in student-veteran welfare. Specifically sought is living accommodation for married students and a commuters' allowance for Toronto-Ajax daily commuters.

● Listened to an up-to-date recital of The Varsity's own housing problems. About to move to its third office in a fortnight, The Varsity as yet does not know: Where?

● Tabled until its next meeting a proposal by Debates Commissioner Graham Cotter, Trinity IV, that the S.A.C. declare itself opposed to conditions whereby women are excluded from important meetings in Hart House as publicized in The Varsity of last Tuesday. Direct approach to Hon. Vincent Massey was suggested as the only course that could possibly bring results. Prof. W. J. Wright, Director of Ajax, made this recommendation.

● Met Mike McAuliffe, newly-elected President of the Ajax Engineering Society and automatically a member of the Council and agreed that Ajax should be further represented on the Council by one of the 1,200 ex-servicemen enrolled.
● Endorsed the request of the Japanese-Canadian Committee for a meeting in University College on February 16, where Lt.-Col. David A. Croil, Andrew Brewin, K.C., and K. Z. Tanaka, Chairman of the Japanese Committee for democracy will report on the facts of the Japanese deportation problem.

● Congratulated The Varsity on improved news coverage and features; and on having enough copies on time.

● Lauded the "valuable surveys" and the work being done on behalf of the ex-service students by the Student Veterans' Committee.

PASTORAL ART

as above, is supposed to be easily provoked on a large and picturesque campus.

This may well swamp the coming exhibit, if undergraduate artists choose to draw the subject of their contributions from their immediate surroundings.

Art has caught hold of the peace-time campus with more time to devote to spare-time activities, the trend seems to say. Another form of proving this will be the U.C. Art Exhibit, scheduled for the near future.

Contributors are warned that all contributions must be in the Women's Union by Feb. 12. Further details may be received from Fine Art Club President Evelyn Swartz, MI 2015.

All of art will be welcomed, ranging from the pastoral example above to below

OBJECTIVE ART

RECORD HOUR

The record program, held daily in the Women's Common Room, University College, from 4:00 to 5:30 p.m., is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. Today's program:

Bach—Brandenburg Concerto No. 5.
Brahms—Piano Concerto No. 2.

What's On Today

U.C. WOMEN SKIERS

All U.C. women interested in skiing meet at the Women's Union this afternoon at 5:00 in the South Common Room.

AJAX V.C.F.

Melvin V. Donald, Toronto staff member for the Varsity Christian Fellowship, will lead a discussion in building 705 at 7:00 p.m. on the topic: "Why is the Bible the World's Best Seller?"

S.C.M.

John Swomley, Jr., associate secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, is speaking at 1:10 in Wychlife Common Room.

Debaters Prepare Ithaca Itinerary

Ruth O'Shaughnessy will treat the political and economic consequences of unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine in Monday's debate at Ithaca, N.Y., between teams from Cornell and Varsity. Gordon Stulberg will dwell on the subjective aspects.

In an interview with The Varsity, Stulberg stated both he and Miss O'Shaughnessy were looking forward to the trip.

"I am planning on doing graduate work at Cornell Law School next year, so I am particularly happy about this opportunity to visit Cornell," said Stulberg.

"There's only one thing that worries me," he concluded. "I understand there are no women there."

"The thing that worries Ruth is that there may be women there!"

Western Receives Research Grants

London — (CUP)—The medical school of the University of Western Ontario has received within the past few days, grants amounting to $6,700 to be used for research purposes.

A National Research Council grant of $4,500 has been assigned to Dr. J. C. Paterson, professor of Pathology to continue research on Coronary Thrombosis and on Antibiotics, a penicillin-like substance derived from molds for the prevention of bacteria growth.

The Banting Research Foundation grant is to be used by the bacteriology department.

In Chalets like these, within sight of the Swiss Alps, war-worn students, many of them starved and diseased, are recuperating their strength and continuing their studies. International Student Service is the fairy godfather.

Weeks of Worry and Work Juniors Fete Seniors Soon

By Blanche Stanley

February is the month when the Juniors of Whitney Hall and the annexes throw a party for the Seniors in residence. This is tradition. Preparations have been underway for the last few weeks to settle all the decorations, menus, orchestra, and everything else attached to the business of giving a banquet and a formal dance.

At this point, only a week and a half before the day, seniors are being very wary concerning their conversation, their actions, and their private lives. Who knows? A junior might be lurking around the corner, pencil and paper in hand, taking notes which will help prepare the skits to be presented after the formal banquet.

The first job on the agenda is to decide on a theme for decorations in the three different houses, each house having an original plan, one not knowing about what is going on in either of the others. Once the theme is decided upon, there is nothing left to do but develop it. Was that a junior who just screamed? Making their courses extracurricular activities for a couple of weeks, juniors really slave—painting posters, making table decorations, organizing committees to make other preparations.

This isn't all. Another tradition is the buying of gifts for the honored seniors. Each year the third year house committee representatives tear their hair out thinking up something that would be suitable for all the recipients, and costing the required amount. This as well as all decorations, the banquet and the dance, is paid for by the juniors in residence.

February 15 has arrived, all the cutting out, painting, organizing and planning is over, nothing is left but the actual decoration of the common room and the dining room. All afternoon frantic females tear around the halls, gathering up their possessions, yelling for more adhesive tape, tacks, thumbtacks, and whatever is used to get posters and such to stick on walls. Wild yells are heard every time a senior is seen trying to peak around corners, or through the glass doors that divide the rooms from the hallway. Everything is to be a surprise and the secret is guarded as if the world depended on it.

At the banquet, previously chosen, unhappy juniors and seniors have to say their little piece, among the speeches being one to the house, and one to the seniors and as-wers to each. Then comes the part of the evening that every senior dreads, the part for which the juniors have been sitting next to their superiors at meals, have called on them in their rooms, have checked the leave book, and have generally spied on them for the preceding few weeks. Nothing is sacred—the juniors are merciless—they imitate all the little idiosyncracies of the seniors in such a way that it leaves nothing to the imagination, everyone knows exactly who is being torn apart.

This is the end, literally and figuratively. There is nothing left to do but to dance.

Meds Artist In H.H. Recital

A familiar artist to many Varsity students Mr. Robert Graham, violinist, will give this Friday Afternoon Recital in Hart House. Although this is the first Friday Recital at which he has played, Mr. Graham, who is in second year Medicine, has given many performances in Hart House. Last year he and Jim MacDonald, talented young University pianist now taking a post-grad course in New York, gave a Sunday evening concert, and he has played at numerous midday recitals in Hart House.

In recent years he has been soloist at Secondary School concerts and Pops concerts with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. He was also soloist at the University Band Concert in Convocation Hall. As well as giving two recitals in New York, he has given a number of half-hour programs on the radio.

Mr. Graham will be accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Kingsley Graham, at the piano and will play the following pieces:

Sonatina	Dvorak
Concerto in D Major	Paganini
Habanera	Ravel
March	Prokofiev
The Girl with the Flaxen Hair	Debussy
Fire Dance	de Falla

Future of Canadian Democracy Discussed In Comparison With Fascism, Communism

"The prospects for Canadian Democrats cannot be definitely stated; it depends upon the ability of the capitalist economy to increase the standard of living of the country. If this economy does not come up to the increasing demands made upon it, freedom of association, of the press and of speech, will have to be suppressed as has been done in every Fascist country in Europe," said C. B. MacPherson, professor of Political Economy at this University in an address to the University CCF Club last night, in the Women's Union.

With Fascism the only privileges left are those such as the vote, but what good is a vote when your only choice is to vote Yes?, continued Prof. MacPherson. Assuming that there is a chance of our being left in this predicament, can anything be done to keep the rights we have now? They may be kept by preserving and attempting to extend our liberties, particularly our intellectual ones. To preserve these they must be exercised. It is what we do about liberty that makes liberty.

So long as political clubs exercise these liberties intellectually, without the mere use of slogans, they are furthering their preservation, he said.

There is an important need for every democratic country to define its attitude to the Soviet Union. One should not carp at the Soviet Union. It is not a liberal democracy, and although it may become a democracy it will not become a capitalist democracy, because that would mean competing political parties, and to talk of two political parties in the U.S.S.R. is foolish, he continued.

The alternatives in Russia now are a one-party system or the destruction of all the achievements since the Russian Revolution. This destruction would mean the strengthening of Fascism and a danger to all democratic countries, stated Prof. MacPherson.

The Soviet considers itself a democracy in the real sense, but not in our sense. One objection to Russia is that there is considerably less civil liberty, however they have a fully developed associational life, and in that there is much democracy.

A plebiscitary democracy can claim to be democratic in that they have arranged that the majority is so propagandized that they consent to any government moods, for example, the Nazi government of pre-war Germany, he stated.

Democracy is valued for its liberal aspects. If people have only the right to vote, then they have no freedom. To prevent the will of the people from being manufactured by the top leaders, organizations which stand for democracy must be formed.

The creed of the capitalist class stated that individual personality development implies certain rights and liberties, among these the liberty to accumulate property and the need for representative government. With the development of capitalism, you get a class without money-making property. This class denounces free capital enterprise but at the same time agrees with the rights of representative government. Such is the dilemma in liberal democracy, Prof. MacPherson concluded.

I.S.S. Sponsors Sanitorium

Pictured at right is the archetype of the man I.S.S. exists to serve. He is a student crippled by tuberculosis contracted amid the cold and hunger of war-torn Europe.

Now he is carrying on his studies as he undergoes treatment at the International University Sanatorium, Leysin, Switzerland.

Open to students of all countries, the Sanatorium will accommodate 200 at one time. Already students, selected and financed by I.S.S., have come from France, Belgium, and Holland, and plans are being made for the reception of students from Yugoslavia, Greece, and Italy.

In order that the centre may become a truly international community, 15 tubercular students have been invited from Great Britain.

Students selected must be suffering from tuberculosis as a result of the War, and be curable within six months. The Sanatorium is arranged to enable students to continue with their studies as far as health permits, and to retain contact with their own universities.

in war ravaged countries. The I.S.S. program in Europe includes supplementary feeding, student loans and self-help projects, the upkeep of hostels and an international sanatorium for tubercular students.

- In China the conditions under which the students live and work are at the moment so deplorable, that a considerable portion of the funds allotted to that field are being used for the purchase of living essentials.

WHAT WILL IT DO?

To carry out the necessary relief work among students in Europe and Asia during the coming year, an estimated $2,000,000.00 will be needed. These funds must be raised by students and professors in those countries spared the ravages of war.

- For this purpose each university sponsors its own money-raising campaign.
- As the work of reconstruction proceeds the I.S.S. will again resume its peace time function of liaison between universities.
- The first I.S.S. post-war conference has already been held in Combloux, France, in July of this year.

WHAT CAN VARSITY DO?

- Throughout the past 4 years Varsity has had an annual campaign for the benefit of the I.S.S. In the first year, about $1,000.00 was collected. Last year this figure was almost trebled.
- The actual campaign is organized by a group of enthusiastic students who meet periodically to plan various events of the drive. To make it a success, however, the active support of every student is required. If you cannot contribute financially you can still do your share by joining the organizing group in their endeavour to have Varsity top the list of all campaigning universities in Canada this year.
- The 1945-46 committee is headed by June Wong, Arts 477. Meetings are announced in The Varsity. Anyone is welcome to attend. A desire to promote world student solidarity is the only requirement for membership.

Let's Extend "Varsity Spirit" to Our Less Fortunate Fellow Students, Everywhere.

HANDY FOR STUDENTS

TAILORS — 6 Harbord St.
All alterations, repairs and remodelling
Also all kinds of Sportswear made to measure.
LADIES' AND GENTS' SUITS
Also Fur Coats
Workmanship Guaranteed
MI. 0618

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. WEST OF UNIVERSITY AVE.

ONE WEEK BEGINNING MON. EVE., FEB. 11

Evgs. (8:20) Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

Return Visit by Popular Request

RUTH CHATTERTON presents
Kay FRANCIS
by PAUL RUTH MILLER WINDY HILLS
by ROGER PRYOR
Staged by MISS CHATTERTON - Selling by EDWARD GILBERT

Evgs. 90c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00
Mats. Wed.-Sat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80
All Tax Included.

Box Office Open 10 A.M. to 10 P.M.
NO PHONE ORDERS

Neilson's

VERY SATISFYING
VERY NOURISHING

ALL ABOUT IT

WHAT IS I.S.S.?

- A constituent organization of the World Student Relief Fund with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.
- The only international organization exclusively concerned with the welfare of students regardless of race, religious denomination, or nationality.
- A centre liaison between universities, students and professors throughout the world.
- A co-operative undertaking whereby "have" students assist "have not" students.
- An agency for the promotion of universal student solidarity based on common interests, aims and achievements.

WHAT HAS IT DONE?

- In peace time I.S.S. has used its funds to equip libraries and centres of recreation for students, to subsidize those in need, to promote student exchange and international conferences.
- It aims to keep universities and students everywhere in touch with each other on all matters of common interest and to further international co-operation.
- In war time I.S.S. acted primarily as a relief organization specifically for students in prison camps and occupied territories of Europe and China.
- I.S.S. representatives having had access to prison camps in Germany brought books and study materials thus enabling student prisoners to continue their studies towards a degree.

- Where necessary, notably in China, I.S.S. provided destitute students with food and medical supplies. This aid was made possible by the contributions of students in 14 different countries. In the period from 1937 to 1945, nearly $1,850,000.00 was collected.

Those funds were administered for student relief in 18 war devastated lands.

WHAT IS IT DOING?

Presently the I.S.S. is mainly concerned with rehabilitation of displaced students and the reconstruction of universities

THE GRADUATING CLASS, ONTARIO COLLEGE OF PHARMACY

PHARMACY GRADUATION BALL

IN THE CRYSTAL BALLROOM

ROYAL YORK HOTEL

FRANK BOGART AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Friday, February 15th., 1946

SUBSCRIPTION $3.50

DRESS OPTIONAL

TICKETS FROM ANY PHARMACY STUDENT

From This —

— To This.

From Concentration camps like that pictured at top, students across Europe returned to bomb-blasted wreckage like that shown in the lower picture, which shows a laboratory at an unidentified University after the war had passed through. I.S.S. will rebuild their universities; neither I.S.S. nor anything else can erase from their souls the scars of the concentration camps. Canadians, fortunate in coming each fall from comfortable homes to a comfortable campus, owe these students a duty of humanity and fellowship. When the I.S.S. campaign is launched, give generously.

Walkout at Ajax Misunderstanding

The trouble on Monday night which was brought on by the misunderstanding of the phrase "hand in your time cards" was settled yesterday. A member of the student help interviewed Miss Eames, the assistant manager, and it was explained that the students were still on the staff of the cafeteria, and that the trouble will be remedied by employing new help and greater co-operation will be maintained in the future between the management and the students.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.
Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

HART HOUSE—AJAX

Camera Show — Common Room

Exhibition of prints by members of Hart House, Toronto. Students interested in organizing a Camera Club at Ajax should leave their names in the Supervisor's Office, Hart House, Ajax.

Sunday Evening Concert, Great Hall, Hart House

A number of double tickets are available for this week's concert — Pearl Palmason, violinist. Call at Supervisor's Office.

Bowling — Recreation Hall — now 10c per game

Students at Baylor To Build Union

Waco, Texas, Feb. 6.—Exchange—The Baylor Student Union building at Baylor University, begun by ex-students and friends of Baylor in 1936 will be completed by Sept. 1, 1946, following four years in which the giant orange frame has stood on the campus because of lack of funds and war-time building conditions. The university realizes that the Union building is the most needed building on the campus.

A cafeteria for Waco students will be one of the main features of the building in addition to the tea room on the first floor, and a fountain and snack bar in the bookstore. The large lounge on the ground floor, with a stage at the south end will serve as a banquet hall and a social room.

Virginia Dare

CHECK . . . yes, dozens of plaids and checks to choose from in the current collection of ski or camping shirts at Virginia Dare . . . free-and-easy . . . gay in background colors of Red, Blue, Brown, Wine . . . or Tartan plaid effects if you prefer them. Sizes 14 to 20. 1.98

CHECKMATE . . . trimly tailored slacks, designed for you to relax in . . . those illustrated are of Shetland wool with 4 pleats in front, 2 in back . . . plus side pocket and neat button closing. Sizes 14 to 20. Navy, Brown and Black. 5.98

Another popular Virginia Dare slacks style has two front pockets giving the slightly peg-top effect so right for 1946. In Brown, Navy and Gray Alpine Cloth. Sizes 14 to 20. 4.98

A Store in Your Neighbourhood

MAIL ORDERS
With money order send 10c to cover cost of mailing. Send to Head Office, Kent Building, Toronto.

Virginia Dare
LIMITED

Speaking OF SPORT

By Bredin Stapells

Playoffs!

On Friday night at Varsity arena on the dot of eight pm, the Junior Blues will step out on the ice before a gargantuan crowd of wildly cheering armchair puck pushers of ye olde Varsities. The reason for this grand display will be the last home game that our famous rubber chasers will have this year. That is unless the powers that be see fit to allow our boys to enter the final playoffs between the other Junior "B" groups.

It seems that there is a ruling which prevents Toronto schedules extending into March for rather obvious reasons. But, as we understand it, there is a way out, namely an individual petition by each of the players. As the majority of the team is made up of men who do not write their exams until the end of April and later, we see no reason for them not petitioning if the members wish to go into the playoffs.

Regardless of the above speculation, let's see the lads in action in their last home performance. They will, at any rate, undoubtedly win the series, unless there is an upset such as last Friday, of which we have already said enough: This is a good brand of hockey, certainly as good as at Toronto's ice palace, so support the boys, give your gals a thrill, and please yourselves. AGAIN IT'S FREE.

Hit De Mat, You Bum!

Wrestling has already been the recipient of our attention, but, once again, it is in the spot light. Saturday will see the faculty strong arm men go into action, which effort will count for much in Reid Trophy points. Don't miss your chance at those coveted marks lads. Get your entries in today or miss the boat.

Fish Swim—Will You?

Also on the roster Saturday night is the swimming meet between the faculties: Grand splash entries are dead-lined for 5:00 p.m.. SO DON'T FAIL TO GET THOSE ENTRIES IN TODAY!

Meeting Decides Swimming Regulations

Rules governing the Fitzgerald Trophy were laid down by the Swimming Committee in their meeting yesterday. These regulations will govern Saturday's Senior intramural swim competition, as well as apply to these events in future years.

The entry deadline is 5.00 p.m. Thursday, with preliminaries being run off on Friday at 5:00 p.m. Faculty or college teams are limited to 15 men, and each man can compete in a maximum of three events.

The order of events, which are the same as the Intercollegiate, are:

1. 300 yds. medley relay (3 men)
2. Diving (compulsory)

3. 50 yds. free style
4. 440 yds. free style
5. 100 yds. back stroke
- 5a. Diving (optional)
6. 100 yds. free style
7. 200 yds. breast stroke
8. 200 yds. sprint relay (4 men)

First, second, and third places score 5, 3, and 1 points respectively. The medley relay allows 6, 3, and 1 points for win, place and show, while the Sprint relay counts 8, 4, and 1 points respectively. In the case of a tie, the tied team which has the best score in the Sprint relay will be declared winner of the Meet.

Concerning diving, there shall be five compulsory and five optional dives and this shall be governed by the F.I.N.A. supplemented by the N.C.A.A. voluntary dives in group 5. Competitors shall submit to the Athletic Office a list of their dives 24 hours previous to the meet, the list containing the following information:

1. the name and number of the dive
 2. manner of take-off, running or standing
 3. the execution of the dive—straight, pike or tuck
 4. the degree of difficulty.
- Senior Interfaculty swimmers, to whom these rules apply, will be competing for the Fitzgerald Trophy at Saturday's Athletic Night.

Mat Men Prep For Finals

Lil' Arthur flipped his left hook. The opponent dropped to the canvas. No—it's not Massey Hall, just the Athletic Wing in Hart House. The boys are getting in the last few practices before the Intramural Boxing and Wrestling championship bouts which come off at Athletic Night this Saturday.

And they don't fool either. Their idea is to beat the hale-n-heartiness out of their opponent. Lil' Arthur King's sparring partner came out with an extremely ruddy nose. Mel Gilonna went a couple rounds with an embryo Louis who came out of the ring feeling like he'd been knocked down by a beer truck.

These are only the practice sessions too. The show should be terrific come Saturday night when the boys are going out for the points for the Reid Trophy.

Along the hall in the Wrestling room the action is equally feverish. Boys doing setting up exercises that make contortionists look like hams.

There's a big reason for all the enthusiasm. Besides copping the intramural crowns the winners of the several classes get the coveted spot on the senior intercollegiate team which jaunts to Queens. The runners-up make the Intermediate team which battles with Guelph, etc.

There are eight classes in both Boxing and Wrestling, ranging from 118 pounds to the heavyweights (circa 185 lbs.).

All the final bouts in wrestling go at Athletic Night. The preliminary grappling being done at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the wrestling room.

A couple of the boxing classes—the 155 and 165 groups prelim Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the boxing room. The other boxing preliminaries go Saturday night with the finals next Wednesday.

It is doubtful that there will be an entry at 118 pounds as there seems to be a considerable dearth of such lightweights hereabouts.

SKI NOTES

After several questions concerning the Varsity ski club property it appears that the time has come to lift the veil on our own skiing properly.

Where is it? Well officially it is situated about one mile north of Aurora and two miles west of Yonge street. Turn down the first concession road south of the Newmarket stop light and proceed until you see a sign indicating a new direction. At this point anyone can plainly see that you have reached the end of the line.

As you may have heard, there is a small club house built for your use. By inquiring at the nearest farmhouse (after stopping the car it should be about ten feet away), one may get the key to this cabin. There is always a supply of wood on hand to light the small stove. All that is asked is that proper fire precautions be taken.

For those who like the open slopes there is an interesting trail heading north from the club house for about two miles which terminates in a Youth Hostel where refreshments are served.

The feature of this section is the slalom hill which boasts of about a 100-foot drop. Here the beginner may feel the thrill of speed without worrying about trees which always seem to get in the way.

The club grounds also offer an extremely good jump. Although it may frighten the more cautious skiers it offers a great thrill for those who get over the first time.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

1:00	U.C. I vs. MED. I	Smith, Doyle
4:15	KNOX A vs. U.C. III	Street, Johnson
5:15	PHARM. vs. DENT. B	Street, Johnson

WATER POLO

4:30	JR. MED. vs. ST. M.	Lindgren
5:15	U.C. I vs. SR. SPS.	O'Brien
6:00	DENT. vs. VIC I	O'Brien

BASKETBALL MAJOR

4:00	SR. U.C. vs. JR. MED.	Holman
------	-----------------------	--------

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00	FOR B vs. U.C. ECON.	Kerrison
4:30	FOR E vs. TRIN. IV	Evins
5:30	IV MECH. vs. U.C. III	Evins
6:30	TRIN. VI vs. PHE VI	Kennedy
7:30	WYC B vs. TRIN. V	Kennedy

SR. INTERFACULTY SWIMMING MEET

ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY AT ATHLETIC OFFICE—5.00 p.m.

PRELIMINARIES (IF NECESSARY) Friday, Feb. 8th.—5.00 p.m.

Watch Friday's Varsity for further details.

SPORTS SCHEDULE

Week of February 11th.

HOCKEY

MON. FEB. 11	VIC. III vs. EMMAN	Farrell, Atkinson
1:00	MED. I vs. VIC. I	Smith, Horkins
4:15	SPS I vs. U.C. I	P. Fyfe, Sinclair
8:00	MED. III vs. PHARM.	P. Fyfe, Sinclair

TUES. FEB. 12	FOR. A vs. BUS. ADM.	Brownridge, Crawford
---------------	----------------------	----------------------

WED. FEB. 13	ST. M. B vs. VIC. III	Garfunkel, Weedon
12:00	U.C. II vs. VIC. II	Lawler, J. C. McClelland

THUR. FEB. 14	BUS. ADM. vs. KNOX A	Doyle, Atkinson
1:00	EMMAN. vs. TRIN. B	Crawford, Johnson
4:00	SPS V vs. FOR. B	Mosher, Patterson

FRI FEB. 15	SPS III vs. TRIN. A	Brownridge, Mosher
1:00	SPS II vs. MED. H	Street, J. A. McClelland
4:00	U.C. III vs. FOR. A	Smith, P. Fyfe

WATER-POLO

MON. FEB. 11	SR. MED. A vs. U.C. I	Talston
--------------	-----------------------	---------

TUES. FEB. 12	VIC. I vs. SR. MED. B	Brace
5:00	ST. M. vs. SPS III	Rosen
5:45	FOR. vs. TRIN.	Rosen

WED. FEB. 13	U.C. (PHE) vs. JR. MED.	Lyon
4:15	KNOX vs. WYC.	O'Brien

THUR. FEB. 14	SR. MED. A vs. SR. SPS.	Rosen
5:00	DENT. vs. SR. MED. B	Rosen

FRI FEB. 15	VIC. I vs. JR. SPS.	Allore
4:15	KNOX vs. FOR.	Lindgren

MAJOR LEAGUE BASKETBALL

MON. FEB. 11	ST. M. A vs. PHE II	Volght
1:00	PHE I vs. JR. U.C. A	Hamm
4:00	JR. U.C. B vs. TRIN. A	Netman

TUES. FEB. 12	MED. SR. A vs. PHARM.	Dzupino
4:00	DENT. A vs. BUS. ADM.	Swan
6:30	TRIN. B vs. ST. M. B	Swan

WED. FEB. 13	EMM. A vs. SPS V	Hamm
1:00	KNOX A vs. WYC. A	Maxwell
4:00	FOR. A vs. SPS IV	Strathairn

THUR. FEB. 14	SR. U.C. vs. JR. SPS.	Lye
1:00	SR. MED. vs. SR. SPS.	McAdam

FRI FEB. 15	SPS III vs. DENT. A	Volght
1:00	ST. M. A vs. JR. U.C. B	Lye

MINOR LEAGUE BASKETBALL

MON. FEB. 11	IV MECH. vs. III MED. A	Charendoff
1:00	II MED. A vs. IV ELEC.	Babcock
4:00	II CIVIL vs. IV AERO	Bond

TUES. FEB. 12	IV CHEM. vs. VIC. IV	Evins
1:00	TRIN. V vs. VIC. XI	Chelietz
4:00	IV METAL vs. U.C. IV	McPhedran

WED. FEB. 13	IV CIVIL vs. U.C. V	McPhedran
1:00	ST. M. E vs. TRIN. VII	McPhedran

THUR. FEB. 14	U.C. VI vs. III MECH.	Mott
1:00	III MED. B vs. III ELEC.	Evins
4:00	III CHEM. vs. V DENT.	Farrell

FRI FEB. 15	VIC. VI vs. III MINING	Farrell
1:00	U.C. ARTS vs. PHE V	Jones
4:30	U.C. ST. GEORGE vs. III CIVIL	Geary

SAT. FEB. 16	II ENG. BUS. vs. ST. M. D	Geary
1:00	U.C. ECON vs. II ELEC.	Mott
4:00	EMM. B vs. VIC. X	Mott

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

"Back and Forth"

Vic. and U.C. met on the Varsity hockey battlefields last Monday. The game commenced with both teams skating back and forth . . . up and down the ice. Then Marie Lindsay (Vic.) made a dive for the goal, and scored . . . unassisted . . . she was a good stick handler. U.C. followed up with a powerplay . . . unsuccessful. More skating back and forth. Second period same as the first (except for the goal) . . . third period play was even, with the referee having a difficult time indeed distinguishing which players were on which team, as the players were garbed in any color at all, with no marks to tip him off when an offside was being perpetrated. The game ended with the score Vic. 1—U.C. 0. (Footnote: not to be stepped upon: both teams should practice more teamwork . . . especially passing.)

P.H.E. defeated St. Mike's 1-0 on the following day . . . the game may be contested due to the late arrival of the P.H.E. team (fifteen minutes).

The best exhibition so far was the one between Vic. and P.H.E. It started slow, with the teams shunting back and forth on the ice, till P.H.E. began to carry most of the play, and Welstead of P.H.E. scored. The second period began as slowly as the first when Earle (P.H.E.) was given a penalty, and Vic. stormed down the ice behind Hardy as support for her goal. Third period . . . fast . . . more back and forth . . . a powerplay by Vic. resulted in a goal by Brown.

The final score . . . Vic. 2—P.H.E. 1.

Footnote to the hockey game: Webster's and Oxford (the dictionary men) are both angling for the exclusive rights to the use of a new word which has just come out of the women's hockey circles—"waytago:" a term of endearment, and exultation and pride combining spirit with conciseness.

WATER POLO SCHEDULE

The following games are cancelled for this week owing to the preliminary heats being held for the Sr. Interfaculty Swimming Meet —Fri. Feb. 8th — U.C. (PHE) vs SPS III and Sr. Med B vs Jr. SPS

AJAX BASKETBALL

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7th

6:15 p.m.	RES. 737 vs. RES. 726	S. Bate
7:15 p.m.	RES. 733C vs. RES. 728A	S. Bate
8:15 p.m.	RES. 734B vs. RES. 734B	B. McHenry
9:15 p.m.	RES. 729B vs. RES. 728B	J. Robson
10:15 p.m.	RES. 722B vs. RES. 733B	J. Robson

AJAX HOCKEY

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7th

CUS. 1	6:30 p.m.	RES. 736 vs. RES. 732
CUS. 1	7:30 p.m.	RES. 734 vs. RES. 730
CUS. 3	6:30 p.m.	RES. 728 vs. RES. 729
CUS. 3	7:30 p.m.	Ajax Representative Team practice

Referees: CUS. 1—GRAHAM & STEPHANSHYN—CUS. 3—MCREEDEY & CALDWELL.

Our Readers Write —

Virtual Bigotry

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:
Frankly, we wonder. If the Hon. Vincent Massey wished that Hart House be a men's institution solely, and has further re-affirmed his desire for a modern "kiva", we ask on what possible grounds any exceptions can be made? The suggestion is that women be absolutely barred—yes, even from the very door steps.

Out with the S.A.C. office, the secretaries, the waitresses! Let us, the pseudo-misogynists, enjoy a sanctuary untainted even by a suggestion of the other sex.

But, exceptions have been made. We have been host to Queen Elizabeth, Mrs. Eisenhower and others. Girls are admitted for Athletic Nights, for open-Sunday touring, and on a few other occasions. Surely, at these times, the Warden has been guided by than the letter of the law, the spirit of the law, rather Too, many non-members are admitted for banquets, lectures, for which facilities have been rented. Men, yes—but non-members. Although, we seem to remember a business convention a year or so back that actually had a few live models in their display room. Women! Later those same women were allowed to eat in our Great Hall. Blasphemy!

How then even attempt to justify the individual discrimination, the virtual bigotry displayed by the Directorate towards the lady engineers and dentists. Their presence was on perfectly reasonable academic grounds, yet they were barred entrance.

We wish merely to draw the attention of the other members to this ridiculous policy. It is definitely not an attempt to suggest that Hart House should become co-educational. Either we adopt an intelligent admission rule for special occasions, or we bar women completely. Agreed?

Sherman J. Taylor,
III Psychology.

Wines and Women

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

I was distressed to recognize in an article in Monday's edition, "25 years ago in The Varsity", another fur-lined puff for the "modern girl."

Whether she is worthy or not I should not care to say, but as a young man I feel convinced that what the modern girl needs is, figuratively speaking, not so much patting on the back as a little more correction; and am convinced also that if we were to go back a generation or so we would get amongst other things better beer, better wines, and better manners.

If we young people of today would only reflect a little on those happy days (days when there was not the same glaring shortage of tranquility, pepper, etc., that exists with us) we would surely find in our hearts an echo of that yearning so touchingly expressed in that old sweet song.

"I want a beer just like the beer That pickled dear old relative."

Editorial Encores

Government and Citizens

Printed below are excerpts from a recent editorial of "The Manitoban", student newspaper at the University of Manitoba:

Victims who have survived a crisis or series of crises should generally pause for a brief period to re-examine the world in which they exist and attempt to determine the nature of change in the institutions under which they have been accustomed to live. The trials of stagnation and war having in some degree passed, it would seem that just such contemplation is proper. Where there has been revolution, as in Europe or the Orient, the subsequent re-adjustment, immeasurably complicated, must be aided either through occupation or benevolent assistance. To this continent change also is attendant on crises through that peaceful growth we call evolution. It is then no less appropriate that we as Canadians should reflect as men elsewhere are reflecting on the functions of that institution called government.

At the outset it should be clearly understood that government is power, force, authority. The controversy then resolves not about this concept of government but rather about the degree to which the citizens of the state should entrust to this institution the supervision and maintenance of order during the everyday business of life. The argument is essentially one between the anarchist, the laissez-fairist, the social reformer, the socialist, and finally the corporatist, be he fascist or communist.

I do not seek to infer however that government through its pow-

And when we think of the beer that pickled him, the girl that married him, and the manners that made him, we feel bound to say, "dear, lucky old ancestor."
—P. MCCARTHY,
I Pass Arts Vic.

Somewhat Fiction

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

On reading up on Franco's Spain, I'll have to learn my facts again. Unless, though rather good in fiction.

Miss Nowak's letter's somewhat fiction.

A warning, lest you wake up dead, Miss Nowak, There's a red Beneath the bed.

—MARTIN SHUBIK,
III M & P.

Bitter Pill

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

This is in answer to Miss Nowak's deliberate and thinly-veiled attempt to justify Fascism in Spain. That statement that "in 1936 the Spanish people rose under Franco and drove the Communists out" is a travesty on truth bordering on fanaticism.

The Spanish republican government was a liberal regime, Spain's first democratically-elected assembly. The republican cabinet contained two Communists: the leader was a liberal.

The second distortion is in stating that the 10,000 mis-directed Spaniards who fought in the ranks of Franco's German and Italian Fascists were the Spanish people. The term, "Spanish Civil War", is a misnomer. That struggle will go down in history as the brutal aggression of Germany and Italy on a weak and helpless Spanish people; an aggression, incidentally, which took place while the western democracies sat idly on the sidelines.

The appeasement world of the late 1930's has gone, and while it is a bitter pill for the obscurantist mind to swallow, the reality of it should be grasped. Our reward for appeasing the now-defunct Fascist countries was a war which threatened to destroy civilization, which consumed the power of our youth. The same policy toward Fascist Spain will produce a like result.

Miss Nowak is entitled to support Ukrainian nationalism, or even Fascism for that matter. But I would caution her, if she would stick to her opinions, to also stick to the truth.

—W. ALLEN BECKETT,
II Pol. Sci.

Brooklyn, McGill To Discuss Peace

Montreal, Que., Feb. 6.—(CUP)—The first debate ever to be held between Brooklyn College and McGill University is to take place Thursday, Feb. 21, when two McGill teams, one in New York and the other at home, will present both sides of "Resolved that we are winning the peace." All students may contest for positions on the teams. The McGill Debating So-culty announced that a debate with Harvard University will definitely be held later on in the term.

This society feels that the exchange of ideas between Canadian and American universities cannot fail to be of importance to all students.

YOU ARE NOT KEPT "WAITIN' FOR THE TRAIN TO COME IN"

For it pulls in right on schedule, 3 to 4 weeks after you make your reservation on the Louis Cohen Clothes Limited.

Our trained handcraftsmen are going full steam ahead, turning out single and double-breasted made-to-measure suits and topcoats expressly for discriminating dressers.

Yes, you're on the right track when you travel to us. The station is at 449 Spadina Avenue at the College Street crossroad. Information RA 8995-6, and the timetable is nine to nine daily, Saturdays to 6.

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
at College
RA 8995-6

Special Rates To Students

RADIO

(Continued from Page 2)

history allows this medium to supplement the inevitable failings of the country public school teacher. The adaptation of education material to radio is genuinely stimulating to teacher and taught alike, supplying thereby a new freshness in educational approach.

It occurs to speculate on how much more beneficial it would be, to housewife and school child alike, to supplant the present soap plugging opera in the afternoons with dramatizations of Canadian History, of great novels, the adventures of scientific evolution! The Tale of Two Cities can certainly be made as interesting as Ma Perkins.

The Radio College director pointed to the forthcoming developments in radio. The relative inexpensiveness of Frequency Modulation transmitting equipment, its fidelity of reproduction, its freedom from static and the feasibility of operating a large number of FM stations in a confined locality, will open a new, broader field and will facilitate the granting of licenses and frequencies to educational institutions.

I think M. Seguin's lecture is an argument for the desirability of a University radio station. Though the demand for talent is great, radio is nevertheless a hard taskmaster. It requires early development of voice, speech, flexibility of imagination. The consumption of written material by broadcasting stations runs into millions of words daily.

The use of radio as an educational medium, if extended in the near future, will require the services of disciplined mastercraftsmen in the tools of radio-writers, adapters, actors. But if the end product of radio is to rise in cultural value, it will need recruits from the graduate class. It is in providing an opportunity for training to such people that a University radio can be of invaluable service—as witness the talent turned out by other university stations across the country.

Radio's mission as a "Measure of the Whole World", for which it is so well suited as M. Seguin pointed out, is a living challenge to all educationalists. Of course I'm, unblushingly, plugging for a U of T station.

OSCAR HALINA.

MEDICAL ARTS AND LETTERS CLUB

PRESENTS A VOCAL RECITAL BY

AGNES RAMCHARAN

JOY STEVENSON AT THE PIANO

Tonight, 7.45-8 p.m.

AT WYMILWOOD

ALL FACULTIES WELCOME

Classified Advertisements

FOR SALE

Man's dress-suit, size 38-40, $35.
HY 3321.

FOUND

Striped Parker Vacuumatic pen.
Vowles, KI 3936.

INVITATION

To the best in good music,
CKEY, Sunday, at 9.30 p.m. Noel
Brunet, violinist.

LOST

One copy—Boulding's "Economic Analysis". Urgently required. Name, Tate, on inside cover. Please leave with Trinity Porter or phone MO 6622 anytime.

TYPING

Experienced, legal, medical theses, notes, etc. Picked up and delivered daily, Hart House. Fast, accurate, cheap. AD 3922.

LOST

Black felt knitting bag, with coloured figures. Vicinity U.C. Please call KI 2762.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

LOST

Green Parker pen, Saturday, vicinity of Hart House. GL 8843.

Featuring —

ART HALLMAN
LORRAINE McALLISTER
"KING OF HEARTS"

CASA LOMA

INTERSORORITY BALL

ALPHA EPSILON PHI... DELTA PHI EPSILON... IOTA ALPHA PHI

FEBRUARY 14th.

DRESS OPTIONAL

SUBSCRIPTION $3.00

Talking Shop!

THOSE POPULAR BLOUSES with the smooth circular neck-line are plentifully available at the Evangeline Shops. They are a natural for a plain suit, the plain line at the throat making a perfect setting for your favourite chain of costume jewellery. There are rafts of other well designed blouses too, ready to provide colour-vitamins to your favourite dark suit, or in cream or snowy white daintiness to go with a wool pastel. The Evangeline Shops are tops for the girl who likes to build her ensemble piece by piece, adding an item at a time as the budget permits.

EVEN BEFORE THE SPRINGTIME a young girl's fancy turns to something zestful in Springtime attire. She's seldom particular what it is as long as it gives her wardrobe new sparkle and convinces her that there's pleasant weather ahead. To a young woman in this interesting state of mind we recommend a visit to Northway's Fashionland where there are many and sundry ideas for the general betterment of the feminine wardrobe, all of 'em assembled on one floor where they may be matched, tried on and pondered over as to effect without a chase from one department to another.

TRACK! Take a bottle of Sloan's along on the ski-ing week-end. Sloan's does wonders for those sore ankles and bruised spots which have a way of making themselves felt after the exercise is over. And another thought. That cold which is going the rounds can be eased up by inhaling the steam from a glass of hot water to which a teaspoonful of Sloan's Liniment has been added. Sloan's has a way of being very handy in a variety of uses, as well as for its celebrated work of relieving the pain from strains and sprains.

FOR A SOFT, DEWEY LOOK, use DU BARRY FOUNDATION LOTION under powder. This is a milky lotion containing a slight quantity of oil which is so scientifically treated that it cannot become greasy, yet gives a base at once flatteringly smooth and with the fine baby texture of the most beautiful complexions. Du Barry Foundation Lotion is also a grand flatterer for the neck and throat...keeps the skin smooth and white and erases tiny lines which are often the result of lack of care.

CLOTHES WITH THE LOOK that gives them social assurance...the things you get at Joan Rigby's you have "for keeps", they're the type of thing you want to wear and live in. Joan Rigby clothes are right wherever you take them because they have been made with that extra quality of workmanship and material which is the universal language of clothes quality. When visiting relatives come to town hunting for booty in the way of clothes which have the unmistakable mark of big-city sophistication, take them shopping at 54 Bloor W.

ABOUT THIS TIME OF YEAR meals seem to have lost something of their usual joy, and no wonder. Vegetables are winter-tired, even the imported variety have a box-car sameness. People are finding their way to the International Cafe on Elizabeth Street, in greater numbers than ever. As a contrast to this "tired" taste in most Canadian food, a well-prepared Chinese meal has a zest and flavour that's hard to beat. Fresh, resilient bean-sprouts in a chop suey with celery stalks, onions, peppers, chicken, cooked to the exact turn of perfection...this is only one of the many vitamin-filled Chinese meals which have made the International famous.

NOTICE

Contributions for the Art Exhibit by men and women of University College must be handed in at the Women's Union by February 12. For further information, call Evelyn Swartz, MI 2015.

Ajax Sports

BOWLING
Winner	Loser	Score	By default
732D	730F	1639-1479
734C	730E	1639-1479
728D	733E	1774-1337
731C	723D	1619-1562
728C	736C	1411-1227
736D	733D	1504-1412
736E	723G	1629-1450
736B	723C	1702-1380
729B	732B	1569-1530
725A	727A	1821-1655

Art, Music and Drama Remarks and Hallmarks

John Hall, whose one-man exhibition is now showing in the Hart House Gallery, probably finds a tube of paint doesn't last him very long. His peculiar technique of picture-making consists, in the main, of blocking out the main outlines of his composition with patches of solid color plastered on in thick layers, and then with the pointed end of his brush or palette knife scratching the lines of foliage detail and so forth through the heavy pigment to leave bare the underpainting or canvas beneath. These lines, incised obviously with a rough and speedy motion, give his work the appearance of sketches, and coupled with the immediacy that comes from on-the-spot study, a very great lifelikeness and truth to nature.

The trouble with a style like John Hall's is, in general, this: technically, it is easy to acquire, and while in John Hall's hands it carries as much artistic spirit as one more elaborated or polished, it can easily be copied. If popularized, it is liable to exploitation by unscrupulous individuals who could turn out limitless quantities of work in a style superficially similar but entirely barren of artistic worth, and capitalize upon the gullibility of the general public, still in large part aesthetically illiterate.

Examples of lesser men capitalizing on mannerisms of the greater have been so numerous throughout art history, and into the present, that citation of cases is unnecessary. And, after all, that may be a normal course for art history. We claim, for instance, as one of the chief glories of Rubens that he "determined the course of 17th century painting". Does this mean that those who followed Rubens' style painted as well as he did simply by following his lead? Well, hardly—we cite as van Dyck's great drawback his excessive dependence on his teacher's ideas. It means that a generation of common painters copied as best they could Rubens' tricks of composition, lighting, and treatment of subject matter, and therefore Rubens determined the kind of pictures most of the people of his day were likely to see. But is it then such an honor to inspire hundreds of bad pictures, as "copies" or "manneristic works" are generally held to be? And conversely, if it is such an honor to inspire these manneristic pictures, why treat said pictures with such scorn?

But it is more to the point to remark that in connection with John Hall's exhibition there are indications, which are usually present in the exhibitions of good artists working in a technically easy style, for the spectator whose aesthetic judgement is undeveloped, by which he may determine whether he is looking at an original or manneristic style. One is the variety of pictures. The manneristic painter's subject matter is usually as stereotyped as his treatment of it. The second is the presence of works which do require technical skill. John Hall's two portraits, fine works in themselves, reveal that he has sufficient command of his medium to do whatever he wants with it; that he can be fully representational if necessary, and that his freer style is dictated by conscious choice, not by the circumstance of his being unable to do anything else.

And incidentally, most of the work in John Hall's show is of the first rank!

—ALAN GOWANS

In Defence

It is not the policy of this column to reply to letters from readers, thus robbing them of their rebuttal. Nor is it a policy however to print letters which are personally derogatory. Since the Editor has seen fit to break the latter of these policies, we feel justified in departing from the former.

We have never been able to understand why readers who disagree with a criticism must accuse the critic of ignorance. Actually, Mr. Gartshore is far from ignorant of his subject. Of all the undergraduates on the campus John Gartshore probably has the most intimate knowledge of organ and choir music. A student in the first year of the Honour Music course, Gartshore has made a special study of ecclesiastical and organ music. He has had experience in ensemble singing and is a member of the Mary Magdalene Singers under Dr. Willan.

As for his failure to mention "Borre's recognized genius" perhaps it was because he did not want to associate Borre's name with a group which obviously sang badly. And besides, a musician's reputation is no guarantee of good performance. Too many people think that because an artist's name is known, his work must be good. But these are people without any critical faculty. Gartshore was chosen as a critic for The Varsity because he is not numbered among them.

MEMBERS OF PASS ARTS ARISE!

Defend Your Course At

U.C. PARLIAMENT DEBATE

"RESOLVED THAT THE PASS ARTS COURSE IS THE TOMBSTONE OF OUR CIVILIZATION"

Tomorrow - 4 p.m. Junior Common Room

McGill Veterans Discuss Housing

Montreal, Que., Feb. 6.—(CUP)—Last Tuesday representatives of five Montreal universities and four vocational training schools, constituting the Committee of Montreal and District Student Veterans' Societies gathered in the Currie gymnasium to discuss the housing problem. In addition to the McGill Student Veterans' Society, other universities represented were: The University of Montreal, Loyola College, Sir George Williams College, and MacDonald College. Vocational training institutes represented were the Commercial College of Rehabilitation, Montreal Drafting Institute, Maurice Dress Designing School, Art Association and the Montreal Apprenticeship Commission.

Following up the results of the National Conference of Student Veterans, the committee will discuss the possibilities of arranging a meeting between itself and prominent city organizations interested in the housing problem. Such organizations as the Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee, The Emergency Shelter Administration, the Canadian Legion, and the Montreal Labour Council will be approached with a view to arranging a meeting at which some co-ordinated action can be decided upon to bring into effect an intensive public campaign on housing.

QUESTIONNAIRE

(In answering the following questionnaire, readers are asked to guard against prejudice by considering the general standard of the various departments rather than any particularly excellent or nauseating articles!)

- 1—How often do you read The Varsity? Rarely..... Occasionally..... Regularly.....
- 2—In your opinion, has The Varsity's general standard: Improved..... Deteriorated..... Remained the same..... since becoming a tabloid?
- 3—Following is a list of the various departments of The Varsity. In the space opposite each, suggest any improvements you would like to see.

Art, Music and Drama

Books

Bridge Problems

Cartoons

Cinematathon

Champus Cat

Campus Capsules

Editorial Encores

Editorials

Features

Lecture Reports

New and Entrenous

News Stories

News from other campi

Notices of Coming Events

Personality Interviews

Our Readers Write

Speaking of Sport

Speaking of Swing

Sports Stories

Sportswoman

- 4—In the above list, check your favourite five features.
- 5—What do you think of the present distribution of space among the various departments?
- 6—Should allocation of the increased space include more news of other Canadian campi?
- 7—Should The Varsity's editorials discuss the things they do?
- 8—What annoys you most about The Varsity?
- 9—What general or specific improvements would you suggest?

Signed..... Faculty..... Year.....

ALL FORMS MUST BE SIGNED

This questionnaire will be published for the remainder of the week. Completed copies will be accepted in The Varsity office, Room 42-a, University College, or at the S.A.C. office, Hart House.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 78 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Friday, February 8, 1946

Debaters Approve Compulsory Sport

By a vote of 42-12, the resolution "Resolved that university athletics should be compulsory" was upheld in last night's interfaculty debate in Brennan Hall.

Opening the debate for the government, Ian Alger, of Trinity, said that mind and body in a human being make him a full entity. Therefore a university must be an institution which unifies and develops a man with regard to these two aspects.

"It is very necessary for certain standards to be set up for athletics in the same way as for academic studies," he said.

Bunny Joyce, of Loretto, maintained that students are becoming side-tracked from the true end of education. They tend to become so involved in sports that their academic studies lag.

"The aim of education is wisdom and goodness," she said. "Studies which do not bring us to this end are not desirable."

Helen Harver, of St. Michael's, countered for the government by maintaining that in order to understand the term "education" one must understand what is being educated, namely the whole person—mind and body.

"It is insufficient to develop the mind alone," she declared. "In order that standards be set up, compulsion is required."

The overwhelming difficulty is that an athletic time-table would interfere with academic preparation, claimed Jim Templeton, of Victoria. He said that students who hold part-time jobs to assist them in attending university would possibly be forced to leave if athletics were made compulsory.

Dignity Sacrificed To Efficiency Complains Seeley

"Formerly, an educated man meant a man well-versed in the Arts and a student of letters. The modern educated person is a technical expert" stated Reverend Dr. Seeley, Provost of Trinity College in an address to a group of male undergraduates in the library of Hart House last night.

"It is a gloomy outlook if our world is to be shaped by unimaginative realists or if the brain of mankind is to be stripped of all embellishments. Let us beware lest in our pursuit of efficiency we lose something that is greater still, the love of beauty, dignity and nobility, without which the character of man must needs deteriorate," he stated.

"I am jealous for the glorious heritage of language and literature. There is something essentially ennobling in fine words and lofty thoughts nobly expressed. Language has a purpose beyond practical conveying of thought. It is meant to fire the imagination and enrich aesthetic sense," he continued.

"An analysis of the number of words used in the course of a day, by the average person, would be illuminating and I think, astonishing. Thus we cannot explain ourselves adequately."

"Look at the literature circulated nowadays. It is an insult to the dignity of the written word. The normal reading matter of the average student is the sports page or the daily comics. For the high-brow reader there is the Readers Digest," he remarked.

"There are many forms of beauty . . . there is one which surely gives great aesthetic satisfaction and that is the arrangement of words. To my mind there are few things more lovely than a cadence of syllables, few things more majestic than a rolling period, few things more satisfying than a carefully constructed phrase," concluded Dr. Seeley.

Radio and Peace By Electronicist

"Electronics in War and Peace" is the subject of an address to be given before the Royal Canadian Institute, Saturday, Feb. 9, at 8.15 p.m. in Convocation Hall by Mr. J. T. Thwaites, graduate physicist of Queen's University and electronics expert of the Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited, Hamilton. Co-designer of the radio transmitter that re-routed the "buzz bombs" in flight, Mr. Thwaites was awarded a certificate for his research on the bombs in England while on loan to the U.S. government. He was also largely instrumental in increasing the Canadian production of aluminum for the Allies to over 2 million pounds a day by means of large-scale application of Ignitrons.

Mr. Thwaites will discuss the increased industrial uses of electronics developed during the war and the very encouraging future open to them in peacetime.

The address will be illustrated by lantern slides and the sound film, "Music in the Sky". Admission is free.

Debaters' Topic Rocks A Nation How High Is Pass In Estimation

The stage is set for the battle of the century. The U.C. Junior Common Room will be the scene at 4 p.m. today of the latest skirmish in the Pass Arts controversy. Speakers will debate whether "The Pass Arts Course is the Tombstone of our civilization."

Pass Arts students-in-arms who will defend their course are Betty Robertson, Pass student from Jamaica, and Norman Rainwasser, second year C. & F. man from Hamilton. Tomorrow Miss Robertson will make her debut as a debater. She confides that although she did not intend to enter the Pass Course when she came to college, she now finds it very worthwhile, and sees no justification for the violent criticisms to which it has been subjected.

Mr. Rainwasser rallied to the cause also, and carried the attack into the territory of the enemy

S.A.C. Sympathy In Ajax Problems

"The S.A.C. are well aware of the problems of Ajax Division," said Mike McAuliffe, president of the Ajax Engineering Society, commenting on his reception at Wednesday's S.A.C. meeting.

"I was given a very warm welcome, and I am convinced that they are doing everything in their power to help us, and in this respect I am behind them 100%."

Yesterday McAuliffe, accompanied by members of the first year executive, journeyed to Toronto and established the first official contacts with the Engineering Society.

Matters pertaining to the societies interest at Ajax were discussed and the problems relating to Ajax.

U.C. Undergrads Debates Schedule

The preliminaries for this year's Robinette Debates will get under way during noon-hour Monday and will continue through the week with five teams competing.

The Robinette Debates are held annually for all male undergraduates of University College, commencing at 1.10 U.C. Literary Director Ed Safarian announced that teams appearing late will default.

Monday—Preston and Carson vs Brody and Cooper.

Tuesday—Harris and Kert vs Zeifman and Telford.

Wednesday—Caplan and Granovsky vs Sniff and Zeldin.

Thursday—Kert and Harpham vs. Duff and Wadley.

Friday—Preston and Stone vs. Georges and Simmonds.

Western & St. Pats Argue Army Calls

London, Ont., Feb. 6.—(CUP)—"Compulsory military training should be instituted for all Canadian youth" is the subject for the debate to be held on February 14 at the University of Western Ontario. St. Patrick's University of Ottawa will uphold the resolution, while Western will take the negative stand with Frazer Earle and George Guthrie.

On the same date the Western affirmative team will travel to Queen's to debate the motion with the Queen's society. The winner of these debates will then meet the winner of the McMaster-Toronto division.

with the following protest, "My sentiments are adequately expressed by that well-known quotation 'Specialists are those who know more and more about less and less'. The need in the world to-day is for understanding between groups and nations; a general education provides a better basis for such an understanding than the work of specialists who hardly speak one another's language."

Myer Brodey, one of the leaders of the onslaught on Pass, expressed the belief that victory was assured his side. Nick-named "Slush" by his intimates, Mr. Brodey is an old hand on the platform, and relished the prospects of getting back into the debating arena once more. Following his remark that he had "no real objections to the Pass Course", Mr. Brodey went on to say that "Some people, especially girls, just go into it for the fun of it; however, those who choose a general course seriously intending to make something out of it are quite justified in doing so."

He then went on to point out that for those having plans other than matrimonial, three years of "not very specific education" were not an adequate preparation for future leadership in society. This discourse was concluded by the expression of the belief that the majority of Pass students had taken up permanent residence in the Junior Common Room.

Preparations are being made to accommodate a capacity crowd. And that includes you and you and you. Whatever your opinions, now's the chance to hear the pros. and cons. and decide once and for all whether or not the tombstone of our civilization may bear the legend, "Pass Arts".

Students Will Get Chance To Have Fun & Help Needy

A fund campaign to start on Feb. 21 has just been announced by the International Student Service Committee.

The prelude to the program will be the choosing of the year's Campus Co-ed, the girl to whom all Varsity men would like to show their pastels and water-colors. Proceedings are as follows:-

.... The Campus Co-ed will be picked between 1 and 2:15 p.m., Thursday Feb. 21. Since it is felt that professors make the best wolves, judges will be chosen from well-known members of the faculty.

.... Admission to the Co-ed contest will be by tags to be sold by girls from all faculties during the big day.

.... Two co-eds from each faculty will be candidates for the coveted crown. U.C., Vic, Trinity, St Mike's, Meds, Nursing, Physio and Occupational Therapy, S.P.S., P.H.E., Pharmacy and Dents will all be asked to nominate their best-looking girls for the contest.

More Questionnaires Sought By Editors

Students with no axes to grind, no beefs to register, are urged to join their reforming brethren in filling out The Varsity questionnaire, appearing on page 3 of this issue.

The editorial board are anxious to know what students as a whole think of the paper; and the question whether the majority are being adequately served cannot be decided only on the basis of the 100-odd replies at present submitted.

"We will be disappointed if we don't get a much heavier response," editor Kenner said last night. "To give everyone a chance, the questionnaire will be run next week until Wednesday. Tabulation of results will be announced shortly thereafter."

In mapping out the balance of the issues for this term, and in formulating next year's policies, the questionnaires will be used for guidance, he said. "If you like the paper, tell us. If you don't like it, tell us. Remember—YOUR vote may save YOU a favorite feature."

Sheaf Editor In Libel Suit

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb. 6.—(CUP)—Don MacFarlane, Editor-in-Chief of the SHEAF, University of Saskatchewan's student newspaper, was convicted of libel yesterday in a students' trial to determine the identity of ghost-writer Matthew Norman. Norman was charged with libel by Artsman Bieber and the Saskatchewan Hall girls who claimed that he termed them "chicken livered pullets."

In the trial law students acted as counsel for the crown and as the judges, with other students composing the six man jury and making up the three justices.

After due consideration, Editor MacFarlane was declared criminally responsible for allowing publication of the libellous letters and sentenced to six months deportation to Plunkett, Sask. He was also sentenced to hard labor and a public confession.

McRae and Burden were both acquitted because of insufficient evidence to prove their identity with Norman. Norman remains unidentified.

No Stampee, No Sendee

Anticlimax of the week is a letter currently kicking around the S.A.C. Office, Hart House.

The outsized envelope is fine quality heavy white stock, with a deekle-edged flap.

The address has a noble ring: "Chancellor of the Pontificum Athenaeum Antoniano, Pontificio Ateneo Antoniano, 124 Via Merulana, ROMA, Italy."

The upper right-hand corner is blank, except for a carelessly-placed rubber-stamp: "Returned for Postage."

.... Humor and comedy will be under the direction of those two campus masters of laughs and roars, Al Siegel and Don Harron. Barrel-shaped, hooka-puffing, harlem-man Siegel directed last year's U.C. Follies. Red-underweared, Esquire-garbed Harron is well-known as a local cartoonist and imitator of Southern-bred statesmen.

.... Music to be presented by a six-piece band . . . Joan Cameron, last year's Campus Co-ed will present the crown to the beautiful winner.

BUT, THIS IS JUST THE BEGINNING.

The main part of the ISS campaign will be an innovation on the campus. There have been inter-collegiate games this fall, inter-collegiate hockey is going on now but there is no all-campus theatre yet.

.... The All-Varsity Revue will remedy this lack of co-operation in campus affairs. Based on the main musical shows of the year, the Revue will combine the best points of the U.C. Follies, the gags from Medicine's Epistaxis, and the high spots of Dentanics.

.... All faculties will play a part in the presentation of a revitalized, and expanded edition of last year's Skit Nite to run for two evenings, March 6 and 7.

.... School Nite, Vic's Southern Senator Harron, Trinity's Girls Quartet and many others also will tramp up and down the theatre-boards.

.... All this and much more are to come for the starving students of Europe and Asia. Radio stations CJBC and CHUM will both co-operate with the ISS committee to present news and views about the entire proceedings.

.... A radio dramatization of ISS's work and a radio comedy show will add more to the program for funds.

Ex-Meds Lecturer Dies In Toronto

Dr. O. C. J. Withrow, one-time lecturer in the Faculty of Medicine at the University, died yesterday after a brief illness. After graduating from Toronto, Dr. Withrow took post-graduate studies at the Middlesex hospital in London, England.

One of the first medical men in Toronto to be connected with the juvenile court as a psychiatrist, Dr. Withrow served two years for performing an illegal operation, being convicted in 1927. All through he maintained his innocence, and wrote articles based on his experience in the penitentiary on his release.

The publication of these articles created a nation-wide controversy, especially when Dr. Withrow called for a Royal Commission inquiry into the treatment of prisoners and the whole penal system in Ontario.

RECORD HOUR

The record hour, held daily in the quiet of the Women's Common Room, University College, from 4:00 to 5:30 p.m. is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. Today's program:

Tchaikovsky—Concerto No. 1 in B flat minor.

Liszt—Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2. Debussy—La Cathédrale Engloutie. Grieg—Peer Gynt Suite No. 1.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221
Night OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor...Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
Make-up Editor...Feg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
News Editor...George Forster, 477
Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 476
Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
Assistant...Reg Herman, 476
Sports Editor...Bredin Stapells, 476
Assistant...Don Mason, 476
Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor...Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant...Dorothy Harley, 476
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor...Phillip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Friday, February 8, 1946

What Year Is It?

The Ideals

(The Prayer of the founders is that Hart House, under the guidance of its Warden, may serve in the generations to come the highest interests of the University by drawing into a common fellowship the members of the several Colleges and Faculties, and by gathering into a true society the teacher and the student, the graduate and the undergraduate; further, that the members of Hart House may discover within its walls the true education that is to be found in true fellowship, in friendly disputation and debate, in the conversation of wise and earnest men)

Conflict in the Ideals

These ideals are, to say the least, in conflict with the actual operation of Hart House. Hart House is operated as a men's club. We can only gather that women are not to be recognized as members of the University.

The Result of the Conflict

Now we will admit that thirty years ago when Hart House was founded there were fewer women in the University than there are now, but there were women in attendance at the University. We will also admit that many concessions have been made to the fair sex. Provided that they are escorted by members of the House, or that they are the wife of General Eisenhower, women can obtain admittance to Hart House on very special occasions. But quite frankly the battle that women have carried on for recognition as the equals of men during the past hundred years seems to have reached an anti-climax when they are still fighting for the right to enter Hart House with the trustees fighting for every inch of territory surrendered.

Further Results

To continue the analogy (that of the battle scene), the trustees are giving ground in the most amazing ways. At present women may enter Hart House for a dance. They may enter for a banquet, providing that it is the kind of banquet to which women are admitted. Ah yes, a woman may enter Hart House to attend the graduation banquet and dance of her fiancée, and if she is enrolled in a nice "lady-like" course such as Arts she may even be allowed to attend her own graduation banquet. But it is out of the question that such monsters as women graduating in professional courses should be recognized by being allowed to attend their class's graduation banquet. Still more preposterous is the suggestion that women should be allowed to enter Hart House to attend an educational lecture or any other thing that would require intelligence. Women are absolutely out of place in a University.

Woman's Place

Their place is obviously in the Home. What right indeed have they to force themselves on a University and now demand that they should be recognized as the equals of the men? It isn't that the trustees of Hart House don't like women, it's just that they want the women to stay in their proper place.

In fact the trustees of Hart House have a great respect for the women who recognize that a woman's place is in the Home and they will do anything in their power to help her in her noble desires. If she wishes she can be married in the Hart House Chapel.

We Seem to Have Forgotten the Date

All that can be gathered from this is that if they are to enter Hart House they must do so as the sweet little bits that cling to the arms of their big strong men. Under no circumstances must this horrible apparition "the Modern Woman" enter the House.

R. E. H.

Questionnaire

(Completed copies of this questionnaire, accompanied by grandmother's stove-lid or a reasonable facsimile, will be accepted until Thursday, June 12, 1949 at the south-east leg of the Great Hall Head Table. Knock twice and ask for Jake.)

1. Why do you read The Varsity? (Do not answer this question)....

2. Do you believe that The Varsity is dominated by:

.....International Nickel?

.....Louis B. Mayer?

.....The Boys in the Back Room?

.....The Boy on the Burning Deck?

.....Mary Cassidy?

.....Dentless Saxophones Ltd.?

.....Moby Dick and a Cast of Thousands?

3. Do you think The Varsity's editorials

.....Stink?

.....Stink very much?

.....Are poor?

4. Check below suggested treatment for the A.M. & D. department:

.....Forced to read their own stuff.

.....Boiled in oil (furnish coupons).

.....Given jobs instructing in music at the University of Witwatersland.

5. On a separate sheet write a brief essay (50 words) on "Why I Always Read The Cat", OR "Why I Want My Son To Grow Up And Be Just Like Champus" OR "Why The Cat Thrills Me." (Candidates are cautioned against writing on both sides of the paper at once.)

6. The Editor of The Varsity is:

.....Registrar Funnell

.....Mary Cassidy

.....The Man who Turns on the Lights in Refrigerators

.....Wilhelm Hugo von Kluperstein

.....George Drew.

.....Lousy.

(This questionnaire WILL NOT be repeated. Burn up yours today.)

(VOTE JA!)

Editorial Encores

All About N.F.C.U.S

Printed below are selections from McMaster's Silhouette editorial on the N.F.C.U.S., a student organization of which the average student knows too little.

It is a natural and vital desire of students that there be a mutual understanding among the various colleges in our Dominion. From coast to coast there are universities, students, and faculties; the undergraduates of every province experience the same difficulties, triumphs, crises, accomplishments; and each college of necessity must seek comparison with other Canadian campi if it is to progress. Some type of organization, therefore, is required so that the many activities of campus life across Canada might be integrated. Such an organization is the National Federation of University Students.

The N.F.C.U.S. was founded in 1926 by a group of young Canadian undergraduates. Their chief aims were to alleviate the sectionalism in Canada—racial, geographical and economic barriers, and to emphasize the international responsibility of Canadian university students. Although their record has not quite upheld these high ideals, they have made such laudable achievements as the establishing of the Canadian University Press, the arranging for exchange scholarships between certain universities, and the securing of reduced railway fares for students. Its great objective—that it should ultimately become the vital force directing Canadian university life—is still far off.

Recently, however, a number of Canadian campi revived interest in this original and ultimate aim of

(Continued on Page 8)

College Friends

The delight of every smart, young College girl is a sturdy, yet flattering campus shoe. Here are two styles that are your College friends indeed!

A. Moccasin-type shoe, with low heel and rubber sole. Comes in antique brown only. 5.50

B. The favorite of the campus... the loafer! Also comes in brown. 5.95

Simpson's

University of Toronto

DRAMA FESTIVAL

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE —

"Hands Across The Sea"

—NOEL COWARD

VICTORIA COLLEGE —

"Riders To The Sea"

—JOHN SYNGE

TRINITY COLLEGE —

"Family Album"

—NOEL COWARD

DATE: February Twelfth
PLACE: U.T.S. Auditorium
PRICE: Fifty Cents

Tickets Now On Sale At

ST. MICHAEL'S, U.C. ROTUNDA, TRINITY—PORTER'S LODGE, VICTORIA—V.C.U. OFFICE

TICKETS 50c

Hart House Bulletin Board

Friday Afternoon Recital

Robert Graham, violinist, will give a recital in the music room of Hart House at 5 p.m. today. Mrs. Kingsley Graham will be at the piano.

Glee Club Elections

Nominations for the Glee Club Committee will open at 9 a.m. today. Nomination forms are available in the Warden's office.

Sr. Cagers On Weekend Tour To Test McGill And Queen's

The senior basketballers have left town. They're on their way to bat the ball with the best at McGill and Queen's, Montreal tonight, Kingston tomorrow night, that's the itinerary.

It's the first road trip of this year's schedule, although they have played several exhibition games abroad. They knocked off Buffalo at the Niagara hamlet; they lost to Wayne at Detroit, and again to Assumption at Windsor.

Then there was the terrific display with Western at the Maple Leaf Gardens when the last free shot decided the game in Varsity's favour. And the games in Hart House—wins over all comers, Queens, Assumption and Albion.

Things look pretty good for the week-end trip. The Blues have already beaten Queen's and Western. Western beat McGill and Queen's last week so by all laws the Varsity squad should topple both squads in these tilts.

But—and it's a big but, three of the best players are anything but in top form. Stu Scott has an injured ankle, Colin Cranham has the same, while the flashy Wally Zeaton hurt his hand hurdling in the upper gym. The threesome has been doctoring their wounds in an effort to get them sufficiently cured for the games. They'll likely start in the contests but they won't be at their best by any means.

The McGills will undoubtedly supply the toughest opposition. They have a team somewhat like Varsity's—no particular individual star, but all competent supplements to one another's ability.

The Queen's quintet is a stallion of another tint. Gordy McDonnell is the player of the team. He scored more than a third of the Gaels' 42 points in their effort in Hart House two weeks ago.

CODY FELLOWSHIP

Attention is drawn to the fact that applications for the Maurice Cody Research Fellowship must be received at the University Registrar's Office not later than March 1st.

U. of T. SCHOLARSHIPS

Certificates of attendance in connection with the payment of the second instalment of University of Toronto Scholarships (not including College Scholarships) may be obtained at the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall.

HART HOUSE CHAPEL

Holy Communion will be celebrated this Sunday, February 10 in Hart House Chapel at 8.15 a.m. The celebrant will be Capt. Cyril Peto (C. of E.), recently chaplain to 16 Canadian General Hospital.

MAY EXAMINATIONS

Applications for the May examinations in the Faculty of Arts should have been made by February 1st. Recalcitrants should apply forthwith at the office of the College or University Registrar.

Ajax Will Remedy Cafeteria's Faults

In response to numerous complaints about the Ajax cafeteria, President Mike McAuliffe and the first year executive of Ajax Division, recently investigated conditions in the cafeteria.

"The management are fully aware of the faults present," said McAuliffe, "and are doing everything in their power to correct them."

The executive reported that present difficulties included a poor steam supply and unsatisfactory cooking conditions. Both these factors have contributed their share of grief to staff and students alike, but ways and means are being found to iron out the wrinkles of the present situation.

Another item on the executive's agenda is a request in writing to government ration authorities to grant 44-hour ration cards to students who do not use the cafeteria on week-ends. If granted, this measure will relieve the ration situation for parents who are confronted with a serious shortage of rationed food on their son's homecoming.

Winning E.I.C. Talks To Get Cash Prizes

The annual competition for undergraduates in Electrical Engineering, sponsored by the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, will be held Friday night in Room 21, Electrical Building. The candidates and their topics will be as follows: N. R. Buchanan, Variable speed A.C. Motors; E. E. Major, Tertiary Windings on Transformers; G. R. Siemon, Vacuum-tube Voltmeters; and G. F. C. Weedon, Engineering Personnel: A Long Term Investment.

In addition to cash prizes of $7.50 to the first and second, and $5.00 to the third and fourth, the candidates will receive a membership in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

C.U.P. Flashes

London—Occidental, the Western yearbook, is starting a contest for the best student campus life shot. A special page will be reserved for the winning photograph and prize will be awarded to the winning student.

London—The Western Museum is sponsoring a contest for the collection of relics, heirlooms and material of historical interest in an effort to enlarge their present exhibits. A scroll will be presented to the winning year bearing the Western Crest, the date and the name of the winning year. The curator, Mr. Jury, hopes by these means to build up a collection representative of early Canadian life.

Waco, Texas, Feb. 6—Exchange—The students at Baylor University definitely favour equal representation of all years in the newly-formed student council. This was the result of the poll inaugurated by the temporary council to determine the form of representation wanted by the students.

London—The Faculty of the University of Western Ontario has declared a spring study week from April 13 to April 22. This innovation is the result of the plebiscite taken in December which showed that the students were unanimously in favour of such a plan. Examinations will conclude on May 4, COTC and UNTD camps will be held from May 5 to May 18, and Convocation on May 22.

Old Parties To Be Topic Of Blackwell's Address

"I am extremely impressed with student interest and how well informed students are regarding institutions of government and issues of the day. This is a very important development," said Hon. Leslie E. Blackwell, K.C., M.P.P., Attorney General of Ontario, when interviewed by The Varsity yesterday in his office in the Parliament Buildings.

Fiction Writers Offered Cash

Announced recently was a continent-wide fiction contest for women undergraduates, sponsored by Mademoiselle Magazine, and offering a $250 publication fee for winning entries.

Stories which have been printed in college publications may be submitted, but they must not have been published elsewhere, the press release stated.

"Mademoiselle", the editors state, "is well represented in the annual O. Henry and O'Brien anthologies of American short stories. Since Mademoiselle is a magazine for young women (between 17 and 35 years of age) we are anxious not only to reflect their point of view, but to publish stories by young authors of real merit."

Manuscripts, 1,500 to 3,000 words long, and typewritten doublespace, must be mailed before April 1 to College Fiction Contest, Mademoiselle, 122 East 42nd St., New York 17.

Mr. Blackwell pointed out that when he was at the University, from which he graduated in 1923 in Pass Arts, there was no concrete evidence of such interest in politics.

When questioned on the development of his interest in politics, Mr. Blackwell said that in 1935 he recognised the need of the participation of younger men in the government of the country. He was then 37. He realized that the only effective way to make any contribution was through the medium of a political party.

Although wounded overseas in the leg in 1918, Attorney General Blackwell took an active interest in athletics during his college life. He coached intercollegiate teams in football for many years and directed the swimming team and water polo team.

Mr. Blackwell, M.P.P. for Eglinton, since he was chosen for the position of Attorney-General for Ontario, has been appointed to the King's Council. He will address an open meeting of the Progressive-Conservative Club on Wednesday, Feb. 13th at 8:00 in the Women's Union on "Why I Belong to One of the Old Parties."

QUESTIONNAIRE

(In answering the following questionnaire, readers are asked to guard against prejudice by considering the general standard of the various departments rather than any particularly excellent or nauseating articles)

- 1—How often do you read The Varsity? Rarely..... Occasionally..... Regularly.....
- 2—In your opinion, has The Varsity's general standard: Improved..... Deteriorated..... Remained the same..... since becoming a tabloid?
- 3—Following is a list of the various departments of The Varsity. In the space opposite each, suggest any improvements you would like to see.

Art, Music and Drama
Books
Bridge Problems
Cartoons
Cinematathon
Champus Cat
Campus Capsules
Editorial Encores
Editorials
Features
Lecture Reports
New and Entrenous
News Stories
News from other campi
Notices of Coming Events
Personality Interviews
Our Readers Write
Speaking of Sport
Speaking of Swing
Sports Stories
Sportswoman

- 4—In the above list, check your favourite five features.
- 5—What do you think of the present distribution of space among the various departments?
- 6—Should allocation of the increased space include more news of other Canadian campi?
- 7—Should The Varsity's editorials discuss the things they do?
- 8—What annoys you most about The Varsity?
- 9—What general or specific improvements would you suggest?

Signed Faculty Year

ALL FORMS MUST BE SIGNED

This questionnaire will be published until Wednesday next week. Completed copies will be accepted in The Varsity office, Room 42-a, University College, or at the S.A.C. office, Hart House.

Plato and Freud Meet Via Edison

A "glorification of ignorance" was the comment passed on the popularity of Freud's theory of sublimation by Prof. G. Edison, lecturing yesterday on "Plato and Freud" in the current U.C. lecture series. Against this the speaker set Plato's "genuine sublimation of the soul", whereby through reason it becomes possessed of that object which it supremely seeks. Thus, the speaker explained, in learning to love beauty, it would become beautiful.

Prof. Edison first noted the paradox of our modern position in respect to self knowledge, of "Knowing too much", employing too many experts, who encompass too numerous approaches to the ancient query, "What is man?" This to the Greeks would be a grave fault, and was cautioned against in the eternal, "Know thyself—and do not go too far".

Plato, clearly distinguishable from Freud as being a moral philosopher, was interpreted by the speaker as making the capacity in man for rational deliberation and choice his final ("although often fatal") distinction. Man as a moral, not a mechanical engine, was presented in opposition to mechanistic philosophies.

"Nowhere", stated Prof. Edison, "does Freud account for those differences which give rise to moral conflict, leading to a conception of good, to which the self is committed. Since Plato argues that two of the primary incentives in man's soul, desire and feeling, cannot in themselves create friction, he finds his solution to inner conflict in the relation of reason or judgement between emotions and desires. Reason demonstrates, Plato asserted, the highest aspect of the soul, comprehending and supervising the other elements, and acting as a principle of unity."

In teaching the futility of searching for complete happiness in the satisfaction of desires, reason discovers its supreme good, however, the speaker emphasized.

Freud's explanation of the relationships among the different aspects of man's self, each having its biologically predetermined goal, the speaker saw as producing a conception of the "ego" as a "poor creature", moving in obedience to three instincts which operated under the inexorable law of nature. There are the conscious "ego", the unconscious "id" (sex or life instincts), and the super-ego (repressive or death instincts). There is a continuous oscillation between the life instincts and death instincts, one pressing forward, the other back, while the ego is "inalienably committed to the cause of the id."

Love was identified by Plato with "eros"—desire, as a self-initiating and moving principle of the soul, neither good nor bad until it manifested its intention toward an object. The course of this "restless eros" was traced, as, taught by wisdom, it turned from seeing good in one beautiful form, to all lovely forms, then to the mind, and finally to love of wisdom, reaching an ultimate conception of beauty everywhere. This same love, seeking outlet on rising levels, the speaker believed more coherent than any approach which reduces a complex development to its simpler antecedents, or relates a desire to something lower than it proves itself to be. Freud's "ego ideal" was contrasted as a presentation of religion, morality, and social sense as emanations from the same source, "acquired phlogogenetically out of the father complex", wherein a love of God would be a remembrance of early filial awe, morality the fear of penalty, and sociability the protection of early family jealousy and rivalry.

The interpretation of neurosis by Plato and Freud were also compared in the lecture. To Plato it arises always from a moral issue, wherein emotions stand between reason and appetite, and should be informed so as to help in governing desires. Mature self-knowledge to Plato, then, would bring the ultimate sanity, whereas there would be no moral implications in neurosis to Freud.

Plato was imagined as weighing and refuting Freud's theory, as Prof. Edison concluded, "He would not admit as true, what he knew to be false."

SAMBA WALTZ
RHUMBA JIVE FOXTROT
Enrol Now
In Our POPULAR NEW DANCE CLASS
TONIGHT, 8.30

Da Costa
STUDIOS OF DANCING
1139 Bay Street, Corner Charles
M1. 5624

smoke the mild
cigarette

A Camsi Column

(By The Canadian University Press)

LOCAL-OF-THE-MONTH . . .

The most heartening report to come in so far from our nine local correspondents is datelined London, Ontario, where the medical school at the University of Western Ontario recently acquired a brand-new CAMSI Committee; or at any rate, a new executive for that Committee. "Our present committee is composed of practically all 'recruits'," writes P.R.O. Rodger Whitman, Med III, "... who have had no previous experience with CAMSI . . ."

Despite this, the Committee has gone ahead with plans for bringing in speakers, medical films, and has even proposed inviting each of the premed groups to send one representative, as a spectator or observer to each of the Committee's by-weekly meetings, so as to give pre-meds an early introduction to CAMSI (the Canadian Association of Medical Students and Internes). The Committee has been corresponding with the National Executive at McGill about a project which they are rather anxious to undertake, and should have found, by now, a satisfactory place in the national tie-up of med students and internes.

WINNIPEG . . .
A general meeting of the Med

Undergrad Society was being planned on January 22, when Ted Stevenson wrote in from U. of Manitoba, where last November's Conference was held. Purpose of the meeting: to consider the National Exec's "Statement of Policy" for CAMSI. Payment of internes, speakers, films, and debates on medical subjects were all being taken up by the CAMSI Committee. Investigation into the possibilities of the University Book Store handling second-hand books is an additional interest, according to the Senior CAMSI representative.

QUEEN'S MEETS THE PRES. . .

Soon after the above reports had come in, National President Bob Black (McGill '47) was invited to attend a Queen's M.U.S. meeting in order to answer questions concerning the "Statement of Policy" then being discussed. He was able to bring his audience of some 200 med students up to date on recent developments in CAMSI's progress since Christmas, and according to all accounts sparked up considerable interest. Queen's Med Undergrad Society, known as the Aesculapian Society, did not send a delegate to the National Conference a couple of months ago, owing to difficulties with the travel-pool, but now that this has been straightened out, it looks like Queen's will again give CAMSI its old-time boost.

TORONTO . . .

Bob Salter, Senior CAMSI rep. at U. of T., was able to tell us some interesting facts about the way his Med Undergrad Society runs its business—it seems they do it pretty efficiently, too. What he calls the "Society" is really the Society's executive of 13 members, which has a luncheon meeting once a week. Business is performed speedily, it seems, as Bob was able to announce the M.U.S. appointment of Bob Andrew as Public Relations Officer for the CAMSI Committee, in accordance with the "Statement of Policy".

AND SO IT GOES . . .

Dalhousie and Queen's, too, have ratified the new CAMSI program and have pledged the one dollar per capita support to the National Exec. Those are the latest returns, of which more in next week's column.

Camera Exhibit To Feature Color

Mr. F. E. Moffatt, Toronto commercial artist and photographer, will criticize the exhibits at the annual Color Night sponsored by the Hart House Camera Club on Feb. 26.

The exhibition this year will feature projections of 35 mm. Kodachrome slides of pictures taken by Camera Club members.

In addition slides will be shown of the collected paintings of the late Sir Frederick Banting. A collection of more than 200 of his paintings was exhibited in the Hart House Art Gallery on the first anniversary of his death. Slides were made of these paintings before they were returned to their owners.

Moving pictures of General Eisenhower's recent visit to the university, taken by W. B. Burwell, former Secretary of Hart House, will also be shown.

Any Camera Club members having work to display in the exhibition should submit it to the Hall Porter before Feb. 19. Club members will review their own work the evening of the 19th—one week before the color night exhibition.

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. WEST OF UNIVERSITY AVE.

ONE WEEK BEGINNING MON. EVE., FEB. 11

Evs. (8:20) Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

Return Visit by Popular Request

Shaped by MISS CHATTERTON. Setting by EDWARD GILBERT.

Evs. 90c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00

Mats. Wed.-Sat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80

All Tax Included.

Box Office Open 10 A.M. to 10 P.M.

NO PHONE ORDERS

$1,600 in ESSAY PRIZES

for University Undergraduates

In conjunction with its supplements on the Atomic Age, The Standard is running a nation-wide essay competition with special prizes for undergraduates of recognized Canadian universities. (The university must be a member of the National Conference of Canadian Universities).

Topic of the essay is:

"How should we build a World government in the Atomic Age?"

Prizes: First Prize . . . $1,000.

Second Prize 250.

Third Prize 100.

And ten prizes of $25 each.

Your essay must not exceed 1,500 words. Essays may be written in English or French and they should be typewritten, double-spaced, on one side of the paper only. If a typewriter is unavailable, the essay should be written legibly in ink, also on one side of the paper only. Number your sheets.

If you want us to return your essay, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. No correspondence can be entered into regarding the contest, and the judges' decision is final.

The essay which wins first prize will be published in The Standard, and The Standard reserves the right to publish any other prize-winning essay.

The contest closes April 13, 1946, and all entries must bear a postmark not later than that date.

Your essay will be judged mainly as to the ideas presented, their originality, simplicity and logic of presentation, and the readability of the essay. You must emphasize constructive ideas for the present situation. TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE IS NOT NECESSARY.

Write your name, address and the number (2) on your essay and send it to:

Contest Judges,
The Standard,
P.O. Box 2700,
Place d'Armes,
Montreal.

The Standard

USED COLLEGE TEXT BOOKS

'At Best Current Prices

Open Evenings Until 10 p.m.

WE BUY
BOOKS

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE

RA. 1148

(1 BLOCK SOUTH OF BLOOR)

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone M1. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

RECONVERT YOUR APPETITE

Give it the Honey Dew treatment. You'll be amazed at what our healthfully-delicious food and relaxing atmosphere will do for jaded appetites.

We have only one specialty

—the best of everything prepared the best way we know. Why not find out today?

HONEY DEW COFFEE SHOPS

★ mart kenney currently appearing at the
Royal York Hotel

★ art hallman
currently appearing at Casa Loma, Toronto.

★ stan patton
currently appearing at Brant Inn, Burlington.

These and other very well-known orchestras available

Exclusive Management
Office of MART KENNEY
"HEC" McCallum, Manager
125 Dupont St., Toronto
KI. 3147—Nights: GR. 4996

The T.O. Style

By Bill Hemmerick

This business of writing a column on Toronto bands and musicians is made difficult by the numbers of diverse opinions on them, especially among the university music (jazz) sect. This column is not and will not be written exclusively for them, although they might think so. In the first place, they know as much as we do about the subject (if not more), and in the second place the need for musical education lies with the great majority of the students here. It is to these who don't, but would like to know just a little more about the local jazz (we use the word 'jazz' very loosely) situation—that we dedicate this column. We plan to grade, classify and generally clear up the local picture. We plan to do this by a series of articles which will cover the whole field. We are quite aware that anything which we may write in this column will have no effect on your musical tastes (the Roman phrase was 'de gustibus non disputandum') but we do hope to enlarge your musical thinking to include all the popular music in the city. Perhaps some day people will realize that an orchestra provides something more artistic than a beat to dance to, and a dull tune to hum to. Musicians are more than machine operators, they do have some artistic feeling other than breadwinning. When this is realized, then this column's work is almost done.

But not quite. It is obvious that everyone cannot discover names of good musicians (if they tried to, the musicians would do nothing but answer questions) and classify them, so we have taken on the job. Each week we plan to review a band as a unit, and give it two ratings (commercial and musical). We also plan to classify a group of people as a group apart from their own special place in the music scene. Therefore we will discuss clarinetists, vocalists, agents-bookers-promoters, trombonists, etc. You may notice that we are prejudiced in favour of certain styles and types. This is inevitable. There is no such creature as an unprejudiced music enthusiast. You may also notice that a certain personal element may creep in from time to time. We will do our best to keep it at a minimum, but it may creep in nevertheless.

There are certain people on this campus to whom we will turn from time to time for help and advice. When we do, they shall be credited with an assist.

And so much for the preamble. If you have found it dull, please bear with us, and if you find the rest even duller, please turn quietly to another page.

Band of the Week

The first band up for discussion is, in our opinion, the best jazz (again we use the term loosely) band in the city. The ork is that headed by Bert Niosi, and graded B plus musically, C commercially. Our grading system is A, B, C, B.L., but the A grade will not be used for anything in the city so far. We the Palais. When he goes it's not for long, and he always returns.

Perhaps about now a personnel might be appreciated. It is: Saxes—Paul Presnall, Phil Antonacci, Max Fink, Ralph Harrison; Trumpets—Tony Furrana, Vic Brinkman, Russ Norfolk; Trombones—Ross Cully, Ted Everitt, Mark Bell; Piano—Hal Gray; Drums—Johnny Niosi; Bass—Johnny Dobson; Guitar—Doug Herley; Vocals—Dorothy Dean, Doug Herley; Arrangements—Paul Presnall, Johnny Dobson, Bert Niosi; Leader and Clarinet—Bert Niosi.

The outstanding names here are Bert Niosi, Dorothy Dean, Philly Antonacci, Tony Furrana, and Ross Cully. These will all be considered further when their particular horn is discussed.

Horn of the Week

It is peculiar that in a city this size there are only four outstanding clarinetists. It is even more peculiar that there doesn't seem to be anyone to fill the gap between these boys and the sideman-who-plays-clarinet - only - to - get - a - soft - effect - like - it - says - on - the - score. However, the top men are really up there. At the very top is Bert Niosi. If Bert spent a little more time on clarinet, he would be known more as a clarinetist, and less as a one-man-band. Bert, with all his flauting, is still on top. Almost as high as Bert is Jimmy O'Driscoll. We have discussed Bert sufficiently above, but what about Jim? Jimmy, a Toronto boy, first entered the biz with his three brothers, later joining Howard Cable (1940) and thence to the Modernaires (1942). It was while he was with Roy Paterson (Modernaires) that he became popular with the weekly crowd at the Castle. Jimmy looks as if he is never sure of hitting the high ones, but he always does. Cliff McKay has come and gone almost with the regular—

(Continued on Page 8)

Who Will Be The

"KING of HEARTS"

AT THE

INTER-SORORITY BALL

ALPHA EPSILON PHI, DELTA PHI EPSILON,
IOTA ALPHA PI.

FEBRUARY 14th., 1946

—at—

CASA LOMA

Featuring

ART HALLMAN

with

LORRAINE McALLISTER

SUBSCRIPTION, $3.00 per couple DRESS OPTIONAL

—SCIENCE & ENGINEERING STUDENTS PARTICULARLY WELCOME—
The Thomistic Society presents:

Dr. W. R. THOMPSON

Author of "Science and Common Sense"
ON

THE UNITY OF THE LIVING ORGANISM

Reflections On Philosophy Of Science

SUNDAY, FEB. 10th, 2.30 P.M.
Brennan Hall—St. Michael's College.

HEAR

CROLL, BREWIN TANAKA

AT JAP-CAN FORUM

THURS. FEB. 14, 8.15 P.M.

ECONOMICS BLDG. GREAT HALL

CAMP GAYVENTURE

GIRLS 5 to 15, BOYS 5 to 11.

Counsellors Interviewed Now.

Write—Miss Dorothy Hoyle, Hoylands, Scarboro Junction, Ont.

YOU ARE NOT KEPT "WAITIN' FOR THE SUIT TO COME IN"

For it pulls in right on schedule, 3 to 4 weeks after you make your reservation on the Louis Cohen Clothes Limited.

Our trained handcraftsmen are going full steam ahead, turning out single and double-breasted made - to - measure suits and topcoats expressly for discriminating dressers.

Yes, you're on the right track when you travel to us. The station is at 449 Spadina Avenue at the College Street crossroad. Information RA. 3995-6, and the timetable is nine to nine daily. Saturdays 10 to 6.

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
at College
RA 8995-6

Special Rates To Students

A ROLICKING MIRTH PROVOKING HIT ON VICTOR RECORDS

Spike and the Boys are in rare form in their special arrangement of

THE BLUE DANUBE

Here's a must for every Spike Jones fan! It's a typical City Slicker arrangement of Strauss' famous composition... with special lyrics and Spike's own brand of sound effects. Don't miss hearing it at your Victor Record dealer's.

LOOK TO VICTOR RECORDS for the Newest Hits... Here are Just a Few

HUMORESQUE FLYING HOME

Oscar Peterson
VICTOR RECORD 56-0011 . . . 75c

COME TO BABY, DO! GONNA FALL IN LOVE WITH YOU

Duke Ellington and his famous Orchestra
VICTOR RECORD 20-1748 . . . 75c

LET IT SNOW! LET IT SNOW! LET IT SNOW! WHEN THE SANDMAN RIDES THE TRAIL

Vaughn Monroe and his Orchestra
VICTOR RECORD 20-1759 . . . 75c

GEE, IT'S GOOD TO HOLD YOU CUBDLES

Mart Kenney and his Western Gentlemen
VICTOR RECORD 56-0008 . . . 75c

Also YOU ALWAYS HURT THE ONE YOU LOVE

Spike Jones and His City Slickers

Both on VICTOR RECORD 20-1762 . 75c

THE WORLD'S GREATEST ARTISTS ARE ON VICTOR  Records

Coming Soon!

RCA VICTOR RECORD PLAYER

Your RCA Victor dealer will soon be displaying this compact, precision built RCA Victor Record Player. Playing records through your radio it doubles the enjoyment of home entertainment for a small investment. Watch for it at your RCA Victor dealer's... better still place your order with him now.

Speaking OF SPORT

By John Hazlett and Bob Marshall

Your hosts for Athletic Night to-morrow night are the two professional faculties of Medicine and Dentistry. The program about to be revealed to you, the reading audience, is believed by us to have the best balanced arrangement of attractions presented within the walls of Hart House this season. In this article we don't intend to feature one main attraction but rather a galaxy of stupendous individual events, any one of which is worth the price of admission alone..

In This Corner!!

From 7.15 p.m. until 9.00 p.m. in the Upper Gym will be featured the greatest outcry of grunts and groans, the greatest masses of muscle and bone ever brought together within the hempen confines of Chestie's wrestling ring. Then as the great show continues, you will see the huge forms of the writhing maulers replaced by those of the decolere boxers. Yes-sirree folks this is your chance to see the greatest aggregation of artists ever appearing in any one place at one time. It's the finals of the Senior Interfaculty Boxing and Wrestling Tournament.

Splash!!

In the cool waters of Hart House pond—that beautiful Hart House pond—the speediest and most agile of our campus mermen will vie for honors before your unbelieving eyes. We would advise you to note such outstanding stars as U.C.'s Al Marshall, who has already broken the Canadian breast stroke record. Since the intercollegiate swimming meet is to be held at Queen's this year, it is your opportunity to see Coach Bill Moffat's great team in competition with one another.

Down The Floor!!

The Purple and White basketeers of Western University will provide the sparkling opposition to our own Sr. A. and intermediate hoopsters in the Big Gym. The Varsity intermediates, simmering under the humiliation of a previous 40-38 defeat at the hands of the Mustangs will attempt to tame the aforementioned critters beginning at 7.00 p.m. The second big game of the night should have you swinging from the stall bars amid cheers of "Yea Varsity!" and "Dirty Western!" This Senior A team of ours, which showed up so well against Ajax, well deserve your loudest and strongest "Rip-party-Rapparty-Ree!"

At Your Leisure!!

To escape these strenuous activities the boxing and wrestling rooms will offer a quiet secluded haven for those needing resuscitation and relaxation.

To Your Health!!

Your co-hosts, to show their concern about your well-being will attempt a short-term program on aspects of modern life in the Fencing Room.

Extra! Extra! Extra!

The lower gallery will feature a charcoal artist, Mr. Mould from the College of Art. At half-time in the senior game there will be a fencing exhibition. Touche. Square dancing will keep the dust of battle rising in the Upper Gym while your M.C., Phil Ashmore, keeps you happy as you practice terpsichorean art under the subdued lights of the Main Gym.

Ha! So you couldn't get a ticket! But we are sure that those who did will enjoy themselves thoroughly.

• Sportswoman •

By Bob Cooke

What Next?

In the words of an old poem
"Joyce's Pa was very vex'd,
He said to Joyce what next, what next".
But who wouldn't have been vexed, for Joyce had joined the School Hockey Team. Joyce was the first woman in Skule and it seems that the only way she could play games was with the men.

That's in the past, but the girls can still take inspiration from Skule.

This week-end is the first University Ladies' Ski meet which will be the first opportunity to chose material for Intercollegiate Skiing. Buses for the Edward's Youth Hostel beside which the meet will take place will leave Hart House at 9 a.m., 11.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. The event will consist of a controlled downhill, for which contestants will take the first two buses, and a slalom run later. Entries will be received by Judy Rowe at MI 8451.

Don't be shy girls. It's fun and besides you may be able to get some fatherly advice from Pete Kingsmill, a Skuleman who is also president of the Varsity Ski Club. It seems that Pete has a few spares up his sleeves, and on other parts of his body, that may help you.

For one thing when Pete is skiing his red hair is obscured by a rubber pad on the top of his head. "Just in case I bang into a tree", explains Pete.

Pete won't be on hand to start the race with his mammoth sword. And what does Pete's sword have to do with a Ski meet, well we'll let Pete explain. "We were having trouble unearthing (in winter a starter gun for the downhill racing, so we figured the next best thing would be a sword."

Pete won't be there girls, but we're sure that any other helps you need will be supplied if you get in touch with him. He'll be thinking of you anyhow.

Sensational!

Jr. Blues Tonite

Tonight at 8 o'clock will see the final meeting of the top two Junior 'B' squads when Varsity's B's receive Richmond Hill at Varsity Arena. The previous meeting of these two teams produced a closely fought contest taken by Varsity 6-4 in overtime. Paul Hutzulak the B's regular backstop, will return to the nets after a one game layoff.

The B's will go into the fray injury-free after which the team will be cut to twelve men by coach Staff. Smythe. Following this evening's effort there remains one affair with Oshawa to be attended by the 'B's'.

And the play-offs? The boys are mighty keen to be among those present when playoff time rolls around. Should the 'B's' win tonight (which is more than likely) they finish in undisputed possession of the top spot. Without permission of the Athletic Office however the Varsityites may not go in the playoffs. Whether they do or whether they do not, tonight's game is well worth Friday night's time. Admission: one Athletic card.

Sr. Team Travel

By RED JONES

The Varsity Sr. Hockey team pulled out of Union Station at 8:00 a.m. to-day en route to Ann Arbor, Michigan. They cross the border to engage the same lusty Wolverines whom they so handily defeated twice in Toronto, two weeks ago.

The scores here were 9-3 and 7-5 with Toronto coming from the zero end of a 4-0 deficit to pull the game out of the fire in the third period. Michigan, being used to their home ice, may give their fans more to cheer about than just a close loss this time. The Blues will send out the same team as before with Bill Lawlor being carried as the twelfth man.

Led by the high-scoring Wally Halder, Ace Bailey's puckchasers have already won their first two inter-collegiate games against Queen's and University of Montreal. The chance for Varsity students to show their enthusiasm and school spirit comes TUESDAY NIGHT at 8:00 P.M. in Varsity Arena. Their opponents will be the tri-coloured speedsters from Kingston who make up in fight what they lack in class.

So wish them luck over the border this week-end and everybody out on Tuesday to see the cream of Ontario's Senior Hockey crop display their wares against the highlanders of Queen's.

Sport In Short

TUESDAY, FEB. 5.

Basketball—Major
Trin. A—12, St. M.A.—8
Wyc. A—19, Emm. A—15
St. M. B—25, Dent. B—12
S.P.S. IV—14, Med. Ser. A—12
Basketball—Minor
U.C. St. George—36, St. M.C.—7
II Dent.—33, U.C. VI—27
Vic. VII—30, II Eng. Bus.—29
III Chem.—18, Vic. V—14
Vic. VI—defaulted to Trin. III

Water Polo
Sr. S.P.S.—8, Sr. Med. A—1
Jr. S.P.S.—5, Dent.—3
S.P.S. III—5, Jr. Med.—0

STAMMERING

Stammering corrected by modern scientific methods. Helped 48-page booklet gives full information. Write today for FREE copy. W. D. Dennison, 543 Jarvis St., Toronto

LOST

One copy—Boulding's "Economic Analysis". Urgently required. Name, Tate, on inside cover. Please leave with Trinity Porter or phone MO 6622 anytime.

FOUND

Ronson lighter, initialed; found near Parliament Bldgs. Owner can have same by identifying it and paying for this ad. Contact Gordon Ficko, KI 8184.

WANTED

All Forest Hill grads, to attend annual Forest Hill Prom at Central School, on Friday, Feb. 22nd. Tickets from Collin Wrong.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

1:00 WYC. vs. KNOX B Mosher, Garfunkel (game cancelled)
4:30 TRIN. B vs. ST. M. B. Brownridge, J. A. McClelland
5:30 TRIN. A vs. DENT. A. Brownridge, J. A. McClelland

SR. SWIMMING

5:00 PRELIMINARY HEATS.

BASKETBALL MAJOR

1:00 PHE I vs. SR. SP2 Maxwell
4:00 JR. SP2 vs. JR. VIC Dzapino

BASKETBALL MINOR

4:00 KNOX B vs. ST. M. E. Kerrison

GAMES SATURDAY

BASKETBALL, MAJOR

1:00 SR. VIC vs. JR. U.C. A. McAdam

INTRAMURAL SQUASH TOURNAMENT

Draw for Friday, February 8.

4:20 Court No. 2 Dobell (Tr) vs Puddy (Vic)
5:00 Court No. 2 Cobban (Tr) vs Melsaac (St. M.)
5:40 Court No. 2 Bennett (UC) vs Balmer (Vic)
6:20 Court No. 2 Broder (Med) vs Box (Tr)
6:20 Court No. 3 Orr (UC) vs Wylie (For)

Draw for Monday, February 11.

4:20 Court No. 2 Parker (Tr) vs McAndrew (UC)
5:00 Court No. 2 Knox (UC) vs Winter (For)
5:40 Court No. 2 Wide (For) vs Scott (Vic)
6:20 Court No. 2 Corwitz (Med) vs Thomson (Vic)
6:20 Court No. 3 Sharp (Med) vs Christie (Vic)

SENIOR INTERCOLLEGIATE HOCKEY

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12th, 8 P.M.

Varsity Arena

QUEEN'S VS VARSITY

RESERVED SEATS $1.00

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c

Students admitted FREE on presentation of registration card with athletic portion attached.

SENIOR BOXING

Preliminary Bouts today at 5.00

135 lbs.—J. EVANS (SPS) vs DICKIESON (Vic)
155 lbs.—THORNTON (SPS) vs BRATTY (SPS)
165 lbs.—SUGAR (Med.) vs MULHOLLAND (SPS)

SENIOR WRESTLING

Preliminary Bouts today at 5.00

145 lbs.—WINNER GEARY—YOSHIOKA vs DEWAN (St. M.)
DOLL (PHE) vs SKLAR (SPS)
155 lbs.—HUBBLE (SPS) vs HEATH

AJAX VOLLEYBALL

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 9TH

9:30 A.M.—10:15 A.M. RES. 723 vs RES. 724
10:15 A.M.—11:00 A.M. RES. 727A vs RES. 728
11:00 A.M.—11:45 A.M. RES. 731 vs RES. 732
11:45 A.M.—12:30 P.M. RES. 736 vs RES. 737
12:30 P.M.—1:15 P.M. RES. 727 vs RES. 734
1:15 P.M.—2:00 P.M. RES. 725 vs RES. 722
2:00 P.M.—2:45 P.M. RES. 729 vs RES. 726
2:45 P.M.—3:30 P.M. RES. 733 vs RES. 730

WOMEN'S HOCKEY SCHEDULE

Week of February 11th

MON. FEB. 11—12-1 P.H.E. I vs. ST. HILDA'S I
TUES. FEB. 12—1-2 U.C. I vs. VIC. I
WED. FEB. 13—1-2 MEDS. vs. ST. MIKES
THURS. FEB. 14—12-1 U.C. II vs. ST. HILDA'S II

Games In Varsity Arena.

INVITATION

To the best in good music, OKEY, Sunday, at 9.30 p.m. Noel Brunet, violinist.

LOST

Black Sheaffer pen in Room 6 U.C., or vicinity. Please call OL 2379.

TYPING

Experienced, legal, medical theses, notes, etc. Picked up and delivered daily, Hart House. Fast, accurate, cheap. AD 3922.

LOST

Large blue notebook, taken by mistake from Hart House Tuck Shop. Contains notes for 1st year M & P. Contact R. J. Hanson, KI 0317.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

LOST

Tan calf brief case, from coat rack outside Great Hall, Hart House, Wed. night, 5:30-6. Please return notes at least to 49 St. George St.

I've taken to pipe smoking like a prof to knowledge since I've discovered sweet, cool, mild Picobac.

Picobac
THE PICK OF TOBACCO

Our Readers Write —

In Praise

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

This is in praise of Sherman Taylor's letter which appeared in Thursday's issue of The Varsity. The unreasonable attitude of the Hart House Directorate and also of many male students on the campus has at last encountered criticism and it is heartening to hear that the S.A.C. is taking decisive action. Certainly it seems nothing less than bigotry to deny women students entrance to dentistry and engineering lectures at Hart House merely because of their sex.

But there is another important aspect of the situation which must be considered. Women students of all courses are unable to understand their exclusion from Friday afternoon recitals and art exhibits. Granted that the facilities of Hart House may be overtaxed due to the increased number of students, it seems most unreasonable that women students should be excluded on such occasions. Or are these advantages to continue to be "for men only"?

One can imagine the uproar that exclusion of men from campus political and academic club activities at the Women's Union would occasion. Even the University Symphony Orchestra holds rehearsals there, and why not? Yet Hart House, the only meeting place on the campus for students from all faculties and colleges, continues its policy of smug exclusion.

H. Alleen Hooper
II History & Moderns U.C.

Spain, Not Franco

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

It was with a great deal of interest that I have noted the recent "contributions" to your correspondence page of one Mary A. Nowak. As is usually the case with people of anti-Soviet spleen, her anger knows not the bounds of truth, facts, or common decency. It is pitiful, if not amusing, to see the type of mentality which sees the stealthy hand of Moscow in everything from the setting-up of a "Spanish Government in Exile" to the latest earth-quake or crime wave.

I perforce must agree that we must take a friendly approach to the problems of Spain. This does not mean taking a friendly approach to Franco, who sold his country out to Germany and Italy and used Moors to slaughter Spanish Christians. These are matters of fact, recorded for posterity in the reports of the League of Nations. No amount of falsification, evasion, temporizing or shifting our gaze from Spain to other climes will wipe out these facts.

As an ex-serviceman, I cannot too strongly condemn a tendency expressing itself most strongly in certain religious and financial groups, to extend clemency and forgiveness to the greatest criminals in history. Franco Spain is harboring war criminals to-day. She is the centre of a network of fascist propaganda, which has for years been stretching its tentacles into the fertile ground of South America. That these efforts have not been without result is evidenced in Argentina. If we allow fascism to go unhindered we will have fought this war in vain.

All those individuals with malicious axes to grind, who would, at this stage, wage calumnious campaigns against the Soviet Union are performing a disservice to humanity. Methinks they will reap the whirlwind, as did Hitler and the other anti-Soviet boys. As a parting shot—I wonder whether the separation of Church and State in Poland has something to do with your attitude. Miss Nowak?

Henry M. Rosenthal,
I. Soc. & Phil.

ULTRA MODERNA...

Nuevo tipo de crema de afeitar

SIN BROCHA
para afeitadas diarias

Proporciona afeitadas suaves y rápidas—ayuda a evitar la irritación

Una buena afeitada a ras de piel, es un detalle importante para la elegancia tan necesaria hoy para tener éxito. Pero no resulta siempre conveniente afeitarse cada día de la semana—y puede causar irritaciones dañinas en una piel delicada.

Por eso aumentan por día los hombres de éxito que se afeitan con la nueva Crema Glider de Williams, que no requiere brocha. La Glider ha sido preparada especialmente para que la afeitada diaria sea cómoda y fácil. La excepcional Glider contiene un ingrediente especial que actúa como una loción—le tonifica la piel mientras se afeita.

"Una afeitada ultra sencilla"

Para usar la Crema Glider, lávese la cara con agua y jabón. Luego, espárzase la crema por la cara usando la punta de los dedos—jamás con brocha—y afeitese. Glider protege la cara. Permite que el filo de la hoja se deslice y corte la barba a ras de piel, sin irritarla ni hierirla.

Fricciónese con el residuo de la crema que quede en la cara. Tiene un ingrediente que actúa como una loción. Da un acabado perfecto a la afeitada y refresca la piel—se siente el cutis más suave y más liso.

IMPORTANT! Send in your translation of this advertisement, with your name and address, to J. B. Williams Co. (Canada) Ltd., Dept. TV-3 LaSalle, Montreal.
We'll send you a big tube of GLIDER, giving you at least 30 days clean, comfortable shaves.

LISTEN TO

"Canada in the Modern World"
by Professor Bertie Wilkinson, M.A., Ph.D.

Dept. of History, University of Toronto

CFRB — Every Sunday — 2:15 p.m.

Copies of Talks available on request

Sponsored on behalf of the Optical Profession by

IMPERIAL OPTICAL COMPANY

Pioneer Canadian Optical Manufacturers

You week-end at the Waldorf

YOU FLY TO NEW YORK AND BACK YOU GET $50.00 POCKET MONEY
(or the equivalent of this trip in cash)
That is the grand prize which you may win at the

Friday Feb. 8th

BIG QUIZ DANCE THE QUEENSWAY

It will be great fun because you can answer the questions while you dance. Everybody gets a fair chance and every entry is carefully judged. In case of a tie it will be run off at the dance. Decision of the judges is final.

What's more you will be dancing to...

TRUMP DAVIDSON
AND HIS ORCHESTRA

$1.25 per person • Dancing from 9.00

Tickets on sale at
MITFORD TICKET AGENCY, 317 1/2 Bay St.—EL-8530
PROMENADE MUSIC CENTER,
83 Bloor St. West—MI. 2437

Quiz starts at 10 P.M.
Winner announced at Midnight

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22 — 8 P.M.

BIGTIME BASKETBALL

MAPLE LEAF GARDENS

THE DOW

ATHLETICS

MIDLAND MICHIGAN

VS.

THE HAYES

HELLCATS

MERRITTON ONTARIO

—SECOND BIG FEATURE—

TIP TOPS VS. ASSUMPTION COLLEGE PURPLES—WINDSOR

TORONTO

TICKET SALE OPENS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 11

Greys, .50; Greens, 1.00; Blues, 1.50; Courts, 2.00; Rails, 2.50; Boxes, 2.50.

— Get Them at —

Maple Leaf Gardens

Moody's, 90 King St. W.

Frank Stollery's, Bloor and Yonge Sts.

Or at any of the following 7 Tip Top Stores:

580 Bloor St. W.

Lake Shore Blvd.

264 College St.

2453 Yonge St.

613 Danforth Ave.

2928 Dundas St.

247 Yonge St.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club of Toronto on behalf of the Hospital for Sick Children.

Art, Music and Drama

Controversy

There are two schools of thought on the subject of Alexander Brailowsky's playing. Some consider him the world's greatest pianist; others are perplexed by his playing. Last night's concert did not result in a reconciliation of these points of view, but rather it demonstrated that both views have some basis. The controversy is probably a result of one group considering only his many musical virtues while the other takes account only of his vices.

It is easy to see how Brailowsky could win himself a host of ardent admirers. His interpretations of several works last night were just about perfect. For instance Chopin's Waltz in E flat major and the now hackneyed Polonaise in A flat acquired new life in Brailowsky's inspired renditions. And his performance of De Falla's Ritual Fire Dance was masterful. About these compositions, there was no controversy whatsoever.

The other parts of the program, however, gave rise to the old argument. Where Brailowsky's use of rubato added interest to the Chopin, it seemed exaggerated and out of place in Beethoven's Appassionata Sonata. Where his tone sounded right for some pieces, it seemed exceedingly harsh and percussive for others.

After the concert, I spoke to two friends who adopt opposing views on Brailowsky's playing. One said, "I am now completely convinced that the piano is a percussion instrument", while the other kept exclaiming, "What an artist!". It seems that Brailowsky is a matter of taste. Me, I'm on both sides—for a change.

PHILIP FREEDMAN

The T.O. Style

(Continued from Page 5)

ity of a commuter. Now you see him, now you don't. Perhaps one reason for this is the large amount of radio work which he does. He is very fine nevertheless. The fourth man is Steve Samborski, who sent us away when we once tried to interview him. He thought we sounded like his brother, and the interview was a gag. Steve has played around town for some time, his notable period was when he was with Paul Firman. We hope to mention one or two new stars each week, but they seem to be lacking as far as the clarinet is concerned. We might mention Bill Walton, who played with the Rhythmaires about four years ago. He was very good indeed, but we have no idea as to his present whereabouts.

Local News Dept.

This week there is no news because we haven't had the time to go out and get it. We might mention that we are in a band now, (Bill Brampton's, if anybody cares) but, aside from that, and including that, there is nothing to report.

In finishing off for this week, we do appeal for your opinions, by word of mouth or otherwise. What you want, we'll try to give you.

BE SMART-LOOK SMART USE BRYLCREEM

THE PERFECT HAIR DRESSING

● Applied every morning, BRYLCREEM will keep your hair looking smart and well-groomed all day long. The natural oils in BRYLCREEM overcome dandruff and dry scalp, give the hair a healthy, natural lustre without that greasy appearance. All druggists sell BRYLCREEM in the handy, convenient tube. Buy today.

NO GUM • NO SOAP • NO ALCOHOL • NO STARCH

Just Published

LET KNOWLEDGE TO WISDOM GROW

BY

PRESIDENT SIDNEY SMITH

Every student will want to own and read the inspiring Installation Address delivered by our new President last Fall.

.25

The UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESS
BOOK DEPARTMENT

Coming Events

THOMISTIC SOCIETY

The Thomistic Society presents Dr. W. R. Thompson talking on "The Unity Of The Living Organism" an aspect of the problem of science and philosophy.—Sun. Feb. 10, 1946, 2:30 p.m. Brennan Hall.

NEWMAN CLUB

A Communion Breakfast will be held Sunday after the 10 o'clock Mass in the Club House. Mr. P. T. PHELAN, noted Toronto lawyer, will discuss recent developments in the Ontario School Question.

A General Meeting will be held on Sunday night at 9 o'clock.

NOTICE

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA

Rehearsal, Sat., February 9th, 1946. Women's Union Theatre, 79 St. George St., 2 p.m. sharp.

Editorial Encores

(Continued From Page 2)
the Federation. The revival began in the West, but McGill has lately assumed the leadership. Their campus clubs are co-operating on a venture aimed at revitalizing the national student movement. After analyzing the N.F.C.U.S. setup, they decided that its weakness was in its narrow system of representation. Suggestions to help remove the defects include having the delegates elected directly by the students, and holding preliminary meetings at each university, at which reports and recommendations could be drawn up.

At the present it is sufficient for each student to remember the form and objectives of the N.F.C.U.S., and that in the near future this organization will undoubtedly begin its rise as the prime mover within Canadian university life.

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY

Trinity Square

(Off Yonge, 2 below Dundas)

Invites students to join with us in services that combine beauty of worship with progressive Christian action

Regular Sunday services at 8, 9:30, and 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m.

Westminster Central United

117 Bloor Street East

Sunday Services

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.:

Minister:

Rev. J. Bruce Hunter
D.D., LL.D.

Fire-side hour at close of Evening Service.
Students Cordially Invited

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

Huron Street—Just South of Bloor

7 a.m., 8 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Holy Eucharist

11 a.m.—Junior Congregation.

11 a.m.—CHORAL EUCHARIST

Preacher: Rev. Canon C.J.S. Stuart, M.A.

7 p.m.—CHORAL EVENSONG.

Preacher: Rev. J. M. N. Jackson, M.A.

Cordial Welcome To All University Students.

St. Paul's Anglican Church

BLOOR STREET EAST

Rector:

REV. CANON F. H. WILKINSON, M.A., D.D.

8 a.m.—HOLY COMMUNION

CORPORATE COMMUNION

FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

11 a.m.—MORNING PRAYER

Preacher:

The Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, C.M.G., D.D., LL.D.

3 p.m.—BIBLE CLASSES.

7 p.m.—EVENING PRAYER

Preacher:

The Rev. Roland Hill, B.A., L.Th.

Organist:

Charles Peaker, Mus. D., F.R.C.O.

University Students Welcome at All Services

HOLY BLOSSOM TEMPLE

Bathurst Street At Ava Road

at 11:00 a.m.

MAJ. J. ALEX EDMISON

Former UNRRA Adviser to Gen. Eisenhower

will speak on

"EUROPE'S UPROOTED PEOPLES!"

WHAT ABOUT THE JEWS?"

Public cordially invited

Free Bus Service from Bathurst and St. Clair every 15 minutes, commencing at 10:40 a.m. until 11:20 a.m., and leaving the Temple at 12:30 p.m. and 12:50 p.m.

RADIO BROADCAST RABBI FEINBERG, CKEY, SUNDAY, 9:45 A.M.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

First Church of Christ, Scientist

St. George St. at Lowther Ave.

Branch of The Mother Church

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

SUNDAY SERVICES

11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

11 a.m.

February 10th

"SPIRIT"

Wed. Evening Meeting

at 8.00 o'clock

Including Testimonies of Healing through Christian Science

Free Public Reading Room where the Bible and Authorized Christian Science Literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

80 Richmond St. West

LOW HEELS HIT A NEW HIGH!

Just be casual . . . and you couldn't be smarter! Especially if you do your own town-trotting, campus dash-abouting in low heeled lovelies from EATON'S. Like these comfortable California ties of crushed kid in blue, brown, red or brown with white. Sizes 4 to 9 in the group—narrow and medium.

Pair, 7.95

Main Store - Second Floor

T. EATON CO. LIMITED

KNOX CHURCH

Spadina and Harbord

11.00 a.m. — "Labourers with God"

7.00 p.m. — "Religious Perspective"

By REV. F. SCOTT MACKENZIE, D.D., Professor, Presbyterian College, Montreal

8.30 p.m.—"Knox Sunday Fellowship"

Guest Speaker: Rev. George Bell, of China

Guest Soloist: Mrs. G. G. Baster

Students Specially Invited

THE RELIGIOUS SOCIETY OF FRIENDS (QUAKER)

MEETING FOR WORSHIP

on Sunday morning at 11 a.m. AT THE Meeting House, 109 Maitland St. YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO WORSHIP WITH US.

"There, syllabled by silence, let me hear the still small voice which reached the prophet's ear."

JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER

St. Andrew's

KING AND SIMCOE STS.

Minister

Very Rev. Stuart C. Parker, D.D.

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

DR. PARKER

Students specially invited

BLOOR STREET UNITED CHURCH

Corner Bloor and Huron Streets

11 a.m.

Rev. Geo. C. Pidgeon

D.D.

7 p.m.

Rev. Preston MacLeod

M. A.

Sermon:

"THE FIGHT FOR FAITH"

By the choir—at evening service

"JUDAS MACCABAEUS"

Part II—Hallel

6:40 P.M.—ORGAN RECITAL

FREDERICK C. SILVESTER

Organist and Choirmaster

STUDENTS SPECIALLY WELCOME.

NEW CO-EDUCATIONAL CENTRE PROPOSED AS WAR MEMORIAL

The

The Undergraduate Newspaper

THE VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 79 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Monday, February 11, 1946

Pass Arts Is No Tombstone U.C. Debaters Decide 49-28

The government was soundly defeated in the U.C. Parliament debate in the Junior Common Room on Friday afternoon. Its motion, "The Pass Arts course is the tombstone of our civilization", was voted down 49-28 after a heated exchange of views.

The Pass course, subject of a spirited controversy in the editorial and letters columns of The Varsity, was the target for several not too complimentary remarks during the debate, but was strongly upheld by its supporters.

"Pass Arts is nothing but a shallow, narrow play school," stated "Lib" Dingle, first speaker for the government. "The Pass students' aim is 50% and their effort is of the same calibre. Intellectually speaking, they are a resourceless bunch. There are too many students here just to fill in time, and the Pass B. A. is merely a certificate of good behaviour."

Betty Robertson staunchly arose to the defence of the Pass Arts Course. She described the value of the course in its flexibility and wide range of subjects. Many a student finds that "he is drowning in a sea of work beyond his mental capacity" in an honour course, and the Pass course serves as an "intellectual lifebelt."

Myer Brodie eloquently continued his onslaught on, what he termed, the "Bargain Basement B. A.'s". He said that the purpose of University is not to learn that "you shouldn't trump your partner's ace" but to teach men to think. "Only by taking one branch of learning and investigating it fully, can one be considered educated. A Pass Arts graduate is nothing but a Jack-of-all Trades. It is merely a pass port to polite society and a better job."

Norman Rainwasser rallied to the defence of Pass Arts by explaining how Pass Arts allows for individual differences. "In an honour course, the student is forced to follow one rigid pattern, whereas Pass provides a broad liberal education. One need only look to the University of Toronto's recent changes in the curriculum at S.P.S. to see that the value of a liberal education has been realized."

Many speakers from the floor rose to fervently defend or attack the Pass Arts Course. Stefan Stykolt, a visitor from the Victoria Debating Union, said that Pass Arts was a menace to society.

"The role of the University is to teach rational dispassionate thinking which can only be done by the University preserving itself as an island outpost of reason. Pass Arts is an admission of its defeat. The course is like the mouth of the Mississippi, 6 miles wide and 2 inches deep. The tomb of civilization is gaping wide for us to step into," Mr. Stykolt concluded.

Syd Gerard, speaking against the motion, said that the honour courses assume a maturity of mind which does not exist. High school friends find that once they have entered different specialized courses at University, they can no longer speak the same language. Each has developed his own language peculiar to his own course. Mr. Gerard suggested that the Pass Course require the honour standard, with some such name as Liberal Arts so that there would no longer be any stigma attached to the course. "This would provide a broad basis upon which any serious student could continue his specialized interests," he concluded.

UNDER ONE ROOF

The proposed building would house:

- An office for the Alumni Federation.
- An office for the University of Toronto Monthly.
- An office for the Students' Administrative Council with adjoining offices for the secretaries.
- An office for The Varsity news staff and editor.
- An office for the Torontonensis staff.
- A large board room.
- A co-educational common room that would be used for the meetings of all co-educational organizations on the campus such as I.S.S., Medical Arts and Letters, Engineering Clubs, the various political clubs, etc. The common room would have adjoining kitchen.

—Living quarters for the Editor of The Varsity, on the lines of those in the McGill Union for the Editor of the McGill Daily.

—Perhaps three or four guest rooms to be available for the members of the staffs occupying the building and for any guests.

Hart House Bid By School Women

Women students in S.P.S. will soon be canvassing Hart House Members with petition. "We want permission to attend engineering meetings when held there", said Beverley Meridith, third year Electrical Engineering. "It is only the interpretation of the Deed of Gift that needs to be changed, and the Massey Foundation should be made to realize that times have changed. The men of the University each pay 12 dollars a year for the upkeep of Hart House and they should have a say in this matter."

The petition reads as follows: Whereas, it is agreed that the present application of Hart House rules, which permits women to attend social functions but bars them from educational lectures is grossly unfair to women registered in professional courses;—we, the undersigned members of Hart House hereby petition—NOT that Hart House be made co-educational, but that exception be made in the case of women engineering students desiring to attend engineering meetings and lectures.

Speaking for the girls at S.P.S. Miss Dormer Ellis, third year Engineering Physics, said. "We are confident that once this injustice has been brought to the attention of our fellow students, they will back our petition. We are anxious to contact as many members of Hart House as is possible and are expecting support of the men in all faculties."

NOTICE

Junior Blues will play Oshawa at Varsity Arena at 8:00 P.M. TONIGHT. This is the last game of the series which was to be played at Oshawa on Wednesday next. Don't forget—8:00 P.M. to-night.

HART HOUSE AJAX

A shoe repair shop is located in the Personal Services Building No. 709. It will open on Monday, Feb. 11.

A billiard room with eight tables is scheduled to open Monday, Feb. 18, in Building No. 2040.

"Pay Engineer More" Urges Weedon Paper

"I want to be able to create and build without interference", said G. F. C. Weedon to a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers on Friday night. He won first prize for his paper on "Engineering personnel; a long term investment." A first prize was also won by N. R. Buchanan for his paper on "Variable Speed Alternating Current Motors". This paper also won first prize from the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Speaking to the graduate engineers, Mr. Weedon said "I want financial independence and recognition of success for my work." He felt that if engineers were paid more and given a free hand to design, they would be a profitable

(Continued on Page 8)

New Building to House Grads And Undergrads, Varsity, S.A.C, T'nensis

Propose Sharing Costs

Erection of a large, multi-purpose co-educational centre for graduate and undergraduate activities has been proposed as a co-operative venture of the Students' Administrative Council and the Alumni Federation, it was announced last night.

This living war memorial would be financed by those two bodies in conjunction, according to the written recommendation which has been made to the Federation by the S.A.C. through vice-president George Doner.

The plan, outlined by Doner following conversations with President Sidney Smith, calls for "a large building entirely devoted to the graduate and undergraduate offices to be built in the heart of the University campus . . . as a living war memorial erected by the graduates and undergraduates of the University to commemorate their comrades who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Second World War."

Seeking the support of the Alumni Federation for such a memorial, Doner's letter points out the long-felt need for such quarters, accented by conditions on the campus this year.

"The Varsity editorial staff are homeless, the Torontonensis staff is threatened with eviction, the S.A.C. staff is split between Room 82, University College and an entirely inadequate office in Hart House. The Alumni Federation is hidden away in the uninspiring surroundings of the second story of the old house at 43 St. George Street."

On behalf of the S.A.C., Doner approached the President with the Council's plan. In agreement that something should be done towards a building of this kind, Dr. Smith requested the S.A.C. to submit plans and a proposed method of financing the structure to the Property Committee of the Board of Governors for their sanction.

Suggesting that such a building could be "a real co-operative effort of graduates and undergraduates of the University and a fitting War Memorial to those of both groups who made the supreme sacrifice", Doner presents a plan for the equal sharing of the cost.

"We would like the Alumni Federation to consider the possibility of financing half of the capital outlay for this building, with the Students' Administrative Council providing the other half."

Waifs and Strays Demand a Roof

Strains and pressures affecting every phase of the University's extra-curricular life would be resolved by the proposed co-educational center and office building, a survey of existing requirements reveals.

Erection of a new building to house undergraduate and graduate activities would not only furnish a centre for many activities but would solve half-a-dozen separate housing problems.

Need for a place in which co-educational organizations could meet has been felt for many years. Such groups as the Medical Arts and Letters Club and the various political clubs have been constantly cramped by common-room facilities at Wymliwood and at the U.C. Women's Union. Generally requisitioned for club meetings for sheer lack of any other facilities, these rooms are constantly in demand by the students of their own colleges, and in any case are not suited for a meeting at which a speaker is to address a large audience.

Increasing dissatisfaction has lately been voiced by the various Engineering Course Clubs with their traditional Hart House meeting place. Women registered at S.P.S. are unable to attend meetings, and the numbers involved, frequently approaching 200, make other meeting-places inconvenient and expensive.

Hart House officials point out that every meeting of this nature involves diverting a portion of the building from its primary purpose for the evening.

The Students' Administrative Council, charged with the administration of the affairs of 12,000 undergraduates, conducts its business from two inadequate offices and holds its meetings in a third.

Housing service, loans, employment bureau, and the publication of The Varsity and Torontonensis are conducted by the Secretary-Treasurer and a badly-cramped office-staff in a double office on the first floor of Hart House.

Similar services for women undergraduates are administered by a duplicate staff in the basement of University College, and the Council itself meets in the Board Room of the Medical Building.

The Varsity is published from the S.A.C. office, but the editorial work of producing the paper is carried on in a tiny room in University College in which staff members sit at their typewriters on up-ended wastebaskets. Lack of a permanent night-office since leaving the University Press has compelled two temporary locations in as many weeks. At present the night staff is using the Hart House offices of the Students' Administrative Council, and is constantly on the prowl for more permanent quarters.

The editor of the 500-page yearbook, Torontonensis, has never had a permanent office. This year the book is being edited from an upstairs room in Hart House which the yearbook staff shares with the editor of The Varsity. Impossibility of introducing women staff members is a grave disadvantage.

Planning of banquets and reunions, employment service, and the publication of a monthly magazine are among the activities the Alumni Federation is conducting from a three-room suite on the second floor of 43 St. George St.

A front office, a treasurer's office, and an editorial office, all badly-lighted and inaccessible, are all the facilities available for the administration of the university affairs of some 40,000 living graduates. There's also no suitable place for Alumni meetings and get-togethers.

Three or four guest rooms are among the features of the proposed

(Continued on Page 8)

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 4-2a

University CollegeMT. 6611

Business OfficeMT. 6221

Night OfficeMT. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 476
 Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478
 Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
 News Editor.....George Forster, 477
 Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 478
 Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 476
 Assistant.....Reg Herman, 476
 Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor.....Bredin Stapells, 476
 Assistant.....Don Mason, 476
 Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 478
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor.....Phillip Freedman, 476
 Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Monday, February 11, 1946

Spotlighting An Idea

In proposing, as outlined on our front page this morning, that the Alumni Federation go halves with it in financing a living war memorial to be used by graduates and undergraduates alike, the Students' Administrative Council is, perhaps unwittingly, proposing to dramatize the true theory of a university.

The idea of a university is that it is a corporate body. It is not a school, nor a staff, nor a collection of buildings; not a teaching machine nor even a learning machine. It is a corporate body dedicated to study.

The corporate body has graduate and undergraduate members. The undergraduate members are on probation; when they have manifested the proper qualifications, they are received into the ever-expanding body of graduate members.

Graduation, in other words, is not the end; it is the beginning, not only of mature life but of full-fledged membership in the University.

The undergraduate commonly forgets this fact; he regards the graduates as those who have gone through the mill and departed, not as a body into whose ranks he is petitioning for inclusion.

The graduate also commonly forgets that he is a member of the university; too often he thinks of the University as a school which he attended for several years, but has now outgrown.

The undergraduate is wrong in thinking of the university as something which he will some day leave behind; the graduate is wrong in thinking of it as something which he has left behind. Yet everything in the present physical structure of the university induces men to this error.

As always, a wrong theory breeds a whole host of bad results. It is the graduate body who should be embarked on that program of research which is so often lamented as a missing or unemphasized feature of the university. It is the graduates who should be constantly devoting themselves to the upkeep and advancement of the institution to which they belong. The life of the university should center far more than at present in the graduate membership.

The proposed co-educational center for graduate and undergraduate activities has multiple advantages so obvious as to be not worth laboring; provision of proper quarters for the S.A.C., The Varsity and Torontonensis, and the activities of the Alumni Federation is one advantage. Bypassing of the currently notorious Hart House deadlock on meetings involving students of both sexes is another.

But we think in the long run the greatest advantage of all would be the dramatization of the joint function of graduates and undergraduates as members of the University.

There has been plenty of publicity about the deplorable housing of undergraduate activities. The Varsity, largest and most important extra-curricular activity on the campus, crams its staff into a tiny, dingy, poorly-lighted cubby-hole by day and compels them to portage typewriters to constantly-shifting temporary quarters by night.

Torontonensis, the 500-page yearbook mirroring in text and pictures every phase of campus activity, is holding on by its teeth to a Hart House office under constant threat of eviction.

The S.A.C. is split between two inadequate offices.

And the need for a co-educational common-room is increasingly glaring. Too many organizations are being compelled to too many makeshifts.

The Alumni Federation has other, less-publicized problems. Operating from a dingy upstairs suite on lower St. George St., it has no contact with undergraduates until a few days before the June convocation. Its monthly magazine is edited amid continual interruptions from an inadequate office. Its services to the 40,000 living graduates are conducted from quarters far smaller than those which the S.A.C., with only 12,000 students to look after, finds miserably cramped.

The proposed memorial building will solve all these troubles, and others. And it will keep the true idea of the university alive.

"Varsity Editorials Follow Narrow Muddled Trend"
—CAMPUS, Feb. 7, 1946

"It seems that the editorials of The Varsity can be suffered for only so long. Then they prove an explosive reaction."

Janitors report that several fragments of exploded student muck with tattered morsels of reactionary Varsity have been found in classrooms. Professors have been complaining of the continual popping of irate student during lectures.

"The appearance of three editorials 'On Schooling' (how inappropriate) touches off the spark."

BANG ! ! ! ! ! Barn those students !

The remedy consists of cutting off the head—not the nose—to spite the face.

On some faces, that would look good.

"Without it (compulsory education) the children would have been at work long ago to contribute to the family coffers."

Poor malnourished little beggars, working their overstrained hearts out in dank ill-lighted salt mines. And for what?—Buckley's cough syrup!

"Let the editor of The Varsity recall the days before compulsory education."

Goo! Glug-glug-glug.

"The state teaches morals and provides culture which, The Varsity says, are none of its ed business."

Yessir, let the State cultivate the young'uns. A harrowing tale indeed. But let them plough ahead.

Is that a plough I see before me? The handle toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee.

I have thee not, and yet I see thee still.

And on thy blade and hanged, gouts of mud, Which was not so before.

"We feel degraded at having to descend to this low level of argument."

Going down! Girdles, shoes, flashlight batteries. Mind the doors, please! Yes, lady, I'd be glad to mind them—50 cents an hour.

"We accuse the editor of The Varsity of heaving to a narrow prejudiced editorial policy."

Chop, Chop, Chop, well all right! "He cannot be made to account for his beliefs; he is entitled to hold them."

Picture that editor, passionately clutching his beloved beliefs to his bosom—Bosome Muchos.

"Letters to the editor are not enough."

No. Blackmail will never work. We must capture this varlet on one of his furtive visits to the S.E.M.I.-N.A.R., encase him in a block of reactionary concrete, and drop him bubbling into the murky depth of the Don.

"Only in that way can The Varsity, which is supposed to reflect all views, represent the true spirit of this campus."

Hic!

—LIBID & TIDDYWEE.

Thomistic Group Hear Thompson

"The Thomist approach to the study of nature is almost exactly the same as that of the working scientist, though both differ radically from the attitude of the dominant modern philosophies," said Dr. Thompson, Director of the Institute of Entomology, Belleville, and Doctor of Philosophy, yesterday.

Addressing the Thomistic Society at Brennan Hall, on "The Unity of the Living Organism," Dr. Thompson outlined Thomistic thought and its application to science. "Thomist philosophy is essentially realist," it asserts that there is an external world, existing outside the mind, and the senses with respect to their proper objects are infallible; we actually know what things are. Science would be impossible if this were denied.

Dr. Thompson concluded with a plea to modern scientists to carry on the problem of the unity of the living organism, as it is of fundamental importance to the health and survival of western civilization.

IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE! OR CAN IT?

Keep Up To Date

ON

JAP-CANADIAN ISSUE

OPEN FORUM

Economics Bldg.

Thurs., Feb. 14

University Symphony Orchestra

Hans Gruber, Conductor

Will Present

TWO CONCERTS

—at—

CONVOCATION HALL

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 20th.

GEORGE CRUM, Pianist

Guest Artist

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist

Guest Artiste

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

S.C.M. NEWS

(Keep for Reference)

February 11 to 17

WORLD'S STUDENT CHRISTIAN FEDERATION WEEK

Tuesday—3 p.m. Room 101 Biology Bldg. "The Fact of Suffering"—Rev. D. Candy.

Wednesday—1.30 p.m. Victoria College Chapel "Implications of our Faith"—Rev. J. Finlay.

Thursday—1.30 p.m. Trinity College Board Room "Art and Worship"—Dean Lynden Smith.

4.15 p.m. Wycliffe College Chapel CAMPUS-WIDE SERVICE OF WORSHIP.

Friday—4.15 p.m. U.C. Women's Union. Speaker—Dr. W. R. Taylor.

Sunday—Universal Day of Prayer for Students (Special observance in city churches) 8.30 p.m.—Coffee Party, Women's Union.

ALL MEETINGS OPEN TO ALL STUDENTS

Hart House Bulletin Board

Undergraduate Exhibition of Art

Members of Hart House are reminded that entries for the Undergraduate Exhibition of Art, which will be on view in the art gallery from 13th to 27th February, must be handed in to the Warden's office by 6 p.m. today.

Glee Club

The regular rehearsal of the Glee Club takes place today at 5 p.m. in the Music Room. Nominations will be received for next year's committee.

PARTY PICTURES

PRESS PHOTOS OF YOUR SPECIAL EVENT
25c per 5" x 7" Glossy.

Proofs often back same night. Make reservations for March now. Some February nights open

PHONE JACK, RA 7970

SR. BLUES VICTORIOUS AT QUEEN'S

The

The Undergraduate Newspaper

Varsity

VOL. LXV—No. 79 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Monday, February 11, 1946

DEBATERS FROM CORNELL ASK JEWISH IMMIGRATION

Last of the current school year, the first inter-collegiate debate since war's outbreak will oppose two Jewish debaters against two Gentiles on the subject, "Resolved that there should be unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine."

From Cornell University came David Geiger and Alvin Arnold to oppose Bill Lyons, St. Michael's College, and Marie Bond, Victoria College, at 7:45 tonight in Trinity College's Strachan Hall.

The two Brooklynites visiting Toronto prompted a "You'll probably find they're a pair of very cute debating Dodgers" from S.A.C. Debates Commissioner Graham Cotter.

Referring to the word "unrestricted" in the resolution Geiger said, "I saw immediately that a case could be made on that word, but I believe a debate should be on the whole wording or nothing at all."

Geiger expressed that he feels strongly about the whole subject, is debating a matter which agrees entirely with his sentiments.

Clerks of the House will be Sandy McKay and Bob Singer; tellers, Sally Giovetti, Joan Morris, Ian Alger and Monte Simmonds.

On normal parliamentary procedure, the debate affords the opportunity to speak from the floor to guests President Sidney Smith, Provost R. S. K. Seelye, Principal Taylor, Professor Saunders and Professor Enfield.

Explaining the parliamentary procedure to the American participants Cotter said, "The judging system may be helpful to the individual but . . ."

"We ask the house to vote according to the way you have been persuaded."

Victoria Students Try Essay Contest

An essay contest, under examination conditions, will be held at Victoria College this Saturday, February 16th, from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. First prize will be $30.00, and there

25 Years Ago in Varsity

STUDENTS IN SPATS

By Eleanor Dickson and Joyce Pratt

"Feb. 11, 1921—Professors have devised a plan to ensure engineer's punctuality at nine o'clock classes."

"In days gone by, the Skuleman loved to trip the light fantastic till the wee small hours. As a result, he did not feel his faculties were in good order until 10 a.m. at which time he consented to enter the Little Red Schoolhouse."

"Now however, Mr. Schoolman walks in the door punctually at 9:00, walks up to a little machine, and recalling his number punches the time when he goes in. At 9:15 the ingenious little machines are removed—he gets no attendance for that day who for any reason comes in after the quarter-hour."

(In 1946 such a device would be useless as staid and serious engineers are far removed from their frivolous ancestors.)

Just 25 years ago Varsity was buzzing like the local beehive with:

—Final plans for the Carolina Tower.

—A 9-3 Varsity Sharpshooters victory over McGill.

—the vogue of bowlers and spats (none as yet had dreamed up earmuffs and diamond socks).

—the "flappers" drooling as Booth Tarkington played in "Claire Beau".

—prices diving to $2.95 for suits of long wooley underwear, and 69c for a pair of the latest-from-New-York ladies' black cashmere hosiery.

Today we think that radar-reaching for the moon is a far-reaching achievement, but in '21 they said of wireless research: "New developments in the measuring of the strength of receiving signals are being made in connection with the Signal Service in Ottawa. This most scientific invention is receiving a prominent place in Skule research."

Perhaps settled now for one war, in 1921 students had a war of their own for which to provide a Memorial. The great controversy over the Memorial Arch gave much voice to dedicating the Memorial to scholarship. Final plans gave us our currently-familiar Arch and Tower.

To win one game in '21 (the year '21, that is) was a real feat due to irregular and inconsistent practices. The solution was found in the erection of Varsity Arena.

Star reporter of '21, The Varsity's Ebenezer Plumtre interviewed the typical co-ed to ascertain if co-eds made the best wives:

"How perfectly thrilling," she gushed, "but you know a lot depends on the man." I am sure I couldn't make a good wife for a barber or a coal-heaver. You know I have my own idea of a man; I have it all planned out including the color of his eyes, but I can't quite decide the color of his hair."

So Mr. Plumtre realized that even in those days it wasn't a question of the wife at all—it depended on the husband.

After all didn't anatomy quacks of the day believe that "if your toes turned out or your ears had too prominent a place in your anatomy—your life would be miserable."

will be three other cash prizes. In addition, Bursar J. W. Little will award books to the man in residence whose essay is judged best.

Themes will be drawn from wide fields such as Education, Government, Current Events, Art, Religion, Philosophy, History and Science. "Essays will be judged by their quality in the following combination: Information, Thinking, Organization, Expression."

This contest is open to all undergraduates of Victoria College, candidates must leave their names with the Registrar by 5:00 p.m. Thursday.

WHY DOESN'T THE T.T.C. USE PLANES?

(By BOB COOKE)

The president of a certain Southern college is deaf, a condition which certain wily students, arriving late for classes, have learned to their advantage.

Raising his voice for certain words and lowering it on others, a student will proclaim: "I am sorry I was late this morning. I wish I could say that The Street Car Broke Down—but I can't."

"As the street car broke down", the president replies, "you are excused."

But unfortunately U. of T. professors aren't deaf, and sorry is his plight for whom it is the morning after the night before. Few are the occasions when one can honestly say "the street car broke down".

Last year during the big storm the street cars broke down and the students who struggled through their lectures had absolutely watertight excuses. Great was the weeping and gnashing of teeth when they found that the lectures were cancelled anyway.

But on normal occasions it is easy to imagine a person living at

Senior Blue Hoopmen Split Weekend Honors

Return Match Next Week

The Senior Intercollegiate Basketball Blues team came home with a win and a loss after their week-end sojourn to McGill and Queen's. The Montrealers nosed out the Varsity squad by a 40-39 count in the McGill Gymnasium Friday night. Saturday the Blues, taking the loss to heart, came through with a 63-36 win over the Tricolour.

Coach Roy Dilworth said he was not dissatisfied with the setback at McGill. "Next week" he said "if we're at full strength I'll be the most surprised man in Hart House if we don't beat them and by at least ten points."

The quintet was anything but at its strongest on the trip. Captain Gord Wallace was out of the games because of illness, while three others, Zeaton, Scott, and Cranham played with slight injuries. This forced the players to work a slightly different type of game.

The winners were hotter than they've been all season according to their coach, Lou Davies. They looked it. Especially their defensive work. It almost completely stopped the Varsity fast breakaway which usually counts for no small amount of the Blues' points.

Colin Cranham came within a few inches of tying the game on a free shot in the last fifteen seconds of play. He was fouled as he jumped to score the basket which brought the score to 40-39. The two points counted and the capacity house breathlessly watched the pill soar to the left of the hoop and trickle off to the side.

The boys on both teams kept the L.S.-M.F.T. slogan uppermost in their minds—meaning here of course Long Shots Make Fine Total. These shots were being tossed with about the frequency of W.K. B.W. (high id est).

Finlay was doing most of this set-shooting for the redmen and continually kept the visitors worried. His most sensational basket was shot from the centre of the court. It almost brushed the dust off the ceiling before curving through the mesh for a doubleton.

Whitey Clayton, who was high scorer for Varsity with ten points, did most of the distance work for the Blues, as well as playing a superb defensive game.

Wally Zeaton should have been around in the days of Vaudeville. He continually vexed and perplexed the homesters with his antics. He copped two points in his amazing see-I-can-do-it-without-looking style. Of course he may be a trifle lucky on these shots but the McGill boys are still trying to figure where he wears the radar set.

The Blues took an early 6 point lead in the game only to be overtaken by the redmen who got on top of a 22-13 score. The play evened off to a McGill 24, Varsity 22 score at the half.

The Quebec players just managed to keep a couple of points ahead nearly all through the second canto. The Blues briefly held a two point edge and did everything they could to protect it, including ragging the ball for some two or three minutes while the 2000 McGill fans booed loudly and made with rhythmic clap-clap.

The mounting tension caused more and more fouls as the players became slightly overzealous. Twenty-four fouls were called in the game, twelve on each team. McGill sank their first seven straight and made 9 of their 12 good. Varsity hooped half of their dozen.

George Davidson sparked the winners all through the game. He came up with 11 point and set up several other basket-counting plays.

Lineups

Varsity: Maycol (7), Spry (3), Fountain (2), Thompson (9), Gibson, Scott, Cranham (4), Zeaton (5), Clayton (10).

McGill: Davidson (11), Bower (6),

(Continued on Page 5)

Socially Slanted Schools Seen For Super Scholars

"Canadian teachers do not play as important a part in social life as do educators in Scandinavian countries which are more progressive," said Mrs. M. M. Kirkwood as a prelude to Monday's Education lecture.

To be held in Room 8, University College, at 5 p.m., Mrs. Kirkwood's lecture, the last of the current series, will deal with the importance of teachers in society and their need in the post-war reconstruction era.

"In Denmark," continued Mrs. Kirkwood, "Folk High-Schools have become increasingly common, and are restricted to students over 18 years of age. The founders of these schools believed that the desire for learning should be intense.

"To create the idea of personal education, teachers are very important. In our system, education is forgotten as life goes on."

In the preamble to UNESCO, at London, it was stated that war must take a secondary place in men's minds and be replaced by peace.

Said Mrs. Kirkwood: "In order to achieve this high goal, all teachers must co-operate to make education doubly effective."

Internee's Letter Lauds I.S.S.

The following letter was received from a former Camp Leader in a Civilian Internment Camp who has now been released.

"The whole environment bears heavily on the minds of the internees. Diversion of dull camp life is the only solution. Many commandants and the Government of the detaining power recognized this and gave every assistance and sponsored such activities by which the minds of the internees were fully occupied.

But all these endeavours would have been futile had there not been the International Student Service to supply the many study books for educational work. You supplied books to the camp which enabled many an internee to continue with studies so vitally important for his future life, which had come to an abrupt halt due to his internment. Many internees started new studies which enable them to a speedy rehabilitation after their release from internment. It seemed at times that the whole camps seemed to have been transformed into a large school, the internees going to classes or coming from classes. All the space in the camp was utilised for educational purposes. And all the students and teachers using books or material so generously supplied by you.

With great satisfaction did I notice how internees, usually very irritable and nervous, would become calm and restful in mind when they started studies with books mostly supplied by you. This served as a dominating factor in the administration of a smooth running camp.

Therefore, as a tribute, to your work, to your staff, and to your organization, please accept, on behalf of all internees, our sincerest thanks. We have had many internees of different nationalities, but all are uniform in the praise of the work you have done by which everybody benefited so immensely."

New & Entrenous

Staff Stuff

By Ross McLean

From 42-A

Everyone here is feeling overwhelmingly self-conscious these days, to be expected, we think, of any target.

It seems suddenly opportune to tell you about us. We have wanted to do it for some time but have hesitated; why, we couldn't say.

An F. W. Woolworth weighing machine card which assured us (incorrectly, we later discovered) that we amounted to 163 pounds also told us that we were "rather open about affairs of friends". And that seems to hit the male on the head. Now you know.

Let's go!

A lot of developing mix has gone down the bathtub since William Hugh Kenner, his camera and his "anachronistic" ideas came to University College from Peterborough in the especially-fallen fall of 1941.

He had done a high school column in the Peterborough Review, seemed fitted for a fine, extra-curricular career as a Varsity staffer.

The Fate of the Fourth Estate turned him away from the typewriter and found him covering campus events through the photographers' lens more often than from behind the reporters' copy pad during his first two years here.

As staff photographer for The Varsity, The Undergraduate and Torontonensis, his emaciated figure became familiar campus-wide.

Continuing his camera campus covering in his third year, he was recruited as a Cat creator. He became a prolific contributor of polished prose to The Undergraduate Newspaper and in his fourth year of honor English became Feature Editor as well as Editor of Torontonensis.

Pert Peggy Bates, who in September stepped into the moccasins of the Women's Editor, entered journalism three summers ago as head copy "boy" at Toronto's CP bureau, rose to Canadian Press' feature service and rewrite desk in her second season there. Last summer she did publicity work for the National Film Board.

"Still Punchy"

News Editor George Forster first served The Varsity during the regime of Mike O'Mara (now on the New York bureau of CP). That was in 1940. Sociology-student Forster, after a year of college and covering interfaculty sports for this paper, enlisted in the R.C.A.F. and went overseas to practice radio mechanics in "limeyland".

Reflecting, Forster finds no difference between 1946 and 1940 mastheads. "No difference — still punchy!"

A Varsity contributor from his college days in 1938, John Rooke's journalistic experience has been broad. He was associate editor of Canadian Forum. Returned from three and a half years overseas, Rooke is Rewrite Editor, full-time, and Jake, part-time. He's in Philosophy.

From last year's Sports Department came Peg Wallace, a Bachelor of Arts, P. & H.E. and what-have-you, to assume the duties of Make-up Editor in the expanded Varsity. Active in I.S.S. and athletics, Peg is demonstrating in science labs prior to entering Medicine.

Blanche Stanley, assisting on the news desk, is Brooklyn-born and British-raised, a Varsity veteran of three years standing or, to be more descriptive, running. She graduates in English this year.

Radio, journalism and the Signal Corps have occupied us alternately since 1941. We were a year on the reporting staff of The Brantford Expositor, seven months with The London Free Press and have allowed radio work to straddle three summers, amounting to a year of announcing, writing and producing at CKPC. That's us. We're a Pass person.

Reg Herman, assistant in the Feature Department, may find his future in the family's furs. Feature

(Continued on Page 8)

Inventory Time

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE

TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m. a 2:30 p.m.

b 7:45 a.m. b 3:55 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

(b—except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m. 8:40 a.m.

7:30 a.m. 9:30 a.m.

and every hour

on the half hour

until 10:30 p.m.

Also 11:40 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES

Bay at Dundas—Adelaide 4221

Champus Cat Has Had Mercurial Popularity

Champus Cat, which catapulted to nation-wide fame during its sapphire period under the supervision of wit-cracking feline-trainers Frank Shuster and Johnny Wayne, has sagged in appeal.

In early questionnaires there is detected a definite anti-Cat trend. Typical suggestion: "Donate Champus Cat to the Mayor's rat-catching campaign."

Pardoned from this destiny are the cats of Jake and Woo. The product of all other Cat-authors, it would appear, has deteriorated The Varsity's traditional humor column.

The Cat today is 24, long past its ninth life and can perhaps be forgiven if it has slipped.

In the fall of 1922 an alleged typographical error brought it into existence. It soon became an indispensable part of The Varsity, clinging to its editorial page berth and often outdrawing The Editorial for readers.

During Champus Cat's "salad days" it was given to the short epigrammatic gag and, indefatigably, to the pun and a morsel of nonsense verse.

Garpard McGuffey and cohorts arrived in 1929 to deliver resuscitation and lift the Cat from its doldrums.

As the roaring twenties skidded to a stop the first traces of satirical prose appeared.

Such stalwarts as the Muddy Yorker, Chaz, Winkie and Shrdlu concocted countless inane cats but in the next few years the Cat slipped again.

Cat fans accepted their pun-ishment patiently and waited, waited, waited.

Came 1936.

The curtain rose on the Golden Era of the Cat.

It was in this year that authors of the column turned to satire, parody, the fake news story and fantasy.

Umlauf Wiregarters, The Raven (who is today's Jake, back from a war somewhere) and others took charge.

Tirelessly this combination manufactured their side-splitting daily quota of satire and fantasy. The Cat, blinking from the summits of college humor, was hailed throughout North America.

Exchange papers on all campi began to reprint Varsity writers' output.

"The finest college humor column in America," saluted Bob Carney, then feature columnist of the Fordham Ram.

That Champus Cat has today descended to laugh-less depths of gloom is not solely to the shame of the Feature Editor.

The alchemy of talent that produces Cats of consistently high calibre seems to be absent.

Can any, we keep asking, reader help?

E. R. M.

St. Valentine's Day

February 14th

Valentine gifts expressly designed to help you play Cupid. Handsome handbags . . . dainty handkerchiefs . . . pretty housecoats . . . fascinating jewellery as well as countless other items — all of them gifts she'll love for their beauty and lasting loveliness.

Evangeline

- 113 Yonge at Adelaide
 - 751 Yonge at Bloor
 - 1458 Yonge at St. Clair
 - 3414 Yonge at City Limits
 - 444 Eglinton W. at Castleknock
 - 656 Danforth at Pape
- In Hamilton—King and John Sts.

Radio

A Network Airing For U. of T. Reviews?

Possibility that outstanding musical and dramatic productions of The University of Toronto may be given professional presentation over an American network, has arisen following receipt of a letter from the National Concert and Artists Corporation.

"In our ever-present search for new radio programs," writes Danile S. Tuthill, vice-president of the Corporation, "we are considering the possibility of a series of broadcasts repeating outstanding college musical shows and college dramatic productions of recent years. These would be condensed to fit the time requirements of a half-hour program and performed by a professional cast."

One or more of this campus' musical comedy reviews—Skule Nite, Dentanties, Daffydil Nite, U.C. Follies and the Vic Bob—would possibly be eligible.

Were the scripts and scores of past productions of any of these shows (or of any original dramatic presentations) available, these could be submitted to the N.C.A.C. for consideration.

The series seems currently in embryonic stages. Should such a series of programs prove feasible to the Corporation, it would be regrettable if this University were not to be represented by one of its productions.

Lamentable factor is the unavailability in too many cases of past scripts and scores. Could one or several be tailored for ready submittal, it is probable that the material would prove suitable.

Publicity value to The University of Toronto, thus gained, would be great.

—E. R. M.

City Rats By-Pass This Campus, Seek Other Havens In Toronto

By John McRae

"Rats? We have no rats!" said A. D. Lapan, superintendent of the University of Toronto.

No rats? How can that be? The University in all its tunnels, and other potential rat-holes. And still no rats. It hugeness, with all its buildings old and new, with its maze of seems impossible. What control has the University of Toronto over rats? Could Mayor Saunders discover this mysterious power?—his troubles would be over. He would even save $300.

The secret is out! The rats are afraid of the University.

The first thing a Toronto rat learns is to stay away from the University of Toronto. Go anywhere else—the City Hall, the Don Jail, the Yonge Street Mission, any place but the University. For here are the Experimental Laboratories where no self-respecting rat can call his soul his own. It is a veritable Dachau for rats. The tortures which go on inside its walls make any rat's blood run cold. Strange tales leak out, how a rat is placed before a round hole and a square hole. From previous experience he knows that if he goes through the round hole he will get a piece of food, and if he goes through the square one he'll land in some fiendish device. So he goes through the round hole. He has been tricked! He finds himself on a queer rounded floor, which slopes up before and behind him. He starts up the incline; the darn thing moves with him and he falls on his face. Next time he takes a run at it. Again he starts to lose his balance and he runs faster. The floor moves with him panic comes upon him and he races with all his might. Four hours later the emaciated shadow of what was once a rat is brought forth, measured, weighed and put away till he begins to feel like a rat again;

Now at heart a rat is a gambler. He doesn't mind taking a chance for food as long as there is a reasonable opportunity of getting it. Moreover a smart rat can detect most of the ordinary traps and so the most cunning and enterprising live to a ripe old age.

It is like a system of free enterprise where the risk is high. But the rat that ends up in a Lab literally doesn't know whether he is coming or going. Men in white control his life. They prod him and push him; they hang him and drown him. They involve him in contraptions and run him ragged on treadmills. His whole life is one of confusion and fear. Not only do they interfere with his physical freedom, but they pry into his sex life. There is a Board of Marital Relations for rats and when two rats of the opposite sex become bored and peevish with each other they are put into a little cage and their reactions tabulated. Imagine!

There was once a fifth column rat. His name was Otto. He lived in a large cage with the most despondent rats and, when they used to try to drown themselves in a nearby goldfish bowl, he would scoop them out for future reference. As far as is known he is the only rat who ever reconciled himself to life in the Labs.

The others live in constant hope of escape. Anything is preferable to this life of maddening captivity, and whenever a free rat wanders by they tell him so. Long ago the free rats stopped wandering by. The thought that they might someday land in a similar position is too much for them.

So the University of Toronto has no rats. Well hardly any.

Sr. Blues' Victory

(Continued from Page 3)

Welseberg, Hoyle (7), Finlay (6), Greenburg (9), Roth (1), Shacter, Murray.

Queen's was different

Queen's stuck fairly well with the Varsityites through the first half, but their playing fell apart in the second semester. They fell farther behind until the game ended with the 63-36 score.

The tricolor team was greatly handicapped by the loss of their star player McDonnell who broke his hand in the game with Western last week. He scored 17 of the Queen's 42 points in the junket here several weeks ago.

The Blues were clicking on their pass plays much better than in the McGill battle and several of these brought clapping (not rhythmic) from the crowd.

The Varsity quintet took an early lead in the game which they lost only briefly in the game. The score at half time stood at Varsity 28—Queen's 23. In the second half Varsity pulled away.

Zeaton again gave a superb performance, playing the whole 40 minutes. Fountain was high-scorer for Varsity with 12 points. Devitt was the outstanding player for the Tri-color netting 13 points.

Line-ups:

Varsity:—Mayzel (8), Fountain (12), Gibson (8), Spry (10), Cranham (3), Thompson (11), Zeaton (7), Clayton (4).

Queen's:—Devitt (13), Mason (4), Finlay (6), Hewitson, Moss, (2), Brown (4), Cooper (1).

Vignette

"Dear—"

Mac wasn't happy today. Mac never is demonstratively merry, but he's got character and something of a platform founded on the premises of Canada's being the best country in the world to live in and a fellow's being pretty lucky to be a citizen, and it keeps him looking cheerful. His world's a little broader than a slide rule and he doesn't fly off the handle about Russia and Franco.

I asked Mac what had happened. Did a close relative kick the bucket? Did he play crap and lose, or did his best co-ed say "No!" Or didn't he think the Javanese stood a chance of getting national autonomy.

"Oscar," said Mac, "I've found it! So help me, I've found it."

"Found what? A flat for $25.00 a month? Rent me the closet and we'll move in—Molly, baby and me."

I thought that was funny but Mac didn't crack a smile. "Do you remember that time capsule they made up several years ago and buried under the corner stone of a building? They put various items of testimony to our civilization into the thing: a watch, a stick of chewing gum, a whodunit, and so on. Something for future anthropologists to go by in case our civilization becomes extinct."

I remembered vaguely but didn't say and Mac went on. "Well, I've found the one single thing that should have been sufficient. The complete revelation, a master key. It oughta've been engraved in timeless bronze, and sealed in a time capsule by itself. It's as good as volumes of economics. We should have a lot of engravings made and if the guys from Mars ever radio us for something to represent our way of living by, there would be no further problem!"

"Look, old boy, you're waxing dramatic and the suspense is killing me."

"It's in top style this. Approved commercial form-like the composition teacher taught. It's got a gentle introduction, a sock story and a consolation finish. It's like O Henry. Full of drama, pathos, hopelessness, defeat, abject indifference, promise . . . It's ten years between 1929 and 1939. It went through more impressions than any best seller. It's the history of the next ten years . . . maybe more."

Mac unzipped his brief case and took out a sheaf of papers, handed me one with. "This one is just about as typical as any . . ."

It was one of those mimeographed letters with a space left for an address and a salutation that starts "Dear—" and all the stenographer does is insert, "Mr. Smith . . ." to make it personal. The sheet read:

"Thank you for your letter of recent date regarding the possibility of employment with the organization."

"At the present time we are not hiring any employees with your specific qualifications. We have, however, placed your application on file under your job classification card, and at such time as we may need any additional help, we will so advise you."

Gentle introduction, sock story and consolation ending.

You see, Mac's been sounding out possibilities for earning a few shekels this summer to supplement the sixty bucks a month for the next term!

OSCAR HALINA.

"Stage 46" Analysed

The CBC has survived more criticism, derision and distrust than, perhaps, any broadcasting system in existence. Whether it be as a consequence of this treatment, or in spite of it, the Corporation is developing into one of the finest networks in the world and, insofar as expression of ideas goes, the only one of its kind.

Radio's perennial problem of maintaining an impartiality of conduct has been solved by two well-known alternatives. The first one, for which commercial broadcasting has a religious proclivity, is the avoidance of all controversial matter (which is to say, all subjects worth intelligent discussion) thereby saying nothing at all.

The other alternative is to permit, within the bounds of expediency, the widest possible expression of views, which the CBC, under the constant fire of the public as well as various special interests, has been pursuing with a "bloody but unbowed" determination.

In the pursuance of this policy the Corporation has accomplished at least one admirable achievement in "Stage 46", the Sunday evening dramatic program. Amidst the scarcity in this country of other outlets for the development of creative art—such as large magazines or theatres—Stage 46 is rapidly developing into one of the finest and most original radio theatres going. I do not know of a single parallel on this continent, and I am aware of Norman Corwin and the CBS Workshop. It is natural that the program should demand a high degree of skill from its contributors, nevertheless, Andrew Allan, its producer, has always welcomed the output of new and unrecognized writers in Canada. In the meantime Stage 46 has already attracted a small but brilliant group of young artists who are laying the foundation for a distinctive Canadian literature. Len Peterson, who wrote "Burlap Bags", is one of these new lights. The play referred to was so good I would not hesitate to place it beside some of Voltaire's immortal satire, and without apologies. There are others: Lister Sinclair, whose "Play on Words" recently won an American award and whose "Why We All Hate Toronto" is still being talked about; Fletcher Markle, who has been invited by Columbia for a short series of presentations on their Workshop. Gerald Noxon, whose "Canned Thought" was presented over the CBC several Sundays ago and left listeners agast by its daring fire at America's number one reading habit, the condensed and digested magazine.

In our humble circumstances of growing nationhood, in which mediums of expression for original creative talent are scarce, Stage 46, with its capacity for handling a comparatively great amount of writers' output, is, I hope, believe, heralding the birth of a viable, courageous and enduring Canadian Drama. In the chorus of criticism, and protestation, over why hasn't Canada got her own Jack Benny, some applause is in order.

—OSCAR HALINA.

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. WEST OF UNIVERSITY AVE.

ALL THIS WEEK

Evgs. (8:20) Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

Return Visit by Popular Request

Evgs. 90c - $1.25 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00
Mats. Wed.-Sat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80
All Tax Included.

Box Office Open 10 A.M. to 10 P.M.
NO PHONE ORDERS

Smoke the mild
cigarette

OPEN MEETING
8.00 P.M.

WOMEN'S UNION

LESLIE
BLACKWELL

WED.
FEB. 13

PROGRESSIVE-CONSERVATIVE
CLUB

University of Toronto Debating Union TORONTO - CORNELL DEBATE

TOPIC — "Resolved that there should be unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine."

Time:- TONIGHT, 8 p.m.

Place:- STRACHAN HALL, TRINITY COLLEGE

Affirmative — CORNELL

Alvin Arnold
David Geiger

Negative — TORONTO

Bill Lyon
Marie Bond

BLUES vs QUEEN'S ★ ★

HOCKEY - TUESDAY

8.00 P.M. • V. A. • FREE

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

Intercollegiate Swimming Team:

At the Athletic Nite of Feb. 23 the Varsity Intercollegiate swimming team will make their debut. On that night bathing beauties from McGill, Queen's, Western, will compete in Hart House pool for the Intercollegiate title.

The Blue and White team should carry off not a few honors . . . the top winners of the interfaculty meet are members of the team . . . Jackie Manser, Marg. Dale, Barb Hinchcliffe, Maureen Martin and Sue Gray.

So make a note in your little brown bible to witness the first post-war intercollegiate swimming meet.

Jr. Blues Beat Richmond Hill 7-3 Score Clinches Series

(By PAT PATTERSON)

Varsity "B's" ended their regular home schedule Friday night with a decisive 7-3 win over Richmond Hill Lions at Varsity Arena. After a slow start the B's came to the front and crossed the line in convincing fashion. In their previous game with Richmond Hill the Blues eked out a 6-4 win in overtime.

The first period saw the Lions go into the lead at the three minute mark with Milen scoring from Fox on a play that found the Blues defence in a disorganized position. The defensive work of all the Varsity team left much to be desired throughout the first stanza. Richmond Hill were skating back faster and checking hard to foil the Blues' plays before they could threaten Palmateer in the Lions net.

Pelow finally got loose around the Lions' goal and tied the game up for Varsity on an unassisted marker with seven minutes remaining. Richmond Hill fought right back to regain their lead four minutes later when McCrone, left unguarded in front of the Varsity goal, cashed in a pass from Fox and Blakely. Hutzalack was forced to come up with some sparkling saves to keep Varsity within one goal of the fast skating Lions. The period ended with Richmond Hill still on the long end of a 2-1 score.

Varsity opened the second period with a scorching attack led by Davidson and Brankston. At the four minute mark Morrison made it 2-2 on a pass from Smythe. With the pressure on, Richmond Hill tried vainly to organize an attack but the Blues roared right back to go into a 3-2 lead on Brankston's goal after Davidson had put him in the clear at the Lions' blue line. The two teams continued to battle it out

(Continued on Page 8)

Sr. Interfaculty Boxing, Wrestling

While a quiet crowd intently watched them, several pairs of wrestlers representing various faculties of the U. of T. competed for championship titles, on the floor of the upper gym of Hart House Saturday night. Boxing bouts with a larger and noisier crowd followed the "grunt and groan" matches.

Below are the results of both the boxing and wrestling:

Weight Winner	Opponent
125 lbs. Drohan (S.P.S.)
135 lbs. Cassels (U.C.) Smith (S.P.S.)
145 lbs. Sklar (S.P.S.) Dewan (St. Mikes)
155 lbs. Heath (Grad. Studies) Puglise (U.C.)
165 lbs. Guild (U.C.) McDonough (St. Mikes)
175 lbs. Gray (P.H.E.) Aitken (Vic.)
Heavy Campbell (P.H.E.) Fish (Meds.)

Senior Interfaculty Boxing Championships (Semi-finals)

135 lbs. Jackson (Dents.) Evans (S.P.S.)
135 lbs. Murphy (Dents.) MacQuish (S.P.S.)

(Semi-finals) (Arts)

155 lbs. Thornton (S.P.S.) McMurtry (S.P.S.)
155 lbs. Wilson (Meds.) Adams (S.P.S.)

(Final) (S.P.S.)

165 lbs. Sugar (Meds.) Mulholland (S.P.S.)
--	--

(Final) (Forestry)

175 lbs. Thompson (S.P.S.) Crowhurst (Forestry)
---	--

Heavy Stewart (by default) Whittton

Varsity Men Short Handed Twice Smash Wolverines

By Don Mason

Western Tops B's

In the feature event of the Athletic Night on Saturday, the "white and purple tide" of Western Ontario College rolled on to its second win in three weeks over the Varsity Senior A team; they thereby clinched the 1946 Senior A title for themselves. The score was 40-38 and play was just as close as the score indicates.

It was a heart-breaker for the home team to lose, since they were leading with two minutes to go. It was at this time that Shapiro for Western had to score his lone basket of the night, closely followed by the winning tally from Nightingale, who will have something to sing about on the way home to London.

This same bird Nightingale had opened the scoring at the two minute mark of the first half. This seemed to be a signal for the Western attack, and they showed why they are top team in the loop by peppering the backboard with shots so that halfway through the first stanza they led by a score of 14-8. Their two guards, Wardle and Scott, had sparked the offensive up to this point. Hennessey's two baskets and another by Glat supplied the Blues with an 18-14 lead as half-time sounded.

The opening three minutes of play in the second half produced no less than 18 points, of which the Toronto team, led by Andrews, garnered 10. Settling down after this spurge, the scoring see-sawed. Messrs. Horne and Nightingale formed a duel which put the game on ice for the George Hartwell-coached lads. Just before the aforementioned winning shot by Nightingale, the Westerners had called their fourth time out, and after that counter was notched they successfully kept the Varsity A's away from the basket.

Line-ups

Varsity: Andrews (8), Swan (6), Hennessey (6), Sturges (4), Himel (4), Lowes (4), Glat (4), Tettmar (2).

Western: Horne (10), Scott (10), Krol (6), Nightingale (6), Wardle (6), Grover (2), Shapiro (2), Markett, Coles.

* * *

Intermediates Up

Smart forechecking displayed by the Varsity Intermediate basketball team made the difference on Saturday night here as they edged U. of Western Ont., 32-26. The win by Varsity made up for a previous 42-38 defeat at the hands of the same Western team.

Toronto opened up the scoring with the evening's high man Meschino netting the first basket. Neither team had any decided advantage, but Varsity ended the half with a 14-11 lead while Western was becoming accustomed to the floor. The first half was hectic and rough as the referee was rather lax in calling fouls.

Western began the second twenty-minute half with an attack that soon pulled them into a one point lead, Hayman being the standout. A sudden spurt by Varsity accounted for three more baskets with Western returning with a field goal and foul shot which brought the count to 20-18, Varsity's favour. A desperate last-minute attempt by Western was nipped by a basket by Meschino and then Sheifetz sank a left hand pivot shot to end the scoring.

Sheifetz, Schimizu, Meschino and McMillan led the Blue and White boys while "Hunk of man" Allen and Hayman on offense and Szumlinski and Cook on defense did well for the Westerners.

Lineups

Varsity: Marshall Meschino (13), Schimizu (6), Ellis, Sheifetz (7), McMillan (5), Oakleaf, Heinbuch (1).

Western: Ballantyne (4), Cook, Curtis (5), Hayman (9), Yuhasz, Szumlinski, Brule (2), Allen (6).

Featuring a Saturday night shut-out, their first of the season, the Varsity Senior pucksters made a clean sweep of their twin hockey bill on University of Michigan grounds, over the week-end, Friday's score was 6-1, while the Saturday night game saw the Blues emerge with a 4-0 victory.

Playing sensational hockey, Dick Ball allowed only 1 puck to get behind him in 120 minutes of grueling hockey.

ONE GOT IN

The Varsity team literally hopped from the train onto the ice on Friday night, and as a consequence play in the first period was very ragged, with neither team showing an edge in the play.

Wally Gacek, speedy Wolverine centre, put Michigan on the scoreboard at the 7-minute mark in the second frame, on a long drop shot that slipped through Dick Ball's pads. Michigan's lead was short-lived, as exactly one minute later Wally Halder slammed the disk past Jack MacInnes, on a pass from Gord Ball.

The Blues served notice early in the third period that Michigan's somewhat unorthodox defensive tactics would be to no avail as Sunny Kryzanowski slammed home an unassisted goal in the opening minute of play. The three Toronto rooters cheered loud and long.

From that point on the Wolverine's were kept bottled in their own end of the rink, while the whole Varsity team took turns throwing rubber at the Michigan goal-mouth. With five minutes left in the game, Halder, then Ball, then Kosick counted for Varsity, as the silent Michigan fans looked on. Features of the game were Dick Ball's outstanding saves on several Michigan break-aways, and the smoothly co-ordinated passing patterns of the Toronto forwards. Fast skating Wally Gacek and Wally Grant were the chief Michigan threats.

VARSITY SHUT-OUT

Exceptionally rough play in the previous night's game forced Dave Bauer and Sunny Kryzanowski to the side-lines and illness kept Bill Wade on the bench leaving "Ace" Bailey with a playing complement of nine men.

The Wolverines held a slight edge in the first period's play, and it was only Dick Ball's goal-tending that kept the Ann Arbor crew off the score sheet. Referee Ace Lee began to take some notice of Michigan's high-sticking and cross-checking, and handed out several penalties to the offending Wolverines.

Despite their short-handedness, the Blues rallied early in the second period, with Jim Bromley slapping a pass from Kosick behind MacInnes.

"Inspired" is the only term that

(Continued on Page 8)

Women's Ski Meet

Yesterday in the blazing sun women snow-flake chasers competed in the most successful interfaculty ski meet for several years. The form shown was hubba-hubba so there was a large cheering section. As this was the first meet for most of the gals, the results are worth watching. These gals are tomorrow's ski stars.

Combined Winners

- 1.—Jean Stevenson
- 2.—Betty Taylor
- 3.—Ruth Burden

Sla'om

- 1.—Betty Taylor (P.H.E.), 63.0 seconds.
- 2.—Jean Stevenson (U.C.), 63.4 sec.
- 3.—Ruth Burden (St. Hilda's) 67.6 sec.
- 4.—Lois Logan (P.H.E.), 74.8 sec.
- 5.—Marg Phillips (P.H.E.), 78.0 sec.

Downhill

- 1.—Jean Stevenson, 40.8 sec.
- 2.—Allison Foster (Bus. Admin.), 41.5 sec.
- 3.—Betty Taylor, 42.7 sec.
- 4.—Tracy Stimson, 45.2 sec.
- 5.—Ruth Burden, 49.3 sec.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

1:00	VIC. III vs. EMMAN	Farrell, Atkinson
4:15	MED. I vs. VIC. I	Smith, Horkins
8:00	PHARM. vs SPS IV	P. Fyfe, Sinclair
9:00	ST. M. A vs. TRIN. A	P. Fyfe, Sinclair

WATER-POLO

6:00	SR. MED. A vs. U.C. I	Tuston
------	-----------------------	--------

BASKETBALL MAJOR

1:00	ST. M. A vs. PHE II	Voight
4:00	PHE I vs. JR. U.C. A	Lye
6:30	JR. U.C. B vs. TRIN. A	Rotman

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00	IV MECH. vs. III MED. A	Charendoff
4:00	II MED. A vs. IV ELEC.	Babcock
6:30	II CIVIL vs. IV AERO	Hond

INDOOR TRACK

5:00	HIGH JUMP, 440 YDS NOVICE
------	---------------------------	--

U.C. Wins With 32 Points S.P.S. Second In Swim Meet

By Craig Cringan

At Hart House last Saturday night University College splashed their way to victory, winning points in every event except the back-stroke.

Finishing with a grand total of 32 points, U.C. were never seriously threatened by the runners-up, S.P.S. with 24 and Meds. with 10.

For the initial event of the evening, the 300-yard medley relay, back-stroke Ed Lindgren of U.C. and Bill Macdonald of S.P.S. kicked away the end of the tank for a neck-and-neck start. Matching each other stroke for stroke four lengths of the pool, they finished in a dead heat. Plunging right after them, breast-stroker Al Marshall of U.C. took a lead over Jim Martin of Skule. Marshall's lead widened with every stroke for the next 100 yds. of the race so that U.C. anchor-man Clayton had little difficulty in staying ahead of Don Fleet.

In the diving events, competition was limited but very keen. From the moment they began their five compulsory dives Clayton of U.C. and Flanagan of S.P.S. lived up to all expectations. In these dives, the jack-knife, back dive, running half gainer, back jack, and running forward half twist, both competitors showed excellent form. The style of Warren Clayton was especially smooth from the moment he mounted the board until his big toe would disappear beneath the rippled surface of the water.

Later in the evening the same two contestants showed their prowess in fancy dives of their own choice. Thrilling the audience with every dive, they performed in rapid succession a number of difficult ones such as the back somersault lay-out dive and running front 1½ pike. When the final score for the diving was computed, Clayton won with 110 points, Flanagan in 2nd place with 105.

The fastest sprint of the evening, the event with the largest entry list, was the 50-yard free style. In this race, all other factors being equal, the swimmer who gets the fastest start will generally win. This time the winner was Forsythe of U.C., who covered the 50 yards in the re-

(Continued on Page 8)

Editorial Encores

Impracticable
Democracy

Reprinted below is an editorial from The Sheaf, student publication of the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon. The procedure of selecting Varsity editors follows that advocated by the editorial.

The decision of the Student's Representative Council to have editors of university publications elected rather than appointed is purely a move to facilitate the elimination of salaries now being paid to these offices.

Whether student salaries should or should not be paid to publication heads is strictly a matter of S.R.C. policy. If, however, salaries are to be cancelled in one department of extra-curricular activity, it seems only logical that all student salaries should be eradicated. In any case, the absence of monetary reward will cause little complaint from students who find themselves in positions of responsibility in next year's S.R.C.

Unfortunately, the Council considered that through election of Sheaf and Greystone editors, the problem of salaries would be most easily solved. This decision is hardly fair to those who have worked diligently on the publications and are rightly entitled to first consideration when the position of editors are to be filled next term.

It is an accepted rule that no student can step into the position of Sheaf editor without having had previous experience on the paper. He or she must be acquainted with the mechanics of the publication, the undergraduate students who make up the staff, and more important, the men who handle the printing of the issue. It would indeed be unfortunate if next year, we were to find occupying the position of Sheaf editor, a skilled orator, one gifted with persuasive powers and personality on the election platform, but totally unfamiliar with the functioning processes of our college weekly. Ironical as this might be under ordinary circumstances, it would be doubly so were the successful candidate to attempt to exercise his jurisdiction over those on his staff who knew more about the publication than he did himself.

But a more serious complication can result when a campus editor of necessity becomes involved in student politics. Herein lies a danger which cannot safely be ignored. An editor who through his own election becomes responsible to his electorate is robbed of his independence. It is quite apparent that factions of the campus, interested in the propagation of their own particular policies and beliefs could sponsor for editor, a candidate sympathetic to their doctrines. A campus publication cannot afford to be implicated in student politics.

Those who have worked untiringly on a student newspaper should not be asked to stand on an election platform to boast of their prowess. They have already demonstrated their worth, and if their efforts have not been satisfactory in the eyes of the S.R.C. then their application for a higher appointment can be rejected.

Commendable as this extension of democratic principles may seem, it is not practicable when it comes to the election of publication heads. The campus electorate is not in a position to decide on who should occupy such a technical position. This is no slur on student intelligence. It is an absolute impossibility for every student to acquaint himself with the actual duties of the publication heads. Hence he cannot adequately judge who is most capable of filling the position.

It seems, therefore that the receiving of applications for the post of editor is the logical and most effective method of determining who should receive the appointment.

Ajax Sports

Volleyball

724 defeated 723—15-3; 15-10—McCreery.
727 defeated 728—15-4; 15-10—Patterson.
732 defeated 731—11-15; 15-12; 15-7—Patterson.
736 defeated 737—15-7; 15-8—Patterson.
725 defeated 722—15-8; 4-15; 15-7—Mussion.
729 defeated 726—15-5; 15-10—Mussion.
730 defeated 733—15-7; 6-15; 16-14—Mussion.

'ANGLES'

Mac Donuts "Sodas"

... COKE DATE ...

Our Readers Write—

Waste of Energy

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

The recent discussion about Hart House stirs us to action. We are very sorry to hear that some women are excluded from Hart House because of the purpose and aims expressed in its charter. If the Engineers cannot hold their meetings elsewhere to accommodate their unfortunate classmates of our sex, the Engineers, not Hart House, are at fault.

In making this statement, we are fully aware of the unfortunate position of women on this campus. The University, finding in Hart House a convenient receptacle for men's activity, have used its halls, forgetful of the large number of women students who have no such facilities here. Our own college U.C. has three women's common rooms; if you don't smoke, one, and no rummies. This deplorable state of affairs is a disgrace to the University.

We who look longingly at the recreation halls, lounges, and innumerable facilities of Hart House, would like a Hart House of our own. Women of the University, Mr. Editor, ought not to waste their energies beating on the doors of Hart House. This is the time, when new buildings are being planned, to attack the institution which has so long neglected the "Other Side".
Tar Dale, II U.C.
W. K. Vincent II U.C.

More on Taxes

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Mr. Robert Weaver, in his review of "Canada's Burden of Taxation" in the Varsity for January 22nd, seems to have missed a point or two. He says, "Full Employment has been suggested as a possible solution to the problem" of high taxes. No doubt; but even under Full Employment, the Dominion's 1950 commitments will work out to 22 per cent of the National Income—if present price levels are maintained in 1950. If 22 per cent seems too high, we can raise prices and take out our commitments in inflation. Or else, we can cut our commitments.

Mr. Weaver also says: "But to certain business leaders it (Full Employment) means an ever-present pool of unemployed workers, who... would soon be used to lower wages". But if business leaders think anything of the kind, the book offers no evidence that they do. He must have got the idea out of some other book, or out of thin air.

I do not know why Mr. Weaver complains that "the social aspects of high taxation" have been passed over; surely the book is concerned throughout with the damage which excessive taxation may do to all classes of society. Hitherto, admittedly, taxation has been used to depress living standards for the sake of winning the war, but the war is over now.

Even so, Mr. Weaver is quite right in implying that this book tells us a frightening lot about the taxes we will soon be paying; whether or not it does so at the price of being duller than most works in a proverbially dismal science.

Elizabeth McPhedran,
IV, C & F.

Anachronistic?

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

The idea has often been advanced that a universal language, such as Esperanto, would be a tremendous aid in the achievement of some understanding between people. Now, undoubtedly, there is some truth in this, but I have been led to think that the benefits derivable from the universal knowledge of such a language might be rather small compared to the effort of learning it. After all, even people speaking and writing the same language fail to understand each other, as is painfully evident in your correspondence column.

Take for instance Mr. Ansley today. He criticizes Mr. Heenan for attacking his "ability as a letter-writer" rather than the contents of his letter, an attack which he regards as unjustified as that on a painter for "using the wrong brush." For one thing it seems to me that an artist may very well be criticised for faulty technique, and technique includes the use of the correct tools for the attempted job.

But apart from that Mr. Ansley completely fails to see that his letter was condemned, not so much because of its form—indeed he shows a fluency of expression not at all common at SPS—but because of his major premiss, viz. that "man is a gregarious animal". If we believe, nay know, that above all man is a rational animal, endowed with an immortal soul, then Mr. Ansley's arguments, as long as they are a logical consequence of his premiss can obviously not lead to the truth.

I think highly of Mr. Ansley for having in his mind some vision of truth and beauty. May I suggest that he possesses this because he has a soul (a term by no means synonymous with mind). And may I add that only by a recognition of such truths, and by acting in accord with them is true progress feasible. Knowledge alone, "a knowledge of our fellow men, of history and of politics", however widespread and compulsory, is not enough.

What man needs is perhaps best described by the word WISDOM. That is, to know his purpose in life, to know how to apply this knowledge in particular problems, and finally, to have his will act in accordance with the conclusions reached by the intellect. It is particularly to fulfill the last mentioned, and necessary condition that man also needs the grace of God.

Perhaps I am guilty of "anachronistic evaluations and illogical judgments"—and if any critic of mine holds with some modern so-called philosophers who deny

(1) that we can directly apprehend any absolute truths (e.g. "there is motion in the universe")
(2) that we can trust our reasoning faculty, and
(3) that there is anything but chance (i.e. a final cause).

I am rather at a loss to affirm or deny that accusation. In that case, in spite of the fact that we both speak English, we do not understand each other. As regards all others I hope that they will not conclude that I "lack a genuine understanding of the world around us". These problems are too fundamental to be brushed aside by judgements instead of reasoning.

Peter Neurath,
IV SPS.

IT'S A JOKE, SON
- A JOKE, THAT IS

The way a fellow waits seasons for a new suit or top-coat and pays through the proboscis for it.

When he can get handmade clothes of imported woollens and in the smartest styles, within 3 to 4 weeks, and at fair prices as well.

Why not introduce yourself at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
at College
RA 8995-6

The fluorescents blaze from nine to nine, Saturdays until 6.

Special discounts to University students.

Bob Martin was seen by a pair of blue eyes
And thus is confirmed a new rumour—

Bob's back on the campus to "wow" all the girls.
And keep all the men in good humour.

For the information of Bob's friends he has leave of absence from the Fisheries Research Board for the month of February in order to work on his thesis.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.
Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Classified Advertisements

LOST

Large blue notebook, taken by mistake from Hart House Tuck Shop. Contains notes for 1st year M & P. Contact R. J. Hanson, KI 0317.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

LOST

Black Sheaffer pen in Room 6 U.C., or vicinity. Please call OL 2379.

MEN

Have you a lonely right toe rubber longing for a mate? (Size 9 1/2 or so.) If so get in touch with C. Ripley, LA 3024, and we may make a deal. A lonely rubber is longingly waiting!

LOST

3-piece Waterman's set, white, vicinity Medical Bldg. and College St. Call HY 8806. Reward.

LOST

Green Waterman's fountain pencil in the Medical Bldg., Friday forenoon. Would finder please call GE 3120.

Art, Music and Drama

Capable Recital

Last night's Sunday Evening Concert was capably handled by Pearl Palmason, a young Toronto violinist and member of the T.S.O. Her mastery of mood and technique was best displayed in the Grieg Sonata in C major with its tempestuous allegro then lyric slow movement. The intonation was always good, the style usually broad and smooth. The artist is to be commended for keeping her music before her throughout the number, a precaution which probably saved much embarrassment.

The highlight of interest was Poeme by Chausson, a modern French work demanding strong imaginative sense. Miss Palmason's interpretation was both sympathetic and expressive.

Leo Barkin played the sound and musicianly accompaniments which make his name synonymous with musical quality.

—COURT STONE

Conductress

The feminine touch was not particularly in evidence at Massey Hall Friday eve last—this despite the fact that Ethel Stark, leader of the Women's Symphony of Montreal, presided over the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. The only other baton-wielding female I know of is the redoubtable Mlle Nadia Boulanger, who has achieved wide renown as an interpreter of the works of Monteverdi. Whether this occasion marks the debut of feminine direction in Toronto I could not say; but I'm sure that a substantial plurality of Friday's audience came away with the conviction that the emancipation of the weaker sex has finally reached the podium.

Miss Stark's qualities as a conductor are impressive. The players responded vigorously to her incisive, energetic leadership; her readings were remarkable in their sympathy, resourcefulness and all-round capability. Thus the voluminous scores were consulted only incidentally, and the baton was utilized and discarded according to the nature of the composition—a very sensible arrangement, albeit slightly confusing. Mendelssohn's brilliant A Major Symphony sounded out with a lyricism and fiery expressiveness that would have done credit to a Beecham. The orchestra, under expert guidance, collaborated well on Damsch's long-winded orchestration of the Bach chorale-prelude Ein' Feste Burg Ist Unser Gott, while Glinka's Italianized Russian and Ludmilla Overture effervesced merrily. Even better were Jaromir Weinberger's rollicking Polka and Fugue from Schwanda, despite a noisily raucous finale.

Two young Canadian artists shared the guest spotlight in solo and in duo. Tenor John Hamill sang La Donna E Mobile with good accuracy but little fervor (Has Bjorling spoiled us permanently for this aria?). Shirley Blois in a soprano air from Manon exhibited truly velvety tone and a voice that is, and will be, an object of rare admiration for its appealing beauty. Together the vocalists were heard in Parigi O Cara from La Traviata, well administered in spite of the crowning incongruity of a piano accompaniment.

—D. GORDON ROSS

U. C. Wins

(Continued from Page 6)

markedly good time of 25.4 secs., closely followed by last year's winner, Pete Turnbull of S.P.S., and another engineer, Ted Granfield.

The quarter-mile free style race had four entrants, Martin of S.P.S., Lindgren of U.C., Tenhunen of Meds., and Teskey of Meds. Right from the start Teskey and Martin left the others far behind, Luke Teskey, who won this same event last year, is the kind of swimmer who isn't happy unless he can hold a lead of about two yards. Jim Martin, who keeps in condition by playing water polo, swam smoothly along just about two yards behind Teskey. Ending the race with a nifty sprint, Teskey managed to keep his lead, finishing with the time of 6:15. Martin came second and Tenhunen third.

The 100-yd. back-stroke race had the closest finish of the evening. Macdonald of S.P.S. and Beverly of Meds. took an early lead with Wakabashy of Meds. and Lindgren of U.C. trailing. At the start of the final stretch Beverly caught up but Macdonald again pulled into the lead. At the finish, Macdonald happened to stick his hand out to touch the end of the pool a fraction of a second ahead of Beverly. Time 1:14.5. Wakabashy came 3rd and Lindgren, who had just finished swimming in the quarter-mile free style, came 4th.

Finalists in the 100-yd. free style sprint were McHuen of Vic., Forsythe of U.C., Teskey of Meds., Turnbull, Granfield and Martin of S.P.S. The winners of the 50-yd. sprint repeated their performance by winning this event in exactly the same order: Forsythe, Turnbull, Granfield. Time—1:0.3.

Competing for the Winston McCatty Memorial Trophy in the 200-yd. breast stroke event there were just two entrants, Mike Beer, last year's winner, and Al Marshall, Dominion champion. Both are from U.C. Swimming smoothly along, Marshall looked as if he were taking it easy, yet he won with a time of 2:33.5, just 4 of a second off the Canadian record which he holds.

The last event of the evening was a 200-yd. free style relay with teams from U.C., S.P.S., and Meds. entered. The Skule team of Anderson, Johnson, Granfield and Turnbull won with a time of 1:48.3, with U.C. placing 2nd and Meds. third.

The final point score for the meet is U.C.—32; S.P.S.—24; Meds.—10, giving U.C. the Fitzgerald Cup.

Waifs and Strays

(Continued from Page 1)

new building. Purpose is to furnish badly-needed accommodation for any staff members involved in the various activities housed by the building who found it necessary to spend the night on the campus for some reason. Housing of visiting speakers coming to address campus organizations is another possible function of these quarters.

A final detail is provision of living quarters for the editor of The Varsity, whose duties call for him to be constantly accessible and on the campus. Similar provision is made at Montreal's McGill University for the editor of The Daily, who customarily lives in a special room in the McGill Union.

Pay Engineers

(Continued from Page 1)

long-term investment for their employers.

Second prizes were awarded to G. R. Slemmon and E. E. Major. All contestants were in the IV year Electrical Engineering course at S.P.S.

Prior to the contest, Graydon C. Lloyd of the Canadian General Electric Co. spoke on "German Electrical Practices." He said that the Germans were not as far advanced in the electrical field as the Allies were, but that they had developed many interesting gadgets during the war. "I have seen the devastation in both England and Germany, and I can tell you that war does not pay for either side."

Varsity Men

(Continued from Page 6)

could be applied to the playing of the homers in the final two periods of the encounter. Gord Ball, Bill Doyle and Bill Kosick flashed the red light in the third period, as Toronto stormed around the Michigan net for the full twenty minutes.

Apart from Dick Ball's shut-out performance, special mention must go to Bill Doyle and Grant Puttock who played the entire game without relief, and acquitted themselves exceptionally well.

Line-ups:

TORONTO—Dick Ball, Doyle, Halder, Henry, Kosick, Puttock, Wade, Kryzanowski, Bromley, Bauer, Gord Ball, Lawler.

MICHIGAN—MacInnes, Cossalter, Hill, Gacek, Celley, Grant, Starrak, Kuznier, MacMillan, Jacobson, Renfrew, Smith, Arnot, Marshall, Sulentich.

TORONTO—6; MICHIGAN—1

First Period

No score.

Second Period

Michigan—Gacek 7:05

Toronto—Halder (Ball) 8:08

Third Period

Toronto—Kryzanowski 1:13

Toronto—Kosick 8:14

Toronto—Halder (Henry) 15:04

Toronto—Ball (Halder) 15:58

Toronto—Kosick (Lawler, Bromley) 16:34

TORONTO—4; MICHIGAN—0

First Period

No scoring.

Second Period

Toronto—Bromley (Kosick) 1:12

Third Period

Toronto—Ball (Halder) 5:30

Toronto—Doyle (Halder) 8:29

Toronto—Kosick (Bromley) 18:29

Jr. Blues

(Continued from Page 6)

on even terms until Millen scored from Rose and Fox to put the Lions back in the game. The Blues were not to be undone however, and Davidson, leading a rush, scored from Petrocco to end the scoring and leave Varsity out in front 4-3. The period was fast and filled with action from start to finish as both teams carried the play from end to end. Only penalty of the period was to Morrison of Toronto for playing without a stick.

In the third stanza Varsity put on a three goal spree to clinch matters. By no means one sided, the Blues held the upper hand throughout. Davidson scored Varsity's fifth goal at thirteen minutes. It was an unassisted effort. The puck was actually put in the net by a Richmond Hill man after Davidson rifled a shot from left wing. Best passing play of the evening was pulled off by Brankston and Morrison in a spectacular rush which saw Morrison play the puck right down the boards and pass to Brankston, who had skirted the defence, Brankston blinked the red light to make it six-three for Varsity. With two minutes left Morrison again put Davidson in the clear for his third goal of the game.

Richmond Hill had trouble getting their plays under way but at several times worked in close to threaten as goalie Hutzalack came up in spectacular fashion to keep the Lions off the score sheet. Millen was outlucked as he hit the post with Hutzalack lying at one side of the net. The game ended with the Lions trying to break into the scoring column.

The small crowd of about 250 fans was treated to a fast clean game, closer than the score indicates. Millen was leading Lion marksman with two goals. Fox played a strong game throughout and came up with three assists. Davidson turned in a neat hat-trick for three counters while Brankston followed close with two goals. On defence Morrison played a stellar game and turned in one goal and two assists for the "B's". If the "B's" are allowed to enter the finals they will prove a hard stumbling block for their rivals provided they play the same type of hockey.

Lineups:

Varsity—Hutzalack, Hartrey, Petrocco, Fellow, Brankston, Davidson, Boyd, Foran, Smythe, Barron, Irwin, Morrison.

Richmond Hill—Palmateer, Smith, Rose, Rowntree, Mundell, Dunn, McCrone, Millen, Fox, J. Smith, Blakely, Clement, Stunden.

QUESTIONNAIRE

(In answering the following questionnaire, readers are asked to guard against prejudice by considering the general standard of the various departments rather than any particularly excellent or nauseating articles)

- 1—How often do you read The Varsity? Rarely..... Occasionally Regularly
- 2—In your opinion, has The Varsity's general standard: Improved Deteriorated Remained the same since becoming a tabloid?
- 3—Following is a list of the various departments of The Varsity. In the space opposite each, suggest any improvements you would like to see.

Art, Music and Drama

Books

Bridge Problems

Cartoons

Cinematathon

Champus Cat

Campus Capsules

Editorial Encores

Editorials

Features

Lecture Reports

New and Entrenous

News Stories

News from other campi

Notices of Coming Events

Personality Interviews

Our Readers Write

Speaking of Sport

Speaking of Swing

Sports Stories

Sportswoman

- 4—In the above list, check your favourite five features.
- 5—What do you think of the present distribution of space among the various departments?
- 6—Should allocation of the increased space include more news of other Canadian campi?
- 7—Should The Varsity's editorials discuss the things they do?
- 8—What annoys you most about The Varsity?
- 9—What general or specific improvements would you suggest?

Signed Faculty Year

ALL FORMS MUST BE SIGNED

* This questionnaire will be published until Wednesday. Completed copies will be accepted in The Varsity office, Room 42-a, University College, or at the S.A.C. office, Hart House.

New & Entrenous

(Continued from Page 4)

writer last year, Herman as Assistant Editor has penned sundry Cats under the puss-eudonym Raco and currently conducts the popular Cinematathon.

Bred Stapells and Don Mason, Beta Theta Pi brothers recruited as a Sports Department at the beginning of this term, have a long-standing sport background. Mason wrote a sports column for the Welland

Tribune. Both were in the Fleet Air Arm. She Bowls

Most ardently athletic on the bowling alley, Polly Mutz has been 45-46 Sportswoman.

Last year's News Editor, svelte Barb Jones has borrowed time from post-grad studies to fill the increasingly-important post of C.U.P. editor. Her "beat" extends across Canadian campi. Trinity's Dorothy Harley assists.

M. & P'ster Phil Freedman has this year become editor of the Art, Music and Drama Department, following three years' apprenticeship as a free-lance reviewer and last year's Assistant Editor. Last summer he made false teeth and artificial eyes in his father's laboratory.

Lanky lensman Ralph Jones has come back from the R.C.A.F. to complete a Pass Course and enter Osgeode.

This year's masthead, in something of a constant flux, has already given one Make-up Editor to the Journal of Student Opinion, one managing editor to the Financial Post as Washington Correspondent and another member of the managing department to the marionette industry of Greater New York.

Reading from left to right these were Phil Shackleton and Bob Robinson. Ex-navy Garry Rea-Airth, briefly with us, left school in October to go to Manhattan.

For information about present managing editor, Wally Belfry, consult almost any back copy of the Varsity.

And that's our inventory. Those are the people who produce your paper.

Have you filled out any interesting questionnaire forms lately?

Ease Ajax Bottleneck Via Weekend Buses

Provision of a special week-end bus service for Ajax city-goers to eliminate disappointment and overcrowding of the regular buses was announced by the Ajax Engineering Society last night. Arrangements for the service were made with the T.T.C. by president Mike McAuliffe and Mr. Russell, Ajax staff member who formerly organized transportation service for D.I.L.

Tickets for week-end trips will be sold Wednesday and Thursday each week at the Cafeteria and the Engineering Society Stores. To eliminate bottle-necking, each ticket will bear the number of the bus for which it is issued.

Express buses to the city will leave Ajax proper on Fridays at 4.10, 4.12, and 4.15; also at 5.30, 6.30 and at three-minute intervals thereafter until all ticket-holders have been accommodated. These buses will carry only week-end passengers, not commuters.

Sunday night buses will leave the Toronto terminal between 10 and 10.45, and students are being requested to use these special Ajax runs to avoid congestion on the commuters' and regular Oshawa buses.

"The T.T.C. are co-operating to the best of their ability to provide better transportation for Ajax students," Mr. Russell commented.

Other Society moves included:

—Approval of an Ajax Year Dance to be held in the Royal York Hotel Tuesday, March 19, tickets to be $3.00 a couple including transportation both ways.

—Discussion of Treasurer's Report showing that the Ajax Stores have sold over $25,000 worth of equipment since opening. Of this, $9,000 worth was purchased from the Toronto store, $20,000 bought outright, leaving a debt of $4,000 which is chiefly dormant stock for next year. The store in the long run was stated to be a paying institution.

—Hearing from Bob Aldwinckle, liaison officer between the Engineering Societies of the two camps, that "Any Ajax project is independent. You have, like each of the other years, one vote in the Society, and as long as common sense and the constitution abide, Ajax cannot help being a successful contribution and an asset to the Society."

Musk-Ox Operation Seen Proving Ground In Experts' Theory Of Men & Material

By The Canadian University Press

Third in a series of stories from Operations Musk-ox, C.U.P. continues coverage of all possible "university-angle" sources.)

Churchill, Manitoba, Feb. 11—Panting under packs and "mukluks" (or Eskimo seal-skin boots), the airship here is crowded with fur-bearing humans on the move.

Queer to the layman, and sometimes to the camp personnel these happenings are routine endurance tests to the Medical Corps.

One of the primary purposes in the Musk-ox tour, these endurance tests are enacted by alternate hours of action and inertia by the "human guinea pigs". They are startled from one phase to the next by a loud bell. An alarm-clock might well soothe these test-weary men.

Toronto-trained officers are greatly responsible for the nationally-desired success of this expedition. Both members of Toronto's Medical Faculty class of 4T3, Capt. R. E. M. Croomer is now Musk-ox Base Medical Officer, Capt. A. M. Bryans is now Medical Officer of the Moving Forces. Both former members of the paratroops in connection with their duties in R.C.A. M.C., they now supervise the administration of inoculations, vaccinations for diphtheria, tetanus, small-pox and typhoid to the men of Musk-ox.

Three Rhodes scholars, graduates of the Universities of Harvard, Wisconsin and Saskatchewan, add distinction to the scientists comprising the expedition staff.

One of these scholars, Harvard's Col. Robt. Johnson of the U.S. Army, is famous for originating the Harvard step-and-pack test which is frequently used for endurance examinations.

Summarizing his Musk-ox efforts, Dr. Johnson said "At Fort Nelson, as in Churchill, we will evaluate the physical fitness of the man by bio-chemical methods and Harvard pack-tests."

His is the responsibility for designing the peculiar antics of the Musk-ox Men.

"An easy afternoon off", doctors said of their recent examination of about 40 Indian Churchillians whose ages ranged from one to 66 years. The majority require an interpreter in submitting themselves to the learned doctors in the interests of science.

The machines of civilization brought a new bewilderment into their lives.

What's On Today

8:00 p.m. in the Women's Union, the Hon. Dana Porter, Minister of Planning and Development in the Ontario Government, will address the Modern History Club on "The Drew Proposals". Everyone welcome.

Yea, Real Scholars Are These Both From "City of Trees"

Although already "saturated with European History", Cornell's visiting debating team think that perhaps their educational system gives them "too much of a smattering of ignorance".

Perhaps, but then Speaker Graham Gotter is right in saying "I think we've encountered real scholars here."

A reader of Russian, German, and French, Cornell's David Geiger discounts his 20-year-old graduation after four years of History Major, saying that he was able to accelerate his course by studying two summers at Columbia and Cornell Universities respectively.

Freshman Alvin Arnold completes the pair, both from Brooklyn.

"Dodger fans?"

"Well, of course!"

People have the wrong idea of Brooklyn they maintain—"lots of trees."

Having won the Toronto-trip trials on only Jan. 31, they had to devote less time to debate-preparation, more to preparation for final exams, due in Cornell on Feb. 20.

In the available time Arnold did economic research while Geiger studied Zionist literature.

Both Jewish, the pair feels its subject strongly. Their sincere convictions coincide with the wording of the resolution.

Geiger recalled being roused to the point of interviewing a professor to shed light on the subject of Jewish immigration into Palestine. Himself British, the professor had admitted "The British made a bit of a mess of the whole thing."

Recollections included the furious sessions resulting from the debates of two Cornell professors—one Jewish, one Arabian.

Arriving in Toronto on Sunday evening's 7.50 train, Geiger managed to skip into a Hart House Concert between tune-up and introductory pieces. Arnold chose to leave later, arrive in Toronto the day of the debate.

Not totally familiar with Canadian conditions, the team planned its next few days:

"Well, now that we're in Canada we have the chance to buy lots of shirts . . ."

The Varsity

VOL. LXV—No. 80 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Tuesday, February 12, 1946

DEBATERS UPHOLD ZIONIST MOVEMENT

MODERN HISTORY CLUB

The Hon. Dana Porter, Minister of Planning and Development in the Ontario Government, will speak to the Modern History Club tomorrow at 8:00 p.m. in the Women's Union. He will speak on "The Drew Proposals", and point out the Federal aspects as opposed to the Provincial.

Cornell Team Triumph; Rap Arab Appeasement

"Strong Smell of Oil"

"We couldn't do business with Hitler, so we shouldn't appease the Arabs either. There is a very strong smell of oil in the British nostrils."

With these words David Geiger led the Cornell Debating team to victory as the resolution "Resolved that there should be unrestricted Jewish immigration into Palestine" was upheld by a vote of 87-41 in last night's Intercollegiate debate between Cornell and Varsity in Strachan Hall.

McAuliffe Named Top Ajax Editor

Mike McAuliffe, President of the Ajax Engineering Society, has accepted the post of Ajax Editor of The Varsity, Editor-in-chief Hugh Kenner announced last night. From experienced gleaned on three service newspapers, McAuliffe will organize complete and regular Ajax coverage.

Pete Philpott, Ed Caldwell, and Cliff Dixon will continue as Ajax News, Sports, and Feature Editors, Kenner said. Their names appear with McAuliffe in today's mast-head.

Ajax news will be handled from an assignment book exactly as in the parent Toronto office, McAuliffe stated. Starting this morning, assignments will be placed in the book in The Varsity office, just off the Recreation Hall gym.

The current need is for a staff of Ajax reporters. All those wishing to take part in the production of a daily newspaper are urged to visit editor McAuliffe in The Varsity office between 5:15 and 6:00 any evening.

From mid-March until late in June, the Ajax staff will be completely responsible for the production of The Varsity. Toronto's Hugh Kenner will continue as editor, but all copy will have to be written in Ajax by experienced Ajax men for Ajax readers.

Vic C. C. F. Club Founded Monday

The Victoria College CCF Club was ushered into existence on Monday Feb. 11 at 4 p.m. in Wymilwood. A number of students gathered to hear Roy Clark, President and organizer of the U of T CCF Club read a lecture by Scott from the book "Planning for Freedom". This was followed by a discussion led by Mr. Clark.

The meeting decided to establish itself as a CCF unit and elect a temporary executive as follows: Pres.—George Speers, Vice-Pres.—Joan Thomas, Sec.—Margaret Cunningham, Organizer—Allen Beckett, Educational Director—Paul Morris.

According to a statement by the President George Speers the club wishes to stimulate political thought and activity in Vic, through holding discussions on questions, political in general, and CCF in particular and "in order that the lighter side of student life may not be neglected" it proposes to round out its activities with occasional social functions.

NOTICE

There is still time to hand in contributions to the U.C. Art Exhibit. Take oil-paintings, pencil drawings, etc. to the Women's Union.

Opening for the government, Geiger pointed out that there was no other available home for the thousands of European Jews. He told of the debt of gratitude which Great Britain owed the Jews for their contributions during the war while the Arabs, he claimed, did nothing but create disturbances.

He cited the lists of improvements the Jews have made in Palestine, such as irrigation projects and hydro-electric developments, which improved the standard of living of the Arabs as well as the Jews.

"Is Britain really afraid of a Moslem uprising?" he asked. "Their actions in Indonesia would indicate that they are not."

"We do not oppose unrestricted immigration because we are opposed to the Jewish cause or because we champion the Arab cause," countered Bill Lyon, of St. Michael's, for the opposition.

"The primary purpose of Zionism," he continued, "is the creation

(Continued on Page 8)

Philosophers Meet With Biology Club

For some time biology and philosophy students have felt that it would be beneficial for both groups to get together and explore the effect of modern thought and recent scientific development on the age-old dichotomy between "mechanism" and "vitalism".

As a result the Philosophical Society and the University Biology Club will hold a joint meeting on Wednesday at 8.15 p.m. in Croft Chapter House, University College.

Participating will be V. B. Brooks, (IV Biology), F. T. Knapp, (Biology Grad), W. R. H. Montgomery, (Philosophy Grad), and O. R. Orr (IV Philosophy). Professor D. Sagan of the Philosophy Department will be chairman of the meeting. They will present papers on the various aspects of the problem both from the philosophical and the biological point of view.

Coming Events

V.C.F.

Dr. Line, professor of Systematic Theology in Emmanuel College, will speak on the fundamentals of the Christian faith at the regular meeting of the V.C.F. in Jackson Hall, Victoria College on Tuesday, at one o'clock.

All are invited to hear this important lecture.

AJAX REPORTERS

More Varsity reporters at Ajax are needed. A meeting of all potential and present staff will be held in the Varsity offices, Recreation Hall, today at 5.15 p.m.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI. 6611

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Night OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 4T6
 Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 4T8
 Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
 Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor.....John Rooke, 4T7
 News Editor.....George Forster, 4T7
 Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 4T6
 Ajax.....Pete Philpott
 Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 4T7
 Assistant.....Reg Herman, 4T6
 Ajax.....Cliff Dixon
 Sports Editor.....Bredin Stapells, 4T6
 Assistant.....Don Mason, 4T6
 Ajax.....Ed. Caldwell
 Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 4T6
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 4T6
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor.....Philip Freedman, 4T6
 Staff Photographer.....Ralph Jones, 4T7
 Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Tuesday, February 12, 1946

Wanted—A Press

The recent return of Prof. A. S. P. Woodhouse from a tour of American university presses suggests that the governors intend to re-organize the University of Toronto Press more nearly along the lines a university press should follow.

The key to reorganization of the Press, as to nearly everything else around the University, is money. A reorganized University Press is not likely to be a money-maker; at least for many years.

To gear the Press for production of scholarly texts, the requisites are a much larger building, more machines, more working-space, and more help. Yet the sale of such texts, though steady, is extremely slow, and it is unlikely that the necessary capital investment would ever be wholly realized; except in prestige.

Oxford University, for example, has an intrinsic status that no ineptitude in public relations could alter; but much of that university's current world-wide fame is largely due to its policy of literally flooding the learned and semi-learned world with publications bearing the imprint of the Oxford University Press. The various Oxford Dictionaries, the Oxford Books of Verse, the Oxford Companions to Music, English Literature, and Classical Studies, have combined with a steady output of scholarly monographs to make the Oxford trademark synonymous with dignity and reliability.

The University of Toronto is the only one in Canada that can remotely hope to achieve a similar fame for its press. We hope that the governors within a very short time will see fit to invest in management, equipment and buildings what is necessary to secure for Toronto a press of world-wide authority.

— W. H. K.

Around The Zoo

We have just sufficiently recovered from the announcement of the proposed new common-room, office-building, and get-together headquarters to wonder what it is going to look like.

We rather hope it is planned as a perisphere, with trylon to match. That would give future Varsity editors a concrete tower atop which to excogitate, and at the same time make the campus collection of architectural styles complete.

Hart House, for instance, is Collegiate Gothic, which in practice means all the monotony of the Gothic with none of its riot of ornament; except for some shy caricatures peering amid the shadows from the upper eaves of the Great Hall or painted on the windows of the Faculty Union where there is no danger of their causing unseemly merriment to undergraduates.

University College reflects a quarrel between the architect and the Governor-General of the time by being Norman in front and (we think) Byzantine behind; though the Byzantine is badly scamped and the restoration of the east wing after the fire fifty years ago introduced touches of yet a third style.

Trinity is no style we know of, though the fussiness of the turrets presumably has a liturgical significance which has been abandoned in the 1939 barn of a residence wing.

Whitney Hall is Georgian and lovely, though an entire university-full of Georgian would be squat and depressing.

Victoria College represents the Early Bad Manner of the Parliament Buildings architect, who presumably took his proportions from a passing dray-horse.

Convocation Hall, a rough copy of Hadrian's Tomb with swatches of Union Station spliced across it, is an experiment we would not want to see repeated, though on the principle that nothing is damned until it has been done we think it was worth making.

The Electrical and Mechanical Buildings represent the maximum of floor-space per dollar invested; which is all they do represent, except possibly the Soul of the Machine. The Medical Building seems the product of a similar architectural philosophy, with the addition of a couple of turrets to create the suspicion that an architect was at work and not an efficiency expert.

No trylon, however, and no perisphere. It is a lack the designer of the new Student-Graduate centre must remedy.

— W. H. K.

All her life, Priscilla had been frustrated. When she was born, the doctor told her anxious parents that she was a girl. The next day it appeared in the Hatched, Matched and Scratched column of the local Daily Doubloon, "Born, to Mrs. and Mr. R. U. Ther, one girl." And so she was. She had nothing much to say about it at the time.

Her favorite color was blue. But she was a girl. So she was swaddled in a billous pink that did unmentionable things to her complexion and bright red hair. She could do nothing much about it at the time.

As Priscilla grew old enough to crawl about, she felt the need for slacks of some kind to save the inevitable wear and tear on her knees.

But she was a girl. So she wore petticoats. She detested them. But she was too small to do much about it at the time.

As she grew still older, Priscilla discovered an undying, all-consuming passion for acrobatics. At night, clad in her little sleeper, she used to stand on her head in the middle of her bed for hours. Simply hours. People used to wander in and out, speaking to her softly, and she stood there, upside down, bathed in a roseate hue of happiness and standing-on-her-headiness twitting back to them in a gentle monotone.

Backward and forward somersaults became the next step in her development. Every evening, a frontward flip into the downy depths of her bed. Every morning, a backward flip, a la berceuse, out again. At night and in the early morning, she was a completely happy, normal child.

The day of reckoning was at hand. Eating a steady diet of vitamins, poor Priscilla soon grew out of her sleepers, and graduated into a nightgown (or, as her mother put it so deliciously, a "nightie.")

Anyone who has read this far can see what she was up against, trying to turn somersaults (in either direction) or stand on her head wearing skirts. All polite society was ranged in a ferocious row against her. "NO, Priscilla!" they signed.

With Society against her, the poor girl (she was still growing) at first bewildered, and then defiant, turned against Society. Viciously. She became a Communist, then a Conservative, a bohemian, atheist, Rosicrucian, Methodist, B'hai, Menshevik, — not all at once, of course. She turned from one creed to the next to find escape from Society, only to find that it was still there, no matter what its name. And she was still a girl. And all those people she had met on her various excursions felt the same way about it all. It was pitiful. Really it was.

One day, someone made what sounded like a sensible solution. "Why don't you go to university, Priscilla, and become Educated and find The Answer to It All? Why Don't you?" So she did. She took a course in Political Science, and became quite political. Economical-mindedness came with Economics 1a, and so forth with all her courses. She had such a flexible personality.

But they still wouldn't let her turn somersaults in either direction nor stand on her head in the halls (while wearing skirts, that is). She loved plaid slacks, and they might have solved many of her problems, if only the Head of Girls had agreed with her. But she didn't. So she couldn't.

Society was against her even with Education. Sadly she wandered into Hart House to put an ad in the paper. She had lost her last pair of slacks. Fattering pensively up the great stone steps, Priscilla was brought rudely out of her reverie by a burly guard. He told her point-blank that she was a Girl. Dumbly she peered up at him through tear-laden lashes.

"I Know," she whispered.

"OUT!" he snarled.

She gazed mournfully past his ears at the happy boys in their suits lining up in a mile-long trek to the dining

(Continued on Page 7)

"I thought you invited me to see your etchings."
 "Nonsense! We're here to Light Up and Listen!"

*"Light-Up-and-Listen"
 With SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES
 Every Thursday 9.30 p.m.

CKEY — CJBC

Hours: 9.30 to 5.30
 Open All Day Saturday

Fairweather on Yonge

Need we remind you that Valentine's Day is February 14th.?

"Love-You-a-Lot"
 Gift Suggestions
 on our Main Floor

- Heart-shaped compacts, black enamel, with gilt or all-gilt 3.50
- Heady "Sirocco" cologne by Lucien Lelong 1.50 to 3.50
- "Colleen" original handkerchiefs in lovely dainty florals50
- Beautiful Corde handbags 5.95
- Natural English fabric gloves 1.55

FAIRWEATHER Limited ★ 88-90 Yonge (at King)

"FOR STUDENTS FROM STUDENTS" SUPPORT
 INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICE

Hart House Bulletin Board

Glee Club

The regular rehearsal of the Glee Club will be held in the music room at 5 p.m. to-day. Dr. Peaker will, however, be present from 4.30 on to help any members with difficult passages. Nominations for next year's committee will be received.

Hart House Debate

The final Hart House Debate for this season will be held at 8 p.m. on 20th February. The Hon. Visitor will be the Hon. Douglas C. Abbott, K.C., Minister of National Defence.

SENIOR BLUES PLAY QUEEN'S TONIGHT

Varsity Hockey Team Meets Gaels at Arena

By Red Jones

Senior Intercollegiate Hockey makes its first Toronto appearance since 1939, tonight, when the Varsity team takes on the Tricolored Sextet from Queen's. The time is 8 p.m., the place Varsity Arena. With Ace Bailey, again at the helm, the Blues who took the title back in '39, have reassumed their winning ways by taking their first two scheduled games.

At present McGill leads the four-team loop with six points picked up by defeating Montreal twice and Queen's once. Toronto holds second spot by virtue of 16-5 and 6-1 wins over University of Montreal and Queen's respectively. The game at Kingston was closer than the score indicates for the teams were tied 1-1 going into the third period.

Main spring of the Toronto team has been Wally Halder who garnered 12 points in the two games played to-date. For the first time this season Wally was held off the score sheet in an exhibition game at Michigan on Saturday and he will be striving hard to maintain his good average against the men from "the penitentiary-city" to-night.

The Varsity Seniors can boast of a record which would be hard to rany of their college predecessors to excel. Their victims in exhibition games include Staffords, Peoples, Michigan (four times), Colorado Springs (twice), McMaster and Potsdam. Their one loss was a close one to Peoples when Halder and Henry were absent from the line-up.

Flanking Halder to form the starry first line are Gord Ball and Henry. The second line is composed of Bromley, Kosick, Lawler and Bauer. The later player, incidentally, is the only one on the roster who will not see action in this evening's encounter because of illness and severe headaches. Kryzanowski and Wade are one half of the effective Blue-line crew while "Ironmen" Doyle and Puttock are the other duo. Between the pipes is a reliable U.T.S. graduate Dick Ball.

Aiding Ace Bailey to keep the team in shape are trainer Joe Carruthers, and manager Harvey Spence of S.P.S.

Monday night the coach had the boys do a bit of light skating and despite the knocks they took over the week-end from the rough and ready Wolverines, Ace claims the boys are right up to par and will give a good show for their rooters.

Which brings up a very touchy point. It is quite evident that this team has done as much, if not more than any other to publicize the athletic prowess of the Blue and White this semester. But it is a tough thing to ask a team to continue their winning ways without some support. Bailey was very much impressed by the packed arena in Kingston when our boys played there and it took the Blues themselves two periods to shake off their misgivings about playing before a full house. Varsity Arena has a seating capacity of some 5,000; the Junior-B game on Fri-

Group Work Talk For S.W. Students

Mr. Bertram Gold, Assistant Professor in the School of Social Work, will give a special public lecture on Wednesday, February 13th, at 4 p.m., in Room 13 of the Economics Building. His subject will be "Group Work Comes of Age". Mr. Gold has recently joined the staff of the School of Social Work following service as an Educational Officer with the United States Army in England.

A graduate of the University of Toronto, he obtained his Bachelor's degree from University College, later attended Western Reserve College, Cleveland, Ohio, for his Master's degree.

Before proceeding overseas, he was on the staff of the School of Applied Social Science of the University of Pittsburgh.

day night drew a "sell-out" crowd of 250 while the Senior exhibitions have been attended by 500 students per game at the most.

Let's hope that exhibitions were not considered vital enough to matter much; but let's also hope and make sure that when the Seniors skate out on the ice to-night they'll hear a Varsity Yell that will wake up half the general hospital patients.

Seek Homes In Whitby For Ajax Families

Housing for married students, current number one problem at the Ajax Division, has been sought of home owners in Oshawa and Whitby areas by the Students' Administrative Council.

A letter from J. B. Essery, Ajax S.A.C. secretary, appealing to the officers of Whitby organizations for cooperation, has met favorable response and promises to bring the facts to the attention of homeowners.

Mr. Essery stated in his letter that it was the intention of the S.A.C. to help married students find suitable accommodation in the Oshawa and Whitby area, so that after long separation, and after having made the decision to equip themselves with a university degree, they may at least be near their wives during their university training.

"The university has only adequate accommodation for single students, living in residence," he stated. "A very great majority of these new students were officers and men in the Canadian Army (active), and have served their country overseas for periods of from three to five years. During this time, of course, they have been separated from their wives and families.

"We are writing to you in the hope that through your organization (letters have been sent out to the various organizations in Whitby), and the community, you may be able to assist us in finding accommodation for these young married couples."

War Workers Blamed
Unhappy experiences of home owners with war workers was blamed by Mrs. Fred Marsh, Whitby I.O.D.E. president, for the difficulty of getting homes opened up for students.

"Many people have had an unhappy experience with war workers, with the result that they will not take in roomers even if they have rooms," she said. She promised that the I.O.D.E. would discuss the question at an executive meeting.

William Pringle, president of the Rotary Club, said that his organization would be glad to do everything possible.

"There isn't very much that we can do, but we would be glad to assist in every possible way," he said.

Mrs. Frank Wells, secretary of the War Effort Committee, said that the Ajax housing problem as it affected Whitby was largely a job for the various women's organizations. "There is definitely a great need and something should be done," she said.

Similar response was received from executives of other organizations.

The

VARSAITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 80

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Tuesday, February 12, 1946

False Alarm.....

St. George St. was quiet and serene yesterday afternoon.

Suddenly the stillness was shattered by the scream of sirens. Down the street roared three fire-trucks, their brilliant red bodies and gleaming brasswork contrasting sharply with the dirty grey snow and dirty grey sky.

They braked to a stop in front of the Zeta Psi house and disgorged their cargoes of rubber-booted, helmeted firemen. Brandishing axes some dashed inside, while others unhooked ladders, unreeled hoses and searched for hydrants.

A minute later they came out, disconsolate.

"False alarm!" one muttered. Axes were stowed, ladders rehooked, hoses reeled, and the trucks sped off with siren silent.

St. George St. was silent again. Seems a book-case belonging to the Zetas caught fire last Saturday.

An immediate phone call to the Fire Department produced results 48 hours later.

Vets To Graduate With New Degree

Dr. A. L. McNabb, principal of the Ontario Veterinary College in Guelph announced that the Senate of the University of Toronto have approved the degree of doctor of veterinary medicine for graduates of the College. The new degree is to be conferred on the class of '46 at convocation this spring.

The new degree will replace that of bachelor of veterinary science which has been granted by the college through this University, with which it is affiliated, since 1909.

A higher standard of admission comes with the raising of the standard of the degree. This will be effective for the class entering in the fall term.

Dr. MacNabb stated that the entrance requirements were now equal to those of practically any other faculty, and that Grade 13 standard has been made obligatory, with certain specified subjects required.

The academic year will be lengthened, with the college year beginning near the first of October, classes continuing until the end of May, instead of the end of April, as previously.

It was pointed out by the Principal that graduates from the College who practise in the States would now have a degree identical to that conferred by the American schools, and would not be at a disadvantage of only having what amounted to a bachelor's degree.

Smokey Areas Will Be Clean In 'Toronto

Toronto will be white rather than its usual tattle tale tone when electrostatic smoke-removing devices come on the market "in a year or so," said J. T. Thwaites, electronics division head of the Canadian Westinghouse Co., Ltd., Hamilton.

Accompanying his address Saturday night to the Royal Canadian Institute in Convocation Hall, were slides showing pictures of factory chimneys, before and after the installation of the smoke-removers. Dark billowing clouds of smoke disappeared to nothing, or at most a slight haze.

Besides probable benefits to hay-fever victims, the removal of 85% of irritating air-borne particles will make clean city air in industrial cities, according to Dr. Thwaites.

Dr. Thwaites also described a new process which will greatly increase efficiency in industry. Radio frequency heating, electrically produced and controlled, will cut vulcanizing, welding, and gluing times.

This process will affect metal production.

Schools' Task to Lead States Mrs. Kirkwood

Should Not Follow Opinion

"Our schools and colleges should form opinion, not follow it. They should illuminate the movements of contemporary life and help to direct them. They should, in a word, be effectual in creating the civilization of the future." So stated Mrs. M. M. Kirkwood, Dean of women of Trinity College, in an address to a gathering in Room 8 of University College, late yesterday afternoon.

"This," continued Mrs. Kirkwood, "their major task will only be accomplished if the teacher is possessed of wisdom, and if under the fruitful influences of a free society, he is moved to give all that he has to his work. To have as teachers have, more toils, is to stultify the whole process. To lag so far behind creative thought as to force real teachers into martyrdom is to delay the coming of the kingdom for years, perhaps centuries.

Appoint Secretary For Hart House

Mr. D. A. Watt, who joined the staff of Hart House last December after his discharge from the Royal Canadian Air Force, has resigned his position as secretary of the House. Mr. Watt has decided to take a librarian's course next Fall.

"As it will be impossible to make any change in the staff when the pressure of work is so great, it is with very great regret that we release Mr. Watt from his position now," said J. B. Bickersteth, Warden of Hart House.

Mr. P. R. Bryce, a graduate of Victoria College, will take over Mr. Watt's position. He has been working for two years on the Ontario Research Board after being rejected from the army on medical grounds. He will act as assistant to the Warden and his job will be to look after undergraduate activities.

This year there is a record number of over 1,000 Graduate and Faculty members of Hart House. To look after this increased membership a new position has been formed with the title, Graduate Secretary. Mr. H. J. A. Brown, who joined the staff last Fall, after serving in the Far East with the R.C.A.F., will take over this job.

The choice before society today should not be difficult."

"The profession practised by Socrates is also the profession practised by those devoted public employees of indifferent rank who today throughout the country teach the three R's to the citizens of the future. The term teacher, may connote distinction and prestige, or it may connote insignificance and dependence," said the Dean.

"The teacher must give himself to his subject and to his students—an intensely personal, intelligent, whole-souled giving—or the work falls. There must be a devotion to, and absorption in the nation involved; there must be a delight in life, especially young life, strong enough to push the teacher into understanding and to assist him to withstand the pressure of monotony and difficulty that beset him in his special task; and there must be something within, which supports the teacher in his giving, raising it from a taste or tendency into a resolved course," she said.

"There is no doubt that in the Canadian and American systems of education, organization has frequently received more attention than the character and quality of the teacher. If, however, the children in the schools and the students in the universities are consulted as to what matters most to them, they will be found almost invariably to talk of what the teacher or professor does and is. Except in advanced studies more scholarship does not get the would-be teacher very far with his students. On the other hand, reliance on technique and a facile "teacheriness" give less than satisfaction."

"It is therefore natural and right that in all recent discussions and reports upon what education may accomplish towards creating a better and safer world, the matter of securing good teachers has been stressed almost as strongly as the question as to what should be taught," continued Mrs. Kirkwood.

"In Canada, and particularly in Ontario, we have benefited by a tradition, by the provision at public expense of education for all. Nevertheless, education to be made more effective, needs still larger and larger appropriations, so that ade-

(Continued on Page 8)

Queen's, Western, McMaster To Hold Exchange Debates

Humanists Query Religion in Schools

For several months a committee of the Humanist Club has been studying the problem of religious education in schools. The committee will present its report to a general meeting of the club on Wednesday.

A discussion of the issues raised will follow the report, and recommendation for future action will be made. In addition, the much-discussed movie, "It Happened in Springfield", will be shown.

The Humanist Club, since its inception last year, was one of the organizations instrumental in bringing the current Japanese-Canadian question to the fore. It is an organization of students who believe that the individual must take the lead in shaping the world about him and that each faith and philo-

Kingslon, Feb. 11.—(CUP)—The Western Debating team will go to Kingston for one of the big debates of the season. The topic will be: "Resolved Every Canadian Youth Should Undergo At Least One Year of Compulsory Training."

The University of London is sending down James Gillis and Edward Galpin to uphold the Western tradition. Queens is putting up Frank Hooten and Jerry Stoner.

With Queen's taking the negative angle of the question, a large crowd is expected.

The same day, Queens' representatives Arthur Ross and James Short will be at McMaster, Hamilton.

The Queens' Debating Union plans a discussion of Russian Affairs which will be broadcast over station C.F.R.C. on February 20.

sophy has a contribution to make.

The meeting will be held Wednesday at 8.00 p.m. in Wynmwood.

New Jazz?

Maybe we're behind the times, maybe we don't know what we're talking about, but for some reason or other a lot of this New Jazz that's being cut these days is just a lot of nonsense to us.

For one thing we would like to know, "Where on earth is the beat?"

Just pick up one of those ultra-modern discs like Charlie Shaver's Keynote version of Stardust, that's ever been invented on the trumpet. He literally tears Stardust to shreds, and that goes for Tab Smith's alto which follows. But as for any evidence of zest or emotion, well there just is none. Now this kind of music sounds very impressive, and if you wrote those notes down on paper it would look very impressive, but lost in the plethora of technique is the rhythm.

Every player, not just the drummer, must have a beat. If he hasn't got it then he might just as well sell his horn and play a radio. Jazz just isn't jazz if the rhythm doesn't make you feel like bouncing right along with it. And this is just where much of this new stuff falls down.

Now we don't mean that Charlie Shaver can't play jazz. He has made some fine recordings in his time. But since this recording came first to mind, we are using it as a specific example of something that's becoming altogether too prevalent.

The Hawk or Dizzie Gillespie will play something cute, and soon every hornblower across the country picks it up and makes a bunch of clichés out of it that simply doesn't make sense. And when you hear it you ask, "What's that guy trying to get at?" or "What does it all mean?"

What we would like to know is what has happened to the beat?

Now I know that Dixieland is getting a lot of hard knocks these days, but no matter what you have to say about it, the boys who play that kind of music play as though they mean it.

Sure they haven't advanced in twenty years; sure their ideas are decadent and old fashioned. But they haven't forgotten the thing that's the essence of jazz and that distinguishes it from other forms of music—the beat. As soon as they forget it, well you can wrap jazz up in a corn bag and throw it down the cavity of a violin cell; it will have ceased to have any meaning for us.

Possibly the greatest sinner is that class of drummer who can't see Davey Tough because he doesn't take solos, or to whom Lionel Hampton is the greatest drummer alive because he plays so fast. Paradiddles, rim-shots, flashy cymbal crashes and double times are spilt out by them in a tremendous torrent. But just ask them if they can pound out a good, steady, jumpy rhythm without getting all askew of their original time, and they give you a glassy stare, and flash back with "What's the matter pops, you mad or sumthin'?"

Now we hope that this stage of the game isn't the permanent last word. We have the idea that this is just a transition in the development of modern music.

We still want to see the days when a man will play jazz because he has something to say with his horn, and not just spill wax and notes artlessly.

SID STARKMAN

Starkman's Peeve

By Reg. Herman

Cinemarathon

LOST WEEK-END at the Shea's, 95%. Rushed into Toronto as soon as possible after the Arts Ball, this picture loses not only Ray Milland's week-end, but five years off its audiences' lives. I don't think I'm a chronic alcoholic but my hands are still shaking and high screeching sounds will be unnering for weeks.

No wonder it's not recommended for children. Half the audience comes out gibbering wrecks.

The background music is sensational, and without drawing the audience's attention away from the action, arouses a pitch of dramatic tension that perfectly supplements it. I'm told the effect was created by high soprano voices worked in with the violins, but don't expect to hear "Let It Snow, Let It Snow, Let It Snow."

The scenes in the alcoholic ward of the city hospital are chilling, but the most hair-raising scene your eyes have ever bulged at occurs shortly afterwards, when Milland conjures up a bat and mouse sequence that would make Dracula look like Little Bo Peep. After this, you aren't terribly surprised when Milland looks as though he's aged twenty years in the three days of his merry drinking spree.

Little bits of humor apparently placed to relieve the tension are actually highly effective in heightening the drama. And the superb supporting performances command attention at all times without the aid of a plot. Perhaps the male nurse in the hospital was unnecessarily sadistic, and bartenders don't often try to persuade customers to jump off the Empire State or under a subway train, but the only real fault with the picture is the lack of definite assurance that he's permanently cured at the end.

Aw, come on, have just a little one!

DOLL-FACE at Victoria and Eglinton, 30%. Apparently Famous Players are replacing the Tivoli with the Victoria for two-theatre first-runs of pictures that just don't make the grade of the big ones.

Doll-Face has two good points. But you have to see the picture to appreciate them, although they are by no means obscure. Whether Perry Como's "Dig It" number and the leggy burlesque provide sufficient reason to see the picture is up to the movie-goer, but the picture sure hasn't got much else.

As Doll-Face, Vivian Blaine carries the part, but why they decided to point up her face in preference to the rest of her is quite a mystery. Another mystery is how Hollywood script writers can continue to put out scripts like this one and still be allowed to wander around free.

Perry Como sings and sings but has only (Continued on Page 8)

Tonight!

University of Toronto DRAMA FESTIVAL

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE —

"Hands Across The Sea"

—NOEL COWARD

VICTORIA COLLEGE —

"Riders To The Sea"

—JOHN SYNGE

TRINITY COLLEGE —

"Family Album"

—NOEL COWARD

PLACE: U.T.S. Auditorium

PRICE: Fifty Cents

Tickets On Sale At The Door.

TICKETS 50c

CANADIAN CAMPUS

By BARBARA JONES

Have you had a ghost in the Engineering Building or a cow in the campus bell tower? Do you welcome your Frosh in African costume or cherish fond memories of a stream called the Taddle? If you haven't or don't some other Canadian Campus has or does. Young as the Canadian campus is compared to its European forebears it has traditions and legends of its own.

Manitoba is justly proud of their myth of the Engineer's ghost. The ghost is supposed to be the spirit of an Engineering professor's wife who died after a dance in the Common Room of the Engineering Building at Fort Garry. In the best Anne Boleyn tradition, she is reported to wander up and down the "drafty corridors" wailing and wringing her hands. But alas she has never been seen and seems to confine her nocturnal wanderings to the nights when the Engineering Building is closed. Though no one has heard her wail, Manitoba students declare that she has the voice of a young woman.

There really was a cow in the campus bell tower at the University of Toronto many years ago in the days when Chancellor Cody was an undergraduate. The cow belonged to the University College steward who pastured it on the back campus and one night he was awakened by the tolling of the bell only to discover that the undergraduates had somehow enticed the cow into the bell tower and tied the rope to its horns. The bell was silenced easily enough but the real problem was getting the cow out of the tower. The cow stubbornly refused to go down the stairs. Finally planks were laid from landing to landing and the cow was shoved down, presumably with more difficulty than she had been pulled up.

For years the incident has continued to reappear in Campus Cats (a daily column in The Varsity) and reminiscences of days gone by, that and the tales of the meandering Taddle, now replaced by the Hart House Pool where Freshmen were dunked in season.

The best known tradition at the University of Saskatchewan dates from the days when the campus was suffering an acute woman-power shortage. In those early days (Continued on Page 7)

ROYAL
ALEXANDRA
KING ST. WEST OF UNIVERSITY AVE.

ALL THIS WEEK

Evgs. (8:20) Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

Return Visit by Popular Request

RUTH CHATTERTON presents
Kay FRANCIS
WINDY HILL
by PATSY RUTH MILLER
ROGER PRYOR
Staged by MISS CHATTERTON. Setting by EDWARD GIBBERT.

Evgs. 90c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00
Mats. Wed.-Sat. 90c - $1.20 - $1.80
All Tax Included.

Box Office Open 10 A.M. to 10 P.M.
NO PHONE ORDERS

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses
filled with quality spectacle-
ware at reasonable prices.
Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

What's the Answer?

TO

JAP-CANADIAN QUESTION

OPEN FORUM

WITH

CROLL - BREWIN - TANAKA

Economics Bldg.

Thurs., Feb. 14

Neilson's

JERSEY MILK CHOCOLATE

The Quality Chocolate

(Don Harron cartoon courtesy of Acta Victoriana)

"But You'll Find the Girls at Annesley Are EXOTICALLY Different."

CANCER RESEARCH BY ACADIA GRAD

Wolfville, N.S., Feb. 9—(CUP)—
Dr. Charles Higgins, one of America's top urological surgeons and recognized leader in cancer research, was recently appointed a full time member of the staff in the hospital and medical school at Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Higgins has devised an operative method for arresting the growth of cancer of the prostate gland as well as a chemical test to detect the presence of cancer.

He graduated from Acadia University in 1920 and received his
M.D. from Harvard University in 1924.

Virginia Dare

There's no prettier, more personal gift than a Virginia Dare housecoat. Especially a snug chenille housecoat like this one . . . in a glowing shade of Rose, Turquoise, Blue or Fuchsia . . .
with contrasting color outlining the neckline, pocket, front closing and the wide flattering sleeves.
Small, Medium and Large. 6.98

Slippers go with housecoats the way romance goes with Valentines . . . and Virginia Dare has ever so many dainty pairs of slippers for your choice
. . . in Blue, Wine, Red, Black.

The one with the cross-strap—2.50
The one with the bow and high heel—2.95

MAIL ORDERS

With money order send 10c to cover cost of mailing. Send to Head Office, Kent Building,
Toronto

A Store in Your Neighbourhood

Virginia Dare
LIMITED

A CUP Feature

BRIDGE PROBLEMS

By BRUCE BECKER

North		East
S.	Q 8 3	S.	10 5
H.	7 5 2	H.	10 3
D.	A 8 5 3	D.	K 9 6 4
C.	Q 6 5	C.	A 10 8 7 3
West		South
S.	J 7 2	S.	A K 9 6 4
H.	J 9 8 4	H.	A K Q 6
D.	Q J 10	D.	7 2
C.	K J 9	C.	4 2

North Dealer. Neither side vulnerable.
The Bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 Spade	Pass
1 N. T.	Pass	2 Hearts	Pass
2 Spades	Pass	3 Spades	Pass
4 Spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is featured by North's final raise to four Spades, when South still shows interest in reaching game after North's previous minimum responses.

Opening lead: Queen of Diamonds.

In the play South employs a simple safety device, which consists of drawing only two rounds of trumps, the Ace and the Queen, and then playing 3 rounds of Hearts. If the Hearts split the last trump is extracted and South's fourth Heart would make the tenth trick; but if they do not split, the contract can still be made if the player with the third Spade is the one with the four Hearts, for if the Heart Queen holds the small Heart may be ruffed in dummy. This play, which costs nothing, enables South to fulfill his contract. It is a technique overlooked by many players, which is strange, for its principle is so simple.

OPEN MEETING

8.00
P.M.

LESLIE
BLACKWELL

WED.
Feb. 13

PROGRESSIVE-CONSERVATIVE
CLUB

MEETING CHANGED FROM WOMEN'S UNION TO CARTWRIGHT HALL

Speaking OF SPORT

By Don Mason

Is It Worth It?

We had the pleasure of witnessing the Senior Blues drub the Ann Arbor ice squad this past week-end, but unfortunately we still have a very bad taste in our mouth due, not to alcoholic spirits, but to the behaviour of the Michigan squad, the tactics of Coach Vic Heyliger in particular.

We've seen a lot of hockey games, but never have we seen a team play so maliciously as did the Michigan team. Why, we couldn't say. But it was obvious—obvious to everyone but Referee Ace Lee. They pulled just about every illegal trick in the books, and a few that aren't in the books. There was a notice in the Michigan dressing room which had the names, Halder, Kosick and Bauer on it. Halder and Kosick were too fast for them; Davey Bauer got a stick across the nose, another that cut his lip clean through. Referee Lee condescendingly awarded a minor penalty for the latter.

Well, they played a dirty game. Anyone who saw it will admit it? But where does the blame lie for such unsportsmanship? The answer lies in a statement that "Ace" Bailey made after Friday night's game—"If I had that team they wouldn't play like that". Yes, one can understand the occasional loss of tempers, but when a team as a whole is so intent upon doing damage to their opponents in a mere exhibition game, the blame must lie at the feet of the coach of that team. Vic Heyliger could have easily put a stop to the flagrant cross-checking and slashing—he knew Varsity was playing a league game to-night—but he chose not to. A team doesn't just decide among themselves that they will attempt to mangle their opponents because they know those opponents represent a better hockey team. A team plays the type of hockey—good or bad—that their coach thinks should be played.

Let us point out that if our own "Ace" Bailey chose to have his team play a style of game that wasn't in the rule books, we would be the very first to hit out against "Ace". We're not hitting out at Vic Heyliger as a person, but at Vic Heyliger if he wants to play deliberate, dirty hockey, because we hate unsportsmanship in any sport.

Perhaps the answer lies in the fact that the Michigan squad is paid one way or another for their hockey services, the Toronto team play for the love of the game. Herein lies one of the greatest faults of the "monetary system" used in American college sports. A guy on a team realizes that in order to keep his athletic "scholarship", or his car or his monthly stipend, he must turn in a performance that pleases the coach, even if it doesn't please himself.

We honestly think that any coach would find it impossible to successfully exhort the Toronto Senior Hockey team to deliberately cut up their opponents. Not because our Blues are embryonic angels, but because they are playing the game for the enjoyment they derive from the playing, and slashing some kid across the face with a hockey stick just doesn't fit into the picture.

Proclamation

The players were there. The Referee was there. The scorers were there. Yep, you guessed it; the U. of T. was playing last night. Oh! Oh! pardon me, didn't I tell you? Well, you see, the students of our fair "U" don't support hockey teams. At least not their own teams. That is why the stands have only 25 Blue supporters in them.

But that is not the half of it. These Jr. Blues pucksters have been practising and sweating it out all season. Staff Smythe has rounded them into a fast smooth skating crew and last night Oshawa will have been their last opposition.

UNLESS The Athletic Directors of the U. of T. which meets to-night grants permission for own Jr. Blues to continue in Jr. "B" O.H.A. playdowns.

The team has been sensational every time out and the kids love the game and want to continue playing it. Staff Smythe is for it, so are their parents; will the University be for it?

Let's hope so; no hockey team likes to be knocked out of contention in the committee room.

By the way the score of last night's game was 5-4 for Oshawa!

Ajax Conquers Oshawa At Basketball, 32-20

Last night at the Ajax recreation hall the much-improved U. of T. Jax defeated the Oshawa Stars 32-20. This game was the first victory for the newly-formed University team, who went down to defeat in their first game at the hands of the Varsity Senior A's.

The game was comparatively slow with both teams playing cautious basketball. Ajax depended mostly on their height and quick breaks while the Oshawa team presented a smooth passing attack and sharp-shooting.

The first half started with both teams playing a zone defence. After five minutes the Jax broke loose to take a twelve point lead on quick baskets by Roe and Doty. Oshawa then settled down and proceeded to baffle the Jax' zone defence by sharp-shooting from outside by Hess and Patt. Ajax then switched to man for man defence and the half ended with both teams missing many chances. Half-time score, Ajax 19, Oshawa 14.

In the second half play slowed down considerably and became scrumbly until, with four minutes to play, Ajax broke loose again and scored on fast breaks by Doty and Torrens. The game ended with Ajax still pressing. Final score—Ajax 32, Oshawa 20.

High-scorer in the game was Fred Doty for Ajax with 11 points. He was the fastest man on the floor and his smooth play sparked the Ajax team. Also in the Jax spotlight was Johnny Roe who collected three quick baskets in the first quarter. For Oshawa, Seely and Hess with six and five points respectively were prominent and showed good passing and shooting, scoring on many long shots.

Coach of the Oshawa Stars is 'Moe' Charney, one-time Argonaut rugby star. Although getting on in years, 'Moe' played with his team for part of the game and, early in the second quarter, sank a beauty from the centre-line.

The greatly improved Ajax hoopers showed the benefit of their game at Hart House, and are rapidly coming along under the watchful eye of coach Tom Davey. With further practice they will be a team hard to beat, Senior School

Sport In Short

THURS. FEB. 7
Major Basketball
Jr. Med.	40	Sr. U.C.	28
Minor Basketball
For. B.	26	U.C. Econ.	16
For. E.	23	Trin. IV.	20
U.C. III.	36	Iv Mech.	16
Trin. V.	32	Wyc. B.	8
Hockey
U.C. I.	5	Med. I.	1
Knox A.	4	U.C. III.	2
Pharm.	4	Dent. B.	2
Water Polo
Dents.	3	Vic. I.	1
U.C. I.	1	Sr. S.P.S.	2
Jr. Med.	0	St. M.	8

FRIDAY FEB. 8
Major Basketball
Sr. S.P.S.	35	P.H.E. I.	9
Jr. Vic.	27	Jr. S.P.S.	26
Minor Basketball
Knox. B.	20	St. M. E.	19
Hockey
Trin. A.	6	Dent. A.	2
Trin. B.	4	St. M.B.	0

SATURDAY FEB. 9
Major Basketball
Sr. Vic.	20	Jr. U.C.A.	15 take note

Ajax	Position	Oshawa
Torrens	Centre	Hess
Doty	Rt. Forward	Brisbane
Crang	Lt. Forward	Patt
Pierce	Rt. Guard	Ross
Taylor	Lt. Guard	Seely
Alternates
Ajax:	Bate, McHenry, Clough, Roe, Andrassy, Robson, Harvey and Oujanoff.
Oshawa:	Howard, Anderson, Smith, Landon, Mosowski, Charney.

Ajax Sports

Bowling
Winner	Loser	Score
724B	726B	1849-1730
732A	730A	1557-1467
727B	723B	1775-1402
725B	722B	1576-1383
733A	729A	1564-1517
722A	725A	1764-1604
727A	723A	1519-1245
724A	726A	1685-1105
728A	731A	1776-1422
728B	731B	1710-1475

Basketball
737	defeated 731A—18-17.
725A	defeated 723A—27-14.
724A	defeated 727—46-30.
733	defeated 726—14-13.
Hockey
723	defeated 722—2-1.

Audience Tensing Varsity Fencing

"In line, guard, play" was the command, as O. Reynolds took over the mike at half-time, during the big basketball game at Saturday's athletic night, to bring to the lower gym crowds an exhibition of fencing by the members of the University Fencing Team.

The first demonstration was a foil match with Jerry Boulanger and Jack Stanborough, both of S.P.S., participating. Jack is this year's winner of the novice tournament, and Jerry the runner-up. The foil is the practice weapon for all fencers, and the use of it comes first in their training routine.

Stanborough drew first blood, when he registered a hit on Boulanger's chest. Shortly Boulanger evened it up, but Stanborough came back with two quick hits to win the match 3-1.

Jack Moir of Vic engaged Dick Thomson of Vic in the second bout, an epee match. Again a best-of-five contest, Thomson gained the first two hits on Moir, lost one, and when a double-hit was counted, Thomson came out on top with a 3-2 decision.

To finish the exhibition, Keith Conn of Engineering and Lloyd Winter of U.C. tangled, with the sabres, in the lengthiest of the three matches. Winters registered the first hit, but Conn countered with three in a row. Winters came in with two more to tie the count at 3-3, when Conn again hit the mark to sneak ahead 4-3, and Winters then finished things off, taking a 5-4 decision away with him.

The Varsity fencing team, of Thomson, Conn, Winters and Gillespie, the last of whom did not appear on Saturday, take on the McGill quartet on Feb. 22 at Toronto, in their first intercollegiate scheduled match of the season.

In the Senior Interfaculty Fencing finals yesterday the results were: First was K. Conn of II S.P.S., second came Dick Thomson of Vic, and Neil Gillespie II S.P.S. finished third. Jack Stanborough and Lloyd Winter hacked their way to the fourth and fifth position respectively. Tomorrow the Epee Final bouts are to take place.

U.S. Girls Have You Beat Can. Co-eds, Use Your Feet

They wonder at the svelte figures of American coeds, and bravely defend the "wholesomeness" of Canadian lassies. They attribute those husky shapely legs of gals at U.S. universities to the influence of Hollywood, and dumpy Canadian girls are given the bird.

Did it ever occur to anyone that the Phys. Ed. training of the two groups of girls might be different? In the States perhaps the girls are more vigorous, and enter on a larger scale the more energetic sports played on most American campuses. Why can't Canadian intercollegiate sports include such athletics as soccer, field hockey, and three court basketball?

Intercollegiate soccer is played in the large midwestern women's sports leagues. A team of eleven husky lassies racing up and down the field after the same ball which the men have just chased looks no more ridiculous than they did. Their dignity can be as quickly recovered. Shinguards help the fair damsels from being completely knocked off the field. But then, haven't the best of us been kicked before? Why not try it? It is no faster than ice hockey, and far less cut-throat.

Field hockey surpasses soccer in popularity as an intercollegiate sport. Demanding more speed and finer co-ordinations, the game is also a little less rugged. In Canada it seems to be too difficult for any but those lucky girls in preparatory schools. The rules are similar to ice hockey, eleven on a team, but there is more position playing.

And why not try three court basketball? This has been instituted in the large eastern women's colleges so that more girls can play at once. The nine gal team plays a game which is just as fast and demands just as much skill as the old six-man game where each player covers a slightly larger part of the field. The three centers are not just fillers in—the court is larger and often the ball may chase around the center section for quite a while before it even reaches the forwards to try the basket.

These are possibilities for that day when we get our own athletic fields, and large gym. Then let's try it out against McGill and Queen's. At least the hockey and soccer, eh?

Presenting shutout Dick Ball, your net minder of the Senior Blues. He will be part of the great hockey machine that is going to send Queen's home tonight defeated. Don't miss this stellar show, the first intercollegiate game in old Varsity Arena since '39. Let's raise the rafters to-night, 8:00 P.M. sharp!

• Sportswoman •

By Phoebe Taylor

Girls' Hockey

P. & H. E. defeated St. Hilda's in an exciting game yesterday. St. Hilda's star player, Jan Murray, led several vain attempts to score against P. & H. E. whose Helen Walker showed P. & H. E.'s best stickhandling. The one goal of the game was scored by Lois Morrison, P. & H. E., assisted by Ann Stewart in the second period. The game in general was slow, and there was no spectacular playing. Spotty intervals of fast play were interrupted by long intervals of disorganized scrambling.

U. C. Women

Due to limited athletic facilities for U.C. women, the W.U.A. has rented the O.C.E. gym and pool on Wednesday nights. Available from 7:00 to 10:00, the gymnasium will stay open Wednesday evenings as long as there is sufficient demand. This Wednesday there will be basketball and swimming from 7:00 to 8:00, and badminton from 8:00 until 10:00.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
4:30	FOR. A vs. BUS. ADM. Brownridge, Crawford
WATER-POLO
5:00	VIC. I vs. SR. MED. B. Brace
5:45	ST. M. vs. SPS III. Rosen
6:30	FOR. vs. TRIN. Rosen
BASKETBALL MAJOR
4:00	MED. SR. A vs. PHARM. Dzubino
6:30	DENT. vs. BUS. ADM. Swan
7:30	KNOX A vs. WYC. A. Swan
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	IV CHEM. vs. VIC. IV. Ewins
4:00	TRIN. V vs. VIC. XI. Chelietz
6:00	IV METAL vs. U.C. IV. McPhedran
7:00	II ENG. BUS. vs. ST. M. D. McPhedran
8:00	ST. M. E. vs. TRIN. VII. McPhedran

Books

Little of Everything

The atomic bomb is undoubtedly the publishing sensation of this year. The writer-scientist has come into his own, with an output varying from the questionable levels of The Reader's Digest and its diligent popularizers to technical near-incomprehensibility. Almost any political, economic or theological outburst is printable as long as it can be linked with our civilization's Great Problem. While this interest is understandable, the unfortunate layman has been overwhelmed by a mass of information which is frequently biased and almost always too fragmentary. And he is scarcely ever reminded that Man, including you and me and even those who do so many tragic things in our name, remains fundamental.

The Oxford University Press has just issued Some Political Consequences of the Atomic Bomb (twenty-five cents). This pamphlet is a reprint of a public lecture delivered by Professor E. L. Woodward of Oxford University. In spite of a certain obviousness and a lack of detailed suggestions, it is more interesting, and valuable than many such lectures. And I, at least, welcome the statement that in the Atomic Age "A world government . . . may turn out to be a gross and fearful tyranny."

Professor Woodward points out that "there is a melodramatic element about this new bomb"; that "few of us have taken its measure in human misery." He might have said more: that there is little reason to believe that the humble citizen will ever be urged to measure the actions of his government; that this applies without exception to all the Great Powers; that now we can only hope for time to infuse a rebirth of ethics, intelligence and understanding in all our faltering world. And we have reason to fear that we no longer have time for this single hope remaining.

Notes in passing: The Nation of February 2 contains a revealing document—a memorandum addressed to the United Nations Organization detailing the spread of fascism in Argentina and demanding the expulsion of that country. This should interest those who remember The Varsity's reports of last autumn. One good bet: neither this memorandum nor any other like it will have any real effect.

Apparently the university library is unable to obtain many translations of important European books. Is this another proof of the tendency to compartmentalize education? Or possibly we are expected to embrace a sort of cultural nationalism. In any case, the public library has a better selection of translations, and certainly it could never be accused of attempting to be radically all-embracing.

The university library's selection of contemporary British and American literature is also poor. Possibly the reason is lack of space. But is it also simply lack of interest?

—ROBERT WEAVER

Champus Cat

(Continued from Page 2)

hall, chattering like proverbial magpies. "A stitch in time saves nine", she could hear one rosy-cheeked lad murmur to his neighbor. Others sat around a large common-room, chewing their sandwiches, just sitting, or reading, or playing chess or the piano.

"With a sudden pang, she realized that they could even Stand On Their Heads if they wanted to. In the hallway, or anywhere. But she was a girl.

"OUT!" he was still snarling. A sob tore at her throat. Turning, she stumbled from the massive mansion tripping down the long flight of stairs, dragging her books behind her. Bump-bump-bump.

What was she to do? All her life she had sought the Some Justice in the World. Now she was convinced that it did not exist. So she got married and raised a brood of sixteen (16) children. They were all girls. But that was Priscilla All Over, she just wouldn't give up. At last, he realized The Inevitable. So

Our Readers Write—

Blind Chance

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

With reference to your "Think One Small Space did encompass the universe" might I refer you to the cosmology theories of E. A. Milne. It has been suggested that the idea you mention raises more questions than it answers. How can you get an infinite number of heavenly bodies in a finite space?

Milne thinks that our time scale for the universe is not the right one, being something to do with the fact that our assumption on the stable nature of radioactivity are erroneous. He mentions that the universe is infinite in space and time. Milne's theory is the basis of an article in last December's "Christian Century" called "Christianity and Cosmology".

In any event, astronomers who have devoted their lives to studying the universe, while they have amassed many facts about it, have been unable to organize anything from these facts. They can find no meaning, no purpose. Perhaps man, instead of being in the care of Divine Providence, is dependent upon blind chance and his own wits for survival.

C. W. EDDIS,
I.C. and F.

P.S.—After comparing your report on Dr. Gene Weltfish's address "Science and the Race Problem" with what I gathered in attending the meeting myself, it would seem, as an examination of her booklet "The Races of Mankind" would also show, that your report missed some of the main ideas of her talk. You did not deal with the basis of race prejudice, nor did you give the impression that "education", whatever that may imply, was only one of the measures suggested to curb it. She mentioned others, on which she laid equal emphasis, including legal measures and greater economic security.

The matter involves the standards of accurate and reliable reporting.

Russia Again

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

The would-be engineer's timetable leaves little time for indulging in campus controversies, but there comes a time when even the most modest will be provoked into proclaiming his views, and Monday which brought your issue, and more specifically Miss Nowak's letter, was that time for me.

In the first instance, I must grant credit to this young lady. A more realistic approach in our dealings with Russia is needed. To illustrate a point, the same issue of the Varsity covered a meeting of the L.F.P. club. It quoted a Mrs. Fairley as saying that "Russia now allows churches because the church has agreed to advance Communism." Mrs. Fairley and the audience apparently thought this admirable. Now this is a highly original and somewhat startling conception of the functions of religion, and it seems incredible that in a grown-up audience no one seriously questioned that view.

However, to get back to Miss Nowak. After an admirable plea for "intellectual discrimination" among the students, her letter takes a curious turn and tends to reveal not an exponent of objectivity, but something in the nature of a confirmed Russophobe. Let us examine some of her remarks.

After a sojourn in the U.S.A., she finds us "gullible", "lacking common sense" and "uninformed". In our discussions on Russia. This observation would carry weight if her sojourn had been anywhere else but the U.S.A. She has but to look through some of the best American periodicals on any newstand to see enough pro-Soviet drivel to satisfy even the Kremlin censors. Furthermore, can Miss Nowak find any Canadian equivalent for the school of authors headed by Edgar Snow and Max Eastman (before his conversion)?

In her zeal, Miss Nowak would substitute for a benign Stalin, "a Mongolian bear" she committed suicide, and there just wasn't any happy ending. She was a neurotic. Can you blame her? They even called her Prissy for short.

—TIDDYWEE.

just "dripping with the blood of nations he has torn apart." Of these nations the outstanding one is Germany, whose passing no one laments very much.

Consider the word Mongolian! There seems to be a widespread opinion in Canada that considers Russia as being largely Oriental, and the Slavic races definitely of Mongolian stock. Now taking the admirable Chinese as example of the Mongolian race, there would be no objection to the relationship if it were a fact. But recently, I spent some time in looking through various reference books including the Britannica, and if the relationship exists, my research was not sufficient to find it. The only large-scale contact the Eastern Slavs had with Mongolian tribes came during the invasions of Genghis Khan's hordes, but there is no indication in the histories of Russia or the Ukraine that these tribes were assimilated. They came for no apparent reason except pillage, and vanished, but did not settle in the lands that comprise European Russia.

Particularly unjust was the slighting reference to Russian culture. A nation's culture extends before and beyond the time frame of any group of individuals and cannot be judged by their actions. One does not have to be a Communist to appreciate Russian music and literature, and the latter are probably more representative of the people than the former. Appreciation generally leads to understanding, and I advance the view that an intelligent grasp of the history of the Russian peoples, and the understanding of their age-old struggle for freedom, may lead to the conclusion that Communism and the Police State are not necessarily their final expression.

As these people move through the various stages of their social evolution whatever their political state. In time we will have to deal with them, the years immediately before us, they will represent a challenge to us, but it will be a healthy challenge to make our democratic institutions work. There is no essential weakness in the democratic idea that would make it inferior to Communism as a way of life, but there is no evading the hard fact that it must become a way of life in practice, and not an abstraction as it often is, if it is to survive the ideological onslaught of the Left.

In whatever lies ahead our greatest source of strength or weakness will depend on how well or how poorly we live up to the ideals for which lately we sacrificed so much. Understanding the Russians will help, but let it be objective understanding! Your Monday issue represented two present extremes. Mrs. Fairley, who would place the hammer and sickle in the hands of God, and Miss Nowak who would have bricksbats. There must be a happy medium.

J. TUTECKY
III Civil Engineering.

Canadian Campus

(Continued from Page 4)

there were only fifteen girls attending the university and these banded together in a club known as the Fente Kai Deka meaning five and ten. Now each Fall the freshmen automatically become members and are adopted by their senior co-ed sisters in the club. Then they are introduced to the campus eds at the annual Stag-Stagette Dance.

The University of Western Ontario has its share of legends and traditions too. In the time-honored manner of hazing the bewildered Frosh upper classmen sell them season tickets for reserved seats in the library. . . the same bewildered Frosh soon learn to call the office of the Gazette "Little Hell". Western also boasts a ghost which inhabits the attic of Huron College, Theological Affiliate and official men's residence. And it's the Huron College Frosh at Western who traditionally dress in African skirt costumes once sent to the college by a missionary, and battle with African clubs.

The cairn on the main wall at the University of British Columbia is evidence of their proudest tradition. The university was originally situated in the "Fairview Shack" though before World War I construction was begun at the present Point Grey site. During the war the work was halted and in 1923 nothing further had been accomplished. In protest the students staged a great trek through Vancouver and out to the deserted university site. The resulting publicity forced the construction of two permanent and many semi-permanent buildings. The rocks gathered on this famous trek were piled on the mall to form a cairn and the names of those who had participated were inscribed on a roll set into the cairn. This student triumph has been celebrated every year since in a "Cairn Ceremony" held around the venerated cairn.

ORGAN RECITAL

Eric Rawlinson, Mus. Bach., F.C. C.O., will give an organ recital this afternoon in Convocation Hall at 5:00 p.m. when the regular Tuesday afternoon series of organ recitals will be resumed.

"FOR THE APPAREL OF" PROCLAIMS THE MAN"

Thou speakest so suitably,
Polonius, thou old knave.
thou.

Wouldst that thou flee from "Hamlet" and behold ye modern gentry clad in raiments bearing ye inscription:

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

Then, wouldst thou, too, re-echo our phrase:

"There goeth men of esteem".

(Translation at 449 Spadina Avenue—at College)

Announcing The Meds Soph-Frosh DANCE

FRIDAY, FEB. 15th, 9-11
HART HOUSE

Bobby Gimby, Archie Wallace and Their Orchestras

INFORMAL

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Rehearsal For Full Orchestra
Wednesday, February 13th — 7.30 p.m. Sharp
CONVOCATION HALL

The Students' Choice:
BLOOR TAXI
LIMITED
Sub-station at HARBOR and ST. GEORGE
RA. 5151
Switchboard connecting all branches
ALSO GENERAL REPAIRS
AND TOWING

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

LOST

3-piece Waterman's set, white, vicinity Medical Bldg. and College St. Call HY 8806. Reward.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

LOST

In Hart House, black leather notebook and calculus text-book. John White, MI 7072.

LOST

Vest pocket Kodak camera, south-end University Ski Club grounds, Saturday. Reward. Please call HU 2053.

LOST

Pair of men's overshoes in MacDonald's Drug Store, Saturday afternoon. Call Chapman, KI 9253.

WANTED

One Chant and Burton with answers. MU 3502.

FOUND

Lady's watch, outside Varsity Arena. GR. 3429.

TYPING DONE

Neat work, quick results. LA 3593.

WANTED

39 model car, good condition, any make. Please apply Box G, The Varsity.

Art, Music and Drama

Drama Festival

Your reviewer is seizing the opportunity to acquaint you with one more evidence that the war is over. The Inter-college Drama Festival has been revived. Non-existent during the war, owing to an attitude quite incomprehensible to us, that in order to wage war we must discard the arts of peace, the Drama Festival is being recreated in the hope that we can recapture the appreciation and enthusiasm for Drama that was characteristic of many pre-war students at this university. In view of the many perversions of drama that are perpetrated on us, we Canadians are much in need of a greater knowledge of dramatic appreciation. In the realm of art, we are for the most part still provincial in our approach. Too often we approach the theatre with the attitude of a back-woodsman—that a stage show is a rare treat and therefore always good. Here in Toronto, where we see more legitimate shows than most cities across Canada, we do not go quite to that extreme, but we are inclined to say: "If Robert Sherwood wrote it, it's bound to be good," or, "If Helen Hayes stars in it, it must be terrific." Of course, this is not necessarily so. We need a more critical approach toward art in order to maintain a high standard of perfection. But, where are we to learn how to properly appreciate plays? Where else but in the universities? But at the University of Toronto, we don't.

Hoping to fill that gap in our education, the Dramatic Societies of Trinity, U.C., Vic., and St. Mike's, are sponsoring this Drama Festival. The beauty about a drama competition, is that expert adjudicators analyse and criticise the productions not only for the benefit of the participants but also to acquaint the audience with the methods of criticism and to demonstrate the weaknesses or strong points in the production. Moreover, realization that it is a competition sharpens the critical senses of the audience. Thus, the essence of a drama festival is not so much production, but criticism. The adjudicators and the audience become the evening's star attraction.

Since 1939, a generation has passed through High School and university without witnessing either the Secondary School, or University Drama Festivals. It appears that this is going to be remedied, and we hope, such ventures will continue if only to curtail the gullibility with which many Canadians approach the theatre.

—VERNON CHAPMAN.

QUESTIONNAIRE

(In answering the following questionnaire, readers are asked to guard against prejudice by considering the general standard of the various departments rather than any particularly excellent or nauseating articles)

- How often do you read The Varsity? Rarely Occasionally Regularly
- In your opinion, has The Varsity's general standard: Improved Deteriorated Remained the same since becoming a tabloid?
- Following is a list of the various departments of The Varsity. In the space opposite each, suggest any improvements you would like to see.

Art, Music and Drama
Books
Bridge Problems
Cartoons
Cinemarathon
Champus Cat
Campus Capsules
Editorial Encores
Editorials
Features
Lecture Reports
New and Entrenous
News Stories
News from other campi
Notices of Coming Events
Personality Interviews
Our Readers Write
Speaking of Sport
Speaking of Swing
Sports Stories
Sportswoman
- In the above list, check your favourite five features.
- What do you think of the present distribution of space among the various departments?
- Should allocation of the increased space include more news of other Canadian campi?
- Should The Varsity's editorials discuss the things they do?
- What annoys you most about The Varsity?
- What general or specific improvements would you suggest?

Signed Faculty Year

ALL FORMS MUST BE SIGNED

Cinemarathon

(Continued from Page 4)

one good number, and Dennis O'Keefe plays Dennis O'Keefe better and better every picture. Carmen Miranda has a lively number in the production that provides the finale but is otherwise no asset to Doll-Face at all.

In fact, if you can arrange to drop in to the Victoria or Eglinton around 11:00 some night, so that you see just the ending of the picture, you may even enjoy it. At least you won't miss Doll-Face's better points.

As for the Victoria theatre, aside from the marquee, Famous Players seemed in such a hurry to open it that they left the interior a disappointing replica of the mid-nineteenth century, even the wall-paper.

BECAUSE OF HIM at the Uptown, 40%. Everything good about this picture is Charles Laughton, and everything bad about it is a script that insults its audience's intelligence. Deanna Durbin sings "Lover", "Danny Boy" and Tosti's "Good Bye!" Why she sings them is something you may be able to figure out, but apparently the writers couldn't. The first she sings to herself, the second to seduce Laughton and the last to occupy the time while she's chasing Franchot Tone through a hotel. And none of them is worth the trouble.

Aside from that, who said Deanna Durbin hasn't got cute legs? We understand they're forming a new club For More Legs and Less Singing by Durbin.

Franchot Tone doesn't get much of a part in the picture, but Laughton gets a little too much as a stout and hammy Frank Sinatra of the stage. What Laughton does with his script is nearly a miracle, and drags the picture out of the near-zero class. But if you don't like Laughton, stay home and study for that test.

Debaters Uphold

(Continued from Page 1)

of a national Jewish state in Palestine against the wishes of people who have lived there for twelve hundred years."

He pointed out that the existence of Arab nationalism was caused by their fear of being swamped by Jewish immigrants and that the feeling of hostility that would inevitably result from unrestricted immigration would prevent the maintenance of peace in Palestine.

Alvin Arnold, second Cornell speaker, claimed that Palestine could easily absorb the 600,000 Jews who want to go there. He told of the rapid industrial and agricultural expansion that has taken place since the arrival of the first Jewish immigrants, and claimed that with modern scientific methods this expansion could continue.

"The Jews should have Palestine as a national home because they deserve it for their war record and because it was promised to them by the Balfour Declaration of 1917," he said.

"The achievements of the Jews in Palestine were possible only because immigration has been kept on an intelligent basis," said Marie Bond of Victoria in closing for the opposition. "Unrestricted immigration would destroy these achievements."

She claimed that the existence of Arab nationalism, whether justified or not, is opposed to further immigration and would bring about civil war.

"Neither side is completely justified," she said. "A compromise must be reached, but it can't be reached through unrestricted immigration."

Speaker Graham Cotter was forced to arbitrate frequently when he threw the debate open to the house. Comment from the floor included:

"Be careful lest our sympathy for a persecuted race does not turn us into persecutors of another race"—Ed Safarian, U.C.

"The Colonial Office is not playing the game according to Hoyle but according to oil"—Gerald Tauber, U.C.

"Are we going to demand that the Arabs let down the barriers in Palestine when we keep the barriers up in the United States and Canada?"—I. Owen, Trinity.

School's Task

(Continued from Page 3)

quate salaries may be paid to teachers who will thus have an ampler life."

"For centuries, the teacher's duty appeared clear—he was the hander-in of codes. Now only in the educational system controlled by a church with absolute claims is there a clear code based on belief."

General Chisholm insisted that programs of education should be built about genuine human interests, rather than upon inherited taboos. This positive attitude is a most significant contribution to education and to social morality, and it should be held with conviction by any teacher whose view is forward looking.

"Can the teacher hope to transmute the impulsive, irrational nature of youth, not only into centres of rational life, but into socially creative and purposeful beings? It is certainly not enough to send out into life intelligent men and women who do not know where they are going. The student should be able to judge what is good and actively seek it. He should be animated by the good-will, being deeply desirous of subordinating his personal good, when there is conflict, to the good of all," concluded Mrs. Kirkwood.

The Mystery of The Week

Who Will Be The

? KING of HEARTS ?

AT THE

INTERSORORITY BALL

FEBRUARY 14th, 1946

at

CASA LOMA

featuring

Art Hallman and his Orchestra

$3.00 PER COUPLE

DRESS OPTIONAL

Tickets at the door.

BUY WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Just Published

LET KNOWLEDGE TO WISDOM GROW

BY

PRESIDENT SIDNEY SMITH

Every student will want to own and read the inspiring Installation Address delivered by our new President last Fall.

.25

The UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESS
BOOK DEPARTMENT

VETS' HOUSING SURVEY MADE; BRIEF TO PRESIDENT, BOARD

The

The Undergraduate Newspaper

THE VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No 81 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, February 13, 1946

CO-ED SUES ARTIST

Demands $5,000
For Broken Heart

(Story on Page 3)

Ways and Means Committee To Discuss Aims of NFCUS

Montreal, Feb. 12 (CUP)—The Permanent Committee of the National Federation of University Students will hold an open meeting tomorrow to discuss ways and means of crystallizing the aims of the Federation.

These aims as formulated in 1926, when the NFCUS was started are "overcoming racial and economic barriers existing in the Dominion of Canada with a view to developing a greater national unity." Particularly they set out to "promote a greater understanding among the Canadian Universities, a greater exchange of ideas on problems which differ for the universities in each of the different sections of Canada."

Mr. C. N. Beauchamp, chairman of the Permanent Committee, however, feels that the work pertaining to the fulfillment of these aims has been pursued rather haphazardly. "Little or no attempt was made to assure continuity in its efforts. Even the finances are operated on the principle of an annual collection," he said and went on to point out that student participation existed on a very limited scale, with the exception of the pre-conference preparation for December of last year, when study groups were set up to study the NFCUS constitution, Veterans Rehabilitation, Educational Facilities and Opportunities and the problem of National Unity.

Following the drafting of the constitution for approval by the S.E.C. the committee will investigate the possibilities of National Scholarships and will take steps to assure a completely representative Canadian Delegation to the forthcoming International Student or Youth Conference.

Vets' Housing Given Reply

Commenting on the brief on housing requirements submitted by the Veterans' Committee of the Students' Administrative Council, President Sidney Smith specifically promised action on two of the Ajax proposals and rejected a third as "quite impossible."

There is no possibility of now-vacant Ajax buildings being transformed into quarters for married students, the President told Al Weir, chairman of the committee, who submitted the brief.

He said that the buildings in question were to be renovated by a contracting company preparatory to use next fall as additional residences for single students. The president said that an anticipated additional Ajax enrollment next fall about equal to the present one would mean that every available room and building would be occupied.

Dr. Smith said that he would personally take up in Ottawa the question of an additional allowance for Ajax commuters.

He also said that he had not been aware that married students were getting a low priority on housing in Ajax village, and promised to take up the matter of giving these students priority over all but staff members until the situation is relieved.

The President said he would give the rest of the brief his closest study and attention.

Red Caps ..

Have you been seeing red spots before your eyes lately? That is, red spots surmounting blonde, brunette, or red hair? If you haven't, when you do see them, don't rush out for a bicarb, or bromo. You will probably get quite used to them.

What do these red caps signify? Well, it seems that the girls of Addison House, a Victoria College residence, decided that some distinctive form of attire would raise morale and house spirit.

Kay Annis remarked that they were afraid the caps would fit like the samples, which merely sat upon their brows. "However, these seem all right, and are a great inspiration for studying," she added. "Burwash can have their sweaters, we'll take our hats. The trouble is, so does everybody else."

The caps were intended to be worn at football games last fall, but late delivery prevented this. Nevertheless they are adding a dash of color to the hockey games.

So next time you spot some vermillion headgear being sported by a book-laden damsel, her phone number is listed in the University Directory under Addison House.

U.N.T.D.

Bounty Pay Committee Meeting: Thursday, February 14th, 1946 at 1830 in Ship's Office.

Following are to attend—Repetition—are to attend: Forgie, D. J.; Wilson, R. J.

(Signed)

(D. A. F. Robinson)
Lieut. Cdr. (SB), RCN(R)
Commanding Officer
UNTD

Army-Air Force Huts Suggested As Housing

Ajax Students Considered

Erection of Army and Air Force huts on the land adjoining the Varsity Arena and provision of a commuters' allowance for married student veterans forced by housing shortages to live in Toronto and commute to Ajax daily were among the recommendations forwarded yesterday to President Sidney E. Smith by the Veterans' Committee of the Students' Administrative Council.

Summary of the recommendations and facts brought to light on the student veterans' housing situation is given at the bottom of this page.

The brief, originally presented by the Veterans' Committee to the Council at its meeting of February 6, was presented to the President yesterday by Al Weir, chairman of the committee, for consideration by him and by the Board of Governors.

The President promised close study of the brief, and where possible, necessary action.

Problems of married ex-service students on the Ajax campus resulted in the formation of an informal committee of Ajax commuters, the brief stated. This committee were persuaded to work through the S.A.C. for redress of grievances, and three of their number attended the meeting of the Ex-Service Committee last week.

At that meeting they agreed to have a representative of Ajax ex-servicemen sit regularly on the committee, so that Ajax problems could be presented by the committee to the Council for action.

It was stated that 84 married students now living at Ajax wanted living accommodation at Ajax for themselves and their families. D.I.L. employees and Ajax staff members were stated to be receiving priority in securing housing in Ajax village. The married students felt that they should receive the same treatment as University staff.

Other Ajax recommendations included a commuters' allowance from D.V.A. to cover the $14 monthly now being paid by commuters for bus fare; and transformation of vacant Ajax buildings into quarters for married ex-servicemen.

The brief also stated that married ex-service students on the Toronto campus were having difficulty finding shelter for themselves and their families. It was stated that while the S.A.C. Housing Service had not found shelter for everyone requesting it, in a number of cases it was found possible to secure housing for the wives and children of married veterans.

Some ex-service students pointed out to the Committee that they had been away from their families in some cases 5 to 6 years, and that continued separation while pursuing their studies was having a serious effect on their academic work.

The recent S.A.C. survey of married veterans' housing requirements was completed by 198 students, most of whom would be homeless after September first. A smaller number were housed only until May, but would be absent from the city for the summer and hence would not require campus housing until September. Others were separated from their families, and others faced eviction by the first of March.

Recommendations on the Toronto campus included efforts to obtain for married ex-servicemen the use of the old Trinity Barracks at Hoskin and St. George, formerly the men's residence for Trinity College and now being used by the city of Toronto for emergency shelter; attempts to secure from War Assets Corp. Army Huts to be erected on the land near the Stadium; rental of property from several fraternities; and investigation of the possibility of using the C.O.T.C. Drill Hall at 119 St. George St.

The Committee pointed out that it had been overwhelmingly endorsed by the ex-service students on the campus as the official committee to represent their interests.

Financial assistance has been given to ex-service students whose checks from D.V.A. were delayed by clerical bottlenecks; housing and accommodation for ex-service students has been provided, as well as Christmas employment to supplement their maintenance grants.

Death of Toryism Is Debate Topic

The Honourable Douglas C. Abbott, K.C., Minister of National Defence for Canada will be the guest speaker at the final Hart House Debate of this season to be held next Wednesday, February 20, at 8 p.m. The motion that "This House regards Canadian Conservatism as not only dead but buried" will be moved by Mr. Bob Singer IV S.P.S. and opposed by Mr. Al Young of the Faculty of Dentistry. The third speaker will be Mr. Reid Scott II Vic and Mr. P. T. Georges III U.C. will be the fourth. The Speaker of the House will be Mr. Ed Safarian IV U.C.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO BAND

All instruments, band uniforms and music now in possession of the members of the Band, must be returned to the Students' Administrative Council, Hart House, at once.

Summary of Housing Brief That Went To President Yesterday

TORONTO CAMPUS

Four suggested means of relieving housing troubles of married veterans on the Toronto campus have been submitted by the S.A.C. Veterans' Committee to the Council. The brief has been passed on to President Smith. Recommendations are:

(1) Effort to regain from the city the old Trinity Barracks, former residence for Trinity College students.

(2) Asking War Assets Corp. for use of former Army and Air Force huts, to be erected near the Stadium. Similar emergency shelter is in use at the University of British Columbia.

(3) Requesting several fraternities for rental of property during the emergency period.

(4) Investigating possibility of using the C.O.T.C. Drill Hall.

While the Housing Service of the Council has found shelter for all who required it, married veterans have often had to be separated from their families, with consequent damage to their academic work.

The Living Requirements Questionnaire was completed by 198 student veterans. Most were found to be satisfactorily settled until September with no prospect of living accommodation after that.

A smaller number are housed until May but will not need further housing until return to the city in September. Others had only accommodation for themselves, and were separated from their families. Still others faced eviction on the first of March.

Said Committee chairman Al Weir: "This is only a small indication of what we are likely to be faced with next September as far as providing adequate housing for students is concerned."

AJAX CAMPUS

Parallel to the home campus developments, three proposals for relieving housing troubles of married student veterans on the Ajax campus have been presented in brief form to President Smith. The recommendations were originally from the Veterans' Committee to the Students' Administrative Council. They are:

(1) Consideration to transforming buildings on the Ajax property which were former residences now not in use.

(2) Priority for ex-service students, on equal basis with university staff members, in obtaining homes when available in Ajax Village.

(3) That Department of Veterans' Affairs be urged to grant a commuter's allowance of $14 per month, the actual cost for 5-days-a-week return transportation to Ajax from Toronto, for those who have no present accommodation at Ajax.

Formerly Ajax representatives had stated that they had been informed that personnel employed by Defence Industries Ltd., and university staff members were given priority over married ex-service students.

Married student veterans are reported to have felt these conditions unfair, to have desired treatment on the same basis as the staff,—84 married students want Ajax accommodation for themselves and family.

Commuting allowance is applicable to personnel taking vocational training but does not temporarily apply to university students under the Rehabilitation legislation. The representative from Business Administration mentioned exceptions in his course, stated that in some cases commuting allowances are not contrary to D.V.A. policy.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221
Night OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478
Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor... John Rooke, 477
News Editor.....George Forster 477
Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 476
AjaxPete Philippott
Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 477
Assistant.....Reg Herman, 476
AjaxCliff Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor....Bredin Stapells, 476
Assistant.....Don Mason, 476
AjaxEd. Caldwell
Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 476
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor.....Philip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Wednesday, February 13, 1946

False Humility

We wrote some weeks ago that the set debate, like the one that took place Monday night, was a hopeless means of arriving at the truth; because nobody pretended to be seeking the truth. The aim of the speakers in a formal debate is to defend and secure votes for one or another of two contrary propositions.

This abuse of the human destiny to know is not of world-shaking seriousness when it manifests itself in debates; except insofar as it is a symptom. Nobody really comes to a debate expecting to see truth established, anymore than he attends a hockey game expecting to see determined whether Toronto or Montreal is the better city. Debating is a game, just as hockey is a game.

The modern world, however, manifests a peculiar fondness for turning thinking into a game; which is both undignified and dangerous. The mark of the modern cultured mind is a certain despair of knowing anything finally; which ceases to resemble commendable humility when it turns into a doubt that there is finally anything to be known. It is one thing to doubt, amid shy blushes, that you have quite the strength to climb Mt. Eisenhower. But it is blank madness to doubt that there is a Mt. Eisenhower to climb.

That is the position of the modern sceptic, and of innumerable moderns who would be infuriated were one to tag them sceptics. That is the position of the man who says, "Well, of course these things can never finally be known", or the man who says, "The idea of God, like so many other ideas, is a convenient working hypothesis which mankind may abandon, or even has abandoned, in its climb towards Fuller Comprehension"; or finally of the man who says, "These problems of justice and truth and the like have nothing to do with us. Let us cook our dinner."

Any of these men would call himself humble, on the grounds that, as he is fond of phrasing it, he is "Not so presumptuous as to imagine that he and he alone has achieved truth."

There are a great many excuses for this attitude of shrinking from presumption. One, which has lately been of huge effect, is the reiterated insistence of physical science on the forces of nature whereof, it is alleged, man is but a plaything; and the definition of an excuse is that it is the alleged reason for shirking a duty. The duty in this case is somewhat subtle of definition. It is the duty to know; which carries the corollary that there is something to be known. Nobody really believes otherwise, though many talk as if they did. They talk thus through despair, whose parent is fatigue.

No man who is not fatigued by the effort of thought denies that there is something to know; something certain; some truth. And no one in his senses can claim that truth can be one thing for him and another for his neighbour. No one can say of the parties to a disagreement that each has the right to his own opinion. No one has the right to an opinion; truth itself has all rights.

If two men disagree one of them is wrong; or more likely, both are wrong. It is out of mere fatigue that they agree, as learned men commonly agree, to repose in their differences. A clash of opinion should be the signal for conflict and for discovery.

It is a spiritual fault of the modern university, as of the modern world, that it does not insist sufficiently on this axiom. "We have so often thought, and written, and taught our students," writes Professor Gilson, "that the discovery of truth is a personal affair, that we have come either to think, or to make them believe, that truth itself is a personal affair. Yet the most common place truth is infinitely better than a whole system of the most original errors."

"Now, perhaps, is for us the time to remind ourselves and to teach others the old Greek principle, that unity is better than multiplicity. Not uniformity, which is the mere lack of diversity, but unity, that is to say, the rational ordering of a manifold reality."

"Do we believe that truth is one? Are we convinced that truth consists in finding out an order where there is one (as in nature), and putting it where there is none, or not enough of it (as in moral, social and political life?) Upon our answer to that first question hangs the future of the mind and of what is left of its liberty."

—W. H. K.

OUT FOR REPAIRS EROS

Editorial Encores

Another Protest

From the University of British Columbia's Ubyssy comes an editorial protesting one of the resolutions passed at the recent regional conference of the CUP in Kingston.

Freedom of the press is a much-vaunted ideal which every conscientious editor uses as a moral shield and buckler during every crisis and controversial situation. This freedom, the preservation of which is the responsibility of the right-minded editor, has made possible the expression of every type of editorial policy in Canada ranging in color from the conservative shades to brilliant red.

Any attempts to manufacture editorial policy out of one cloth and one particular hue in one mass production shop should closely be watched. Attempts have succeeded in the past, and these successes have led the layman to point a scornful finger at the editor's shield and buckler and state that the freedom of the press can be purchased very easily by interested parties.

That is why The Ubyssy protests against the resolution reached at a regional Canadian University Press conference held in Kingston this month with Queen's University, McGill, and the University of Western Ontario delegates attending.

The text of the resolution itself does not concern us. If each individual editor feels that he wants to launch a campaign, either pro- or anti-Japanese, pro-tuxedos, or anti-Greek letter societies, that is up to the individual editor. We protest more against the idea of Canadian University Press, a university news service organization, adopting Canadian University Press resolutions, regional or otherwise, which might tend to standardize university editorial opinion on nation-wide problems. Canadian University Press should not be regarded primarily as a resolution-passing body rather than the news-disseminating and student-opinion exchange it is supposed to be. It can go a long way if it attends primarily to the business in hand.

More No-Men

Below is an editorial from the pages of the University of Nevada's Sagebrush bawling a failing common to many an enterprising campus.

The negative attitude with which some of the student senators received the proposal that a regular program for the university be established was in line with that attitude of many students in regard to anything that requires WORK.

The outlook is a regrettable one. When students refuse to do something that would be advantageous to the university just because such a project involves a lot of work, we might just as well quit right here. The Sagebrush involves a lot of work, and the duties of the student body president have much labor and responsibility connected with them. We don't shirk our tasks—we complain, of course, but griping is a good ol' American habit.

The work involved in a radio program would probably not exceed five hours a week—this would be done with the co-operation and encouragement of many other students.

The program might be aided by students in journalism and by members of the play production class. Various social and service organizations would undoubtedly be willing to handle the program on various occasions.

One senator felt that the university is short of manpower and that the program would have to be discontinued shortly after it was started because there would not be enough interested students to keep it going. Our answer to that—we

(Continued on Page 7)

Victoria College PUBLIC LECTURE

PROFESSOR C. W. LESLIE
"WILLIAM JAMES"

Wednesday, February 13th
IN ALUMNI HALL AT 5 P.M.

Flowers for All Occasions

COOPER FLORIST

PARK PLAZA HOTEL

MI. 6361

10 Avenue Road

WE DELIVER

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Rehearsal For Full Orchestra

TONIGHT — 7.30 p.m. SHARP

CONVOCAION HALL

JOAN RIGBY

DRESSES COATS
TWEEDS SWEATERS
SUITS

54 BLOOR W.

MI. 4969

JAP - CAN FORUM

TIME — 8:15 p.m.

DATE — Thurs. Feb. 14

PLACE — Economics Bldg.

SPEAKERS — Croll, Brewin
Tanaka

CHAIRMAN — Dr. W. R. Taylor

WANTED - 300 COEDS

For the Gigantic Tag Day of the

International Student Service

Thursday, February 21

Phone BILL, MI 3941 (6-8 p.m.)

Hart House Bulletin Board

Glee Club Elections

Nominations for the Glee Club Committee close at 6 p.m. today. Nomination forms may be obtained from the Warden's office.

HARRON TO FACE LAWSUIT

The

The Undergraduate Newspaper

THE VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No 81 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, February 13, 1946

Student Federation Holds Week-Long Meet

The World Student Federation which includes the Student Christian Movement of Canada is holding a week of meetings here from Feb. 11 to 17.

The idea for the federation was conceived by John R. Mott in the latter years of the last century. The first movement was organized by him in Sweden and within a year five national movements were established.

The federation whose responsibilities are reconciliation, relief and reconstruction, is a Christian organization within World Student Relief and shares their relief responsibilities with I.S.S. and Pax Romana.

The main relief work of the federation has been assistance to Chinese students who are now moving back to the coastal area of China from the interior.

Within the last few years the federation has organized movements in four South American countries including Chile and Brazil, and plans are being made for the establishment of a movement within the federation in the proposed West Indian University. On Thursday at 4:15 p.m. in Wycliffe College Chapel, students of the University are joining in a service of thanksgiving and intercession for their own S.C.M. and the Federation.

Other activities during this week include the noon-hour (1:30 p.m.) series at Victoria College conducted by Rev. Finlay speaking on "The Implications of our Faith" and on Thursday at the same time Dean Lyndon Smith continues his series on "Art and Worship" in Trinity Board Room. On Friday at 4:15 p.m. in the Women's Union, the S.C.M. unit in University College presents their Principal who will speak on "Trends in Today's Religion".

AJAX D.V.A.

Monthly payments to ex-service students enrolled at Ajax will be made by the Department of Veterans' Affairs on the 15th of each month, an official of the Department announced yesterday.

Cheques for resident students will be distributed by housemasters; non-resident students will be paid at York House by a D.V.A. paymaster. The first distribution will commence at noon Friday.

A representative of D.V.A. will be on duty for some time in Hart House (Ajax) to look after enquiries and adjustments.

VARSITY REPORTERS

All Varsity men and women reporters are to report to the office immediately to sign the list for the party which will be held on Saturday night, Feb. 23.

Cramped Alumni Federation Agrees about War Memorial

A spokesman for the Alumni Federation stated last night that "Nothing definite can be announced" about the suggested co-educational center which was proposed as a fitting war memorial in a letter to the Federation from the S.A.C., until after the next board meeting of the Federation.

She expressed personal sympathy with the proposal, and said she was sure that others in the Federation held similar views. "We are very cramped for room ourselves," she said. Their quarters are on the second floor of the men's Health Service at 43 St. George St. The thought of one central location housing all organizations and clubs on the campus met with her approval.

It was also proposed that the idea of a memorial should not be forgotten. The spokesman suggested that the Alumni would like people to recognize the building for what it will commemorate rather than having it only as a new building housing various campus organizations. "This might be accomplished by a room set aside as a war trophy or commemoration room, where undergraduates could fully realize its purposes. Plaques bearing the names of those killed in the last War, and those who had served could be displayed here, she thought.

One stumbling-block was foreseen in the necessity of having the proposed building erected near Simcoe Hall, as both Simcoe Hall and the Federation use the same records,

What's On Today

AJAX V.C.F.

The Varsity Christian Fellowship will meet on Feb. 14th at 7:00 p.m. in Ajax Hart House. Melvin V. Donald will lead the discussion of "What is a Christian?"

Irish Philatelist

Irish Philatelist would like to exchange Irish used stamps for Canadian used stamps.

R. de Caen,
Springfarm,
Delgarry,
Co. Wicklow, Eire.

Employment Bureau Favored At Engineering Conference

Montreal, Feb. 12—(CUP)—McGill resolutions, formulated at the Engineering Undergraduate Society Conference, representing Canadian Universities, are now being considered by the Engineering Institute Council. Using these as a basis, the Council has resolved that space be reserved in the Engineering Journal for the publication of news from technical papers supplied by student societies. They also favored the establishment and expansion of the Bonnet Memorial Fund to provide financial assistance through loans to deserving students.

It was recommended that the Council put into operation the necessary machinery to establish an Employment Bureau in each of its local branches to prepare lists of jobs available to student engineers, and to publicize the desirability of employing these students during the summer months to give an opportunity for experience.

"Since many students doubt whether the course given at their university is the best offered, the Council has proposed a survey of all engineering colleges in Canada, preferably sponsored by the E.I.C. They feel also that industry and the profession would be further stabilized if identical degrees were conferred upon all graduates of similar courses.

The engineer will undoubtedly be forced to take on ever-increasing responsibilities in the direction of industry and community leadership, and would be better fitted for this task if his training included studies in the humanities, the E.I.C. agreed. The Council was also in favor of establishing technical institutes to train craftsmen for industry and private business.

Dean Young Gets Honorary Degree

The honorary degree of Doctor of Applied Science was conferred upon Dean C. R. Young of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering by the University of Montreal on Feb. 9.

The convocation preceded the annual banquet of the Graduate Association of L'Ecole Polytechnique, at which Dean Young was guest speaker.

Dean Young also has the degree of Doctor of Engineering from Stevens University.

OCE Drama Group To Present Plays

The Ontario College Drama Society will present a group of three one-act plays on Thursday, Feb. 28. The plays are:

"The Devil and Daniel Webster" by Stephen V. Benet.
"The Happy Journey" by Thornton Wilder.
"The Monkey's Paw" by W. W. Jacobs.

The plays will be presented in the U.T.S. Auditorium, at the corner of Bloor and Spadina, starting at 8:15.

Directing the production will be W. E. MacKenzie and C. D. Joffite. Ticket sale opens on Feb. 19, at O.C.E. and Hart House.

Manitoban Co-ed Might Get $1,000

Winnipeg, Feb. 12 — (CUP) — A beautiful Manitoba co-ed, presumably one Dorothy Thompson, the queen of the University Ice Carnival may get a trip to New Orleans, or if she prefers—a cash prize of $1,000.

Here's how: The Kinsmen Club has invited the university to enter a contestant in their Mardi Gras Festival to be held in Winnipeg in March. The winner of the Mardi Gras will be sent to New Orleans to take part in the Mardi Gras Festival there or if not she receives the optional prize.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

9,562 persons passed through the turnstiles of the Royal Ontario Museum between 2 and 5 p.m. on Sunday, February 10th, the largest number for a single day. Many of these came to see the special exhibition, "Jewish Art and Culture" which is slated to close on February 17th. The previous record was 7,141 for March 12th, 1944.

"He led me on and on" Declares Plaintiff Flint Suing Promise Breach

"I'll Fight!" — Harron

By Ross McLean

Friendship born of a rescue from drowning last summer reached a bitter climax today with the announcement that Barbara Flint, III Law, had begun proceedings for a breach of promise suit against well-known Campus Comic and Cartoonist Don Harron.

Charging that Harron had "trifled with my affections", Miss Flint, through her Counsel, R. Leitch, last night issued a public statement to The Varsity accusing Harron of "failure to follow through after having 'led me on and on.'"

"I have therefore filed suit for breach of promise," Miss Flint's statement continued, "I shall seek $5,000 as retribution for my spiritual torment."

Harron, Miss Flint insists, is attempting now to "escape responsibilities". Miss Flint promises to prove that Harron proposed to her during a ski weekend over New Year's.

Latest twist in the theatric romance of this pair follows closely the dramatic theme set by their chance meeting.

Employed as lifeguard and assistant bouncer at the O'Rourke Hacienda ("Where You Can Live In Splendah With People Of Every Gendah"), exclusive northern summer resort, Miss Flint saved Harron's life.

Harron, a cupidior maintenance man at the Hacienda, had been learning to swim on the sandy beach when he became overpowered by an extremely strong spray from the lake. Fearlessly, Lifeguard Flint had sprinted to his rescue.

"I fell heedless over heels in love with him," Miss Flint later confided to friends. "Ah, my little Don Wan. He was so pale!"

Spared from death by the quick action of the lovely lifeguard, Harron was drawn closer to her.

Amateur match-makers and casual Cupids frequenting the Hacienda watched the friendship ripen and become love.

In Flint Harron had found his match. With Flint he had struck the first sparks that kindled the all-consuming flame of love.

Other vacationers report that the romance progressed rapidly.

Cupidors went unmaintained, lives went unguarded, bounces went unbounced as the pair sat on the beaches day by day, devoting themselves to mutual discovery.

Often they would sit in silence. In mute ecstasy they would sit, shaking their heads, nodding sweet noddings to one another.

Outsiders were entertained by their undisguised bliss and report hearing the couple occasionally exchanging terms of endearment. Because of the circumstances under which they had met, Miss Flint took to calling Harron her "little son of the beach".

Evenings they would dance together, requesting the most sentimental songs of the season, the orchestra leader reports. One of their favorites was "When My Baby Smiles At Me—Let Her Put Her Teeth In."

The beginning of the school term had seen a continuation of their summer affair, friends report.

At the KCR they were frequently seen mugging. "They wuz drinkin' outa the same mug. That's muggin' aint it," testified Joe Shrulle, waiter and part-time peanut vendor. "Other times they would place their steins side by side and just sit there with their heads together. Ah, I'm tellin' ya, it was touchin'."

This intine team were often seen at University dances and at the popular campus rendezvous.

One of Harron's favorite pranks, friends report, was to buy Barbara a chocolate milk shake and then tap her straw.

First indication of a split in the relations of the blissful couple followed the weekend at the ski lodge during which, Miss Flint maintains, Harron made his proposal of marriage.

Discovered by a bell boy in a darkened room on his knees before Miss Flint in the attitude of one proposing, Harron insists that he was searching for a collar button.

It is Harron's contention that Miss Flint has built a mountain out of "nihil". Through his Counsel Telford Georges he had released a strong denial of the charges.

Flint seeks retribution for emotional repairs which she values at $5,000. Informed that Miss Flint's suit would demand that sum, Harron declared: "I'll fight the case. I'll put cuffs on that suit. Cuffs on that suit, that is."

Overseas Courses Useful—Athlone

Montreal, Feb. 9. — (CUP) — "Courses given overseas to Canadian troops by the University of London will have an important effect on post-war education in Canada," said the Earl of Athlone, retiring Governor-General of Canada, in an address before McGill University.

The Governor-General thought very highly of intercollegiate sports, especially football and hockey. At the conclusion he wished the university "all the success which I foresee will come to McGill in the future in both learning and games."

While waiting at the main entrance to see the departure of the Earl, several hundred students engaged in the first McGill all-faculty snowball battle of the season which raged around the steps of the Arts building, last Thursday. Several hundred students relieved the tension of expectancy by hurling snowballs, but when His Excellency finally emerged, peace returned at once.

New and Entrenous

A Half-Century of Memories

By Ross McLean

Last June, bearded Professor St. Elme de Champ retired from the French Department of University College where he had taught for forty-nine years. Children and even grand-children of his early pupils had come under his unforgettable supervision and had become familiar with his teaching technique of French.

"What little success I have known," he suggests, "is because my students never heard a word of English in my classes after they registered. I never accepted English in parks, in halls,—anywhere, I spoke always French."

Alone with a wealth of memories that span a half a century at the University of Toronto, today the venerable Papa de Champ waits for passage back to his native France where he intends to spend his last years. Confined by rheumatism to his Washington Avenue apartment, Papa de Champ waits and remembers.

"Je suis comme," he describes, "l'oiseau sur la branche."

Young de Champ was 24 when he arrived in Canada to join Toronto's teaching staff. Now at 73 he wants to go back home. "I would rather die in France than die here," he explains. "Here it's too cold."

He had been in Toronto only a few hours on that October 15 when he caught his first glimpse of the University of Toronto, then housed in the single building which is today University College.

Except part of the library and the School of Architecture ("a very bad sample of architecture by the way") he had watched the rest of the University grow. From the steps of University College when he arrived one had, he recalls, "a beautiful view—not a beautiful view, a clear view—of College Street." Toronto's north boundary was Bloor Street.

The Gooderham estate at Bloor and St. George was the last private residence west on Bloor. "Then there were only some chicken farms," he says.

This University's growth during the first half of the twentieth century, he reflects, has been extraordinary. "Mind you," he adds, "in half a century you expect some growth but when the same man has been through it all—"

"Yes," he nods, "we have progressed immensely." President of the University on his arrival was James Loudon, who doubled as Professor of Physics. "He had to look after everything," the professor exclaims. "That poor President! He had to teach, he had to see about buildings and grounds and to interview the government about getting money."

Monetary matters apparently, were more than enough to occupy, a President those days. "Forty, years ago," M. de Champ recollects, "several times it was surmised that next months salary would not be paid."

Five men attended to all French instruction at the turn of the century. Prof. de Champ was "number three in French at U.C. There was one man at Vic and at Trinity they had a professor of Modern Languages."

Today, personnel in the French Department numbers more than 30. He counted last year "just for the fun of it."

At that period all courses except chemistry were taken in University College.

"I can't understand now," he confesses, "how it worked."

(To Be Continued)

"Papa" de Champ

University Symphony Orchestra

Hans Gruber, Conductor

Will Present

TWO CONCERTS

—at—

CONVOCATION HALL

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 20th.

GEORGE CRUM, Pianist

Guest Artist

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist

Guest Artiste

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

Portia Debating Trophy Open To All U.C. Women

A women's debating prize, the Portia Debating Trophy, donated anonymously, has been offered to the winner of a new debating series open to all University College women, according to a statement by Sheila McQueen, Head of debating in the Women's Undergraduate Association.

"Planned on the lines of the men's Robinette Trophy which is being contested at present, the Portia Trophy will be given to the women's team which will carry off honors in the eliminations," Miss McQueen told The Varsity yesterday.

The debates will start on Monday Feb. 18, and any women interested in taking part are asked to leave their names at the Lit Office in the Junior Common Room U.C., or to give it to any member of the W.U.A. before Feb. 16.

"Debaters will be notified of their subject at least 48 hours in advance," continued Miss McQueen, "and this should give them sufficient time to prepare their talks."

"We are endeavoring to run these debates on the same basis as the eliminations for the men's Robinette Trophy. The men's prize is given to the team which comes out best on the daily debates held during the noon hour."

Team members need not be both from the same year. Membership is only restricted to undergraduates, and there is no limit to the number of teams permissible.

"Judging will be divided under two headings," concluded Miss McQueen. "Five points will be the maximum obtainable for presentation of the talk, while the material used will be judged on four points."

Coming Events

VIC. S.C.M.

Rev. J. M. Finlay will continue his noon-hour lecture series with the subject, "The Practical Application of Christianity," at 1:30 in Vic. Chapel.

TTO. V.C.F.

Meds Group meets from 1:10-2:00 in Room 410, Banting Institute, to hear Dr. Walter Wilson, M.D., of Kansas City Miss.

V.C.F. BIBLE COURSE

The first lecture in a series on the Holy Spirit will be conducted by Rev. W. G. Brown, Dean of Toronto Baptist Seminary in Room 11, U.C., at 5:00.

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE

TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m. a 2:30 p.m.

b 7:45 a.m. b 3:55 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

(b—except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m. 8:40 a.m.

7:30 a.m. 9:30 a.m.

and every hour

on the half hour

until 10:30 p.m.

Also 11:40 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES

Bay at Dundas—Adelaide 4221

No Drinking In Mid-West

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 11.—(Exchange)—Educators and prospective "customers" of higher education have for the first time a comprehensive nation-wide picture of rules governing such matters as dancing, chapel attendance, smoking, and drinking in American colleges and universities.

A compilation of student regulations is one of the features of a new 700-page "Guide to Colleges, Universities, and Professional Schools in the United States," edited by Dr. Carter V. Good, acting dean of the University of Cincinnati Teachers College.

Only 27 of 107 middle west arts and science colleges and universities permit use of intoxicants, and all of the 86 middle western junior colleges bar the use of intoxicants on the campus.

Three of the 63 midwest teachers' colleges permit campus use of intoxicants. Other "yes" responses to the same question, broken down into geographical areas: West, two out of 84 arts and sciences, junior and teachers' colleges; South, three out of 316; Middle Atlantic, 12 out of 150.

Church attendance is required by 263 out of 967 institutions. Other statistics include:

Smoking in college buildings—526 out of 980.

Smoking on campus—691 out of 977.

Smoking off campus—636 out of 647.

Dancing on campus—837 out of 1,036.

McGill Members Clash On Motion

Montreal, Que., Feb. 11.—(CUP)—In a democratic organization the trends should be to make it as simple as is possible for smaller groups interested to call meetings in order to voice their problems.

This was the argument at McGill University against an amendment of the Students' Society which concerns the number of signatures required to call a special meeting of the Students' Society and a definition of the members to compose a quorum at a meeting of the Society. The previously required figure of 25 signatures has been raised to 1,500 to ensure greater representation of the 6,000 students.

INTERESTING JEWELLERY SHOP

NECKLACES,
EARRINGS
BANGLES and BROOCHES.

32 Bloor St. East
(Near Red Cross Headquarters)
MI. 5875

Drink
Coca-Cola
TRADE MARK

WELCOME refreshment

COCA-COLA LTD. - TORONTO

Our Readers Write —

Pro Nowak

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

I should like to say a word in defence of "one Mary A. Nowak" to quote Henry W. Rosenthal of Soc and Phil, and Friday's Varsity. It seems to be getting plainer and plainer every day that one can no longer offer even mild protests to Communistic tendencies without it being at least implied that one is openly Fascist.

I am quite prepared to admit that Franco allowed German and Italian troops to assist him in his fight against the Republicans, but I should like to point out that there were large numbers of French, American, and British nationals in the Republican Army. Did the Republicans refuse their aid or decline in holy horror at the aid offered them by these and Soviet Russia because by accepting it they might "sell their country" to Russia or France?

Before we are too ready to roundly condemn Spain for "harbouring war criminals" can we in all seriousness maintain that these "war criminals" are any more dangerous to our democracy than the vast quantity of totalitarian-minded and ruthless Russian officials that are seeping into every country of Eastern Europe without even mild protest on our part. Spain may be a centre of Fascist propaganda, but Russia is the centre of an equally ugly totalitarian propaganda that is just as anti-democratic especially in its utter disregard for the rights of the individual. Whereas however Spain is an insignificant country and is therefore not likely to have any profound influence on the ideas of civilized people, en masse, Russia is by no means insignificant, and on the grounds of "peace in our time" very little attempt is being made to check its infiltration. This diplomatic nonsense and sacrifice of principles only too reminiscent of Munich and "umbrella" days is certainly to be deplored, yet, here is Mr. Rosenthal deploring Fascist "tentacles" in Argentina! Let him deplore also totalitarian and tyrannical "tentacles" in Hungary, Austria, Roumania, Poland, Bulgaria, Lithuania, Latvia, Finland and France! Spain is next on the list, and it is largely a matter of indifference what sort of despotic dictatorship controls it. Franco means Communists, you may have your choice. It is not an easy one to make, but of those with any sort of religious feeling the former is denitely the choice of the lesser of two evils, for although the Communistic and Fascist systems may be equally sadistic in suppressing their political enemies (if in doubt about these, see Reader's Digest, July, 1944, Article 1), Fascist systems in Spain at least permit a certain amount of unhampered religious activity. Communism as practiced in Russia until quite recently violently persecuted this member of the four freedoms, and only recently has parted on its new diplomatic mark of religious tolerance which fools no one. To those with no religious feeling, it is a matter of indifference indeed. Methinks that your intellectual honesty, Mr. Rosenthal, and ability to judge facts coldly and impartially has been somewhat seduced by the material blandishments of the paid harlots of atheistic Communism and their widely-advertised propaganda.

Juan R. Gonzalez
Meds I

Lies, Lies, Lies?

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

If Miss M. A. Nowak who wrote you "Re Franco", is looking for a job I might suggest that she apply to the Toronto Evening Telegram as an editorial writer. I have never before read a letter that contains so many lies, falsehoods and mis-statements. Joseph Goebbels may have died in The Battle of Berlin last spring, but his spirit is, not dead. Miss Nowak is carrying the torch for him on this campus.

She contends that Franco was, in fact, a much more effective ally than Stalin. Stalin was an "unwilling" ally since he "did not enter the war in order to do us a good turn." I would like to know why Miss Nowak expected Stalin to do us "a good turn" when we refused to collaborate with Russia to suppress German aggression at the time of the Sudetenland occupation. In addition Franco would also have been an "unwilling ally" (as Miss Nowak phrases it) since he would only have entered the war on our side if

(Continued on Page 7)

LAST CHANCE

(In answering the following questionnaire, readers are asked to guard against prejudice by considering the general standard of the various departments rather than any particularly excellent or nauseating articles)

- 1—How often do you read The Varsity? Rarely..... Occasionally..... Regularly.....
- 2—In your opinion, has The Varsity's general standard: Improved..... Deteriorated..... Remained the same..... since becoming a tabloid?
- 3—Following is a list of the various departments of The Varsity. In the space opposite each, suggest any improvements you would like to see.

- Art, Music and Drama
- Books
- Bridge Problems
- Cartoons
- Cinamarathon
- Champus Cat
- Campus Capsules
- Editorial Encores
- Editorials
- Features
- Lecture Reports
- New and Entrenous
- News Stories
- News from other campi
- Notices of Coming Events
- Personality Interviews
- Our Readers Write
- Speaking of Sport
- Speaking of Swing
- Sports Stories
- Sportswoman

- 4—In the above list, check your favourite five features.
 - 5—What do you think of the present distribution of space among the various departments?
 - 6—Should allocation of the increased space include more news of other Canadian campi?
 - 7—Should The Varsity's editorials discuss the things they do?
 - 8—What annoys you most about The Varsity?
 - 9—What general or specific improvements would you suggest?
- Signed..... Faculty..... Year.....
- ALL FORMS MUST BE SIGNED

The Unknowns An Introduction

Every jazz mag has its all-star band polls. The majority of them with the obvious exception of "The Jazz Record" and "The Jazz Session" attempt to select the new stars of the year. Quite frequently, these new stars turn out to be musicians who have been around a long time, and due to some "break" get a tremendous outburst of praise in Metronome, Downbeat, etc.

The unfairness of the polls is too evident to merit discussion, but I should like to bring to the attention of those who are interested in real jazz: some of the unknowns, newcomers and old-timers, who are playing great music today.

There are far too many to give any sort of broad coverage, so I have pointed out five who are far in advance of the so-called new stars of 1945, Candoli, Ventura, Parker, etc.

Benny Harris

Benny is the fine trumpet player who recently thrilled audiences at the Three Deuces in New York, playing with Johnny Bothwell's little crew. Had Herbie Fields' fine band ever got out of the rehearsal studio, following Herbie's discharge, some of Harris' great work might have reached the musical public. Benny, like a good many of the modern stylists, plays on a Dizzy Gillespie kick, and on the slow stuff, his tone is almost beautiful.

Toronto jazz fans may remember Benny with Coleman Hawkins' band during the tenor man's last visit to the Top Hat. Benny took off almost every chorus with some variation of "Perfidia", but having heard Benny almost a year ago in New York, I add my two cents' worth to "Foots" Thomas' in recommending Benny as the most improved trumpeter of 1945. Benny plays with Lucky Millander.

Roy Stevens

Roy is an ofay horn man, who plays a dirty style of trumpet, reminiscent of Roy Eldridge's early work on his Varsity records. Local enthusiasts will remember Roy with Hawkins' band at the Top Hat in 42 when Hawk also featured Remo Palmieri and Lem Davis. At that time Roy blew like Berigan and the dirty style wasn't quite as pronounced as it is today.

As is the case with Louis Armstrong, Roy sang like he plays his trumpet, with a low raspy vibrato. For a short period last year, Roy had a solid small band in Flushing, New York, and the Ulanov rating of the band was B plus. Need I say more. If you're interested, dig Roy's rasp on "Mervel Falls In" with the Manor All Stars on Manor record 2000A.

Dave Riviera & Theolonius Monk

I have combined these two colored pianists, as I feel they have contributed more to the Be-Bop style of playing (modern) than anyone else. The influence of Monk on Dizzy Gillespie is undisputed. On Basic it is evident. It is unfortunate that Monk's records are impossible to obtain, because his recorded works convince skeptics. Once again, though, Toronto jazz enthusiasts probably heard Monk with the same Hawk band which included Byas and Benny Harris. Dave Riviera has played with Caloway and received some recognition by Leonard Feather.

Riviera was the influence behind the relaxed Tatum movement. This is a style of piano I have termed thus, because it contains the exciting Tatum elements minus the technical flashiness which detracts from Art's work. Errol Garner's earliest efforts show Riviera influence, also Dodo Marmoros and Ralph Burns. For a sample of what I mean try Emmett Berry's four National records.

Freddy Webster

Freddy didn't influence anybody. Who influenced Freddy is difficult to ascertain, because Freddy Webster is just about the most original trumpet player around today. If you like the abstraction in Hawk's playing, get a load of Freddy.

When Jimmy Lunceford brought the "Harlem Express" a number of times in recent years, U.C.'s Bill Alexander topped Lunceford's great Paul Webster, Gerald Wilson and Snooky Russell with Freddy Webster. His "Body and Soul" is mostly soul. Freddy recorded with Lucky Millander on "Savoy" which is a Decca record and still available. I believe. Recently with John Kirby, Freddy's muted stuff attracted some praise, but he remains an unknown who deserves better.

The field of unknowns is vast, but I hope that some reader will follow up my effort to publicize other musicians, whose work so many jazz fans are missing.

LLOYD GRABURN

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. WEST OF UNIVERSITY AVE.

ALL THIS WEEK

Evgs. (8:20) Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

Return Visit by Popular Request

RUTH CHATTERTON presents—

Kay FRANCIS WINDY HILL

by PATSY RUTH MILLER ROGER PRYOR

Staged by MISS CHATTERTON. Setting by EDWARD GILBERT.

Evgs. 90c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00
Mats. Wed.-Sat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80
All Tax Included.

Box Office Open 10 A.M. to 10 P.M.
NO PHONE ORDERS

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

A LIMITED NUMBER OF U. C. PINS

Will Go On Sale Today

In U.C. JUNIOR COMMON ROOM

12 to 2 Only

Price 75c

DON'T MISS IT!

SEE THE KING OF HEARTS BE THE KING OF HEARTS

At The

Intersorority Ball

FEBRUARY 14th, 1946

featuring

'Art Hallman and his Orchestra

at

CASA LOMA

PROCEEDS IN AID OF THE "Y" MEMORIAL FUND

$3.00 PER COUPLE DRESS OPTIONAL

TICKETS MAY BE OBTAINED AT THE DOOR

PUCKMEN BLANK QUEEN'S 6-0

Speaking OF SPORT

By Bredin Stapells

Responsibility

The Athletic Directorate decided against the proposal that the Junior Blues should enter the Junior "B" O.H.A. playoffs. Although this is a great disappointment to the team, it is nevertheless the correct decision when all things are taken into consideration.

By entering the playoffs, the Blues would be committed to play on into April. As most of the players will not be writing until May and later, the feasibility of the plan seems quite possible, but even the lateness of their exams does not get away from the fact that it is very difficult to concentrate during this period of tension. It is true that they might be cut off before March. Even so the chance is not worth taking.

Regardless of the point that the lads all wish to take a try at the championship, they have a responsibility to themselves as students because after all this is their primary purpose down here. Moreover, their parents expect them to pass respectably, whether they give assent to the scheme or not. Further, the Athletic Directorate also has a responsibility to the Faculty not to over do the sports end of the curricula.

What it all boils down to is that, as we said in a previous S.O.S., everything has a mean. There must be a balance between athletics and scholastics. This time the balance is apt to go to sports.

Don't mistake our feelings in this matter. We really would like to see the Blues in those playoffs but this is probably the best course to follow. In addition there is a ruling which would necessitate an O.K. from the C.I.A.U., which is, of course, above our Directorate.

Halder High Scorer

Wally Halder has lengthened his lead in the scoring race in the Intercollegiate series last night. Four goals banged the twine in the Tricolor end Dick Ball gained his second shutout against Queen's, and this with only a three man defense system due to the layoff of Sunny Kryzanowski and Bill Wade Winning this game makes the Senior Blues tie with McGill in the Intercollegiate standings. McGill and the Blues have not tested each other yet this season The Redmen come here on the 22nd of this month—a game really worth attending.

New Faces

Last night saw several new faces on the Blues squad. Harvey Bain returned to his defense position with Doyle and Puttock. Considering the change in combinations these lads put on a stellar display. Kryzanowski turned out for the latter part of the game—really good show after the beating he took over the week-end.

Sorriest sight of the game last night was to see Bill Wade and Davey Bauer sitting on the side lines. Let's all hope they get on ice for the 22nd against the Redmen.

INTRAMURAL STANDINGS

MAJOR BASKETBALL STANDINGS

Groups	Won	Lost	Tied
Group 1
Sr. S.P.S.	5	0	1
Jr. U.C. A.	4	4	0
Sr. Vic.	3	3	0
Sr. Med.	2	4	0
P.H.E. I.	1	3	1
Group 2
Jr. S.P.S.	4	1	0
Jr. Vic.	4	1	0
Jr. Med.	2	3	0
Sr. U.C.	0	5	0
Group 3
Pre-Med. A.	4	0	0
S.P.S. 3.	2	2	0
Dent. A.	2	2	0
Bus. Adm. A.	0	4	0
Group 4
Trin. A.	5	0	0
P.H.E. 2.	3	2	0
St. Mike's A.	2	3	0
Jr. U.C. B.	0	5	0
Group 5
For. A.	3	1	0
Pharm. A.	2	1	0
S.P.S. 4.	2	1	0
Med. Ser. A.	0	4	0
Group 6
Vic. 3.	4	0	0
St. Mike's B.	3	1	0
Dent. B.	1	3	0
Trin. B.	0	4	0
Group 7
Wyc. A.	3	1	0
S.P.S. 5.	3	0	0
Knox A.	1	2	0
Emman. A.	0	4	0

HOCKEY STANDINGS

Group 1
Vic. 1.	4	1	0
S.P.S. 1.	2	2	0
U.C. 1.	3	1	0
Med. 1.	0	5	0
Group 2
Vic. 2.	2	2	0
S.P.S. 2.	2	1	0
U.C. 2.	2	1	1
Med. 2.	0	2	1
Group 3
Trin. A.	4	0	0
Dent. A.	1	2	0
St. Mike A.	1	1	0
S.P.S. 3.	0	3	0
Group 4
Bus. Adm.	2	0	1
For. A.	1	0	2
U.C. 3.	1	2	1
Knox A.	1	3	0
Group 5
Med. 3.	3	1	0
Dent. B.	2	2	0
S.P.S. 4.	2	2	0
Pharm.	1	3	0
Group 6
Trin. B.	4	0	0
St. Mike B.	2	2	0
Emman.	2	2	0
Group 7
S.P.S. 5.	4	0	0
Wyc.	2	1	0
For. B.	1	3	0
Knox B.	0	3	0

Halder Notches Four As Tricolor Withers

By Don Mason

Led by Captain Wally Halder, the Varsity Hockey squad swamped their Queen's rivals 6-0 before nearly 2000 fans in a Varsity Arena contest last night.

The outcome of the game was never in doubt from the opening minutes of play, although Varsity was minus the services of Wade, Bauer and Kosick. D. Ball's shut-out, his second in a row, was well-deserved, as he time and again robbed Tricolor forwards from almost certain goals. The win puts Varsity and McGill in a league-leading tie.

Varsity opened fast in the first period, and within 45 seconds Wally Halder slammed home the first of his three goals in that frame. From then on it was strictly the Blues all the way. While Morrow was cooling off in the sin bin, Halder again beat Dave Wood on a neat pass from Gordie Ball.

The Tricolor just couldn't get under way, the only effective trio being the first string line of Landriault, Morrow and Jack Hood, who managed to throw a few hot ones at Dick Ball.

The great Toronto trio, Ball, Halder and Henry had the fans in ecstasy as they whipped the disk around in Queen's territory.

Wally Halder did it again on a beautiful back-hand that fooled Wood completely. The score at the end of the stanza was Halder 3, Queen's 0.

Queen's turned to some very effective fore-checking in the second stanza, and play was much closer with both net-minders being called on to make some great saves. Dick Ball once pulled a "Broda", coming out to the Blue line to clear a loose puck.

With three minutes remaining, Don Bark signalled his return to the Blues' line-up by scoring on a lovely series of passes from mates Bromley and Bill Lawler. Bob Henry missed an open net just as the bell went, with the score standing at 4-0 for the Baileys.

"Turtle" Lawler notched the count at 5-0, on a pass from Jim Bromley in the opening minutes of the third session.

Play was much closer with Dick Ball drawing rounds of applause for his brilliant saves, as the Tricolor pressed in.

With Stevens off, "The Halder" scored what proved to be the final goal of the game on a pass from Jim Bromley, who was playing a great game offensively and defensively.

Play roughened up considerably in the last ten minutes and a fight between Morrisette, Henry and Bill Doyle resulted in a pile-up that looked like a free-for-all for a time. Frank Ohlke, Tricolor forward, forced Dick Ball to make some sensational stops in the last minutes of the game, but Ball was unbeatable and deserved his shut-out all the way.

Besides Ball, Wally Halder with 4 goals, and Jim Bromley played three-star hockey. Ohlke, Hood and Jack Morrow were Queen's best.

Line-ups:

TORONTO—Dick Ball, Doyle, Puttock, Kryzanowski, Henry, Halder, Bark, Bromley, Ball, Lawler, Bain.

QUEEN'S—Blake, Morrisette, Stevens, Elliott, Landriault, Ohlke, Peat, Wood, Kent, Morrow, Hood.

First Period

Toronto—Halder (Henry, Ball) 0:47
Toronto—Halder (Ball)10:00
Toronto—Halder (Henry)15:20

Second Period

Toronto—Bark (Bromley, Lawler) 7:50

Third Period

Toronto—Lawler (Bromley) .. 2:53
Toronto—Halder (Bromley) .. 5:12

McGill Skiers Win At Dartmouth

For the first time in 22 years McGill skiers swept through a field of 10 American Universities to win the coveted Intercollegiate ski trophy of the Dartmouth Winter Carnival.

Sparked by Don Stanforth who placed fourth in combined down hill slalom, sixth in combined cross country jumping, the Red Men garnered a total of 588.7 points to defeat their nearest rival Dartmouth by 15.12 points.

LEAGUE STANDING

SENIOR INTERCOLLEGIATE HOCKEY

Teams	G	W	L	T	F	A	P
McGill	2	1	1	0	69	78	2
Toronto	3	3	0	0	28	6	6
Montreal	4	1	3	0	28	32	2
Queen's	3	0	3	0	5	36	0

SENIOR INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL

Teams	G	W	L	T	F	A	P
Western	3	3	0	0	157	103	6
Toronto	3	2	1	0	155	118	4
McGill	2	1	1	0	69	8	2
Queen's	4	0	4	0	172	224	0

SPORTS NOTICE

Athletic Night tickets must be turned in before 1:00 p.m. on Saturdays if a refund is to be expected. Tickets will not be honoured at the gate Saturday nights.

Open High Jump Jackes, Kerr Tied

Highlighting last night's indoor track and field meet, Art Jackes and Bill Kerr of School soared to a six foot tie in the Open High Jump. This is only 1/4" from the Intercollegiate record of 6' 1/4", a remarkable performance.

In third place was P.H.E.'s bare-footed jumper, Johnny Doll, who cleared the bar at 5' 11". Grierson and Turnbull of SPS took fourth and fifth spots with 5' 6" and 5' 5" respectively.

109 entries crowded the track for the Novice 440. When the dust and smoke had settled, A. Teogood of PHE had captured first position, covering the distance in 55.5 secs. Behind him were Colquhoun of Meds (56.1 secs.), Gregory of SPS (56.3 secs.), and Hickman of Trinity (56.6 secs.).

Pleased with the turnouts so far, Hec Phillips is looking for a large entry list next Monday and Tuesday. Three events will be featured: the Novice 2 mile run; the Open Shot Put and the six man team Half Mile Relay.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

12:00	ST. M. B. vs. VIC. III.	Garfunkel, Weedon
4:30	U.C. II vs. VIC. II.	Lawler, J. C. McClelland

WATER-POLO

4:15	U.C. (PHE) vs. JR. MED.	Lyon
6:00	KNOX vs. WYC.	O'Brien

BASKETBALL MAJOR

1:00	EMM. A. vs. SPS V.	Hamam
6:30	FOR. A. vs. SPS IV.	Strathearn

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00	U.C. VI vs. III MECH.	Mott
4:00	III MED. B. vs. III ELEC.	Evins
6:30	III CHEM. vs. V DENT.	Farrell
7:30	VIC. VI vs. III MINING	Farrell

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

Questions and Answers

"Why must there be one women's intercollegiate swimming meet? Do not the men's swimming teams travel to other colleges?"

Women now vote, become members of Parliament and stand in street cars, but the dawn of the day when they receive complete equal rights with men has not yet colored the clouds. There is a wide divergence between the manner the women's sports are conducted and those of the men men's teams, regarded as "Big Time", travel from college to college according to a fixed schedule arranged by the C.I.A.U., which is an efficient organization indeed. As a contrast, the women's intercollegiate set-up is regarded as something of a social gathering, organized with the "hands across the campus" idea, rather than with ambitions of raising the feminine sports levels. Each college contracts to hold one (or two) meets, to which the other colleges send teams and for one week-end there are many teas, dances, and incidentally, games.

This year the friendly touch will have to be bypassed due to the wide-spread lack of funds allotted to this activity, and war time conditions still prevailing in transportation, etc.

In a sentence, we would like to see the women adopt the men's system, but there is no feminine counterpart to the C.I.A.U., we have not the funds to send teams to other colleges, and health and academic authorities seem loath to allow co-eds to meander across the country under present conditions. Which sum total of facts does not make the many excellent sportswomen of the campus very happy. What to do? maybe our readers have some solution

Ski Meet Cancelled

A routine meeting of the Intramural Athletic Directorate was held in Hart House Tuesday afternoon, during which subjects, many and varied concerning interfaculty sports, received consideration.

It was again emphasized that, since allocation of Athletic night tickets to the various faculties is on the basis of male registration, only male undergraduates are eligible for these passes. Those Ajaxmen who are wondering where the ducats may be procured, are advised to enquire at their athletic office. St. Mike's distribution is handled through Room 44, More House, while schoolmen may pick up theirs at the Engineering Society store at noon on Wednesday.

The representatives moved and seconded that the Emergency Transfers Act be invoked to cover intramural hockey groupings, all moves to be subject to ratification by the council.

Athletic superintendent "Mac" MacCutcheon reported that, due to weather (and other!) conditions, the Jr. Ski Meet was to be cancelled. "The intramural squash tournament," said Mr. MacCutcheon, "is progressing favorably, with over 92 entrants." Winners are asked to be sure to tabulate their victories on the main bulletin board.

Basketball, hockey and water polo activities were said to be up to schedule requirements. Some discussion was held on the Trophy set-up, but a final decision was reserved until the next meeting.

Art, Music and Drama

Organ Recital

A new and charming flavor was given to Bach's Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor by Eric Rollinson in his organ recital in Convocation Hall, yesterday afternoon. Pleasant contrasts were achieved by timely alterations in registration. We were intrigued by the unusual selection of stops Mr. Rollinson used. Preludes on the Passion Chorale, by Bach, Rheinberger, and Brahms showed the vast difference between the classic masculinity of Bach and the typical romanticism of the other composers. Marked opposites in date and style, nevertheless equals in worth were the familiar, jolly Two Trumpet Tunes and Air by Henry Purcell and Four Extemporizations by the twentieth century composer, Percy Whitlock.

The climax of the programme was part of the Sonata on the Ninety-Fourth Psalm by German Julius Reube, pupil of Liszt, whose influence appears in the brilliant pianistic cadence which appear in this wonderful piece.

Throughout his programme, Mr. Rollinson showed much facility and good taste in his performance.

The next recital in this series will be given on Feb. 26 by Dr. Willan.

—JOHN GARTSHORE.

Valentines-Hopes Mount Others Plead Not Guilty

By Flora-Jane Mulligan

Once more the "season of hearts and arrows" has rolled around. Thursday is St. Valentine's Day. In the bosoms of some of the undergraduates hopes run high. Others consider that "all is lost."

The percentage of high hopes is not restricted to one sex or age-group, it was found, on interviewing a number of students. Optimism depends on the individual.

Asked if they hoped to receive any valentines this year, students gave answers ranging from a dulcet-toned, dewy-eyed "Yes" to a tight-lipped, cloy-eyed "No!"

Some students consider that sending valentines is for the romantically-minded alone. However, a question of whether they were sending any, brought forth shamefaced admissions.

Cynics replied that 1). It's a waste of time; 2). It's ridiculous; 3). I'm too old; 4). It's too expensive. One romantic character declared that he was sending some to let people know that he was thinking of them while another announced that he wanted "To get results" (Himmmmmm . . . Ed.

Students considered the broken hearts, the time lost by some fond admirer in choosing the right sentiment, the money some penniless undergraduate wastes, only to find that no sympathetic soul cares enough to pause a few minutes to purchase a small reminder of their affection for the frustrated valentine-sender.

One student sighed, "Yes, just one." A less romantic type is sending only one, to a girl who can make things very comfortable for him. A slight expenditure of 8c (8c plus 3c) on his part can get him a government job. One poor boy is sending only one valentine, to a friend who is sending one to him and that sounds like a truly practical arrangement.

On the whole, the girls seem to be in favor of despatching messages of sentiment male-ward but are fairly reticent on the subject of receiving any. Some men on the campus have less to say on the subject than a brief "Yes" or "No."

Two Vic Contestants For Typical Co-ed

Wolf-whistles and "hubba-hubbas" resounded through staid Alumni Hall yesterday afternoon, when Vic. freshmen Jean MacDonald and Phil McCoy were picked to represent the College in the campus-wide I.S.S. contest for the title of "Miss Typical Co-ed" Feb. 21.

Blonde Jean, (Passe Arts) and brownie Phil, (Moderns) were the unanimous choice of the six judges: Prof. Fry, of the Victoria English Department, V.C.U. President George Doner, and the four year-presidents.

Sport In Short

MON. FEB. 11

Major Basketball

Trin A. 38 Jr. U.C. B. 21
Jr. U.C. A. 38 P.H.E. I. 30
St. M. A. 29 P.H.E. II. 19

Minor Basketball

II Civil 50 IV Aero 15
IV Mech 24 III Med A. 19

Hockey

Vic I 6 Med I 1
Emman 6 Vic III 1

Water Polo

U.C. I 7 Sr. Med A. 1

TUES. FEB. 12

Major Basketball

Med Sr A. 19 Pharm 16

ELLIS McCLINTOCK

HIS TRUMPET AND HIS ORCHESTRA

In the spacious comfort of the

ROYAL YORK CONCERT HALL

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 16th

TICKETS $1.00 EACH—NOW ON SALE AT

MITFORD TICKET AGENCY

317 1/2 BAY STREET

Sponsored by Givins Old Boys' Association

that all-important extra jacket!

... without which no undergraduate wardrobe is complete. Suit savers that you'll wear to lectures and informally around the campus and at home.

Jackets like these, two and three button styles, tailored for correct fit in husky wool and cotton herringbone tweeds. Shades of blue grey and brown.

Each 18.00 and 20.00

Men's Clothing

Main Store—Second Floor

T. EATON CO. LIMITED

Above are pictured Col. David Croll, Andrew Brewin, and Kinzie Tanaka, who will participate in the Japanese-Canadian Committee's educational program on February 14th. Col. Croll is a member of parliament for Toronto-Spadina riding. Former mayor of Windsor, Croll was also Minister of Public Works and Municipal Affairs in the Ontario cabinet from 1934-37. He joined the Army as a private in 1939 and returned to Canada as a full Colonel. Andrew Brewin, K.C., was spokesman of the Civil Liberties Committee, recently presented a brief to the Supreme Court questioning the government's authority to deport some 10,000 west coast Japanese-Canadians. Kinzie Tanaka, Chairman of the Japanese-Canadian Committee For Democracy, is a supervisor of the service department of the Radio Trade and Supply Company. He previously resided in Collingwood, B.C., near Vancouver.

Correspondence

The Bear's Friends

The Editor, The Varsity,

Miss Nowak, we congratulate you!

No, not everything you write is dead right, but your forthrightness and direct approach come uncomfortably close to the hub of this very touchy problem. You have dared to raise the ostrich's head from the sand into the light of day ("Look out the Bear!")—and the Bear's friends register their vigorous protests in the Varsity.

Looking down Tim Buck's mailing list, our eyes espy the name of Mr. Rosenthal. To refresh Mr. Rosenthal's memory we quote from Miss Nowak's second paragraph, appearing on Wednesday:

"Franco is not an angel."

Does Mr. Rosenthal remember the Russo-Finnish tea-party, in 1939-40, at which the German General Staff directed?

Has Mr. Rosenthal heard the news lately? It seems that Russia had raised a question of Britain's role in Greece, suggesting dark dirty deeds; the U.N.O. was willing to investigate, but a certain Mr. Vishinsky had the Russian lads veto the idea.

Even more recent—we quote from a release of the Soviet Politbureau, appearing in the dailies of February 8:

"Russia is still 'encircled' by the world's capitalist powers, and must take steps to strengthen (sic!) her armed forces." Or, again, "We must not weaken, but on the contrary, we must strengthen Bolshevik vigilance."

The 'stealthy hand' seems to have very sharp claws, and is tearing in to the sensibilities of the United Nations Organization.

Lastly, Mr. Rosenthal, pardon this paraphrase: "Methinks they will reap the whirlwind, as did Hitler and the other anti-Capitalist boys."

You, Mr. Shublik, might be well advised to look beneath

YOUR bed—under it you might find your head.

And, Mr. "Bitter Pill" Beckett, if you care to recall, both German Messerschmitts and Russian Moscas and Stormoviks flew in the skies of embattled Spain—do you remember?

Just think of all the Russian acts of benevolence prior to the attack by Germany in 1941. Are you thinking?

We would advise a modicum of reflection before you wave so high the banner of the sickle and hammer

S. J. Menich
I Mech. Engineering
O. C. Samuel,
I Chem. Engineering.

Co-ed Center

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Congratulations to the reporters and news editor for the front page spread in Monday's Varsity about the Co-ed Center War Memorial. As an example of news coverage it was well handled. But I wish to remark upon the idea and its details.

I think it is an excellent idea; one which restores in me a failing faith in the perception of administrators of affairs in general in the "Post-War World". But to my mind there has been one horrible and incredible omission—and I speak thus from recent and bitter experience. No mention was made of a Study Room for the use of men and women students; a room where the manifold problems of a heavy lecture course could be studied, discussed, and resolved by groups of students equally interested, though of opposite sex.

There is absolutely no suitable place on the campus today where a man student and a woman student can study together. A careful survey of the existing situation for students enrolled at U.C. brings to light the following:

A trek to the main library is time wasted. The facilities there are for silent study; and rightly so. The U.C. library the same objection holds. The U.C. Junior Common Room is too noisy; its distractions too numerous. At Mac's and The St. George Grill, discussions over cokes and coffees can happily be carried on; effective study with notebooks and textbooks cannot.

Empty U.C. classrooms provide a temporary refuge, but how temporary! They become filled with enquiring-faced students just as one has clutched successfully the basis of the theory! As a last retreat there is the U.C. Women's Union, where inquiries troublesome to those in charge, and embarrassing to the inquirers must be made.

This whole "set-up", which I understand exists to a greater or lesser degree in the other colleges, is surely wrong. I would even go so far as to call it a disgrace to the largest University in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

I wish to urge the consideration of the inclusion in the proposed Center of a room where women students and men students could gather in groups to "worry out" the confusing issues of common courses, in an atmosphere free from awkwardness, discomfort and excessive noise.

Cecillie Blockley
III Biology

For quick results
put a Classified Ad
in "The Varsity"

Phone MI. 6221

Blackwell Commends Political Enthusiasm

"The greatest hope for democracy is the interest of students in political affairs," said the Hon. Leslie E. Blackwell, Attorney-General of Ontario at an open meeting of the Progressive-Conservative Club last night in Cartwright Hall.

"There is a marked difference between my students days and the present time," he continued. "Interest is now shown in governmental and political issues, including the points of view of all parties."

Mr. Blackwell claimed that in his opinion it is "a virtue, not a sin, to belong to one of the old parties" because according to the policies of the older parties, people may "plan their own affairs, develop according to their own ideas and their own principles."

By contrast the speaker pointed out that in a planned economy the government must plan what the individual does, where he does it, and what he gets for it, and what he does with what he gets.

"I believe people plan better for themselves," he went on. "Under a planned economy people tend to lose their political liberty, economic freedom and advancement."

On the subject of social security, Mr. Blackwell said that the amount of social security a country can provide depends upon the amount people are willing to pay for by cutting down current expenditures.

"Social security is not the responsibility of the Dominion Government alone," he continued. "Each province should realize its responsibilities and have adequate revenue to carry them out."

During the war, he said, the provinces agreed to accept their peace-time level of revenue to give the federal government the increased revenue necessary for total war. There are six provinces who will need subsidies if they are to raise their levels to dominion standards.

"Until a satisfactory agreement is reached in the present Dominion-Provincial Conference, no government is capable of planning its own affairs," he concluded.

Addressed Club

Attorney-General of Ontario, Leslie Blackwell, K.C., whose address to the campus Progressive Conservative Club is reported in this issue of The Varsity.

Group Work Among Youth Will Help Reconversion

"Unemployment is on the increase. With it's increase will come racial tension, especially among the youth of the nation. There will be recurrence of the youth movements of Fascist nature, which characterized the 30's. To do whatever can be done to relieve racial tension will be the job of group work agencies," stated Bertram Gold, of the School of Social Work, in an address in the Economics Buildings late yesterday afternoon.

Group work is a method of working with people to achieve certain goals in society. It is a vital and recognized part of social work. Please note that it is a method, not a field of endeavour, whereby the interactions of the group, whether it be family, "gang", or chess club, are studied.

There are three criteria for the reaching of maturity of a science. The science must show evidence of physical growth, it must have some social purpose, and it must possess the ability to plan ahead for the future, to be considered mature.

Group work is relatively young. In 1935, it became a separate branch of social work and since then has experienced a rapid general growth, and a tremendous amount of research has been accomplished. With the aid of this research and the development of Sociometrics, an increased knowledge of individual behaviour in groups has been obtained.

More and more recreational centres have come into being—community centres have achieved great popularity throughout the country—in short, group work agencies definitely have a social purpose.

Planning for reconversion, and the formation of advisory bureaus for veterans are active evidences of the ability of group work agencies to look into the future.

"Group work is not mature, I am glad of that, for the dictionary defines maturity as the state of being ripe and ready to decay. We hope we are not ready to decay. But, we know we are here and here to stay," concluded Mr. Gold.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 82 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, February 14, 1946

Ajax District's Local Citizenry To See School Classrooms, Labs In Conducted Tour Of Satellite

The Ajax Division of the University of Toronto will play host next Saturday afternoon to the citizens of Ontario County, when they will be taken on a conducted tour through classrooms, laboratories, and other buildings. The open house was planned primarily to give the population of the district an opportunity to see how the vast former munitions plant has been converted from a hub of industry to an educational centre.

At 6:30 a banquet for between four and five hundred people will be held in the cafeteria.

The Hon. George A. Drew, Prime Minister and Minister of Education will be guest speaker at the banquet. President Sidney Smith, Ajax Director J. R. Gilley, and Col. W. E. Phillips, Chairman of the Board of Governors will also address the gathering. Allan F. Annis, President of the Oshawa Chamber of Commerce will be chairman of the banquet.

Tickets for the banquet are on sale throughout the County.

Ajax officials emphasized that the open house was not to be construed as a "society affair". The idea behind the function was "to enable the average citizen of Ontario County to see what has been accomplished at Ajax and to give them an idea of what Ajax and the University stand for."

The event has been arranged by the Oshawa Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Ontario County Council, Whitby Chamber of Commerce, Pickering Rotary Club, Port Perry Business Men's Association, Uxbridge Kinsmen's Club, Oshawa Rotary Club, Oshawa Kiwanis Club and the Whitby Kinsmen's Club.

It is expected that the entire Board of Governors of the University of Toronto together with the executive officers and other officials will be present.

Will Raise Fund For Needy Writers

A campaign to raise a $100,000 endowment fund to help needy writers will soon be launched by the Canadian Writers' Association.

The Chairman of the campaign, Dr. Pelham Edgar, Professor Emeritus of English at Victoria College, said, following the annual meeting of the foundation at Ottawa recently, that the organization has been working on a hand-to-hand basis and has had a difficult time finding sufficient funds to assure the continuance of the creative activity of writers who have made important literary contributions in Canada, but who now are in need. The Toronto campaign will begin in March, and campaigns covering other parts of Canada will be launched in the near future.

The foundation is also renewing efforts to have the Canadian Government vote an annual grant of $5,000 for the same purpose. The Government in 1943 stopped an annual grant of $2,500 when the foundation's chief beneficiary, a famous poet, died.

McGill Will Bid For Debating Title

Montreal, Feb. 13.—(CUP)—The McGill teams make their attempt to win the coveted IUDL trophy for the first time. The IUDL is emblematic of the Canadian debating supremacy. Eight colleges have teams entered in the competition with McGill, Bishop's, Loyola and Ottawa in the Eastern section.

The winner of the Eastern section will compete with the winner of the Western section for the championship.

In Montreal the team of Isadore Rosenfeld and Ted Huggesson will uphold the negative side of the topic "Resolved that every abie-bodied Canadian youth should serve one year's compulsory military service," against a team from Ottawa University. A McGill team of Jim Hemmens and Conrad Shatner will travel to Bishop's College where they will defend the same topic.

Wolfville Women Drag Men To Church

Wolfville, N.S., Feb. 13.—(CUP)—The current seven-day period has been called "Co-ed Week" at the University of Acadia. This is just a fancy name for "Sadie Hawkins" week, and the girls have lost no time in pressing home their advantage over the hapless males.

Last Sunday the proceedings got off to a flying start as the girls escorted scores of males to the church service. However these proceedings were interrupted in the most unusual manner inside the church. As the choir was giving its all in their rendition of an anthem, suppressed laughter swept through the ranks of the assembled collegians, much to the consternation of the preacher.

While the preacher was announcing the hymn, a cat had climbed into his seat, and when he returned to his seat he sat on top of the feline much to the chagrin of both.

Questionnaires Taken Until 5 Tonight

Completed copies of The Varsity's questionnaire will be accepted in The Varsity news office, Room 42-a, University College, or in the S.A.C. Office, Hart House, until 5 p.m. today.

The questionnaire was printed for the last time in yesterday's paper.

Tabulation of the results will be tackled over the weekend, and complete returns will be announced in Monday's issue.

CORRECTION

The Varsity regrets that an error in typing Tuesday night occasioned the statement that "The S.A.C. Housing Service has not found shelter for everyone requesting it." The word "not" should of course be deleted. The statement appeared correctly elsewhere on the page.

GRADUATING SCIENCE STUDENTS

All men and women students graduating in June, 1946, and enrolled in courses from Groups C or D in the Faculty of Arts (including Household Economics) are required to fill out Science Student questionnaires by the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel; forms should be completed immediately in the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall.

Graduating students in the Faculties of Applied Science and Engineering, Household Science, and Forestry, will complete the questionnaires at their Faculty office.

Flint Hails Harron Into Moot Court

By Ross McLean

St. Valentine's Day held ironic significance today for Third-Year Law Student Barbara "Babs" Flint and Campus Comic Don "Don" Harron as further details of their ruptured romance became known, following release of amorous correspondence exchanged between them last summer.

Miss Flint, who announced yesterday her intentions to sue "that trifler Harron" for $5,000 on grounds of breach of promise, today authorized her attorney Telford Georges to reveal that the case would be heard at a special evening session of the Moot Court next Monday.

Answering charges that he had "led me on and on" and had failed "to follow through" after allegedly proposing to Miss Flint, Harron today asserted: "It's preposterous! I'm a family man." As proof he flourished wallet-size portraits of his mother and father.

Counsel for the defendant, R.

Leitch, will attempt to prove that any suggestions of matrimony that Harron might have made (the remembrances none) were nullified by the fact that Harron was at the time (a) an infant—that is, under 21; (b) already married—"And to a woman, too!" Harron declared; (c) insane.

Regarding letters produced by Miss Flint alleged to have been written by him, Harron pleads innocence. "I can't write," he states. "My father went to school and my mother was once frightened by a post office pen." Miss Flint has also released carbon copies of reply letters sent by her to Harron.

A letter said to have been written by Harron on July 30, expressed his gratitude to Miss Flint for a pair of suspenders she had sent him as a gift. "They gave me a welcome lift," the letter states.

In the same letter the sender had written:

"Dear Dearist: (I'm the Infectious type). "Since having been on the receiving line of your bilge-ducks (please remit two cents postal due which I'm sure was accidental, I hope). I have been obsessed of your smiling pen always before me. I see you everywhere I see your shining face when I'm wiping off the bar. I feel the caress of your hair when I get beer foam blown in my face. I see your sparkling teeth each time I open a new package of Chiclets. I look into the depths of your big, brown eyes when I empty the cuspidors."

(At the time that this letter was said to have been written, Harron had taken employment locally as a cuspidor maintenance man, his chosen vocation.)

In reply to this missive, Miss Flint had written: "Darling: Your last letter was so romantic! I had no idea you missed me so much that you saw my face in every cuspidor you polished. I do miss you so . . . without you I am having a trust-rate time up here (O'Rourke's Hacienda). Am in ecstasy that my bouncing days are through at the end of this month (August) so that I may see you again."

Here, after exchange of four letters, the correspondence ended. The pair were reportedly re-united at the beginning of the fall term and attended numerous social functions together.

Climax of the romance is said to have come during a ski week-end over New Year's when Harron allegedly made his proposal.

While steps were underway in conjunction with the University's annual Typical Co-Ed Contest to name Miss Flint "Miss Understood of 1946", Harron continued to deny that he had at any time intimated to her that he had matrimonial intentions.

"Of course, I sensed," Harron said, "that she was trying to altar my views on marriage."

But it seems that there existed between them a definite deadlock on wedlock.

To day a representative body of 24 students was being selected from whom counsel for plaintiff and defendant would select 12 jurors at the trial next Monday.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221
Night OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor...Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
Ajax Editor...Mike McAuliffe
Make-up Editor...Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
News Editor...George Forster, 477
Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 476
Ajax...Pete Phillipott
Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
Assistant...Reg Herman, 476
Ajax...Cliff Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager...E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor...Bredin Stapells, 476
Assistant...Don Mason, 476
Ajax...Ed. Caldwell
Women's Sports Editor...Polly Mutz, 476
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor...Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant...Dorothy Harley, 476
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor...Philip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Thursday, February 14, 1946

Learn the Facts

Either the impending shipment to Japan of 10,300 Japanese-Canadians is just or unjust; but there is a surprising want of unanimity in campus opinion. There is, so far as we can discover, a faction which believes it is just, a faction which believes it is unjust, and a very large faction which does not care or which suggests ridding the country of an uncomfortable minority by sending the Japanese back to Japan regardless of justice.

We have always been the foe of discussions fought out on the basis of conflicting propositions. It is ridiculous to make out a case for the justice or injustice of a particular course of action with only a sketchy or imperfectly-digested knowledge of relevant facts. A great many students, in the absence of a clear, coherent factual presentation, have rightly refused to make up their minds on the matter.

In the absence of fact, the student has the right and indeed the duty of reserving judgment. He has not the right, however, to refuse to look at the facts when they are offered him. He has not the right to dismiss the matter as one of no concern for him.

The matter is of concern to every citizen, precisely because the government by definition is acting in the name of every citizen. You and I are as much implicated in the decision to ship these citizens to Japan as are the policy-makers in Ottawa who ordered the move; because that, whether we like it or not, is the theory on which this country is governed.

If the act is unjust, then those who perceive its injustice can by protest clear themselves of collective responsibility. Those who have not bothered to acquaint themselves with the fact will not be able so to clear themselves. They will be responsible, as much as those who ordered the deportation were responsible.

It is no excuse to say that protests can do no good. Apart from the fact that protests can be and frequently are effective, there is no escaping the moral obligation to acquaint oneself as a citizen with the justice or injustice of an act being done in one's name.

If walking down the street at night you hear a cry of "Murder" from behind a fence, you do not pass by. You do not assume that because the cry is raised in a foreign accent, therefore it lies. You do not say it is none of your responsibility if someone gets himself murdered. You do not assume that there is nothing you can do. You stop to see if someone is being murdered or not. You are morally obligated to stop and see: morally obligated as a member of society, for interference with murders is a social responsibility.

Tonight the Japanese-Canadian Committee of the University is sponsoring a forum at which the facts of the situation will be aired by three qualified speakers: Andrew Brewin, K.C., who as spokesman of the Civil Liberties Committee, recently presented a brief to the Supreme Court questioning the government's authority to deport the Japanese-Canadians; Kinzie Tanaka, Chairman of the Japanese-Canadian Committee for Democracy; and Col. David Croll, Member of Parliament for Toronto-Spadina.

The meeting will be held at 8.15 p.m. in the Economics Building under the chairmanship of Principal W. R. Taylor of University College.

Many students say that they do not know the facts. They have, as we have shown, a moral obligation to learn them; and with the facts as easily accessible as they will be tonight, there is no excuse for anyone neglecting to go.

We believe, after study of the facts, that the proposed deportation is unjust and iniquitous. We invite students with a less forthright conviction to attend the meeting and learn the facts. We invite students who flatly disagree to be sure of their facts before carrying controversy further. And we enjoin every student to shoulder his portion of a social responsibility by (1) hearing what tonight's speakers have to say and (2) making up his mind and then acting according to his convictions.

— W. H. K.

ELECTIONS and REJECTIONS

Somewhere in a secret room in the middle of a vast cavernous labyrinth of which the code name is "Ajax" but whose real name is Haystax.

To: Mr. Duff Genner*, Editor of the Farceety, University of Hogtown.

Beer Sir:

As one of the successful candidates who took part in the recent elections for the executioners of the Gin & Beer society of this Haystax Division of the Faculty for Misappropriating Steins and Gin'n Beer Chasers, (affectionately known as H.P. Sauce), I feel it incumbent upon me to make a statement of policy.

Now everyone from President Smith, through Dean Young, Bluejay Tee-White (mit Alphabet) and Playboy Billy, down to Mr. McCullough has intimated in their speeches that the ideals of Hogtown were sufficiently high to warrant Hogtown's affiliation with Haystax. They said that the two should be considered as one camped (presumably taking in Scarborough, East Toronto and Pickering), thereby winning two advantages: (a) Gaining the use of the above-mentioned jumbles of dwellings as obstacles (tactical, not strategic) in the 2skules semi-annual water-fights & (b) eliminating that dread disease known as Campeye that has been so prevalent lately.

In view of this we propose to enlighten the rank and file of Farceety as to just what are the ideals of Haystax. As Hogtown is so ably represented by the irresponsible rantings of one, Mr. Sham-Puss Cat, we have appointed Haystax F Mouse (whose photo we enclose) to be our spokesman.

We quote a few Latin words from Mr. Mouse—"Burpus, alcoholus, hiccupus"—(Translation—Since I am putting forth the ideals of Haystax, I would appreciate it if you 1350 plus 9 students forming the Corpus Derelictus and the Corpus Delectables of our institution would keep me informed by writing me (daily if possible) in care of the Editor, (hoping he will publish it.) Yours ruthlessly,

I. M. B. Fudd, B.M.C. (by my course.)

(for information of those who don't know R.A.F. terminology, we publish the following definition.)

* "Gen."—information, rumour
"Pucca"—correct or useful gen.
"Duff"—incorrect or useless gen.
"—er"—One who spreads or disseminates duff gen. (Source—Oxford Dictionary.)

 (Suspected of making a thinly veiled attempt to get a finger in the Ajax pie by infiltrating his distant cousin, Mike McCulliffe into the office of Queen of the Residences.)

Coming Events

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS' CLUB

The International Students' Club will hold a Valentine Party at the Women's Union tonight at 7.30. A P. A. system will be used for dancing, refreshments will be served. S.C.M.

Dr. W. R. Taylor, principal of University College will speak on "Trends in Today's Religion" to the U.C. Student Christian Movement on Friday in the Women's Union at 4.15 p.m.

The meeting is open to students of all colleges and faculties.

Attention EX-R.C.N.V.R.

Private owner of reconverted M. L. wants an executive officer with watchkeeping certificate and experienced in the handling of M.L's, to command ship for summer months. Good salary.

Write full particulars HUGH PLAXTON 320 Bay Street

LIGHT UP AND Relax

Yes sir, there's nothing like a Sweet Cap to put you in a relaxed mood when the 'gram session's over!

Bank on a Sweet Cap for satisfaction—anywhere... anytime! And when you tune in

"LIGHT UP AND LISTEN" WITH

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES

CKEY - CJBC

9.30 p.m. Every Thursday Night

ANCHOR BALL FOR I.S.S.

Sponsored By Delta Gamma Fraternity

ROYAL YORK HOTEL

Saturday, March 2, 1946

Bob Shuttleworth's Orchestra

$2.50 PER COUPLE

Tickets - Phone MI 3015, 1-2 p.m.

TONIGHT CROLL - BREWIN - TANAKA

IN AN

Open Forum

ON

JAP-CAN PROBLEM

ECONOMICS BLDG.

8.15 P.M.

Special Reduced Rates STUDENT SUBSCRIPTIONS

TIME LIFE FORTUNE ARCH. FORUM

THE UNIVERSITY of TORONTO PRESS BOOK DEPARTMENT

TORONTO

AJAX

Hart House Bulletin Board

Friday Afternoon Recital

Sheila Munro, pianist, will give a recital in the music room of Hart House at 5 p.m. on Friday. Members of Hart House are invited.

Croll, Brewin and Tanaka Address Forum Tonight

Under the sponsorship of the campus Committee on Japanese-Canadians, Col. David Croll, Andrew Brewin, K.C., and Kinzie Tanaka will participate in a panel discussion of the current problems of deportation of west-coast Japanese-Canadians.

The chairman of the meeting has been announced as Dr. W. R. G. Taylor, Principal of University College. Plans may include a dinner in Hart House.

—Col. David Croll is a member of parliament for Toronto-Spadina riding. Former mayor of Windsor, Croll was also Minister of Public Works and Municipal Affairs in the Ontario Cabinet from 1934-37. Having joined the army as a private in 1939, he returned as a full Colonel.

—Andrew Brewin, K.C., spokesman of the Civil Liberties Committee, recently presented a brief to the Supreme Court questioning the government's authority to deport some 10,300 west-coast Japanese-Canadians.

—Kinzie Tanaka, Chairman of the Japanese Committee for Democracy, is a supervisor of the service department of the Radio Trade and Supply Company. He previously resided in Collingwood, B.C., near Vancouver.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:15, Thurs., Feb. 14. The place is Great Hall of the Economics Bldg., Bloor St.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON RECITAL

Sheila Munro, pianist, will play at the Friday Afternoon Recital at Hart House tomorrow. Returning from England to Canada at the beginning of the war she is becoming known to Toronto audiences through concert and radio work as a brilliant pianist.

Miss Munro studied in Paris with Philipp and then taught and played in England before returning here a few years ago. Since that time she has been doing radio work in such programmes as "Masterworks of the Pianoforte" and "Invitation to Music" and has been heard in concerts at Eaton Auditorium.

Throughout the war she gave many performances for the troops. A Manitoban by birth, Miss Munro went to school in Europe and later studied music in Toronto with Norah Drewett de Kresz, whose husband Geza de Kresz was the first leader of the Hart House Quartet. Her programme for tomorrow's recital will be as follows:

I
Organ Fugue in G minor —Bach-Philipp
Bourrée—Bach-Saint-Saens,
Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring —Bach-Hess
Two Sonatas, G major and A major —Scriabin

II
Sonata, opus 58—Chopin
III
Nocturne in E flat—Faure
Impromptu in A flat—Faure.
Berceuse—Chopin.
Polonaise, opus 53—Chopin.

C.U.P. Flashes

London, Feb. 13.—(CUP).—Dean G. Edward Hall of the University of Western Ontario Medical School will become president of the university in 1948 upon the official retirement of Dr. Sherwood Fox, president of Western since 1927. Dr. Hall became Dean of Medicine in the fall of 1944.

Also announced was the appointment of Professor F. Landon, Associate Professor of History and University Librarian since 1917, to the newly created post of vice-president. Professor Landon will retain his position as librarian.

London, Ont., Feb. 13.—(CUP).—A well-mannered pigeon bearing all the appearances of a food scavenger glided into Western's cafeteria last Saturday at noon. He at first alighted on the chandeliers to survey the amused eaters.

After taking up various supposed strategic positions around the cafeteria, he or she found itself no closer to any food. Finally the bird flew off, apparently compensating itself for the unfruitful venture by likening the mentality of humans to that of ants as displayed by their single-filed approach to the

Married Students At Vic To Organize

Married students of Victoria College will be given an opportunity to participate more fully in the social life of the college as a result of an organization meeting being sponsored by the Victoria College Union.

"Some married students might have felt left out of college life," said Social Director Don Meek. "We want them to realize that they constitute an important part of the college and that no college function can be a success without their participation."

"We are calling this meeting so that they may get to know each other and get to know the college better," he concluded.

The meeting will be held in Alumni Hall at 1:30 to-day.

RECORD HOUR

The record hour, held daily in the Women's Common Room University College, from 4:00 till 5:30 p.m., is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. Today's program: Coronation march—Meyerbeer
Sonata for piano and violin —Beethoven

La Soiree dans Granade—Debussy
Reflets dans L'Eau—Debussy
Les Invenues—Debussy
La Creation du Monde—Milhaud
Piano concerto No. 1—Mendelssohn

source of food.

Saskatoon, Sask. — Feb. 13. — (CUP)—General H. D. G. Crerar, who commanded the Canadian Army overseas in the European theatre received an honorary degree at the University of Saskatchewan Feb. 12 in Convocation Hall.

Rooms Maybe

The proposal to regain the old Trinity Barracks from the city in order to use it for housing married ex-service students was described as "impossible" yesterday by Commissioner Bland of the City of Toronto Board of Property Control.

Commissioner Bland told The Varsity that the building, now converted into an apartment house, is full, and said its tenants were "fully as worthy" as those proposed by the University.

Inhabitants of the building are all ex-servicemen with wives and children who had been evicted from former quarters, he said.

Formerly Men's Residence for Trinity College, the building, situated at Hoskin and St. George, was used during the war by the C.W.A.C. and later by the WRENS. In the brief on housing for married ex-service students submitted to President Smith Tuesday by the Veterans' Committee of the S.A.C., the suggestion was made that an effort be made to regain the building for the University during the current housing crisis.

What's On Today

NEWMAN CLUB

Dr. E. L. Munzer, of the staff of Political Economy, will wind up the discussion of the Encyclical against Nazism at 7:30 tonight.

A Valentine Party will be held in the Hall, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

S.C.M.

A service of thanksgiving is being held in Wycliffe College Chapel at 4:15 to which all students are invited.

Ajax Sports

BOWLING

Winner	Loser	Score
729D	733E	1658-1479
726C	728D	1530-1384
733C	723E	1552-1214
731D	734C	1581-1571
730E	737D	1592-1364
727C	722E	1720-1582
732C	723D	1562-1525
725D	731C	1738-1390

Pressure From Nazis or in Laboratory Toronto Visitor Has Met Both Kinds

By BOB COOKE

"Physics Labs are bad enough but when men from other universities come around asking if we understand the stuff, well . . ." said one fresher of her Physics lab, this week.

It seems that when she was in the middle of her experiment two men in khaki, being led through the lab by one of the professors, became very much interested in the experiments she was performing. These two men, Col. A. M. J. F. Mechels and Captain G. A. J. Votelick, are both members of the Dutch Army at present, but before the war Col. Mechels was in charge of the high pressure laboratory in Amsterdam, and Capt. Votelick was a student of his.

Primarily a scientist Col. Mechels came to Toronto as part of a tour to arrange, if possible, an exchange of students, professors and technical knowledge between Holland and "the other side" as he calls Great Britain and the United States. "We in Holland are drawing closer to the British scientists," he explains. "At present practically all the scientific papers in Holland are published in the English language."

During his visit to Toronto Uni-

ed by the Captain, using the laboratory as a blind. Until 1944 he was versity he was shown through the laboratories of the Physics building, met the Physics Professors and gave a lecture in the Physics building yesterday describing the work done in his laboratory in Amsterdam. In a private interview with The Varsity he stated that their work had centered around studies of the effect on viscosity, resistance to electricity and other effects of high pressure on gases. "We worked at pressures up to 600,000 pounds," he says, "and we have been told that some of the work we did before the war was most helpful to the Allies."

"The situation in Holland is pretty bad," he continued. "While all our instruments are still in good condition we are unable to get raw materials, such as steel and brass, grease and oil. Students are in an even worse situation: they have no text books nor even any books to take lecture notes with. There were no degrees given during the war, of course."

During the war he was a member of the resistance movement, assist-able to carry on right under the noses of the Gestapo, but that year he had to go into hiding. "I took a dive," he says, "that's what we always called going into hiding. It was a frequent question among members of the resistance group how one's diving suit was."

When the Nazis caught on to his activities the SS men visited his house, but they didn't notice the hiding place near the chimney. For the rest of the war he was in hiding.

While they were at the University of Toronto, they also visited Mr. E. A. Macdonald of the S.A.C. who was in charge of the Amsterdam Christmas Tree. Commenting on the I.S.S. drive that is planned for the end of the month, Col. Mechels says, "The money they might be able to raise would not go very far towards food or clothing, and anyway this is the work of the U.N.R.R.A. But the U.N.R.R.A. makes no provision for the education of people in such countries as Greece, China and my own country. If the money were used to provide books for the students, it would be put to the best advantage."

Art, Music and Drama

Drama Festival

Critical judgement has already been passed on the production of the three one-act plays that constituted the U of T Drama Festival, and as the opinion of the reviewer in no way differed from that of the official adjudicators, this is simply a brief report of their analyses for the sake of the records.

The public criticism was delivered by Mr. Sterndale Bennet. With him on the critical triumvirate were Mrs. Dora Mavor Moore and Dr. John Robins.

Trinity College's presentation was Coward's Family Album, as directed by Maud Smart. A marked transition was demanded in this play from hypocritical sorrow to calous merriment, and much of the humour of this denouement was lost by the Trinity group because they played too directly for laughs at the beginning. Furthermore there was not enough regard for the period of the setting—mid 19th C, which is an inexcusable negligence in the production of such a comedy of manners. Most serious, there was a great deal of hesitancy and a hopeless deficiency in the Coward sophistication.

The judges, from their widely differing standpoints, agreed without argument that Victoria College's production of Synges Riders of the Sea was to receive the Cody Drama Award. Nevertheless, as Mr. Bennet pointed out, the costumes and some of the props were completely out of tune with the spirit of the play; the music at the opening and close was unnecessary and 'theatrical' in the worst sense; and the keening was pitifully ineffective. Vernon Chapman directed this one.

The U.C. Player's Guild presented Hands Across the Sea, another Noel Coward effort. Henry Kaplan directed. The main trouble here was the extremely un-English tone of the production; consequently, to quote Mr. Bennet, "the sophistication was forced to the point of low comedy".

To add one personal opinion: the plays were very unwisely chosen. Noel Coward is a lot more difficult than he looks, and should be left to the middle-aged and genuinely sophisticated. Family Album is a hopelessly thin play under all circumstances. Synges was a better choice, but the lyrical poignancy of the lines loses all force of conviction if any of the technical problems are mishandled.

The public criticism was not intended in any unfriendly way, as Mr. Bennet frequently reminded the audience. Miss Joy Sanderson explained early in the evening that the purpose of the Festival is to develop a critical audience, which will be interested enough in the drama to support legitimate institutions for its furtherance.

Chancellor Cody made his award, and a speech, at the end of the evening. His statement that we might reasonably expect to have Hart House Theatre for next year's competition was met with a round of applause.

Taking into account the difficulties involved in post-war re-organization the Drama Festival Committee has reason to be proud of its accomplishment.

The Eternal Triangle

"Breathless we flung us on the windy hill . . .

—and suddenly you cried, and turned away."

As this is the 'couplet' from which Miss Patsy Ruth Miller has taken the title of her play Windy Hill, it should presumably shed a flood of light on the significance of the dramatic action. Now as both play and caption are equally romantic and equally silly there can be no doubt that striking interpretive analogies could be drawn. But it would still be a lousy play.

A thin naturalistically-conceived plot is used to carry a load of sophisticated wit and of course the plot suffers from submersion. The plot is just too naturalistic; like life it goes on and on and never gets to a climax.

The story is one of the eternal triangle (2 women, 1 man) variety—the dulllest and least imaginative of all situations when treated naturalistically. Of course Kay Francis gets the man in the end.

—JEFF WAITE

Parlow Quartet

At yesterday's five o'clock at the Conservatory the Parlow Quartet was featured in works by Haydn and Kodaly. This well coordinated group is a pleasure to listen to, both for the vigour of its style and for the clear flexibility of its phrasing. Isaac Mamott, the cellist, was exceptionally consistent and accurate in both ensemble and solo passages. Miss Parlow played as vigorously and incisively as usual, although her tone varied considerably in quality.

The Kodaly Quartet in C minor manages to show considerable inventive power within a rather confused mixture of styles. Much of the thematic material, with its flavour of Hungarian folk-song, is so strongly melodic that, like Gregorian chant, it requires no harmonic explanation. Harmony, therefore, becomes superfluous except as a means of emphasising and flavouring the melodic line.

—MILTON WILSON

Talking Shop!

TAKE THE LADY ROLLER SKATING if she's hard to get to know. That's one way of proving yourself the dominant male as well as buying an evening of good bang-up (pardon us) sport for less than your budgeted dollar - a - week. There's roller skating every evening at the Mutual Street Arena, eight till eleven-fifteen, and the management has thoughtfully provided a fenced-off zone-of-safety for beginners equipped with instructors. Your thirty-five cents admission covers skates, skating et al. Locality, turn over Dundas to Mutual. Matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays.

PLENTY OF NICE pastel suits are arriving at the Evangeline Shops where you can select something pretty adequate for as little as $1.95 and onward and upward to $9.95. Deeper shades in suits too, if you're timid about colour, or prefer to pick it up by way of something dazzling in a blouse. Among the many interesting newcomers in blouses there's the honey in jersey crepe with "Jewellery Neck", that plain little round neck which is the perfect background for a good choker chain, or string of beads. $3.95 for this one and it'll be a standby for any suit.

DU BARRY FOUNDATION LOTION under powder for that soft, dewy look. This is a milky lotion containing a slight quantity of oil which is so scientifically treated that it cannot become greasy yet gives a base at once flatteringly smooth and with the fine "baby" texture of the most beautiful complexion. Du Barry Foundation Lotion is also a flatterer for the neck and throat . . . keeps the skin texture smooth and white and erases from sight tiny lines which often are the result of lack of care.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BOAST about buying clothes at Joan Rigby's . . . they bear that unmistakable quality stamp which is not only on the label. Women who buy for the future, not just a season, are Joan Rigby customers, knowing the satisfaction of wearing a dress or suit or entire costume which is so clean-cut in its assurance of workmanship and fabric that it speaks for itself without the necessity of fussing. If you are hunting for something which you can depend on to see you through next season as well as the re-

SAVE US FROM OUR PROFESSORS IS THE CRY OF PROFESSOR ADLER

Second in The Varsity's own series on education is the condensed text of the sensational address delivered by Prof. Mortimer J. Adler, Ph. D., of the University of Chicago School of Law to the Conference of Science, Philosophy, and Religion in New York late in 1940.

"It is probably not from Hitler, but from the Professors, that we shall ultimately be saved", is the kernel of Prof. Adler's challenge.

The Varsity assumes no editorial responsibility for Prof. Adler's opinions. We commend them to our readers for study, with the caution that the speech below constitutes the purposeful over-statement of a case. Opinions from readers are welcomed.

"God and The Professors"

The Founding Members of this Conference are, for the most part, professors in American colleges and universities. They are eminent representatives of the various academic disciplines, among which are the three mentioned as most relevant to this Conference—science, philosophy, and religion. The presence of historians and humanistic scholars is justified by the modern extension of science to include the so-called social sciences, with which all research about human affairs and culture can be affiliated.

Most of these professors belong to one or more of the several learned societies which meet annually for the reading and discussion of papers that purport to make contributions to truth, or at least to what is academically recognized as learning. Hence, the reason for this Conference, for this additional meeting at mainder of the winter, drop in and have a look at Joan Rigby's present selection.

SUITS AND COATS are always a specialty at Northways', and Fashionland is the department where you can expect to do your most scientific coat and suit combining pairing them up in the same fitting room, and choosing a dress or blouse in close harmony. Northways' is plentiful with suggestions for the early Spring, and Fashionland is the department which has been specially evolved for the Springtime-minded young person who takes the business of being personable seriously and works at it with cool head and clear eyes of a Woman with a Purpose.

which more papers are being read and discussed, must be some need for the professors to get together in a different way and for a different purpose. If the public wonders why we are gathering here this September, we must justify this Conference as trying to do something which is not, and perhaps cannot be, accomplished in the ordinary processes of our academic life—in classrooms, faculty meetings or the sessions of learned societies.

Some explanations have already been given. We have come together because we all share, for different reasons and in varying degrees, an uneasiness about something we call the present situation. Whether or not we are ready to say that God's in his heaven, we cry with one voice that all's not right with the world.

I wish I could credit my colleagues with one further agreement, namely, that the present crisis is only superficially a conflict between democracy and totalitarianism in the political arena, or between individualism and collectivism in the economic sphere. If that were the full nature of the crisis, why should we waste time talking about science, philosophy and religion? The fact that we have chosen to consider three major components of human culture should indicate that we all have a vague sense of cultural disorder as of a threatening doom. Far from being prime movers, Hitler and Mussolini, or, if you wish, the Stalins and Chamberlains, are but paranoiac puppets, dancing for a moment on the crest of the wave—the wave that is the historic motion of modern culture to its own destruction.

A culture is not killed by political conflicts, even when they attain the shattering violence of modern warfare; nor by economic revolutions, even when they involve the dislocations of modern mass uprisings. A culture dies of diseases which are themselves cultural. It may be born sick, as modern culture was, or it may decay through insufficient vitality to overcome the disruptive forces present in every culture; but in any case, cultural disorder is a cause and not an effect of the political and economic disturbances which beset the world today.

The health of a culture, like the health of the body, consists in the harmonious functioning of its parts. Science, philosophy and religion are certainly major parts of European culture; their distinction from another as quite separate parts is certainly the most characteristic cultural achievement of modern times. But if they have not been properly distinguished, they cannot be properly related; and unless they are properly related, properly ordered to one another, cultural disorder, such as that of modern times inevitably results.

This Conference, one might suppose, has been called to consider the illness of our culture; more than that, to seek and effect remedies. One of the troubles is that scitists, philosophers, and theologians, or teachers of religion, have long failed to communicate with one another. The structure of a modern university, with its departmental separations, and its total lack of order among specialized disciplines, represents perfectly the disunity and chaos of modern culture.

Since nothing can be expected of the professors locked up in their departmental cells, since reforming our institutions of higher learning (to make them truly universities) seems to be impossible, since the ordinary processes of academic life manifest the very defects which must be remedied, the professors have been assembled under the special auspices of this Conference with the hope that lines of communication can be established. That done, one might even hope for communication to lead to mutual understanding, and thence to agreement about the truths which could unify our culture.

The Purpose of the Conference
If what I have said is not the purpose of this Conference, I can see no justification for it whatsoever. The fact that all the professors gathered mention that Present Crisis, without trying to agree about its nature and causes; the fact that they manifest some concern about Democracy, without trying to define it and understand its roots; the fact that, in a baffling variety of senses, they refer to Science, Philosophy and Religion, without trying to solve the intricate problem of the relationship of these disciplines,—all this amounts to nothing.

An undertaking of this sort is not needed to make professors think or talk this way. Nor is it needed to give them an opportunity to write and read papers which do credit to their specialized scholarly achievements. Unless this be a Conference in more than name only, unless it be concerted effort to reach a common understanding of our cultural failure and a common program for its reform, this gathering will be as vacuous and futile as many another solemn convocation of professors, advertised by high-sounding and promising titles.

But if I have stated the only purpose which might justify this Conference, then I must also say that it cannot possibly succeed. I do not bother to say that a conference, however good cannot succeed in reforming modern culture, or even in correcting one of the main causes of its disorder, namely, modern education. That goes without saying. To expect such results would be to ask too much from even the best of all possible conferences.

I mean, much more directly, that one cannot expect the professors to understand what is wrong with modern culture and modern education, for the simple reason that that would require them to understand what is wrong with their own mentality. If such a miracle could be hoped for, I would not be without hope for a peaceful deliverance from our manifold confusions. Since professors come to a conference of this sort with the intention of speaking their minds but not of changing them, with a willingness to listen but not to learn, with the kind of tolerance which delights in a variety of opinions and abominates the unanimity of agreement, it is preposterous to suppose that this Conference can even begin to realize the only ends which justify the enterprise.

Instead of a conference about science, philosophy and religion in relation to a democracy, what is needed is a conference about the professors of science, philosophy and religion, especially American professors whose intellectual attitudes express a false conception of democracy. The defects of modern culture are the defects of its intellectual leaders, its teachers and savants. The disorder of modern culture is a disorder in their minds, a disorder which manifests itself in the universities they have built, in the educational system they have devised, in the teaching they do, and which, through that teaching, perpetuates itself and spreads out in ever widening circles from generation to generation.

It is a little naive, therefore, to suppose that the professors can be called upon to solve the problem of the relationship of science, philosophy and religion in our education and in our culture—as naive as it would be to invite the professors to participate in a conference about what is wrong with the professors.

The Failure of Mr. Hutchins
We do not even have to wait until this Conference is over to discover its futility and the reasons therefor. The glorious, Quixotic failure of President Hutchins to accomplish any of the essential reforms which American education so badly needs, demonstrates the point to us. In fact, if he could have succeeded, this Conference would not be necessary now. The fact that he did not succeed may make this Conference necessary, in the sense that fundamental rectifications of modern culture are imperative; but if we understand why, in the nature of the situation, Hutchins could not succeed, we also see why a conference of professors about the defects of the modern mentality must be self-defeating.

What did Mr. Hutchins propose? He proposed, in the first place, that man is a rational animal, essentially distinct from the brutes, and hence, that education should cultivate the moral and intellectual virtues. He proposed, in the second place, that science, philosophy and theology are distinct bodies of knowledge, radically different as to methods of knowing as well as with respect to objects known.

But he went further. He said that theoretic philosophy delves more deeply into the nature of things than all the empirical sciences; that, as theoretic knowledge, philosophy is superior to the sciences by reason of the questions it can answer. He said that practical philosophy, dealing with ethical and political problems, is superior to applied science, because the latter at best gives us control over the physical means to be used, whereas practical philosophy determines the ends to be sought, and the ordering of all means thereto.

Hence the structure of a university should not be a miscellaneous collection of departments from astronomy to zoology, with all treated as equally important theoretically and practically, but a hierarchy of studies, ordered educationally according to their intrinsic merits.

Why did Mr. Hutchins fail? Anyone who has ever attended a faculty meeting knows the answer. It can be discovered by anyone who will read the reviews of The Higher Learning in America, written by the professors, or what is worse, the professional educators. He failed not because his analysis was patently demonstrated to be in error; not because someone proved that philosophy does not exist or is inferior to science; or that religion is superstition, and sacred theology a rationalization of some make-believe.

He failed because he was asking the professors to change their minds and to agree about something. He failed as much with the professors of philosophy as with the professors of science; he failed even more with those teachers of religion who regard them-
(Continued on Page 5)

THE Intersorority Ball IS TONIGHT AT CASA LOMA

Featuring:-

Art Hallman & His Orchestra

AND

The KING of HEARTS

$3.00 Per Couple

Dress Optional

In Aid Of The "Y" Memorial Fund

Tickets May Be Obtained At The Door

Victoria College

MARRIED STUDENTS

ORGANIZATION MEETING

1.30 ALUMNI HALL

To-day

WANTED

BOOKKEEPER - STENOGRAPHER

Part-time, to work in afternoons, at own convenience. Must be able to take dictation, and know elements of Bookkeeping.

APPLY BY TELEPHONE, EL. 0670, 9 to 5

R. R. DAVIS
C/O Harry Barry, Ltd.
25 Richmond St., W.

New and Entrenous

People Change

By Ross McLean

Professor de Champ, re-christened Papa de Champ by successive classes, boasts that he has seldom lost track of his students during his half century here.

"Was it last June? The last garden party. Graduation Day. I was looking for my new graduates to congratulate them when I saw six—I can not say otherwise—old (they were old) ladies coming toward me. I recognized them. We had a little conversation and they told me 'We graduated in 1902.'

"Well,—in 42 or 43 years people do change."

Proof that Papa de Champ is well remembered by former students came when he was made a member of the French Legion of Honor.

"I received letters from the far corners of the world. I got some from Japan, India and San Francisco.

"And some of these," he points out, "were oldish people."

Sole interruption in Prof. de Champ's career at this University was during the first world war when he served with the French Army.

"I did not enlist. I was simply mobilized. I was already not young. I had to join the army and I was demobilized in '16 and came back.

"They could not make any use of me there. That was the beginning of my rheumatism there. I was 45. I asked if I could not be used as an interpreter. I knew more or less three or four languages. But they had not utilization de competence.

"All our liaison must be in good shape, I was told, although the man who said this was sitting and had not budged throughout the war and I must say too that my English was much better than the English of the Examiner. But in wartime it takes a long time to organize anything—

"When a man has two wars of this kind—," he sighed.

Prof. de Champ arrived in 1896 with his wife but tubercular threat soon forced her to return to the less severe climate of France.

"It was hard," he admits.

However, the absentee husband returned each summer to spend the long holidays in France. "It was," he philosophizes, "not so bad after all. There are many travelling salesmen who are not more at home than I was.

"I never stopped going — except during the two wars. I have crossed the ocean 55 times. That's 26 round trips. No that's more—29!"

Papa de Champ withdrew from the alien mathematical realm without further conjecture as to the number of round trips.

Today the travelling salesman awaits passage home and an end to his travels.

His 56th crossing of the Atlantic, however, must take him directly to his France.

He will have none of this landing at Liverpool, crawling by train across England, waiting in Plymouth or Dover for a Channel boat and then boarding another train to cross France. This he asserts emphatically.

"I don't see myself staying at Plymouth or Dover looking longingly at France across the Channel." He opens his arms in a gesture of hopelessness.

"To go back I must have a boat that will take me straight to France. I have a number of books to take back. Books, books, books galore. And pictures."

Until shipping is improved and France's upturned economy is stabilized, he will stay in Canada.

"You have this frightful inflation in France," he observes. "They are not yet agreed how much a franc is worth in Canadian money. I have a feeling anyway that I lose 125 per cent."

(To be continued)

(Continued from Page 4) selves as liberal. What Hutchins proposed ran counter to every prejudice that constitutes the modern frame of mind, and its temper.

The professors being in the vast majority, and ultimately controlling, as they should, educational policy, it was naive of Mr. Hutchins to suppose that he could reform education by appealing to truths the professors ignored or denied. Worse than naive, he had the effrontery to assume that if the professors were ignorant of certain truths or had neglected the implications of others, they would submit themselves to (teaching on these points). Since the professors cannot conceive themselves as being taught, certainly not by anyone without a Ph.D. in their field, the man who tries to argue with the plain intention of winning agreement must really be trying to impose his doctrine. The simplest way to deal with a fellow like Hutchins is to call him a fascist.

The Academic Mind

Now I want to make one thing absolutely clear. I am not begging the question in this issue between Mr. Hutchins and his opponents, by proceeding as if I have proved the former right and the latter wrong. I know I have not proved the truth of any of the theses mentioned, nor have I proved the falsity of their contraries. With the time at my disposal that would be impossible to do under any circumstances; and even with much more time I would not try with this audience. With a few notable exceptions, the members of this Conference represent the American academic mind. It is that fact itself which makes it unnecessary, as well as unwise, for me to make any effort in the way of reasoning.

I know too well, from much experience, the opinions of this audience, and of all the professors they represent—about the nature and relationship of science, philosophy and religion. I also know, because I have tried so many times to present an analysis with the fullest of supporting arguments, precisely what reactions such procedure calls forth. Fortunately, there is no need to verify this once again, because on this occasion I am concerned only to show the futility of a conference of professors about science, philosophy and religion.

That can be shown very simply. Either the prevailing opinions of the professors are right or they are wrong. Let us suppose, for the moment, that they are right, that what is now generally taught in American schools about the relation of science, philosophy and religion, is the true account. If it is true, there is nothing wrong with modern culture, for modern culture, in all its practices and institutions, embodies these opinions. On this alternative, therefore, it is difficult to see why there should be any conference about science, philosophy and religion.

If, however, on the other alternative, the prevailing professional opinions on these matters are wrong, and if, in addition, modern culture suffers grave disorders precisely because it embodies these opinions, then there is some point to a conference which would seek to correct the prevalent errors.

But then it is pointless to ask the professors to consider the problem. They have already considered it and told us their answers in all their teaching and all their educational decisions. The same majority point of view will dominate this Conference, as in the Hutchins controversy. Of course, the minority view will get a hearing, with all that indifference about the truth which hides behind the mask of tolerance, but it is a foregone conclusion that nobody's mind will be changed; in fact, everyone knows that is not the aim of a conference, anyway. Hence, when all is said and done, the relative weights of majority and minority opinion will be registered once more. The Conference will have exhibited the characteristic mentality of our culture, and those who are deeply concerned about changing that mentality will be confirmed in their pessimism that nothing, simply nothing, can be done to reform our education or to re-orient our culture.

Now I am well aware that my colleagues do not think there is any such clear-cut division between a majority and minority view of science, philosophy and religion. For one thing, they do not like to acknowledge the existence of clear-cut issues, with truth on one side, and error on the other; if there were such issues, then anyone who undertook to think about them might be obliged to risk his academic reputation by coming to a definite conclusion.

For another thing, the professors do not like to feel that they share even a common majority opinion with each other. The sacred individuality of each professor can be preserved only by differing. When one is in substantial sympathy with what a colleague has to say, he still safeguards his freedom of opinion by saying the same thing some other way. Most professors seem to feel that agreement, even if freely reached, violates their personal integrity.

The Prevalence of Positivism

Nevertheless, I charge the professors—and here I am speaking of the vast majority—with being in substantial agreement on one side of the crucial issues this Conference faces. I say that most of them are positivists. I know that there are enough varieties of positivism to permit the professors to retain their individuality, but I insist that behind the multiplicity of technical jargons there is a single doctrine. The essential point of that doctrine is simply the affirmation of science, and the denial of philosophy and religion.

Again I am aware that the professors will smile at my simplicity. Whoever heard anyone, except a few violent extremists, flatly denying philosophy and religion; as a matter of fact, such dogmatic denials are made only by a small circle of "philosophers" who blatantly advertise themselves as positivists. The very presence at this Conference of scientists, philosophers and theologians shows that the representatives of the several disciplines respect each other; the fact that they are willing to listen to each other's papers shows the spirit of co-operation which prevails among them. One even begins to wonder about the sanity of those who talk about the disorder and disunity of modern culture. The real problem of this Conference must be the perils of Democracy; it certainly cannot be the issue of positivism.

Despite such blandishments, I repeat my charge. The professors, by and large, are positivists. And, furthermore, I say that the most serious threat to Democracy is the positivism of the professors, which

(Continued on Page 7)

Don't Forget!

PHARMACY
GRADUATION BALL
FRIDAY,
FEBRUARY 15th
Crystal Ballroom
Royal York Hotel
Frank Bogart Orch.
$3.50 Per Couple
TICKETS FROM ANY PHARMACY STUDENT

smoke the mild
cigarette

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. (West of University Ave.)

ONE WEEK MON. FEB. 18

BEING EVGS. (8:20). Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

THE NATIONAL COMPANY OF

BROADWAY'S CURRENT DRAMATIC

SMASH HIT

"GO SEE IT!"
—WALTER WINCHELL

DEEP ARE THE ROOTS

Box Office Open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Evgs. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00

Wed. Mat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80

Sat. Mat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40

(All Tax Included)

IF YOU EVER LOVED A CHILD
THIS PICTURE IS FOR YOU!

A New Kind of Russian Film

"Once There Was a Girl"

Produced by L.A.S.E.

English Titles

ON THE SAME PROGRAM
"GOLDEN SLIPPERS"
Excerpts from CHAIKOVSKY'S
Opera "Cherubino"

STARTS MON. FEB. 18
Doors Open 5:45 P.M.

VICTORY THEATRE
Spadina at Dundas

University Symphony Orchestra

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

Hans Gruber, Conductor

Will Present

TWO CONCERTS

CONVOCATION HALL

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 20th.

GEORGE CRUM, Pianist

Guest Artist

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist

Guest Artiste

LPP Club Educational Forum

presents

Stanley B. Ryerson

ON

"Is Marxism Out of Date"

Wymilwood Friday, Feb. 15, 4.15 p.m.

Question And Discussion Period

Speaking OF SPORT

By Tom Cossitt

Trinity and Wycliffe Colleges . . .

These are your hosts for the fourth Hart House Athletic Night this Saturday and we guarantee you an enjoyable evening second to none.

Basketball Double-header . . .

In this department, fans of this great indoor sport will receive a first class program. At 7 p.m. in the Big Gym, Trinity Firsts will take the floor against Ajax Firsts. Trinity remains undefeated this year in nine exhibition and league games and the Ajax squad comes fresh from its decisive victory over Oshawa . . . At 8:30 the big game of the evening will start between Roy Dilworth's powerful Varsity Blues and the McGill Redmen. Varsity will be out to avenge its narrow defeat in Montreal at the hands of the latter and we would place our money any day in the week on their success . . . incidentally Al Klassen's cartwheeling cheer leaders of rugby fame will be on hand to work on your vocal cords during the game.

Special ! ! ! . . .

At half time in the big game Lou Beedle, holder of the Canadian, three Ontario, and three Toronto and District, championships in table tennis, will give an exhibition that shouldn't be missed. His opponent will be Ed Porter, runner-up for the Canadian championship. Mr. Beedle is the first man who has ever held all these championships at one time.

Swimming pool . . .

The Hamilton Aquatic Club, Canadian swimming champions, will meet the Varsity Senior Intercollegiate swim team. This will be swimming at its best and a treat not to be missed. The Varsity team is sparked by such stars as Marshall, recent winner of the McAtty Trophy and holder of the Canadian senior breast stroke record, and such excellent performers as Teskey and MacDonald. An inter-faculty water polo game will follow the swim meet, but, as yet the opponents have not been chosen.

Pulchritude deluxe . . .

In the upper gym at 9 p.m. twelve members of the fairer sex will appear before a select panel of judges and two will be chosen as the Trinity-St. Hilda's contribution to the forthcoming I.S.S. beauty contest in Convocation Hall. Among the astute judges will be "Hec" Phillips, famed Varsity track coach, who assures us that runners aren't the only thing that he has an eye for.

Non co-educational Wycliffe has announced a mysterious entry in the contest and they claim that he—or rather she—can't possibly lose. P.S.—Sorry fellows but stay away from those gals. They're all dated up with the McGill basketball team after the big game.

And also . . .

Spectator Volleyball will take place in the Upper Gym from 8 to 9 p.m. so join in the fun . . . at 9:30, following the co-ed contest, arrangements are being made to present two of Ontario's outstanding badminton artists in an exhibition well worth seeing . . . the fencing, boxing, and wrestling rooms will provide entertainment for those who stray in that direction and several of the university's noted pianists will give forth with the boogie woogie, etc., The wrestling room will be dimly lit for "sitting out" purposes.

Dancing . . .

Dancing will get under way in the main gym as soon as the Varsity-McGill game is over and will continue until midnight. For those who prefer the old barn dance hoe-down, the upper gym will feature the usual square-dancing.

And finally . . .

We hope you will have a great time at the Trinity-Wycliffe Athletic Night. The program has something for everyone's taste so be sure and join in the fun. Before closing, just a word of thanks to Warren Stevens and "Mac" McCutcheon who have given great assistance in getting things all set to go . . . Beat McGill!

Sr. "A" Cagers Beat Y.M.H.A.

Jim Steel's Sr. "A" Basketeers last night beat out West End Y.M.H.A. by the close score of 38-34. The game, played in Hart House, before a small crowd nevertheless displayed some excellent basketball.

The two teams were very evenly matched, and the see-saw battle throughout the first half ended with a count of 15-15 when the half-time whistle blew.

The second half was equally close and not till the final bell were the Varsityites sure they had won. High scorer for the Blues was Tettmar with 12 points, Rogan of the West Enders with 17 to his credit, leading the whole field.

Varsity—Swan (8); Tettmar (12); Andrews (9); Hennessy (4); Sturges (3); Himmel (2).

Y.M.H.A.—Litvak (2); Sherman; Rogan (17); Shekman (4); Simon (6); Shoom (5).

Varsity Ski Team Triumph in Meet

Last week-end at North Bay, the Varsity Ski Team walked off with downhill and slalom honours in the Northern Ontario Championships. Led by the sterling efforts of Russ Smart and Mark Guppy in a field of 32 starry competitors, the Varsity boys showed well, placing four men in the first ten in both the slalom and downhill.

Russ Smart's fine racing ability brought him a first in the downhill, a third in the slalom and an eleventh in the jumping to place him seventh in the combined totals.

Mark Guppy, skiing on home ground, flashed through a 20-gate slalom to edge out the Laurentian Ski Club's star Chuck Hansman for first place.

In a very closely run field Mark came through with a 5th. In the downhill. These two were followed by big Bill Beck who made a beautiful second run in the slalom to capture sixth place, combined with a ninth in the downhill. Bill was the only Varsity stalwart to brave the competition of the north's rapid Finnish runners in the 8-mile cross-country.

In the icy-fast downhill, Al Jacobs crossed the finish line fourth-fifths of a second behind Mark Guppy to place sixth. Jim Walte made a nice run in the slalom coming in tenth, to round out the team's all-round excellent performance.

On the strength of this meet this team shows great promise for future competition, next year, and will likely enter two more meets this year. Coach Doug Mann hopes to field a strong team next year when Intercollegiate Competition is reopened after five years' lapse.

Bus. Admin. Gives Bowling Challenge

Late Tuesday afternoon the Business Administration course finished the fifth week of their bowling schedule. The schedule will be completed late in April. Out of a class of 230, there are 70 active members in the league.

The Pinheads and the Rockets are leading with 14 points each, although there is only 9 points between the top and bottom teams of the ten in the club.

The high average to date is held by Art O'Neil with a 235.8 average—not bad for a man who has never bowled in a five-pin league before. Bill Burt has an average of 220.8, while Harold Thompson stands third with 220.4. High single bowled to date was Herb Park—nice bowling, Herb.

The league anticipates entering a team to the Canadian Bowling Association playdowns in the Spring.

The club also challenges any five-man team from any faculty or class in the University to a game, and this can be arranged through Al Harris at LO. 4747. Don't let this challenge go unheeded, it may go to these boys' heads!

Sport In Short

Wed., Feb. 13

Basketball—Major
S.P.S. 31 For. A 12

Basketball—Minor
111 Mining . . . 27 Vic. VI . . . 12
111 Chem. defaulted to Dent. V

Water Polo
Knox 4 Wyo. 0
U.C. (P.H.E.) . . 9 Jr. Med. . . . 0

Blues Swim vs. Hamilton McMaster Friday In Polo

With the Senior Intercollegiate Swimming meet looming on the horizon (March 2nd, to be exact) coach Bill Moffat has been putting the swimming Blues through their final polishing-up practices. To put the finishing touches to their prowess, several swimming meets have been arranged for the boys to accustom them to actual competition.

This Saturday at 8 p.m. the Hamilton Aquatic Club will be on hand to give Varsity all the competition they could hope to get from any one swimming club in Canada.

The Ambitious City has spawned more Canadian champs and record holders than anyone could shake a stick at. At least 6 (six) men falling under one or both of these classes in the shape of Ted St. Aubin, the Larson and Parks brothers and Jack McCormick are expected to pit themselves against the relatively untried University squad.

The home team has already chalked up one victory this season, a 32-29 win over Central YMCA. If the performances put on by Granfield, Teskey, Forsythe, Turnbull and Martin are up to the standard set against Central last week, a defeat for Hamilton is fairly certain. Bill Moffat predicts a win and also the breaking of the 200 yard Canadian breast-stroke record by Al Marshall, U.C., who is the present record-holder.

On Friday night, the University of Toronto water polo team will play host to another Hamilton club—McMaster U. water polo squad. It's expected that the "Mac" team will have some of the Hamilton Aquatic Water polo team playing for them. If so, the battle ought to be a close one.

The game will prove of special interest, as it will provide a preview of McMaster's material for the Intermediate swim meet on March 6th, and will also show McMaster's expectations in the way of next year's intercollegiate water polo squad.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

1:00 BUS. ADM. vs. KNOX A. Doyle, Atkinson
4:00 EMMAN. vs. TRIN. B. Crawford, Patterson
6:00 SPS V vs. FOR. B. Mosher, Johnson

WATER-POLO

5:00 SR. MED. A vs. SR. SPS. Rosen
5:45 DENT. vs. SR. MED. B. Rosen

BASKETBALL MAJOR

1:00 SR. U.C. vs. JR. SPS. Lye
4:00 ST. M. A. vs. JR. U.C. B. Maxwell
6:30 SR. MED. vs. SR. SPS. Jackson

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00 U.C. ARTS vs. PHE V. Jones
4:30 U.C. ST. GEORGE vs. III CIVIL. Geary
5:30 IV CIVIL vs. U.C. V. Geary
6:30 U.C. ECON vs. II ELEC. Mott
7:30 EMM. B vs. VIC. X. Mott

SPORTS SCHEDULE Week of February 18th.

HOCKEY

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 18

1:00 U.C. II vs SPS II Farrell, Atkinson
4:15 MED. III vs PHARM. Smith, Horkins
5:15 DENT. B vs SPS IV Smith, Horkins
VIC. X vs EMMAN. F. Fyfe, Sinclair

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19

4:00 ST. M. A vs DENT. A. Crawford, Andison

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20

12:00 EMMAN. vs ST. M. B. Garfunkel, Atkinson

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21

1:00 MED. II vs SPS II Garfunkel, Patterson
4:30 MED. I vs SPS I Street, Davison
6:00 U.C. III vs BUS. ADM. Lawler, Johnson

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22

1:00 U.C. I vs VIC. I Doyle, Mosher
4:15 SPS III vs DENT. A. Brownridge, Sinclair
5:30 FOR. B vs WYC. Brownridge, Sinclair

WATER POLO

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 18

6:00 U.C. (PHE) vs ST. M. Lyon

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19

5:00 WYC. vs TRIN. O'Brien
5:45 JR. SPS vs DENT. Rosen
6:30 SR. SPS vs U.C. I Rosen

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20

4:15 SPS III vs U.C. (PHE) Brace
6:00 ST. M. vs JR. MED. Allore

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21

5:00 U.C. I vs SR. MED. A. Brace
5:45 TRIN. vs KNOX. Shubik
6:30 FOR. vs WYC. Shubik

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22

4:15 JR. SPS vs SR. MED. B. Tilston

MAJOR LEAGUE BASKETBALL

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 18

1:00 SR. VIC. vs SR. SPS. Maxwell
4:00 PHE I vs SR. MED. Hamm
6:30 JR. VIC. vs JR. MED. Rotman

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19

1:00 BUS. ADM. vs PRE-MED. A. Dzipino
4:00 MED. SER. A vs FOR. A. Kerrison
6:30 SPS IV vs PHARM. Jackson

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20

1:00 TRIN. A vs PHE II Maxwell
4:00 DENT. B vs VIC. III Holman

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21

1:00 SPS V vs WYC. A. Voight
4:00 KNOX A vs EMMAN. A. McAdam

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22

1:00 DENT. B vs TRIN. B. Dzipino
4:00 ST. M. B vs VIC. III Hamm

MINOR LEAGUE BASKETBALL

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 18

1:00 IV ELEC. vs II MED. A. Charendoff
4:00 IV AERO vs I MED. Babcock
6:30 U.C. IV vs PRE-MED. B. Bond

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19

1:00 U.C. V vs MED. SER. B. Farrell
4:00 VIC. IV vs PHE IV Ewins
6:00 III MECH. vs II DENT. Kennedy
7:00 V DENT. vs VIC. V. Kennedy

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20

1:00 III ELEC. vs I DENT. Farrell
4:00 III MINING vs TRIN. III. Geary
6:30 III CIVIL vs ST. M. C. McPhedran
7:30 ST. M. D vs II ENG. BUS. McPhedran

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21

1:00 II ELEC. vs FOR. B. Smith
4:30 PHE V vs VIC. IX. Geary
5:30 VIC. X vs U.C. HOLWOOD. Geary

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22

1:00 I CIVIL vs II MED. B. Mott
4:00 I ELEC. vs FOR. E. Kerrison

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23

1:00 VIC. XI vs WYC. B. Peacock

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

Meds vs. St. Mike's

The Meds goalie made her third straight shut-out in yesterday's game when St. Mike's were defeated 2-0. The first goal was scored in the first three minutes of play by Fletcher. for Meds. Their second goal was also the work of Fletcher, assist Vierkoetter. St. Mike's made several rushes on the Meds. goal, but they seemed to have difficulty shooting straight. The Meds team didn't display such spectacular rushes, but they made each effort count. To quote Frank Rocchi, "The St. Mike's team may not play such good hockey, but they are the best looking team in the league."

What's the Score?

The faculty of Vic. has played off the first badminton tournament in preparation for the interfaculty affair to be held Feb. 23 at St. Paul's Church on Bloor.

The team of four who emerged victorious in this set of semi-finals is: Nora McNab, Shirley Tuck, Jan Young, and Dorothy Honsberger. However, one important item was ignored in the games . . . the score. No tournament sheets were in evidence at the courts . . . thus it was impossible to keep track of the individual scores of the players.

"SAVE US FROM PROFESSORS"—Adler

(Continued from Page 5)

dominates every aspect of modern education and is the central corruption of modern culture. Democracy has much more to fear from the mentality of its teachers than from the nihilism of Hitler. It is the same nihilism in both cases, but Hitler's is more honest and consistent, less blurred by subtleties and uneasy qualifications, and hence less dangerous. I shall return to this point after I have supported my charge.

Within brief scope, the easiest way to force the professors into the open is by making the issue sharp and clear. Let me do this first with respect to philosophy, and then with respect to religion.

The Issue About Philosophy

With respect to philosophy, the following propositions must be affirmed. He who denies any one of them denies philosophy.

(1) Philosophy is public knowledge, not private opinion, in the same sense that science is knowledge, not opinion.

(2) Philosophical knowledge answers questions which science cannot answer, now or ever, because its method is not adapted to answering such questions.

(3) Because their methods are thus distinct, each being adapted to a different object of inquiry, philosophical and scientific knowledge are logically independent of one another, which means that the truth and falsity of philosophical principles or conclusions does not depend upon the changing content of scientific knowledge.

(4) Philosophy is superior to science, both theoretically and practically; theoretically, because it is knowledge of the being of things whereas science studies only their phenomenal manifestations; practically because philosophy establishes moral conclusions, whereas scientific knowledge yields only technological applications; this last point means that science can give us only a control over operable means, but it cannot make a single judgment about good and bad, right and wrong, in terms of the ends of human life.

(5) There can be no conflict between scientific and philosophic truths, although philosophers may correct the errors of scientists who try to answer questions beyond their professional competence, just as scientists can correct the errors of philosophers guilty of a similar transgression.

(6) There are no systems of philosophy, each of which may be considered true in its own way by criteria of internal consistency, each differing from the others, as so many systems of geometry, in terms of different origins in diverse, but equally arbitrary, postulates or definitions.

(7) The first principles of all philosophical knowledge are metaphysical, and metaphysics is valid knowledge of both sensible and supra-sensible being.

(8) Metaphysics is able to demonstrate the existence of supra-sensible being, for it can demonstrate the existence of God, by appealing to the evidence of the senses and the principles of reason, and without any reliance upon articles of religious faith.

These eight propositions are not offered as an exhaustive account of the nature of philosophy, its distinction from, and relation to, science. I have chosen them simply because they will serve like intellectual litmus paper to bring out the acid of positivism. Let the professors who claim to respect philosophy—and this goes as much for the professors of philosophy as for the others—decide whether they affirm every one of these propositions.

Those who say that philosophy is just another kind of knowledge but not superior to science might just as well call philosophy opinion and deny its existence. Those who suppose that philosophical principles or conclusions are dependent on the findings of science; those who suppose that real technical competence is necessary in order to solve scientific problems, whereas none is needed for philosophical problems; those who think that philosophy comprises a variety of logically constructed systems, among which you can take your choice according to your preference among postulates; those who say philosophy is all right, but metaphysics is nonsense, and there is no rational knowledge of God—all these deny philosophy. They are positivists.

If the professors were clear of mind and forthright of speech, they would come right out and say that they regard philosophy as opinion, not knowledge. But the professors are unaccustomed to simple affirmations and denials. They give true-false tests, but never take them. They will, therefore, avoid the test I have presented by saying that it is all a matter of how you use the words, or that it all depends on your point of view, or something equally evasive. Yet, by their evasions shall you know them, for those who affirm philosophy to be knowledge neither hesitate nor quibble on any of these points.

The Issue About Religion

With respect to religion, the following propositions must be affirmed. He who denies any one of them denies religion, in any sense which makes it distinct in character from science and philosophy.

(1) Religion involves knowledge of God and of man's destiny, knowledge which is not naturally acquired in the sense in which both science and philosophy are natural knowledge.

(2) Religious faith, on which sacred theology rests, is itself a supernatural act of the human intellect, and is thus a Divine gift.

(3) Because God is its cause, faith is more certain than knowledge resulting from the purely natural action of the human faculties.

(4) What is known by faith about God's nature and man's destiny is knowledge which exceeds the power of the human intellect to attain without God's revelation of Himself and His Providence.

(5) Sacred theology is independent of philosophy, in that its principles are truths of faith, whereas philosophical principles are truths of reason, but this does not mean that theology can be speculatively developed without reason serving faith.

(6) There can be no conflict between philosophical and theological truths, although theologians may correct the errors of philosophers who try to answer questions beyond the competence of natural reason, just as philosophers can correct the errors of theologians who violate the autonomy of reason.

(7) Sacred theology is superior to philosophy, both theoretically and practically; theoretically, because it is more perfect knowledge of God and His creatures; practically, because moral philosophy is insufficient to direct man to God as his last end.

(8) Just as there are no systems of philosophy, but only philosophical knowledge less or more adequately possessed by different men, so there is only one true religion, less or more adequately embodied in the existing diversity of creeds.

These eight propositions, like those concerning philosophy, are far from exhaustive. They are intended simply as a device to bring professional positivism—or shall I call it "negativism"—out into the open. Those who claim to respect the distinct place of religion in modern culture, but refuse to grant that religion rests upon supernatural knowledge, or that it is superior to both philosophy and science, either know not what they say or are guilty of profound hypocrisy.

For unless religion involves supernatural knowledge, it has no separate status whatsoever; and if it rests upon supernatural knowledge, it must be accorded the supreme place in the cultural hierarchy.

Religion cannot be regarded as just another aspect of culture, one among many human occupations, of indifferent importance along with science and art, history and philosophy. Religion is either the supreme human discipline, because it is God's discipline of man, and as such dominates our culture, or it has no place at all. The mere toleration of religion, which implies indifference to or denial of its claims, produces a secularized culture as much as militant atheism or Nazi nihilism.

Philosophers who think that all the significant questions men ask are either answerable by reason or not at all, are naturalists in a sense analogous to the positivism of scientists who think that science alone is valid knowledge, and that science is enough for the conduct of life. If the professors are positivists, they are certainly naturalists. They dishonor themselves as well as religion by tolerating it when, all equivocations overcome, they really think that faith is superstition, just as they really think philosophy is opinion. The kind of positivism and naturalism which is revealed in all their works and all their teaching, is at the root of modern secularized culture.

The Professional Position

Now let me guard against misunderstanding once more. The various propositions I have enumerated I do not regard as matters of opinion. I think their truth can be proved. But I have not done so. I have done absolutely nothing to show that positivism and naturalism are false doctrines. My only aim was to show that the professors are, whether right or wrong, positivists and naturalists. My only hope was that the professors might examine their conscience in the light of clearly defined issues, and acknowledge plainly what they really think.

I know, of course, that that is too much to hope for. But since actions speak louder than words, no one who understands the issues will be deceived by what the professors have to say, however much they fool themselves. The professorial reaction to the proposals of Mr. Hutchins, the professorial conduct of this very Conference, give the lie to professional speech, the polite discourse, the insulting tolerance, which conceals the dismissal of philosophy as opinion and religion as superstition behind expressions of specious respect.

The Present Crisis

The various propositions I have enumerated are either true or false. Each, therefore, can be regarded as constituting a problem, a two-sided issue at least. Should it not be the business of this Conference to take up such problems in a definite order, and to direct all the intellectual energies to their solution? If a group of men do not come together because they have common problems, and ultimately seek to reach common answers, there is no more community among them than there is in a modern university, or in modern culture itself.

As I have already said, the failure of this Conference to do the only work which justifies its existence, perfectly symbolizes the absence of cultural community in the modern world; worse than that, it justifies the most extreme pessimism about an impending catastrophe, for until the professors and their culture are liquidated, the resolution of modern problems—a resolution which history demands shall be made—will not even begin. The tower of Babel we are building invites another flood.

The failure of this Conference is due not only to the fact that the professors are, for the most part, positivists; but even more so to their avoidance of what is demanded for fruitful intellectual procedure. Unlike the mediaeval man of learning, the modern professor will not subject himself to the rigors of public disputation. He emasculates discussion by treating it as an exchange of opinions, in which no one gains or loses because everyone keeps his own. He is incle in the sense that, beyond the field of science, he cannot be instructed, because he acknowledges no ignorance.

Hence anyone who would try to instruct him about philosophical or religious truths would be regarded as authoritarian, as trying to impose a doctrine. He is scandalized by the very notion of a commonly shared truth for all men. Even though such truth can be attained only by the free activity of each mind, that no mind is free to reject the truth seems like an infringement upon his sacred liberties.

What he means by truth in science and by agreement among scientists permits him to talk as if he were a truth-seeker and willing to agree; but that is because the contingent and tentative character of scientific knowledge so perfectly fits the egotism, the individualism, the liberalism, of the modern mind. The greater necessity and finality of truth in philosophy and religion oblige a mind in ways it will not suffer.

On fundamental questions, which means all the questions beyond the scope of science, he wishes to keep a thoroughly open mind forever; he wishes neither to be convinced of anything nor to convince anyone. Hence he would not participate in a conference which required everyone to agree upon the fundamental questions to be answered, and measures its success by the degree to which such answers were commonly achieved as a result of the most patient discussion.

The Roots of Democracy

I have so far pointed out the significance of this Conference for the state of our culture, and the doom it forebodes. In conclusion, I wish to indicate briefly the bearing of my analysis upon the crisis of Democracy. Let me say at once that I hold Democracy to be the greatest political good, the most perfect form of political community; and I hold this not as a matter of fine feeling or local opinion, but because I think it is a conclusion which can be demonstrated in terms of the truths of moral and political philosophy.

Now, what can positivists say about such a demonstration? Obviously, they must repudiate it. Outside the sphere of science nothing can be demonstrated, and the proposition that Democracy is the best political order certainly lies outside the sphere of science. What is neither self-evident nor demonstrable must be an opinion, which attracts or repels us emotionally.

Anyone who denies that philosophy is knowledge denies, of course, the self-evidence of moral principles and the validity of moral demonstrations. Hence the professors can be for Democracy only because they like it, not because they know it is right. They talk a great deal about natural rights and the dignity of man, but this is loose and irresponsible talk, in which they lightly indulge because they do not mind contradicting themselves.

There are no natural rights if there is no natural moral law, which is binding upon all men everywhere in the same way. Man has no dignity if he is not a rational animal, essentially distinct from the brutes by reason of the spiritual dimension of his being.

This should be enough to make clear that positivists are forced to deny the rights and dignity of man, or hold such views only as prejudice, rationally no better than Hitler's prejudices to the contrary. But to reinforce the point that the professors have no grounds for any of their fine feelings, let me add that the same facts which warrant man's dignity as an end to be served by the state also imply that man has an immortal soul, and a destiny beyond the temporal order. In short, one cannot have reasons for affirming Democracy and at the same time deny the truths of philosophy and religion.

Of course, the sort of democracy to which the professors are sentimentally attached cannot be demonstrated.

(Continued on Page 8)

- KITTY - AMBER

- SCARLETT

(SO ROUND, SO FIRM, SO FULLY PACKED)

—The above - mentioned Valentines?

—No, the bolts of cloth just arrived at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE

At College RA. 8995-6

We're itching to grab those shears and cut you a new suit or topcoat from these imported woolsens.

It can be sewn together in 3 to 4 weeks.

Won't you slip in and give us the green light?

Special discounts to students.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

 Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762

(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)

OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING

Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

DON'T

BE

U.C. PIN

BUY

SAVE

Procrastinate

one of the few to wear a

yours TODAY in the J.C.R. and

Disappointment

Sale 12 to 2 only

Price 75c

"The World of Tomorrow is Being Built In The Classrooms of Today"

GIVE GENEROUSLY

International Student Service

WANTED

39 model car, good condition, any make. Please apply Box G, The Varsity.

24-HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

PERSONAL

Nominations for U.C. candidate for Typical Co-ed in I.S.S. contest. Place in box in U.C. Rotunda by Thurs., Feb. 14th.

TAKEN BY MISTAKE

Black leather note-book, in Hart House, Tuesday. Please exchange at S.A.C. office, or phone D. E. Watts, MI 2700.

LOST

Eversharp pencil, white, souvenir of Queen Elizabeth, and treasured as keepsake. Please leave at S.A.C. office.

Save Us From

(Continued from Page 7)
onstrably aporoved, for theirs is an essentially false conception. The social order they would like to preserve is the anarchic individualism, the corrupt liberalism, which is the most vicious caricature of Democracy. Objecting to any infringement of absolute individual liberty by loyalties and obligations to superior goods, they want a democracy without hierarchy and without authority.

In short, they want chaos, not order, a society in which everyone will be as free as if he lived alone. A community in which common bonds will not bind the individual at all. Even when they speak enthusiastically about this false ideal, the professors seldom claim that they have rational grounds for defense. The very fact that they so frequently refer to democracy, not as government or as a political order, but as a way of life, reveals them as exponents of a false religion.

This religion of democracy is no better than the religion of fascism. One is the idolatry of individual liberty as the other is the worship of collective might.

Democracy and Modern Culture

One of the greatest achievements of the modern world is the discovery of the moral and political reasons for the democratic ideal, as well as actual experimentation in the field of democratic processes. But though it be in this sense a child of modern times, Democracy will not be fully achieved until modern culture is radically reformed. Science contributes nothing whatsoever to the understanding of Democracy. Without the truths of philosophy and religion, Democracy has no rational foundations. In America at present it is at best a cult, a local prejudice, a traditional persuasion. Today it is challenged by other cults which seem to have more might, and no less right, as far as American ability to defend democracy rationally is concerned.

For all these reasons I say we have more to fear from our professors than from Hitler. It is they who have made American education what it is, both in content and method: in content, an indoctrination of positivism, and naturalism; in method, an exhibition of anarchic individualism masquerading as the democratic manner. Whether Hitler wins or not, the culture which is formed by such education cannot support what democracy we have against interior decay.

It is probably not from Hitler, but from the professors, that we shall ultimately be saved.

Canadian Nickel

brings Sugar to your Table

THOUSANDS of Canadians earn their living producing Nickel. Thousands of West Indians earn their living producing sugar. Only a small part of the sugar produced in the West Indies is consumed there. •

Less than three per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is consumed in Canada. The rest is exported and the money received helps to pay for sugar and other products necessary to good-living in Canada.

The export of Canadian Nickel means jobs for the thousands of employees of the Canadian Nickel industry. It also means jobs for the other thousands of Canadians who produce the lumber, power, steel, explosives, machinery, equipment and supplies used by the Canadian Nickel industry.

Canada cannot keep on importing from other lands unless she exports Canadian goods.

By constantly seeking to expand the uses of Nickel at home and abroad, the Canadian Nickel industry brings additional benefits to Canada and Canadians.

"The Romance of Nickel" a 60-page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Dispute at Conference Explained By Porter

"The Ontario Government differs from the Federal Government not in objectives, but in the approach to the problem," said the Hon. Dana Porter Tuesday night, at the Modern History Club meeting. His topic was "The Drew Proposals."

Mr. Porter said that the issue was not a struggle between the Federal and Provincial Governments. Canada adopted the federal system for definite reasons in 1867, and these reasons were still cogent today. No party to the Dominion Provincial Conference had suggested that the Federal system be discarded, but it was a difference of emphasis which created the problem.

Mr. Porter asserted that municipal, provincial and federal governments function at different levels for different needs. What was needed today was a definition of the various governmental powers before any positive reconstruction could take place.

The Province of Ontario is a locality, and as such, needs a local government to meet local needs and to develop potential wealth. The needs were in no way theoretical; they were a fact to be recognized. During the war, the Provincial Government surrendered corporation and income taxes to the Dominion Government to further the prosecution of the war.

Today the Federal Government faced with reconstruction and social service wants to retain the taxes surrendered by the provinces in the national emergency. The Dominion Government wanted the provinces to vacate the field of income, corporation and succession taxes. In return the Dominion would guarantee to look after depression, when it comes, by social services like Family Allowances, and by beginning certain opportune public

(Continued on Page 8)

ONLY

6

More Days Till
I. S. S.
Campaign

VARSITY REPORTERS

All Varsity reporters are asked to come in and O.K. their assignments for the night of Feb. 23. See Bulletin Board in office for further details. "Champignons" will be announced later.

I.S.S. Drive Worthy Cause

By Alan Foster

The campaign for funds for the International Student Service, to be held Thursday, Feb. 21st, should be recognized as having a most significant appeal to all members of the University community. The pressing need for relief work in Europe is constantly brought to our attention but, in order to reconstruct shattered university buildings and build up supplies, assistance from the more fortunately placed colleges and universities on this continent is essential.

I.S.S. is a non-sectarian, non-racial, non-political organization, that works to help students and professors, without reference to race, nationality, religion or politics, to meet human needs through its international channels.

Relaxing of international boundaries makes it possible for I.S.S. to reach more students in more countries during the coming year. Already shipments of food and medical supplies have gone to university centres in France, Belgium, Holland, and Yugoslavia. Tubercular students from European countries are receiving lodging and treatment at the University Sanatorium in Switzerland. Student rehabilitation centres are being established, like the one at Combloux, for restoring run-down students to health. Books and supplies are being shipped. Chinese student relief centres provide food, baths, haircuts, and heated, lighted rooms for study. Local relief committees supply medical help, winter clothing, bedding and money to students.

Although the world budget for this work is $2,000,000 for the coming year, Toronto students, whose university is intact, whose libraries are complete, are asked to raise only $10,000. Co-operative effort of students throughout the world will achieve the feeling of amity among the future leaders of the world.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 83 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Friday, February 15, 1946

Habeas Corpus Is Basis of Law, Order-in-Council Revokes This Decides Jap-Canadian Forum

New Pass Arts Summer Course

Special courses for ex-servicemen to be given this summer at Varsity include:

—A special first year session in Arts comprising most of the first year Pass course, with the addition of Archaeology and Accounting. Successful students will be admitted to the second year of the 1946-47 session in the various honor courses if they obtain the required standing. Beginning about April 1, the session will continue until Aug. 30 with final examinations the first week of September.

—The Faculty of Medicine will conduct a two months' long refresher course for 60 applicants. Application must be made before March 25.

—The School of Hygiene will open a course in Public Health on April 1 to run until the end of December. The regular session will commence in September.

—Ex-servicemen who have completed their apprenticeship may enter an accelerated course in the Ontario College of Pharmacy commencing on April 15. Further information may be obtained from the College office, 44 Gerrard St.

Further information on any of the courses may be obtained from the office of the university registrar in Simcoe Hall.

Sunday Eve Program At Women's Union

University College will present its second music soiree and art exhibit at the Women's Union, 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

The art exhibit is to include work by U.C. students. Both non-objective art and representative art are to be featured.

The musical program includes two Chopin piano studies played by Marion Jones, and three songs by Bohm, Durante and Delibes sung by Natalie Fawcett. The program will be completed by Paul Serson playing studies by Corelli and Gigo for violin, two modern songs by Abe Greenspan, and two Shostakovich preludes by Kenneth Peacock.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON RECITAL

There will be a recital in the music room at Hart House this afternoon at 5 p.m. Sheila Munro, pianist, will be the guest artist.

Brewin, Tanaka, Croll Speak

"Certainly we protest mass deportation," said David A. Croll, Liberal M.P. for Toronto-Spadina riding at an open forum on the Japanese-Canadian question in the Economics Building last night.

"The United Nations Charter states that we must respect human rights and freedom, and if Canada must abide by her signature, there can be no smug smiles on our faces!" continued Col. Croll. "Citizenship must not be lightly given, nor lightly taken away."

Col. Croll went on to say that the government must, under all circumstances convince the citizens of Canada that there has been no coercion nor compulsion put upon the Japanese citizens. If we are to allow deportation of this minority group there will be established a precedent undermining the whole racial set-up of the nation.

"Minorities and immigrants will lose all confidence in Canada if we allow the deportation of the Canadians of Japanese origin," said Col. Croll.

Kinzie Tanaka, Chairman of the Japanese-Canadian Committee for Democracy, represents the Japanese, some of whom were brought to Canada around 1900 by such concerns as the C.P.R. for the lumbering and mining industries.

"It is quite true that Japanese born in Canada had to report to Japanese authorities," said Mr. Tanaka. "In Japanese law those between 17 and 37 are of military age."

Mr. Tanaka denied that they were sent from Japan as a definite part of a policy of the Japanese war-lords. He asserted that it was reasonable for the Japs to be removed from the coastal areas, but he was given only three days notice and not told where he was going.

Most of the Japanese adults desire to remain in Canada since it is their homeland by birth and naturalization.

"The whole question is not one of citizenship but one of oriental exclusion," said Tanaka.

The last speaker, Andrew Brewin, K.C., stated that the basis of our legal system is freedom from forced imprisonment and infringement of liberty where no crime has been committed.

"The Habeas Corpus Act," said Mr. Brewin, "is still in force here unless revoked by recent Orders in Council which have not been ratified by Parliament but passed after the National Powers Act at its first reading."

Because of the war Parliament gave the government power for war measures, but not the power to deport loyal citizens who are considered as enemies because of their race.

"One of the bases of the Nuremberg trials is the fact that we are proposing to judge enemy leaders because they deported their enemies. The battle of liberty must be fought in this unpopular case," said Mr. Brewin. "If not we all lose our freedom."

300 Co-eds Needed Tag Sale Speeded I.S.S. To Lead It

Attention, all co-eds!

Have you ever felt an overwhelming desire to walk up and speak to strange man but have repressed that desire because of fear of social censure?

If so, your time has come. Next Thursday, you may track your dream man to his lair, be it on the top floor of the Engineering Building or the stacks in the Library. What's more no philistine will have the audacity to criticize your actions; you will be immune.

There is only one necessary qualification—a little box of I.S.S. tags.

Three hundred co-eds are urgently required as taggers next Thursday in the campus-wide drive sponsored by the International Students' Service to raise funds for the rehabilitation of war-ravaged universities.

Lists have been posted on bulletin boards on most university buildings. The taggers—who through necessity will be restricted to 300—should sign the lists or contact Bill Wadley, MI 3941. Lists will be posted Tuesday giving time and place of tagging.

Court Hears Harron-Flint Case Monday

By Ross McLean

The University of Toronto today awaited the Moot Court trial of Campus Comic Don Harron who will face charges of breach of promise next Monday evening in the Junior Common Room Chambers of University College.

Harron meanwhile continued to protest innocence of the charges laid by Third-Year Law Student "Babs" Flint as the date of the trial approached.

"She's only asking for the five grand to make it worth her wiles," Vic Sophomore Harron asserted.

"That phillanderer Harron!" Miss Flint retorted in a private retort released to The Varsity through her counsel Telford Georges. "Give him a hinge and he'll give you the gate!"

Miss Flint maintains that Harron proposed marriage during a week-end at a ski lodge over New Year's as fruition of a summer-born romance. The contested affair reportedly began following Miss Flint's rescue of Harron from drowning. "To think," Miss Flint mused nostalgically today, "that I once saved him from a watery death. I should have known then he was a drip."

(Harron had been learning to swim on the beach of a swank northern resort when overcome by a powerful lake breeze.)

"I never gave her any grounds for such a charge," Harron declared. "She supplied all the grounds. Even a picnic lunch."

Harron pointed to his "unstained background."

Listed in Who's Who under What's That? Harron's biography is presented as follows:

"On Sept. 19, 1924 nothing unusual happened and they called it Donald R. Harron. (The 'R' is for Rover. It seems his folks wanted a dog.) He could converse in base

English at the age of six months by gleaming droppings of lexicon from a nearby parrot.

His father who had read too much Horatio Alger, had him delivering The Evening Smellagran to six out of five Toronto homes at the age of two which kept him rather busy. Up to the age of 2½ his life was full of incessant changes due to circumstances beyond his control. As the young strippling (he frequently embarrassed his parents by a dislike of all forms of clothing) reached his formative years, he was sent to college to be studied.

"Reason for this rapid educational advance is explained by Harron's cryptic comment: 'Never adolescent in my life!'"

R. Leitich, Counsel for the Defendant, offered to submit character references to prove his client's unblemished past. "I can dig up three characters with references," he volunteered. "Easy!"

Mr. Hardov Harron, father of the defendant, defended his son's name. "Donald," he said, "is just like any other red-blooded Canadian noise. He takes after his father and wouldn't do anything wrong." Appearance of the jail-guard to announce that visiting hours were over, terminated the interview.

Glamorous Keele Street debutante, Miss Pearl Handle at present starring in the extravaganza "September Morn" with the Children's Repertory Company at the Queen's Street Culture Centre, upheld Harron's protestations of innocence (a growler of Chinese innocence was burning in a nearby ashtray as she spoke).

"Harron," she stated, "is an old schoolyard friend of mine. I used to see him at children's parties when we played 'Puss-in-the-corner' together. I would sock Harron in the puss and he would lie in the corner all night."

Further testimony to Harron's virtue came voluntarily from a relative residing at Whitby.

"Donald," he wrote, "is not only a good boy, he's a great man. He is greater even than Napoleon or Laura Secord. I should know. They both live two doors down the hall from me. Please excuse the crayon. They don't allow us to use anything sharp in here."

Peg Wallace and Anne Nicholson, room-mates of the plaintiff, Miss Flint, avow to the depths of her one-time devotion to Harron.

"Many were her sleepless nights," said Miss Wallace, "because of that man. Away from him hers was a desperate love. Each night she paced the floor. Sometimes she used mulligan."

Miss Flint, now a law student at this University, has at various times been in the employ of the John Ingls company and the C.P.R. For the former she typed and for the latter she wiped-engines.

"To woo him," said Miss Nicholson, "she invested in the most expensive perfumes. She had even bought several ounces of Matchabelli's Vapo-Rub."

The VARSITY

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221
Night OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478
Ajax EditorMike McLaughlin
Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
News Editor.....George Forster 477
Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 476
AjaxPete Philpott
Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 477
Assistant.....Reg Herman, 476
AjaxCliff Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor....Bredin Stapells, 478
Assistant.....Don Mason, 478
AjaxEd. Caldwell
Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 478
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor.....Philip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Friday, February 15, 1946

For Men Only

With Hart House Elections scheduled to take place less than three weeks away, and with an unprecedented freshman enrollment of electors strange to the history and traditions of the House, The Varsity to-day presents the first in a series of background articles for Hart House voters.

It was in 1910, during the first years of the presidency of Sir Robert Falconer, that Mr. Chester Massey, then Chairman of the Trustees of the Massey Foundation, undertook that the Foundation would erect a building which would be a centre for the male undergraduates of this university. Ground was broken early in 1911 and the main structure was finished in 1914. During the first world war thousands of men were trained for overseas service within its walls. On 11th November 1919 Hart House was officially opened by the Duke of Devonshire.

Few if any of the many thousands of men undergraduates who have passed through this University since November 1919 have failed to make use of Hart House and they have built up within its walls a corporate life of quite amazing vitality. Slowly but surely there has emerged during these early formative years something which may be called "the Hart House idea". It is this. First, a House devoted to student life should be efficiently managed and make full provision for the material needs and social activities of its members and secondly, without being "high-brow" or educative, it must stand pre-eminently for the cultivation of the arts, more especially of painting, music, books, the drama, for the encouragement of the undergraduate's interest in public affairs through the medium of speakers and of debates, for the wise presentation of Christianity, for the introduction of a certain dignity and courtesy into daily intercourse and for the formation of lasting friendships.

In the Great Hall, a room of noble proportions, meals are served to thousands of students every week. There is the well-equipped athletic wing with its manifold provision for indoor sport, so ably administered by the Athletic Directorate. The offices of the Students' Administrative Council daily serve a large body of undergraduates in many ways. There is the social life in all its aspects such as dances and meetings and the contact between men of different colleges and faculties in the crowded common rooms and hallways. But it is the cultural, or in the widest sense of that word the spiritual, activities which constitute the peculiar charm of Hart House and are its greatest contribution to academic life.

The Sunday Evening Concerts began in October 1922. Then came the Friday Recitals, followed by the Songsters (discontinued during the war and not yet revived). The Glee Club dates from 1932, the Friday Sing Songs are long established and now there are the Tuesday Midday Recitals in the East Common Room. In the early days exhibitions in the Art gallery (then called the Sketch room) were few. Now they are held fortnightly as well as informal talks on art. The print room was established in the late twenties and the art classes about the same time. The camera rooms, which have always been a part of the House, were greatly enlarged in 1932 and the high standard of work done there is known to all.

The first debate was held in October 1924, the procedure being based on that of Ottawa and Westminster. Both Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Bennett (as he then was) have taken part in these debates during their term of office as prime Minister. Federal cabinet ministers have also spoken, as well as members of the Ontario Government. Many now prominent in the political life of Canada made their debut at Hart House debates.

The library contains exactly the kind of books which any well-stocked private library would possess. Here the undergraduate can spend a quiet hour "browsing", choosing from the shelves any volume he wishes. He is only asked not to remove the book from the room.

During the inter-war period there were few more active parts of the House than the theatre, situated below the quadrangle. Closed from 1942 to 1944, it opened for six weeks in November and December 1944 and for a similar period in 1945. Steps are now being taken to re-open the theatre on a full time basis in the fall of 1946. The Director will find the various college dramatic societies doing work of a high standard.

Last but not least is the religious life of the House. In the original plan it was laid down that the Student Christian Movement should have quarters in the building and a chapel was established in a central position. This, it is believed, is an unique feature in a building devoted to student life. Here prayers are said daily. The chapel is under the direction of the Rev. Edward Lute, Secretary of the S.C.M., and the Rev. Douglas Candy who saw service overseas with the parachute Battalion.

Few of these activities existed in the first years. They have been built up over the course of time by successive generations of undergraduates acting through their committees, elected annually in March. To these committees have been entrusted in large measure the direction and control of this great Foundation. The Warden and the Comptroller and their staffs carry out the decisions of the Governing Body and of its committees and provide the necessary continuity from year to year. The functions of the various committees will be explained in a further article.

It cannot be said too often that Hart House is Canadian. It was erected under the personal supervision of the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, was planned by Canadian architects, it was built with Canadian funds and is administered by committees on which sit some 95 young Canadians and 35 faculty and graduate members. As far as the writer knows, there is nothing precisely like Hart House in any other university in the world. It is not a copy of anything in England or in the U.S.A., though there are ideas from both countries incorporated in it.

Hart House is still in its early years. It is greatly to be hoped that both ex-service men and the younger generation coming direct from school will catch a vision of what this foundation can become in the centuries that lie ahead and will build wisely and slowly in this formative period.

The Lust Weekend

J. J. Funguli yawned, burped slightly, as was his custom, and reached over to the glass at his bedside. He poured himself a stiff drink of whisky and gulped it down just in case as he often declared, "I happen to have a small bone caught in my throat."

J. J. had never had a small bone caught in his throat in his entire lifetime, but he always insisted on taking all precautions just in case, you know.

"Sam", he yelled. His man Sam entered swaying slightly back and forth and mumbling drunkenly to himself.

"Sam", said J.J., "what day is it out."

Sam winced slightly and gave J. J. a look as if to say that that was hardly a fair question to ask a man so early in the week. Sam thinking fast replied "I don't know the exact day but it's the day of the Ale and Quail meeting." Sam wasn't taking much of a chance there as the Ale and Quail had managed to meet somehow or other every day for the last seven years that Sam and J. J. had been together.

J. J. seemed to brighten up at the mention of the Ale and Quail and started to struggle out of bed.

"Sam" he said, "which suit will I wear today?"

Sam focussed his eyes on J. J.'s struggling body and his face brightening slightly replied,

"Why not just keep on that gray tweed one with the brown shoes that you're wearing at present."

"You mean—" said J. J.

"Yes", said Sam.

This was quite a dramatic moment as J. J. had had a small bet with Sam that one of these days he would remember to get out of his clothes and into his pyjamas before going to bed.

"I wonder if Freddie will drop in today" J. J. murmured without thinking.

At the mention of the word Freddie, Sam let out a loud sob and rushing to the portable bar poured himself a long drink and gulped it down. Then he seemed to regain equilibrium.

"Sorry" said J. J. He had temporarily forgotten that at the mention of the name Freddie and several other common male names Sam was reminded of a mysterious sad incident that had happened previously in his life and always let out a sob and would apparently have broken down completely each time if it hadn't been for the three or four portable bars scattered strategically throughout the room.

Indeed friends of J. J. had often asked him, that is early in the evening when they were still able to speak, why he tolerated Sam and his unusual ways. J. J. would then, also provided it wasn't too late in the evening, go into a long tirade against Sam's predecessor Jake, who one day he reports with horror "I caught coming out of a meeting of the W.C.T.U."

"Sam at least" said J. J., "can't be accused of being a temperance man."

Will Sam too join the W.C.T.U.?

"THE ROOK"

Valentine Party

AT
"WHAT'S THE ANSWER?"
SATURDAY 10.15 A.M.—SIMPSON'S ARCADIAN COURT
WITH MART KENNEY AND HIS ORCHESTRA
FEATURING NORMA LOCKE

Simpson's

ELLIS McLINTOCK

HIS TRUMPET AND HIS ORCHESTRA
In the spacious comfort of the
ROYAL YORK CONCERT HALL
TOMORROW NIGHT
TICKETS $1.00 EACH—NOW ON SALE AT
MITFORD TICKET AGENCY
317 1/2 BAY STREET
Sponsored by Givins Old Boys' Association

DON'T BE U.C. PIN

Procrastinate
one of the few to wear a
yours TODAY in the J.C.R. and Disappointment

Price 75c Sale 12 to 2 only

Bring Your Friends to The FIRESIDE
in WYCLIFFE LIBRARY at 9 p.m., Sunday, February 17
Sponsored By
The Varsity Christian Fellowship

Hart House Bulletin Board

Friday Afternoon Recital
Sheila Munro, pianist, will give a recital in the music room of Hart House at 5 p.m. today.

Midday Sing Song
There will be a sing song in the east common room at 1.30 p.m. today.

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. (West of University Ave.)
ONE WEEK BEGINNING MON. FEB. 18
Evs. (8:20). Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

DEEP ARE THE ROOTS

Box Office Open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Evs. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00
Wed. Mat. 50c - $1.20 - $1.80
Sat. Mat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40
(All Tax Included)

"GO SEE IT!"
—WALTER WINCHELL

DEEP ARE THE ROOTS

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 83 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Friday, February 15, 1946

Colby, Much-Publicized "Face" Will Visit University Today

In handing out anatomical nicknames they made no mistake in labelling Hollywood's Anita Colby "The Face".

In Toronto to attend to advance ballyhoo-why-what-where details pertaining to Bossman David O. Selznick's upcoming production "Duel In The Sun", Miss Colby, high-pressure-agent supreme of glamortown yesterday afternoon granted an interview to The Varsity.

La Colby told the dazzled twosome she would visit Varsity between ten and eleven o'clock this morning. She was scheduled to appear at St. Hilda's where she would offer a capsule lecture on the movies.

The Face is 5' 9" of glamor, has honey-hued hair and bewitching gray eyes, was disappointed to find Canada snowless on her first visit, admitted that she was "quite excited" to be here, and apologetically munched a ham sandwich.

For Cinemagnate Selznick "The Face" performs in a multitude of ill-defined ways. "Just a combination big sister and Dorothy Dix," explained the lady credited with grooming Ingrid Bergman and Jennifer Jones for stardom.

"Maybe I'm sticking my neck out," observed The Face in response to a query about Canadian women. "But I think designing is the fault with their clothes. I think they're equally attractive as American girls but don't dress so wisely."

Today she descends upon this campus with an entourage of cameramen in quest of a co-ed suitable for the screen.

Co-ed Committee Prepare Petition

The women at S.P.S. still want to attend the engineering meetings held in Hart House. They have set up a committee to publicize their demand. The members are Miss Sheila Rounthwaite, IV year Architecture; Miss Dorner Ellis, III year Engineering Physics; and Miss Beverly Meridith, III year Electrical.

They already have over 600 signatures and progress is reported as good.

Laina Garrioch, III year Chemical, whose husband recently returned from overseas, had this to say: "The better class of man readily signs, and the majority of those I approach sign my petition. In general, I find that the senior students are most sympathetic to our cause. Anyone who thinks that women have no place in engineering—well!—They simply have the mentality of the middle ages."

"Sympathetic friends are circulating the petition in other faculties since any member of Hart House can sign," says Dorner Ellis, "but I wish we knew a few in Arts who would take the petition around."

Robinette Debate Schedule

The schedule for next week's Robinette Debates is as follows:

Monday, Feb. 18.—Atin and Boas vs. Palmer and Knowlton.

Tuesday, Feb. 19.—Elliot and Goldring vs. Tolmie and Noble.

Wednesday, Feb. 20.—Kert and Harris vs. Brody and Cooper.

Thursday, Feb. 21.—Sharp and Shubik vs. winner of Georges and Simmonds, vs. Preston and Stone.

Friday, Feb. 22.—Shift and Zeldin vs. Jack and Robinson.

Seventeen teams have been entered in this year's series. Topics already debated have included fraternities and college spirit, compulsory government arbitration in strikes, and an increase in the allowances of ex-service men at university.

It is hoped by the debates representative of the U.C. Men's Lit that the winners of the Robinette trophy will debate against the winners of the Foria trophy for U.C. women at the Red and White night on March 13.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra will hold rehearsals at the following times. Full and prompt attendance at both rehearsals is essential.

Sat. Feb. 16th. Women's Union, 79 St. George St., 2 p.m. sharp.
Sun. Feb. 17th. Convocation Hall, 2 p.m. sharp.

Anti-Imperialist Liberal Is Believer In Free Will

"The revelation that Benito Mussolini publicly admitted his constant references to the work of William James on Pragmatism in no way signifies that an elaboration of it forms a basis for Fascist principles. James would have rebelled at Fascism," stated Prof. C. W. Leslie of Victoria College, in an Alumni Hall address late Tuesday afternoon.

"Pragmatism is the theory that actions should be judged by their results rather than on a doctrinary basis," Prof. Leslie continued. This idea was first used in James' study of religious experience and later extended to his other fields of research.

James' Doctrine of the Will to Believe is based on four concepts concerning the trial methods that should be applied to test the validity of beliefs. He was a liberal and an individualist, a staunch Pluralist in defense of privacy of man's experience.

Freedom of will was his basic postulate, although he was especially interested in his work on historical change and the theory of variables, which were influenced by Darwin's Spontaneous Variations.

"William James broke with tradition," Prof. Leslie went on. Psychology ceased to be a mental philosophy and became physiological psychology. Philosophy became an adventure in methodological invention and metaphysical discovery.

James was an anti-imperialist, a defender of the variant and the unprecedented. He contended that the new, the untried, the doubtful should have a chance, however and whenever occurring. Predominantly a humanitarian, he stated, "To know that one does not know all that there is to know is the first sign of intellectual tolerance," Prof. Leslie concluded.

Western Engineers Get B.A. in Extra Year

Saskatoon, Sask., Feb. 13.—(CUP)

—Realizing the need for liberal Arts in professional colleges, the faculties of the colleges of Engineering and Commerce at the University of Saskatchewan, have worked out a series of combined courses which will enable the student to obtain a degree in Arts as well as a professional degree in the college in which he is enrolled.

These courses are not compulsory, but have the advantage of both a degree in Arts and a degree in a professional college, can be obtained in much less time than would be required if the courses were taken separately. In both cases the combined course will be one year longer.

McGill B'nai B'rith Dedicated By Dr. Wise

McGill, Feb. 13.—(CUP)—Yesterday at the University of McGill, Dr. Steven Wise dedicated the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation Home and installed in the office of Director, Rabbi Abraham Soltes.

Dr. Wise, a McGill graduate and active participant in Zionist affairs, is the President of the Jewish Institute of Religion and editor of the magazine, "OPINION".

"Holy Joe" and the Stokers Drank Tea, Not Rum In Fact Sailors Don't Require "Dutch Courage"

Looking over his press clippings the Reverend William Hills B.A. Chaplain R.C.N. (ret) let out a shout. "I was misquoted," he roared, "and besides I didn't pay my way through University by leading a jazz band. I hate the stuff".

He flipped over several pages and then he blushed. "They didn't misquote me here". Looking over his shoulder we saw an article with the head "Deplores Hopes of Quick Japanese Collapse". The article, a review of one of the Padre's speeches, was dated March 7, 1945.

However he quickly rose to his own defence. "They hadn't told me about the Atom Bomb".

Hills was in the navy from the beginning of the war, in fact he was in it before the war. It seems that in '38 the Toronto Sea Cadets needed a chaplain "to add respectability". After the declaration of war he enlisted as a chaplain and was at first connected with the R.C.N. V.R. in Toronto. He even served as temporary Airforce chaplain at Manning Depot.

In '41 he went out to the East coast where he was given the job of trying to teach "Holy Joe" to the stokers. "I finally got them to take . . . a cup of tea with me", he claims.

After several years at Cornwallis as New Entry Chaplain he was assigned to H.M.S. Nabob, a "baby flat top".

From the West Coast, where she was commissioned, Nabob sailed down to pick up her planes and down to the Panama Canal where a brief stop provided an amusing experience. He went ashore and returned to his ship with some coconuts under his arm.

"Just a moment, Sir", roared an S.P. and two of them examined his coconuts very carefully. They shook them, but in vain. When they were quite satisfied that he wasn't smuggling rum to the thirsty stokers, they let him pass.

From Scape Flow, in Scotland, Nabob made her last run. She was torpedoed when carrying heavy bombs to the decks of the Tirpitz tucked away in a Norwegian fiord. We let him tell the story.

"German Subs were on the prowl . . . they had 'got' a destroyer just a few nights before. The men were tired and the atmosphere was tense. Then it happened.

"At 1716 a convulsive shudder ran through the ship. There was a sensation of a dull thud, a flash of purple white smoke, a throat-gagging pall of nitrous smoke, and a sharp and sudden list to port. The Nabob had been hit, and her slight deck tilted sharply over and down into the sea.

"Within a short time the 'Nabob' was well down at the stern and the order 'Prepare to abandon ship' was given. A destroyer and two escort vessels detached themselves from the screen and rushed at maximum revolutions towards the Nabob. Suddenly came the order 'Stand by to receive second torpedo' and every man threw himself down on the deck. But instead of the escorts received it. That gave Nabob a chance for survival and by a prodigious piece of heroic work, the damage control parties were able to put her on an even keel and she was able to make port.

"This is the true spirit of the Canadian navy. It was this kind of work that won the war. I can't say too much of the heroism of the engine room men and the shipwrights who stuck by their posts and won the fight against the inrush of water", claims the Padre.

In a recent speech to the GYRO club in Halifax he pointed this out to the business men in a plea that they forgive and forget the riots on VE-day.

"Not that I didn't see them", admitted Chaplain Hills. "I was coming out of the station when the crowd got hold of me. They carried me through the streets on their shoulders and dropped me on the door step of the Y.W.C.A."

Youth definitely won the war and yet the older generation seems to have let them down he feels. There is YOUTH problem, and ignoring the youth is perhaps the worst part of it. The young people have seen the mistakes of their elders which resulted in such things as breadlines and it is against such things they protest. "Not of course that they are starry eyed angels", he said with a broad smile. "They may have dirty faces and their wings may be singed, but they have a vitality and enthusiasm that is the strength of the country. That is why I am and always have been interested in them."

Retired from the navy Chaplain Hills is now taking post-graduate studies at the U. of T.

ignatz sez:
WATCH for the / / /

TAG DAY

J.M.

Biologists, Philosophers Discuss Ideas And Animals

Though announced as "A Symposium of Four Papers on Vitalism and Mechanism", the joint meeting of the Philosophical Society and the Biology Club, held last Wednesday in the Croft Chapter House of U.C., heard concepts other than these. Chairman Professor David Savan said that the title was only a compromise, and that the spirit was to be one of discussion rather than debate.

Pat Orr, president of the Philosophical Society, fourth year Philosophy, delivered the first paper. "There are three (perhaps) contending doctrines: Mechanism, Vitalism,—and a merient compromise indistinguishable from Organicism," said Orr.

He upheld Vitalism by disclosing the inefficacy of Mechanism which, he said, "becomes an absurdity in embryology." He defined Mechanism as the explanation of organisms in terms of inorganic matter and closely linked it to Darwin's Theory of Evolution.

The second paper, given by Frank Knapp, Biology graduate, also upheld Vitalism, using many examples from physics, chemistry, and biology. He defined Vitalism as a "force evident in the world of nature other than physical or chemical reaction but which may work through them or not through them, and which may be found in the organic and inorganic worlds." Stating that Mechanism was based on Darwin's Evolution, he showed its weaknesses due to the ignoring of undeniable evidences.

Knapp compared the Newtonian and Darwinian concepts, and told the history of their becoming outmoded, in Europe, England, and America. As evidence that Vitalism may be inorganic, Mr. Knapp used the illustration of the tobacco mosaic virus, which can be bottled and put on a shelf like any chemical, yet, if let loose in a field of tobacco, can completely destroy it.

"I'm from Missouri," said Bill Montgomery, graduate of Philosophy, to begin his paper which he described as "an examination of the language used by two groups of biologists. In any language there are sentences which are nonsensical and others which are sensible. To be sensible, a sentence must be verifiable."

He pointed out the faultiness of Aristotle's biological observations and their philosophical deductions, and concluded by saying, "mechanism is a workable hypothesis for research analysis. Vitalism postulates the existence of a vital force and purpose. A Mechanist sticks to words."

Vern Brooks, fourth year Biology, began by defining basic biological reactions: metabolism, irritability, growth, and reproduction. He asserted that there was no necessity for a mystic factor in organic life. Taking his main example from physics, Mr. Brooks described Brownian Movement, and declared that if this "law" were not obeyed in both organic and inorganic worlds, a "hiccup of nature" would result.

Wood Specialist Will Address RCI

Mr. Wacław Czerinski, Chief Engineer of Canadian Wooden Aircraft Limited, will address the Royal Canadian Institute on Saturday,

February 16, in Convocation Hall. Mr. Czerinski, a graduate of the Technical University at Lwów in Poland, has been associated with glider and aeroplane groups in Poland for ten years. In addition he has held positions with French and Canadian aircraft companies. During the war he was a designer on the Technical Group of the Polish General Staff in London.

Mr. Czerinski will discuss wood as a raw material, its advantages and defects, methods of improvement, and plywood manufacture. The lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides and practical demonstrations. The public is cordially invited.

The T.O. Style

By Bill Hemmerick

This week we turn to review a band which has been on the T.O. scene for just a little over a year. The ork is fronted by Bob Gimby ('g' as in George). We rate the band B commercially, C musically (reasons later).

Bobby-Gimby was born and raised in the small town (winter population—when everyone is in town—300) of Cabri, Saskatchewan. As a young 'un he started his day by practicing an hour then milking the cow, and then to school. He got his first job (in the music biz) on an Alaska steamer out of Vancouver. It was while playing with this group (piano, fiddle, sax, trumpet) that he learned how to make the customers happy.

The turning point in his life came when he joined Mart Kenney. He stayed with Mart for two years, most of the time on the road (they crossed Canada four times). You may remember hearing Bobby on such records as 'When You're Smiling', and 'I'm Sorry I Made You Cry' by the Kenney crew. He was the only hot man in the band.

The personnel of the Gimby band is: Saxes—Glen MacDonald, Bernie Piltch, Vic Bott, George Caldough (to be replaced by Hart Wheeler), Jimmy Davidson; Trumpets—Bobby Gimby, Roy Thomas, Irving Warsh, Gerry Gimby (the kid brother); Tram—Dave Pepper; Drums—Sonny Hart; Piano—Bennie Louis (who recently decided to break up his band and return to Gimby); Bass—Cal Esran; Vocals—Veronica Foster.

As can be seen from the personnel, the accent of the Gimby band is on youth. They specialize in youth. Youth is one of the band's best assets, but it is that youth that sometimes make the band sound ragged and out of tune. There is a vitality about the band however, that more than makes up for the few bad effects.

Bob Gimby started with sixty stocks (stock arrangements) and one original. Now (although the absence of Georgie Caldough's tenor is to be regretted) he has a complete book (folio, pile of music, what have you) of originals, men like Dave Pepper, Sonny Hart, and Glen MacDonald, a very fine P.A. system, and plenty of jobs. The Quartette might be mentioned here (Bobby, Veronica, Pepper, and young Gerry), as could a new novelty—but you can wait and hear it.

The good thing about the band is its versatility. It can play waltzes and (although Gimby insists that he is no jazzman) it can play jazz. The band plays to the audience like few others, and this is the secret of its success.

Horn of the Week

This week we tackle vocalists—in a literary sense. It seems that whatever T. O. is without, it not chirps—they swarm all over the place. Another peculiar fact—a lot of them are good! This is most surprising, in a day and age when the figure of a vocalist is more important than her voice.

Before we choose our favourite among the current crop we would like to reminisce a bit...remember Mary Bates, chirp with the Modernaires about three years ago? She could sell a song as well, if not better, than anyone before or since. Her retirement (she married) was a loss to the ranks of excellent vocalists.

A couple of years ago, a young (Continued on Page 5)

$1,600 in ESSAY PRIZES for University Undergraduates

In conjunction with its supplements on the Atomic Age, The Standard is running a nation-wide essay competition with special prizes for undergraduates of recognized Canadian universities. (The university must be a member of the National Conference of Canadian Universities).

Topic of the essay is:

"How should we build a World government in the Atomic Age?"

Prizes: First Prize ...$1,000.

Second Prize 250.

Third Prize 100.

And ten prizes of $25 each.

Your essay must not exceed 1,500 words. Essays may be written in English or French and they should be typewritten, double-spaced, on one side of the paper only. If a typewriter is unavailable, the essay should be written legibly in ink, also on one side of the paper only. Number your sheets.

If you want us to return your essay, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. No correspondence can be entered into regarding the contest, and the judges' decision is final.

The essay which wins first prize will be published in The Standard, and The Standard reserves the right to publish any other prize-winning essay.

The contest closes April 13, 1946, and all entries must bear a postmark not later than that date.

Your essay will be judged mainly as to the ideas presented, their originality, simplicity and logic of presentation, and the readability of the essay. You must emphasize constructive ideas for the present situation. TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE IS NOT NECESSARY.

Write your name, address and the number (2) on your essay and send it to:

Contest Judges,
The Standard,
P.O. Box 2700,
Place d'Armes,
Montreal.

The Standard

STAMMERING

Stammering corrected by modern scientific methods. Helpful 48-page booklet gives full information. Write today for FREE copy. W. D. Dennison, 543 Jarvis St., Toronto

COLE'S PAY MORE FOR USED BOOKS UP TO 50% MORE ON ALL CURRENT BOOKS

We Will Buy These Texts

	We Will Pay
Higher Algebra—Hall and Knight	1.50
Properties of Matter—Wagstaff8
Textbook of Heat—Stewart and Satterly	1.15
Introduction to the Calculus—Beatty and Jenkins	2.25
Textbook of Physics—Chant and Burton	1.75
Constitutional Issues in Canada—Dawson	1.50
Modern Inorganic Chemistry, last ed.—Mellor & Parkes	2.50
English Social History—Trevelyan	2.25
Social Framework—Hicks	1.30
Markets and Men—Rowe	1.25
Problems of Philosophy—Cunningham	1.50
Introduction to Philosophy—Maritain	1.25
Introduction to Logic—Maritain	1.50
Introduction to Electrical Engineering—Mueller	1.50

	We Will Pay
Biochemistry—Harrow (latest ed.)	2.00
Psychology and Life—Ruch	1.50
Spanish American Life—Crow	1.00
History of England—Trevelyan	2.00
Calculus Made Easy—Thompson60
Art Through the Ages—Gardner	2.22
Survey of European Civilization—Ferguson & Bruun	2.75
Statics—Timoshenko	1.50
Introduction to American Government—Ogg & Ray	2.00
7th edition	2.00
Test Papers—Ferguson30
Clark's Tables, 19th ed.10
Psychology of Character—Allers	Cloth 1.80 paper .30
Republic—Plato—Lindsay translation45

OLD WIVES TALE—BENNETT
ADAM BEDE—ELIOT
RETURN OF THE NATIVE—HARDY
CULTURE AND ANARCHY—ARNOLD
ARMS AND THE MAN—SHAW
SAINT JOAN—SHAW
PLAYBOY OF THE WESTERN WORLD—SYNGE
LORD JIM—CONRAD
SHORTER PEPPYS
VANITY FAIR—THACKERAY
ANTONY & CLEOPATRA—SHAKESPEARE

WE NEED THESE BOOKS TOO.
PRICE DEPENDS ON THE EDITION

WE BUY
BOOKS

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE ST. (1 Block South of Bloor)

RAndolph 1148

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

- KITTY - AMBER - SCARLETT

(SO ROUND, SO FIRM, SO FULLY PACKED)

—The above - mentioned Valentines?

—No, the bolts of cloth just arrived at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
At College RA. 8995-6

We're itching to grab those shears and cut you a new suit or topcoat from these imported woollens.

It can be sewn together in 3 to 4 weeks.

Won't you slip in and give us the green light?

Special discounts to students.

New and Entrenous

Fifty Years With A Beard

By Ross McLean

Contributing toward establishing Papa de Champ as a memorable figure has been a luxuriant facial growth diligently maintained throughout his half a century at the University of Toronto as a member of the French Department.

He broached the beard.

He had grown it, he confided, on the boat coming over to Canada because his wife had said he looked too young to teach young men and, certainly, young women.

He had then been 24.

"And," he declared righteously, "I'm not going to change it because somewhere in the, the Bronx the fashion has changed.

"I knew some men who did change and they hastened to grow their beards again because they looked so strange—just like a dog without a tail.

"When I came here the whole staff was bearded. Only one or two were shaved and one was nick-named The Bishop and the other one The Broker.

"Well, I am the last one. You see it is a question of fashion; there was not a man then who had not a beard.

"That moustache," he said, pointing proudly to the long-whitened lip covering, "has not been shaven since I was 15."

The beard has added to his distinction but also to his discomfort upon occasions. Juvenile jeers and yells of "Beaver!" have many mornings hailed the professor class-ward.

"There is," he explains, "what I call the American way of life—to look exactly like the other fellow—not to have any consideration or manners—to enjoy the fun of the moment.

"It is remarkable.

"In Europe, in Paris, in London and other places (if there are any other places) there is none of this.

"But here," he laments, "the bearded men are in the funnies—and they are usually criminals. These people are never conscious that in prison and in penitentiaries all men are completely shaven."

On this the beard defense rested.

Rheumatism today racks the large frame of Prof. de Champ.

One Way of Life

"There are days," he complains, "when I can't write two lines and I've tried everybody and everything. I've spent heaps of money on that. Between massage and Physiotherapy and dieting, oh dear, and no results, no results whatever. I've tried ten sorts of dieting."

And so he waits for the time when he can begin the voyage home.

Meanwhile he reads, reads, reads. He has resumed his study of Spanish and Italian and has begun Russian—a pastime not too invigorating, he agrees.

"But I am an old ruin. Perhaps though I can be some good. I can teach my grandchildren English."

The de Champ enfants will thus become the vanguard in a long and grateful parade of pupils.

The T.O. Style

(Continued from Page 4)

thing who had been singing with Mart Kenney decided to make Toronto her permanent home. She has taken over where Mary Bates left off...and in case you don't know, the girl is Judy Richards, currently singing with Ellis McIntock. As the song says—personality! She has it. When some vocalists learn that singing is done with the throat, and not the hips, they may improve the profession. Judy (although possessing all the physical qualities above) can hold an audience with her voice alone. In this she has the company of very few vocalists.

The almost-the-best-but-not-quite bracket shows a slight bulge, because it holds more than its share.

As we have mentioned above, there are a fair number of good singers in the city. Dorothy Deane, in spite of publicity as a strong-gal, does have a good voice, and is rated as favorite by quite a good number of you. Also in the running is Frosia Gregory (Mrs. Shuttleworth) who has recently returned from New York, where we understand she had a part in 'Show Boat'.

There are many more — Gail Meredith is now in the city after a spell in the States...Veronica Foster with Gimby...Virginia Neville with Mowray...Betty Davis...Helen White...Lorraine McAlister...Georgia Day...June Ellis...Norma Locke...etc. Perhaps some of you will disagree with the order above, but we wrote 'em down as we thought of 'em. Judy Richards remains in our mind the best. There is no doubt that within a short time some other gal will take over but until then, she has our vote.

Until we get rolling on the local doings, we humbly suggest that you consult Dillon O'Leary's column each Saturday in the Globe. He really has a clue to this business. However—Benny Louis will shortly disband...George Auld (a local boy who made good) has retired temporarily from the biz...health reasons. While we're talking about Mr. Auld, he had the best band (in our candid opinion)...second to none...also a word in agreement with Mr. Starkman, who expressed our ideas exactly in his Tuesday column...Rumor has an all-University jazz concert as part of the I.S.S. drive this month.

With that we leave. Next week we'll try Ellis, and perhaps a word or two on arrangements and ten-per-centers.

Hear the News At Breakfast

Have you had any nine o'clock lectures lately? If so, do you listen to your radio while rising? If so, do you have a push-button on it reading CHUM? And do you push it? You see, every morning at approximately 8:15 M. C. Harvey Dobbs of Breakfast at CHUM has instituted a bulletin service for University students. Called The Voice of Varsity, the two-minute blast features the more important events occurring around the campus during that day.

Even more, Dobbs has gone out of his way to make arrangements for an interview each Saturday morning at 8:45 with some of the interesting personalities and big-wigs around the University. This week his guest will be Noel Chapman, West Indies Law Student who has made a hobby out of dramatics.

The week after, June Wong, chairman of the I.S.S. committee, will take to CHUM's morning mike to explain the big drive that will be in progress. Further interviews will be along the same pattern, providing an all-round picture of student life and activity.

BE SMART-LOOK SMART USE BRYLCREEM

THE PERFECT HAIR DRESSING

● Applied every morning, BRYLCREEM will keep your hair looking smart and well-groomed all day long. The natural oils in BRYLCREEM overcome dandruff and dry scalp, give the hair a healthy, natural lustre without that greasy appearance. All druggists sell BRYLCREEM in the handy, convenient tube. Buy today.

NO GUM · NO SOAP · NO ALCOHOL · NO STARCH

AVUKAH Student Zionist Organization

PALESTINIAN SONGS

WILL BE FEATURED AT THE NEXT MEETING

WYMILWOOD

MONDAY, FEB. 18, 8.15 p.m.

LISTEN TO

"Canada in the Modern World"

by Professor Bertie Wilkinson, M.A., Ph.D.

Dept. of History, University of Toronto

CFRB — Every Sunday — 2:15 p.m.

Copies of Talks available on request

Sponsored on behalf of the Optical Profession by

IMPERIAL OPTICAL COMPANY

Pioneer Canadian Optical Manufacturers

WHETHER you're taking Arts or Architecture, Engineering or Entomology, Physics or Physiology . . . you'll be working along the right line if you add Practical Economics, in the shape of money management, to your curriculum.

By enlarging your overall knowledge . . . by setting the stage for the time when you're on your own in the business or professional world . . . by laying the right groundwork for your future plans—whatever they are . . .

you will be ensuring success for yourself in later years.

WHATEVER field of endeavour you choose, money matters are going to play an important part in the achievement of your ambition. Develop your banking connection now. Even though you deal in only small amounts, the experience of handling your own account, of becoming familiar with banking procedure, will pay dividends in later years.

You can open an account with a dollar at any of the branches mentioned below.

BANK OF MONTREAL

working with Canadians in every walk of life since 1817

Bloor & Bay Streets: S. G. HAZELL, Manager
St. George & Bloor Streets: J. R. A. GRANT, Manager
Grosvenor & Yonge Streets: J. BURDOCK, Manager

IF YOU EVER LOVED A CHILD THIS PICTURE IS FOR YOU!

ON THE SAME PROGRAM "GOLDEN SLIPPERS" Starring FRED CHAIKOVSKY's "Cherish"

STARTS MON. FEB. 18 Doors Open 5:45 P.M.

VICTORY THEATRE Opening at Dundas

Speaking OF SPORT

“Beat McGill” is the War-Cry
As Blue Cagers Seek Revenge

By Don Mason

Saturday Night

Well, come to-morrow night, another Athletic Night will roll around . . . can't say much about it because it's all been covered in yesterday's S.O.S. and in other columns to-day . . . we can't think of anything that is so all-round popular in the old school than these Saturday Night attractions—and no wonder, when you consider the amazing variety and quality of the program that is offered by various host-faculties.

The-unfortunate part of it all, is that tickets are so limited, so many are turned away . . . apparently the builders of Hart House didn't plan on spectators at basketball games . . . the present allotment of audience-space is pitiful . . . we wonder if the Athletic Association have ever considered installing portable bleachers on the track . . . it has been done, you know!!

Big thrill of the evening, of course, will be the McGill-Varsity hoop-la encounter . . . BEAT MCGILL . . . is the cry around the campus, and we stick with Roy Dilworth on that ten point win prophesy . . . but definitely . . . see you there.

Hockey Talk

Tough luck . . . very tough luck, indeed, hit the Senior Hockey squad on Wednesday night. Dick Ball, studying for an exam, was unable to attend the practice, and Harvey Spence, popular and extremely capable manager, in a typical gesture, donned the pads, so that practice might go on . . . Harve was in the net just two minutes when he was struck over the left eye by a fast-moving puck . . . Harve to-day is in the Toronto General with 12 stitches immediately above his eye . . . Harve's condition is fair, and it is fairly certain that he won't lose the use of his eye . . . best of wishes for a quick recovery to a great guy and the best of managers.

WEST POINT is this week-end's competition for the high-flying Blues . . . the Army team is rated high and it should be a real test for the boys . . . in former days, R.M.C. and West Point played yearly games, alternating on each other's home ice, and acted as social hosts to one another . . . quite the affairs we understand . . . this year, however, Army considers our Blues as the only Ontario amateur opposition worth tackling . . . we wonder whether or not they quite realize what they are taking on!!!

The Blues, left for Army grounds yesterday evening, and will be without the stellar services of Bill Kosick, who's sister is dangerously ill . . . on the bright side is the return of Davey Bauer to the line-up . . . Don Bark, who played an excellent game against Queen's, will be along as an extra forward, and Murphy (what the heck is his first name?) will be standing in for Dick (two shut-outs in a row) Ball.

Junior Bees

Our champion Junior Bees, winners of their league with only two losses, will tackle the McMaster ice squad to-night at the Bloor Street Ice Palace . . . game starts at 8:00 p.m., is free for all (everybody, that is) . . . the Bees are the first Varsity winter-sport champs, and deserve every support . . . the hockey is good, so drag a bag over there to-night, and let's BEAT McMASTER!!!

• Sportswoman •

By George Legris

One Goal Heroines

Recent games have been coming off regularly, and we are finally able to get caught up on this page while the real boss of the outfit is learning how to write 14 point heads for news stories. This is real co-operation.

But to get on with the hockey news. The recent battle between U.C. I and P.H.E. I went to the college girls 1-0. The only goal scored was pitched into the net by Joan Peat. On the P.H.E. line-up, Ruth Weststead, Gwen Earle and Arva Stewart were right in there at the correct moment. Mary McMillan for the victors really worked hard to get that shut-out. The checking became so rough that the referee had to put in a pacifying word.

The second game to be reported tonight was a battle between U.C. I and St. Hilda's I which went to U.C. with another shut-out, scoring reaching a high point of 1-0. The solitary point was scored by Joyce Detweiler without any assistance at all. Goal-tending was again by Mary McMillan who did yeoman work even though the team was one man, or rather one woman, short.

Third on the puck parade was a do between O.C.E. and U.C. II which went to the teachers by a score of 4-0. Despite the fact that there was terrible lighting in the arena, the players all worked well and hard, and were not too handicapped by a lack of blue lines on the ice. Although armed with a strong forward line, U.C. could not hold back the Bloor St. women who crashed through a weak defense.

As Comes To Every Man

To quote that well-known American magazine, the end finally came to this column. Apparently, the lassies are all working like busy burrowing beavers at their hockey and other sports. All the more power to them.

Sport In Short

TUESDAY FEB. 12
Minor Basketball
Vic. IV	82	IV Chem.	18
Vic. XI	41	Trin. V	6
IV Metal.	56	U.C. IV	24
II Eng. Bus.	54	St. M. "D"	18
Trin. VII defaulted to St. M. "E"
Major Basketball
Med. Sr. "A"	19	Pharm.	16
Dent. "A"	47	Bus. Admin.	23
Hockey
Bus. Admin.	21	For. "A"	1
Waterpolo
Vic. I	5	Sr. Med. "A"	1
St. M.	1	S.P.S. III	0
Trin.	3	For.	0
WEDNESDAY, FEB. 13
Minor Basketball
U.C. VI	30	III Mech.	8
III Elec.	24	III Med. "B"	16
V Dents defaulted to III Chem.
III Mining	27	Vic. VI	12
Major Basketball
Wyc. "A"	25	Knox "A"	24
S.P.S. V	50	Emman. "A"	19
S.P.S. IV	21	For. "A"	12
Hockey
Vic. III	1	St. M. "B"	0
U.C. II	7	Vic. II	2
Waterpolo
U.C. (PHE)	9	Jr. Meds.	0
THURSDAY FEB. 14
Minor Basketball
Knox	4	Wyc.	0
P.H.E. V	82	U.C.	19
U.C. V	22	IV Civil	21
U.C. "73"	40	III Civil	25
II Elec.	63	U.C. (Econ.)	21
Vic. X	94	Emm. B	13
Major Basketball
Jr. S.P.S.	53	U.C.	16
Sr. S.P.S.	54	Sr. Med.	27

Intramural Sports
Round Up

The next three weeks will witness the completion of scheduled activity in intramural Hockey, Basketball and Waterpolo. Crucial games are now being played in all three sports and play-off berths are still in doubt for several groups.

Schedule games of hockey will continue for at least two more weeks. At present in the 1st group, Vic I have a strong foothold on first place while U.C. and SPS firsts are still fighting it out for runner-up honours.

The II group is wide open and any team may come out on top although U.C. II lead the pack at the moment with 4 points out of a possible 6.

Dark horses of the hockey league however are the two Trinity teams which have each taken 4 straight games without yet suffering a loss. Business Adm. have clinched 1st place in Group IV; Med III and SPS V are sitting pretty in their respective groups and should have no trouble maintaining their substantial leads.

Major Basketball winds up its agenda at the end of next week and play-offs will commence the week following that. Sr. SPS are guaranteed a spot in the playoffs and the other contestants in Group I are all "possibles" for the final "serious".

Jr. Vic provide the only threat to Jr. SPS' supremacy in the second group; the two Jr. teams traded close wins to mar each other's perfect records.

Pre-Med "A" and Trin "A" have reached the initial niche in their groups. SPS' V can do no worse than tie for 1st in section VII and the undefeated Vic III as well as For. "A" are fairly safe bets for a playoff position.

"The "scramble-ball" artisans of the upper gym in Hart House are still at it and Minor league basketball competition will be finished in about two weeks. Teams which are a certainty to end up in the fore of their groups include U.C. III, PHE III, II Civil, IV Metal, II Dent, III Chem, Trin. III, II Eng. Bus., Vic XI, and Knox B.

The Water-Polo schedule is considerably behind due to a late start but Sr. SPS are currently dominating the first group since they are bolstered by some intercollegiate players. In the second division Dent and Vic are running neck and neck with a win, loss and tie, each. In the remaining two groups St. M, SPS III, Trin, and For. are all fighting it out.

Fight For Top Place Tie
In Intercollegiate Loop

Stu. Scott Still Out

By Don Coles

Quintets representing Canada's two biggest universities will meet on the Hart House basketball court tomorrow night, when the red-hot McGill cagers tackle the Senior Varsity Blues.

The Blues, back at full strength, and well rested, are out to reverse the defeat inflicted upon them in Montreal last Friday.

There, minus captain Gord Wallace, and with Scott, Cranham and Zeaton nursing injuries, the Varsity boys managed to hold the Redmen to a too-close-for-comfort 48-48 score. It was a heart-breaker to lose—and the Big Blues are out for revenge.

The Dilworthmen at present hold down the second spot in the four-team Intercollegiate circuit. The record shows that their 'cousins' from Queen's have supplied them with their four-point total, the only other game being the aforementioned 'toughie' they lost to McGill.

A win Saturday night will lift the Blues into a first-place tie with Western, hitherto unbeaten. The latter squad has already taken the Montrealers into camp, and that without too much difficulty. Soooo—to anyone who saw the Varsity-Western exhibition tilt in the Gardens, our boys should be odds-on favorites to be at the top of the standings come the final whistle Saturday night. That is, if

If manager Ian Morrison can field a healthy, sound-in-wind-and-limb team. . . . If set-shot aces Gibson and Clayton can find the range early and keep it. . . . If the dribbling and passing artistry of Wallace-Mayzel-Thomson continues. . . . If Wally Zeaton brings along his radar set. . . . and so on. There is, incidentally, no truth to the rumor that one Mons. Pratt is offering 5-2 on the Blue and White.

Ringside seats will be at a premium. Our spies inform us that the order of the day is "Come early and avoid meeting the warden in the halls." . . . the warden and about a thousand other individuals. Al Klassen and his comely cartwheeling cohorts will be present to route the Varsityites' lung-power into the proper channels.

McGill coach Lou Davies said of last week's game: "My boys were the hottest they've been all season—really flying." Patrons of past Athletic nights can readily believe that—it takes a real basketball team to make the Blues say 'uncle'.

Questioned as to his after-game statement to the effect that—"if we don't beat them by at least ten points, I'll be the most surprised man in Hart House", Varsity mentor Roy Dilworth replied succinctly "That still goes."

"If," he qualified, "Gord Wallace has adjusted himself to the loss of his tonsils, and our other rehab problems are concluded satisfactorily." . . . All of which is merely a big build-up for the following.

In the few nerve-wracking hours left until game time (8:30 Sat. night), all loyal students of the U. of T. are respectfully solicited to join Mons. Dilworth et Cie. in silent prayer and meditation for (1) the complete recovery of the invalids, and, as a direct result of (1), the peaceful healing of the Redmen's shattered egos after Saturday's 'battle of the giants' is over.

SPORTS NOTICE

Athletic Night tickets must be turned in before 1:00 p.m. on Saturdays if a refund is to be expected. Tickets will not be honoured at the gate Saturday nights.

GAMES TODAY
HOCKEY
1:00	SPS III vs. TRIN. A. Brownridge, Mosher
4:00	SPS II vs. MED. II. Street, J. A. McClelland
5:00	SPS I vs. U.C. I. Smith, P. Fyfe
6:00	U.C. III vs. FOR. A. Smith, P. Fyfe
WATER-POLO
4:15	VIC. I vs. JR. SPS. Allore
6:00	Knox vs. For. Lindgren (Postponed)
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1:00	SPS III vs. Dent A. Voight
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	FOR. D vs. I CIVIL. Dzupine
4:00	TRIN. IV vs. I ELEC. Kerrison
SATURDAY'S GAMES
1:00	PHE VI vs. Vic XII. Robson (Postponed)

WRESTLING CLUB
MEETING TODAY AT 5.00 P.M.
(Instructor's Room next Intramural Office)

24 HOUR SERVICE Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.	FOR SALE Evening gown, white taffeta, size 16. Worn twice. ME 1818.
WANTED Army officer's cap, size 6 and 7/8, uniform, size 38. State prices. Apply Box H, The Varsity.	WANTED Ticket for Vic-At-Home, Feb. 22. MO 5168.
WANTED One Infantry officer's uniform and trenchcoat, size 38. (Ht. 5' 10", wt. 145 lbs.) Phone JU 5002 after 6 p.m.	TAKEN BY MISTAKE "THE FINGER" wants his rubbers, taken from outer lobby of Junior Common Room, U.C. "THE FINGER", written on the inside of each rubber. Please return to J.C.R., or phone LL 9317.

Picobac's the pick of the Frat House!

What a tobacco... so mild so fragrant so cool... so long lasting.

Picobac

THE PICK OF TOBACCO

Art, Music and Drama

It is not unusual at an exhibition of modern art to hear someone say, "But I couldn't hang a thing like that in my house—it would look terrible!" Such a statement witnesses to the good taste inherent in most people, but the unhesitating assumption that it is the picture, not the house, that is at fault shows to what an extent this good taste has been overlaid by years of living in such aesthetically barren surroundings that even the desire to criticize them has gone.

Very few people realize what poor Victorian taste is still embodied in the ordinary houses which are gerry-built by a contractor. Even the most expensive of them (and what house is not expensive to build nowadays?) consists essentially of four square walls on which a hipped roof is set like a doll-house, with a few holes knocked in here and there for doors and windows, and bits of wooden decoration like shutters, pilasters or pieces of brown boards tacked on here and there to give the illusion of a Georgian, Tudor, or what have you style.

Yet people do not complain; on the contrary, they scorn a modern house which is designed along functional lines as a "machine for living". If by chance one is built in their neighbourhood they laugh at its unorthodox appearance, criticize it with all the vehemence of which ignorance is capable, and defend their own houses as if ordained of God for man's most reasonable habitation, than which they know no better—which last, of course, succinctly explains their attitude.

By the same token people are often unable to appreciate modern painting because they have no understanding of modern architecture, of the kind of rooms these paintings were designed to decorate. For many, if not a majority of modern artists are primarily decorators, and they paint a type of abstracted composition well suited to fit into the modern room, mechanically designed for living, with its many plain surfaces, expanses of simple shades, gleaming metal surfaces, great use of glass areas, and obvious exposition of the geometric principles of construction inherent in steel and concrete.

HONEY DEW

accents

QUALITY

That's why everything you eat or drink at Honey Dew tastes supremely delicious.

The Best of Food

expertly prepared and cleanly served, not only satisfies your appetite, but also safeguards your health.

HONEY DEW

COFFEE SHOPS

events of the year; it has a far broader variety of art than most shows, taking in craftwork, manufacture, ceramics and paintings with a wide range of illustrative content. For those interested in painting, it gives, besides the illustrative type, a very vital supplementary aspect of that art, which is the kind of house furnishings beside which modern paintings look their best.

Culture is essentially a unit in any given epoch. You cannot break it up, and consider one aspect of it—whether literature, politics, sculpture, history or music,—without the others, and hope to get a truly balanced estimate. Painting can only be properly understood in the context of the general culture of its age. It is the broad outlook of the exhibition—but not much else—that makes the current Art Gallery show interesting and valuable.

ALAN GOWANS.

PART-TIME EMPLOYMENT (AJAX)

Part-time employment available for twenty students in University grounds Saturday, 16th February, afternoon and evening.

Contact S.A.C. Office, Hart House, to-day, 1-2 p.m.

KNOX CHURCH

Spadina and Harbord

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

REV. J. STANLEY GLEN
M.A., Ph.D.

8.30 p.m.—"Knox Sunday Fellowship"

MR. J. H. HUNTER
Editor of "The Evangelical Christian" will speak.

Students Specially Invited

Westminster Central United

117 Bloor Street East

Sunday Services

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.: Minister: Rev. J. Bruce Hunter D.D., LL.D.

Fireside hour at close of Evening Service.

Students Cordially Invited

Think For Yourself

Maj.-Gen. Brock Chisholm has been criticized for expressing opinions on religious matters. It is claimed that he has no right to speak because he is not a trained theologian. It is a common notion that only the clergy should speak on religion. Unitarians believe that every man should think and speak on religious matters. It is not only the right, but the responsibility of every person to think out his own religious faith in a free and democratic society.

In a true democracy everyone must be trained to think and to express his considered opinions on every vital subject. Every citizen must be competent to speak about religion if his faith is real.

When all religious thought and expression is left to the "experts" then religion becomes a dead thing without value in the lives of common men. Only when you and I and the Chisholms are encouraged to think and speak freely about religion will it have any value in our lives.

If you believe in the "free expression of religious ideas we invite you to come to the Unitarian Church.

"WHAT IS MAN"

THE FIRST UNITARIAN CHURCH
216 Jarvis Street (Above Dundas)

THE RELIGIOUS SOCIETY OF FRIENDS (QUAKER)

MEETING FOR WORSHIP

on Sunday morning at 11 a.m. AT THE Meeting House, 109 Maitland St.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO WORSHIP WITH US.

"Force may subdue but love gains; and he that forgives first wins the laurel."

WILLIAM PENN

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

Huron Street—Just South of Bloor

7 a.m., 8 a.m. and 9.30 a.m. Holy Eucharist

11 a.m.—Junior Congregation.

11 a.m.—CHORAL EUCHARIST

Preacher: Rev. Canon C.J.S. Stuart, M.A.

7 p.m.—CHORAL EVENSONG.

Preacher: Rev. J. M. N. Jackson, M.A.

Cordial Welcome To All University Students.

HOLY BLOSSOM TEMPLE

Bathurst Street At Ava Road at 11:00 a.m.

RABBI ABRAHAM L. FEINBERG will speak on "WHAT IS THE BIBLE?"

Public cordially invited

Free Bus Service from Bathurst and St. Clair every 15 minutes, commencing at 10:40 a.m. until 11:20 a.m. and leaving the Temple at 12:30 p.m. and 12:50 p.m.

RADIO BROADCAST RABBI FEINBERG, CKEY, SUNDAY, 9:45 A.M.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

First Church of Christ, Scientist St. George St. at Lowther Ave.

Branch of The Mother Church The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

SUNDAY SERVICES

11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

11 a.m.

Sunday, Feb. 17th

"SOUL"

Wed. Evening Meeting at 8.00 o'clock including Testimonies of Healing through Christian Science

Free Public Reading Room where the Bible and Authorized Christian Science Literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

80 Richmond St. West

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

Bloor at Walmer Rd.

REV. ARTHUR ORGAN, B.A., B.D.

11 A.M.—"WHAT THESE LADS CAN DO"

Scouts and Cubs in Parade

7 P.M.—"THE LOST WEEK-END"

The Book, The Movie and YOU

8:15 Friendly Fireside Hour

SUNDAY - FEBRUARY 17th.

Universal Day Of Prayer For Students

Called By The

WORLD'S STUDENT CHRISTIAN FEDERATION

Special Observance In City Churches

Attend Church on Sunday

Join in Worship with Students of Forty lands

Student Christian Movement

St. Paul's Anglican Church

BLOOR STREET EAST

Rector: REV. CANON P. H. WILKINSON, M.A., D.D.

8 a.m.—HOLY COMMUNION

11 a.m.—MORNING PRAYER AND HOLY COMMUNION

Preacher: THE RECTOR

3 p.m.—BIBLE CLASSES.

7 p.m.—EVENING PRAYER

Preacher: THE RECTOR

Organist: Charles Peaker, Mus. D., F.R.C.O.

University Students Welcome at All Services

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY

Trinity Square (Off Yonge, 2 below Dundas)

Invites students to join with us in services that combine beauty of worship with progressive Christian action

Regular Sunday services at 8, 9.30, and 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m.

St. Andrew's

KING AND SIMCOE STS.

Minister Very Rev. Stuart C. Parker. D.D.

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

DR. PARKER

Students specially invited

BLOOR STREET UNITED CHURCH

Corner Bloor and Huron Streets

11 a.m.

Rev. Geo. C. Pidgeon

D.D.

7 p.m.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER FOR STUDENTS

Rev. Gerald M. Hutchinson, B.A.

Rev. Preston MacLeod, M.A.

6:40 P.M.—ORGAN RECITAL

8:15 p.m. FRIENDSHIP HOUR

FREDERICK C. SILVESTER Organist and Choirmaster

STUDENTS ESPECIALLY WELCOME

NOMINATIONS FOR HART HOUSE ELECTIONS

OPEN ONE WEEK FROM TODAY

FEBRUARY 22

Give Vic Men Vocation Aid

Male undergraduates of Victoria College are to receive vocational guidance. Under a plan announced by W. J. Little, secretary of the Victoria College Alumni Association. Students may attend groups led by graduates of the College and receive guidance in numerous vocations.

Arrangements are not yet complete, but the meetings will probably be held twice a week beginning next week and continuing until all vocations have been discussed. Among the vocations arranged to be discussed are: accountancy, advertising, journalism and others.

These groups were first held in 1931 and since then, except for the time during the war years, have been held rather regularly.

At each meeting, the graduate in charge will speak briefly and then answer questions. These graduates are willing to help the present undergraduates of Victoria College in any way possible in their task of choosing and planning for their life vocation. The graduate will outline the training necessary, and the advantages of the particular profession which he is discussing. No aptitude tests will be given.

When arrangements have been completed The Varsity will carry the announcement of the vocation to be discussed and the time of discussion.

U.N.T.D.

The undermentioned UNTD ratings are to report to the Ship's Office, 119 St. George Street on or before Wednesday, 20th February, 1946.

All UNTD ratings who have not completed discharge are to report to Ship's Office as soon as possible.

BALLOU, H.C.
BRADFORD, J. W.
BULL, F. G.
CHEESMAN, N. L.
COYLE, F. G.
DAVIS, D. F.
DEWAN, W. F.
DONER, R. L.
FINBOW, S. T. J.
FORDYCE, G. F.
FRASER, D. A. S.
FREEBERG, J. A.
FREEMAN, D. H.
GILCHRIST, R. I.
GUEST, D. E.
HAMLEY, E. J.
HENDRICK, K. C.
HILL, M. R.
LENDON, T. A.
LOVE, R. H.
MacDONALD, D. G.
MacQUARRIE, D. R.
McCOMBE, R. J. J.
McCULLOCH, M. D.
MEEN, A. K.
MILLER, E. P.
NELSON, R. E.
REDFERN, D. B.
SCOTT, W. A.
SIMS, R. C.
THOMSON, J. A.
VANDECAN, C.
VOLPE, N. P. J.
WHITE, W. J.
YOUNG, Joseph
SINCLAIR, D. L.
BOWYER, J. E.
FORT, A. J.
ROSS, J. C.
SWYSZCUK, A.
THOMAS, W. R.

(Signed)
D. A. F. Robinson,
Lt. Cdr., RCN(R),
Commanding Officer, UNTD.

What's On Today

S.C.M.

Dr. W. R. Taylor, Principal of U.C., is speaking in the Women's Union at 4:15 today on "Trends in To-day's Religion".

L-P.P. CLUB

Stanley B. Ryerson, editor-in-chief of National Affairs Monthly, will address an educational forum on "Is Marxism Out of Date?" at Wymilwood, 4:00 p.m. today.

Coming Events

AVUKAH

Evening of Palestinian songs with recorded accompaniment will be held at Wymilwood on Monday, Feb. 18 at 8:15 p.m.

Scholarship Winners Announced By Senate

The Senate of the University announces the following awards:

The Robert Bruce Bursary
—A. I. Macrae
(enrolled in the First Medical Year)
—Miss A. S. Thomson
(enrolled in Fourth Year Fine Art)
(aeq.)

The Robert Bruce Scholarship
—No award
(Undergraduates)

The Special Urwick Bursaries:
—Miss B. R. Annis
(enrolled in First Year Social and Philosophical Studies)
—Miss H. W. Neal
(enrolled in First Year Social and Philosophical Studies)

Dispute Explained

(Continued from Page 1)
works programs when employment becomes slack.

The Dominion officials also proposed to distribute the money per capita in each province. The Ontario Government agreed with these proposals but differs on the approach to them.

Mr. Porter said that if the Provincial Governments had no taxing powers but only spending powers, they would not be truly governments but only administrative commissions of the central authority. Moreover, Mr. Porter felt that if the Federal Government had the right to decide when unemployment was acute enough to begin public works programs, the time would be, judging from historical precedent, political sagacity, and human nature, immediately before an election.

Ajax Sports

BASKETBALL

722B defeated 731B 27-4.
728B defeated 724B 22-11.
734B defeated 725B 17-14.
725A defeated 722 28-18.
736B defeated 733B 21-13.

BOWLING

Winner	Loser	Score
733D	723F	1388 - 1316
736D	730F	1509 - 1084
734D	732D	1780 - 1422
732E	733F	1836 - 1379
732G	733F	1533 - 1330
732E	736E	1770 - 1002
736C	729C	1547 - 1448
730D	722D	1589 - 1464

Previously scheduled games:
737A 1845
737B 1554
737C 1565

NEW SUITS

have

SKIRT IMPORTANCE

There's a rounded hip look . . . a dramatic off centre skirt opening in this new spring suit! Of wool "Normandy Twill" . . . softly tailored with broadened shoulders playing up the tiny-lady waist and curved pocket interest. In rainbow colours . . . aqua, gold, red, stone blue, navy, rose, royal blue and brown. Sizes 14 to 20 included.

Suit 25.95

Sportswear Dept.
Main Store—Fourth Floor

T. EATON CO. Limited

Rehab. Proposals Sent To Legions

The London Administrative Committee of the Citizens' Rehabilitation will give an explanation of proposals contained in a brief presented to Ottawa by the National Committee of Student Veterans this week. Joe Testart, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Western Legion Branch, will address members.

Copies of the brief have been sent to all local legion branch presidents to acquaint a greater number with the proposals in the brief. Testart will also address a meeting to be held this week by the medical school veterans, who will be given full information of what the NCSV is attempting. The meeting will be thrown open to discuss problems peculiar to medical students.

TICKETS ON SALE NOW

BASKETBALL

DOUBLE HEADER

DOW ATHLETICS OF U.S.A.

VS. HAYES HELICATS OF CANADA

SECOND-BIG FEATURE

TIP TOPS

ASSUMPTION COLLEGE

WINDSOR

TICKETS:
BOXES 2.50 RAILS 2.50 COURTS 2.00
BLUES 1.50 GREENS 1.00 GREYS 50c

For Pipe Smokers of Discriminating Taste

GOLDSTEIN'S

Perique Mixture

The Same Old Formula Since 1883

A high-grade blend of Turkish, Perique, Virginia and Latakia Tobacco, approximating those excellent imported brands made in Scotland and England.

Every user of it is an ardent advocate of its merits.

Its popularity is growing fast. You cannot pay less and get as good; you cannot buy better if you pay more.

For the present it is packed in a heavy waxed bag, in a cardboard container. It keeps in excellent condition.

It is put up in half pounds and sells at $1.50, plus tax; and also in a pocket package containing 1/10 lb. at 30 cents, plus tax.

WM. GOLDSTEIN & CO.

152 YONGE STREET
Toronto

52 SPARKS STREET
Ottawa

MAPLE LEAF GARDENS

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22ND - 8:00 P.M.

Tickets now on sale at Maple Leaf Gardens, also at Moodey's, 90 King St. W.; Frank Stollery's, Bloor and Yonge Sts.; Royal York Hotel, Milford Agency at 317 1/2 Bay, and at any Toronto Tip Top Tailors Store

Your I.S.S. Dollar Is 100 Chinese Dollars

Their Need Is Desperate

RADIOGRAM SHANGHAI, CHINA JAN. 11, 1946
VISITS INTERIOR COASTAL UNIVERSITIES
INDICATE RELIEF NEEDS INTERIOR CONTINUING
SIX MONTHS SOME CASES YEAR STOP ALSO AID NECESSARY RETURN MIGRATION STOP PLUS
FINANCIAL FOOD CRISIS COASTAL UNIVERSITIES
WHERE OUR GRANTS ONLY HOPE PRESERVING LIVES THOUSAND UNDERFED STUDENTS MAKE ESSENTIAL PROMPTEST FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE
CANADIAN STUDENTS STOP URGE YOU TRANSMIT IMMEDIATELY AVAILABLE FUNDS NATIONAL STUDENT RELIEF COMMITTEE 131 MUSEUM
ROAD WHICH NOW INCLUDES I.S.S. CHINA BUDGET
ADVISING PROSPECTS LATER PAYMENTS
ALSO PRESS CANADIAN CHINESE RELIEF FUND CONTINUE SUPPORT NOW UNCERTAIN

ROLAND ELLIOTT

I.S.S. Funds also go to China which has been one of the hardest hit countries of the war. The above radiogram will give some indication of the plight of the university students. There is need for financial assistance and the students of the University of Toronto are being asked for help. NOTE: One Canadian dollar is equal to 100 Chinese dollars.

See tomorrow's Varsity for all the facts on how great is China's need for money from I.S.S.

Atom Age Seen Nightmare In Present Social System

"The discovery of Atomic energy, which could be an unexampled boon to mankind, has produced a nightmare because it originated in a capitalist society," stated Mr. Stanley B. Ryerson, in an address to an open meeting of the university L.P.P. Club at Wymliwood late Friday afternoon.

In a capitalist state with free enterprise, Dupont and others would be apt to take control of the discovery. This would create a situation whereby the need for laborers would be so minute that gross unemployment would result, and the capitalists would thrive.

In a socialist state, atomic energy would be harnessed for the benefit of all its citizens. No one person or group would derive wealth and power.

Mr. Ryerson went on to describe Marxism. "Marxism or Scientific Socialism is not a theory of equal pay and food, as our anxious adversaries would have you believe, but is one which applies methods of science to social change," he remarked.

"Social change is no longer a theory but a force. It has been taken up by groups all over and is still developing," he continued.

Marx said the social way of life hinges on the relation between labor and capital. It is evident that this is even more true today. In the U.S.A. they are having their labor troubles; in Indonesia 150 million people labor for an average of one cent a day; in Iran produce of labor is divided on a feudal basis, each peasant receiving one sixth.

"Social change is a subject for scientific investigation. Capitalism is a transitory stage. A new form of social organization would not only be superior but would also supplant

ONLY

3

More Days Till
I. S. S.
Campaign

SUNDAY EVENING CONCERT

The Hart House Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. Charles Peaker, will give the final Sunday Evening Concert of the season in the Great Hall of Hart House on Sunday next, 24th February. Howard Brown and Lorne Watson will be at the pianos.

Representatives of the various colleges and faculties are asked to call at the Warden's office today for their allotments of tickets for this concert.

the class structures of exploitation. The whole of society would be emancipated; the oppressed class liberated," concluded Mr. Ryerson.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 84

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Monday, February 18, 1946

Tabloid Varsity As Good or Better Say 92% of Questionnaire Returns Editorials Top Popularity Voting

SENATOR ARTHUR W. ROEBUCK who will speak on "Dominion-Provincial Relations" at an open meeting of the University Liberal Club to-night at 8.15 in the Women's Union.

A former Attorney-General, Minister of Labour, and Hydro-Electric Commissioner for Ontario, Senator Roebuck was appointed to the Senate in 1945. A native of Hamilton, he was a newspaper reporter and editor in Northern Ontario before entering politics.

A short nomination meeting for club members will be held at 7.45 before the open meeting.

Guidance Group Initiated Today

The first Vocational Guidance Group, under the auspices of the Victoria College Alumni Association, will be held in Room 18, Tuesday, February 19th, at 5:00 p.m. This group will be open to all male students of Victoria College.

The subject will be advertising. The leader will be Mr. Hall Linton of the MacLean-Hunter Publishing Company. Mr. Linton is a graduate of Victoria College 1921, a past President of the Victoria College Alumni Association and since its organization has been chairman of the Committee on Vocational Guidance. He has been in the advertising business for more than 20 years, is a past President of the Advertising and Sales Club of Toronto.

Poll Reflects Maturer Campus

A clear majority of Varsity readers are better satisfied with the undergraduate newspaper since it assumed tabloid proportions a month ago, analysis of questionnaire returns reveals. Answering the question, "In your opinion, has The Varsity's general standard improved, deteriorated, or remained the same since becoming a tabloid?", 56% of replies found improvement, 35.7% no change, and 8.3% a deterioration.

A total of 340 students, staff, and graduates submitted replies. Self-styled "regular" readers were 92% of those replying; 7.3% read The Varsity "occasionally", and less than 1% only rarely.

Reflecting a general seriousness of campus outlook, readers placed the three most abstract features of the paper at the top of their list of favorites. Asked to check their "favorite five features" from a comprehensive list of 21, readers placed editorials overwhelmingly at the top with 204 votes. "Our Readers Write" came next with 183 and the Art Music and Drama department third with 116. The Campus Cat with 103 votes and general news stories with 106 rounded out the campus-wide top five.

"Top five" voting was entirely out of line with comments received on these departments: the Cat, the Editorials, and the A.M. & D. largely monopolized the "What annoys you most about The Varsity?" space. While these departments came in for most scathing criticism, opposition appeared to be confined to a vocal minority.

Approximately half of those replying had some unfavorable comment to make on editorials, ranging all the way from "Most of them are brilliant, but subjects get monotonous" to "Gawd! Get a new editor!" Commonest complaint was that not enough campus topics are treated, next commonest, that subjects were too abstract or showed a want of familiarity with facts. Yet when asked, "Should The Varsity's editorials discuss the things they do?", 76.5% replied with an overwhelming "Yes".

The Campus Cat, in the opinion of most of those who commented (about one-third of those submitting questionnaires) has slipped from its former summits. Some asked for a return of the style and standards of last year; older hands recalled with nostalgia the Cats of 1937-39, when funnymen Shuster and Wayne were responsible for the department. A small group wanted the Cat eliminated entirely; more asked that it be more consistently funny. "More satire, less silliness" summed up a large block of complaints. Yet enough loyal readers responded to place the Cat fourth on the popularity parade.

Traditional storm-centre of the paper, the Art Music and Drama column came third in popularity, was adjudged "good" by 37% of those who commented. Thirty percent felt that it was "too critical", a head including such comments as "vitriolic", "cynical", and most popular of all, "destructive". Lack of emphasis on university affairs annoyed a small group; overemphasis on university affairs an equivalent group. Comments on editor Freedman went all the way from "Fire da bum" and "Learn music, Freedman" to "Freedman is tops" and "It's Freedman or mediocrity". Readers had only good words for Art Critic Allan Gowan.

Surprise of the voting was the great popularity of correspondence from readers, never a regular feature until this year. Despite the correspondents' habit of drawing angry rejoinders, 183 readers checked "Our Readers Write" to place it second only to editorials in popularity. Most persistent comment on this department was that letters are too long. A small group of readers asked that "Fascist" letters be eliminated.

More news from other Canadian camps was demanded by 64% of those answering the question; C.U.P.

(Continued on Page 3)

"Miss Understood" To Get Five Grand?

By Ross McLean

Whether or not the once-married Don Harron proposed marriage to the naive "Babs" Flint will be decided this evening when Harron takes the Moot Court witness stand at 7:30 in the Junior Common Room Chambers of University College to face charges of breach of promise.

In support of her demand for a $5,000 heart balm following what she has described as "the treachery and lechery" of Defendant Harron, Plaintiff Flint will attempt to prove that she did become affianced to the now-reluctant Harron.

"That Harron — he talked so smooth!" asserted Miss Flint on the eve of the trial. "Just like he swallowed a dictionary or something."

Harron made vigorous denial of this charge when interviewed later. "Oh," he said, "perhaps I have nibbled at a few pages now and then. And the occasional cover. But really. Book bindings taste so terrible these days!"

"And his letters," reminisced Miss Flint. "They were breathtakingly beautiful. I was his Elizabeth Barrett and he was my Robert Browning. Now he's just Browning-off!"

Miss Flint had earlier released several of the alleged Harron letters to the press. There was evident in each epistle all the entendre of a long low whistle, experts agreed.

"The law and facts are clear," said Telford Georges, Counsel for the Plaintiff in a formal statement last night. "We trust to the intelligence of the jury for a just decision."

Attorney for the defendant, R. Leitch, could not be reached for comment.

M. M. Simmonds, orchestra leader at O'Rourke's Hacienda where the pair first met under the now-celebrated circumstances, will appear in court this evening to testify to the intimacy between them as witnessed on the dance floor at the northern resort.

"Life lost its lustre for 'Babs' after Harron returned to Toronto. Together they had had a divine few weeks following the rescue," Simmonds said today. "With him gone she slumped into protracted moods of melancholy. Barren of Harron, life held no lustre anything."

An associate editor of Campus will also offer evidence. Jack Shapiro, third-year sociology student, will offer his observations from several weeks field work at a Bloor Street malt emporium where Harron and Flint were often seen in each other's company this fall.

"They were always together. It was breathtakingly beautiful. So tender. There they would sit in silent rapture, tossing peanuts into one another's mouth.

"The soft lights of the pinball machine playing upon their joyous countenances offered a breathtakingly beautiful picture."

Instructed by Harron's former wife to watch her spouse, Carl Stone, bell boy at the Gottedammerung Ski Lodge, will present testimony pertaining to the weekend over which the proposal was allegedly made.

Listening from the hall, Stone claims to have overheard the proposal conversation.

Twenty-four persons have been chosen from whom the 12 jurors will be selected tonight. Presiding judges to hear the case will be R. Frith, F. Kennedy, G. Doner, senior undergraduate, and Mister Raam Perghad, Chief Justice of the Moot Court.

While conjecture as to the trial's outcome was rife this morning the courtroom scene promised to be lively and—errr—breathtakingly beautiful.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI. 6211

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Night OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-In-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 476
 Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478
 Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
 Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
 News Editor.....George Forster, 476
 Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 477
 Ajax.....Pete Phillipott
 Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
 Assistant.....Reg Hurnan, 476
 Ajax.....Chiff Dixon
 Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor....Bredin Stapells, 476
 Assistant.....Don Mason, 476
 Ajax.....Ed. Caldwell
 Womens Sports Editor Pelly Mutz, 478
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 476
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor.....Phillip Freedman, 476
 Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Monday, February 18, 1946

Why Amoebas Leave Home

I must admit that very few of my friends are amoebas, nor can I remember anybody mentioning that we had one on the family tree. I am told, though, that there is a connection somewhere. Maybe Aunt Edgar would know something about it; she always was the black sheep of the family.

In any case, there was one fellow named Burgatroyd who dropped in last year sometime. Don't ask me how he got into the house. I don't go opening my doors to every stray amoeba that comes around looking for a handout, but he had some cock and bull story about dropping through the cold water faucet.

Not that I believed him, or her, or whatever it was. Burgy was rather confusing biologically, if you know what I mean. I doubt if he, or she, or it knew the facts itself.

Be that as it may, the unalterable fact remained that there Burgy lay, flopping around in the sink, and talking wouldn't solve anything. So I opened the living room door, and it sloshed off to my favorite chair. What else could you expect from a unicellular organism? Give 'em a foot and they'll bite your toe-nails every time.

Now, I imagine that to almost any of you, an amoeba in the living room would present a bit of a problem. As a matter of fact, one does. What do you do with the creature? Do you just walk up to it, get its attention, and swat it on the pseudopod when it's not watching? I hardly know what a pseudopod looks like, much less how to swat it.

Or do you say, "Look, Amoeba," and then draw it into a discussion on the Chicago Drainage Canal?

As a matter of fact, I tried this, hoping to confuse the thing into splashing out the door or window or anything handy, as long as it left, but Burgy somehow kept swinging the conversation back to Aunt Edgar. Aunt Edgar being rather broad minded, as I said before, I felt that I was getting the worst of the argument.

To make the best of a difficult situation, I attempted to crack an old chestnut that goes something like this: "Who was that paramoecium I saw you with last night?" "That was no paramoecium, that was a forminifera." This didn't raise much of a laugh, and the awkward silence that followed left us both ill at ease.

Perhaps the best idea would have been to enquire about the little amoebalettes, or whatever you call little amoebas, and make a few well-chosen remarks about endo-derm and the price of protoplasm. The easiest way of starting a conversation is usually the obvious one.

That I didn't was unfortunate. Burgatroyd's eye, or reasonable facsimile, had been roving about the room during my attempts at humour, a most disconcerting phenomenon, let me tell you. It finally returned with a bottle of gin that I'd been using to fill my cigarette lighter, and in no time at all, Burgy was insisting that I get out a couple of glasses and some ice and we make a real party out of it.

Now, I don't know whether you know this or not, but there's nothing worse than gin for an amoeba. They can stand a certain amount of beer, and quite a slug of rum, being seafaring men themselves, but gin just petrifies them.

Poor Burgy! His sins caught up with him right in the middle of a hiccup, and he froze solid. I have him on my desk right this minute, a degenerate, disreputable, solidification of an amoeba, now no better than a bookend.

As for the hiccup, I let it out on lonely, rainy nights, and watch it bounce around the hearthstone until it's all worn out.

'SPLRFSK'

Coming Events

U.C.-TRINITY CLASSICS CLUB
 The U.C.-Trinity Classics Club will meet on Thursday at 8.15 in the common room at St. Hilda's College. Student papers will be given on "Six Roman Historians" and "The Roman Mime".

ANCHOR BALL FOR I.S.S.

Sponsored By Delta Gamma Fraternity

ROYAL YORK HOTEL

Saturday, March 2, 1946

Bob Shuttleworth's Orchestra

$2.50 PER COUPLE

Tickets - Phone MI 3015, 1-2 p.m.

HELP!

Students recover from the war —

HELP!

Build student life in peacetime —

through

International Student Service

Introspection

In the next few days, as checking of comments and suggestions proceeds, we hope to say more about readers' opinions on The Varsity, as reflected in the recently-closed questionnaire. On the whole, though, we are encouraged to go our present way, with detailed improvements for which we thank the sponsors. By the end of this week we hope to have met the most persistent demands.

Most significant of all, we think has been the response to editorials and letters, which between them captured an overwhelming majority of votes for top place in the popularity listing. We believe this reflects the greater seriousness of the times, and the maturer attitude the times have brought to the campus. The presence of so many student veterans in the first year (the year which furnished 41% of the replies) has helped to tip the balance away from entertainment and toward thought.

Students, the questionnaire indicates, are reading discussions of serious subjects, and want to read them. Three-quarters of those replying said that editorials in The Varsity should discuss the things they do; many with the rider that they should discuss other things as well.

That question was inserted with a purpose; for the reasons underlying our choice of subject-matter have not been always evident. Our subject-matter, however, has been forced upon us.

This is not a year when purely local issues monopolize, or should monopolize, student attention. The burning questions this year are not the re-opening of Hart House theatre, the manners of students in street-cars, or the need for tenors in the Glee Club. The burning questions this year concern the advisability of student participation in picket-lines, the morality or otherwise of deporting citizens of foreign extraction, the real basis of that "democracy" to which everyone appeals in the current discussion on student government, the qualification a training in scientific method bestows for adjudging moral issues such as the Japanese-Canadian issue, and so on.

Our subjects are not home-grown, because the gravest interests of students today are not home-grown.

Yet there has been a sizable and often obscene minority to complain that we have been "too abstract", that we have not treated campus issues. Now we have treated nothing else. But we have gone beneath the surface, because we believe it is The Varsity's job to go below the surface.

The Japanese-Canadian committee, for example, is doing a splendid job of publicizing its cause; it is leading a crusade. We do not think it is our job to lead a crusade; it is our job to discuss the moral basis of the crusade; because it cries out for discussion and nobody else is going to discuss it. When opposition to the Japanese-Canadian proposals came from engineers, who wrote letters claiming that their scientific training enabled them to judge moral issues calmly, we did not, as we falsely might have, brand them as boobies. We discussed the limits of Scientific Method.

We have gone back to principles, because nothing is more important than a principle, and it seems to be no one else's job to go back to them.

Principles, however, make for hard reading and hard thinking. A great many of our detractors were evidently fatigued by the effort of thought. They demanded that we stop writing over their heads. We demand in turn that they do us the honour of thinking out what we do write. We never write for effect; we never write nonsense to draw comment; we mean whatever we say or shall say in this space. And we believe that the subjects we have discussed are of first importance. A treatment closer to everyday experience would be foredoomed as superficial. This is an intellectual testing-time; these are times in which there is called in question the whole basis of thought. It is the University's business to uphold the approach to truth via the intellect rather than via the fist.

For the most appalling symptom for the future is intellectual laziness; which manifests itself across the campus as across the country. Many readers cried out to be spared the task of thinking; they cried out to be entertained. Many refused to argue out disagreements; they met an argument with a proposition, or more often a sneer.

But the returns show that we are being read, as perhaps editorials have never been before. And we mean to go on writing as we do, until someone shows us a better reason than any yet advanced, why we should stop.

University Symphony Orchestra

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

Hans Gruber, Conductor

Will Present

TWO CONCERTS

—at—

CONVOCATION HALL

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 20th.

GEORGE CRUM, Pianist

Guest Artist

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist

Guest Artiste

Hart House Bulletin Board

Informal Recital

Harold Wardell (IV S.P.S.), baritone, will give an informal recital in the east common room at 1.30 p.m. on Tuesday. Harold Bellshaw will be at the piano.

Colour Night Exhibition

Members submitting coloured slides and movies in the Annual Colour Night Exhibition must have their work at the Hall Porter's desk by 6 p.m. Tuesday 19th February.

Hart House Debate

The final debate of the present academic term will be held in the Debates Room on Wednesday 20th February. The subject for debate is "This House resolves that Canadian Conservatism is not only dead but buried." The Hon. Douglas C. Abbott, Minister of National Defence, will be present as Hon. Visitor.

Members proposing to stand for election to the Debates Committee are reminded that in order to qualify for nomination they must have spoken at least once from the floor of the House. This is your last opportunity to speak in a Hart House Debate this term.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 84

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Monday, February 18, 1946

ONTARIO COUNTY WELCOMES AJAX

Premier Is Enthused About Development

Open house was held at Ajax on Saturday, February 16th, when the residents of Ontario County inspected the Ajax Division, University of Toronto, that so suddenly and so successfully appeared in their midst. At the dinner in the evening, the guest speaker was the Hon. George A. Drew, Prime Minister and Minister of Education, Province of Ontario.

Over 2,500 people flocked to see the lecture rooms, the labs and drafting rooms in the afternoon. University transportation carried the visitors to what many of them still thought of as "Line 3" but what is now one of the foremost institutes of learning.

Betty Hill, queen of the 4T8 Chem boys at Queen's Park, went into raptures about the "Haystack" set-up. The well-ventilated labs and brightly lighted lecture rooms all appealed to her. She is probably still trying out the stools in the drafting room with a look of profound bewilderment in her eyes.

Mrs. Hannah, of Dunbarton, who once filled shells for D.I.L., came to see the transformation, but also had a secondary motive. "You see, I met my husband for the first time in this corridor." No, Mr. Hannah didn't come.

One lady was particularly impressed with the "crock" in the Chem. lab. "Just what I need for my kitchen."

Fire-chief Winters said, "Quite a few D.I.L. employees have been surprised at the change that has taken place in so short a time. The students here will also find that they are in one of the loveliest spots in Ontario, when summer comes."

After Col. Drew had inspected the academic area, he said that he thought that Ajax was "extremely well organized for the time that it has been in operation. I have been most impressed by the spirit of co-operation existing here between the student body and the University staff. As Minister of Education, I am very interested in the development of the Ajax Division."

Returning from the academic area, Hart House and the residences were inspected. The new Tuck Shop in Hart House, which made its debut that morning, was the scene of much speculation. The gaily decorated "coke-dispensary" with its indirect lighting, will become one of the show-places of the University.

Before the dinner a reception was held in Hart House. In the evening over 500 guests, including such distinguished visitors as the Hon. G. A. Drew, Premier and Minister of Education for the Province of Ontario, the Hon. Mr. Justice Hope, Lt.-Col. W. E. Phillips, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the University, Dr. Sidney Smith, President of the U. of T., Dr. J. G. Althouse, His Worship, Mayor Frank McCullum of Oshawa, His Worship, Mayor Robert Deverell of Whitby, Mr. W. E. Sinclair, M.P., Mr. T. K. Creighton, M.P.P., Dean Young, Prof. W. J. Wright and Mr. J. R. Gilley gathered in the cafeteria where a very

The Hon. George A. Drew, Premier and Minister of Education in the Ontario government, who was guest speaker at the Ajax "Open House" on Saturday night.

(Continued on Page 8)

UBC Mass Rally Raise Gym Funds

Vancouver, Feb. 14—(CUP)—Following a mass rally held on the library lawn to raise money for the U.B.C. gym fund, 3,500 students listened with pride to President Norman A. MacKenzie who told the students "As few as 2,500 students have accomplished marvels in the past. You have the complete support and hearty wishes of the faculty." Four hundred and twenty-six dollars was collected from jars passed through the crowd.

One stunt to raise funds for the gym fund was a pie-throwing contest. A woman protested the action of "spineless brats, who have never seen overseas service," and stated the students were wasting sugar while she had not enough to bake a pie. In retaliation, veterans are collecting sugar in envelopes. On these they are writing their names, war service, and decorations.

If the woman donates to the fund, she can have the sugar.

I.S.S. RECORD IN WAR

Aid to student refugees and inmates.

Aid to Belgian, British, Canadian, American, Dutch, Greek, Yugoslav, and Norwegian student prisoners of war.

ignatz sez:
BEAT IT OUT

with

6-Piece Jazz Combo At Beauty Contest

McGill Wins Laurels In Debating Semi-Final

Montreal, Feb. 14—(CUP)—McGill University became Eastern debating champion in the I.U.D.L. after defeating Bishop's and Ottawa in the semi-finals.

McGill upheld the affirmative of the topic "Resolved that every Canadian youth should serve one year compulsory military service". The debate was held at Bishop's College. McGill who triumphed 3-0, stated that military service is the sure safeguard of peace as well as advantageous to the individual. Bishop's negative brought out the results of military training in world affairs.

McGill supported the negative of the argument when Ottawa contended for the title at Montreal. The negative emphasized the cost of the project, stated that compulsory training is not a contribution to lasting peace. Ottawa affirmative, defeated 2-1, stated that no country can hope for peace unless it participates in world struggles, thus training is essential.

Tabloid Varsity Said Improvement

(Continued From Page 1)

stories in general, with 76 votes, rated ninth in popularity.

The Sports department, taken all in all, made an erratic showing. The limited appeal of this department, and the failure of readers to make specific complaints, makes evaluation of returns difficult. Although the "Speaking of Sport" column came sixth in popularity, sports stories came nineteenth. Commonest complaint on the column was that it contained too much corny humor, too little sport; "Too much superficial, involved chatter" was one readers' summary. Sports stories were blamed for spotty coverage, overemphasis on Varsity rather than intra-mural events, and alleged ignorance of reporters. The Sportswoman, with perhaps the narrowest intrinsic appeal of any feature in the paper, came twentieth on the list, but drew few adverse comments.

Of the new features introduced this year, most popular were the cartoons, which drew 91 votes to come seventh in popularity. Many readers asked that these be run daily; a few wanted them smaller, several asked for a comic strip.

Either the number of campus swing devotees is smaller than the editors estimated, or readers dislike The Varsity coverage of this kind of music; for "Speaking of Swing" placed only fifteenth. Most of those who commented found the column overlong.

Book reviews came seventeenth. A weekly feature, the reviews depend for their interest largely on the books furnished for review by publishers; a fact noted by many who asked for more interesting and up-to-date material. Very little adverse comment was aimed at reviewer Bob Weaver.

Of the many dependents of the Feature Department, the Cat is still the most popular. General features placed next, eighth on the list; New and Entrenous, Cinemarathon, Personality Interviews, Speaking of Swing, and Campus Capsules followed in that order, scattered down through the main listing.

Many readers failed to recognize some of these features by name; especially New and Entrenous, formerly a daily column, which editor McLean has lately been running under a variety of subject headings without the generic caption. Rock bottom on the popularity list was Campus Capsules, less raucous substitute for the old-time Hither and Yon, which drew only 10 votes. Some dozen readers asked for the return of the "Hither".

General comments ranged from the obtuse to the patiently constructive. Many readers asked that notices of Coming Events be grouped under one head instead of being scattered across the paper, and edited to ensure accuracy and completeness.

News coverage appeared generally satisfactory, although many readers asked for greater completeness and others complained of "ignorance of the subject-matter" shown by reporters covering lectures and addresses. The professional faculties, especially medicine, asked for more coverage; artsmen and engineers seemed on the whole satisfied.

Some two dozen readers complained of the quantity of advertising being carried, although The Varsity depends on advertisers for the backbone of its revenue.

In general demand was a series on the history, organization, and set-up of the University, on the lines of the "Know Your University" feature of former years.

Most readers found the allocation of space among departments satisfactory.

Residence Rates Stand For Ajax

It will be impossible to change Ajax residence rates at the present time, but next session may see beneficial changes. Supervisor of Residences Perry told a meeting of student cafeteria help last week.

Mr. Perry pointed out that when room and board fees were set, a charge of $3.00 per week for room and 17 meals weekly was set. This was considered fair when it was considered that in Toronto, students were charged for 21 meals whether eaten or not.

Voting Summary

Following is a summary of the main results of The Varsity's questionnaire. Three hundred and forty readers submitted returns.

Frequency of Reading

Regularly: 92%
Occasionally: 7.3%
Rarely: less than 1%
Response to Revamped Paper Improved: 56%
Remained the same: 35.7%
Deteriorated: 8.3%

Popularity Ranking of Features

1. Editorials (204 votes)
2. Our Readers Write (183)
3. Art Music and Drama (115)
4. Champus Cat (108)
5. News stories (106)
6. Speaking of Sport (92)
7. Cartoons (91)
8. Features (90)
9. News of other camp (76)
10. Coming events (71)
11. New and Entrenous (66)
12. Cinemarathon (58)
13. Lecture Reports (56)
14. Personality Interviews (54)
15. Speaking of Swing (39)
16. Editorial Encores (38)
17. Books (37)
18. Bridge problems (36)
19. Sports stories (32)
20. Sportswoman (12)
21. Campus Capsules (10)

News of Other Canadian Camp Want more: 64%
Don't want more: 36%.

Editorial Subjects

Should discuss what they do: 76.5%
Shouldn't: 23.5%.

Creative Writing At Letters Club

Poetry, short stories, plays, or sections of novels are requested as contributions to tonight's meeting of the University College Modern Letters Club. This is the second creative meeting of the club since last fall.

Participants and spectators are invited to offer criticism and suggestions. The meeting is to be held at 8:15 p.m. in the Women's Union.

Strange Transportation Toting Ajax Schoolmen

By STANLEY ZERNIT

Did you ever visit Ajax? Not then you haven't noticed the large grey cattle-cars, or, to be more specific, the vans used to transport students the half-mile from the main area to the lecture and lab buildings. These wood and steel boxes on wheels, eight feet in width and height and 30 feet in length, are dragged along by a detached bar in front. The buses cover the route every hour approximately on the hour, and continue until the alleged queues of Skulemen are all taken care of in one fashion or another.

The busses have an official seating capacity of 30 and will stand another 70 but any A-Jack who has participated in the friendly rush at noon or at five o'clock will verify the statement that the actual seating capacity is about 90 (two layers) while many a bus has probably carried a total load of well over 150. At about 150 lbs. each, that means about 11 tons of solid engineers.

In an in-between trips interview with one of the drivers it was found that the four drivers, Messrs Hingan, Bartlett, Greer and Burley, are quite proud of trucking such a condensed load of knowledge.

They have been at the job since the commencement of the D.I.L. plant and admit their preference for the present gang because, according to Mr. Hingan, "the students seem to load and unload a lot faster than the women did. This is probably due to their eagerness to get to their lectures".

But the buses don't cost the A-Jacks a red cent so, crowd or no crowd, you can have your Bloor St. rush-hour street-car!

Postwar Master Plan For Canadian U

Recently released and soon to be submitted for ratification to the student governing bodies of member universities across Canada is the NFCUS master plan for post-war activities. The plan, embodied in a brief from the NFCUS conference in Montreal last December, is published below in condensed form. Its suggestions regarding exchange scholarships, radio broadcasting, travelling arrangements and many other matters point to a fuller and fuller realization of the place of universities in Canadian life. We commend them to our readers and invite comment.

Administration Committee

In submitting the following report, the Committee has borne in mind that NFCUS is in a state of flux, and that in the future the organization will, we hope, expand to include all Canadian Universities. The proposals contained in this report are made with a view to assisting in this development and expansion.

(a) Constitutional Amendments

The Committee Recommends:

1. That Article VIII, Section (1) be amended to read: "...he shall be responsible together with the Vice-Presidents..."
2. That in order to ensure a report of the proceedings of the Conference reaching all students, Article VIII, Section (2) be amended by the following addition: "At the end of every NFCUS Annual Meeting, a full report of committee proceedings; and resolutions shall be forwarded to all delegates within three weeks of the end of the Annual Meeting, and the Secretary-Treasurer shall ensure the publication of a summarized report of the proceedings in all Canadian University newspapers."

3. That in order to bring Constituent members closer together and ensure Regional co-operation, it is submitted that Regional Conferences be held, and By-law 9 be amended by the following additional paragraph: "Delegates to the Regional Conferences shall be appointed by the students' councils of member Universities in the region, and Regional Conferences shall be empowered to administer their decisions insofar as they pertain to their own regions, and a report of their decisions shall be submitted to Constituent members of NFCUS through the Secretary-Treasurer at the conclusion of the Regional Conferences."

(b) Administration Directives

The Committee is of the opinion that continuity in the Secretariat is necessary if NFCUS is to continue as a live and working institution. This continuity can only be achieved in our opinion if there is a permanent Secretary-Treasurer. Such an officer should be some person intimately connected with one of the member Universities.

In view of his wide experience in NFCUS, and his keen interest in the continued and effective functioning of NFCUS, and because we are in a process of reconstruction and require a link with past NFCUS organization, the Committee respectfully recommends that Major E. A. MacDonald be appointed Secretary-Treasurer for as long a period as he feels able to continue in office, and in any case, during the ensuing term until the next meeting of the NFCUS Executive council.

(c) Recommendations To Constituent Members

- (1) With reference to Regional Conferences it is recommended that member Universities be urged to send along their officers in such student interests as Inter-University sports, debating, etc. The Regional Conferences will allow attendance by more delegates than the National Conference, thus covering a wider range of common interests more thoroughly.

- (2) It is urged that a strong recommendation be made to all Constituent members to set up on their own camp an NFCUS organization to bring NFCUS before their students. It is further recommended that a preparatory conference be held on each campus so that interested groups may indicate matters which they wish NFCUS to consider. Such action would bridge the gap between NFCUS and the average student, publicize NFCUS on the camp, and improve the Annual Meeting of NFCUS.

Student Services

It is our firm conviction that the future of the National Federation of Canadian University Students depends largely on the ability of this organization to provide practical services for every University Student in Canada.

As stated in Article IV, Section 3 of the N.F.C.U.S. Constitution amended as of Jan. 1, 1945,

"...Every active member of the Student body in each University whose representative Student organization is a member of the National Federation of Canadian University Students shall be, ipso facto, a member of the Federation."

Therefore the support of Students in general will be in proportion to the benefits they receive from the Federation.

With this in mind we are presenting several practical recommendations which we feel will strengthen the support of students throughout the Dominion and upon which immediate action should be taken by the incoming executive.

The recommendations of the committee are as follows:

1. Transportation
We recommend that immediate steps be taken to obtain the return of pre-war student railway rates, and that strong representation be made following investigation for over-all reduced railway fares for University Students.

2. Exchange Scholarships

Realizing that the exchange plan is the major undertaking of the Federation and is endorsed heartily by Canadian University authorities and Student bodies, the following recommendations are put forward:

- (a) A quota plan be adopted for Universities receiving exchange students.

- (b) Greater publicity be given to the Exchange Scholarship plan in all Universities, such as greater use of posters, information, bulletins already designed and now in the N.F.C.U.S. files. The available information regarding Exchange Scholarships be forwarded to member Student Councils as soon as possible.

- (c) Liaison with foreign (American, British Isles, Australia, New Zealand, etc.) counterparts of the N.F.C.U.S. in order that an international plan of exchange scholarships may be worked out.

- (d) An exchange student should be held responsible for presenting to his home University a report of his impressions and activities while attending another University.

3. Government Scholarships

Although the committee realizes that Dominion-Provincial scholarships are not directly connected with the N.F.C.U.S. we feel that strong representation should be made to the government for the continuation and development of their Youth Training Plan.

Further recommendations are:

- (a) That next year's executive make an investigation into the matter of promised Government Scholarships and that the report be given to the constituent members.

- (b) That representation be made to the ten governments that we think it advisable that government scholarships for worthy students be set up in each province of Canada.

4. Health Insurance

Recognizing the need for a National Student Health Insurance Plan this committee recommends that the executive body of the N.F.C.U.S. set up a committee to investigate conditions in all Canadian Universities and on the basis of their findings to set up desirable minimum standards and that local N.F.C.U.S. organizations take steps to implement these standards on each campus and that the executive publicize the plan with the idea of improving student health conditions.

5. Student Employment

A standing committee be set up to investigate possibility of establishing a National Student Employment Service. The committee shall consist of:

Mr. E. Bergenstein—Manitoba—Chairman.

Mr. M. Galvin—Ottawa.

Mr. L. Watt—Manitoba.

Mr. W. D. Fanjoy—Acadia.

Veterans' Committee

On December 27th, the first day of the 1945 N.F.C.U.S. Conference, it was moved that the appointment be made of a liaison officer between National Federation of Canadian University Students which is in session at McGill University, and The First National Conference of Student Veterans which meets at the University of Montreal.

On the evening of the 28th the chairman attended a general meeting of the Veterans' Conference. It was attended by Mr. Herwig, Dominion Secretary of the Canadian Legion, and Brigadier Gregg, V.C., as well as representatives of the twenty-six colleges and universities. There were also present delegates from some of the vocational training schools under the supervision of the Department of Veterans' Affairs and the chairman wishes to advise the N.F.C.U.S. that the vocational school delegates are now accepted among the numbers of the Veterans' Conference. At this general meeting the veterans decided that a National Association of Student Veterans be formed, that this be a permanent Association, and that headquarters of same be at Ottawa. There were six delegates nominated and plans are now under way for the presentation of the views of the student veterans to the House of Commons as well as the various parliamentary committees on veterans affairs.

On the evening of the 28th the chairman presented to the Chairman of the Veterans' Conference the following dispatch:

"The motion enclosed herewith was passed unanimously at the Thursday session of the annual Conference of the National Federation of Canadian University Students meeting at McGill University. Please accept my very best personal wishes for the complete success of this, your first annual veterans conference."

Yours truly,

J. Pye,
Conference Chairman,
N.F.C.U.S."

Contained in the same dispatch was a copy of the minutes of the general meeting of December 27th at which the liaison officer between N.F.C.U.S. and the Veterans' Conference was appointed.

The chairman of the N.F.C.U.S. veterans committee was allowed to sit in on all committees at the veterans conference.

The chairman of the N.F.C.U.S. veterans committee wishes to advise N.F.C.U.S. that the procedure of the First National Conference of Student Veterans represents one of the finest pieces of organization that the chairman has ever witnessed. N.F.C.U.S. should be gratified to know that the affairs of the many veteran students are in the hands of most competent delegates.

Recommendation

The chairman recommends that the present attitude of N.F.C.U.S. towards the Veterans Conference be maintained. Namely, that the veterans continue their surveys of matters peculiar to veteran students; that N.F.C.U.S. at all times effect liaison between N.F.C.U.S. and the Veterans Conferences; and that N.F.C.U.S. attempt continuation of the harmony now existing between the two organizations.

Committee on Campus Activities

The purpose to be held in mind when dealing with the agenda was also defined as twofold:

- a) to bring forth some concrete recommendation by which N.F.C.U.S. as an organization could facilitate and promote campus and inter-collegiate activities in a tangible form;
- b) to provide an opportunity for each delegate to learn precisely how student government functions on other camp, with a view to the solving of the problems of his own particular student body.

Realizing that the practical limits of part (a) were distressingly narrow at the present time, the Committee decided to devote most of its time to part (b), especially as all the delegates were of the opinion that such an exchange of ideas was one of the chief functions of the conference, and that primarily on the merits of this discussion were they willing to return to their respective student councils prepared to vouch for the value of N.F.C.U.S.

Student Employment

Mr. Balfour of McGill explained to the delegates the mechanism of his university's part-time student employment bureau. Set up some years ago, this bureau now possesses considerable reputation throughout the Montreal area, and no longer needs to advertise for employers. It functions as a clearing house: students leave their names and the

An Announcement in regard to Nylon Stockings

We shall have a limited supply of Nylon hosiery for sale in our stores tomorrow, February 19th, at 9 o'clock.

We wish our stock of these stockings were sufficient to enable us to supply all our good and loyal customers with them. Unfortunately it isn't and in order to be as fair about a difficult situation as possible, we shall use a numbered card system to ensure that customers get served in turn.

These cards will be given out in consecutive order as customers enter our store and you can help us to do this job to the best of our ability if you avoid confusion and await your turn calmly.

If you don't get a pair of Nylon stockings on this date, don't feel too badly—more will be available again before long.

Sorry, no telephone orders.

45 and 48 gauge, first quality - - $1.75
51 gauge, first quality - - - - $1.95

Evangeline

- 113 Yonge at Adelaide
- 751 Yonge at Bloor
- 1458 Yonge at St. Clair
- 3414 Yonge at City Limits
- 444 Eglinton W. at Castleknock
- 656 Danforth at Pope
- in Hamilton—King and John Sts.

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE

TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m. a 2:30 p.m.

b 7:45 a.m. b 3:55 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

(b—except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m. 8:40 a.m.

7:30 a.m. 9:30 a.m.

and every hour

on the half hour

until 10:30 p.m.

Also 11:40 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES

Bay at Dundas—Adelaide 4221

hours they are available; employers contact them through the bureau for part-time work during the college term. It was added that a similar bureau was now in operation for the benefit of veterans, known as the Uni-Vet.

Mr. Balfour next outlined the plans in the office at McGill for a graduate employment bureau, to be organized and operated by the graduates themselves. A permanent secretary will be employed and those members of the Alumni in a position to give employment contacted and urged to give special consideration to the qualifications of McGill students.

Mr. Miller of U.B.C. then informed the Committee that his Students Council was pushing a similar plan, due to the desperate conditions on the west coast for graduate employment. Also operated by the Alumni, it features a personnel expert who would act as a permanent secretary and publicity agent. He is to conduct a survey of B.C. industry and endeavour "to sell" college graduates to B.C. employers.

Mr. Doner of Toronto observed that the majority of the universities represented still operated their graduate employment systems through faculty members. Mr. Miller of U.B.C. remarked that the higher registrations at some universities has rendered this system inefficient, due to the slight personal contact between faculty and students.

A suggestion was advanced regarding the possibility of an N.F.C.U.S. employment agency to co-relate and publicize employment information. The western universities expressed their disapproval of the "patronage" afforded eastern graduates by Alumni members of the same universities.

Student CO-OP's

As some of the delegates were unacquainted with this institution, Mr. Balfour of McGill explained the nature of the two in operation at his university. A group of students, usually from ten to twenty, come together, and collectively rent a house. They devise their own administrative organization, elect their own officers, make their own rules, and have full control over the governing and financing of the house. At McGill the students personally perform all household duties, with the exception of preparing the mid-day meal.

Mr. Miller of U.B.C. explained that discipline is maintained in the co-op's of his university by requiring each member to purchase ten shares at a dollar apiece. This corresponds to a caution deposit, and the executive deduct fines from it for any infraction of the rules, especially that of neglecting to meet the monthly levy.

Because of the advantages of economy, due to co-operative food buying, etc., and the small overhead costs, the Committee went on record as recommending co-op's to those students suffering from a scarcity of funds, in many instances the veterans. It also recommends co-op's to those universities lacking a men's residence, as college spirit is better promoted in a number of small such houses as opposed to dispersing the students individually in a large number of private homes throughout the community.

Mr. Doner of Toronto emphasized that his university authorities exerted no control over the co-op's, that they were formed entirely upon the initiative of the students themselves, and that their efficiency depended wholly upon the nature of their members.

War Memorial

Mr. Helmer of Alberta outlined the proposals made at his university for such a memorial:

- a) a loan fund for needy students—raised through canvassing the Alumni for subscriptions. Objection: the fund eventually exhausts itself and therefore makes a poor memorial, nor can it ever become as conspicuous as a building, monument, etc.
- b) scholarship fund for needy students qualifying in the following order: children of Alumni killed in the war, children of any Alberta servicemen killed in the war, children of Alberta servicemen, etc., etc. Objection: same as for (a) plus the defect that such a plan could not be put into operation for another fifteen years (Children must first grow up).
- c) professorship of peace: the endowment of a chair at the university to instruct in the practical causes of war, etc., with the view to preventing it, etc. Objection: Idealistic perhaps?

d) memorial gymnasium.

Mention of the memorial gym brought about a discussion of the ways and means of raising money for such buildings:

Alberta—$100,000 from Alumni through canvassed subscriptions.

$200,000 from floating of bond issue—financed by a $10 levy per student.

U.B.C.—$50,000 from provincial government.

$300,000 from canvassed subscriptions.

$150,000 from floating of bond issue.

(U.B.C. also plan to construct a war memorial gym).

McGill—plan to construct an extension to their present athletic plant which will include a hockey rink, auditorium, squash courts, etc. 4,500 of an Alumni of 12,000 have already been canvassed, resulting in subscriptions totalling a half million dollars. The students on their part have accumulated $27,400 towards the war memorial by neglecting to draw their C.O.T.C., U.N.T.D., U.A. T.C. pay during the war years. They have also conducted a campaign of subscriptions on the campus, resulting in the pledging of $12,000 and they hope to raise another $6,000 through the same means this year.

The item of war memorials was concluded with a discussion of the nature of the memorial, whether it should be first useful, as a gym, and then serve as a memorial, as a monument, etc., and the Committee agreed on a compromise: that the best memorials are those which are kept best in the public eye, and to keep it in the public eye, the memorial needs a definite utility value. Student Yearbooks, Handbooks, Etc.

The delegates were of the unanimous opinion that the spirit of the N.F.C.U.S. could and should be promoted by the free exchange of yearbooks, handbooks, etc., among all the member universities, and consequently, that the conference ought immediately set up some system for this exchange along the following lines: as handbooks and yearbooks vary little from year to year it would not be necessary for each member to send and receive copies annually. Working on the basis of the twenty members represented at this conference, each member could send five copies of its handbook and five of its yearbook to the office of the permanent secretary, which would function as a sort of clearing house. In return each member would receive five of each publication from other members, and at the end of four years each of the members would have copies from all the other members.

A nation-wide competition for the judging of yearbooks is to be set up and such competition is to be administered through the office of the secretary-treasurer. Such a competition will provide for different classes of contestants based on the size of the enrollment at the various member universities. Such plans as are arranged by the secretary-treasurer are to be submitted to the executive for approval.

Student Government

Each delegate expounded at length the mechanism and problems of the student government at his own university, and the resulting debate was highly engrossing, stimulated real N.F.C.U.S. spirit, and enabled all the participants to return home with much valuable information on what is done at other U's. However, for the purposes of this report, the committee decided to limit the record of its discussion to the features they considered unique at particular universities.

McMaster

Athletic fees separate from regular student council fees. Although students sit on athletic board, in practice they have absolutely no control over the direction of athletic policy or the spending of the athletic fee. This task is handled by the faculty along with the graduates.

Unlike the students of most universities, those at McMaster are divided for social purposes, etc., by classes rather than by faculties. Even in sport is this division maintained. Moreover, this division is popular, and efforts are made to resist the tendency to break up horizontally into faculties.

McGill

Students Council exerts full disciplinary control over student body, including the student publication, The Daily. It budgets for all standing committees. Faculty societies are independent in respect to funds.

The Council also acts as a social committee and any activity on the part of McGill students has first to gain its approval. Faculty approval also is necessary, but, in practice, this is only a formality.

The McGill Students Council, however, exerts no control over athletics. As at McMaster, the fee is separate, and full authority is vested in the hands of the Physical Director.

Dalhousie

All undergraduate activities, including athletics, are completely under the control of the Students Council. The athletic fee is included in the Council fee and is allotted to the athletic club only as its policy is approved.

Western

Unlike the students of most central Canadian universities, those of Western dictate their own athletic policy. Although the fee is separate, and athletics are not under the jurisdiction of the students council, the athletic board which does exert this control contains six student voting members which outnumber the faculty members.

Liaison Committee

International Student Conferences and their relation to the N.F.C.U.S.:

Background

(From a survey of the available files without proper reports from any delegation of the federation.) The National Union of Students of England and Wales convened a conference of thirteen nationalities in London on March 24-5, 1945, for the purpose of discussing future international student cooperation. The agenda allowed for

(a) pooling of information and ideas, and

(b) consideration of proposals for calling a fully representative student conference which would have power to set up an international student organization.

The conference was informal and was not a meeting of mandated delegates. Canada was represented by Lt. J. L. Starkey, the delegate from the N.F.C.U.S.

A convening committee was set up to consider the setting up of an international student organization, with specific terms of reference as to place and date, machinery of communication, constitution. In addition, the conference considered the problem arising out of world student relief and recommended a conference with the I.S.S. for the purpose of demarcation of function.

The N.U.S. submitted a statement to the conference on a future student organization embracing the following points. It should be based on democratic principals, it must be possible to agree to differ on certain politically controversial matters. It should concentrate on subjects which have significance for students as such whatever their nationality. It should cover the widest possible range of membership. The new organization should not be associated with any of the failures of similar organizations of the past. It should take advantage of the experiences of past international student organizations.

The convening committee consisting of seven nationalities appointed in March met in London November 10-11. At this time the National Union of Czechoslovakian Students opened an office in London for a working committee to co-operate with the Convening Committee and the N.U.S.

From November 16-27 the World Congress of Students was held in Prague under the sponsorship of the Czech Government and other United Nations. Lieut. Hurst represented the Dominion at this conference.

The topics discussed included—

1. Report on London Meeting, Nov. 10th, 1945.

2. Regional sub-committees on student activities during the war.

3. The damage sustained during the war by the Universities and other centres of higher learning.

4. World Student Relief.

5. International co-operation in Peace.

We have received no formal report on this conference, however, in a letter from Lieut. Hurst, the N.F.C.U.S. was requested to appoint a delegate to work with him on the preparatory commission set up by the World Congress at Prague with the function of laying the foundation of a permanent international student organization. The first meeting will be held January 28th, 1946.

In addition to these conferences the World Youth Council sponsored a conference in London on October 31st, to November 9th. As a result of the correspondence between the Executive of the N.F.C.U.S. and the Canadian Arrangements Committee of the Canadian Youth Commission it was decided that the Federation would have no official representative.

Recommendations:

With the information at the disposal of the committee it has been extremely difficult to analyse the specific function of these conferences and their respective affiliations. However, it is recommended that the N.F.C.U.S. support any conference that is impartially representative and whose status is definite. From the standpoint of national prestige and in the light of international co-operation the N.F.C.U.S. must be prepared to affiliate in some way with an international student organization.

It might be of interest at this point to mention the fact that the N.F.C.U.S. was affiliated with the Conference Internationale d'Etudiants but found it necessary to sever relations when that organization was disrupted by political and administrative difficulties. In addition, the Canadian Federation considered it unwise to make any further financial commitments, however, Canadian students still received the benefits of the student identity card.

It is also recommended that the Federation avoid the certain dissipation of its energies which would result from actively supporting several international organizations. The N.F.C.U.S. should not ally itself with any organization whose (Continued on Page 7)

IF YOU EVER LOVED A CHILD
THIS PICTURE IS FOR YOU!

A New Kind of Russian Film
"Once There Was a Girl"
Produced by The C.S.R.
English Titles
ON THE SAME PROGRAM
"GOLDEN SLIPPERS"
Excerpts from CHAIKOVSKY'S
Opera "Chereviki"

NOW SHOWING
Doors Open 5:45 P.M.
VICTORY THEATRE
Spadina at Dundas

HILLEL MEETING

MAJOR J. A. EDMISON, K. C.
Former Liaison Officer for UNRRA at SHAEF

Topic: "UNRRA And Displaced Persons"

THURSDAY FEBRUARY 21 — 8.15 P.M.

WOMEN'S UNION

Refreshments Dancing

Because of Production Difficulties, only a limited number of copies of Torontonensis can be printed this year.

All college offices, libraries, fraternities, etc. wishing to purchase copies are asked to place an order with the Students' Administrative Council
Office before February 28th.

STUDENTS!

When post war Ring Covers are available,
DOMINION will have them.

For the present we will do our best to look after as many orders as possible. Materials for the manufacture of Ring Covers are still very limited.

Ask your bookstore. He will keep you posted.

DOMINION BLANK BOOK COMPANY

SR. CAGERS TROUNCE McGill 64-45

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

WIND-UPS

A wind-up, as in baseball, doesn't concern us now . . . it has wind-up. On the upswing of the wind-up is the volleyball tournament. There are but five more games to mark the time before the finals . . . with five teams harboring hopes of coming out on top. In the first group, Vic. I and O.T. will toss the ball around to see who draws "Heads!". The second allotment is not quite decided, but the law of probability says there will be a three way tie between Saints I, P.H.E. III and P.H.E. IA. All three have yet to play more games . . . P.H.E. III is scheduled to play U.C. on Wed., if the Phys. Eds win, they are "in", but if not, their chances of playing in the final round are nil. First year Phys. Eds. have two more games to go, and the Saints must measure up to Meds. You may sit back in your chairs and relax after Wednesday . . . the strain will be lifted by Thursday, when the big games will commence.

The five favorites have been picked with an eye to their co-ordination as a team . . . and their sportsmanship. The scores have dropped down out of the skies, and games have ended with the winner only a few jumps ahead. What is more . . . the players refrain from appearing on the floor with that oh-so-determined-to-win expression . . . and proceed to enjoy themselves. Waytogo!

POSTSCRIPT

Five days to go before the Intercollegiate swimming meet in Hart House pool.

Varsity Poloists Beat McM. 15-3

To the tumultuous cheers of a gallery of nine people, five of them from Hamilton, the water polo Blues trimmed McMaster Friday night by a score of 15-3.

By far the most outstanding player in the water was rover-captain Jim Martin who potted 3 points for his night's work. McMaster's Orr was the second highest scorer, breaking loose three times to account for his team's full total. Sid Bossin and Harry Kohl put in two goals each for Varsity; Bill Moffat, Gil Boa, and Phil Rosen notched one tally apiece.

The University team outswam, outplayed and outscored McMaster all the way. Playing a careful close-checking game during the first half, the homesters amassed 9 points while holding the visitors off the scoring sheet entirely.

In the second half, the game opened up and Toronto's playing became ragged and at times disorganized. This carelessness enabled Hamilton to break loose from a would-be shutout. Some good work at this point by goalie Bev Jones kept the "against" score from being higher than it was.

Arrangements are being made for a return game to be played Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock in the Hamilton Municipal Pool.

Blue Win Record Holds Still Unbeaten Here

32 Fouls Called

By Henry Westcott

Coach Roy Dilworth was right. After last week's defeat at McGill he predicted that his Intercollegiate Blue Basketballers would knock off the Redmen by at least ten points in their return encounter Saturday night in Hart House. This they did—and more, as they ripped through the visitors' defence to edge them by a 64-45 count. The win keeps their unbeaten-in-Hart-House record intact for the year thus far.

Lou Davies, mentor of the Quebec squad had no alibi for the defeat, simply admitting that they were outplayed. He was, however a trifle ruffled by the refereeing. "It was", quoth Lou, "the worst example of refereeing that I've seen in the Intercollegiate league in ten years—not unfair, just wrong." Mr. Dilworth when queried on this item, had "no comment".

Whether the referees, Harry Mitchell and Bill Rogin, were right or not, they called plenty of fouls—32 of them in fact. Eighteen were called on McGill and fourteen against Varsity. Twenty-two were passed out in the hectic last half.

At times this last canto was slightly reminiscent of the football frays at the stadium battlefields, what with players looting on the floor or draped around an opponent's neck. Despite the large number of free shots given for these disturbances, relatively few went through the hoop. Varsity sank 8 out of 21, while McGill made 5 out of 14.

It seems like Harry Mayzel and Collin Cranham have finally found the range on the basket. The former came up with the most points in the game—17, and played his best game of the season. Cranham heaved in five baskets and back-checked consistently. He was jumping practically up to the running track to grab rebounds at both ends.

Doug Spry was doing the same to catch them off his own hoop. Captain Gordy Wallace was back in the Toronto lineup, but Stu Scott was out nursing his injured foot. Wally Zeaton was bothered no little by his sore hand. Both Wallace and Zeaton deserve plenty of credit for their tossing of consistently unerring passes to their co-horts, who frequently turned such passes into two-point plays.

The McGill offense was chiefly built on big Dave Greenburg who has just the physique on which to construct. In spite of his bulk he's amazingly fast and tricky. He was top scorer on his team with 14 points. Davidson, who was the big canon for the redmen in last week's struggle, was relatively ineffective Saturday night scoring only one basket and a free shot.

Set-shot artist Finlay played a standout game both ways although the homesters gave him few chances to flick his long ones. He made with passes like Zeaton and Wallace often setting up his teammates for close-in shots. He was very fast getting back after the Quebec quintet lost the ball and was one big reason that the Varsity score was kept down to a mere 45.

Mentor Dilworth praised his merits thusly, "He's the best defense man we've met this year", and (Continued on Page 7)

Sport In Short

THURSDAY, FEB. 14TH

Waterpolo
Dents 4 Meds. "B" . . . 1
Sr. S.P.S. . . . 11 Sr. Med. "A" . . . 0

FRIDAY, FEB. 15TH

Minor Basketball
1 Elec. 45 Trin. IV 21
1 Civil 26 For. "D" 11

Major Basketball
Dent "A" 43 S.P.S. 111 13

Waterpolo
Jr. S.P.S. 2 Vic. 1 0

Hockey
For. "A" 5 U.C. 111 2
S.P.S. 1 4 U.C. 1 3
S.P.S. 11 11 Med. 11 2
S.P.S. 11 3 Trin. "A" 3

Blue Swimmers Beat H.A.C. 34-32

Taking five firsts out of a possible eight in a dual meet Saturday night in Hart House pool, Hamilton Aquatic club went down to a 34-32 defeat before the University of Toronto swimming team.

This victory is truly an upset in swimming circles, and sets the Varsity Blues in a position unequalled by any swimming squad in Canada.

Head and shoulders above all other contestants was Tommy Parks of the Aquatic who went off with firsts in the 440 and 100 free style and swam also in the winning 300-yd. medley and swam on the 200-yd. relay team.

Bruce Forsythe came through in fine style with a win in the 50-yd. dash closely followed by Pete Turnbull. Al Marshall put on his usual fine performance with a first in the 200 yard breast-stroke, finishing eight seconds short of his record.

It was expected that Al would break the record, but his failure to do so may be attributed to his being hard-pressed in his spot on the 300 yard medley relay team.

Hamilton led by points all the way until the final event when the fat was pulled out of the fire by the 200 yard relay team.

Following the official Intercollegiate order of events the meet opened up with the 300-yd. medley relay which was won in due course by the Hamilton team of McCormick, Larson and Park in the excellent time of 3:17.1. In the backstroke spot, Jack McCormick outsped Varsity's Bill MacDonald. 300-yd. medley; McCormick, Larson, Park—Hamilton. Time: 3:17.1. Diving: Johnston—Hamilton. 102.6 points; Clayton—Toronto. 95.13; Sabiston—Toronto. 91.3.

50 free style: Forsythe—Toronto; Turnbull—Toronto; Allister—Hamilton. Time: 28.2.

440 free style: Park—H; Teskey—T. Time: 5:35.1.

100 back: McCormick—H; MacDonald—T. Time: 1:13.4.

100 free style: Park—H; Cochrane—H; Granfield—T. Time: 0:57.1.

West Pointers Downed 8-1 By Rampaging Sr. Puckmen

The American Army took a drubbing at the hands of the Canadians over the week-end, as Varsity's great hockey machine downed West Point pucksters by a count of 8-1.

The game, played on Army ice, was very fast, and exceptionally clean, with a total of only two penalties throughout. The Army aggregation, coached by "Taffy" Patton, showed excellent defensive power, but they were beaten by a much stronger team.

Laid-up since the Michigan debacle, centre-man Davey Bauer signalled his return to the Toronto line-up by knocking home three counters in the first stanza, with Captain Wally Halder flashing the red light twice. Continuing his brilliant play-making form, Jim Bromley netted three assists. Score at the end of the period was 5-0 for the big Blues.

Starred by the defensive work of West and O'Connell, the Army men held their opponents scoreless in the second period, at the same time breaking into the scoring column on a goal by Crowley, first-string centre.

Goals from the sticks of Henry,

Kryzanowski, and Ball brought the final score up to 8-1, as the American team found themselves overwhelmed by the neat passing-plays of the Baileys. Wayne, in the Army nets, pulled off several sensational stops in this period, as well as throughout the entire game.

Line-ups:

Army—Wayne, West, O'Connell, Crowley, Drinkwater, Schlotterick; alternates, Levando, Devans, Snyder, Colburn, Cerow, Montague, Crella, Arnold, LoConti, Anderson, Patton.

Toronto—Dick Ball, Wade, Kryzanowski, Doyle, Putlock, Halder, Gord Ball, Henry, Bauer, Bromley, Bark, Murphy.

First Period

Toronto—Halder (Kryzanowski).
Toronto—Bauer (Bromley).
Toronto—Bauer (Bromley).
Toronto—Halder (Bromley).
Toronto—Bauer (Bromley).

Second Period

Army—Crowley (Drinkwater).
Toronto—Henry (Halder).
Toronto—Kryzanowski (Bauer).
Toronto—Ball (Henry).

Officials—J. W. Coffee, Lewis P. Dealey.

Gr. 2—7:15 p.m.—Res. 731 A vs Res. 726—S. Bate.

Gr. 2—6:15 p.m.—Res. 726 vs Res. 733—S. Bate.

Ajax Sports

BOWLING

Group 1

Mon., Feb. 18—
7:15 p.m.—1 & 2—723A vs 725A.
6:15 p.m.—3 & 4—724A vs 727A.
7:15 p.m.—3 & 4—722A vs 726A.

Group 2

Mon., Feb. 18—
5:15 p.m.—3 & 4—729A vs 731A.
5:15 p.m.—1 & 2—723A vs 732A.
6:15 p.m.—1 & 2—730A vs 733A.

Group 4

Mon., Feb. 18—
8:15 p.m.—3 & 4—722B vs 726B.

Group 7

Mon., Feb. 18—
8:15 p.m.—1 & 2—725C vs 736C.
9:15 p.m.—1 & 2—728C vs 737C.
9:15 p.m.—3 & 4—729C vs 730C.

BASKETBALL

Monday, February 18th

Gr. 1—10:15 p.m.—Res. 722 vs Res. 738—A. McPhail.
Gr. 1—9:15 p.m.—Res. 723 A vs Res. 727—A. McPhail.
Gr. 1—8:15 p.m.—Senior S.P.S. vs U. of T. "Jaxs".

200 yd. free style: Marshall—T.; St. Aubin—H.; Beer—T. Time: 2:40.5.

200-yd. relay: Forsythe, Moffat, Turnbull, Clayton—Toronto. Time: 1:42.3.

HOCKEY

Monday, February 18th

Cus. 1—6:30 p.m.—Res. 732 vs Res. 730 (postponed from Jan. 30)—Graham & Caldwell.

Cus. 1—7:30 p.m.—Exhibition game—Senior S.P.S. vs U. of T. "Jaxs".

Cus. 3—6:30 p.m.—Res. 724 vs Res. 723 (postponed from Jan. 30)—Stefanyshyn & Blundell.

Cus. 3—7:30 p.m.—Res. 722 vs Res. 725 (postponed from Jan. 30)—Stefanyshyn & Blundell.

Tuesday, February 19th

Cus. 1—6:30 p.m.—Res. 738 vs Res. 728—McCreedy & Graham.

Cus. 1—7:30 p.m.—Practice Period.

Cus. 3—6:30 p.m.—Communers vs Res. 727—Kuzniar & White.

Cus. 3—7:30 p.m.—Res. 733 vs Res. 737 (postponed from Jan. 30)—Kuzniar & White.

Wednesday, February 20th

Cus. 1—6:30 p.m.—Res. 722 vs Res. 724 (postponed from Feb. 6)—McCreedy & Stefanyshyn.

Cus. 1—7:30 p.m.—Res. 723 vs Res. 725 (postponed from Feb. 6)—McCreedy & Stefanyshyn.

Cus. 3—6:30-10:00 p.m.—Practice period.

INTRAMURAL SQUASH TOURNAMENT

Dates and times for all matches are posted on the main notice board off the main locker room.

Be sure and post results on draw sheets.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
1:00 U.C. II vs SPS II	Farrell, Atkinson
4:15 MED. III vs PHARM.	Smith, Horkins
5:15 DENT. B vs SPS IV	Smith, Horkins
8:00 TRIN. B vs VIC. III	P. Fyfe, Sinclair
WATER-POLO
6:00 JR. MED. vs U.C. (PHE)	Lyon
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1:00 SR. VIC. vs SR. SPS.	Maxwell
4:00 PHE I vs SR. MED.	Hamm
6:30 JR. VIC. vs JR. MED.	Rotman
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00 IV ELEC. vs PHE III	Charendoff
4:00 IV AERO vs I MED.	Habcock
6:30 U.C. IV vs PRE-MED. B.	Bond
INDOOR TRACK
5:00 2 miles novice—1/4 mile relay (6 man teams)—12 lbs shot put (upper gym)

NFCUS Brief

(Continued from Page 5)

objective might be the propagation of any one political doctrine.

International Student Service

Dr. Long has assured this Committee that all information pertaining to the aims, services, and disbursements of funds will be sent to all Universities and their student governments. It is further hoped that a close degree of co-operation will be maintained between the C.U.P., the N.F.C.U.S. and the I.S.S.

The I.S.S. has set up two hospitals, one in Switzerland and the other in France. It has also helped in the feeding of students (notably in Athens) and has supplied books and much needed equipment. It is non-political and strives to revive some real feeling of academic awareness among European students as well as promoting the general aim of freedom of University Education and liberality of thought.

The I.S.S. wishes that the Universities propose twelve men to form a delegation to tour Europe this coming summer. This will be done by having the student associations of Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, the West and B.C. Universities propose delegates. These delegates will also attend a conference in London and Switzerland.

This committee recommends that the N.F.C.U.S. and the delegates at this conference give the fullest support to the I.S.S. in all matters. It also recommends that publicity be given them in such a way as to create a lively interest in this organization. It seems to us that this organization offers the best opportunities for good co-operation in international affairs between student groups.

This committee also recommends that the executive of the N.F.C.U.S. keep in close contact with the I.S.S. because we feel that this will be the best way to ensure a true presentation of Canadian Youth at any future Youth Organizations of an international character.

Relationship Between N.F.C.U.S. and the Canadian University Press Background

For two years after its formation by the N.F.C.U.S. the C.U.P. was embodied in the parent organization. However, when due to war-time conditions the N.F.C.U.S. found it advisable to suspend activities, the C.U.P. of necessity became an independent organization. That condition has remained to date.

At the annual C.U.P. Conference at the University of Western Ontario in London, December 21-23, 1945, it was recommended that the C.U.P. co-operate fully with the N.F.C.U.S. in matters of mutual interest.

Recommendations

1. The Liaison Committee can reflect wholeheartedly the feeling of mutual co-operation voiced by the C.U.P. Conference.

2. Concerning the status of the two organizations the Committee recommends that the independent status of the C.U.P., which occurred by force of circumstance, be recognized by the N.F.C.U.S. as accepted fact.

3. Further, the Committee recommends that the N.F.C.U.S., through the secretary, establish definite contact with C.U.P. and their associated wire service for the purpose of national press.

Releases of information or decisions concerning the N.F.C.U.S. and its activities. This contact will be facilitated by utilization of the C.U.P. regional representatives in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg.

The Committee feels quite strongly that only through publicity of the proposed expanded activities of the Federation can the usefulness and necessity of N.F.C.U.S. be impressed upon the students and general public of Canada.

4. In regard to polls of student opinion conducted by the C.U.P., N.F.C.U.S., or individual organizations, the Liaison Committee urges that profound consideration be given to the effects of the results of such a poll on N.F.C.U.S. and Canadian University students as far as public opinion is concerned. The danger of misrepresentation of so-called "Canadian University Student Opinion" should be avoided at all costs.

Polls purporting to represent student opinion should be viewed with a critical eye in order to assure that they are representative, authentic and sincere.

The Committee recommends further that the C.U.P. and the individual Universities be informed of the Conference's views on this subject, and that they be urged to consider the press release of stories concerning so-called student opinion accordingly.

Debating Leagues

(A) Past History: In the past the N.F.C.U.S. has been very active in debating activities. It sponsored tours throughout Canada of teams of debaters from various Canadian Universities. It also brought to Canada teams of British and American Debaters.

(B) Present Set-up: At present there are three major Debating Leagues in existence. These are: (1) the Western Intercollegiate Debating Union, which take in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba; (2) the Inter-University Debating League which takes in McGill, Loyola, Ottawa, Bishop's, Western, Queens, McMaster and St. Pats; and (3) the Maritime Intercollegiate Debating League, which embraces eight universities in the Maritimes. These leagues conduct home and home series and have had a very successful record.

(C) Recommendations:

In view of the above and after a consideration of issues involved, this Committee makes the following recommendations:

(1) That the N.F.C.U.S. do not attempt to take over or interfere with, in any way, the work of the existing debating leagues but do all in its power to co-operate with these leagues, if asked to do so in promoting debating in Canada.

(2) That the N.F.C.U.S. set up a committee to investigate the possibilities of Radio debates on a nationwide scale. That this Committee be empowered to set up the machinery for conducting national radio debates should their investigation show this plan to be feasible.

(3) That the N.F.C.U.S. investigate the possibilities of conducting International Debates, particularly with the U.S.A. and Britain but that no extensive plan of Canadian tours be embarked upon because of the expense involved and the duplications of this work with the work of the existing leagues.

Local and National N.F.C.U.S. Groups

Time did not permit a detailed discussion of the relationship of the national executive of N.F.C.U.S. and the individual N.F.C.U.S. representatives on the camp across Canada. However, the Committee feels that the lack of publicity of the N.F.C.U.S. has resulted in a large measure from lack of initiative on the part of the individual student councils.

Therefore, the Liaison Committee recommends that the delegates at this conference impress upon their student councils the need for utmost co-operation with the N.F.C.U.S. and the need for publicity and effort within their own universities.

Publicity of N.F.C.U.S. Through The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

Again time limitations were such that this topic could not be given proper consideration. The general feeling of the Committee was that such a large undertaking on the part of the N.F.C.U.S. should be deferred until the revived machinery of operation was functioning properly.

It was realized, however, that any committee set up to consider public relations and publicity of N.F.C.U.S. should keep the role of the C.B.C. in mind.

Definite plans for the variety show type of programme originating at each college were not deemed suitable to consider at this time.

It should be mentioned, however, that publicity of the N.F.C.U.S. through the C.B.C. could be attained should radio debating be undertaken by the regional debating leagues; as was proposed earlier in this report.

Considerations In The Organization Of an Inter-Varsity Radio Schedule Over The C.B.C.

Undoubtedly such a series of programmes would be of interest to the students of Canadian Universities and would be an important consideration in attaining a greater degree of national unity. In fact, such a programme could be termed a joint publicity project for the universities. It is apparent that the over-all organization of this programme would be the responsibility of the newly elected executive of the N.F.C.U.S.

It might be advisable at this point to consider some of the difficulties which might be encountered by the N.F.C.U.S. in organizing this radio hook-up. Primarily, the ability of the local stations to provide suitable "Radio Time" will be the determining factor. Most stations at the present time are running a complete programme schedule. In addition, it must be emphasized that the individual university will be obliged to prove to the programme director of the local network that the programme to be presented will be of the highest quality and will have a guaranteed listening audience. Furthermore, every university must assure the radio officials that the programme will be thoroughly rehearsed, especially in regard to timing and other technical matters. A radio society on each campus under the direct control of the Students' Council would be, wherever possible of achievement, the most suitable agency for the production of such a programme. It is further recommended that each university carry out a strict auditioning test before casting the radio programme. Once again the Committee urges the N.F.C.U.S. executive to interview the C.B.C. in order to ascertain their interest in this series and to determine the difficulties to be encountered.

But the way I see it, almost anybody can STUDY and get through.

Blues Win Here

(Continued from Page 6)

Monsieur Dilworth is not one to throw compliments indiscriminately.

The first half featured the fastest basketball of the game with the visitors sparked by Roth and Greenburg, jumping onto the top of a 14-4 lead. Quick counters by Mayzel and Thompson brought the game under control and the Blues proceeded to nose slowly ahead.

The half ended with the home-sters up 28-21.

In the wild second half Toronto held a decided edge keeping the McGill boys fairly well at a standstill most of the time. Fouls in this half averaged more than one a minute.

The game ended with a flurry of baskets, Toronto out in front 64-45.

Lineups:

Varsity: Wallace (2), Mayzel (17), Fountain (6), Spry (4), Thomson (12), Gibson (6), Clayton (5), Cranham (10), Zeaton (2).

McGill: Roth (9), Davidson (3), Bower (5), Finlay (4), Hoyle (8), Miller (2), Greenburg (14), Shacter.

Glee Club Elections

First of the spring elections for next year's executives, members of Hart House Glee Club will elect six members to fill vacancies on the Glee Club Committee for 1946-47 on Tuesday.

Polling will be done in the music room 4.30 to 5.00 p.m. and from 6.00 to 6.15 p.m.

Nominated for the election are:

J. P. Anderson, 1 Vic.
R. E. Booker, 1 Dents.
J. A. H. Gartshore, 1 Vic.
N. J. Kelemen, 1 U.C.
B. M. Marshall, 1 Meds.
D. R. Pushman, 1 Meds.
P. B. Waite, 1 U.C.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762 (Ground Floor St. George Apartments) OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

STUDENTS ARE SICK AND HUNGRY

Chinese students receive barely enough from government food subsidies to buy rice.... Malaria and tuberculosis are common.... Over 70% of Dutch students need hospital care before returning to universities.... 600 students require supplementary food at the University of Toulouse.

THOUSANDS OF PERMITS DESTROYED

during showing of "THE LOST WEEKEND"

(We're kidding, of course)

But we are NOT jesting when we say we can custom-make your new spring clothes of the finest imported materials within 3-4 weeks, and at most reasonable prices.

See for yourself at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE (At College)

The salesmen smile from nine to nine. Saturdays until 6.

Classified Advertisements

LOST Pair of plastic-rimmed glasses in brown case, on campus, Feb. 12th. Please leave at S.A.C. office.	WANTED All Forest Hill grads, to attend annual Forest Hill Prom at Central School, on Friday, Feb. 22nd. Tickets from Colin Wong.
LOST Black Parker pen, Friday 9th, vicinity School. Reward. RA 7141.	24 HOUR SERVICE Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.
COLOUR PHOTOGRAPHY Have your party photographed in brilliant natural colour! Personal portraiture also done. Phone KI 3667, Peter or Jerry Waite, 5-6 p.m.	WANTED Model A Ford. Apply Box J, The Varsity.

Have You Lost Anything?

Have You Anything For Sale?

For quick results put a Classified Ad. in "The Varsity"

Phone MI. 6221

WANTED

Army officer's cap, size 6 and 7/8, uniform, size 39. State prices. Apply Box H, The Varsity.

Art, Music and Drama

U.C. Concert

This reviewer must admit that he attended the second University College musical evening at the Women's Union last night with a certain apprehension. He had just listened to wonder-boy Bernstein conduct Beethoven's First Concerto from the piano (he also composes), and he was afraid that a student concert night pale a little in comparison. Imagine his relief and pleasure to discover that the transition was smooth and effortless. Each performer displayed capability and promise in a stimulating program that encompassed three centuries of music.

Two heroic Chopin works led off the proceedings. The stunning G minor Ballade and its awesome difficulties were met by pianist Marian Jones with remarkable efficiency and comprehension. In a group of three songs, soprano Natalie Faver sang accurately, and powerfully. That old coloratura war-horse, Les Filles de Cadix, served as an excellent vehicle for this vocalist. The third group featured an instrument that is rarely heard in solo—the viola, played last night by Paul Serson. In the wonderful adagio from Corelli's Fifth Violin Sonata Mr. Serson disproved by virtue of his energy the traditional cumberdom of his instrument. In conclusion, Kenneth Peacock rendered two highly interesting piano Preludes opus 34, by the controversial Dmitri Szostakowicz, as well as three movements of an unusual Afro-American Suite of his own invention.

—D. GORDON ROSS.

Pop Concert

The major work on last Friday's Pop program was Dohnanyi's Variations on a Nursery Tune for piano and orchestra. Despite its name, the work is a serious one. Its first Toronto performance with George Haddad at the piano and Ettore Mazzoleni conducting was successful because the soloist and the conductor were aware of both the serious and satirical aspects of the work. It was unfortunate that the pianist could not always be heard. For instance, in the Choral episode the heavy orchestration drowned him out completely. However, the performance was at all times interesting. This reviewer detected new elements of satire of which he had not been previously aware. A repeat performance of the Variations would be welcome.

One of the things that makes reviewing of the work of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra a difficult task is an inconsistency in the quality of its performances. Last Friday most of the compositions were played in a most unremarkable fashion. That is, there was nothing bad in the performances but neither was there anything exceptional or outstanding. Then, in a complete reversal of the lack of elegance that had characterized the program, the orchestra performed Rimsky-Korsakoff's Spanish Caprice brilliantly and colorfully. In this piece, the orchestra did sound outstanding; their playing was as sensitive as any of the great virtuoso orchestras in the United States.

The Caprice, a masterpiece of orchestration and an exceedingly difficult work to perform, showed again that there are some excellent instrumentalists in the group. Perry Baumann, oboist, Gordon Day, flutist, Robert Rogers, clarinetist, and Isaac Mamott, cellist, were all very fine in their solo passages.

—PHILIP FREEDMAN.

Friday Recital

In replying to the questionnaire, several readers have asked why the Hart House Friday Afternoon Recitals are not reviewed in this column. The answer is because they are not accessible to all students on the campus. For a similar reason the Trinity and St. Michael's musicales are not reviewed. While these colleges, we are sure, would not object to the presence of outsiders, members of other faculties are not specifically invited or informed of the musicales. Wymilwood concerts, on the other hand, are open to all and are reviewed as regularly as possible.

When women are invited to the Friday Afternoon Recitals and students generally to St. Michael's and Trinity musicales, then these also will be reviewed.

—P.F.

Ajax Hoopmen Downed 57-38

Trinity! Trinity! Rah! Rah! Such were the cries as the hoop squad from Trinity trimmed the Ajax team to the tune of 57-38 in an exhibition encounter on the floor of the main gym of Hart House, Saturday. The winners are now undefeated in ten starts.

Early in the first half, Hendra of the winners dropped the ball through the net for the first basket of the evening. For a while the engineers from "away out there" kept up with the opposition by hooping points for all those made by the Trinity men, but in a short time they were standing back from the more experienced conquerors. The half ended with Ajax' at the bottom of a 25-13 score. Skuleman, Robson, scored his only basket to start the second stanza, but it can't be said that "all's well that begins well", for the Trinity five soon recovered to score baskets galore.

Outstanding for the winners were Tim Turner and Hendra. The engineers found strength in Shorty Doty.

Weakness, on defense and around the basket of the opposition, proved regrettable for Ajax. Trinity can be thankful that their hoopsters make the most of their chances, and are experienced to the extent that they can protect a lead.

Lineups

TRINITY: Gall (12); T. Turner (19); R. Turner (12); Hendra (14); Sage; Walker; Farquharson. AJAX: Torrens (6); Taylor (4); Robson (2); Peirce (4); Doty (8); McHenry (2); Harvey (1); Roe (6); Bate (2); Crang (2).

I.S.S. RECORD IN WAR

(Money raised by Canadian committee)

30,043 study books distributed.
35,680 general books distributed.
Aid to civilian student slave workers.

Premier Enthused

(Continued From Page 3)

enjoyable dinner was served, under the capable direction of Miss Eames. After the toast to the King was proposed by the chairman, Mr. A. F. Annis, President of the Oshawa Chamber of Commerce, Miss Muriel Kilby, of Toronto, played three short selections on the marimba, accompanied by Joyce Killmaster. Mr. G. W. Garner, Secretary of the Oshawa Chamber of Commerce, then capably introduced the head table.

The chairman officially welcomed the S.P.S. to Ontario County, stating that the progress of Skule will be watched with the greatest interest, not only by the faculty, but by the residents of the district as well.

Dr. Smith, President of the University, in reply to the chairman's address, thanked the residents of Ontario County for the concrete display of good neighbourliness already accorded the new tenants of Ajax. The President pointed out that Ajax, the boldest step ever undertaken by his or any other university, was necessitated by the large number of ex-service personnel who are availing themselves of the opportunity of furthering their education.

Thirty percent of these veterans have chosen Toronto as their Alma Mater. Next year, Ajax alone will probably see 3,500 eager Skulemen on its campus.

The President thanked Col. Phillips, whose farsightedness was largely responsible for the University's expansion program being undertaken at Ajax, and the Premier, who unhesitatingly guaranteed to underwrite the financial aspect of the "experiment" if necessary.

"The University's value is not measured in buildings and monuments but in the calibre of the staff and students," Dr. Smith said. "For this reason Ajax is no longer an experiment, but an actual fact."

Lt.-Col. W. E. Phillips, Chairman of the Board of Governors, said he welcomed the opportunity to thank those who did so much to make Ajax a success. "The conversion of Ajax is," he stated, "an indication that the University has accepted its responsibility to pay part of its debt to discharged servicemen. There could be," he went on, "no Ajax except for the courage and vision of Premier Drew."

Miss Kilby again entertained the guests with selections of Chopin and Wieniawski, followed by Godard's beautiful Berceuse from "Jocelyn".

The guest speaker, the Hon. George A. Drew, was introduced by Mr. T. K. Creighton, M.L.A., Ontario riding.

Mr. Drew commended the initiative shown by the University in planning and operating such a large undertaking as Ajax. "The advantage will be great to the students," he said, "but greater still to the Dominion of Canada. The general opinion had been that the servicemen would flock to the universities but that the attendance would show a marked falling off in a short time. But these men and women, who learned service in a stern school, are bringing new vitality to the universities and are showing a knowledge that will elevate the whole standard of education for many years to come."

"Ajax," the Premier continued, "is not elaborate. There are no architectural masterpieces, but simply bare essentials. Ajax, however, is a model for the whole of Canada and the world in the training of veterans. Under the administration of the Department of Education, the ex-servicemen are establishing the highest standards of education in the province. The young men and women who have been overseas have a first-hand knowledge of the opportunities that Canada offers, and it is not surprising that such large numbers have chosen the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering."

"Ajax is one of the largest and best examples of Canada's rehabilitation program, but it must be emphasized that the studies of history and the humanities must not be overlooked in pursuing the knowledge of science."

Mr. William Murkar, Secretary of the Pickering Rotary Club, moved a vote of thanks to the Premier for his address. He briefly outlined the history of the buildings that have been annexed by Varsity.

What's On Today

LIBERAL ASSOCIATION

Senator Arthur Roebuck will speak on "Dominion-Provincial Relations" in the Women's Union at 8.15 to-night.

M-I.S.S.-IVE NUMBER ONE

By Ross McLean

- The typical co-ed is back in season.

Each year just shortly after Valentine's Day, not too close to St. Patrick's, and safely beyond Groundhog, the University of Toronto stages its Typical Co-ed Contest in well-hailed quest of that elusive article—the typical co-ed.

Each year prefaced by "galleys" of press ballyhoo there is conducted on the stage of Convocation Hall a contest to select Varsity's most t.c.

- Already, in cloistered common rooms about the campus, has begun the tantalizing task of picking the faculty candidates in the all-university competition.

Before small, discriminating bands of judges have paraded the most pulchritudinous of the affiliated colleges current co-ed crop.

This Thursday afternoon these preliminary winners will compete for the treasured title before a glamor-clamoring quartet of appeal-appraising judges.

There is a motive in this accenting of our co-ed's beauty.

It is to seek booty for I.S.S. that the University seeks its most typical beauty.

- During Thursday a 300-girl squad of I.S.S. taggers will blanket the campus between Bloor and College shaking students free of shekels in the interest of I.S.S.

Also included in the pleasure parcel to be opened at Convocation Hall during the one-to-two-o'clock beauty contest are a jazz concert and more Don Harron—Alex Seigel gagery about which we shall talk later this week.

- For this is I.S.S. week.

And we have been deputized to take this space for the next few days to discuss I.S.S. plans on this campus.

Presumably, the average student has learned by now about the mission of I.S.S. in this and other Universities.

For weeks past the committee has been conducting an energetic campaign to edify this sprawling student body about I.S.S.

- Today, we trust, there is no one to whom the letters I.S.S. are still meaningless.

On this premise, at any rate, we shall not pause here to point out again that I.S.S. is an international student relief organization.

- We shall hope that you are already aware of that.

Province Tax Rights Discussed by Roebuck

"If the provinces want more taxes, let them justify themselves by rendering more services", said Senator Arthur Roebuck speaking to the Liberal Club last night at the Women's Union. The taxpayers should decide to whom they will pay their taxes from the benefits they receive from the respective government. Each government should raise its own revenue independently—to carry out its own responsibilities. He condemned the subsidy system now in force.

Before beginning the main portion of his address, the senator discussed the Dominion's position in the Commonwealth and in the modern world. The method of the development of Canada's sovereignty has caused much misunderstanding of her status as an independent member of the United Nations Organization. The continued co-operation of the autonomous parts of the British Commonwealth is due not to central domination but rather to the fact that they have learned the secret of co-operation. To illustrate his point Mr. Roebuck quoted from the declaration of the Imperial Conference of 1926, Great Britain and the Dominions are autonomous communities, equal in status in no way subordinate one to another, owing common allegiance to the crown." He claimed that the British technique of discussion, compromising concession for getting along together should be learned by all nations. He pointed out such examples as the Pan-American Union and the Arab League, although he condemned the reason for which the Arab League was formed, stating that he was himself a Zionist and would like to see 5 million Jews migrate into Palestine to prevent the Arabs or Turkey from dominating the Eastern Mediterranean.

He traced the constitutional development of Canada from the conquest by the British, 1759, showing how the principles of Representative Government and the division of power between the Dominion and Provincial Governments came into force. He pointed out the weaknesses of the B.N.A. act and how they have been remedied.

The difficulties of dividing duties and responsibilities between the Federal and Provincial Governments have arisen from two causes. Firstly constant changes in economic and social conditions have necessitated changes in interpretation of our constitution. Secondly there are two groups in the country who are continually exerting pressure on the governments. There are those born a century too late who think that they are still living in the Victorian Era and there are those born too soon who are always looking for the "better day".

Senator Roebuck said that the Dominion and the Provinces should carry out their duties openly and not trade them behind closed doors. He cited several examples of cases in which the Provinces have handed over their responsibilities and their duties to the Dominion Government. "The Provinces should not be crying for tax rights if they are unwilling to carry out their share of governmental duties".

Abbott To Be Main Visitor

The Hon. Douglas C. Abbott, Minister of National Defence and Naval Services will be the Honorable visitor who will protect the Liberals against all comers and attempt to uphold the resolution that "This House is resolved that Canadian Conservatism is not only dead but buried." The Debate to be held tomorrow evening in Hart House, is going to be covered from start to finish by New World magazine and a complete picture story will appear in the March or April edition.

The Debates Committee of Hart House first wrote to Prime Minister King in Ottawa asking him to attend the debate and in the event of his being too busy to suggest one of his Cabinet Ministers. It is interesting to note that after Mr. Abbott decided to come and had made his choice of three possible subjects insisted that Conservatism be spelt with a capital C.

Mr. Abbott is one of the youngest members of the King Cabinet. Born in Lennoxville, Quebec, in 1899, Mr. Abbott was first elected to the House of Commons from his home constituency of St. Antoine, Westmount, Montreal in 1940. In March 1945 he was appointed Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of National Defence and became Minister of that department after the last election. Mr. Abbott will be accompanied by his executive assistant Lt. Col. G. R. Hunter. As yet the Minister has given no indication of what he will say during the debate or why he insisted on the capital "C". Mr. Abbott is the first Cabinet Minister to attend a Hart House Debate since the Hon. Norman McLeod, Minister of Labour in 1939, was an Honorable Visitor at one in February of that year.

Mr. Donald M. Fleming rising young Conservative member from the Dominion House who wrestled a

ONLY
2
More Days Till
I. S. S.
Campaign

The

VARSETY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 86 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Tuesday, February 19, 1946

FLINT WINS

Harron Broke Promise Court Rules

By Ross McLean

A twelve man jury last night took twelve minutes to decide that Don Harron, celebrated campus comedian, had actually proposed marriage to Law-student "Babs" Flint and to award damages to Miss Flint to the extent of One dollar.

Miss Flint had demanded a $5000 indemnity for the emotional anguish caused by Harron's breach of promise.

Weighing the balance of probabilities demonstrated during the three-hour Moot Court session in the University College Junior Common Room Chambers, the jury's deliberation produced the recommendation that Defendant Harron pay the heart-broken Miss Flint a one-dollar keg of beer in which to drown her sorrows.

Thus culminated a seven-month romance whose emotional climax had come in late January when Harron first showed reluctance to follow up a New Year's Eve proposal by presenting his fraternity pin.

M. M. Simmonds, appearing as first witness for the plaintiff, testified to the intimacy between Miss Flint and Harron following their meeting at the O'Rourke Hacienda last summer. Simmonds is conductor of the Hacienda Hot Shots.

Under questioning by the junior counsel for the plaintiff, Bert McCommissey, Simmonds admitted that the pair had seemed to dance in a private paradise.

How did he know this, Defence Attorney Leitch cross-examined.

The way they danced, witness replied. "It was 'Y' dancing."

What was "Y" dancing?

Well, it was, well—could he demonstrate?

"Well, she put her arms around his neck and he put his arms around her waist and—"

What was unusual about that, Leitch wondered.

"It was awfully intimate," Simmonds asserted.

Simmonds again stated that the couple had requested the most sentimental tunes.

"Mr. Harron's favourite," Simmonds said, "was Million Dollar Baby. Now, he won't even settle for $5000."

Simmonds was unable to say definitely whether all couples making requests were in love.

Jack Shapiro next took the witness stand to report on sociological findings made while an employee at the King Cole Room. He was refused permission to take his oath on a copy of Campus which he termed "everyman's Bible".

Had he seen the couple together at the K.C.R.? "Oft-times," he replied.

Presiding Magistrate Royce Frith ruled from the bench: "For the benefit of the court reporter who learned his language within this century would the witness bring his language up to date?"

Shapiro complied.

"Often times," he said.

"You carried beer to customers at this parlour?" Junior Defence Counsel G. Moore demanded to know.

"That's a rather prosaic way of putting it but I did," Shapiro confessed.

How had he come to pay such strict attention to the conversations of Harron and Flint? "They were good tipsters."

Had he heard all their tete-a-tetes? "Just significant parts."

Miss Flint's present roommate, Barbara Tiffin, reported having watched Miss Flint's reactions after numerous telephone conversations with Harron.

"She'd skip into the room. She'd say, 'Don called... again!'"

Had Miss Tiffin ever overheard any of these conversations?

"Oh no, there isn't any extension."

"I'm not a psychologist," Miss Tiffin opined, "but I'd say they were in love."

Carl Stone, bell-boy at Götterdämmerung during the fateful week-end, reported watching the proposal speech through the keyhole of Miss Flint's room. He was tying his shoelace at the time.

"Is it a custom for bell-boys to peek through keyholes?" defence inquired.

"Well, it isn't a custom," said Stone. "It's more of a tradition."

Stone, on an official errand to Miss Flint's room—Harron had ordered a special cocktail called "The Lost Weekend"—had overheard Miss Flint exclaim: "Gee, that's what

(Continued on Page 8)

Conducts Tomorrow

Conductor of the University Symphony Orchestra, Hans Gruber will present two programs on Wednesday evenings, February 20th and 27th, in Convocation Hall. Tomorrow night the guest artist will be George Crum, pianist; and on the 27th, Eleanor Tait, organist. All students are invited.

seat from the Liberals in the Eglinton Constituency of Toronto in the last election will probably be a visitor to the debate. It is expected that Mr. Fleming will do his best to prove that Conservatism is very much alive and far from buried.

Mr. Ed Safarian will be the Speaker of the House. The motion is to be moved by R. A. Singer, S.P.S., opposed by A. L. Younger, Dent. The following two speakers will be R. Scott, Vic. and P. T. Georges, U.C.

Dr. Sidney Smith, President of the University of Toronto, also plans to attend the debate. Speaking of the Hon. Visitor Mr. Abbott, Dr. Smith said:

"I think that it was a very good thing that the Debates Committee was able to get a Cabinet Minister to attend the debate. It will engender renewed interest in debating throughout the University."

I.S.S. RECORD IN WAR
Aid in vast quantities to impoverished Chinese students and universities.

Would YOU Keep On Trying in a Lab Like This?

As intent on learning the secrets of science as any of the thousands of physics and chemistry students at the U. of T. are these eager pupils at the College of Natural Sciences, Yenan, China. I.S.S. will relieve the miserable shortage of apparatus which equips only the demonstrator, makes scientific learning entirely second-hand. Story on page 3.

Record Hour
TODAY AT 4.30 p.m.
The record program, held daily in the Women's Common Room of University College from 4.30 to 5 p.m., is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. Today's program:
Liszt—Preludes.
Ravel—Tombeau de Couperin.
Tschaiakowski—Song.
Franck—Symphonie D minor.

Ajax Tuck Shop Beats Beanery

By BOB WARREN

On Saturday Feb. 16, after nearly a month of labor, the tuck-shop at Hart House Ajax was opened to all students. This spacious new addition has brought tuck-shop facilities closer to the center of student activities, completely replacing the small snack-bar previously erected in the recreational hall.

The tuck-shop, music room and library at Ajax were designed by R. L. Derbyshire, chief architect in the Superintendent's Office of the University. The actual construction was directed by J. Shortreed, Deputy Superintendent of Ajax. The contract given to A. W. Robertson Ltd., was completed early due to the efforts of Messrs. Grieg and Stewart.

The serving-counter of the tuck-shop, which is superior to that at Hart House in Toronto, extends along the length of a whole wall, and serves refreshments ranging from grilled sandwiches to milkshakes. Fluorescent lights set off marvelously the buff-colored walls built of square board-like material. Seating accommodation is provided by benches extending along three walls of the shop. Most of the students can be accommodated at once by this arrangement.

The tuck-shop, as well as the rest of Hart house Ajax breaks with campus tradition by admitting all the nine women on the lakeside campus.

"The tuck-shop has been established to provide all students at Ajax with a convenient meeting-place where they may discuss their problems", J. A. Essery, superintendent of the division told The Varsity in an interview yesterday.

Other services at Hart House Ajax—the pressing service, the barber shop and the shoe repair shops in Building 700 are already open for business, and the library, music-room, chapel and billiard room will probably be ready in a couple of weeks.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 4T6
Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 4T8
Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
Make-up Editor.....Feg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor.....John Rooke, 4T7
News Editor.....George Forster, 4T6
Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 4T6
Assistant.....Pete Philippott
Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 4T7
Assistant.....Reg Herman, 4T6
Ajax.....Cliff Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor.....Bredin Stapells, 4T6
Assistant.....Don Mason, 4T6
Ajax.....Ed. Caldwell
Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 4T6
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 4T6
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor.....Philip Freedman, 4T6
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 4T7

Tuesday, February 19, 1946

Seeing Is Believing

"I wish I could show you exactly what I mean", said the professor sadly, "but I'll just have to describe it as best I can." That phrase, especially familiar in science classrooms, highlights the fact that many subjects are best presented visually.

A student, or anyone for that matter, can apply himself to his books until he is blue in the face, and only manage to sop up a theoretical knowledge of his subject. But if the medical student sees operations performed before his eyes, he will remember it better than if he has only read about it. Similarly, if students of French were to see folk-songs acted out to the words of the songs, they would remember them more fondly than if they had to learn them from textbooks. Anthropology students will get a better idea of West Coast Indians by seeing them in their native setting enacting their Potlatching ceremonies, than any textbook.

All of which leads up to the question: Why has the University of Toronto no film library? Such Canadian universities as Queen's, Manitoba, British Columbia, Alberta, McGill, and Saskatchewan are beginning to supplement their classes with visual aid. Manitoba and Saskatchewan, in fact, started five years ago. They have movie libraries which handle cases of film in the same manner as our library handles books. Films are used in both extension and regular classes, and reputedly help all students greatly.

Films are available—many of them in color—made expressly to illustrate topics in economics, geography, geology, Physics, chemistry, political science, art, sculpture, music, and painting. It seems a great pity that they cannot be made available to this University.

Cost? To start such a film library would cost approximately $10,000; less than one dollar per student.

However, the advantages to the students far outweigh any cost. A central screening room, a room for the library, a projector, a projectionist and a librarian are all that is required. For a start, a stock of films may be obtained on an extended loan basis from the National Film Board of Canada, and from the National Film Society.

On this foundation can be built a larger collection of films. Periodically, the National Film Board will send out to the various libraries lists of available new films, these films can be previewed, and if desired can be bought for the library.

New films, while more expensive than new books, are surprisingly cheap. Fifty dollars will buy a film lasting some fifteen minutes, illustrating, say, every detail in an operation in Kodachrome, that can be used for years to illustrate that operation to hundreds of students. Thus, a comparatively small annual output will keep the library stocked with new and up-to-date films on every subject. Later a second projector could be purchased so that the films could be screened in classrooms.

Through the National Film Board and the National Film Society, films from other countries can be procured. A catalogue issued by the Film Board has 131 pages tightly crammed with the films available, listing them under the various headings of Agriculture, Consumer Education (art, health, history and public records, human geography, industries and resources, nature study, scenic) Social Planning, Sport, and War (armed services, war experiences, war and industry, world and war fronts). Many of these are more or less duplicated in French versions; and there are some French "Chantes Populaires" illustrated by animated cartoons as well.

This list, now rendered incomplete by the ever-increasing number of films being produced all the time, covers an amazing field, and it is easy to see that university students could benefit greatly by their use. It is still more amazing that the University of Toronto has not yet a film library.

— M. G. B.

One of the least-known secrets of the University is the intricate series of escape mechanisms provided for administrative officials who wish to ship out of their offices for coffee without being seen.

For the President of the University two escape routes are provided. The simplest is an Arab costume which hangs in the inner office and is disguised by zip covers to look an academic gown. Pulling this on, affixing the beard from the Chancellor's Santa Claus outfit, and blacking his face quickly with a sheet of carbon paper, the President backs out of his office door salaaming and mumbling "Per Berber ad Barber" or "May the Peace of the Thousand Scimitars Descend Upon Thee". He is thus mistaken by visitors for Prince Bulbus ab Domes of Afghanistan coming to see about an honorary degree.

A second device, for use when the President has not time to wash his face again afterward, consists of a trap-door in the office floor leading into the mail-chute of the University Post Office immediately below.

Climbing into a mail-bag which latches from the inside, the President drops into the sorting-room and is delivered by the Postoffice truck to the nearest coffee-shop. By an ancient tradition, the truck-driver receives a special fee of three shillings sixpence for this duty.

A more complicated escape-route was built into Hart House by the architects for the convenience of the Warden. Sliding aside, with the aid of a secretary, the copy of De-brett's Peerage on the mantelpiece, the Warden presses a concealed button which floods the outer office with a harmless green gas capable of causing great discomfort to visitors, who retreat into the hallway under explanations that the place is receiving the annual fumigation enjoined in the Deed of Gift.

With the outer office thus cleared, the Warden is able without observation to climb into a filing cabinet labelled "Tape-Crimson" which houses a concealed elevator descending to the theatre, from which it is but a step through a secret door to the supply room of the Tuck Shop, where he gorges himself from a private store. A phonograph playing selections from "How I Planned D-Day" from behind the closed door contributes to the impression that he is still in his office.

The General Secretary-Treasurer of the S.A.C. escapes when subjected to intolerable pressure by crawling into his office safe, which has a rear door opening into the adjoining S.C.M. office. Snatching from a niche a special clerical collar, he proceeds gracefully down the hall in the direction of the chapel chanting from an illuminated volume the Introit for Paschal Time, followed by a stenographer disguised as a bride who receives a special stipend for her part in the plot.

Detouring through the Great Hall, he plants the clerical disguise behind a radiator, where a janitor is waiting to return it to the S.C.M. office. Taking the janitor's broom, he descends to the Tuck Shop, collecting as he goes empty coke-bottles which he exchanges for his cup of coffee. Return is managed by a similar route, picking up the stenographer again at the chapel and leading her back through the S.C.M. office while "Here Comes the Bride" is played by attendants on harmonicas.

A bicycle concealed in the basement of the stacks is the key to the escape route of the University Librarian. Riding it up and down at such a speed as to bewilder browsers, he hoots the siren vigorously until an assistant appears via the elevator to enjoin silence.

Scooping her up on the hand-bars, the Librarian then rides into the open elevator, ascends to the attic, makes a left turn at the Art Room corridor and a right turn beside the graduate seminar; thence descends by a tunnel into a crypt where the back files of The Varsity are kept, leaps into a handy air-shaft which once housed the dumb-waiter installed in 1869 to bring up breakfast to the mysterious old lady who lived for years in semi-seclusion amid the books on Dialectical Materialism; and what happens to him after that we neither know nor care.

LIGHT UP AND Work

It's amazing how the smoking of a Sweet Cap. gives pleasure to the task and makes those study hours fly.

Bank on a Sweet Cap for satisfaction—anywhere... anytime! And when you tune in

"LIGHT UP AND LISTEN" WITH

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES

Station CKEY — CJBC
9.30 p.m.—Every Thursday Night

S. C. M. CALENDAR

(Keep For Reference)

Tues., 3.00 p.m.—Room 101, Biology Bldg.

"The Purpose of Healing" Rev. D. C. Candy

Wed., 1.30 p.m.—Victoria College Chapel

"Implications of Our Faith" Rev. Finlay

Thurs., 1.30 p.m.—Trinity Board Room

5.00 p.m.—Upstairs, Women's Union

"What Do You Believe?" Rev. D. C. Candy

Sun., 8.00 p.m.—Women's Union

Coffee PartyStudents are sick and hungry!Students are dispossessed!Students need supplies!

HELP THEM!

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICE

Hart House Bulletin Board

Informal Recital

Harold Wardell (IV S.P.S.), baritone, will give an informal recital in the east common room at 1.30 p.m. today. Harold Belshaw will be at the piano.

Glee Club

The last regular rehearsal of the Glee Club for this year will be held in the music room at 5.00 p.m. to-day. At this time tickets will be distributed to the members for the Sunday Evening Concert on Sunday next; and the elections for next year's committee will take place.

POLLING HOURS—4.30-5.00 AND 6.00-6.15.

Talk in the Art Gallery

Professor H. R. MacCallum will review the Undergraduate Exhibition in the art gallery at 1.30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Hart House Debate

The final debate of the present academic term will be held in the Debates Room on Wednesday 20th February. The subject for debate is "This House resolves that Canadian Conservatism is not only dead but buried." The Hon. Douglas C. Abbott, Minister of National Defence, will be present as Hon. Visitor.

Members proposing to stand for election to the Debates Committee are reminded that in order to qualify for nomination they must have spoken at least once from the floor of the House. This is your last opportunity to speak in a Hart House Debate this term.

Women Lack Facilities For Sports Activities

By Polly Mutz

Facilities now available for women's sports are inadequate, dangerous, and in some cases non-existent. The only accommodations that are at all satisfactory are those bought and paid for by the Athletic Association outside the campus, such as bowling, riding and skiing.

Lillian Massey building is the nominal centre of all women's athletics. The gymnasium is unsafe for most sports because of the rows of pillars flanking each side. It is undersized, and thus the rules for the volleyball games must be altered to meet this condition. Most sports-women must practice and play elsewhere as this space is only available between physical training class hours.

The number of teams in basketball is limited due to a lack of facilities. The intercollegiate team have found it necessary to practice at the Eglinton Hunt Club. Available when not being used by the men, the little Vic. gym, unheated, and with no dressing rooms, is their temporary refuge. O.C.E. offers their gym, for a price, when the O.C.E. team is not taking it over.

To give the students housing for badminton, the S.A.C. yearly pays large sums to rent St. Paul's Church courts for three hours, three afternoons a week. Here also the co-ed's interests must take a back seat to the primary needs of the congregation of the church. There are one and a half tennis courts, St. Hilda's and a share of Vics.

Arrangements are made with the Midtown Bowling Alleys to provide Varsity women with afternoon space for bowling. Volleyball teams are limited as the hours conceded by the Lillian Massey gym are small in number. Women's hockey teams owe their existence to the few hours which can be squeezed in between the men's games.

The only swimming pool women have the right to use is the oversized bathtub at the Household Science building. There is a lack of depth and width and breadth making diving too dangerous, and a swimming competition out of the question. Baseball is only plausible when and where free grounds can be discovered. Usually the Trinity fields are enlisted.

Provisions for bowling, badminton and skiing are made possible by the women's share of the Athletic fees paid by every student, and turned over to the Athletic Association. A certain proportion of the Athletic fees is paid out to keep the athletic wing of Hart House open at night. That same proportion of the fees is turned over to the women, which pays for the bowling, badminton and skiing. From the total athletic, the ski grounds and affiliations with golf and riding clubs and free skating at the Arena plus admission to football and hockey games are provided by the University Athletic Association.

Engineers' Group To Listen to Webb

Mr. John Webb of London, authority on International Affairs and former editor of several biographical publications, will address a meeting of the Engineering Society in Convocation Hall Thursday.

Former Chairman of the British Empire Movement for Health and Culture, Mr. Webb will speak on "How Men and Boys Become Successful". Arrangements for Mr. Webb's address were originally made by students in the new Engineering and Business course who are forming their own clubs. Feeling that the address would be of widespread interest they decided to have the meeting sponsored by the Engineering Society and open to all members of the University.

Mr. Webb will speak at 4:00 p.m.

Coming Events

HUMANIST CLUB

The Humanist Club Study Group will discuss "Humanism and General Chisholm" Wednesday, Feb. 20, Room 24, Engineering Building.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB

Prof. Thorsten Sellin, noted American Criminologist, of the Department of Sociology, University of Pennsylvania, will speak to the Sociology Club on "Crime in the Post-War World" Wednesday, Feb. 27, in Wymilwood, 8:15 p.m.

Help—Students recover from the war. Help—Build student life in Peacetime.—I.S.S.

The

VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 86

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Tuesday, February 19, 1946

Chinese Set Up Classrooms In Caves Following Epic Cross-country Migration

Pictured above is a great University. It hasn't a Gothic doorway; nor even a door. It hasn't hardwood flooring or electric lights or any kind of respectable library.

It contains dormitories, however, and classrooms, professors, and eager students. It's in northwest China.

Perhaps it's not there any more. Perhaps, in the closing days of the war, Japanese bombers droned overhead again, to seal its arches and bring its cave roofs crashing. If so, the students were undaunted. They picked up their meagre baggage and trekked again over the hills to a new site, newer and grimmer caves, deeper in the mountain fastnesses.

For eight years, Chinese Universities were perpetually on the move in this way. With the opening of the war with Japan in 1937, enemy bombers promptly and deliberately bombed several universities within easy range on the Eastern coast. Within the opportunist rules of war, they were right: for the universities were centres of Chinese resistance, and creators of her national leadership.

Promptly the students cabled International Student Service in Geneva. The appeal for funds brought aid from the U.S., Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, even from France in 1940.

And with those funds to back them, the students of China began their epic trek inland. Their buildings seized or destroyed, the universities refused to give up; in one of the greatest cultural migrations in the history of civilization, students and professors moved to the hinterland, trekking painfully overland on foot, with university equipment consisting only of what could be carried along as hand baggage.

In China's great Southwest and Northwest, colleges slowly got under way again. Some found hospitable western camp; others set themselves up in old temples or family halls; still others improvised structures of thatch and mud; and in the loess country of the Northwest, universities hollowed classrooms and dormitories out of the hillsides and established themselves in caves.

Campus life is no fun in the caves; dark, damp and airless, they lower students' resistance to disease. Flickering lamps burning expensive vegetable oil furnish the only light for late-night study. Miles, perhaps hundreds of miles, from the nearest doctor, the student lives under the constant threat of crippling illness; penniless and in any case remote from sources of clothing, he patches and repatches his worn rags. Yet he carries on because he must. The thirst for knowledge, and the ancient Chinese tradition of respect for knowledge, compel him to stick to his studies.

When the I.S.S. campaign is launched on Thursday, Toronto students will have the opportunity to pay tribute to the Chinese student's indomitable spirit; and to send him money to alleviate his lack of comfort, of clothes, of medical aid, of warmth and shelter.

Hornet Stricken As Buses Bulge

The much needed Rapid Transit Scheme, undertaken by the Engineering Society at Ajax, battled with near zero weather and heavy gales, as it made its debut Friday. Eight buses were dispatched between 4:10 and 4:20, followed by four more at 6:15 Sunday night coaches left the Bay Street Terminal, between ten and eleven, the moment they were full.

The project is now in charge of Phil Kevill, who can be seen wandering around muttering to himself, as he counts his hourly crop of fresh gray hair. "For the first day things went pretty well", moaned Phil between sneezes, "but I wish people would purchase their tickets as early in the week as possible, so that we will have a fighting chance to make the necessary arrangements." Tickets will be sold in the new Tuck shop, which is located in the south-west corner of Hart House.

The only major snag occurred around five o'clock, when about fifty commuters were left stranded. The "Green Hornet", a versatile vehicle with well over two thousand operational trips logged, four Model T's, a Model A, six Chevs and a Plymouth to its credit, was forced down due to engine trouble.

After watching the frozen Commuters climb frigidly aboard the 6:10, Supervisor Cook of Gray Coach seemed reasonably satisfied with the arrangements. "We expected snags, and on the whole plans turned out very well. By next week, when everybody learns of the new arrangements, I think that our service will be extremely satisfactory."

Leisurely Breakfast For Hungry Kansans

Lawrence, Feb. 18.—(CUP)—Students at the University of Kansas can now enjoy a leisurely 10 o'clock breakfast in the Union Cafeteria. Sunday meals too will be served for the first time in the history of the cafeteria and breakfast on Sunday will commence at the unheard of hour of nine o'clock and continue until 10:30. "These changes have been made to accommodate the increased enrollment and because it has been increasingly difficult for students to find a place to eat on Sunday," Miss Hermina Zipple, Union Director, explained.

The cafeteria will open at 7:30 a.m. as usual Monday through Saturday. The breakfast hour will end at 10 o'clock and lunch will be served from 11:30 to 1 p.m. Week-day dinner hours will remain the same and are from 5 to 8:30 p.m.

The Union even boasts a snack bar and soda fountain, the former of which is open to those who wish to avoid the noon rush and the latter of which satiates the thirst from 8:30 to 5:30.

PLEDGE FOR PEACE

- University reconstruction.
- Rehabilitation of students.
- Food relief; work relief.
- International scholarships.
- Warm clothing and bedding.
- Prisoner of war relief.
- Emergency grants.
- International student conferences.

"Light Pool" Answer To Students' Eyestrain

Improvisation to meet special needs is the peculiar genius of the Student Relief Committee in China.

One committee found students suffering from eyestrain, studying by the light of vegetable oil lamps which emitted light of poor quality at great expense.

The committee's answer was a "light pool". Each student paid only one-eighth as much as he had previously paid for oil, and a kerosene pressure lamp was rented and hung in a room in which forty students could study.

Several committees have provided inexpensive breakfasts for students, where university dining halls provided only two meals a day.

Another committee organized a group of women students who mended the clothing of the men students.

Whatever the problem, they'll think of an answer in China. But they need your help.

Euclid is universally valid, and Chinese students wrestle with geometry problems just as do their Canadian brethren. These seekers after mathematical truth are listening to a lecture at an out-door class in the cave country of China's northwest.

These Co-eds To Compete For Campus Queen Crown

JUNE ALLAN, Winnipeg's contribution to the School of Nursing, wears an S.P.S. button belonging to a mechanical engineer. Question: "Do you realize that when your picture is printed with your phone number under it, that poor old mechanical type will be in for all kinds of competition?"

Answer: "That would be interesting for a change!" So, JU 7371 brings a beautiful green-eyed red-head to the phone, whose 5'5" likes men with a sense of humor and doesn't think looks are essential.

She's going to be a Public Health Nurse but lies awake nights dreaming of being married.

PEGGY LOFTHOUSE is a broad-minded Physiotherapist from Kenora with soft raven-black hair, soft doe-brown eyes and a soft shapely-built 5'3".

Peggy wants to practice physiotherapy when she graduates but doesn't want to do it forever. She's heard there are other things in life.

Experienced in the art of men, she says she has no specifications for a dream man, but uses "the trial and error method." WA 4508 is definitely a very busy number.

DOROTHY KUBIS is another green-eyed blonde, but of the American variety. She's a Pass Arts freshe from Detroit, in Loretto College.

Dot wants a large family, to be arranged some time after she finishes her course. She believes in being social, but it depends on the guy. Right now she's almost going steady, although she maintains there's still a chance for some other wolver with a certain "savoir faire".

Her ideal man must be male and an extrovert.

NATALIE STARON is free-lancing in love, because she doesn't believe in going steady while still in Meds (III year). She's 21, 5' 4" and an ex-chorine—she was in the Daffydil chorus.

Born in Poland, Natalie has lived in Hogtown 16 years—as a result of the combination she believes in the Book of Fate, "Let the chips fall where they may". She firmly claims that marriage and career can be combined, even if she has to support her husband!

The key to Natalie's romanticism is soft music and fire-places.

MARIA HORTENSIA MOYA is Costa Rica's delegate to Pass Arts and Loretto College. Her 100 lbs. is well-balanced in 5' 3" of female. There is a delightful trace of accent, but she learned English in just one year in Canada.

Maria wears a Dents pin but is still spreading international good-will around, and when international good-will goes with a green-eyed blonde it's easy to take. She only wants to be married once, but aside from that she's very broad-minded. However, so far she hasn't lost any week-ends.

MARION FARR'S mother doesn't know she smokes, but as a soda-jerk in Hamilton Marion learned that life can be more beautiful in Toronto and so she entered Pharmacy here.

Auburn hair, gray-green eyes, 5' 8", 21 years old, willing and eager to learn, but likes her dates around 24. She is definitely still looking the field over, especially in Toronto, which she prefers to Hamilton.

KI 4845 brings to the phone a girl who likes to meet people.

NANCY WARBURTON accepts all dates, but this policy keeps her very busy, because brunettes like Nancy don't grow on trees. In fact, you'll only find her 5' 5" in the P. & H.E. freshman class, from whence she is looking forward to doing YWCA work.

She wants a small family, but intends to wait until after marriage to arrange it. Besides that, she plans to do it with only one guy, who still remains in the distant future. (Of course, she hasn't met you!) She had to be talked into P. & H.E. but now she finds it's a good builder-upper.

"TAFFY" TATE is a luscious blue-eyed blonde. Her classic shape reaches 5' 6" and just went through a strip-tease act with an RCMP uniform. She was a corporal and was stationed on the West and then the East coast, but she's happier as a civilian.

"Taffy's Physiotherapy personality is definitely engaging—so much so that she has a great, enormous, tremendous hunk of diamond on the finger. Ah, well, there's more than one W.D. in the sea.

ANN POPE doesn't believe in going steady but this 5' 3" Windsor red-head with the dark-brown (Continued on Page 5)

University Symphony Orchestra

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

Hans Gruber, Conductor

Will Present

TWO CONCERTS

—at—

CONVOCAATION HALL

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 20th.

GEORGE CRUM, Pianist

Guest Artist

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist

Guest Artiste

smoke the mild
cigarette

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. (West of University Ave.)

ALL THIS WEEK

Evgs. (8:20). Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

THE NATIONAL COMPANY OF BROADWAY'S CURRENT DRAMATIC SMASH HIT

"GO SEE IT!" -WALTER WINCHELL

DEEP ARE THE ROOTS

Box Office Open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Evgs. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00

Wed. Mat. 50c - $1.20 - $1.80

Sat. Mat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 (All Tax Included)

ELLIS McLINTOCK, His Trumpet and His Orchestra

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23rd., IN THE SPACIOUS COMFORT OF THE ROYAL YORK CONCERT HALL

Dancing 9-12

Tickets $1.00 Each on Sale at Door

CUPISO

Surrender Sovereignty

A CUP Feature
Conducted by the Queen's Journal
Sacrifice of some of Canada's national sovereignty in favour of a world-wide peace body is supported by a large majority of university students across the Dominion.
This was learned during the latest Canadian University Press Institute of Student Opinion survey. Over 2,400 students at eight universities were asked the following questions, with the results as indicated:

Do you feel that Canada should be willing to sacrifice some national sovereignty to an armed world organization?

Yes 69.7%
No 21.1%
Undecided 9.2%

Queen's University was unique in its feeling that the Dominion should not make such a move: only 39 percent answered affirmatively. At U of British Columbia, however, the opposite was true: 87 percent polled in the affirmative.

Students at the 11,000-strong U of Toronto voiced objections to use of the word "armed" in the question, but felt that such a policy was generally desirable.

Greatest faculty support anywhere in the country came from U of Alberta, where 92 percent of the education faculty voted "Yes". The remaining eight percent were undecided.

A comparatively high number of pollees at U of Western Ontario and McGill University was unable to reach any decision, both the Western Gazette and McGill Daily finding that 16 percent of their undergraduates were undecided. Some Western students claimed the query was poorly worded.

Only one percent of U of Saskatchewan's and U of New Brunswick's students were approached; but in each case the result was affirmative. Some 75 percent at Saskatchewan and 60 percent at UNB were in that category.

'ANGLES'

... TYPICAL COED CONTEST ...

at least three weeks. Without slides, many men are frequently forced to resort to the use of Cook's Variable Constant. This elusive value was last seen in the vicinity of (0.3), leading west, and totting an "asympt" under each arm.

Despite adverse criticism, the Green Hornet is still appearing once in a while on the highway, speeding along at its usual rate, approaching five miles an hour downhill with a tail wind. Rumour has it that the Engineering Society is going to pack it full of perpendicular planes and push it off the Rouge River Bridge.

Boxing, wrestling, tumbling and weight-lifting enthusiasts should now be in their glory, having received notice that Bldg. 213 is now open for business. At the same time we hear that the chess club has been allocated quarters in Hart House. Right around here George tells us that both places are good for developing your chess.

—Joe.

ANITA BEATON wants to get married twice to carry out a tea-cup reading (she's superstitious) so she figured the practical thing to do would be to enter Pre-Meds and learn the facts of life.

She's an upswep blonde with sophisticated freckles who reaches 5' 4" of Johnny Mercer's 'Personality'. Anita is a study-bug to the extent of limiting her dates to three or four a week. Her ideal date has to like open fire-places and she figures that when she meets him thrills will run up and down her spine and bells will go ping.

RUTH MILLER is a Dental Nurse with blue eyes and a crown of honey-brown hair on her 5' 5". Her cheeks glow, her eyes sparkle, and her smile bewitches.

Just one week ago she doth took upon her left finger third hand a symbol of a fact which leads one to believe that henceforth she is sort of out of circulation. It seems Ruthie believes in love and marriage both. Her beau is not a dentist.

JEAN MACDONALD (small 'd') has golden hair, blue eyes and is in first year Pass at Vic. What more could one ask?

She doesn't want to be a career woman — "Heavens no!" — in fact she thinks marriage is quite the thing. Her ideal man is (1) tall (2) athletic type rather than intellectual (3) sense of humor (4) preferably brown eyes. Why? "Oh — I like brown eyes!" But the stringent specifications don't hamper Jean's frequent dating schedule.

She was on Eaton's Junior Fashion Council with last year's typical co-ed, Joan Cameron. Wonder who picks 'em for Eaton's?

C.U.P. Flashes

Montreal—At the dedication of the McGill Hillel Foundation home. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise explained the term "Hillel".

"It means," he said, "the expression of the result of young people to ally themselves and become part of the ethical and spiritual forces of the American Jewish life." The audience included representatives of the S.C.M., Newman Club, J.V.C.F., and McGill.

Montreal—By acclamation a six-man provisional committee was elected to frame the NFCUS constitution and co-act as the executive body until a permanent committee was elected.

INFORMAL RECITAL

Harold Wardell (IV S.P.S.), baritone, will give the informal recital in the east common room of Hart House at 1:30 p.m. today with Frank Belshaw at the piano. The programme will be as follows:
Glorious Devon ... Edward German
Trade Winds ... Frederick Keel
Hullabaloo-Belay ... Sea Lemon
My Ain Folk ... Laura Lemon
Deep River ... arr. Burleigh
Begin the Beguine ... Cole Porter

Whitney Girls Dance at Ajax

Residence 734, Ajax held a dance Thursday evening with guests from Whitney Hall, the Ajax Women's Residence, and Whitby.

Despite Pickering Creek overflowing across the highway, the bus from Toronto reached the Ajax campus by 8:30 and the dance was soon in full swing. Half way through the evening donuts and cokes were served and enjoyed. Couples then returned to more of that music by Boillie-Wilmut.

Mike McAuliffe, mayor of Ajax, took advantage of a break in the music to announce the grand Skunk-Tail contest to be held this week and promised to count the tails personally.

Manni Weir of Whitney Hall summed up the evening by saying "Ajax men are rugged."

Gwen Chant called it "the best dance 734 has yet held."

Complete satisfaction with the result of his work, was expressed by Roy Clark, house social representative, who gave the credit for such a successful party to his assistants who aided in the decoration of the common room.

Ajax Rumblings

Sometime ago there was a rumor going around that the residences would acquire or choose individualistic names to supplement the meaningless numbers. Whether or not this rumor was well founded, we would still like to see the idea take shape. How about it, Mike?

The Intramural Basketball schedule is now in its third week. The brand of ball played is becoming better each night and hard fought games were played Monday and Tuesday. Those who found time to watch one or two enjoyed them.

Gwen Scott of the Engineering Society store tells us that more slide rules will not be forthcoming for

Co-eds To Compete

(Continued from Page 4)

eyes doesn't have any date problem in the queen city.

In Occupational Therapy, Ann has developed a laissez-faire policy that brings this answer to the specifications for her ideal man: "None. Once you start having specifications it's too late. However, almost anything may apply if he has a pleasant personality."

If you want to know what laissez-faire means, dial KI 0642.

The Students' Choice:
BLOOR TAXI
LIMITED
Sub-station at
HARBORD and ST. GEORGE
RA. 5151
Switchboard connecting all branches
ALSO GENERAL REPAIRS
AND TOWING

IF YOU EVER LOVED A CHILD
THIS PICTURE IS FOR YOU!
"Once There Was a Girl"
A New Kind of Russian Film
Presented by L.A.S. English Titles
ON THE SAME PROGRAM
"GOLDEN SLIPPERS"
Excerpt from CHAIKOVSKY'S
Opera "Chereviki"
NOW SHOWING
Doors Open 5:45 P.M.
VICTORY THEATRE
Spadina at Dundas

CANADA PACKERS OPERATIC SOCIETY
PRESENTS
A GILBERT & SULLIVAN WEEK
BOTH OPERAS BY PERMISSION
OF RUPERT D'OLY CARTE
AT EATON AUDITORIUM
THE GONDOLIERES
EVENINGS FEB. 25th 26th 27th AT 8.15 P.M.
MATINEE MARCH 2nd AT 2.30 P.M.
AND UTOPIA
LIMITED
EVENINGS FEB. 28th MAR. 1st 2nd AT 8.15 P.M.
TICKETS ON SALE AT EATON AUDITORIUM
AND AT CANADA PACKERS
NET PROCEEDS IN AID OF THE SAVE THE CHILDREN FUND

Neilson's
Neilson's BURNT ALMOND
DELICIOUS DARK CHOCOLATE with ROASTED ALMONDS
B245U

Speaking OF SPORT

By Bredin Stapells

The Arch Rivals . . .

"A double loss over the week end would eliminate the Redmen from the champion race, while a twine victory would just about clinch first place for the Red Raiders." The above quotation from the McGill Daily was a wistful summary of the week end hopes for the Redmen in the senior intercollegiate basketball loop. They suffered a double loss. Need we say anymore?

But in the hockey circles, McGill cannot be disposed of so easily—yet! Your Varsity Blues and those Redmen are still tied for top place with eight points apiece. Both teams during the week pushed ahead equally, dealing out heavy blows to Queens, 6-0 and 14-0 respectively.

Neither of these top teams have received a defeat up to date, and the battle unto death will commence here on home ice next Friday the 22nd. That this little session at Varsity Arena will be the hottest edition of hockey we've seen this year, is a mild piece of under statement. So forget the cat and mouse game the boys had with Queens—pray do.

Intermediate Pucksters . . .

We have a new intercollegiate squad to follow now, namely the Intermediates—otherwise known as the Junior Blues. There is no change in the line up, only a change in name, and a new series, the first of this schedule was a game against McMaster, wherein the lads picked up a 7-5 victory on the ice, but almost got beaten up by the McMaster supporters, having, as usual, no Varsity men to chase these uncouth bums off. The Toronto martyrs managed to escape with their pants anyway.

A return visit is slated for to-night. Do you honestly think it is safe Mr. Stevens to send our innocent men down into the home of these rabble rousers? Oh—by the way—have all the painters gone into retirement 'till next fall? Get that evil look out of your eye, Sportsed . . . what would Kidney say!

About People and Things . . .

Not satisfied with the return of Big Babe Pratt to the Leaf's lineup, the boys of the Gardens are really hot after eligible new blood. And why not? All our downtown associates—Oh, what we said—have been giving those back stovers the hot seat, one might say, for the failure to do same. My, my, the power of the press really counts, after all.

The fact of the matter is that Wally Halder has been placed on the negotiations list of our noted downtown Stanley Cup chasers. This is not to be confused with the reserve list, which means that the player has received money from the club, and hence becomes the property of that club.

Only four men are allowed to be entered on such a list by each team. The next step, as we understand it, is that the boys start bickering about salaries and other such mundane matters. We wish all the best to Wally in this deal, and only hope the Leafs receive half the hockey he gave to us, and at that, he will be under paid.

Harve Spence is still in the Hospital recovering we hope, from his serious eye injury. The doctors are optimistic about the eye, although there is a slight chance of some permanent damage caused by the hemorrhage. Harve has been champing at the bit all year to get behind those pads. This, unfortunately, was not his lucky day. Frankly, we don't know how the team can function without him—he has all the money!

Warren Winslow and Ted McLean, at present on the Memorial Cup repeating champions St. Mike's, are at this oldie University, registered, naturally enough at St. Mike's.

McCready of Leaf's fame is now at Ajax, refereeing only due to his professional standing.

BEAT MCGILL FRIDAY

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

WE PLAY HOST

This February 23 . . . Saturday . . . marks the beginning of the first women's Intercollegiate meet since '41. On Saturday, swimming teams from five colleges will compete for the first post-war title in the series of women's sports. Queen's, McGill, Western and McMaster will be the guests of Varsity.

However, this year's affair will bear only a slight resemblance to the pre-war meet. All visiting teams must provide for their own accommodations, whereas in former years each visitor was billeted in different women's residences. The usual frequent and ornate entertaining is also vetoed. What is left . . . only the bare essentials . . . the meet proper in Hart House pool, which should be an interesting spectacle . . . the drawing card of the last Athletic Nite.

BASKETBALL BRIEF

Tonight the Varsity basketball team will play a practice game versus the University interfaculty champion team—P.H.E. II. This show at the Eglington Hunt Club is for the purpose of taking off the ragged edges of the Varsity team . . . as each player is individually a champion, but needs coaching in the art of playing with her team mates. The Varsity team had better hustle . . . they travel to Montreal on March 8.

. . . Only one member of the interfaculty winning team was transferred from the Phys. Eds. to the intercollegiate.

Varsity Hockey Supremacy Here, Says Affable Trainer of Blues

Choose Sr. Fencers For McGill Match

A week's interfaculty fencing competitions were completed yesterday and as a result, a four-man team has been selected to carry the Blue and White colors against McGill next Saturday night in Hart House. Three types of bouts were fought last night, foil, epee, and sabre. The winner of each of these divisions secured a place for himself on the Varsity Senior Fencing Team.

This year the Senior team representing the University will be made up of four men instead of the usual three. Three of the four are the best in their field. Captaining the fencers will be Keith Conn of 11 S.P.S., an ex-naval Lieutenant. Dick Thomson, 11 Vic., and Ajax lecturer Rottenberg, last year's foil-champ, will make up the team's special lists. The fourth man, chosen from his showing in the interfaculty bouts, will be Gillespie.

An Intermediate Fencing team of Stanborough (Capt.), Mill and Winter are to face the O.A.C. and Western weapon-wielders in future foil bouts. The boys have already two exhibitions with Wayne U. knoched on their sword handles and should be pretty "keen".

Ajax Schedules

BOWLING
Group 3
Tues., Feb. 19—
6.15 p.m.—1 & 2—736A vs Com. B.
6.15 p.m.—3 & 4—721 vs Com. A.
7.15 p.m.—3 & 4—734A vs 737A.
Group 4
Tues., Feb. 19—
5.15 p.m.—1 & 2—723B vs 725B.
5.15 p.m.—3 & 4—724B vs 727B.
Group 5
Tues., Feb. 19—
7.15 p.m.—1 & 2—728B vs 732B.
8.15 p.m.—1 & 2—729B vs 731B.
8.15 p.m.—3 & 4—730B vs 733B.
Group 6
Tues., Feb. 19—
9.15 p.m.—1 & 2—734B vs 723C.
9.15 p.m.—3 & 4—736B vs 722C.
Group 7
Wed., Feb. 20—
5.15 p.m.—1 & 2—737B vs 724C.
Group 8
Wed., Feb. 20—
5.15 p.m.—3 & 4—722D vs 731C.
6.15 p.m.—1 & 2—723D vs 730D.
6.15 p.m.—3 & 4—725D vs 732C.
Group 9
Wed., Feb. 20—
7.15 p.m.—1 & 2—722E vs 728D.
7.15 p.m.—3 & 4—733E vs 727C.
8.15 p.m.—1 & 2—726C vs 729D.
Group 10
Thurs., Feb. 21—
7.15 p.m.—3 & 4—723E vs 734C.
9.15 p.m.—1 & 2—730E vs 733C.
9.15 p.m.—3 & 4—731D vs 737D.
Group 11
Thurs., Feb. 21—
6.15 p.m.—1 & 2—723F vs 732D.
6.15 p.m.—3 & 4—730F vs 733D.
7.15 p.m.—1 & 2—734D vs 736D.
Group 12
Wed., Feb. 20—
8.15 p.m.—3 & 4—738 vs 732E.
9.15 p.m.—1 & 2—738 vs 732E.
Group 13
Thurs., Feb. 21—
8.15 p.m.—1 & 2—723G vs 738.
9.15 p.m.—3 & 4—736E vs 738.

Joe Carruthers Speaks

By Don Coles

"It's really too bad," said Joe "they're always had such great teams other years . . ."

The speaker was Joe Carruthers, trainer par excellence of Varsity hockey and rugby teams for the past 26 years, and he was referring to the 1946 edition of McGill's hockey team. In view of the Redmen's record—two wins over the U. of M. plus a 14-0 shellacking administered to the Tricolor from Kingston—his remark seemed somewhat puzzling.

"?????", we asked, and our query elicited the information that Joe's opinion of McGill's ice ability was purely physisic. "This year they're not in the Quebec league as formerly—that used to give them lots of confidence and experience." Anyway, he thought we'd beat them . . . he hoped.

"The Blues have always had trouble with McGill," quoth Joe. "Even back in the days when we played all our home games in the Mutual St. arena. We played Saturday afternoons, and there were always six or seven thousand spectators in the stands."

We guessed that Joe had seen a lot of changes since he took over as trainer-masseur-father confessor for the U. of T's hockey hopefuls. "Yes," he mused "I don't know what the game's coming to. This redline business, y'know . . . The old rules made for better passing combos, four men handling the puck in the opposing end zone before shooting."

Why, down in Michigan and at West Point we played without a centre stripe at all—relays could be made from one end zone right up to the other blue line. "What did Joe think of the cadets—as players, as men?"

"Strictly amateurs. But they played the game straight—no penalties at all. And as for personality—they're gentlemen, all gentlemen."

Our affable informant thought that this year's team was "very good, very promising." Dick Ball, in Joe's considered opinion, is the class of intercollegiate goalies. "He keeps his feet—that's the thing." Another "comer" is Sonny Kryzanowski, who, says Joe, will be a star in a year or two.

Wally Halder?—"Good, good. No, I don't think he's the bet I've ever known. There was a fellow here in . . . let me see . . . 1927 or '28—Lou Hudson, right winger, centre, anywhere but goal. He had everything Halder has—brains, versatility, playmaking ability—and he also had speed, terrific speed." Hudson, it seems, had pro' offers, turned 'em all down. Only two ex-Varsityites have ever made the N.H.L. They are Dave Trotter, who played for years with the now-defunct Montreal Maroons, and Bobby Copp, of recent Leafian fame.

We asked Joe what has been the most thrilling encounter he had witnessed.

"Well," he reminisced "I could say the four games series with Vancouver back in the twenties. The issue rested on the final game which Varsity won after thirty minutes overtime." His amazing memory brought forth the information that one Ross Taylor had scored the all-important goal which gave the Canadian championship to our (and, spiritually speaking, Joe's) alma mater.

And that reminded him, did we know that a Varsity Grads team had won the Olympic championship at St. Moritz, Switzerland, in 1928? "I had to stay here in Toronto with the other Blue team while Conny (Conny Smythe, coach) and the rest of the boys went to Europe", lamented Joe.

He brightened up when we asked him if that world champion team was the best he had ever looked after. No, it was not.

"The squad coached by Dr. Dafoe and Frank Carroll in 1922 was the best—but definitely. Bill Carson, Eddie Wright, George Westman . . . he remembered them all. "Unde-feated champs that year, we were." Carson, Eddie Wright, George Westman . . . he remembered them all. "Unde-feated champs that year, we were."

It seems that Hap Day, of the late lamented Leafs, is a product of a Blue team. La Day left midway through the season to join the city's second-best outfit.

Another distinguished alumnus is Lester Pearson, Canadian ambassador to Washington, who managed teams in 27 of these grads (hey opinion of both of these grads (hey PHARMACY, Pearson—VICTORIA), and we'll bet that the feeling is mutual.

To get back to 1946 and reality, we asked our friend (it doesn't take long to become a convert to Joe's affability) what he thought of Toronto's present catch, ex-NHL'er Ace Bailey.

"Tops. He's the best we've ever had", said the trainer. Under Bailey, the Varsity sextet won the intercollegiate trophy in 1939-40, after a long period of McGill domination. According to Joe, we are now entering upon an epoch of U. of T. supremacy. If our boys profit by the example of trainer Joe Carruthers, who just goes on and on with a firm conviction in the intrinsic superiority of blue and white as against any other combination of color—be it purple, red or yellow—it may well be so.

Sport In Short

MON., FEB. 18
Major Basketball
Sr. S.P.S. . . . 34	Sr. Vic. . . . 12
Sr. Med. . . . 22	P.H.E. . . . 21
Minor Basketball
P.H.E. 111 . . . 42	IV Elec. . . . 21
1 Med. . . . 34	IV Aero. . . . 21
Hockey
S.P.S. 11 . . . 7	U.C. 11 . . . 3
Results of Sabre Tournaments
1.—Keith Conn, 11 S.P.S.
2.—Jack Stanborough, 1 S.P.S.
3.—Dick Thomson, 11 Vic.

SPORTS NOTICE

Tonight at 7.30 p.m. Varsity II Basketball team will play an exhibition game with Simpson's Grads in Hart House Gym.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
4:00	ST. M. A vs DENT. A. . . . Crawford, Anderson
WATER-POLO
1:00	KNOX vs FORESTRY O'Brien
5:00	WVC vs TRIN
5:45	JE. SPS vs DENT. Rosen
6:30	Sr. SPS vs U.C. I. Rosen
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1:00	BUS. ADM. vs PRE-MED. A. Dzipino
4:00	MED. SER. A vs FOR. A. Kerrison
6:30	SPS IV vs PHARM. Jackson
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	U.C. V vs MED. SER. B. Farrelly
4:00	VIC. IV vs PHE IV. Evans
6:00	III MECH. vs II DENT. Kennedy
INDOOR TRACK
5:00	2 miles novice—1/2 mile relay (6 man teams)—12 lb. shot put (upper gym)

BASKETBALL—STANDING COMMITTEE MEETING

Thursday, February 21st, 1.00 p.m.—to arrange play-offs, etc., for Major League.

25 years ago in

The VARSITY

By Eleanor Dickson and Joyce Pratt

Did you know that in 1920-Trinity was still an architectural dream.

Flappers were allowed to flap and cheer at rugby games—in the women's section only—

The Champus Cat's ancestor was Le Petit Garcon—don't ask why—

Letters to the editor were complaining of the crowded accommodation in Hart House dining room—Little did they know!!!

Oxford had surrendered, Cambridge was wavering—the weaker sex was asserting itself finally and women were being recognized as suitable for education even though they had to sit on the platform behind the professor and were addressed "Gentlemen"—

The Varsity had a society column—young hearts fluttered at the realization that they were among the elite at Mrs. Feather Bob's tea party.

The S.A.C. of 1921 laid down strict rules for initiation ceremonies but The Varsity's account of the Arts, Meds and Dents battle between soph and frosh was really hair-raising.

One of the restricting rules was that the scene of battle had to be Varsity Stadium. At two P.M. the first brave was scheduled to enter the south-west gate. Axle grease, paint, shoe-polish, and eggs, 99.44/100% pure rotten were the chief instruments of war in the annual slaughter of the innocents.

"Slaughter" might seem an exaggerated term but from all reports, a Frosh who has escaped with a half shirt was not sufficiently initiated. If you emerged from the "scrap" with your collar, some grease paint, and your shoes, you felt that you had made a fitting entrance to University and were well on your way - - - to jail!

In the days when The Varsity was a tri-weekly and the editor had at least two nights of sleep a week, all sober serious students tramped to hear Mr. Robbins' "passionate appeal for purity of life and morals." There was no "Lost Weekend" to expound the horrors of alcoholism for the benefit of misguided students.

... but from the speakers' desk, Mr. Robbins in serious tones, enumerated the different curses of the human race. "One of them is alcoholism. It has been proven by scientists that alcohol affects most the man with the greatest intelligence and intellectual development and affects least the man with the lowest mental development."

... so erudite readers, next time you are contemplating a visit to the Casey R, stop, look and hop over to Mac's and have a coke.

"Gambling is the second evil. Gambling breaks the integrity of the human brain." — to say nothing of the pocketbook. "Fifteen years after that first all-night crap session, the gambling student is working and sweating children. Gambling always creates the uneconomic get-something-for-nothing mind."

If you want to be a slave driver, work children to death and when useless, turn them out to starve in the cold, go to the Junior Common Room every day, play bridge for petty coins, but don't say The Varsity of 25 years ago didn't warn you.

Canadian Campus

By Janice Murray

Radio! That hint of things to come upon the Toronto campus is a lusty child of over ten years development on other campi of the Canadian scene. Heralded by Mr. Sampath of the C.B.C. as a thing of the close future for Varsity-ites, radio has played a large part in the extra-curricular, and indeed the curricular life of the Canadian campus from sea to sea.

Although hailed with delight by the Toronto campus, the advent of radio is not even hoped for by Bluenoses of Dalhousie University. Dalhousie Gazette C.U.P.-ed Morton maintains stoutly that Dalhousie is "perfectly willing to remain an old-fashioned college". King's College is the aggressive half of Dalhousie with which it is affiliated. King's broadcasts a weekly, half-hour program which is called "King's Forum", and which as its name suggests, is a discussion group, dealing with world problems. Two experts of this group are drawn from faculty members, while a third is usually a prominent civic official. Only when the problem bears upon student life is a student invited to express himself.

In the East also, Mount Allison broadcasts only indirectly, when students participate in Conservatory Friday afternoon concerts. Gilbert and Sullivan excerpts are presented by students over C.B.A. in the spring months.

Radio seems to be more active on the campus further westward. L'Universite de Montreal has an active radio group. Students from both the University of Montreal, and the University of Quebec participate in the writing and pro-

(Continued on Page 8)

Our Readers Write —

Reticent Fellow

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

I am a naturally reticent fellow (as well as being gregarious, and, I hope, rational) so that the publicity which my name has been getting in your correspondence columns is rather unnerving. However, in a previous letter I inferred that Mr. Heenan, of IV S.P.S., did not read and fully understand some of my statements, and it now appears that his good friend, Mr. Neurath, is in the same unhappy position. Therefore, with your permission, I would like to use up a few more paragraphs, once again.

My original letter dealt with my view that the prevailing lack of adequate education was to be very much regretted. My main point was, indeed, that I entirely disagreed with the tone of one of your recent editorials, Sir, on that subject. Mr. Neurath drags out of it, context a phrase I used in expounding certain relative opinions of mine, namely, that "man is gregarious". He charges that this phrase is my major premise, and then refutes this "premise" with a statement which I had used in my succeeding paragraph, that "man is rational."

Mr. Neurath goes further—he qualifies this statement with the phrase "endowed with an immortal soul", which both Mr. Pfalzner of U.C. and I consider to be highly debatable. But that is beside the point. Although we do use the same words, I must reluctantly agree that Mr. Neurath and I do not speak the same language. How being "rational" prevents man from being "gregarious" I fail to see. A small example—most people consider a hermit, who is anything but gregarious, as being irrational in his behaviour.

Mr. Neurath continues, however, with a statement to which I heartily subscribe, viz., that man needs Wisdom. But the components of Wisdom are first, Experience, and second, Knowledge. This is rather well put, I think, in the old saying—

"If Youth but knew;
If Age but could."

Only the passage of time can provide man with Experience, but man himself can garner Knowledge, and to revert to my original thesis, it is chiefly due to a lack of Knowledge that the world is in its present sorry plight.

—Harry E. Ansley,
Engineering and Business.

kindness of the people who figure in we only humour Hitler and Mussolini there would be no World War II. Calling Russia names doesn't whitewash the unsavoury record of Franco. Calling Mr. Rosenthal's wrath "one scratch of the Waterman" to "smack down the heretic" may be rhetoric but it begs the question. The Communists, the British Government and Hindenburg made one mistake in common. They under-estimated the power of a tooth-brush mustachioed paper-hanger and his monkey follower in Italy. To issue Franco a clean bill of health may mean new Mackenzle-Papineau brigades, Abraham Lincoln Brigades, International Brigades and some more D.V.A. students in 1975. The voice of Democracy is . . .

—Nathan Ralph Goldberg,
Pass Arts, U.C.

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

Re: Nowak & Gonzalez Ltd.
Good resolute nonsense backed with authority.

—Kurt Dahl,
Mod. Lang. 2.

P.S. Dear Anti-Nowaks,
Please stop answering above-mentioned Ltd. because as the old German saying goes: Gegen Dummheit kaempfen die Goetter selbst vergebens.

U.N.T.D.

The undermentioned UNTD ratings are to report to the Ship's Office, 119 St. George Street on or before Wednesday, 20th February, 1946.

All UNTD ratings who have not completed discharge are to report to Ship's Office as soon as possible.

BALLOU, H.C.
BRADFORD, J. W.
BULL, F. G.
CHEESEMAN, N. L.
COYLE, F. G.
DAVIS, D. F.
DEWAN, W. F.
DONER, R. L.
FINBOW, S. T. J.
FORDYCE, G. F.
FRASER, D. A. S.
FREEBERG, J. A.
FREEMAN, D. H.
GILCHRIST, R. I.
GUEST, D. E.
HAMLEY, E. J.
HENDRICK, K. C.
HILL, M. R.
LENDON, T. A.
LOVE, R. H.
MacDONALD, D. G.
MacQUARRIE, D. R.
McCOMBE, R. J. J.
McCULLOCH, M. D.
MEEN, A. K.
MILLER, E. P.
NELSON, R. E.
REDFERN, D. B.
SCOTT, W. A.
SIMS, R. C.
THOMSON, J. A.
VANDECAN, C.
VOLPE, N. P. J.
WHITE, W. J.
YOUNG, Joseph
SINCLAIR, D. L.
BOWYER, J. E.
FORT, A. J.
ROSS, J. C.
SWYSZCUK, A.
THOMAS, W. R.

(Signed)
D. A. F. Robinson,
Lt. Cdr., RCN(R),
Commanding Officer, UNTD.

EX-AIRFORCE

Wanting to keep in touch with flying—order

CANADIAN AVIATION

THROUGH

DUNC MACLEAN

ME 7052 144 Springhurst Ave.

Price $2.00 a year

A good mag with plenty of gen.

FILM MISSING

Will the member of the Camera Club who inadvertently removed a 120 film with 16 exposures from the drying rack during the week-end of February 9th, please return it to

W. R. COWAN
In the Comptroller's office.

Hand Hits Hornet

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

Miss Nowak stirred up a hornet's nest when she lifted her tiny hand to Franco. But it is just as well if it reminds us we've just fought a war a little while ago; it's all right if it recalls our Maginot minded way of thinking, it's all right if it makes us remember the false security of "Peace in our time." We must also remember the delicate

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.
Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Classified Advertisements

PERSONAL

Anyone driving to Montreal, March 1st, and could accommodate two, expenses shared, call HU 5006.

24 HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

WANTED

Model A Ford. Apply Box J, The Varsity.

WANTED

Army officer's uniform, size 38, height 5'9". Apply Box K, The Varsity.

LOST

Plastic-rimmed glasses in blue case, lost Monday morning, between Economics Bldg., and U.O. Please leave at S.A.C. office.

LOST

Black Parker pen, Friday 9th, vicinity School. Reward. RA 7141.

COLOUR PHOTOGRAPHY

Have your party photographed in brilliant natural colour! Personal portraiture also done. Phone KI 3667, Peter or Jerry Waite, 5-6 p.m.

TAKEN BY MISTAKE

Pair of 2-buckle overshoes, lost in Hart House hall, near Warden's office, Monday. Call MO 7120, Mr. Jackson.

Nominations for HART HOUSE ELECTIONS Open Friday

Art, Music and Drama

Campus Composers

It is fitting, during a time when student art is being exhibited on the campus, that musical students should have a chance to make their art public. On Sunday night at St. Michael's College the excellent work of Margaret Cameron, III Music, and Father Roff, a Doctor of Music candidate, were brought to light. Both composers presented groups of songs which were sung by St. Michael's students. Miss Cameron played an ambitious Prelude and Fugue and a Sonatina for piano. Four capable string players performed Father Roff's Quartet in D minor, Miniature Trio for violin, cello and piano, and Polonaise for violin and piano. It was an extremely interesting and educational evening. Would that we could have more of its kind!

JOHN GARTSHORE

Flint Wins

(Continued from Page 1)

I've been waiting to hear all my life."

This Stone took to be Harron's proposal.

Miss Flint, wearing striking Soviet red ensemble, was assisted to the witness stand. She wept while taking the oath and dabbed at her uncontrollable tears with a single Kleenex throughout questioning.

She described their meeting.

A strong breeze had blown Harron out to sea and he signalled distress which she, in official capacity of lifeguard, was obliged to heed.

"I swam out to retrieve him."

"Did he seem very grateful," her counsel Telford Georges asked.

"Oh," she replied, "Yes".

From that moment she reported they were together.

"From dawn to dawn it was Don," she said.

Before the ski lodge week-end, Georges inquired, had Harron intimated matrimony as in the offering.

"He had sort of made plans for marriage which led me to believe that I was included in them," she replied.

Harron had spoken of marriage after Miss Flint's graduation. Under cross-examination by Leitch, the plaintiff denied that she had been "the pursuer and not the pursued," in the romance.

Leitch pointed out that three-week intervals had intervened since her letter to Harron and his reply. Did that seem to her to be deep devotion?

"For Don to write at all was wonderful. He had just learned."

Harron took the stand as the defence case began to unfold.

He was asked to state his case.

"You mean," he exclaimed, "the whole thing—verboten?"

"Will I was temporarily employed at O'Rourke's Hacienda."

"Will I'm going out there, you see, for my usual vocation, I am socially reclined. I see plenty of people including the objection of my affections. There's a lotta shy types at whom you've gotta whistle twice before they whistles back."

He described the rescue scene. He had not been screaming for help but merely singing, he explained. He demonstrated by singing merely.

Miss Flint had misunderstood however, and had pulled him to shore for artificial respiration.

She artificially perspired for about a half an hour over me. I decided to express my gratitude. You can't help it if you're tender hearted.

"Then came the chaise lounge and the long chase. She took me out in a car with the automatic clutch."

The romance had blossomed, Harron admitted, but in a one sided way. And Miss Flint was always the one who sighed.

"I goes back to the city—back to me old hobbies—Velma, Mert, Marge—all my old hobbies. And I gets missiles from her—written missiles."

In September Miss Flint came back to Toronto.

"An I'm still the big-hearted guy. I take her to the formal opening of the man-hole at Bay and Bloor. In the movies I hold her hands. I gotta. She keeps eating my popcorn."

"But I'm wary of this wench, get me. She carries a marriage certificate all the time addressed to whom it may concern."

How many times have you seen Miss Flint in Toronto?

"Six or seven times. A goodly number."

And how many times had it been at Miss Flint's instigation?

"Eight or nine."

He was asked to describe the lodge scene.

"Will the lights was lower than my intentions. I'm on my knees undoin' her ski boots. An I'm slightly under the influence of Aqua-Velva at the time. I been really initiated. I'm not very stable. I asks her would she carry me."

"You pretend to be intoxicated at the time," Georges added in cross examination. "And yet you distinctly remember that you said 'carry' and not 'marry'. That's a very fine distinction."

"I don't think so," insisted Harron. "Have you ever been carried?"

Had he written the letters which Miss Flint had produced?

"I ambiguous, I can't write with either hand."

Your chief weapon of defence is your humor is it not?

"It's more my intelligible charm."

"Your humor," Georges insisted.

"My rapier-like wit," Harron compromised. "I don't pretend to be no Casa Loma."

In his summary address to the jury Leitch pointed out that the evidence "is as fully consistent with the non-existence of the promise as it is with the existence."

"Proving of breach of promise," Georges said, "is a difficult matter."

None of us proposes with an audience present. What is needed is evidence of a promise plus corroborative evidence."

STUDENTS ARE DISPOSSESSED

Students are returning to studies from prisons, forced labor camps and the resistance forces.... Universities are damaged or destroyed and faculties dispersed.... Many are homeless and unable to trace their families.... Many Chinese universities must be moved 2,000 miles back home.

Canadian Campus

(Continued from Page 7)

ducing of sketches and jokes for their weekly program "Radio-Carabins" on C.B.F. Writers and Actors are paid two dollars per minute running time. A guest of honor, usually a well-known artist, and all expenses being paid by the C.B.C. definitely add glamor to the program as heard by student ears.

Before the war Acadia University had a small station operating on fifty watts which presented musical programs, debates and addresses. Discontinued for the duration, the program will return as soon as students who are building a new station get it set up. This is expected to happen this week. The small local station at Windsor was considered and rejected by the Acadians as being expensive and inadequate.

One of the two Universities to place a course in radio upon the curriculum is Saint Francis-Xavier. Station C.J. F.X. is closely linked with the university and carries programs from the college. Chief of these is the "Saint Francis-Xavier University of the Air", in which topics of literature, music, science, medicine and home economics are discussed by professors and guest lecturers. The Radio Workshop of Saint Francis-Xavier is listed as English 25. It is one of the first of such courses to be offered in Canada.

Kingston's Queen's presents weekly one hour broadcasts on C.F.R.C. consisting of radio plays, C.U.P. news, music, and a "stump the professor" quiz program. This week H.M.S. Pinafore will be presented, followed by a round table discussion of Russia the following week. Queen's has a notable place in the University radio world, as it was the first University radio station on the continent, broadcasting a Queen's-McGill football game. In 1936 full-time operations were begun which had to be discontinued in 1942.

Another move westward shows further development in the field of university radio. At Western University for nearly two decades radio has played a premier part in curricular and extra-curricular studies. From 1929 until 1939, Western had two experimental short-wave stations run by the students in the Physics course. These stations operated from six to eight hours daily, presenting glee clubs, violinists, singers and speakers. One year the Western Convocation ceremonies were broadcast. As reception was better in Central and South America, it is not surprising that a student singer was offered a musical contract by a Cuban listener.

Programs from Western were also heard in England and India. Chicago and New York reported to the student "hams" that reception was better than that of local stations. The primary purpose of these stations was to study fading, and reports were sent in from listeners.

Each year, fourth year students are required to build a new and better transmitter. This year's transmitter should be completed in two weeks, Western reporters state optimistically.

During the war, Western physicists, both staff and students, did a great deal of research on naval radar antennae. More optimistically, it is reported that Western's television set will be ready at the end of May on the 223 megacycle band. With this new step, Western again hopes to be ahead. Western co-eds will soon be seen by television as well as in the Gazette. Meanwhile, the reorganization of the amateur Radio Club last week sets the stage for resuming broadcasts.

The University of Manitoba has a different angle on radio. As well as a thrice-weekly faculty program, the "University of the Air" there is a weekly pep rally broadcast on Saturdays over CKRO. The pep rally is organized and broadcast by students to a student studio audience and is very popular. The Public Relations Board is the body which controls the Manitoban radio efforts.

HART HOUSE CHAPEL

Beginning Wednesday, February 19th, morning prayer will be held at 9:30. This slight change eliminates the crowding of the 10:10 lecture. Evening prayer continues at 7:45 and intercessions at 5:20.

McLean's

MISSIVE No. 2

- Those of you who failed to get within Harron distance at the Moot Court session in the U.C. J.C.R. last evening have another opportunity to view the dauntless Don Juan this Thursday afternoon when he presides over the annual meeting of the Society To Select The Most Typical Co-Ed And Raise Funds For I.S.S. (University Branch). On the Convocation Hall dais as one of the beauty contest M.C.'s (pronounced: Mmmmm! Seize!) will be Harron, presumably wearing his Moot Suit, to supervise the I.S.S.-sponsored jubilee.

* * *

- Jazz, which made its Toronto debut last fall most auspiciously, will establish a beach head on this campus at the same pleasure-packed jamboree.

A six-man jazz combo will offer a well-rehearsed impromptu concert for the entertainment of the gathering.

* * *

- Judges in the typical co-ed contest could not be identified at press time.

That a celebrated P.T. instructor had consented to assist could not be confirmed.

Meanwhile organization of the 300 taggers continued yesterday.

On Thursday they will move onto the campus on a concerted tagging spree.

By tags and gags this University's I.S.S. Committee hopes to amass $10,000 for international student relief.

* * *

- Israel Shopsowitz, incidentally, is one of the more fortunate photogs about the campus these days.

Shopsie, swami of shutter-clickers hereabouts, has lately been leering through his lens at the lovelies who will compete this Thursday afternoon for the title of t.c.

In the past four days a score of the camera-caught co-ed contestants have bathed in the developing mix of the Shopsowitz dark room.

The resultant glamor pix will be on display in these columns presently if not (we don't know) today.

Shopsowitz would do well to stage an exhibit of the typical co-ed try-outs.

- It would be quite a gal-lery.

University Symphony Orchestra REHEARSAL

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA ON Wednesday, February 20th.

at 1.30 p.m. sharp

This will only be a short rehearsal, but full and prompt attendance urgently required.

THE VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 87 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, February 20, 1946

Pictured beneath the gaze of the late, great pianist Paderewski is George Crum, talented young piano student at the Conservatory of Music, who will be guest artist at tonight's concert of the University Symphony Orchestra. Crum will play a concerto and a group of solo pieces. The concert will be given in Convocation Hall at 8.10, and all students and friends of music are invited. Program on page 3.

McGill Investigated Information Leaking?

According to news reports McGill University has been investigated as a possible source of leaks of secret information to a foreign power. McGill is only one of a number of institutions which was visited on Feb. 18 by R.C.M.P. officials. Others include the Foreign Exchange Control Board, and the Universities of Montreal where the National Research Council is located.

RECORD HOUR

The record program, held daily in the Women's Common Room of University College from 4 p.m. to 5.30, is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. To-day's program:

Borodin—In the steppes of Central Asia.

Schubert—Der Wanderer; der Doppelgänger.

Brahms—Feldensamkeit; Ständchen.

Schubert—Symphony no. 9 in C. major.

ONLY

1

More Day Till I. S. S. Campaign

I.S.S. TAGGERS

All girls who signed as taggers for I.S.S. day should check their faculty bulletin boards today. Lists giving complete instructions as to time and place of tagging will be posted.

Your Ticket of Admission Is Your I.S.S. Donation

Martin to Head Judges

A hooting, whistling audience will see the Campus Queen of 1946 chosen from among 24 hand-picked contestants in Convocation Hall tomorrow noon.

Bewitching I.S.S. taggers across the campus will sell tickets of admission. The price: whatever you can afford to give.

Sponsored by the Toronto International Student Service Committee, the Co-ed Contest starts promptly at 1.15 and will end in time for 2 o'clock lectures.

Heading a secret panel of judges will be W.H. ("Chesty") Martin, university physical culture expert. The names of the other judges were withheld to forestall bribery and bedevilment. Briability of Mr. Martin was considered nil.

Campus cut-up Don Harron will M.C. the spectacle, which will feature a six-piece jazz band, and the presentation to the winning co-ed by last year's winner, Jean Cameron.

Your contribution to I.S.S., remember, is your admission ticket.

MARG. JOHNSTON

PHYL MCCOY

JOAN USHER

EDIE ROLLS

MARY JANE BELL

BOBBY COULSON

SHEILA McDOUGALL

RUTH BURDEN

DOROTHY KUBIS

GWEN LEWIS

TEN MORE CLAIMANTS FOR MISS VARSITY'S THRONE

Above are 10 more of the candidates for the title of "Miss Varsity '46". Reading top row left to right are:

MARG. JOHNSTON of Folies fame is 5' 8" with blonde hair and hazel eyes. In 111 Gilmour at U.C., she wants to go to Osgoode when she graduates and then go home to St. Catharines to practice law in her father's office.

You can phone MI2037 but she definitely plans to stay single for at least 10 years.

PHYL MCCOY, brown-haired, blue-eyed, and 5' 5" from Ottawa, is in Moderns at Vic.

If you are the outdoor type, fond of hunting, horses and dogs 'phone KI2879. She likes hunting herself—preferably pheasants—but insists she just goes along to lend moral support.

Phyl wants to work for about five years when she graduates but might settle for four, if the right huntsman turned up.

JOAN USHER, a potential private nurse, now enrolled in the School of Nursing, believes in four or five dates a week and can be reached at HO9851.

Blue-eyed, blonde, and five-fivish, Joan wants to raise twins in the suburbs some day with somebody who is tall and has green eyes.

EDIE ROLLS is going to be an interior decorator someday, only right now she practices on a doll's house being built for her by one of her many boy-friends.

She thinks marriage is a fine idea, but she has no particular specifications for the man: HU2841, 5' 5", green eyes, brown hair, and a word to the wise should be sufficient.

MARY JANE BELL is definitely unfair to the male undergraduate body of this university. When a beautiful brown-eyed brunette claims that men have no place in the drug store she's going to run when she graduates from Pharmacy—that's unfair.

"Marriage is a fine idea," she says, "but not for me!"

But people do change their minds, and if you're fond of sports—especially golf—and like girls who come from Medstead, Saskatchewan, try phoning AD2554.

BOBBY COULSON, on the other hand, is definitely fair to the male undergraduate body—she's prejudiced against men who are too handsome. But they have to be athletic and fond of dancing.

Tall, slender and brown-haired Bobby is going to be an Occupation—(Continued on Page 5)

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor...Peggy Bates 476
Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
Ajax Editor...Mike McAuliffe
Make-up Editor...Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
News Editor...George Forster 477
Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 476
Assistant...Pete Phillipott
Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
Assistant...Reg Herman, 476
Ajax...CHIT Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Wednesday, February 20, 1946

For Muddled Minds

The student who comes from a town or home possessing a rigid way of living, and plunges headfirst into a university course which forces him to unlearn most of what he has been taught in school and greatly modify or change completely his outlook on society, faces certain mental turmoil. He may start trying to "re-educate" his family, and failing that, take everything too seriously and become an ultra-bohemian.

If to family tension is added the necessity of keeping a part-time job, the student has worries that will detract from his studies, and prevent him from getting good marks or his essays in on time. If he falls in love on top of all this, he might just as well give up—at least, that will fast become his conviction. A promising university career may for such reasons be dropped entirely, and the benefits of a degree lost.

What can be done about such cases is not at once clear, but it is obvious that some action should be taken. For the student with too much work to do, there are the professors in each of his courses, who will extend the deadline of late essays if a tale is woeful enough, and who will advise on the bare minimum of books to read for the course, and will guide the selection of them, if necessary. Professors don't bite, and if spoken to nicely, turn out to be very reasonable people. They know most about the course they are giving, and are willing to help any student.

This, however, is guidance from a purely vocational aspect. This will help relieve the burden on the confused student's mind, but will not give him any clue to how to straighten out the confusion still there. The average professor is not in a position to advise the student to break off relations with his family so that he could get an essay in on time. Nor would the student feel it right to release a flood of his woes upon the professor.

While there is a consultant psychiatrist on the campus, his functions do not fall into the orbit needed by the maladjusted student. Students do not consult him, but are rather, sent by the Health Service if the officials there think it necessary. The average student wouldn't think of consulting him about matters which seem so trivial on the surface.

What seems to be needed is a trained psychologist, or rather a group of them who could be consulted by students. The difference between psychiatrist and psychologist means that students will be more ready to go for advice, and be completely frank. Most people think of psychologists as "straighteners-out", and of the psychiatrist as a mental specialist. Whether this is true or not, the difference will lead the student to consult the one with confidence, and sheer away from the other.

The need of some sort of consultant bureau on the campus becomes more evident when we consider the number of students who graduate from the university compared with the number who enroll every fall. To give a concrete example, take a look at the University Directory—at the first and final years—there is a great discrepancy. While it is true that first years have a record enrolment this year, there are a greater number fallen by the wayside than is generally thought.

This cannot be ascribed only to the inability of the student to rise to university standards or to too little effort on his part. Both inability and lack of effort would have a good chance of being rectified if such a bureau were set up.

The bureau could be established as an annex to the Health Service, or be a separate like the Veterans' Advisory Bureau. Again, if a vocational guidance center were begun, as advocated in an earlier editorial this year, this might be one of its branches.

The accusation that if such a bureau were to come into being, students would keep dropping in with imaginary troubles, or to be psycho-analyzed free, is baseless. A good psychologist would waste no time in telling such students that their troubles were imaginary, and stop them wasting time themselves.

—M.G.B.

Books

Now Is Time

Now bud is rot and fragrance rust
Around the martialled bees
And men with boots will put an end
To making similes . . .
(David and Other Poems, 1942), as Earle Birney put on his own boots and went to war. For Birney, the prophecy proved false. At a time when Karl Shapiro in the South Pacific could produce only his absorbing but utterly irrelevant Essay on Rime, Birney continued to write and write with the material most urgently at hand, the material of war. The difficulty in writing of tremendous events and the correspondingly tremendous emotional reactions to them, at least while such events and reactions are in progress, is one that only the hand of a thorough technician can overcome. Birney showed in his first book a firm grasp of the principles of verbal architecture. Now in his second (Now Is Time, Ryerson, $1.50), albeit working with chaos itself, his grip on form, if anything, has tightened.

The title of the book derives from Lines for a Peace:
The hours flash below the sun and space is now and now is time to bed the beast and with the pain of love shock him to the brain—then certify the future sane
—a conventional hope if you choose to appraise the poet as philosopher or political scientist. If, on the other hand, you examine the poet as poet, you will find in Birney a power of expression that reduces the triteness of many of his themes to the irrelevant. Birney is only incidentally, only in figure, akin to such intellectuals as Eliot or the later Auden. Though more literally so in his earlier book, he still keeps close to the earth and stars in Now Is Time.

In the several poems reprinted from David, the essential Birney is more apparent. In contrast to the imaginative bigness of the early Auden metaphor, Birney expresses a particular, experienced conception of size in terms of the Pacific, the prairies, the mountains of British Columbia. . . . the Nubian/ wears for an evening's whim a necklace of nebulae (Vancouver Lights) defines a scale for building metaphors that persists through the later poems of Now Is Time: the gentle hands and lithe/ limbs enter the prodigious chemistry of rain/ and sun . . . (For Steve).

Appropriately, the reprinted poems (Hands, Vancouver Lights, Dusk on the Bay) remain the most richly lyrical in the collection, just as Anglosaxon Street, with its satiric indulgence in the form of Old English alliterative verse, remains the most verbally exuberant.

Birney has turned from the almost Rupert Brookeish enfant terrible of local social satire and the search for . . . girls who've never gone/ to Havergal or Bishop Strachan (Eagle Island, David) to a more serious type of social criticism (Man on a Tractor) and, more seriously still, the social implications of war followed by peace: not for the rotting oranges and the pinched shambly/ but for the power and the brotherhood of fingers to portion out the welfare of their cunning . . . (For Steve).

If the transition has effaced some of the bounce and laughter and overflowing lyric beauty of description from his verse, the essential brilliance of image remains the same and the rhythms have become more masculine than ever. Now Is Time is a distinguished contribution both to Canadian letters and to an already distinguished career.

DUNCAN ROBERTSON

Besides its contribution to the European Student Relief Fund and World Student Relief program, the I.S.S. committee in Great Britain has continued to help Central European refugees in Britain as well as students in China. Finally, an important contribution has been made towards I.S.S. general expenses and the setting up of its reconstruction fund.

The first contingent of all Belgian students has arrived in Leyssin, where a rest centre has been set up under I.S.S. A very good contact has been established at once between them and the French and Swiss students at Leyssin.

While large governmental schemes will be set up for promoting student exchanges across frontiers, I.S.S. considers it important that voluntary organizations should play their part in this significant enterprise. Considerable effort will be required to bring in touch again, materially and intellectually, students from various countries and continents who because of the war have so long been deprived of any contacts with one another.

Victoria College PUBLIC LECTURE

MISS J. MACPHERSON

"BERTRAND RUSSELL"

Wednesday, February 20th.
in Alumni Hall at 5 p.m.

WING I, R.C.A.F. ASSOCIATION (Canadian Legion)

ANNOUNCES

R.C.A.F. Veterans' REUNION DANCE

Windsor Room, Savarin Hotel

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28th.

DANCING 9-1

DRESS INFORMAL

TICKETS $3.00 PER COUPLE. ON SALE NOW AT CIGAR SHOP, AT SAVARIN HOTEL.

(Since table accommodation is limited to 176 couples you are requested to procure tickets early).

JOAN RIGBY

COATS
DRESSES TWEEDS SWEATERS
SUITS

54 BLOOR W.

MI. 4969

VIC. SPRING ELECTIONS

Nominations:

Due by 5.00 p.m. on February
25th, and March 4th, in the V.
C.U. Office.

Voting:

On March 1st., and 8th., 10.00 a.m. to 2.00 p.m. in Alumni Hall.

"Remember The Campus"

NOMINATE and VOTE!

Flowers for All Occasions

COOPER FLORIST

PARK PLAZA HOTEL

MI. 6361

10 Avenue Road

WE DELIVER

Hart House Bulletin Board

Talk in the Art Gallery

Professor H. R. MacCallum will review the Undergraduate Exhibition in the art gallery at 1.30 p.m. to-day.

Hart House Debate

The final Hart House Debate of the year will take place at 8.00 p.m. tonight in the Debates Room when the subject of debate will be "That this House regards Canadian Conservatism as not only dead but buried." The Hon. Douglas C. Abbott, Minister of National Defence, will be present as Hon. Visitor.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 87 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, February 20, 1946

Smoking And High Living Ruin Health, States Fraser

"We do everything wrong and we know it. Indeed everything in our way of life seems not to be conducive to good health," stated Professor D. Fraser, in an address in the north lecture room of the Medical Building yesterday afternoon.

"It is our way of life to smoke and drink, to get very little sleep and exercise, and to wear too little or too much clothing. No wonder we find ourselves unhealthy both physically and mentally. How can I hope to advise a method of preserving health," he continued.

"Many important discoveries by medical men since the time of the Greeks have helped change the mental attitude of man to disease. We owe the theory that disease is a natural phenomenon to the Greeks."

Many people take a very foolish view of disease. (The professor illustrated this point with a cartoon beneath which was the caption: "... and don't worry about talking to yourself." Answered the patient "Yes doctor but I'm such a damned bore.")

The chief causes of death in 1938, in Canada, were the following diseases: heart, cancer, pneumonia and influenza. In Newfoundland in the same year the causes were: tuberculosis, pneumonia and influenza.

Accidental deaths take a great toll annually in this and every country. People truly do not know how to care for themselves properly, and more amazing they do not seem to care to know.

"Tuberculosis is still a powerful disease, but it may in a generation be a minute source of worry. Venereal disease is a socio-economic problem, not merely a medical one. Respiratory diseases, the most common of which is the cold, top the list of all illnesses," continued Prof. Fraser.

"The university has failed unless we have engendered in you an intelligent interest in your own health and the health of the community; or if we have not stimulated the desire to bring the triumphs of preventive and curative medicine to all," concluded the professor.

Art of Movies Is New Course

West Lafayette, Feb. 18—(Exchange)—Something new in the realm of English-teaching—a course in movie appreciation called "The Art of Motion Pictures"—is being introduced at Purdue University in Indiana.

The man behind the scheme is Professor A. R. Fulton who conceived the idea after taking a private poll several years ago of students' taste in the arts. When asked the relative percentage of types of entertainment, such as books, plays, operas, shows, etc., of which a student regularly partook, the answer was overwhelmingly in favor of the movies. Most, however, could not explain their liking for any special type.

Professor Fulton's course is built around the idea that an appreciation of this significant form of artistic expression, so popular now, would bring more enjoyment to movie goers. Two classroom recitations and one laboratory course, in which movies will be shown and criticized, will be held weekly. This lab. aspect of the course is unique, for although straight text-book courses have been given at several universities, none as yet have incorporated a lab.

Classroom periods will deal with discussions of scenarios and their sources. Individual directors and their techniques will be considered. Since nine of the twelve films shown will be silent Prof. Fulton has sent out an SOS for a pianist who is willing to provide the background music for these silent sagas. Worthwhile local movies will be assigned as "homework".

The class will be limited to 25 students, seniors having first choice. If the new course meets with general approval on its trial run it will be expanded to more than one class to accommodate more students.

HART HOUSE DEBATE

The Varsity regrets a ridiculous error which crept into its copy yesterday and prompted the announcement that Hart House debaters would discuss tonight, the resolution that "Canadian Conservatism is not only dead but buried."

The alleged corpse under investigation, is Conservatism.

What's On Today

V.C.F. BIBLE COURSE
Rev. W. G. Brown, Dean of Toronto Baptist Seminary, will give the second lecture on the Holy Spirit, in Room 11, U.C. at 5:00 p.m.

VIC S.C.M.
Rev. J. M. Finlay's group on the "Practical Applications of Christianity" will be held at 1:30 to-day in Vic Chapel.

POLI SCI CLUB
The Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of National Defense, will address an open meeting of the Political Science Club to be held this afternoon at 4:00 in Wynnwood.

GRADUATING SCIENCE STUDENTS

All men and women students graduating in June, 1946, and enrolled in courses from Groups C or D in the Faculty of Arts (including Household Economics) are required to fill out Science Student questionnaires by the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel; forms should be completed immediately in the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall.

Graduating students in the Faculties of Applied Science and Engineering, Household Science, and Forestry, will complete the questionnaires at their Faculty office.

ignatz sez:
COME ON OUT to the

ALL- UNIVERSITY SHOW

C.U.P. Flashes

London, Feb. 18.—(CUP)—Construction on a $250,000 addition to the Science Building at the University of Western Ontario is commencing immediately with completion expected in October. The new building will be a two-storey and basement structure added across the back of the present building enclosing the courtyard now bordered on three sides. A deputation from the Board of Governors approached Premier Drew last week requesting the assistance of the Ontario government for the $250,000 building program. Premier Drew promised consideration.

Montreal, Feb. 18.—(CUP)—McGill's annual Co-ed Coast was held yesterday on Mount Royal. According to local tradition the husky coeds had to pull their men up the toboggan slide, and on the next round the men must do the honors. The athletics were followed by skating and a dance.

Halifax, Feb. 18.—(CUP)—A student at Dalhousie University was fined $2.00 by the Students' Council for smoking in the gymnasium, the first occasion of the kind in many years. The student pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned before the Council last Wednesday. His punishment included sitting through the two-hour Council meeting, appearing nonplussed but bored as he passed the time playing solitaire in the prisoner's box.

Winnipeg—February 18 to 22, is a week devoted to a campus-wide election campaign at the University of Manitoba. Dave McQueen, Editor-in-Chief of The Manitoban, and Lynn Watt, holder of the Senior Stick are contesting for the presidency of the Students' Union. This marks the beginning of the election season on the Manitoba campus terminated by elections in all faculties and colleges held early in March.

Edmonton, Feb. 18.—(CUP)—A new degree course in which graduates will receive the Bachelor of Education in Physical Education is being introduced at the University of Alberta. Subjects are: English, Chemistry, Mathematics, Zoology, Personal Hygiene, Educational Psychology and Public School Psychology during the first year general course.

The three following years will include such subjects as Philosophy, Psychology, Education, Administration, Principles of P.T., First Aid, Bacteriology, Applied Anatomy and Kinesiology study of body movement.

Montreal, Feb. 18.—(CUP)—A permanent committee of NFQUS, organized at McGill University last week, is now drawing up a constitution to be submitted to other camps for approval in the near future.

Sunday Evening Concert

The Hart House Glee Club will present the following programme at the Sunday Evening Concert in the Great Hall of Hart House on Sunday next 24th February.

- I
ADORAMUS TE
HALLELUJAH AMEN (from "Judas Maccabaeus")
—Palestrina (1525-1594)
—Handel (1685-1759)
- II
SUMER IS ICOMEN IN (a Round)
UNDER THIS STONE (a Round)
—13th Century
—Purcell (1658-1695)
- III
THE HEART HERE WELLS OVER (a Round) FORGOTTEN, FORGOTTEN —Schubert (1797-1827)
—Schubert
- IV
VARIATIONS ON A THEME, BY HAYDN
Lorne Watson and Howard Brown
—Brahms
- V
FAIREST ISLE
Solist: N. J. Kelemen
—Purcell
- VI
LILLIBURLEO
DOWN IN A FLOWERY VALE
—Anonymous
—Festa (1541-)
- VII
WALTZING MATILDA
THE SWAZI WARRIOR
—arr. Thomas Wood (1892-)
—arr. Thomas Wood

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Symphony Orchestra

Sponsored by the Students' Administrative Council

HANS GRUBER — Conductor

GEORGE CRUM — PIANIST — Soloist

CONVOCATION HALL

Tonight at 8.10 p.m.

PROGRAMME

- I. Overture—Rosamunde Schubert
- II. Adagio and Allegro Blow-Hurst
- III. Choral-Prelude
I Call on Thee Lord Bach
Scherzo-B-flat minor Chopin
GEORGE CRUM — Pianist
- IV. Symphony No. 5 in B-flat Schubert

INTERMISSION

- V. Ballet Suite from
Céphale et Procris Grétry
- VI. Piano Concerto Schumann
GEORGE CRUM — Pianist
- VII. Eine Kleine Nachtmusik Mozart
- VIII. Triumphant March from Aida Verdi

Diggin T. D.

Tommy Dorsey appeared at the Queensway ballroom last Thursday night with a better than average band. Commercially we rate him as very good, jazz-ically he rates fair.

This is to be more or less expected, because T. D. has of late been concentrating on very smooth pop arrangements that go over very big with most of the crowd. But for those who look for something more substantial, well there is something missing in his music.

There was a time when no All-Star record was complete without Tommie's hot Trombone represented. Now he strives for a delicate, sophisticated style, leaving the rough work to other artists in the band.

The most notable of these is trumpeter Charlie Shavers, easily the most colorful and sensational man in the band. He's the boy who made those records with John Kirby's Greatest-Little-Band in the -Land back in '41 and '42. What we said about Charlie's lack of beat last week still goes. But we give him credit for being possibly the greatest technician on trumpet alive to-day. Much of his blowing shows no evidence of jazz feeling—there is merely the desire to impress. Nevertheless he is the backbone of a powerful nine man brass section that really set the dance fans rocking.

All the numbers that Dorsey made famous were rolled out in succession. Starting off with Opus No. 1 and right on through Sunny side of the Street, Hallelujah, Blue Skies, Boogie Woogie, We'll Git It, and Summer-time.

On this latter number both Tommie and Charlie got down to business and blew some inspiring choruses.

Buddy De Marco, despite a thin tone, played some of the nicest clary heard here since Goodman visited a few months back.

No matter how hard we tried, we couldn't get the featured tenor's name, nor could we hear him. The mike, as usual, failed every time he stood up. What they need is some Skule man to help with the P.A. Any applications?

Buddy Rich, who is out getting together a band of his own, has been replaced by Alvin Storal, a recruit from the Spivack band. Although not as impressive in style or forceful in beat, as Rich, Storal provided a pretty snappy, jumpy rhythm.

FIDDLES?
It looks as though the age of violins in swing bands is rapidly declining. At one time or another Shaw, James, Earl Hines, Count Basie, and Dorsey has the fiddles, but now they have all in turn reverted to the customary combination of rhythm, saxes and brass. I don't think anyone missed the violins. We didn't.

Last but certainly not least, are those four luscious blondes, the Sentimentalists. These gals sing almost as well as they look. But who cares?

With Dignity

With them was Stuart Foster, who (a friend tells us) is a dead ringer for Frankie. We wouldn't know. All the same girls, he sings very well.

NEW PALACE
At this point we would like to put in a couple of cheers for Cross and Cooper of the Queensway. These Boys are doing a swell job in bringing first class music to Toronto.

Their place has been stunningly re-decorated, and it's name changed to the Palace Pier. But best of all, the new policy is to bring up an American band each and every two weeks—starting off with Woody Herman on March one. After that, as we have it, there will be Kenton and Brown on March 14, Teddy Wilson and Coleman Hawkins.

Oscar Peterson will be in town on the eighth. What's this about an exclusive Varsity concert with Oscar in Convocation Hall, sponsored by I. S. S. — eh!

SID STARKMAN

University Symphony Orchestra

REHEARSAL

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

Today, 1.30 p.m. Sharp

CONVOCAATION HALL

This will only be a short rehearsal, but full and prompt attendance urgently required.

All borrowed orchestral music as well as OWN music stands must be brought to the 1.30 rehearsal.

Radio

Air College

Shuttling between the broadcasting studios of CKEY, the CGC and RCA, stumbling over microphone cords and waiting for a home of its own, Canada's first full scale "Radio University" (officially, the "Academy of Radio Arts") is one third of the way through graduating out its first batch of future radio artists. The students, of whom approximately thirty per cent are ex-servicemen, are learning that modern radio, far from being ten-easy-lessons-to-success, demands sweat and toil and a good share of nature's own talent.

Next to the United States, the main contribution from overseas committees has come from Canada, where the I.S.S. committee has continued to work most efficiently.

The Academy, which is registered under the Ontario Department of Education and on the approved list of the D.V.A., was founded last year and began its first six month term on the 7th of January this year, with the following term scheduled to open in September.

A glance through the Academy Calendar is to make the acquaintance of the selection of top-notch specialists in Canadian radio who are on its instructing staff. Lorne Greene, the voice behind NFB films and a host of national network productions—also Director of the School—teaches announcing, Andrew Allan production, Fletcher Markle writing, John Drainie acting, W. H. Brodie speech, while a host of others, among whom CBS's Norman Corwin is tentatively scheduled, come in for special lectures.

The Academy is one more among the increasing number of signs of radio's coming of age. As Deane Greene put it, "Like architecture and engineering, radio can no longer remain satisfied with rough and ready talent. Generally speaking it has been neither a science nor an art in the past and "breaking into radio" was a matter of luck, doggedness and, occasionally, talent. We feel that through systematic teaching of the varied phases of radio, the level of its product can be raised and an opportunity provided for new people to enter the field."

The remarks are significant if one considers that, while radio as a medium of expression has surpassed the stage in extent of audience and of day to day influence, it has produced no Moliere's, no Ibsen's, no Eugene O'Neill's, unless it be that "Who Killed Cock Robin," "Calling Dr. Brent" and unremittent plug uglies represent the acme of twentieth century art.

The Academy's curriculum is generally comparable to that of the Radio School of the famed Columbia University. According to the Director, there will be something in the neighborhood of a thousand applicants when the autumn term opens. Of these approximately a hundred will be accepted. While not a post-graduate school, the Academy requires senior matriculation or better.

I asked, "Is there any possibility of the Academy's being integrated sometime in the

Editorial Encores

...Genius Haven?

From the University of Saskatchewan's Sheaf comes an editorial echoing one of The Varsity's bemoaning the fact that there is a great gap between high-schools and university which should be bridged in some way in the very near future.

It is too often found that freshman students enrolling at university are undecided as to what course they are most fitted for. They are convinced that university training can prove decidedly beneficial, but they are ill-equipped to determine just what classes they should take. This lack of acquaintance with the opportunities which university has to offer often results in the discovery by several freshmen, half-way through the term, that they have picked the wrong profession and have consequently wasted a year of valuable time.

In the case of the student veteran, steps have been taken to forestall such a situation. The potential student appears before a board of counsellors whereupon the advisability of his attending university, the course on which he intends to embark, and other pertinent questions are discussed openly and frankly.

It seems that this principle could advantageously be applied to the high schools. Were third and fourth year high school students more familiar with subjects taught in the universities, the collegiate graduate would be more adequately prepared for the educational experience provided by university.

Not knowing what is in store for them, several of these graduates reject the opportunity of attending university. In several instances this disinterested attitude stems from a fear of their own personal incapacities. Ignorant of what will be expected of them in the study of new subjects such as Economics, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, and so on, they build up the illusion that university is a haven for the genius.

The bridge between high school and university is too wide and unaccessible. If the education standard of our province is to be improved, then university training must be encouraged, not only insofar as the veteran is concerned, but on a province-wide-scale. The high school student has seemingly been forgotten. A university calendar is in itself a totally inadequate information bureau. The high school student must be enlightened through more direct and effective methods.

future under the University of Toronto in keeping with the many American Universities?"

Mr. Greene replied, "I am not aware of any such possibility in the offing. It would be interesting. However, a radio school requires radio men in its instructing staff and the preservation of that feature of our organization would have to be considered."

—OSCAR HALINA

You'll See Miss Varsity of '46 Tomorrow

THAT AIN'T ALL!

PLAN TO ATTEND THE

All University Show CONVOCAATION HALL

March 6th. and 7th.

FRANK BELSHAW and HIS BAND

Production Numbers From:

- U. C. Follies
- Dentantics
- Daffydil Nite
- Skule Nite

SPONSORED BY I.S.S.

SEMI-FORMAL
TICKETS—2.50 per couple
From any Physical Ed.

P.H.E. AT HOME
HART HOUSE
MARCH 1st

The MODERNAIRES
Intermission Aquacade
DANCING 9 to 1

Alumni Meeting Tonight To Discuss Co-ed Centre

Consideration of the proposed co-educational centre and office building is on the agenda of tonight's meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Federation. The Alumni are expected to announce tomorrow whether they are prepared to pay half the cost, as proposed by the Students' Administrative Council.

Tentative plans, as outlined in a letter to the Federation from George Doner, first vice-president of the S.A.C. and Senior Undergraduate of the University, call for a War Memorial building to house graduate and undergraduate activities. Included are offices for the Alumni Federation, the S.A.C., The Varsity, Torontonensis, and the U. of T. Monthly.

Also proposed is a co-educational common room in which student organizations could hold meetings without incurring present difficulties with the Hart House "no women" rule.

STILL TRANSIENT . . .

The shuttlecock of University bureaucracy, The Varsity Sunday night moved into its fourth night office in a month and finds itself conducting a daily paper without evening telephone facilities. A private night phone is expected within the next day or so.

Currently opened up for night office use is the old day office in University College, with the addition of an ancient history seminar upstairs which is being used by the make-up department through the kindness of the U.C. Classics Dept.

Shortage of outside phone lines has prevented the office telephone being plugged into a night line, and staff members are using the phone in the U.C. rotunda up to 10 p.m., when the main building closes.

Previous night offices were the University Press, the Health League of Canada, and the S.A.C. Office, Hart House. Removal from the latter was occasioned by enforcement of the "no women" rule.

The night phone number will be announced as soon as a phone is obtained.

Our Readers Write —

He's Back

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:
May I acknowledge my gratitude to my worthy critics for the valiant manner in which they have gone to bat to uphold my original contentions. I had really hoped for a reply in kind from the redoubtable Miss Nowak—but I shall not quibble.

Your correspondents have exemplified in no uncertain fashion the effects of an anti-Soviet phobia based on ignorance. Miss Nowak, for instance, points to the Spanish Gov't-in-Exile set up in Mexico as an example of the workings of Soviet strategy. Had she paid a little more attention to the facts, she would have learned that the aforesaid group contains not a single Communist, nor even a left-wing Socialist. Furthermore, she might even have learned, to her great surprise, that Spanish Communists are supporting a rival group in France. She also indulges in a bit of Kirk-connell-like misquotation. Kirkconnell received (gratefully) a medal from Hitler for services rendered—but poor Miss Nowak gets only brick-bats. Tch-tch!

Mr. Gonzalez is willing to go Miss Nowak one better, and claims a measure of religious freedom for Spain. Since when does religious freedom for one sect constitute unhampered religious activity?

A similar disregard (or ignorance) of the facts is evidenced in that joint masterpiece by Messrs. Menich and Samuel. It seems that they have not read the statements made at the Nuremberg trials by top German generals re Finland. Neither do they seem to be able to grasp the idea that the veto was not used in U.N.O. They would be well-advised to look beneath the scare headlines of the Toronto Telegram.

Mr. Cole's juvenile, cliché-clogged addition to the confusion is not even worth an answer. It is clearly a case of "from the ridiculous to the Fire Plus Snow Stopped 'em Cold

Slowed up by the heavy snowfall, the basketball teams scheduled to play at the Eglinton Hunt Club yesterday evening arrived late only to find the building in flames. The All-Varsity women's basketball team had previously arranged to hold a practice game with the interfaculty champions, P.H.E. II, for the benefit of the officers of the Club.

A barricade greeted the visitors as they arrived, blocking admittance to the gym which was rendered uninhabitable by thick smoke. The cause of the blaze could not be ascertained by the tired and cold players.

When interviewed, one of the girls' comment was, "While we waited for another bus to come along we wished that some of the heat from the fire could be put to constructive use by keeping us warm."

The basketball game between the two top basketball teams has been postponed until Thursday, 5:30, at O.C.E.

Do Miss Nowak's supporters propose to draw a comparison between the organized expeditionary forces of Mussolini and Hitler, and the 1,200 Canadians who went across as individuals in cattle-boats to fight Franco? Do they propose to compare the selling of arms to a legally-elected government to the clandestine shipping of arms to a rebel group? Surely any such comparisons at par must be a sheer effrontery to the intelligence of any thinking student.

There seem to be in our midst certain individuals who view with misgiving and fear the final eradication of fascism. They have as much fear of Democracy as they have of Communism. Mr. Gonzalez's mealy-mouthed defense of war criminals is a classic case in point. These individuals are dragging the Soviet Union into the debate only to becloud the issue. They are dragging the all-too-familiar red herring across the path of progress. Hitler tried it, with rather well-known results. You are out of tune with the times, gentlemen, and you can produce only blaring but ineffectual discord.

—Henry M. Rosenthal,
1 Soc. & Phil.

Ten More

(Continued From Page 1)

at Therapist and work with children—but one of these days she is going to work with some of her own. She lives at HU8287.

SHEILA McDUGALL came from the famous gold-mining town of Red Lake two years ago to enter C.A.F. at Trinity. She's going to use her knowledge of finance to start her own gold mine some-day.

Between the gold mine and 5' 7" of light brown hair and hazel eyes MI451 is definitely a good number.

RUTH BURDEN, "Miss Farmerette of 1945" has black hair and brown eyes lives in St. Hilda's at MI3451.

Says that THE man must be both the cave-man and the intellectual. From Ottawa, Ruth spends a lot of time skiing, dancing and bridging.

DOROTHY KUBIS whose vital statistics appeared yesterday.

GWEN LEWIS is a green-eyed blonde whose P. & H.E. figure reaches 5'3". Campus wolves are forewarned that her brother, George Lewis was a former boxing champ and star athlete at Varsity.

When is she going to get married? "Never I hope! Why do people always expect girls to do nothing else but get married?" However Gwen is definitely not a man-hater, just figures that the male specimen has his "own place".

She complains that there are only three boys in her year ... one's married, one's engaged and the other is a wolf.

MARYON MISNER whose picture appeared yesterday, is a beautiful blonde Dental Nurse from London. She hasn't met her ideal man yet so she goes out three or four nights a week to look around. RA2685 might result with a dental appointment that most certainly wouldn't require anaesthetic.

U.W.O. Top McGill To Lead League

In their fourth straight win, Western Mustangs downed McGill 54-42 last Friday on their home floor. This defeat definitely put the Redmen out of the champion race. Over four thousand Western enthusiasts watched this decisive hoop game.

The Mustangs definitely held the edge throughout, although the Redmen managed for a short time to match the Western hoopsters point for point. Greenburg again was the outstanding scorer for the Montreal team.

The high record of the evening was the percentage of fouls sunk—14 out of 17.

McGill—Davidson (4), Roth (19), Goodwin, Shacter, Greenburg (14), Bower (2), Finley (3), Miller, Hoyle, Total—42.

Western—Farley (15), Humphreys (3), Phibbs (5), Cunningham, Scorgie (9), Curry (9), Gauld (6), McNair (7), Huyck, Total—54.

Because of Production Difficulties, only a limited number of copies of Torontonensis can be printed this year.

All college offices, libraries, fraternities, etc. wishing to purchase copies are asked to place an order with the Students' Administrative Council Office before February 28th.

INTERESTING JEWELLERY SHOP

NECKLACES,
EARRINGS
BANGLES and BROOCHES.
32 Bloor St. East
(Near Red Cross Headquarters)
MI. 5875

Seek Guiding Principles Says Principal of Queen's

Kingston, Ont., Feb. 17—(CUP)—"Your University lives in you, we wish you Godspeed as you go out into your life," said Dr. R. C. Wallace, Principal and vice-Chancellor of Queen's University, addressing the graduating class at a special Faculty of Medicine Convocation, Friday.

At the convocation 40 students received degrees of Doctor of Medicine, and Master of Surgery and 18 special awards were given. Principal Wallace congratulated the graduates in attaining the goal which they had set themselves on entering university.

He also expressed his gratitude to the government for their enlightened attitude in helping train professional men, and hoped for continued assistance in meeting the post-war problems. In paying tribute to men of the medical profession, he stated that their intimate knowledge of human nature gave them qualification for participating in public affairs.

"The world has become too hard for a few to handle. It is time for more men of different professions to speak out," Principal Wallace continued. "You must learn your life and determine clearly your own philosophy and principles which must guide you. Then decisions will be easier, especially in crises. Then you will be anchored to a harbor of your own judgment whatever tempests of criticism may pass over you."

Principal Wallace explained that Dr. G. E. Hall, Dean of Medicine, and President-elect of the University of Western Ontario, who was to have spoken, had been delayed in the United States by failure in train connections and so was unable to be present.

A large number of Dutch students have gone to England to be housed in a new student hostel set up by I.S.S.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.
Quick, accurate repair service
321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Refreshment coming up

COCA-COLA LTD. - TORONTO

BEAT MCGILL FRIDAY

HOCKEY
8.00 V.A.

FREE

Speaking OF SPORT

By Don Mason

THIS IS IT!

Suggested title for this week would be "Sports Week at Varsity" rather than "Brotherhood Week". What with spring thaws in the offing, athletic activities hereabouts will be hitting an all-time high during the next few days. Let's have a look at what's going on....

BEAT MCGILL ET AL

Big do in the hockey world will be the long-awaited Varsity-McGill battle come Friday. To avoid confusion which has been rampant in the last few puck tilts, leave us say that it's FREE, that it starts at 8:30, that it's at the Varsity Arena which is immediately east of the Stadium.

The Redmen, by virtue of their 14-0 shellacking of Queen's last Friday, loom as formidable opposition to the high-flying homesters. Both teams have played four league games, both teams have won all of them. Thus it is obvious (oh yes it is) that it will be Varsity or McGill at the top when the schedule closes.

Let's have no false optimism over our chances. McGill boasts a very powerful squad in all aspects of their game. In the person of Captain Bobby Broderick, they have what is considered to be the best defenceman in the league, bar none.

Their first-string forward line of Porteous-Pearson-O'Connor have put a lot of pucks into opposition nets and Centreman Johnny Pearson is right behind our own Halder in the scoring race. More about those Redmen in the very near future.

The Intermediates (late Junior Bees) are playing their second league game in Guelph to-night against (you guessed it) O.A.C.

McMaster will get a chance to seek revenge for a defeat suffered last week, as the same Intermediates invade the Smoky City on Thursday night.

After emerging victors in the Jr. "B" loop, the Intermediates are looking for fresh fields to conquer in this league, and, judging from the records, should do it.

THE BASKETBALL SCENE

Thursday night will see a miniature athletic night in Hart House. Reason? The WAYNE basketballers are seeking blood from the Sr. Blues, the Varsity Seconds and Thirds will do battle against McMaster's First and Second squads, respectively.

The Detroit team have won six, lost eight this season; played such teams as Western (beat them!), Michigan State, Albion, Cincinnati. The Dilworth-demons will be out for sweet revenge, for, if memory serves us right, (and it does, for here's the bally sched.)—the same Wayne squad trounced our boys quite decisively on the night of Dec. 14. The score was 50-25. Hmmm.

Will give you some more gen on this big Thursday nite event in to-morrow's paper. But remember, me hearties, it's FREE!!!

Oh, yes... Saturday night will see the Big Blue Basketballers in Buffalo, pitted against a squad from NIAGARA U. AND WHAT'S MORE....

.... The fencing, boxing, gym. and wrestling teams will be going full-blast. The Sr. Fencers are staging a tournament with McGill foil artists, in a feature event for the coming Athletic Night. The Blue Fencers, picked just this week, are a strong group, and it will take some high class competition to defeat them. Well, McGill???

Not to be outdone by such King-size events in the realms of hockey, basketball, and fencing, our boxers and wrestlers, are grabbing a Friday train for Kingston, to stage a two-day tournament with the grunt and groan artists at Queen's. This will be their first big road-show of the year, and we wish them all kinds of knock-out decisions, and pinned-to-the-mat decisions. In fact, we hope they win.

Like everything in this durn column to-day, we'll have more details on this trip, and the men who are going.

Well, take your pick. We can give you a merry week in the world of sports—and it's all Grade "A". Watch this page for more details, will ya???

Ajax Intramural Standings

For games played up to and including February 11th

Place	Residence	Points	Volley Ball	Basket Ball	Hockey	Bowling
1	Residence 738	59	10	0	15	34
2	Residence 725	54	5	12	5	32
3	Residence 728	52.5	5	16	7.5	24
4	Residence 724	51	10	20	5	10
5	Residence 730	50.5	10	18	2.5	20
6	Residence 729	47.5	5	8.5	10	24
7	Residence 727	45.5	10	8	7.5	20
8	Residence 737	45	5	15	20
9	Residence 732	42	5	4	5	28
10	Residence 731	35	0	10	5	20
11	Residence 723	35	0	0	5	20
12	Residence 722	33	0	0	5	20
13	Residence 734	32.5	0	10	2.5	20
14	Residence 733	31	5	10	0	16
15	Residence 726	23	0	5	10	8
16	Commuters	12.5	0	7.5	0	8
17	Residence 721	0	0	0	0	0

These point totals do not include allotted points for team entries but are based on the actual wins and losses on the games played.

LEAGUE STANDING

Senior Intercollegiate Hockey
	G	W	L	T	F	A	P
TORONTO	4	4	0	0	34	6	8
McGill	4	4	0	0	45	9	8
Montreal	4	1	3	0	28	32	2
Queen's	5	0	5	0	5	58	0
Senior Intercollegiate Basketball
	G	W	L	T	F	A	P
Western	4	4	0	0	211	145	8
TORONTO	4	3	1	0	219	165	6
McGill	4	1	3	0	156	196	2
Queen's	4	0	4	0	172	224	0
Intercollegiate Intermediate Hockey
	G	W	L	T	F	A	P
TORONTO	1	1	0	0	7	5	2
McMaster	1	0	1	0	5	7	0
O.A.C.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0

U.C. Best in 880

For the first and only time, last night field men had a chance to demonstrate their prowess in Hec Phillips indoor track schedule. Restrictions placed on such events as Javelin and Discus by the size of the Hart House Gym permitted competition in the 12 lb. shot only.

PHE's Bill Deane, and a newcomer, Drew of Victoria, outthrew their field, to establish a first place tie at 42' 5". Third was Hikichi, well known Vic sprinter, with 34' 1", and close behind was Skule's Lawrence, 33' 4 1/2".

A total of 28 teams, or 168 men, competed in the 880 yard relay. With six men to a team, each athlete had one lap to cover. U.C., earning the position of fastest College in the University, on the track at least, with a time of 1:46.3, was represented by Harris, Deacon, Taylor, Phalen, Dzupina and Kerrison. SPS (Armstrong, Lawrence, Gregory, Fordyce, Yeates, Ballantyne) was a close second in 1:46.9. Victoria (Kingdon, Hart, Hikichi, McComisky, Gardner, Noel) was a step behind at 1:47.1. PHE garnered fourth.

The Novice 2 mile run was well won by McNeill of Victoria, who crossed the line a mere two or three feet ahead of Warren of SPS. McNeill's time was 10:44.9, while Warren took only a tenth of a second longer. Gordon (Vic) and Love (SPS) provided another close finish, Gordon taking third by a close margin. Time—10:51.9. 24 men competed in this event.

Next week's schedule features the 50 yard low hurdles, and the 1 mile relay.

Blues Tie Grads

Last night Varsity Seniors tied Simpson Grads 36-36 on the Hart House hardwood.

The game was slow and rugged most of the way. Sid Himmel and Zeaton came through with what good basketball Varsity did show.

Simpsons played very poorly considering that they have in Breadon and 'Shag' Park two of the better basketball players in Toronto.

The Varsity squad led 16-13 at half time. With resumption of play the Grads scored three quick baskets to take over. Then Zeaton twice grabbed the ball from Anderson (8), Swan (6), Glat (2), Zeaton son and potted two quickies.

LINE-UPS:
VARSITY—Tettmar (5), Himmel (11), Hennessy, Sturgess (4). Total 36.

SIMPSON—Easto, Poulton, Whalen, Maxwell (5), Milton (3), Breacon (8), Warren (8), Anderson (4), Park (5), Samme, Moores (3), Abram. Total 36.

Ajax Sports

BASKETBALL
734B	defeated	723B	28-18
734	defeated	736A	21-19
729A	defeated	733C	42-11
Commuters defeated 728A, 42-25
BOWLING		Winner	Loser
733B		730B	1636-1631
731B		729B	1594-1435
737A		734A	2012-1580
724B		727B	1772-1669
721 Girls Commuters by default
736A Commuters B by default
725B		723B	1652-1580
734B		723C	1672-1547
722C		736B	1784-1647

Jaxs Score 5 In Last Period To Tie Senior School 6-6

The U. of T. Jaxs hockey team gave a convincing display of true country hospitality for two periods Monday night as they played host to their big brothers from Sr. School. However the near zero temperature prodded them to movement in the last period when they piled up five goals to overcome a 5-1 deficit, emerging with a 6-6 draw.

On fast bumpy ice the visitors got off on the right skate with two fast goals by Martin and Hislop and had the Jaxs boys hemmed in their own end of the rink. Spence from Watson was the first Ajax marker, but Lawson set up Fortin to put Sr. School ahead 3-1 at the end of the first period. The last half of this period was spent in getting acquainted as boards, ice and sticks were given true scientific tests for hardness and durability.

In the second period Sr. School put on the pressure as Saliston, Fortin and Lawson began forechecking, and Hall in the Ajax nets was kept busy. Radcliffe bounced a high one off the post and Stefanyshyn backhanded the rebound into the corner of the mesh. Play then shifted to the other end and from a melee Dogue lifted the puck over the net in an attempt to beat Denham who had sprawled to make a save.

With the wind at their backs the line of Spence, Watson and Haynes forced the play in the third period, but Martin on a perfect pass to centre made no mistake as he picked the corner to put the Toronto lads four goals ahead. Oopp scored immediately from the face-off, then Houston and Spence set up Watson on a pretty passing play to make it 5-3. Sr. School was finding their shortage of alternates a definite handicap at this point as their hosts (kept in trim at all times by traveling to and from lectures in spacious vans) exerted a steady pressure. Dyer on a pass from Wiacek notched one while four minutes later Watson drew Denham far out of the net and batted in a backhand to tie the score. Both teams now fought for the deciding break and play was very rough and ragged. With less than five minutes to go Fortin took (Continued on Page 8)

Sr. S.P.S. Trounces Jaxs In Closely Fought Game

In a game climaxed by a thrilling last quarter Sr. S.P.S. Monday night took the measure of U. of T. Jaxs by a score of 36-32. The game was played in the Ajax Recreation Hall which was packed with enthusiastic Ajaxians. Play was somewhat hampered by the fact that the floor was still slippery from a dance held Friday night.

The first quarter began with both teams playing a slow man to man defensive game. Doty opened the scoring for the Jaxs on a lay-up shot from the side. S.P.S. came back with three quick ones; a dog-shot by Tredgett and two long ones by Hendricks and Hennessy. The game soon opened up and S.P.S. showed their speed and a fine passing attack. They dominated the play around the baskets and the Jaxs' defense was not able to cope with their smooth work and smart shooting. Towards the end of the half the Jaxs' passing became more organized, and they were able to find holes in the S.P.S. defense, and were sinking many shots from within the keyhole. The half ended with S.P.S. leading 18-16.

The second half opened with Ajax fighting harder, checking harder and breaking faster, and for a while were able to tie up their more experienced opponents. A basket by Robson tied the game, but only for a moment as Tredgett scored two in quick succession from outside the key to put S.P.S. four up. The Jaxs came back to tie it up on baskets by Crang and Taylor. The lead see-sawed back and forth although both teams missed many chances. The Ajax defense weakened long enough to allow four baskets by Hollowell and Hennessy on sneaker (Continued on Page 8)

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
12:00	EMMAN. vs ST. M. B.	Garfunkel, Atkinson
WATER-POLO
4:15	SPS III vs U.C. (PHE)	Brace
6:00	ST. M. vs JR. MED.	Allaire
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1:00	TRIN. A vs PHE II	Maxwell
4:00	DENT. B vs VIC. III	Holman
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	III ELEC. vs I DENT.	Farrell
6:30	III CIVIL vs ST. M. C.	McPhedran
7:30	ST. M. D vs VIC VII	McPhedran

BASKETBALL

McMaster IIIs vs Varsity IIIs—6.00 p.m.

McMaster IIs vs Varsity IIs—7.30 p.m.

VARSITY SENIORS vs WAYNE—9.00 p.m.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21st., 1946

HOCKEY HOCKEY

VARSITY ARENA, 8 P.M.

Varsity vs McGill

Students admitted free on presentation of registration card, with Athletic Portion attached.

RESERVED SEATS $1.00

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 22nd.

Our Readers Write —

Over-Inflation

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Many thanks for your reprint of the article "God and the Professors" in your series on education, published last Thursday. We hope more than a few of the followers of The Varsity braved its length to be impressed by the clear-cut analysis exhibited by the author. For it is not only the professor who seems to be encumbered with an over-inflation of "knowledge", but likewise the professional student.

To be sure, it is quite natural for us to soak up this knowledge, but should we do so to the exclusion of knowledge which is not natural, that is, which is not gained by pure reasoning? This, I believe, is where we commence to fall short. Our newly acquired theories tend to obscure the need for greater truth. We endeavour to form a "philosophy of life" based upon our scientific and philosophical findings which drastically limits our knowledge of the supernatural, that is, God. We cannot formulate conclusions concerning God and man's destiny simply from knowledge of the natural, as is our student tendency, for a knowledge of God is beyond the natural.

At this stage of learning, religion cannot be overlooked, for religion is supernatural knowledge and therefore holds the supreme place in our search for higher culture. Despite students' "pet philosophies" therefore, to quote Professor Adler, "religion cannot be regarded as just another aspect of culture, one among many human occupations of indifferent importance along with science and art, history and philosophy".

Of course, the student is free in his own mind to choose his form of religion and to follow it in faith. It is up to him to make the correct choice, observing carefully the supreme position it holds in his culture, and, most important, his relationship to God.

I am rather surprised that the editorials of The Varsity have entirely evaded this quite important consideration in their discussion on education and hope that they intend to at least touch upon this aspect in the near future.

WM. G. RATZ,
III SPS.

Pass Upheld

The Editor, The Varsity.

Dear Sir:

Having seen a copy of your paper in the lobby of University College, I took the liberty of reading a copy of the 11th instant and note that you have been discussing the Pass Arts Course, and that the decision in the debate "The Pass Arts Course is the tombstone of our civilization" was 49-28 in favor of the course.

Never being privileged to attend University in the usual way, I can only say that those who have been able to obtain a Pass Arts Course at a duly accredited university are very fortunate. For my own part, I have had to be satisfied with what I have been able to obtain extramurally or at night, while working all the time, and automatically being barred from all the social contacts of such an institution.

It is only in recent years that I have had to deal with large staffs, although I have always had many difficult problems to handle and for the benefit of those students who have not yet reached the business world, I should like to state that, in my opinion, the subjects which have been of the greatest value to me are economics, Latin and Greek, Psychology and the ability to write good English, not forgetting a good knowledge of Shakespeare. The value of accuracy in everything cannot be overestimated.

However, I will always have a feeling of deep appreciation for the University of Toronto as an institution of learning on account of the fact that I have been allowed to study through the Department of University Extension.

—Leslie P. Myers.

Research Lab. Begun At Sask.

Saskatoon, Sask.—Feb. 13—(CUP)

—A four storied skeleton, which will soon be the completed Dominion Government Research Laboratory now stands on the campus of the University of Saskatchewan. The building which has been under construction since last summer will contain 14 laboratories, 12 utility rooms, 13 offices, a library board room and a common room.

The building will have an abundance of windows and some thirty-four skylights will ensure good lighting in the laboratories. A tunnel leading from the sub-basement to the power house will allow for power connections, providing heat and light in the Research laboratory. An automatic elevator will service the building.

THEY WILL NOT FORGET

A Chinese Student.—"Since we began our resistance you have sent us sympathy and encouragement, and you have done various kinds of work to help us. This loyalty and friendship we shall never forget."

A Canadian Prisoner in Germany.—"Thank you for your letter and the response to my request. I hope in the future to express my thanks in person for the good work you and your organization are doing to make life a little easier."

A Dutch Student.—"Yesterday I received your package. It is a real comfort to know that there are people outside who are genuinely interested and are doing everything possible to help."

A Greek Internee in Switzerland.—"Before I leave Switzerland I just want to offer my services if I can be a link between the University of Athens and yourself. In a modest way, perhaps, we in Greece can join in your work for student solidarity."

A French Student Enslaved in Germany.—"I don't know if I dare ask you for any more books after having already received three. Thanks to your help, our library has grown. Thanks to you, many of us will have maintained moral and intellectual equilibrium so that when we do return home we shall be ready for our task."

"Monthly" Editor Works To Keep Grads Posted

By John McRae

Practically the only way graduates of the University of Toronto can keep in touch with campus activities and former classmates is through the medium of The University of Toronto Monthly, a magazine published each month from October to June by the Alumni Federation of the University. Mrs. V. M. MacFarlane who edits and runs The Monthly by herself thinks that the average undergrad should be more interested in Graduate activities so as to be prepared to take an active part in them.

"After all," said Mrs. MacFarlane, "students are undergrads for four years and the rest of their lives are Alumni. Those four years in comparison with the 40 to 50 in the Alumni are very short. We want the undergrads to be interested in Graduate work." Going on to speak of the proposed co-educational centre for graduate and undergraduate activities, Mrs. MacFarlane stated, "I think it would be a good thing if we had closer contact with the undergrads. For that reason if we were put in a building where we would have a contact with them it would be better. We have adequate quarters here, but we are off the beaten track."

Mrs. MacFarlane, who graduated from University College in 1918, has been on the Alumni staff for 15 years and has been acting Ed for the past 5 years. She does all the editing, proofreading, and a good deal of the writing for the magazine. The magazine is set up in dummy form before it goes to the University Press. One of the many troubles she has is trying to get enough pictures to put in the magazine. Mrs. MacFarlane believes that more pictures make a magazine more interesting, but believing this and trying to put it into practice are two different things.

Last January the Alumni Federation gave a dinner at the Royal York Hotel. Mrs. MacFarlane arranged for pictures to be taken of the group and of the principal speaker of the evening, Abbe Maheux. She was going to use this picture on the cover of February's issue.

"Well the time came around for me to start getting the cover ready. I phoned the photographers, but they put me off for a while saying that they were not yet ready. They kept putting me off and became very elusive. When I did get the pictures they were not fit to be printed, and I'm still looking for a picture of Abbe Maheux."

This is just an example of what Mrs. MacFarlane is up against. During the war the paper situation was so bad that often the magazine could not be printed on time and even then could not be delivered because there was no wrapping paper. Even now, due to difficulties at the Press, no kind of publication date can be maintained.

News of interest to the graduates comes from sources all over the campus and from the grads themselves. Associate editors of the magazine from each College and Faculty Alumni, or Alumnae, send in information about its members each month. Close connection is maintained with the clipping service in the Registrar's Office in Simcoe Hall. This service has a file on every graduate of the University and glean the daily papers for news of interest about them. When the Alumni send out notices to various members a request is always enclosed asking the graduate to send on information of his doings. Ross McLean is this year's Undergraduate Associate Editor who supplies news and features on campus and undergraduate activities.

Through all these channels the news pours into Mrs. MacFarlane's office. Here she organizes it all, arranges the format of each page and the cover, proofreads and corrects and eventually the magazine is on its way to the 5000 subscribers all over the world. To many of these this is the only way they can keep in touch with the University.

ROYAL ALEXANDRA

KING ST. (West of University Ave.)

ALL THIS WEEK

Eves. (8:20). Mats. Wed.-Sat. (2:20)

THE NATIONAL COMPANY OF

BROADWAY'S CURRENT DRAMATIC

SMASH HIT

"GO SEE IT!"

—WALTER WINCHELL

DEEP ARE THE

ROOTS

Box Office Open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Eves. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40 - $3.00

Wed. Mat. 50c - $1.20 - $1.80

Sat. Mat. 60c - $1.20 - $1.80 - $2.40

(All Tax Included)

The Wolf

While prowling about, he saw one of the beautiful double-breasted models that he could take out within 3-4 weeks at very moderate cost, at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE

(At College)

And so he made a date at RA 8995-6

To-day he's the smartest dresser in the pack and the pride and joy of Little Red Riding Hood.

24 HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

COLOUR PHOTOGRAPHY

Have your party photographed in brilliant natural colour! Personal portraiture also done. Phone KI 3667, Peter or Jerry Waite, 5-6 p.m.

WANTED

Army officer's uniform, size 39, height 5'9". Apply Box K, The Varsity.

PERSONAL

Anyone driving to Montreal, March 1st, and could accommodate two, expenses shared, call HU 5006.

WANTED

All Forest Hill grads, to attend annual Forest Hill Prom at Central School, on Friday, Feb. 22nd. Tickets from Colin Wrong.

FOR SALE

Army officer's uniform, complete, size 37, good condition, very reasonably priced. Phone LL 6718.

FOR SALE

Size 8, hockey skates. Apply B. Noase, Room 12, Residence 736, Ajax.

WANTED

Tutor for second year Calculus. (Engineering). Apply Box L, The Varsity.

LOST

Blue Waterman's pen, broken clip, Monday afternoon, probably U.C. Please leave at Room 82 U.C.

WANTED

Actuarial Science tutor, 1st year. Apply Box M, The Varsity.

LOST

Mido watch, between Anatomy Bldg., and Hart House, Saturday. Inscribed "J.M." on back. Phone KI 2882, after 6.

FOR SALE

Dress Tail coat, size 36. Blue suit good condition, 18 ounce serge, size 36, (young man's) with 2 pair trousers, 30" waist, 32" leg. MA 4175, after 6.

WANTED

2 tickets for Vic-At-Home, February 22nd. Phone ME 3232.

The sun was warm out at AJAX last Saturday afternoon. Warm too, was the reception everyone received. There was a general air of good fellowship, of vitality, and of youthful freshness.

We like the Canadian prints on the common room walls—the lighting in the draughting rooms and labs—and boy—would those long halls ever be good for roller skates. We never got to riding in the Blue Goose but did have a jaunt in the horse van taxi.

Former Varsity grads quickly recognized Mr. J. R. Gully, Chief of the AJAX reservation. Tepee 721 under the charm of the settlement (two visitors allowed past common room) but we did explore Tepee 728 under able guidance of head-brave Melramin. In the well equipped Rec. Hall genial energetic Buff Horton has things humming. A visit to AJAX is a must!

published by b. a. stevenson, c.l.u. and associates of the university branch.
57 bloor street, west.
ki 4136.

Classified Advertisements

REMEMBER NOMINATIONS FOR HART HOUSE OPEN FRIDAY

Art, Music and Drama

About Roots

Playing at the Royal Alexandra this week is still another play concerning the negro problem in the South. But "Deep Are The Roots" is not only this. It is a powerful condemnation of a decadent society—a society with roots stretching far back to the days of the early planter. The authors Arnaud d'Usseau and James Gow have made a serious study of the problem, and, if it is debatable whether the play contains the necessary elements of good drama, they have contrived a thorough survey of the dilemma now confronting the South. They are obviously well acquainted with the history and the peculiar characteristics of the southern aristocrat. Aware of the future developments if the question is not settled, the authors have not attempted to gloss the subject, and have revealed it in its stark reality, predicting the inevitable horror of race struggle. It is the most powerful discussion of the problem we have heard to date.

As a play, however, it suffers from too much intensity which tends to wear on one after two acts. Moreover, it is a series of lengthy speeches in which the authors wrestle with the issues. Yet, it is extremely well knit and compares favourably with "Strange Fruit" which appeared here last autumn.

The acting is of an unusually high standard, with no tendency to be overly dramatic, although Jessie Grayson as Bella Charles leans toward "angelic" poses. With admirable skill the actors captured and sustained the mood of the play, and co-operated with each other in such a fashion that no unnaturalness crept in to spoil the effect. The set, lighting and direction are of excellent calibre. Therefore, from the view of a drama critic, there is very little argument with the production itself.

But, there is one thing that disturbed us. The legitimate theatre is a most inadequate medium in which to express social problems. The limited public who attend are usually sufficiently enlightened to be fully aware of the evils in race discrimination. The appeal should be to the mass and not to the few. Moreover, "Deep Are The Roots" should be shown in the South and not to people who abhor the condition of the Negro. But in the South theatres won't book the play. This is not to say that we have no anti-negro prejudice here. We have. But through the theatre the appeal is too limited. If the authors were more interested in rectifying the situation than making a name for themselves as dramatists, then they would have chosen some other medium—the press, the radio, anything but the theatre. Therefore, when you see this play, and we strongly recommend that you do, bear this in mind so that your critical appreciation of drama, for such it is intended to be, is not clouded by the emotional appeal of the race problem.

—VERNON CHAPMAN.

The Voice and the T.S.O.

Last night's Symphony Concert in Massey Hall was of exceptionally high standard, both in orchestral performance and guest artist quality. Sir Ernest MacMillan did the honors from the podium with Anna Kaskas, star of the Metropolitan Opera, featured in three operatic arias.

Artistically good was Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik, four movements of pure elegance, with the string section, most capable of the T.S.O., in perfect tonal accord. It is always a treat to rediscover that Mozart, a composer of the so-called classic period, wrote music of emotional intensity as well as formal beauty.

Vincent D'Indy's Symphony on a French Mountain Air for Orchestra and Piano received its first Toronto performance with Margaret Miller Brown at the piano. We believe that this work will become more understandable through familiarity. It is based on a French folk-tune, is treated with warmth and tenderness which several sour notes from the horns failed to spoil. The piano is scored as an integral part of the composition, not as a solo instrument. Miss Brown's fine interpretation was a feat of memory as well as a proof of her musical sincerity.

Orchids go to Anna Kaskas, contralto, the singer who refused to be overwhelmed by an orchestral accompaniment. Her voice was glorious, full of vibrant power, expressive to a superlative degree. Most unforgettable was the Verdi aria O Don Fatale, sung with perfect control attaining the heights of vocal resource.

Unforgettable also was the expression on Sir Ernest's face as Miss Kaskas led him around the stage by the hand.

—COURT STONE.

Wind Hits Ajax; Panic Reigns

The makings of a small tornado hit Ajax on Thursday causing considerable bewilderment among students and staff alike.

A resulting break in the power line from the substation at Oshawa caused consternation among students affably posed for class photographs, while panic reigned among the draftees in the Engineering Drawing rooms. Lecture rooms were in semi-darkness for the better part of a half hour, until just before 10:30 a.m. regular service was again restored.

The roof of the Ajax pump-house and windows in residences also proved casualties of the termination of a number of days of spring weather and rains.

However, Friday saw everything restored to normal and only a lot of hot air remained where once was tempest fugiting.

STUDENTS NEED SUPPLIES

Textbooks are short in Europe. Libraries are destroyed and classrooms shattered. Yugoslavia is short of clothing, medical supplies, books, even pencils and paper, in common with the rest of Europe. As many as forty Chinese students often use the same handwritten textbooks. Prices often make oil for lamps a luxury.

Ajax Engineers Discuss Transport

At a meeting of the Ajax Engineering Society Monday, Gord Beatty, vice-president and social convener, announced that work was progressing favorably on the Ajax Year Dance to be held March 19.

"At present we are having difficulty in obtaining reception rooms for guests," Beatty said, "but we hope to have this remedied in the near future and in time for the dance."

Mike McAuliffe, President of the Ajax branch, explained some of the troubles which were cropping up in the bus service to Toronto over the week-ends.

"The students must co-operate more with the Gray Coach Lines, which, because of shortages, can not undertake to make the week-end runs into the city," said MacAuliffe. "Unless the buses are filled, they cannot continue these runs."

Jaxs Tie Skule

(Continued from Page 7)

a breakaway pass and put Sr. School one up. However with 30 seconds remaining Copp saved the night for the Jaxs by putting a long shot behind Denham and the enthusiastic Ajax followers (both of them, coach and manager,) went happily home to defrost their ears.

Line-ups:

Sr. S.P.S.—Saliston, Lawson, Fortin, Radcliffe, Martin, Denham, Guppy, (Hislop and Stefanyshyn).
U. of T. Jaxs — Haynes, Watson, Spence, Graham, Houston, Murdyn, Littlejohn, Copp, Dogue, Orendorff, Hall, Wiacek.

Times:

First Period

1. Toronto—Martin..... 2.00
2. Toronto—Hislop..... 3.00
3. Jaxs—Spence (Watson)..... 6.00
4. Toronto—Fortin (Lawson)..... 8.00

Second Period

1. Toronto—Stefanyshyn..... 9.00

Third Period

1. Toronto—Martin..... 3.00
2. Jaxs—Copp..... 6.00
3. Jaxs—Watson (Houston)..... 8.00
4. Jaxs—Dyer (Wiacek)..... 8.30
5. Jaxs—Watson..... 12.00
6. Toronto—Fortin..... 15.40
7. Jaxs—Copp..... 19.32

Sr. S.P.S. Wins

(Continued from Page 7)

plays that made the Jaxs look a little slack in their checking. However they recovered quickly as baskets by Doty, Torrens, and Andrassy were tallied after many heart-breakers had missed around the net. A smooth play from Robson to Taylor tied the score 30-30 after a series of close checking plays. Two quick baskets by Hollowell and one by Wilson put S.P.S. well ahead, and although Ajax fought back gamely they were unable to foil the Toronto defense. Foul shots by Crang and Taylor brought the Jaxs within four points of their opponents, but no amount of trying garnered these points and the game ended with Sr. S.P.S. holding a 36-32 lead.

The winners showed a good passing attack, smart work around the basket and a pressing defense that disorganized their opponents. 'Spike' Hennessy led his defense, repeatedly gathering in rebounds and feeding passes to his quick breasting forwards. Hendricks and Tredgett with eight points each and Hollowell, Hamm and Wilson, each with six led the winners' scoring. No individual stood out for the Jaxs' team although their passing and shooting matched that of the Toronto lads. Taylor and Pierce at guard spoiled many S.P.S. attacks while the former shared scoring honours with Crang, each with seven points. Doty scored six while Torrens notched four.

At half time music by Ted Snyder and his newly-formed "Hot Jaxs" band, featuring "One O'Clock Jump" and "Southern Fried", was greatly appreciated by the enthusiastic crowd.

Line-ups:

Sr. S.P.S. — Hollowell (6), Hamm (6), Hendricks (8), Wilson (6), Hennessy, Robinson, Bratty, Tredgett (8), and Farquhar (2).

U. of T. Jaxs — Doty (6), Robson (2), Torrens (4), Pierce, Taylor (7), Clough, Crang (7), Bate (2), Roe (2), Harvey and Andrassy (2).

AJAX YEAR DANCE

Tickets for the dance to be held on March 19 are to sell for $2.00 a ticket instead of the price of $3.00 as erroneously announced in The Varsity.

—Student rest centres and hostels.
—Refugee relief in India, Burma, Netherlands, East Indies and the Philippines.

Foot easy, like your favorite slippers

Drawstring Moccasins

Slip into these easy-to-wear moccasins and see how easily they flex. They're drawstring style, with hand sewn vamps, with leather soles and leather heels. Natural shade only. Full sizes only—6 to 10.

Pair $9.95

Main Store—Second Floor

T. EATON CO.

McLean's

MISSIVE No. 2½

The above message seems to have Eaton away today's space.

It's all right though—

We only wanted to say:

Harron, Jazz, 24 Girls 24!

Hmmmm?

YOUR INVESTMENT IN HUMANITY SUPPORT THE I.S.S. TODAY

The

The Undergraduate Newspaper

THE VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 88 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, February 21, 1946

I.S.S.

put this student in a Swiss sanatorium where he continues his studies while undergoing treatment for tuberculosis. Cold and malnutrition have sent the T.B. rate soaring among European students.

I.S.S.

is spreading relief among Chinese students like these, listening to an outdoor lecture in the cave country following an epic cross-country migration when Japs bombed out their home camp.

I.S.S.

is looking after the welfare of Greek students, returning from hiding to bomb-blasted buildings like these. This was once a science lab in a Greek university.

I.S.S.

sends European students into mountain chalets like these, to recover physical and mental balance after the rigors of Gestapo surveillance. Your dollars support this service.

I.S.S.

Will furnish laboratory equipment for these eager Chinese Students. To-day they've only enough to equip the demonstrator, and are forced to learn their chemistry second-hand.

I.S.S.

is stocking soup-kitchens in universities across occupied Europe. Pinched with hunger, French and Dutch students eagerly devour the meals you provide for them.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a University CollegeM1. 6611
Business OfficeM1. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 4T6
Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 4T8
Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor.....John Rooke, 4T7
News Editor.....George Forster, 4T7
Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 4T6
Assistant.....Pete Philippott
Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 4T7
Assistant.....Reg Herman, 4T6
Ajax.....Chiff Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor....Bredin Stapells, 4T6
Assistant.....Don Mason, 4T6
Ajax.....Ed. Caldwell
Womens Sports Editor Polly Muts, 4T6
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 4T6
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor.....Philip Freedman, 4T6
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 4T7

Thursday, February 21, 1946

Have You Been Tagged

You have seen in your newspapers and movies pictures of the bomb-shattered and disease-ridden cities of Europe and Asia. You have seen pictures of the homeless, wandering the highways and by-ways with what little they possessed on their backs; you have seen pictures of bread-lines and Black Market dealers, and you have also had a few glimpses inside places like Dachau

The job of reconstruction has begun but it is slow and tedious. There is so much to be done—and in so many different places. UNRRA is doing everything possible to feed, house and re-establish the displaced; but UNRRA alone cannot do enough. There is something you can do. But perhaps you would like to know a little more about the job ahead of you?

To Miss C. C. Krieger, Assistant Professor in the U. of T. Mathematics Department, there came a letter a short time ago bearing the post-mark "Poland". It was from her old friend, Professor W. Sierpinski, a distinguished Professor of Mathematics in the University of Cracovie, and it told of the experiences of the Polish universities during the Nazi occupation.

Eleven of Professor Sierpinski's colleagues were murdered by the Gestapo, four died in concentration camps, nine others during military action. "These" says Professor Sierpinski, "are personal losses. The Polish mathematicians put to death, often cruelly, by the Germans were not involved in any political activity; the only reason for killing them was that they were Polish. In the other branches of science the same thing happened.

Professor Sierpinski continues, "But there are other irreparable losses. Our Mathematical Library was burned on September 1st, 1942. Furthermore, the mathematicians at the University of Varsovie remain literally without a single book, for in the Fall of 1944 the Germans burned the city and they (the university staff) lost in the flames their private libraries and many valuable manuscripts.

"In the summer of 1939 the thirty-third volume of "The Fundamentals of Mathematics" was on the press at Cracovie; several pages had already been printed; the pages which were to follow were ready, but the German Director of Printing ordered them all destroyed. The proofs were burned along with the original manuscripts: the reconstruction of their contents is, therefore, impossible."

Professor Sierpinski goes on to explain that in 1940, when all the Polish academies and universities were pillaged by the invaders, hundreds of professors were either murdered in cold blood or "liquidated" in the concentration camps. "There is hardly a single family in all Poland" says he, "which has not lost at least one member on account of the Germans—"

In spite of the devastation in the land, in spite of the political and economic revolution now faced by her people, despair finds no haven in Poland. A fierce new patriotism has risen, accompanied by the highest hopes for a future in a world at peace. Somehow in the German retreat Cracovie University escaped destruction; somehow the professors and students of that university now propose to begin the monumental task of building a new Poland upon the ashes of the old. Professor Sierpinski's comment is eloquently descriptive of the proportions of that task; "Cracovie is the only university city in Poland where teaching can be resumed immediately."

Poland is representative of all the other recently liberated countries. In every one of them there are students who are hungry, perhaps even starved, for knowledge. Through a geographic accident we are the wealthy, and they, the poor. —Have you been tagged yet?

—M. R. B.

Finnegans Wake

INSTALMENT No. 6

The scene is the night office of The Varsity. The cast of Finnegans Wake is sitting around drinking fire extinguisher fluid and whittling chopsticks. The lights are low and so is some of the conversation. All in all it is a scene of intense cultural activity marred only by the hideous sounds emanating from the saxophone of Mary Cassidy.

Mrs. Murphy: Have yese all heard of the I.S.S. beauty competition? James Joyce: (without looking up from his manuscript) What does I.S.S. mean?

Mrs. Murphy: (lapsing into the avuncular) It's the trade name of a certain bubble-bath compound. I always use it meself.

Mary Cassidy: (not to be outdone) So do I. The whole name is Iridescent Sanitary Saponification.

Mrs. Mulligan: Oi think Mary should enter the competition.

O'Shaugnessey: She wouldn't be eligible, her left ear is larger than her right one.

Mary Cassidy: (hopefully) Oi could be in a special class.

O'Shaugnessey (cynically) You are sister.

Mary Cassidy: Lookit me pretty legs (she displays them to the audience—there is a chorus of jeers and catcalls)

Captain Brandy: Let the girl have her fling. (Mrs. Mulligan goes over to the cupboard and gets out Mary's fling and hands it to her. Mary takes it over to the corner and plays a little tune on it.)

Bouboul: Is that a Highland Fling? (they ignore this remark)

Joyce: (testily) Can anyone give me a simile for crypleknth? (they all think hard for a couple of minutes and finally announce that they are unable to find a simile for crypleknth and the best they can give him is a homily for parsley. He accepts this with bad grace and returns to his proof reading)

O'Toole: (Bursting in the door with fear written all over his face in Roman capitals) Fly for your lives! The river has burst its banks and we are in danger of immediate inundation.

(They flee, and the inundation is upon the little hamlet. The flooded river is bearing all before it. Houses, horses, telephone poles, chicken coops, barns, empty cigarette boxes, and other things are born along by the flood. In the middle of it all is Finnegans' coffin heading for the open sea. He is flying distress signals and screaming that he has found a simile for crypleknth . . . But they do not hear him. Night is falling and so are Mary Cassidy's arches. The birds and the bees are silent and over the scene of desolation the baleful glare of the Guinness brewery neon sign spreads an unholy light.

JAKE

University Debate Held in Sackville

Sackville, N.B., Feb. 20—(CUP)—"Resolved that there should be a single Maritime University" was the subject of a debate held between the University of New Brunswick Law School and Mount Allison University on February 14. Speaking for the affirmative on the resolution were Dick Miller and Esmond Sinanan of Mount Allison University, who opposed Louis Robichaud and T. W. Tomlinson of the Law School.

Miller stressed the educational advantages of the single university in regard to successful financing and research. Sinanan pointed out that more professors could be employed, and the benefits as far as athletics college spirit and concert courses would be greatly increased.

Robichaud of Law School stated that a remedy was to be found in the development of the existing universities who would specialize in their line of research and still retain others for the development of the liberal arts. Tomlinson felt that suppression would be required to have and maintain a single Maritime University, which would be contrary to the fundamentals of democracy.

"I thought you invited me to see your etchings."
"Nonsense! We're here to Light Up and Listen!"

*"Light - Up - and - Listen"
With SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES
Every Thursday 9.30 p.m.

CKEY - CJBC

WING I, R.C.A.F. ASSOCIATION (Canadian Legion) ANNOUNCES

R.C.A.F. Veterans' REUNION DANCE

Windsor Room, Savarin Hotel

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28th.

DANCING 9-1 DRESS INFORMAL
TICKETS $3.00 PER COUPLE, ON SALE NOW AT CIGAR SHOP, AT SAVARIN HOTEL.

(Since table accommodation is limited to 175 couples you are requested to procure tickets early).

HILLEL MEETING

MAJOR J. A. EDMISON, K.C.

Former Liaison Officer for UNRRA at SHAEF

Topic: "UNRRA And Displaced Persons"

TONIGHT - 8.15 p.m.

WOMEN'S UNION

Refreshments

Dancing

Victoria College Class of 4T8

Welcomes You To Club 48

BURWASH HALL

Saturday, February 23rd.

8.30 — 12.00 p.m.

Hart House Bulletin Board

Friday Recital.

The afternoon recital to be held at 5 p.m. on Friday 22nd February in the music room will be under the direction of Mr. Leo Smith who will play the viola da gamba, the prototype of the cello and one of the Tudor instruments owned by Hart House.

Visitors' Day.

Next Sunday, 24th February, will be a Visitors' Day at Hart House, and members may introduce friends, including ladies, to the House between 2 and 4 in the afternoon. The whole building will be open for inspection. An exhibition of paintings by the undergraduate members of Hart House will be on view in the art gallery. Members will be asked to show their membership cards at the door.

Campus Jap-Can Committee Loses Former Incentive

Finding itself as "The Committee Without A Cause" in overnight developments, the Campus Japanese-Canadian Committee is reported to be considering plans for a new campaign.

The validity of four orders-in-council to deport from Canada persons of Japanese racial origin having been upheld by the supreme court of Canada yesterday, the campus committee's main grounds for contesting the deportation have been eliminated from further consideration.

The committee's reaction to these circumstances:

A meeting of the executive to raise funds for the Ottawa test cases will be held tomorrow at 5:00 in Cartwright Hall of St. Hilda's College.

Whether or not the committee will take any form of action contesting the single section not upheld by the supreme court had not been announced at press-time last night. That single section included as deportable the wife and children under 16 of any person who is deported.

This is concluding phase of a drive that has been prominent on the campus since the first announcement of the government's deportation plans in November, 1945.

Belgian student victims of the Compulsory Labour Service, along with other students slaving in Bavaria, Austria and Poland, received books and letters which assured them that, though exiled they were not forgotten.

12,000 This Year 15,000 Next Year

"Never have we been so busy", said Mr. Evans at the Registrar's office to-day. "Letters, all of which must be answered, are pouring in from all over the country, enquiring about courses here!"

"When asked if they were as busy as they had been last fall, he said that they were equally as busy, except that the pressure of time had been removed, as the registration deadline had passed. "If there are a few delays," he said, "it is only because there is so much work that we cannot keep up with it."

The enrollment next year is expected to grow to 15,000, from the present 12,000. This is because, besides the regular entrants there are so many discharged service personnel wishing to enter, and the number of them graduating, or likely to withdraw this year is small.

From April to August there will again be a special session for ex-service students, in which, as many as twenty-eight subjects in first year Pass Arts are being offered.

Varsity Grad In Australia Killed In Train Robbery

Professor James Taylor, a graduate of Victoria College in 1936, was clubbed to death and robbed early this week while getting off a train in Brisbane Australia. He had been on his way to take the post of Professor of Philosophy in the University of Melbourne.

According to a release last night from the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa, very few details of Professor Taylor's death were known. The body could not be identified till the day after his death because all his identification papers had been stolen.

The 31-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Taylor of Falcon St. Toronto, Professor Taylor had left this city at the beginning of the year to take up his post on the staff of the University of Melbourne, soon after leaving the navy in which he had held an officer's rank.

Said Dr. Walter T. Brown, President of Victoria College: "We are awaiting further details of this deplorable accident at any moment. Professor Taylor was a hard worker at university and was considered by his professors as a brilliant student."

In 1934, while still a student at Victoria, Professor Taylor had been the object of a province-wide search by planes, troops and boy scouts when he was not heard from for several days during a summer hiking trip. After a thorough search near Scarborough Bluffs, he was finally found in the Brockville region by a citizen who recognized him from press reports. His parents who had been fearing an attack of amnesia were overjoyed to hear that he had simply been enjoying his hiking-trip in the country.

SLOGANS

Relief for students—by students. —I.S.S.

I.S.S.—Student Relief—a link between our abundance and their tragic need.

The world of tomorrow is being built in the classrooms of today. —I.S.S.

Give generously to I.S.S.

The record hour, held daily in the Women's Common Room of University College from 4:00 p.m. to 5:30 is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties.

Today's program: Tchaikovsky—1812 Overture. Rimski-Korsakov — Scheherazade.

C.U.P. Flashes

London—Two grants totalling $40,000 have been received by the University of Western Ontario this week from W. K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Mich., and the Robert Simpson Co., London, to assist in their present building fund campaign. The $30,000 Kellogg grant is to be devoted to a new school of nursing planned by the Board of Governors while the $10,000 Simpson donation will be added to the general building fund.

Montreal—McGill University has been included in the nation-wide investigation into the leaks of secret information to Russia, while the secret work of the National Research Council at the University of Montreal has been placed under the guard of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

London—The Gazette, undergraduate newspaper at the University of Western Ontario, has published a questionnaire in this week's issue similar to the recent questionnaire used in The Varsity reader poll. Editors of The Gazette are waging a campaign to find out what their readers like and how they like it.

Edmonton—The new four-year degree course at the end of which graduates will receive a B. Ed. in Physical Education at the University of Alberta will be the first of its kind in the West and will commence in the Fall Term of '46 or '47.

Coming Events

AJAX TALK

On Sunday February 24, at eight o'clock a Danish Resistance leader Ingvard Pedersen, will speak at Ajax; his topic will be "Student Activities under the Nazis". He is being sponsored by the I.S.S.

OPTOMETRY BANQUET

Dean R. O. Hurst of the Ontario College of Pharmacy will speak at the Mid-Winter Banquet of the Students' Association of the College of Optometry, at the Club Top Hat Monday, Feb. 25.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 88 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, February 21, 1946

'DEAD AND BURIED' IS CONSERVATISM

Goethe And Society Fairley Lecture Topic

"We are interested in what men of genius in the past thought of society, because of the importance to us of their opinions today," Professor Barker Fairley, of the U.C. German Department, told The Varsity.

Professor Fairley is giving the second last lecture of the U.C. Easter lecture series, this afternoon in Room 8 of U.C., at 5:00. The topic of the lecture is "Goethe's Attitude to Society".

About Goethe the professor supplied the following information: "Goethe," he said, "is the outstanding figure in German Literature. A poet, living at the time of the French Revolution, he is the author of the poem, 'Faust', (not to be confused with the opera of the same name).

D. Abbott's Party Wins Political Hart House Debate

Is The "C" A Capital?

"That this House regards Canadian Conservatism as not only dead but buried" was the motion upheld 78-68 in last night's Hart House debate.

Difficulty arose as to the exact interpretation of the word Conservatism. "Would it be Conservatism with a capital 'C' signifying the party or conservatism with a small 'c' signifying the principle?" The speaker, Ed. Safarian, ruled that both were acceptable.

The Honourable Douglas C. Abbott, Minister of National Defence, argued "against the party and not its principles." Said he, "Canadian Conservatism died prior to December of 1942 and was buried then, the time of the Party National Convention at Winnipeg. On that date that party met to change both the party name and leader."

"The Conservative Party contains too many 'me-first boys,'" he remarked.

Donald Fleming, P.-C. member for Toronto-Eglinton, opposed Mr. Abbott, stating that, "The National Convention of 1942, was called, not to change the name and leader of the party but to form a new platform. This platform," he continued, "was formed prior to the election of Bracken, the new leader, and it was only upon his request that the party name was changed from 'Conservative' to 'Progressive-Conservative'."

"Conservatism signifies, not free enterprise but free exploitation," stated Bob Singer from S.P.S., mover of the motion. "The Conservative Party has a dual policy, one for the party and one for the people. That," he stated, "explains its double-talk."

Opposing the motion, A. L. Younger, of Dentistry, said, "Conservatism preserves from the past what has proven good; one of these good things is free enterprise."

Said the affirmative's R. Scott, Victoria College, "Properly developed, this country has unlimited possibilities, but unless we have a liberal policy these possibilities mean nothing."

"Conservative Ontario has done as well as any other province in Canada," stated Telford Georges, U.C.

Sidlight; President Sidney Smith changed his preference-indicating seat from right to left, reversed his decision later, settled there till debate's end.

They Fly Thru The Breeze With The Greatest Of Ease

By Bob Cooke

"Close the door, you fool. You've wrecked our experiment."

Such is the greeting one is likely to receive if one invades the fourth year Aerodynamics lab where model planes are tested in the wind tunnel. It seems the blast of cold air entering the room sends the plane, or at least the results, into a nose dive.

But then a good many other things can affect the results too. All the experiments depend on keeping the flow of air through the tunnel at a constant speed and the flow of air is controlled by an electric motor. When experiments are being performed in the electrical labs the voltage jumps the motor speeds and slows and results are ruined.

The flow of air is measured by a pressure gauge called a manometer using a little bubble of mineral oil as an indicator. If the motor speed is varied suddenly the bubble disappears.

"The fine for any one who allows the bubble to disappear during the experiment is one case of beer", explained one of the experimenters. Suddenly he looked around at the gauge, the bubble wasn't to be seen.

"The wind tunnel is just part of the work", said another of the experimenters. "We have design labs, stress analysis labs where the braces and trusses necessary are decided, and a course in layout and detail design where the actual fittings and working patterns are studied."

If an actual plane were under design the first step would be designs where the performance and dimensions are calculated. Then in the wind tunnel, tests are run on scale models to make sure that the calculations are correct. "You know pretty well what results you are going to get", grinned one. "But there have been a good many models thrown out here because they didn't give the proper results in the tunnel."

It is interesting to note that the German mathematicians made their calculations so accurately that in most cases no changes had to be made in the final model.

After the wind tunnel tests where the lift and wind drag, motor power and stability are studied the actual working drawings are made and the first plans can be constructed.

All these steps are covered by

(Continued on Page 5)

• S.A.C. AT A GLANCE

Resolution to draft a letter to the Hon. Vincent Massey protesting stringent enforcement of the Hart House "no women" rule was a major outcome of the S.A.C. meeting last night. Occasion for the protest was the recent report in The Varsity that women registered in S.P.S. are being virtually debarred from essential course club meetings held in Hart House.

Graham Cotter, Trinity representative, tabled a report stating four occasions when women are admitted to the House: dances, Sunday evening concerts, monthly visitors' days, and college functions (limited to one per college year) to which all college members are invited.

The recommendation to be embodied in the letter to Mr. Massey seeks to expand these provisions to include such groups as the engineering course clubs and graduation banquets. Last year the three women members of the S.P.S. graduating class were excluded from their final banquet.

The recommendation was "that mixed groups be permitted the use of the House if they are professional clubs or classes wishing to hold annual or graduation banquets, provided that none of these groups is more than 25% women."

The letter, a rough draft of which was read to the Council, describes recent consequences of strict enforcement of the existing regulations and outlines reasons for the recommended change.

Other Council decisions:

● Voting to receive until Monday from each Council member suggested amendments of a report from the Committee on Organization, prior to submitting a draft of suggested changes to the student body.

The report recommended (1) Emphasis at election-time on the fact that candidates for presidential office in college or faculty executives are also running for S.A.C. posts. (2) Provision for mass meetings when needed to determine student opinion on vital issues. (3) Appointment of an S.A.C. Public Relations Officer with the further duty of playing host to Council visitors to the University. (4) Definition of the authority of the two vice-presidents to take private decisions on emergency issues.

● Hearing from vice-president George Doner that no official word from the Alumni Association on the proposed co-educational center could be secured until the Alumni Directors had heard from their sub-committees in the various faculties. Doner stated that individual members of the U.C. Alumni had privately approved the scheme prior to a meeting.

● Sanctioning the proposed class pin of the Certificate Course in Business and inviting the Course to submit a draft of the pin for Council records. This led to the suggestion that all faculties turn in pin sketches to the S.A.C. office for consultation by those designing new ones.

● Acknowledging a letter suggesting formation of a student dance band to play at faculty and college dances, encouraging the project without yet, in the absence of details, committing the Council to sponsorship.

From This Glorious Gal-lery Today

MARG. JOHNSTON

PHYL. MCCOY

JOAN USHER

EDIE ROLLS

MARY JANE BELL

BOBBY COULSON

SHEILA McDOUGALL

RUTH BURDEN

GWEN LEWIS

MARYON MISNER

ABERDEEN'S Floral Stores

Main Stores: 31 Bloor W., M1. 2495
Special Attention to University Students

15% Discount Upon Presentation
OF ADMIT-TO-LECTURES CARD

Corsages are a Specialty—Have Your Date Wear One to the Vic-At-Home

ORCHIDS AND ROSES ALWAYS IN STOCK

Dvorak Jumps

It is often said that imitation is a sign of success. If so, Oscar Peterson must be "set". More and more of late, we've noted that the Hart House east common room 88 virtuosos have been turning to the Peterson style of beating out Louise, My Blue Heaven, and other of his Victor records. His latest coupling is Dvorak's Humoresque, and the fine Hamp-B. G. opus, Flying Home. In both sides, the pattern is very much the same—straight melody, gradually swinging it a bit, and then running wild with his own fine ideas. He then takes pity on his listeners, coming back to the original theme for a brief moment as if to remind us just what he was trying to play in the first place. Both numbers end with somewhat of an overdose of boogie and technical display. Home has the edge, in our opinion, with just the kind of semi-woogie and solid bass we like, but that strong left hand of Oscar's on Humoresque is really something!

Likewise Artistry

With Poor Anton already tossing somewhat restlessly in his grave, we finish the job and turn him right over by putting the needle to Slam Stewart, of all people, doing his knocked-out version of HUMORESQUE. Of course, there are some other people on the disc too, but they have trouble keeping in the lime-light with Slam around. He's with the Don Byas quartet on the Artista label. The flip-over is that wonderful old tune, long associated with Bing Crosby, WRAP YOUR TROUBLES IN DREAMS.

On the Dvorak composition, a few bars of Errol Garner's sparkling piano and a brief grunt from Slam introduce Byas, who gets off very nicely on his tenor, and then a few more bars of Garner's 88. At last, Slam comes on with his mumbly and bowing. Actually, this is in very poor taste from a Jazz or any other standpoint, but it still sends us. We hear from Don again to end this side.

Byas takes almost half the wax on Troubles with a very fine solo—(but wait till you hear Musso on the next disc we're diggin')—and Garner does some unusual things to the black and whites to take up most of the rest of the side. But there is still room for Slam to give out with a little more of his distinctive brand of entertainment—(it's not music!), and for the tenor to get in a few last notes. Incidentally, Hal West is the fourth member of the combo, on the hides.

There is no greater contrast in pianists than from Peterson to Stan Kenton. Stan's the man to put something musically exciting into everything he does. Only Kenton would dream up a beautiful composition like Artistry in Rhythm, a natural for a slow arrangement, and then later come out with a wonderful jump version of the same tune. Artistry Jumps is a worthy addition for any collection, if only for the ideas it embodies, but Vido Musso's lovely tenor doesn't hurt a bit either. It's terrific, and strangely enough, the original theme is recognizable throughout much of his solo. Stan's nice piano ideas backed by excellent rhythm, and the brass, varying from very subdued

(Continued on Page 7)

THE CAMPUS EVENT YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR
2 NITES ONLY—CONVOCATION HALL
Wed. & Thurs., March 6 & 7

1ST. EDITION

All-Varsity Revue

Featuring

WHITEY BELSHAW AND HIS SENSATIONAL 16 PC.
ORCHESTRA AND THE BEST FROM:—

- SCHOOL NITE
- U.C. FOLLIES
- DAFFYDIL NITE
- DENTATICS
- VIC BOB
- TRINITY

Including Those Top Comics

ALEC SIEGEL AND DON HARRON

Entirely In Aid of International Student Service

A Year's Entertainment In One Show

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE

TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m. a 2:30 p.m.

b 7:45 a.m. b 3:55 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

(b—except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m. 8:40 a.m.

7:30 a.m. 9:30 a.m.

and every hour

on the half hour

until 10:30 p.m.

Also 11:40 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES

Bay at Dundas—Adelaide 4221

Announcement

VIC AT-HOME

FRIDAY NIGHT

Simpson's Arcadian Court

Use Bay St. Entrance

ll Come Varsity's Most Typical Co-Ed

PEGGY LOFTHOUSE

MARION FARR

TAFFY TATE

ANN POPE

NATALIE STARON

JEAN MACDONALD

JUNE ALLEN

ANITA BEATON

NANCY WARBURTON

RUTH MILLER

They Fly Thru

(Continued from Page 3)

the fourth year engineering in their lectures and labs. The layout and detail design is taught to them by W. H. Jackson, Project Engineer, and Jack Miuk, Chief Designer at DeHaviland. The resulting course is equivalent to the first postgraduate year in American universities.

As a part of their course the Aero's are now designing a glider which will be built by students in future years. The design and calculations have been made, and a model for wind tunnel tests is under construction. Next year the graduating year will carry on the design and in about two years fourth year students will build the first glider. This work is supervised by B.S. Shenstone of Canadair who has had considerable experience with gliders particularly in Germany.

"This we hope will lead to the foundation of a University of Toronto Gliding Club", explains one of the professors.

Engineers Awake! Learn About Work

"The Engineering Profession - Past, Present and Future," is the subject of a meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada which will be held in the Debates Room of Hart House on Thursday at 8:15 p.m.

Short addresses will be given on subjects of concern to engineering students who wish to know more about their profession.

Subjects and speakers are: The Early Engineers and the Pupilage System by E. A. Cross; Engineering Training Today by Prof. R. F. Legget; The Hydro by J. Dibley; Public Service by A. E. Berry; Consulting Engineers by F. Ewart; Development of Engineering Societies in Canada by Prof. R. F. Legget; The Engineering Institute of Canada today by C. E. Sisson; The Local Function of Technical Societies by W. J. Glin-son; The Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario by G. R. Lord; The Dominion Council by W. P. Dobson and The Future of the Engineering Profession in Canada by Dean Young.

A general discussion will be held after the meeting. Engineering students interested in finding out more about their profession are invited to attend.

GLEE CLUB ELECTIONS

The results of the election held on Tuesday for the members of the Hart House Glee Club committee have recently been announced.

Six new members were elected to posts on the committee: J. E. P. Anderson, (I Vic.); R. E. Booker, (II Dents.); J. A. H. Gartshore, (I Vic.); N. J. Kelemen, (I U.C.); B. M. Marshall, (I Meds.); P. B. Waite, (I U.C.).

Two members have also been carried over from this year's committee: L. Zurbrigg, (IV Vic.), and L. Watson, (I Vic.), will remain as representatives and complete the student committee for 1946-47.

Vocational Group To Hear Vic Grad

Law is the subject under discussion in the next of the Victoria College Vocational Guidance Series, Thursday. Leading the group will be J. D. Arnup, a Vic graduate of 1932, and a member of the law firm of Mason, Foulds, Davidson and Gale.

During the war Mr. Arnup was attached to the legal branch of the Wartime Prices and Trades Board, and is the immediate past president of the Victoria College Alumni Association.

These groups are held every Tuesday and Thursday at 5 p.m. in Room 18 at Victoria and are open to all men of the college.

C.C.F. PLAN ELECTIONS

"Despite some attempted vandalism on the Club signs," said President Roy Clark of the campus C.C.F. Club, "we hope to have a large turnout of members" at tonight's

"IN THE ARMS OF VENUS, MORPHEUS"

That's what we say about people who still think they have to pay high prices for fine, custom-made clothes.

Guess they never heard of

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)
RA 8995-6

Talking from nine to nine, Saturdays until 6. Stop in and browse around. We love answering questions.

Special attention and discounts to students.

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

Rare opportunity to acquire a 1940 model Indian Chief. Tires and mechanical equipment are in excellent condition. Recently enamelled in blue and black to look like new. Attractively priced at $375.00 cash.

For further particulars and information contact

JOHN GALBRAITH
R.R. No. 1, YORK MILLS
Telephone Zone 8-182.

business meeting in Wymilwood at 8:00.

Prof. Havelock as chairman will lead the discussion to the unit system, election of officers for the next term, and Club policy.

Added the President, "A re-evaluation of the Club, its structure and purposes, and an outline of the year's progress will be discussed."

AJAX SPORTS BOWLING

Winner	Loser	Score
732E	738	1625-1346
732E	738	1701-1347
728D	722E	1588-1476
727C	733E	1695-1400
725D	732C	1816-1358
737B	724C	1538-1251
722D	731C	1598-1471

Neilson's

Jersey MILK CHOCOLATE

The Quality Chocolate

B345U

Colleges and Faculties!

See That You Are Represented On Hart House Committees

NOMINATIONS OPEN TOMORROW

WAYNE CAGERS HERE TONIGHT

Sr. Blues Out For Revenge As Close Contest Forecast

Dilworth Confident

"Sure we'll beat 'em." That's Roy Dilworth speaking about that Basketball battle in Hart House tonight between the Senior Blues and Wayne. "Of course you must remember I haven't seen the Detroit squad yet," he went on. "I couldn't make the game there." But still, remember that prediction he made about beating McGill last week. That one was right, so.....

The coach wasn't the only one absent at that game either. Murray Thomson and Captain Gordy Wallace were also out. Tonight they'll both be in there fighting. Cap Gordon is feeling 'fairly good' after his bout with tonsillitis.

Stu Scott will be dressed in spite of his still sore ankle, while Himmel is being brought up from the intermediate team to bolster the attack.

"No, we have no secret weapons," said mentor Dilworth, when queried. "We'll use the same style we've used to beat all the other teams played in Hart House."

If they beat Wayne it will be quite an event indeed, as no team from the Michigan metropolis has ever been defeated in Toronto. Last year the Green and Gold went home with a 49-46 decision.

In that game at Detroit a couple months ago the Blues were knocked off by an even 25 points—the score being 50-25. Tonight's visitors have also edged out Albion (twice) and Western. But the Varsity Braves have beaten both Albion and the Mustangs. Again so.....

Last night the Boys were tossing free shots at the sundry hoops scattered about the Big Gym floor. In and out among bouncing pills ran the coach making feverish tabulations in his little black note book. He's making sure that his wards have no excuse for missing as many free shots as they did last week. He even has a handicap system worked out on the basis of 25 shots. Whitey Clayton has the lowest handicap—6

Sport In Short

TUESDAY, FEB. 19th
Minor Basketball
III Mech. defaulted to II Dent.
Vic. IV 67 P.H.E. IV 20
U.C. V 38 Med. Ser. B. 16
Major Basketball
Pharm. 27 S.P.S. IV 20
For. A 29 Med. Ser. A. 28
Bus. Ad. defaulted to Pre. Med. A

INTRAMURAL STANDINGS

The following are Intra-mural standings to Feb. 9.

U.C.	5057
Trinity	4339
Meds.	3562
Forestry	3562
Vic.	3214
SPS	3164
St. Mks.	2946
Wycliffe	2870
Dents	2816
Emmanuel	2226
Knox	1925
Pharmacy	1002

while the others range up to 12½.

The Michigan team currently seems to have hit a slight slump. In their first five times out this year they walked away with the games with margins ranging from 25 points, against Toronto, to 3 against Albion. In their last nine starts though the 'Tartars' have been defeated eight times.

The largest and one of the most capable on the squad is the 6-4, 195 pound giant Bernard Friedman. Another star on the team is the 25 year old Ben Pittman who tossed in 59 points in their games last year.

The Varsity attack will likely depend on the accurate passing of Wallace, Zeaton, etc., and the sharpshooting of Mayzel, Thomson, Clayton, Cranham.

And don't forget the two contests which come off before the major encounter. The Varsity seconds meet the McMaster firsts, while the Varsity thirds battle the McMaster seconds. The whole shebang begins at six (6) o'clock. The Senior game goes at nine.

Speckling OF SPORT

By Don Mason

Well, well, look what happened to the dear old column to-day! Probably no one will ever see it over here, mistaking same for an athletic notice.

Must apologize for three errors in yesterday's column. The BEAT MCGILL game starts at 8:00, not 8:30; the WAYNE game to-night will cost you half a buck, is not free as we mentioned; the Intermediate Hockey squad played last night, not to-night. Sorry and all that...

The Intermediates, incidentally, knocked off O.A.C. by a 11-7 count. Doug Davison got six goals, two assists to top scorers on both teams. Nice going, gang... sorry we're so short of space to-night... Gals before goals is the story to-day, as the big I.S.S. drive gets under way. ARF, ARF!

50. BASKETBALL 50.

McMaster IIIs vs Varsity IIIs—6.00 p.m.

McMaster IIs vs Varsity IIs—7.30 p.m.

VARSITY SENIORS vs WAYNE—9.00 p.m.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21st., 1946

• Sportswoman •

INTERCOLLEGIATE SWIMMING MEET

By Eleanor Coult

Splash! Splash! Splash! Did you all hear that? Do you know what it is, or where it is?

You haven't heard yet, and you won't unless you're on hand for the Women's Intercollegiate Swimming Meet—that's what it is. As to where and when—these mermaids will meet in Hart House at 8.00 p.m. Western, McMaster, Queen's and McGill are sending their gals to compete.

The first splash should smooth out to a super-streamlined ripple as the long plunge gets under way. Sue Gray is a sure hope for Toronto. She won the plunge in the Telegraphic Meet with 61.6 feet.

The water will splash in all directions when our free style champions Maureen Martin and Jackie Manser thrash it out with the other gals in the 50 yd. race. Then our team of Jackie Manser, Molly Beeley and Clara Hutton will go into action for the 150 yard relay (back, breast, and crawl.)

The 50 yd. breast-stroke race is next. Marg. Dale and Molly Beeley are our contestants. Then still more splashes as the gals churn up the pool in the 100 yd. free style event. Clara Hutton and Elizabeth Holmes are the U. of T. swimmers. As the water calms down the style competition is scheduled, with Sue Gray swimming for Toronto.

Splashes again while Diana Lowe and Jackie Manser put up some stiff competition against our sister-mermaids from afar in the 50 yd. back stroke race. Then the 50 yd. free-style finals will be run off. In the lull a most spectacular and bee-ootiful ornamental routine will be performed. Our Toronto lasses have been working hard, and it looks good.

Then more finals as the 50 yd. back-stroke and 100 yd. free style stir up the aqua Pura. Maureen Martin and Lois Lloyd will sport the blue and white in the diving competition. After the 50 yd. breast-stroke finals there will be a 200 yd. free style relay. The Toronto team is composed of Clara Hutton, Aileen Hanson, Barb. Hinchcliffe and Maureen Martin. Finally something called clowning, which may be anything is scheduled. Keep your seats, fellows and gals,

Now the spotlight on our team:

Sue Gray: P.H.E. III — a swimmer for P.H.E. for three years. She has specialized in style and the long plunge.

Maureen Martin: P.H.E. I — an accomplished veteran from the Vancouver Swimming Club. She won the Air Force No. 1 Training Command Championship in Diving '43, and the 60 yd. free style Maritime championship in Dartmouth.

Molly Beeley: P.H.E. I — a novice in University competition, but certainly not in breast-stroke.

Jackie Manser: Vic II — swam for Vic two years. Her backstroke is a thing to behold, if you look quickly.

Clara Hutton: Vic III — a valuable member of the Vic team for three years. A wonderful swimmer, also efficient and hard-working secretary of the University Swimming Club.

Barb. Hinchcliffe: Vic IV — captain of the team, for 2 years now she has held the individual swimming championship in inter-faculty competition. An ornamental swimmer of note, she swam with the Dolphins. She's been on the Vic team for four years now.

Marg. Dale: U.C. II — she began last year in the inter-mural meet for U.C. and hasn't stopped improving yet.

Elizabeth Holmes: U.C. II — swam for the Y.W.C.A. in Victoria and has been on the U.C. team for two years.

Diana Lowe: U.C. I — swam with the Kitchener-Waterloo Swimming Club. She showed up well for U.C. in this year's meet.

Aileen Hanson: U.C. I

BASKETBALL STANDING COMMITTEE
MEETING — TODAY — 1 p.m.
TO ARRANGE PLAYOFFS, etc.

Varsity Wrestlers To Face Queen's

When the Intercollegiate wrestling team arrives at Queen's for Friday's week-end tournament, they will be well equipped to withstand any opposition. The entire squad is composed of winners of the intramural meets which have been going on the last few weeks.

The Varsity group will have to face both McGill's and Queen's mat-men in this first tussle in the intercollegiate league since before the war. Last Thursday, the Red groaners came off very well in a tourney against the Y.M.C.A., and should prove to give our boys a good workout at least.

Frank Campbell, having attained a weight of 190 lbs in 22 years, is the team's heavy weight.

In the 175 lbs. class is Jimmy Gray, age 20, and also Ron Taylor in the 165 lbs. grouping.

John Heath (155 lbs.) not only is the class of the team, but is also its "old man", being a mere 29. John is a Graduate from Saskatchewan taking his Ph.D. here.

Louis Sklar, interfaculty champ of the '44-'45 season in the 155 lbs. class, is looking after the 145 lbs. this year.

The "small fry" of the squad, Walt Cassels, 19 to be exact, is matched in the 135 lb. marker.

For the third successive year Jack Droham has claimed an undisputed place on the team in the 125 lbs. spotlight.

Last, but not least, is Davey Holmes in the 118 lb. class.

This eight-man group of mat kings will take with them Varsity's hopes for the championship, at Kingston.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
1:00	MED. II vs SPS II.....	Garfunkel
4:00	MED. I vs SPS I.....	Street, Davison
6:00	FOR. B vs WYC.....	Andison, Johnson
WATER-POLO
5:00	U.C. I vs SR. MED. A.....	Brace
5:45	TRIN. A vs KNOX.....	Shubik
6:30	FOR. vs WYC.....	Shubik
BASKETBALL MAJOR
1:00	TRIN. A vs PHE II.....	Maxwell
4:00	DENT. B vs VIC. III.....	Holman
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	II ELEC. vs FOR. B.....	Smith
4:30	PHE V vs VIC IX.....	Geary

SPORTS SCHEDULE Week of February 25th.

HOCKEY (Balance of schedule)

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25
1:00	WYC vs KNOX B..... Atkinson, Horkins
4:00	KNOX A vs FOR. A..... Smith, Crawford
6:00	DENT. A vs ST. M. A..... Andison, Weedon
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28
5:00	ST. M. A vs TRIN. A..... Brownridge, Mosher
FRIDAY, MARCH 1
4:00	MED. II vs VIC. II..... F. Fyfe, Davison
5:00	KNOX B vs FOR. B..... F. Fyfe, Davison
6:00	WYC vs SPS V..... F. Fyfe, Davison
8:00	DENT. B vs MED. III..... Horkins, Farrell
9:00	PHARM. vs SPS IV..... Horkins, Farrell

WATER POLO (Balance of schedule)

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25
1:00	U.C. (PHE) vs SPS III..... Lyon
6:00	TRIN. vs FORESTRY..... Allore
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26
5:00	WYC vs KNOX..... Ballou
5:45	VIC. I vs DENT. I..... Rosen
6:30	SR. MED. B vs JR. SPS..... Rosen
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27
4:15	U.C. (PHE) vs ST. M..... Ballou
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28
5:00	JR. SPS vs VIC. I..... Shubik
FRIDAY, MARCH 1
4:15	SPS III vs ST. M..... Brace
MONDAY, MARCH 4
1:00	ST. M. vs U.C. (PHE)..... Tiltson

BASKETBALL—Major (Balance of schedule)

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25
4:00	TRIN. B vs ST. M. B..... McAdam
6:30	PHARM. vs SPS IV..... Hotman

WATCH FRIDAY'S VARSITY FOR PLAYOFF DATES

BASKETBALL—Minor (Balance of schedule)

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 25
1:00	III AERO vs FOR. C..... Voight
4:00	III MINING vs TRIN. III..... Bond
6:30	I DENT. vs III ELEC.....
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26
1:00	PHE VI vs VIC XII..... Ewins
4:00	ST. M. C vs III CIVIL..... Ewins
5:00	VIC XII vs TRIN. VI..... Ewins
7:00	VIC X vs U.C. HOLWOOD..... Robson
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27
1:00	FOR. C vs VIC VIII..... McPhedran
4:00	TRIN. VII vs KNOX B..... Kerrison

WATCH VARSITY EARLY NEXT WEEK FOR PLAYOFF DATES

BEAT MCGILL FRIDAY

HOCKEY 8.00 V.A.

FREE

Talking Shop!

NOT FOR JUST A MONTH, not for just a year . . . a Joan Rigby dress or suit is of the perennial quality which is designed to last as long as you want to wear it, and made to make you want to wear it a long long time. There's quality with a college accent at Joan's, the sort of quality which manages to stay young and at the same time maintain a poise which is comfortable at any age. At the turn of the season we advise early shopping, just on general principle, because the "pick of the crop is the first of the crop."

THANK GOODNESS for NAIL-DRI. It's the new preparation which is a "must" for a quick manicure, gives your nail polish an un-marred, glossy, DRY finish immediately. NAIL-DRI is simply brushed over your wet polish and presto! your nails are dry! No tedious waiting for polish to dry, no smeared. Good for your cuticle, it helps prevent chipping and the polish lasts longer. Adds brilliance to any brand or shade of polish. NAIL-DRI is economical too, a 50c bottle will give you 50 or more manicures, less than 1c per manicure. You can get it at Tamblin's, Simpson's beauty shops and all druggists.

ASCOT TAILORS at 252 Richmond Street West just two short blocks west of University Avenue are tailoring women's suits as well as men's . . . specializing in the same precision of cut, the unmistakable tailored line and knowledgeable design which has popularized them as menswear tailors. In the class-room or wherever you take it, a tailored-to-perfection suit is tops and in these days when it's usually next to impossible to hope for delivery within a reasonable length of time we suggest that you'll be pleasantly surprised with the ASCOT service. N.B. Servicemen are getting "double priority" for civvies at Ascot.

OOPS MY DEAR . . . if you still haven't learned to roller skate there's plenty of time and take it easy. Just sneak down to the Mutual Street Arena some Wednesday or Saturday afternoon and have some practice because it's likely you're going to be invited any time now to join a party roller skating. And here's further advice . . . don't wait till you're invited by a member of the opposite sex. Roller skating is one sport which you can do solo, with a member of either sex or in a party with equal success and it's being diligently pursued by students who want to save on eye-strain after a week of intensive study, as well as the more sporting gals and guys. Your thirty-five cents covers skates, skating, eight to eleven fifteen even evening, matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays. Fenced-off zone of safety for beginners, and instructors.

FASHIONLAND FOR YOUTHFUL FASHIONS . . . and in Northway's "Fashionland" you'll pick out this one to accent the positive. It's the "Bolero Suit" pencil-slim from skirt-hem to waist, square-set above the waist and twittering with satin-covered metal buttons which rim the edges in true Bolero tradition. Comes in fine imported English wool crepe fashioned with nice tailoring into a dress-suit you can live and work in, varying its formality with accessories.

IF YOU ARE THE TWENTY TYPE, which means if you're 99 and 9 10th percent average around the campus, we recommend a visit to the Frangeline Shops for sensible tweeds at sensible prices. By sensible prices we mean in the 11.95 to 19.95 price range, which is little enough, goodness knows, for an outfit which puts you in the sort of knock-around suit which is as right for the class-room as it will be later for the golf-course or country visit. Pastels and darker shades in all the wanted sizes, with all kinds of inspiration in the blouse department.

TREATMENTS that go to the root of the cause of thinning or dull hair are the treatments made famous at Pembers. Mr. Pembers has devoted over half a century to research into the care and health of the hair and the treatments which he has developed as a result of this work are remarkably effective. These treatments do not pay attention to the surface only but comprise proper diet to combat the condition in the system which is the cause of drying falling hair which is often prevalent even in young people. We've seen tiny bald spots eliminated as a result of this treatment and can tell you

Our Readers Write —

Tax Capital

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Instead of dual taxation, we might well ask if there is not some income escaping taxation. Is capital gain not income? That is, profits derived from the sale of capital assets. In the U.S.A. if one buys shares on the stock market at say $100 and sells at 125 the gain is taxable income just the same as wages or dividends. Why not tax speculative profits here?

Removal of the excess profits tax and its anticipation have sent stock market prices soaring to new highs, as the profits which the government would have taken will be available as dividends. If you hold your stock, the government will collect income tax on the dividends, but when you sell at the higher valuation you get the capital gain without paying any tax on the increase in wealth.

Because of living accommodation scarcity, some houses are being sold at ridiculous prices. A real estate dealer is taxed on such profit because that's his business. Others are not taxed. I would make an exception of a taxpayer's residence and tax capital gain realized on all other property or investments. If some are able to make one, two or even five years' income on a deal, option or promotion, why should not the profit be taxed? Are not profits on surplus capital better able to pay income tax than basic wages, salaries or fees? And, economists, why the distinction between capital gains and dividends?

Such a tax should, of course, work both ways, with gains based either on purchase price or pre-war 1939 value, but losses allowed only on purchases made after the effective date and deductible only from capital gain income.

The year 1946 looks like a fruitful one. Can we afford to let it escape this tax?

—JOHN W. GILBERT.

Gen. Chisholm

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Surely a logical contradiction can be provided for Brock Chisholm, our Canadian Minister of Health, who attacks the basic concepts of morality, who abandons all civil laws, and who claims there is no ultimate truth available to us as yet. He has been quoted as saying that there is no distinction between good and evil. "The concept of right and wrong is a poison which prevents human beings from attaining emotional maturity and leads to periodic wars. We have swallowed all manner of poisonous certainties fed us by our parents, our Sunday and day-school teachers, our politicians, our priests, our newspapers and others with the vested interests in controlling us."

And he makes an analogy between the wise and tender care of a mother to her child and the fiendish brutality of murderers of people in Europe.

"Unless children are trained so that they can experience reality and from that experience come to appreciate truth, we will never have a generation of adults with the understanding and conviction needed to end wars. We need education in truth, not training in prejudice."

His idea of truth is social environment. Here are a few implications of his theory of letting a child think and do as he pleases.

If a child stands on the edge of a cliff and wants to jump off, let

It's good. Pembers are at 129 Yonge Street, EL 2388.

THANK GOODNESS women have more courage in choosing clothes than men. Without colour the world would be exceedingly drab. But it's one thing to be daring and another to be foolishly reckless . . . and stylists approve of the woman who buys her rouge and lipstick to "connect" with the predominating colour of her costume. Blues require certain shades of rouge and lipstick, reds other shades, yellows and browns still other harmonious tones. Which is why we're happy to tell you that THREE FLOWERS lipstick and rouge come in shades designed to help you match your colour effects accurately — Carmeen, Crimson, Raspberry, Regal Red, Orange Red and Cherry.

him. Do not suppress his acts, lest he be not educated in truth. If a child likes to play with matches, let him be burned and set fire to the house lest he will not come to appreciate truth, and instead become the victim of poisonous certainties fed him by his parents.

I do not intend to write a treatise on Brock Chisholm but only to illustrate his teachings in a brief way.

A contradiction for all practical purposes can be supplied from our basic notions of good and evil. The duty to refrain and do good comes from man's nature. According to ethics, actions are concerned with things that exist. To cease to be something and to become something else is an evil.

If you take a hammer and smash a blackboard it ceases to exist as a blackboard, and therefore it is an evil to smash it. The less one acts as a man, the less one is a man. Things are evil that are destructive of their nature. Peculiar to man is his rationality. Two actions man is equipped to perform are the act of knowing and the act of willing.

Knowing is concerned with everything which is. Willing is to will perfection of oneself as a knower. Man knows things from three sources:—

- (1)—As they are revealed to him by God.
- (2)—From the testimony revealed to him from observations.
- (3)—As man reasons and reveals them to himself.

Evil is found in man's capacity of reasoning. And so, if Gen. Brock Chisholm acts as human being and accepts the truth that is there, then he will have no foundation or basis with which to form his beliefs.

I do not think that a man who has been hired as a servant of an acclaimed Christian country should be attacking the basic principles of Christianity.

—DON GOUDY,
11 Pass St. Michael's.

Blue Sunday

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

As you probably know, two rinks have been erected on Trinity's Athletic field to provide a place for impromptu hockey games and practices. It is an excellent idea adding much to an enjoyment of the sport to have rinks so convenient.

Unfortunately, some ultra-Puritan has seen fit to ban the use of these rinks on Sunday. For some of us this removes much of the advantages of the rinks as Sunday is the only time we have to play.

This is only a particular instance of a condition all too prevalent in this city, that of forbidding harmless and healthful amusement on Sunday presumably on moral grounds. That they are truly moral seems to be doubtful. Rather, they seem to be a hangover of an outmoded type of thinking which, in other matters, disappeared with bustles.

That this university, supposedly intelligent in these matters, should adopt this attitude, is heart-breaking. No reasons are given for its stand. Certainly it cannot be the Bible. The word, "rest," for a student cannot mean reading a book or something equivalent. Perhaps these people wish us to spend the day in the same mental blank as they seem to.

I cannot reconcile myself to this opinion of spending Sunday in something approaching a state of suspended animation.

—ROBERT ORR,
II Chemistry,
University College.

Dvorak Jumps

(Continued from Page 4)

to weird talking effects, are the other highlights on this side.

The Anita O'Day fans will get a big kick out of June Cristy's warbling of Just A-Sittin' and A-Rockin' with the Kenton band. Nicely-blended saxes and Stan's keyboard artistry lead off on this Ellington tune, with June and some noisy brass taking it from here on in. Musso gives some brief, but effective assistance as the vocal ends.

These Capital discs quickly become rare items, so grab it while the grabbin' good.

ART BLAKELY.

I.S.S.

Pledge for Peace. University reconstruction. Rehabilitation of students. Food relief; work relief. International scholarships. Warm clothing and bedding. Prisoners of war relief. Emergency grants. International student conferences. Student rest centres and hostels. Refugee relief in India, Burma, Netherlands, East Indies and the Philippines.

CANADA PACKERS OPERATIC SOCIETY PRESENTS

A GILBERT & SULLIVAN WEEK

BOTH OPERAS BY PERMISSION OF RUPERT D'OYLY CARTÉ

AT EATON AUDITORIUM

THE GONDOLIERS

EVENINGS FEB. 25th 26th 27th AT 8.15 P.M.

MATINEE MARCH 2nd AT 2.30 P.M.

AND

UTOPIA LIMITED

EVENINGS FEB. 28th MAR. 1st 2nd AT 8.15 P.M.

TICKETS ON SALE AT EATON AUDITORIUM AND AT CANADA PACKERS

NET PROCEEDS IN AID OF THE SAVE THE CHILDREN FUND

Classified Advertisements

FOR SALE

Army officer's uniform, complete, size 37, good condition, very reasonably priced. Phone LL 6718.

FOR SALE

Dress Tail coat, size 35. Blue suit good condition, 18 ounce serge, size 36, (young man's) with 2 pair trousers, 30" waist, 32" leg. MA 4175, after 6.

24 HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

FOR SALE

Size 8, hockey skates. Apply B. Noase, Room 12, Residence 736, Ajax.

LOST

Black leather wallet, initialed "C.G.B." lost in Health Service Bldg., Mon. Night. Phone LA 5760.

WANTED

Tutor for second year Calculus (Engineering). Apply Box L, The Varsity.

LOST

Left mit, brown fur-backed, lost in U.C. Wednesday morning. HY 0175.

COLOUR PHOTOGRAPHY

Have your party photographed in brilliant natural colour! Personal portraiture also done. Phone KI 3667, Peter or Jerry Waite, 5-6 p.m.

TYPING DONE

Reasonably. Central. Ryan, LA 6189.

WANTED

Actuarial Science tutor, 1st year. Apply Box M, The Varsity.

FOR SALE

Complete ski outfit—7' skis, boots, (size 10), poles, harness, brand new, $32. Phone M. R. Dobson, KI 0316, between 5.30 and 6.00 p.m.

Boy who found ret bag please return to S.A.C. office, Hart House, or phone KI 2762.

O.C.E. Presents

PLAY-NITE

3-ONE-ACT-PLAYS

- THE MONKEY'S PAW (JACOBS)
- THE HAPPY JOURNEY (WILDER)
- THE DEVIL AND DANIEL WEBSTER (BENET)

Thurs. - 28 Feb.
8.15 p.m.

General Admission 50c

Tickets on sale at the door or at O.C.E. Auditorium, corner Bloor and Spadina.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacleware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service.

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762 (Ground Floor St. George Apartments) OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Art, Music and Drama

The University Symphony

The University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra conducted by Hans Gruber presented the first of its two concerts in Convocation Hall last night. Allowing for the fact that the musicians are amateurs, the group played well. The program was mature and well chosen.

The performance of the major work, Schubert's Fifth Symphony was somewhat erratic. The orchestra and the conductor worked well together in the two middle movements and the results were almost professional. Particularly notable was some fine playing by oboist Lloyd McHattie. The first movement suffered from lack of unison in the string section, and the last from varying tempo. The symphony showed that the violins were undisciplined. This, I understand, was no fault of the conductor's, but rather was because some of the players did not show up for rehearsals and, as far as I could make out, paid no particular attention to the conductor.

Highlight of the program was a performance of the first movement of Schumann's Piano Concerto with George Crum as soloist. The orchestra provided excellent accompaniment for an excellent interpretation. The characteristics of Crum's playing which made the performance of the concerto so successful were evident as well in his restrained rendition of Bach's chorale-pretude I Call on Thee, Lord, and a sensitive, yet brilliant, performance of Chopin's B flat minor Scherzo. These characteristics include a tendency toward soft and slow playing which impresses one as being much more musical than the bombastics that so many try to wring from the piano, and an almost unnoticeable use of rubato, which is its only proper use.

Of interest also was a transcription by George Hurst, young Canadian composer, of an Adagio and Allegro by John Blow. These straightforward and simple pieces were orchestrated in a corresponding way, an indication of Hurst's good taste. Particularly interesting was his high register writing for the trumpets reminiscent of the music of Blow's day. His use of the other wind instruments seemed somewhat obscure.

The orchestra is much more a University ensemble than it has been for the past few years. The practice had been to augment the group with players from the Conservatory and elsewhere. This augmentation has been carried to such an extent that the University students in the group were in small minority. This year, Conductor Gruber has made it a University orchestra in deed as well as in name. However, a small number of students from the Conservatory were used to fill out the violin section, and the few snags into which the orchestra ran were, I understand, due in no small measure to these assistants.

Hans Gruber has done a good job with the orchestra. Even when technical difficulties proved too much for them, their performances are essentially musical. Their next concert, on Wednesday, February 27th, is sure to come off more smoothly, and will certainly merit the attendance of all who missed the performance last night.

PHILIP FREEDMAN

What's On Today

U.C.-TRINITY CLASSICS

There will be a meeting of the U.C.-Trinity Classics Club at 8.15 p.m. in the common room of St. Hilda's College. Student papers will be given on "Six Roman Historians" and the "Roman Mime". All welcome.

U.C., S.C.M.

What Do you believe Forum series
Leader: Rev. D. C. Candy
5:00 upstairs in the Women's Union.

CHRISTIAN ORGANIZATION

The Christian Organization will hold its monthly meeting at the Women's Union this evening, at 8.00 p.m.

Over 65,000 books were distributed to P.O.W. camps in Europe in the year preceding V.E. day.

McLean's

MISSIVE No. 4

● Today we shall select a Queen.

Her Highness and The Royal Party will have a full agenda following coronation ceremonies in Convocation Hall, at one o'clock this afternoon.

Tentatively scheduled are visits to CHUM's "Hall of Fun" and to the Canadian Premiere showing of David Selznick's "Spellbound" at Loew's.

She will also embark on a whirlwind shopping expedition of Toronto's shops.

At Simpson's, at Birks-Ellis-Ryrie, at Alton-Lewis, at Helena Rubinstein, at Pasquale d'Angelo, at the Royal York Hotel there will be regal receptions for Varsity's queen-elect as Toronto's merchants honor and hail The Most Typical Co-Ed in magnanimous manner.

* * *

● Today too jazz will have its Varsity debut.

* * *

● And also today Don Harron comes back into the campus limelight to emcee the contest ceremonies.

Up-the-Harron-sleeve is a lecture on the connotations of "typical" when applied to "co-ed" with illustration by means of a synthetic female especially constructed for the occasion.

* * *

● Today is in actuality merely the beginning of the I.S.S. fund-raising drive.

Cross-campus organizations already are contributing to the cause or planning to.

If we may end that sentence with a proposition, may we end this one with a proposition: Why don't YOU?

The Spanish and German Clubs and the Canadian Association of Scientific Workers (Toronto Branch) have each announced special meetings at which net proceeds will be donated to I.S.S.

Next Tuesday a Spanish Club comedy "Fencing And Love" ("Esgrima y Amor") will turn over proceeds. On Thursday of next week the German Club's scheduled Victoria Alumni Hall debate on "Progress" will do likewise. And the C.A.S.W. which will gather that same evening in the Women's Union to hear Dr. C. H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin, discuss physiological research at the Banting Institute, intends to act similarly.

Campaign climax will be the all-university review.

But today the taggers are in circulation.

* * *

● There is somewhere nearby a tagger.

She will presently approach you with a request to invest in I.S.S.

With conditions as they are in needy countries, even a 10 cent contribution may well prove to be the dime of somebody's life as you purchase the red and white tag—a token of your share in this "international helping hand" undertaking.

We can't recommend so small an investment in the ideals embodied in the International Student Service.

But it would be something.

* * *

● We—as others—have been flippant about the quest for a typical co-ed.

Surely no one has misconstrued the Committee's motives in conducting such a contest.

It has been innocuous frivolity which, we feel, ought never to have obscured the prime purpose of I.S.S.

Gay Cottons

as Sparkling as the Summer Sun

It's the time to choose your cottons and bring a little sunshine into your home right now. Then, when the long summer days set in you'll be all ready to step-forth looking crisp and cool. Gingham, chambrays and seersuckers in a host of vivid sun-drenched colours. Sizes 12 to 20.

$8.95 and $10.95

Evangeline

- 113 Yonge at Adelaide
 - 751 Yonge at Bloor
 - 1458 Yonge at St. Clair
 - 3414 Yonge at City Limits
 - 444 Eglinton W. at Castleknock
 - 656 Danforth at Pape
- In Hamilton—King and John Sts.

University Governor, Hon. G. H. Ferguson Dies

Chancellor of Western U.

A distinguished U. of T. graduate and official and a life-long friend of Varsity students, the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson died early yesterday at his home on Avenue Rd of a sudden heart attack. He was 76 years of age.

Mr. Ferguson was a member of the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto and Chancellor of the University of Western Ontario. He is believed to be the only man ever to have held such offices simultaneously in two Canadian universities. He was also a member of the Board of the Royal Ontario Museum.

In 1927 the University conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

A graduate of University College in 1889 and a classmate of Chancellor Cody's, Mr. Ferguson's interest in University students remained active throughout his life.

During the depression years he was greatly concerned with the plight of able students who were having difficulty financing their courses. Unknown to the students concerned, he gave several large sums to the Loan Fund of the Students' Administrative Council to augment assistance being rendered.

He also made many gifts of clothing to students. Several times he brought stocks of new overcoats to the S.A.C. office to be given to students suffering from cold and unable to buy them.

Funeral service will be conducted by the Hon. and Rev. H. J. Cody, Chancellor of the University, at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Bloor St. E., at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Mr. Ferguson became Prime Minister of Ontario in 1923, when he led the Conservatives to victory in the rout of the Drury Farmer government. Retiring in 1930 in favor of Hon. George S. Henry, he declined an opportunity to become Federal party leader, supporting Hon. R. B. Bennett.

When Mr. Bennett became Prime Minister he appointed Mr. Ferguson High Commissioner to London, an office he held until his retirement from public life five years later.

Records of his administration remaining on the Provincial statute-books include the provincial liquor control system, the settlement of a long-standing dispute over the teaching of French in Ontario schools, expansion of the hydro-electric system, and the provincial King's Highway system.

Mr. Ferguson's first jump into the political limelight after six years' back-bench apprenticeship came when in 1911 he introduced a resolution demanding that in future only the English language should

(Continued on Page 5)

Club Activities Planned Proceeds To Go To I.S.S.

Three student organizations prominent on the campus, the German Club, the Spanish Club and the Toronto branch of the Canadian Association of Scientific Workers have decided to combine their efforts to aid International Student Service by donating the proceeds of their next meetings to the fund.

Meeting on Tuesday Feb. 26 at 8 p.m. in the Women's Union, the Spanish Club will present the comedy "Egrima y amor" (Fencing and Love). This play is on the first year curriculum in Spanish and all interested students are especially invited.

"All students of Spanish who have not yet begun to study for the May examinations will find it profitable to combine studies and recreation in this way," Ross Davidson, producer of the play told The Varsity. "Nevertheless, attendance is not restricted in any way."

It is rumored that the play is filled with duels, vibrant love scenes, sangre y bromas. The five leading characters hail from five different parts of the globe, ranging from South America and Germany up to Toronto. In addition, the program will feature dancing, Dominican Republic records. Entrance fees will be contributed to I.S.S.

Sponsored by the University German Club, a debate is to be held in Alumni Hall, Victoria College, Thursday Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. Members of the club will discuss whether the history of human society justifies belief in progress.

Professor R. K. Arnold of Victoria College will be chairman of the debate, which will feature Otto Butz (III Political Science) President of the club, Kurt Dahl (II Modern Languages) for the affirmative, and Bob Engelmann (IV Sociology) assisted by Eric Kruh (IV Modern Languages) for the negative.

In accordance with the club's present policy of creating wider interest on the campus, speeches from the floor may be held in English, although the regular debaters will speak German. Donations will be accepted for the I.S.S. fund, during the subsequent dance.

A University section within the Toronto branch of the Canadian Association of Scientific Workers was formed this year. Student membership, which differs from full standing only by limitation of voting powers, is open to any student proceeding to a degree. Its aims are to ensure the fullest application of science to the welfare of society and to back the economic rights of scientists, according to a statement from Bill Fairley, (IV General), president of the branch.

At the next meeting to be held on Thursday Feb. 28, at 8.30 p.m. in the Women's Union, Dr. Best, co-discoverer of insulin with the late Sir Frederick Banting, will discuss Physiological research developments in the Banting Institute.

Dr. Best will also discuss blood transfusions, insulin and the enzyme histaminase.

Said Fairley to The Varsity: "I.S.S. is closely connected with the development of scientific thought in the devastated countries of Europe. Funds collected during the evening will be turned over to the Student Service fund."

Died Yesterday

Rt. Hon. G. HOWARD FERGUSON

Skule Elections Held Next Month

"A red-letter day" for many Schoolmen who will contest the various positions of the Engineering Society Executive at the polls, on Mar. 1 the retiring executive will turn over its posts to newly-elected officers for the coming year.

In order to win an election a candidate must first get himself nominated. Then he prepares an address to be delivered to Skulemen who are assembled to laugh at his jokes and conduct a campaign.

Candidates will campaign in the forenoon, parade from S.P.S. to Hart House for dinner and more speeches, and return to Skule to vote. Many may make the annual pilgrimage to "The Queen Street Mecca" to hear the election results.

It is expected that there will be stiff competition for this year's offices.

The VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 89 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Friday, February 22, 1946

JEAN MACDONALD TYPICAL '46 COED

Dalhousie Votes Student Council $10 Fee Increase

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Feb. 19.—(CUP)—On Election Day, Dalhousie University students will go to the polls to approve or reject a $10 increase in the Student Council fee. They will not be asked to sanction this increase in its entirety, but rather to consider it in parts, dealing with each separately. The raise has been broken down into three smaller sums of three, two and five dollars, each ear-marked for a specific purpose.

The $3.00 sum would be devoted to the publishing of a "respectable" year book. The decision on this count would give every student a year book this year, and at the end of the year stock would be taken to judge if the cost requires the increase.

The $2.00 sum would be designated for a University War Memorial in all probability a swimming pool, a hockey stadium or some other student recreational building. In five or six years $20,000 could be accumulated, after which the Alumni and the University authorities can be approached for the remaining necessary financial assistance.

The $5.00 levy would be used to expand and improve the present activities financed by the Council. If this is approved, the Council has promised that Student Council cards will henceforth gain admission to every function put on either directly by the Council, or indirectly through the organizations which it finances.

Convocation Hall Parade Of Twenty-Two Finalists

Don Harron is M.C.

Blonde, blue-eyed Jean Macdonald of Victoria College was crowned "Miss Varsity of 1946" by Joan Cameron, "Miss Typical Co-ed of 1945", when a predominantly male audience shelled out for I.S.S. and packed Convocation Hall yesterday afternoon.

While master of ceremonies Don Harron and a six-piece band kept the audience at bay, 22 finalists paraded before judges Hec Phillips, Varsity track coach, Chesty Martin, Hart House muscle manipulator, and Pasquale d'Angelo, charm expert.

Want The Varsity? Just Call Mi. 8742

Starting today, the day and night telephone number of The Varsity is MI 8742. The day phone is no longer connected to the University switchboard.

Location of the day and night office remains at Room 42-a University College, and the Business office, for the insertion of advertising, is still the S.A.C. Office, Hart House, MI 622L.

Sheila MacDougall of Trinity and Phyllis McCoy of Victoria were runners-up in the contest which officially opened the campaign for $12,000 conducted by the International Students' Service for the relief and rehabilitation of universities and students throughout the world.

"It's wonderful," gasped Jean when she heard of the list of prizes including:

- a beauty kit from Helena Rubinstein,
- four tickets to the supper dance at the Royal York Hotel.
- a suit or dress from Simpson's.
- a ticket to the Anchor Ball sponsored by Delta Gamma Fraternity in aid of I.S.S.
- a coldwave permanent from Flora Simpson Salon.
- a slack suit from Alton Lewis.
- a glamor pin from Birks-Elis-Ryrie.
- a camera study by Pasquale d'Angelo.

In first year Pass Arts, the Queen is a Toronto girl who lives on Wells Hill Ave. She went to Oakwood Collegiate and plans on going into Dental Nursing next year.

Jean would have been my choice had I been the judge," confided Joan Cameron before she went on stage to crown the winner.

Sheila MacDougall, one of the runners-up, comes from Red Lake, Ont., and is in second year Commerce and Finance at St. Hilda's. Phyl McCoy, the other runner-up, from Ottawa, is in first year Moderns at Vic.

Surprise last-minute entries from Ajax division were Connie Jones and Helen Ashton.

Robinette Debates For Coming Week

Robinette Debates schedule for week of February 25-29 follows:

Monday, Feb. 25—Duff and Wadley vs. Atin and Boas.

Tuesday, Feb. 26—Harris and Kert vs. Muller and Goldring.

Wednesday, Feb. 27—Sharp and Shubik vs. Georges and Simmonds.

Thursday, Feb. 28—Winner of the Shift and Zeldin vs. Jack and Robinson—vs. winner of Duff and Wadley vs. Atin and Boas.

Semi-finals commence the following week, first year debating against against third year, and second year against fourth.

Topics debated this week included the federated college system, Toronto "blue laws", and "experience as the best teacher."

What's On Today

VARSITY BANDSMEN

Turn out for the McGill game. Be at Drill Hall 7.15 p.m.

Campus Queen Jean Macdonald of Victoria College smiles upon her cheering subjects who attended her election and coronation in Convocation Hall yesterday afternoon, as the climax of the opening day's activities in the interest of International Student Service.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a
University CollegeMI. 6611
Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478
Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor... John Rooke, 477
News Editor.....George Forster, 476
Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 477
Ajax.....Pete Philippott
Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 477
Assistant.....Reg Herman, 476
Ajax.....Cliff Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor.....Bredin Stapells, 476
Assistant.....Don Mason, 476
Ajax.....Ed. Caldwell
Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
C.O.P. & Exchange
Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 476
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor.....Philip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Friday, February 22, 1946

Memo For Voters

With Hart House nominations opening today, we recount below the functions of the House committees as a guide to nominators and nominees.

From the earliest days of Hart House its activities have been administered by committees consisting of senior and undergraduate members. The senior members, numbering not more than two or three on each committee, are chosen for their interest in the particular affairs of that committee and are appointed to serve by the Board of Stewards. The undergraduates who are in a large majority on every committee are elected annually by the undergraduate members of Hart House, except that in order to provide continuity, two undergraduates in the larger committees (i.e., House, Library, Music, Art, Debates, and Glee Club) and one undergraduate in the smaller committees (i.e., Camera, Squash Racquets, and Chess) are elected to serve for the following year by the out-going committee. The Warden is Vice Chairman of all committees except in the case of the Board of Stewards of which he is ex-officio Chairman.

Every undergraduate member of Hart House is eligible to vote, and is urged to do so, in the election of members for the House, Library, Music, Art, Squash Racquets, and Debates Committees. In the case of the Camera, Glee Club, and Chess Committees voting is restricted to members of each club.

All undergraduates are eligible to stand for election to the committee of their choice, except those who are graduating (for obvious reasons), those in Business Administration and in the Institutional Management Courses (who will not be in the University throughout the next academic year) and those of the present first year engineering students who will be at Ajax next year. There are no qualifications for candidature other than an interest in the duties of the particular committee chosen and a readiness to give time to its affairs, with the exception of the Debates Committee where a candidate must have spoken once from the floor of the House during a Hart House debate this year, and the Squash Racquets Committee where a candidate must certify that he has played squash at least six times during this year and has had his name on the ranking list at least three weeks before the date of nominations.

THE HOUSE COMMITTEE

The House Committee is concerned with the general management and social activities of Hart House including the annual All-University fall dance. It is responsible to the Board for seeing that the structure itself and all equipment are maintained in good repair. It deals with all matters that make for the comfort and convenience of members. The tuck shop, the new lunch room, the barber shop, the card room, and guest rooms come under its supervision. This committee is also directly concerned with the operation of the Great Hall, both as regards the daily meals and also those served to members at any special functions that may take place there. A representative of this committee sits on the Chess Committee and also on the Board of Directors of the University Settlement. It is also responsible for the management of the annual committee elections in March.

THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE

The Library Committee controls the library, being responsible for the purchase of all books which include biography, novels, history and general literature. Its object is to build up and maintain what is rapidly becoming a first-class collection of private press books which are shown in a display case. The periodicals for the reading room are selected by this committee. It also arranges Library Evenings from time to time throughout the year.

THE MUSIC COMMITTEE

The Music Committee supervises all the musical activities of the House, among which are the series of eight Sunday Evening Concerts and the Friday Recitals. In addition to Friday sing-songs, the committee arranges midday recitals in the east common room given on certain Tuesdays by outstanding undergraduate musicians.

THE ART COMMITTEE

The Art Committee arranges fortnightly exhibitions in the art gallery when pictures by outstanding artists from Canada and farther afield are shown. Midday talks and discussions are arranged in connection with these exhibitions. It also arranges monthly exhibitions in the print room where reproductions of the work of old and modern masters are on view. Throughout the winter it organizes art classes under the direction of a well known artist. The arts and crafts room comes under the supervision of this committee, as do the purchase of prints and art books and in conjunction with an Advisory Committee of Artists the purchase of pictures for Hart House.

THE CAMERA COMMITTEE

The Camera Committee is in general concerned with the encouragement of photography among members of Hart House. It controls the use of the camera quarters, the valuable equipment in these quarters and the arrangement of monthly and annual exhibitions.

THE SQUASH RACQUETS COMMITTEE

The Squash Racquets Committee controls the use of the squash courts, arranges individual tournaments and is in touch with the Intramural squash racquets committee regarding the tournament arranged by that body. This committee also arranges matches between other clubs and Hart House and provides competent instructors for those members who are learning the game.

(Continued on Page 5)

(Investigating the disappearance of the Atomic Hamburger, handicapped moreover by contracting the dread Stummick's Disease which compels him to crack the case before inevitable death within 24 hours, Dr. Aloysius P. Q. R. McGeech slams behind him the door of Hart House Tower and vanishes upstairs on the trail of the assassin).

As he padded round and round, up and up the spiral staircase, echoes beat about his ears and something clutched at his heart. He felled it with a well-directed fist and plodded on and on, up and up. As he mounted, the echoes became louder. They became less and less the echoes of footsteps, more and more the echoes of human voices.

Around and around; up and up. Now words became distinguishable. Shrill and clear-cut about the echoing murmur he distinguished the word "Grampus".

A connoisseur of Grampi, McGeech pressed on eagerly, readying his notebook. As a zoology sophomore in 9T6, he had written an essay which his professors considered the last word on the theory of Grampi. Down through the years he had preserved his monograph, reconsidering, retouching, revising, readying it for posthumous publication.

For McGeech, the Terror of the Underworld, was content to have his perilous escapes, his nabbing of countless criminals, his repeated saving of humanity from extinction, forgotten; if he could only be remembered as the 20th. century prime authority on Grampi.

Eagerly, then, he pressed up, hot on the quest of further facts.

"The Grampus", proclaimed an unmistakable voice, "is doomed." This was music to the ears of McGeech. If the species tottered on the verge of extinction, no one in after ages would dare to contradict his own authoritative final study.

"Doomed, yes, doomed," agreed another voice. "But its work is almost done."

Its work? McGeech knew of only one Grampusian labor. Sprawling on rocky coasts, Grampi down through the ages had passed their lives slurping up quantities of slime and gleefully spraying it on passers-by. It was their avocation, their pastime, their life.

He was spared further speculation by a resumption of the conversation above.

"Yes", answered the first voice, "its work is almost done. We have penetrated the inner chambers of the S.A.C."

What the hoarse, wallowing Grampus could want in the inner chambers of the S.A.C. McGeech could only guess. Mahogany chambers were poles removed from its customary habitat.

The second voice took up the tale:

"It has been plain from the outset what they have discussed behind those locked doors. They have discussed the Atomic Hamburger."

McGeech thrilled. The two ultimate quests of his life were drawing closer together.

"And, fools that they are, they have admitted us. We shall listen to these decadent demagogues as they bandy about the Atomic Hamburger secrets. And then we shall transmit them to A Power We Dare Not Name."

"They did not discuss these secrets at their last meeting, however." "No. But they shall. We must bide our time."

McGeech's brain whirled. As the two voices faded into a soft disgruntling, he strove to find a formula that might include the Grampus, the Atomic Hamburger, and the S.A.C. Not to mention the left toe of the museum's most popular mummy and the murderous swarm of T-ch-tch flies.

At the top of the stairs, he peeped around the corner. What he saw nearly stopped his heart.

Beneath a banner "Offices of the Grampus", sat two men; one McGeech did not know. The other he could not forget. The other had hounded his dreams for years. It was the arch-fiend, the king spy: "Q!"

He strode into the room and whipped out his water-pistol.

And the lights went out.
(To Be Continued)

SLOGANS

I.S.S.—Student Fraternity in action.
Don't pass the buck—give it to I.S.S.

Simpson's

Young Navy is news for spring! Here it is in a rayon crepe frock, with crisp eyelet embroidery.... from the Jr. Rendezvous.

2 NITES ONLY — CONVOCATION HALL

Wed. & Thurs., March 6 & 7

All-Varsity Revue

Featuring

WHITEY BELSHAW AND HIS SENSATIONAL
16 PC. ORCHESTRA AND THE BEST FROM

- SCHOOL NITE
- U.C. FOLLIES
- DAFFYDIL NITE
- DENTANTICS
- VIC BOB
- TRINITY

Including Those Top Comics

ALEC SIEGEL AND DON HARRON

Entirely in Aid of International Student Service

University Symphony Orchestra FULL REHEARSALS

SAT., FEB. 23, 2 p.m.—WEST HALL, UNIVERSITY COLLEGE.
SUN., FEB. 24, 2 p.m.—CONVOCATION HALL.

Full And Prompt Attention Please

Hart House Bulletin Board

Midday Sing Song

There will be a sing song in the east common room at 1.30 p.m. today.

Friday Afternoon Recital

The final Friday Afternoon Recital of the season will be held at 5 p.m. today in the music room of Hart House. The programme will consist of Tudor music composed or arranged by Mr. Leo Smith for viola da gamba, piano and voices. Mr. Smith will play the viola da gamba. This is one of the Tudor instruments owned by Hart House and is the prototype of the cello. Members of Hart House are invited to attend.

Visitors' Day

Next Sunday, 24th February, will be a Visitors' Day at Hart House when members may introduce friends, including ladies, to the House between 2 and 4 in the afternoon. The whole building will be open for inspection. An exhibition of paintings by the undergraduate members of Hart House will be on view in the art gallery. Members will be asked to show their membership cards at the door.

110 Male Voices To Salute Ajax

Next Wednesday the Hart House Glee Club from the Queen's Park campus will travel to Hart House, Ajax, to give a musical program.

The Glee Club consists of 110 male voices, and is under the direction of Dr. Charles Peaker. The musical reputation of the Club has been growing steadily, and shortly before Christmas it presented a coast-to-coast broadcast over the CBC network.

During the intermission, a two-piano team of Toronto students, Brown and Watson, will take over.

Programs will be posted in all Ajax residences, and free tickets may be obtained at the General Office, Hart House Ajax.

We make sure you won't break a MIRADO point

Ernest Eagle Shows you how:

He holds the test pencil at average writing angle . . . bears down . . . and reads on the dial the pressure at which the point snaps.

Every MIRADO point is far stronger than your normal writing pressure.

Make Your own Test!
You'll find MIRADO smoother, stronger and longer-lasting, too . . . the finest writing pencil you've ever used, or your money back!

5c each, less in quantities

EAGLE "Chemi-Sealed" (SUPER BONDED) MIRADO PENCILS

Art, Music and Drama

A Question of Principles

It is unfortunate that under the present setups there will not be very many people able to compare the U.C. Undergraduate Show in the Women's Union with the Undergraduate Show in Hart House. Most men will not see the former, and perhaps even fewer women the latter. Nevertheless, I feel the contrast between them is significant enough to merit talking about the U.C. show in terms of the one in Hart House.

Definitely, the U.C. show is of inferior calibre. Is this necessarily bad? I don't think so. Its inferiority in terms of artistic worth is compensated for by a much broader scope, and a truer picture of amateur art. It consists in the main of work in tempera and chalk done in either the regular or extra-curricular classes connected with various Fine Art courses, plus a smattering of amateur oils, and plainly very few, if any, of the contributors have had any formal training in drawing. Yet this very fact gives the U.C. show a charm of naturalness which is rather painfully lacking in the over-polished, too-expert work in the contemporaneous Hart House showings.

In the Women's Union you see the sort of art which amateurs produce. Amateur painting is fun, and should be encouraged, but allegedly "amateur" shows which hang no work that does not approach a professional level, have a most discouraging effect on the young painter, in several ways. They make him think that other "amateurs" whose work he sees hanging are so far beyond him in talent that he is making a hopeless fool of himself at painting and had better try some other hobby. They tend to give the idea that painting is a Very Serious Business, and just as ten to one mother hopes that little Johnny's music lessons will put him on the Metropolitan stage some day, rather than provide him with a source of lifelong enjoyment, so too many people believe that no one should paint unless he intends to exhibit professionally. They help to confirm the unhappily widespread impression that "anything with a frame around it has been judged good painting by somebody, and don't you dare say it's not what do you know about it."

It all comes down to the fundamental point—are amateur shows designed to show off the work of aspiring professionals, or are they designed to provide incentive to painting? There are enough amateur shows on this campus to make the question of some import. In my opinion, incentive is their primary function, and on that ground the University College show, although its material is mediocre, has the requisites for a good exhibition of Art.

ALAN GOWANS.

Yanks Take York Again

Two years ago, the appointment of Karl Krueger as conductor brought the Detroit Symphony out of a temporary eclipse back to its rank as one of the continent's top-notch symphonic aggregations. A year ago the rejuvenated band appeared in Carnegie Hall to rave reviews, and today it is recording extensively and has a regular broadcasting spot on Mutual. How far this orchestra has progressed was forcibly demonstrated at Wednesday night's Police Association Concert in Maple Leaf Gardens.

An unusually large ensemble, totalling almost 100 members, it boasts an especially heavy string section and an imposing array of brass. If there exists a flaw in the organization, it is surely that the needs of teamwork and co-operation are occasionally slighted, resulting in some raggedness and crescendo of a disjointed character at times. On the credit side, the woodwind and brass choirs are excellent and the strings sound vibrant and suave.

Mr. Krueger gave an intelligent reading of Tchaikovsky's intense Fifth Symphony—until the last movement, that is. There occurred here the worst travesty, or rather series of travesties, that I have ever heard imposed on any score. Tempi were speeded and retarded drastically with flagrant disregard for the printed page. I am unable to endorse a performance so marred by a conductor's erratic striving after the unusual and executed without question by his men. On the other hand, Strauss' inspired Tod und Verklarung was realized completely and played with authentic understanding and grandeur.

Helen Jepson of the Metropolitan, accompanied by the orchestra under Valter Poole, its associate conductor, sang airs by Cilea and Mendelssohn, and encores Copland and Gershwin. Possessor of a bright hard soprano, Miss Jepson's range is exceptional, reserves of power enormous, and her interpretations coloured by a relevant sense of the dramatic. Incidentally, the provocative gown into which Miss Jepson was poured may have played some part in the tumultuous nature of her recalls.

D. GORDON ROSS

BE SMART—LOOK SMART USE BRYLCREEM

THE PERFECT HAIR DRESSING

● Applied every morning, BRYLCREEM will keep your hair looking smart and well-groomed all day long. The natural oils in BRYLCREEM overcome dandruff and dry scalp, give the hair a healthy, natural lustre without that greasy appearance. All druggists sell BRYLCREEM in the handy, convenient tube. Buy today.

NO GUM—NO SOAP—NO ALCOHOL—NO STARCH

smoke the mild cigarette

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service
321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

SLOGANS

Give to I.S.S.—Your investment in humanity.
The need is greater than ever—I.S.S.
I had no shoes, and I murmured; until I met a man who had no feet.—Persian proverb.—I.S.S.

USED COLLEGE TEXT BOOKS

At Best Current Prices

Open Evenings Until 10 p.m.

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE — RA. 1148

(1 BLOCK SOUTH OF BLOOR)

mart kenney currently appearing at the Royal York Hotel

art hallman
currently appearing at Casa Loma, Toronto

stan patton currently appearing at Brant Inn, Burlington

These and other very well-known orchestras available

Exclusive Management

Office of MART KENNEY
HEC McALLUM, Manager
125 Dupont St., Toronto
KI. 3147—Nights: OR. 4894

ELLIS McLINTOCK, His Trumpet and His Orchestra

TOMORROW NIGHT IN THE SPACIOUS COMFORT OF THE ROYAL YORK CONCERT HALL

Dancing 9-12

Tickets $1.00 Each on Sale at Door

Coming Events

NEWMAN CLUB

The Chaplain will give a little chat at a Chaplain-at-Home in the Hall at 9.15 on Sunday night. A special entertainment will follow.

FRENCH CLUB

The Annual Joint Meeting of the U.C. Victoria, and Trinity French Clubs will take place in the Women's Union on Wednesday, Feb. 27, at 8.00 p.m. Each club will present a short play, which will be followed by refreshments and dancing.

Dr. Jean Davey will lecture to the first year women of Victoria College in Wymilwood on Monday, Feb. 25, at 5.05 p.m. Her subject will be "The Physiology of the Reproductive System."

Jack Swan Stars

Led by lanky Jack Swan, Varsity Seconds plinned a 45-27 defeat on McMaster University Seniors last night. Swan, along with Bruce Tetmar, proved to be the offensive and defensive backbone of the Blue Squad, sparking them to a hefty first half lead with 12 and 7 points respectively in that period.

Improving somewhat in the second half, the Maroon basketballers were nevertheless unable to come within shooting distance of the Blues. Good shooting by Varsity, plus excellent defensive work, preserved a decisive lead.

Varsity II.—Glaft, Andrews (4), Himil (3), Lowes (6), Swan (16), Tetmar (9), Hennessy (2), Sturges (5).

McMaster III.—Ingram (6), Gurney (4), Leggat (14), Traut (1), Seagers (1), Rutledge (1), Baker, Davey.

RECORD HOUR

The record hour, held daily in the Women's Common Room of University College from 4.00 p.m. to 5.30 is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties.

TODAY'S PROGRAM

Sibelius — Finlandia, Tone Poem
Saint-Saens — Danse Macabre
Mozart — Symphony No. 39 in E flat major.

STAMMERING

Stammering corrected by modern scientific methods. Helpful 48-page booklet gives full information. Write today for FREE copy. W. D. Dennison, 543 Jarvis St., Toronto

Memo For Voters

(Continued from Page 2)

THE DEBATES COMMITTEE

The Debates Committee is responsible for organising a series of Hart House debates which are conducted as far as possible according to the parliamentary procedure at Ottawa. Both Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Bennett (as he then was) have taken part in Hart House debates during their term of office as Prime Minister, as well as cabinet ministers from Ottawa and provincial legislatures.

THE GLEE CLUB COMMITTEE

The Glee Club Committee is responsible for the activities of the Glee Club which holds regular rehearsals twice a week throughout the winter. It arranges concerts of which the most important are the Christmas broadcast of carols and the final Sunday Evening Concert in the Great Hall. Other concerts, such as the one planned for Ajax, take place from time to time.

THE CHESS COMMITTEE

The Chess Committee is responsible for the chess room and chess equipment. It arranges tournaments and matches and in general is concerned with the promotion of interest in this game.

THE BOARD OF STEWARDS

The Board of Stewards is the governing body of Hart House except for the athletic wing which is controlled by the Athletic Directorate. The Board is as follows: The Warden (as Chairman), the President of the University, a representative of the Board of Governors (the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey), two senior members appointed by the President, the Financial Secretary of the Athletic Directorate, a representative of the Faculty Union, a representative of the graduate membership, three undergraduates representing respectively the Athletic Directorate, the Student Christian Movement and the Students' Administrative Council, and the undergraduate Secretaries of the House, Library, Music, Art, Camera, and Squash Racquets Committees. The Comptroller of Hart House is Secretary of the Board.

Governor Dies

(Continued From Page 1)

He was used for instruction in provincial schools. Out of this resolution grew the famous "Resolution 17", prohibiting French as a language of instruction but permitting it to be taught as a subject.

During Mr. Ferguson's prime ministership, "Resolution 17" was rescinded as a result of a commission appointed by him to investigate the schools in French districts.

Born in Kemptville on June 18, 1870, he was the son of Dr. Charles Ferguson, a House of Commons member from whom he inherited his political bent. He attended school at Kemptville, but was sent to Toronto before matriculating because of such pranks as dropping gun-powder in the school-house stove.

He attended the University of Toronto and the Law School at Osgoode Hall, and was called to the bar in 1894. He married two years later.

He came to the legislature first in 1905, and during his 25 years in politics was never defeated.

WE RENT BARRELS

To those who have important social or business commitments and "haven't a thing to wear."

Better still, we make smart, custom-tailored suits, topcoats, and sportjackets, in our own workshop within 3-4 weeks, and at most reasonable cost.

YOU ALWAYS RECEIVE A ROYAL WELCOME AT

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)
RA 8995-6

Making clothes and friends from nine to nine.

IDEAS OF CAMPING FOR COUNSELLORS

Representatives of camps in Ontario will hold a meeting under the auspices of the Ontario Camping Association on Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 7.45 p.m. at the Central Y.W.C.A. Mr. Colin McInnes and Mr. Snow, Forest rangers, will lecture on various aspects of camping, while counsellors from Ontario camps will demonstrate and hold a discussion on the topic.

The Department of Lands and Forests have sent some of their equipment to make the demonstration more realistic.

The aim of the executive is to present ideas and minimum requirements for a national program among youth organizations. A diploma is planned, as proof of knowledge of these requirements, and as reference when applying for positions.

ULTRA MODERNA...

Nuevo tipo de crema de afeitar SIN BROCHA para afeitadas diarias

Rápida y fácil de usar—ayuda a evitar pequeñas excoelaciones, dolorosa irritación

Los hombres como usted, que desean triunfar en este mundo moderno, deben lucirse siempre bien afeitados, a ras de piel, todos los días de la semana. No obstante, afeitarse diariamente resulta muchas veces una molestia y, lo

"Una afeitada ultra sencilla"

Para usar la Crema Glider, lávese la cara con agua y jabón. Luego, espárase la crema por la cara usando la punta de los dedos—jamás con brocha—y afeítese. Glider protege la cara. Permite que el filo de la hoja se deslice y corte la barba a ras de piel, sin que es peor, puede causar dolorosa irritación en una piel delicada.

Por eso tantos hombres elegantes y modernos usan ahora la Crema Glider de Williams que no requiere brocha. La maravillosa Glider ha sido preparada especialmente para facilitar la afeitada diaria. Contiene un ingrediente especial que actúa como una loción—tonifica la piel mientras se afeita.

irritarla ni herirla. Friccionese con el residuo de la crema que quede en la cara. Tiene un ingrediente que actúa como una loción. Da un acabado perfecto a la afeitada y refresca la piel—se siente el cutis más suave y más liso.

IMPORTANT! Send in your translation of this advertisement, with your name and address, to J. B. Williams Co. (Canada) Ltd., Dept. V-4 LaSalle, Montreal. We'll send you a full tube of GLIDER, giving you at least 30 days clean, comfortable shaves.

EVERYTHING FRESH and freshly-prepared for you—that's one of the things you'll like about eating at Honey Dew. Others are—

Comfortable Surroundings,
Efficient Service,
Wide Variety

Drop in for breakfast, lunch, dinner or a snack.

HONEY DEW COFFEE SHOPS

Intermission Aquacade
The MODERNAIRES
DANCING 9 to 1

P.H.E. AT HOME

HART HOUSE

MARCH 1st

TICKETS—2.50 per couple
From any Physical Ed.

SEMI-FORMAL

IT'S HOT JAZZ

and OSCAR PETERSON

"FLYING HOME"

Prince of the piano, sensational Oscar Peterson bounces rhythm and boogie woogie all over the keyboard in his latest Victor Record smash hit. Get this terrific number hot-off-the-griddle at your Victor Record dealer's today.

Also HUMORESQUE
Oscar Peterson
Both on VICTOR RECORD 56-0011 • 75c

LOOK TO VICTOR RECORDS for the Newest Hits... Here are Just a Few

I'M ALWAYS CHASING RAINBOWS
(From the film "The Dolly Sisters")
YOU WON'T BE SATISFIED
Perry Como
VICTOR RECORD 20-1788 • • • 75c

PERSONALITY
WELCOME TO MY DREAM
(both from the film "Road to Utopia")
Dinah Shore
VICTOR RECORD 20-1781 • • • 75c

AREN'T YOU GLAD YOU'RE YOU?
(from the film "Bells of St. Mary's")
A DOOR WILL OPEN
Tommy Dorsey and his Orchestra
VICTOR RECORD 20-1728 • • • 75c

THE BELLS OF ST. MARY'S
(from the film "Bells of St. Mary's")
YOU CAN CRY ON SOMEBODY ELSE'S SHOULDER
Charlie Spivak and his Orchestra
VICTOR RECORD 20-1791 • • • 75c

Coming Soon!

RCA VICTOR RECORD PLAYER

Your RCA Victor dealer will soon be displaying this compact, precision built RCA Victor Record Player. Playing records through your radio it doubles the enjoyment of home entertainment for a small investment. Watch for it at your RCA Victor dealer's... better still place your order with him now.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST ARTISTS ARE ON VICTOR RCA Records

Speaking OF SPORT

By Red Jones

Week-End Tussles

Two of the more unpublicized sports of the campus come to prominence this week-end when the boxing and wrestling teams of the U. of T. embark for Queen's to take part in the Senior Intercollegiate Meet to-night and to-morrow. Competing for the championship will be Queen's, McGill and Varsity.

This is the first meet since 1938-39 when McGill and Toronto tied for top honours; training in the two bodily-contact sports has, nevertheless been continued throughout the war years. Under the guiding hand of MEL GLIONNA Varsity representatives in seven of the eight boxing weights have been selected; Mel believes in coaching the hard way, too, as anyone who has seen his "Go ahead, hit me," tactics can testify.

In the past Varsity has produced such prominent pugilists as Jack Piggot and Olympic representatives, Dr. LES BLACK (1924) and DON CARRICK (1928). The Seniors this year, although novices at College boxing should give a good account of themselves with high hopes being especially pinned on SUGAR, CROWHURST, ROSENFELDT and heavyweight STEWART.

As for the "fall guys", let there be no misunderstanding about Intercollegiate wrestling—none of this grunt and groan business of Toonies Loonies—the lads have to utilize every ounce of muscle and skill to claim a decision in these bouts. Coach GEORGE DALEY this week's proudest pup—a 7-pound red-headed boy) has drilled the boys in all the fundamentals of the game without stressing such Gardens' inventions as the Commando Unconscious, Cobra or Accordion holds. His training will be reflected in the next two nights by the performance of such grapplers as DROHAM, SKLAR, CASSELS, and Blockbuster CAMPBELL.

Much credit for the development of both teams is due "CHESTER" MARTIN who has seen not a few champs come and go around here, and has found time to help develop them while trying to instill some of the manly arts into his P.T. "volunteers".

It is unfortunate that some of Varsity's best boxers will be unable to compete because of injuries and academic ineligibility. Replacements in case of injury would be impossible in some weight classes because the boxing class which commenced with a big enrolment has dwindled to about twenty. The deserters probably became discouraged when the Sr. and Intermed. reps were picked, and decided to leave—a case of not playing the sport for the sport's sake.

A similar attitude can be noticed in other intramural sports as the finals approach, and cellar teams frequently default. Is this the "shout and FIGHT" spirit of the college yell.

We could explain the judging system used for the meet but it's too detailed for a guy that hung for 2 hours by his toes from the second balcony of Convocation Hall. Wonder (Continued on Page 8)

• Sportswoman •

By Bill Kosowan

MONDAY — WASHDAY

Scramble hockey characterized the contest between Vic 1 and St. Hilda's 1, as the latter team was washed out of competition by a score of 2-1 at Varsity Arena.

Doodle Brown (and Doodle doesn't doodle) scored for Vic early in the first period, from an assist by, "The Powerhouse", Leone Eunson. The second counter for the winners was administered by Dorrine Currie. Mary Knoll potted St. Hilda's only goal in the third period.

TUESDAY — IRONING

Shooting the puck between the goalie's legs, early in the first period, Babs Ewing of the Vic seconds, helped iron the score-board clean for Vic as they defeated St. Hilda's 2, by a 1-0 count.

WEDNESDAY — HOUSECLEANING

The Meds-S.P.S. team picked this day to sweep PHE 2 out of competition as they trounced the losers to the tune of 4-0. Estelle Heakes and June Baker netted a goal apiece in the first section of the game. A scoreless second stanza was followed by a period, dominated by the winners, in which Estelle Heakes scored two more goals. This game was Meds fourth straight shutout.

THURSDAY — ???

Another washday—that's what it was. This time U.C. was washed clean (very clean) by a rushing PHE 1 team as they finished on the bottom of a 7-0 score.

It took the physical-ed. girls the major part of the first stanza to distinguish north and south in the arena but as soon as they did they were really hot. Welstead, the girl who seems to be burning with energy at all times led the winners to victory by scoring four goals. Sally Fox, performed the hat-trick to net the remainder of the counters.

HELPFUL HINTS

Household? No. Hockey.

Girls. Do you want to help your team to the championship? Well then play hockey!

It is the custom of a hive of bees to follow the queen bee. Now girls, following the same custom will never earn you a pennant. If you do insist on trailing your companions all over the ice, why not support them? Not everyone can be a star so PASS THAT PUCK.

Wayne Cagers Outclassed As Sr. Blues Win 66-50

Intermeds.—9-3 League Champs

The Varsity Intermediates trounced McMaster 9-3 in Hamilton last night to win the Canadian Intercollegiate Intermediate Hockey League with a record of two wins and no losses in the two-team group. In their first game at Toronto last week, the Blues edged out the Hamiltonians 7-5.

After being held to a one-goal lead for the first two periods, the Intermediates tore through for six markers in the last frame, five of them within a space of four minutes. Brankston and Davison each turned the hat-trick, while Harry Body with two, and Hugh Smythe completed the scoring. Polliot, for McMaster, brought his goals total to five for the series by banging in two pucks behind Hutalaak.

Varsity playing plays clicked with great effectiveness as the rubber was kept constantly in the "Mac" end. McMaster tied the game at three-all early in the last period, but Varsity regained their lead two minutes later. The final result was still in doubt until five minutes before game's end when the Varsity goal rampage started as Russ Brankston poked the disc in on Pelow's passout. After that, a tired McMaster team wilted and the Toronto squad poured into the home team's end zone.

Poloists Defeated

Said Coach Frank De Marco: "I wish these waterpolo rules would become universal." Down in the Hamilton Municipal Pool, the Varsity poloists were climbed on and beaten on break offs by great "Mac" footwork on the bottom of the pool.

Anyway, with the addition of Whitlock, of Hamilton's Dominion Waterpolo champs, and the absence of Varsity first-stringers Bill Arthurs, Rosen and Lindgren, McMaster played improved polo to down our boys 4-3.

With a three-foot north end, and a ledge on the south end, both goalies made great stops.

McMaster scorers were Shrive, Orr, Whitlock and Veidenheimer, while Martin, Boa and Moffat tallied for the Blues.

Varsity III's-51-19

As an opener to Thursday's basketball evening Varsity Thirds decisively drubbed McMaster's Seconds, 51-19. Displaying considerably more all-round ability, the Varsity squad had a clear edge over the Hamilton visitors all the way.

Greatest factor in Varsity's win was close checking, both in the fore-court and under the basket. Though they put up a game show, the McMaster hoopsters seemed to have trouble finding the basket, and missed several sure scores on break-aways.

Marshall Fails

Al Marshall, Dominion 200-yd. breast-stroke record holder, now in U.C. and swimming for the U. of T., won the 220-yd. breast-stroke Ontario Championship Wednesday night. Mike Beer, also of U.C., took the third-place spot.

The race was the high-spot of the meet which was held at West-End "Y", because Marshall was expected to break the existing record for that distance. Forced to swim the race in two heats, Al finished 3/5th of a second short of the mark of 2:51.4 in the first heat, and figuring that the record was out of his reach for the night, he did not press the race and finished in 2:52.1, only beating Hamilton's Ted St. Aubin by a touch.

Jaxs in Top Form

An almost perfect U. of T. Jaxs basketball team showed their heels to the Oshawa Red Raiders as they left them the hind end of a 58-24 score in the Oshawa Collegiate Gym on Wednesday night. It was an on night for the University lads as Robson (14), Roe (10) and Doty (8) plunked home the ball in decisive fashion. Sellers and Hess carried most of the load for the losers.

Varsity's big Blues soundly whipped the University of Wayne's Tartars 66-50, in the nightcap of a basketball triple-header at Hart House last night.

As has been the custom on numerous previous occasions Toronto was looking up at their talented opponents. Another custom closely followed was the winner of the high scoring honors. Harry Mayzel, who checked the Americans right from their throw in, led the field easily with 19 points. Abe Farness, six foot, one of the small boys of the visitors, was the cream of the Tartars, holding the defense together and putting seven points on the offense.

The play was not sensational as the Tartars held the lead by one point at the halfway turn. Wayne took an early 8-2 lead as the Torontonians were out-stretched and lost rebounds continually around their own keyhole. Indicative of the play was the fraction of points in the first 20 minutes scored on foul shots. Toronto counted 8 of 22 on fins while Wayne took 7 of 23.

The two teams continued to play close ball throughout the third quarter with the edge never being more than a pair of baskets. With but nine minutes to play Gibson (Continued on Page 8)

Sport In Short

WED., FEB. 20

Basketball—Major
Trin. "A" 32 P.H.E. II 34
Dents. "B" defaulted to Vic III.

Basketball—Minor

III Civil 46 St. M. "C" 20
I Dent. 23 III Elec. 21
Vic. VII defaulted to St. M. D.

Hockey

St. M. "B" 5 Emm. 4
Water Polo
U.C. (P.H.E.) 6 SPS. III 1
Jr. Med. defaulted to St. M.

THUR., FEB. 21

Basketball—Major
SPS V 43 Wyc. "A" 10
Knox "A" 21 Emm. "A" 10

Basketball—Minor

P.H.E. V 61 Vic. IX 11
II Elec. 51 For. "B" 20
Hockey
SPS II 10 Med. II 3

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

1:00 U.C. I vs VIC I Doyle, Mosher
4:15 SPS III vs DENT. A Smith, Sinclair
5:30 U.C. III vs BUS. ADM. Brownridge, Sinclair

WATER-POLO

4:15 JR. SPS vs SR. MKD. B. Tilston

BASKETBALL MAJOR

1:00 DENT. B vs TRIN. B Drupino
4:00 ST. M. B vs VIC III Hamm

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00 I CIVIL vs II MED. B Mott
4:00 I ELEC. vs FOR. E Kerrison

SATURDAY'S GAMES

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00 VIC XI vs WYC B. Peacock

BASKETBALL — MAJOR LEAGUE

PLAYOFF SCHEDULE WILL APPEAR IN MONDAY'S ISSUE.

SWIMMING TEAM NOTICE

Practices are scheduled for FRIDAY, Feb. 22nd at 5 p.m. and SATURDAY, Feb. 23rd at 12 noon. These practices are MOST IMPORTANT. Any swimmers missing Saturday's practice will not be considered for the Intercollegiate Meets. Currie and Anderson of AJAX MUST be at the SATURDAY practice following which a Swimming Club meeting will be held.

HOCKEY HOCKEY

Varsity Arena, 8 p.m.

Varsity vs McGill

Students admitted free on presentation of registration card, with Athletic Portion attached.

RESERVED SEATS $1.00

GENERAL ADMISSION 50c

TONIGHT

Classified Advertisements

WANTED

Actuarial Science tutor, 1st year.
Apply Box M, The Varsity.

24 HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9221.

COLOUR PHOTOGRAPHY

Have your party photographed in brilliant natural colour! Personal portraits also done. Phone KI 3667, Peter or Jerry Waite, 5-6 p.m.

LOST

If anyone has found a Mido watch in the last few days please phone KI 2882, after 7 p.m., and restore family harmony.

FOR SALE

Complete ski outfit—7' skis, boots, (size 10), poles, harness, brand new. $32. Phone M. R. Dobson, KI 0316, between 5.30 and 6.00 p.m.

WANTED

Engineering Physics graduates to work with National Research Council. Apply at Russian Embassy. Groundings in the Scientific Method necessary. Salary 5,001 x 10⁶ rubles per annum.

I've taken to pipe smoking like a pro to knowledge since I've discovered sweet, cool, mild Picobac.

Picobac
THE PICK OF TOBACCO

Our Readers Write —

Nowak, Retire!

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

At the risk of committing an act of infringement on a point of order, I would like to make a suggestion. For the past few weeks, I have been as much "entranced" by the semi-private feud of one Miss Nowak and satellites and their numerous aggressors and bug bears or rather "Bear Bugs" as with the trend of Terry and the Pirate's adventurous lives.

I know that the freedom of the press means above all a means of expressing one's thoughts or words freely. Well then, if thoughts and words are to be used as weapons in this inveterate strife of whether the Bear is "bearable" and is or was Franco "frank", why not then make the best use of these weapons?

At this point, I would suggest that Miss Nowak leave the battle-field of the press and manoeuvre into the field of free speech and induce her colleagues and opponents to debate this question in the open, face to face verbally and thus hurry a decision on an opinion which has been for the last month or so beset with trials, vexations and obstacles.

—A. G. HABEL,
11 Pass Arts.

Nowak Retires

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

If The Varsity had printed two of my replies which I sent in some-time ago, Mr. Rosenthal might have been spared the necessity of writing again. He and others would have gathered from my replies the reason for my refusal to comment.

Controversies in which the participants are more interested in attacking personalities, rather than the validity of their statements are, in my opinion, a sheer waste of time. The whole affair seems to have degenerated into (par-don the expression) a mud-slinging campaign. A pity indeed, that university students cannot rise above the level of petty political expressions and methods.

So you see that until people's temperatures have fallen from their feverish heights, I shall withdraw into my corner to continue my studies of Hegel, Marx, Lenin, and Stalin. Incidentally, it may interest some to know that unlike so many so-called reformers I take the time to study, to become acquainted with the institution I am attacking.

—M. A. NOWAK.

WHAT YOUR MONE' WILL DO

- $2 supply notebooks and paper required by a European student for a year.
- $5 buys from one to six books for European universities whose libraries have been destroyed and cannot be replaced because of paper shortage.
- $10 keep a tubercular student for a week at the University Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Leysin, Switzerland; buy fuel for a month for a kerosene pressure lamp around which forty Chinese students can study.
- $60 provide a two-month stay for a run-down French student at the Combloux Rehabilitation Centre.

WING I, R.C.A.F. ASSOCIATION (Canadian Legion)
ANNOUNCES

R.C.A.F. Veterans' REUNION DANCE

Windsor Room, Savarin Hotel

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28th.

DANCING 9-1

DRESS INFORMAL

TICKETS $3.00 PER COUPLE, ON SALE NOW AT CIGAR SHOP, AT SAVARIN HOTEL.

(Since table accommodation is limited to 175 couples you are requested to procure tickets early).

CANADA PACKERS OPERATIC SOCIETY
PRESENTS

A GILBERT & SULLIVAN WEEK

BOTH OPERAS BY PERMISSION
OF RUPERT D'OLY CARTE

AT EATON AUDITORIUM

THE

GONDOLIERES

EVENINGS FEB. 25th 26th 27th AT 8.15 P.M.
MATINEE MARCH 2nd AT 2.30 P.M.

AND

UTOPIA
LIMITED

EVENINGS FEB 28th MAR. 1st 2nd AT 8.15 P.M.

TICKETS ON SALE AT EATON AUDITORIUM
AND AT CANADA PACKERS

NET PROCEEDS IN AID OF THE SAVE THE CHILDREN FUND

Attention Schoolmen

Schedule For Coming Elections

Nominations —

Mon., Feb. 25, 9 a.m. to Tues., Feb. 26, 12 noon.

Election Speeches —

Wed., Feb. 27, 4 p.m., Convocation Hall.

Campaigns —

Thurs., Feb. 28.

Elections —

Fri., Mar. 1, 12-2.30 in Engineering Building. Parade and dinner in Hart House at noon Friday.

Proceed directly to Shea's Annex after you vote. Results of elections will be announced on the stage.

SEE YOU ALL AT THE POLLS AND AT THE OPERA.

ABERDEEN'S Floral Stores

Main Stores: 31 Bloor W., M1. 2495

Special Attention to University Students

15% Discount Upon Presentation
OF ADMIT-TO-LECTURES CARD

Corsages are a Specialty—Have Your Date Wear One to the
Vic-At-Home

ORCHIDS AND ROSES ALWAYS IN STOCK

LISTEN TO

"Canada in the Modern World"

by Professor Bertie Wilkinson, M.A., Ph.D.

Dept. of History, University of Toronto

CFRB — Every Sunday — 2:15 p.m.

Copies of Talks available on request

Sponsored on behalf of the Optical Profession by

IMPERIAL OPTICAL COMPANY

Pioneer Canadian Optical Manufacturers

8 P.M. TONIGHT! FRIDAY

MAPLE LEAF GARDENS BASKETBALL DOUBLEHEADER

THE DOW

ATHLETICS
VS.

OF U.S.A.

THE HAYES

HELLCATS

OF CANADA

SECOND BIG FEATURE

TIP TOPS—TORONTO VS.
ASSUMPTION COLLEGE—WINDSOR

GOOD SEATS STILL AVAILABLE!

Greys, .50; Greens, 1.00; Blues, 1.50; Courts, 2.00; Rails, 2.50; Boxes, 2.50.

Tickets on sale at Maple Leaf Gardens, also at Moody's, 90 King St. W.; Frank Stollery's, Bloor and Yonge Sts.; Royal York Hotel; Mitford Agency at 317 1/2 Bay, and at any Toronto Tip Top Tailors' Store.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club of Toronto on behalf of the Hospital for Sick Children.

NOMINATIONS FOR HART HOUSE ELECTIONS OPEN TO-DAY

St. Andrew's

KING AND SIMCOE STS.

Minister

Very Rev. Stuart C. Parker,
D.D.

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

DR. PARKER

Students specially invited

St. Paul's Anglican Church

BLOOR STREET EAST

Rector:

REV. CANON F. H. WILKINSON, M.A., D.D.

8 a.m.—HOLY COMMUNION

11 a.m.—MORNING PRAYER

Preacher:

The RT. REV. A. L. FLEMING, D.D., Bishop of the Arctic.

3 p.m.—BIBLE CLASSES.

7 p.m.—EVENING PRAYER

Preacher:

THE REV. ROLAND HILL, B.A., L.Th.

Organist:

Charles Peaker, Mus. D., F.R.C.O.

University Students Welcome at All Services

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY

Trinity Square

(Off Yonge, 2 below Dundas)

Invites students to join with us in services that combine beauty of worship with progressive Christian action

Regular Sunday services at 8, 9.30, and 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m.

Westminster Central United

117 Bloor Street East

Sunday Services

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.:

Minister:

Rev. J. Bruce Hunter

D.D., LL.D.

Fireside hour at close of Evening Service.

Students Cordially Invited

THE RELIGIOUS SOCIETY OF FRIENDS (QUAKER)

MEETING FOR WORSHIP

on Sunday morning at 11 a.m. AT THE Meeting House, 109 Maitland St.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO WORSHIP WITH US.

"In Real Silent Worship the Soul Feeds on that which is Divine".

JOHN WOOLMAN

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

First Church of Christ, Scientist

St. George St. at Lowther Ave.

Branch of The Mother Church

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

SUNDAY SERVICES

11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

11 a.m.

Sunday, February 24th.

"MIND"

Wed. Evening Meeting

at 8.00 o'clock

Including Testimonies of Healing through Christian Science

Free Public Reading Room where the Bible and Authorized Christian Science Literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

80 Richmond St. West

ST. MARY MAGDALENE'S

(ANGLICAN)

(ULSTER STREET AT MANNING)

From the University, west along Harbord to Manning, south one block.

STUDENTS WELCOMED

REV. R. T. F. BRAIN, M.C.
Rector

Healey Willan, Mus. Doc.,
Organist.

EVERY SUNDAY:

8 and 9.30 a.m.—Holy Communion.

11 a.m.—Solemn Eucharist & Sermon.

7 p.m.—Evensong & Sermon.

DAILY SERVICES — PARTI-CULARS IN BULLETIN
WEEKLY.

Students who would like to serve at the Altar, please see Rev. C. R. Fielding, or Rev. T. E. Downey, Trinity College.

BLOOR STREET UNITED CHURCH

Corner Bloor and Huron Streets

11 a.m.

Rev. Geo. C. Pidgeon
D.D.

7 p.m.

REV. PRESTON MACLEOD,
M.A.

"Freedom From Fear"

Communion at close of Service.

6.40 P.M.—ORGAN RECITAL

FREDERICK C. SILVESTER

Organist and Choirmaster

STUDENTS ESPECIALLY WELCOME.

KNOX CHURCH

Spadina and Harbord

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

REV. J. STANLEY GLEN

Ph.D., Th.D.

8.30 p.m.—"Knox Sunday Fellowship"

HON.-CAPT. THE REV. J. P.

GOPORTH, M.C., WILL SPEAK.

Students Specially Invited

The Greatest Task of Religion

The greatest single task of religion is the development of human personality. Not just the personality of a few, but the personality of all people.

Rev. William Jenkins. The religion that ignores the growth of the person is devil worship. The religion that caters to the few and avoids the rest is a Fascist faith. True religion seeks to expand and enrich the personalities of all human beings.

Personality cannot grow in the midst of want and frustration. Beautiful roses cannot be grown unless the conditions of soil and atmosphere and cultivation are right. The human spirit cannot flower in strength and beauty unless its conditions of growth exist. Personality cannot expand where three or four people are crowded into one-room quarters. A child suffering from malnutrition is not likely to develop an integrated personality. A man frustrated by forced idleness does not radiate good-will or enjoy the higher things of life. Most of us when placed in bad surroundings degenerate and deteriorate. It is therefore the task of religion to demand the best conditions for human growth.

If you are seeking a "faith" which supports the flowering of personality, we invite you to hear Rev. William P. Jenkins next Sunday at 11.00 a.m.

"THE CHIEF END OF MAN"

THE FIRST UNITARIAN CHURCH

218 Jarvis Street (Above Dundas)

Miss Varsity

(Continued from Page 3)

partee with M.C. Leroy.

How do you feel about I.S.S. Leroy coyly queried.

The word "Well," gasped the queen, "its a great organization. We need lots of money for wartime countries for students."

Leroy amplified this I.S.S. statement quickly and then outlined the royal itinerary.

"Well," he wondered, "how do you feel?"

"Oh," she replied on cue, "COMPLETELY SPELLBOUND!"

Miss Spellbound-Varsity's next destination was Simpson's.

Taken in tow there by a cluster of Simpson fashion experts milady spent the subsequent 90 minutes in a floor to floor shopping spree. By 5 o'clock she had been fitted and photographed in an eye-blue suit and matching hat.

Clothes connoisseur Reg. Herman had joined the parade at this stage and observed this portion of the program from the sidelines. Readers will have to wait for Herman's report.

Via the Telegram office to collect reporter and photographer, the party advanced to the hotel where United Artists had arranged to fete Miss Varsity-Spellbound.

In the 20 minute break before the dinner hour, the Telegram twosome took over.

In the reading room of the mezzanine, Her Highness was equipped with passable props for a "typical co-ed-studies" picture. Seated before a writing table, she was given notebook and three alleged texts for the photograph. Strategically placed, title obscured from camera, "Appointment With Death" was among the text props.

The party, temporarily given over completely to such pictures, adjourned to a room on the 14th floor where Miss Varsity obliged with a set of sprawling-on-the-couch-talking-on-the-telephone-to-dial-tone poses.

"How about one with your legs folded under you, you know the way you sit sometimes," the Telegram woman suggested.

"I never sit," the queen observed mildly, as she attempted to fold her legs under her, "this way."

"No," admitted the Tely reporter, "neither do I."

There was confused controversy about where the Macdonald Skirt should be permitted to stop in the crossed - leg - sitting - listening-to-dial-tone series that followed.

"This is awful," Her Majesty suggested.

"Not at all," argued the Tely rep.

"It's just discreet and . . . and cute."

"Besides," the reporter added, "we may not use that part of the picture."

Skirt height remained.

The party then descended to the dining-room.

Seated at the royal right hand, the Tely reporter was able to learn that the queen had been a farmerette for three years, had been a guide at Casa Loma conducting tours, had a brother in civil engineering. All these facts we noted.

The Tely reporter explained why she had not been able to follow the queen to Victoria Hall. She had thought that it was the Victoria Theatre.

She had gone there, found no one, and had mistakenly moved on to Shea's in quest of her co-ed.

Someone had mentioned that Miss Macdonald was to be Miss Lost Week-end.

But the publicity tie-in was with "Spellbound".

After dining the group hastened toward Loew's where Miss Varsity, wearing a Miss Spellbound banner, again faced the flash-bulbs and curious lobby-loitering patrons.

Here the group finally settled down as it viewed Miss Bergman and Mr. Peck playing tag in the labyrinth of a guilt complex in a movie which Messrs. Selznick and Hitchcock have chosen to label "Spellbound".

It is, we expect we ought to mention, a good picture.

Miss Wrong found certain psychological flaws in it but was pleased to see her U.N.O.-delegate father in the newsreel looking ten years older.

As the evening ended and the queen gazed upon her countenance

Sophistication! BY SBICCA

Subtly dramatic with high ankle strap and high wedge heels . . . bewitching from every angle! A footloose and fancy-free beauty—to flatter your feet with cut-out glamour . . . and add a sparkling finish to your costume. In black, blue or brown suede; black patent, or red calf. Sizes 4 to 8½ in the group.

Pair 14.50

Main Store

Second Floor

In The Morning Globe she reflected that she had entered the contest "for a laugh."

"And now . . .", she exclaimed inarticulately.

And now Her Highness must dismiss such frivolous luxuries as laughter. Her subjects demand a solemn ruler.

Vive, as they say, la reine.

SQUASH NOTICE

The player whose name appears first in each group shall be responsible for communicating with his opponent at least two clear days before the day set for the round.

Please see the draw sheet on the notice board in the squash gallery.

The first round must be completed by Feb. 27.

Complete draws with regulations have been mailed to all contestants.

Wayne Cagers

(Continued from Page 6)

was ejected on fouls due mostly to close checking. Undaunted by this the Blues continued to fight on and finally gained the edge in the play with still eight minutes to go. In a wild flair of shooting led by Mayzel the locals out-fired their rivals to run away on the long end of a point margin.

LINE-UPS:

Varsity—Mayzel (19), Scott, Himmel (2), Thomson (7), Clayton (4), Wallace (7), Gibson (8), Zeaton (4), Fountain (2), Cranham (10) and Spry (3).

Wayne—Arnold (9), Alexander (1), Friedman (8), Szkarlat, Collins (8), Foerster (2), Torres (9), Kay (4), Farness (7), Smeley (2) and Klein.

Speaking of Sport

(Continued from Page 6)

how many Reed Trophy points Victoria picked up for their girls' excellent showing in yesterday's "do", hmm?

They'll Fly Thru' The Air . . .

The Athletic Night, being sponsored this week by P.H.E., Bus. Adm., and St. Mike's, will feature Intercollegiate Gymnastics in the Big Gym from 8 till 10. Upstairs the swordsmen of Varsity share the same amount of time in their Intercollegiate Swimming Meet in the Hart House Pool where participating is McGill.

Another highlight of the evening is the Women's Intercollegiate Swimming Meet in the Hart House Pool where mermaids from Toronto, Queen's, McGill, Western and McMaster compete in all phases of aquatic prowess.

The usual entertainment will be provided in the various rooms with round and square-dancing from ten o'clock on. So if you've got the "doe" grab a buck and you're all set for another big Saturday night at Hart House.

Don't Play Bingo To-Night, Brother, Come Down to Bloor Street And See . . .

The Varsity Blues take on the McGill Redmen in what promises to be the hottest game of the Intercollegiate hockey schedule, to-night. Whoever wins this tilt will be top team in the league and odds-on favourite to win the return engagement.

The setting is, as usual, Varsity-Arena where about 2,000 fans turned out for the Queen's game—not good—not too bad. But if Western can produce 4,200 for a basketball game with McGill when the game's outcome was practically certain, then surely 5,000 can be found here out of a total of 12,000.

Both teams are packed with high-scoring stars and it will be close, but in our opinion it's a good thing that the men of McGill are red because they'll really be blushing after to-night. Well, 8:00 is the time and Beat McGill.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

Huron Street—Just South of Bloor

7 a.m., 8 a.m. and 9.30 a.m. Holy Eucharist

11 a.m.—Junior Congregation.

11 a.m.—CHORAL EUCHARIST

Preacher:

Rev. Canon C.E. Stuart, M.A.

7 p.m.—THE SACRAMENT OF CONFIRMATION.

THE RT. REV. A. R. BEVERLEY, D.D.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 90 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Monday, February 25, 1946

Resistance Leader Seeks Student Whose Bomber Crashed in Denmark

I.S.S. Speaker At Ajax

Ingvard Pedersen, Danish resistance leader, wants to contact an ex-serviceman, a student of the University who is believed to be at Ajax.

In the autumn of 1944 an Allied bomber was shot down in northern Denmark, a few miles north of Denmark's largest airport. Of the crew of eight, one survived, wounded in the leg. He spent the first night in the home of a school-teacher who contacted the underground. The following day he met an English-speaking member of the underground headquarters staff and talked with him of Canada while waiting to be passed along the chain to freedom. They parted and the airman returned to England.

Last night in Ajax, under friendlier conditions, the airman and the resistance leader met again. After a short conversation the airman left. Ingvard Pedersen wants very much to see him again.

The student's name is Bill. He is about 23 and is believed to be married. Will he please call MI 8251 and ask for Pat Patterson?

Mr. Pedersen came to Ajax for the I.S.S., to give an address on "Student Life under the Germans." He held the interest of his audience with stories of sabotage and underground newspapers, of the collection of supplies dropped to the underground and the rescue of Allied airmen. Speaking with a strong accent, he told of universities closing because all the students were in the Freedom Army. Everything was more difficult due to the necessity of moving constantly to keep ahead of the Gestapo. Railway tracks were torn up until one day's normal rail journey took 14 days. One division of German troops was kept busy as guards over bridges and tracks.

The Danish underground was so effective that the Allies found it almost unnecessary to bomb factories and military installations in Denmark. The largest and most heavily guarded airport in the country was put out of operation for long periods at a time. Before the end of the war came the Freedom Army, four times the size of the pre-invasion army, was outfitted and ready for open warfare, if necessary. The end came and all Denmark rejoiced.

Prohibit Or Don't Prohibit Liquor Raises Old Problem

The Victoria College Debating Parliament will hold its last undergraduate debate of the season to-night when the topic, "Resolved that this House approves of prohibition as the best solution of the present appalling liquor situation in Ontario," will be debated.

Speaking for the government will be Joan Martin and Jack McNie with Dorothy Speers and Russ Disney for the opposition.

"The students who look on prohibition in Ontario as such a dire and uncompromising evil want to reflect for a moment on the shambles and degradation which repeal has left in its wake," commented McNie. "The facts and figures we have at our finger tips present a damning indictment of the liquor trade and it is no exaggeration to say that should any such indictment be brought against any other social, political and commercial institution there would be a nation-wide uprising which would blot it out of existence and land its promoters in jail."

"Granted that the liquor situation in Ontario is an unhappy one and stands in need of urgent reform prohibition is the worst means of achieving this end," countered Disney. "The members of the government," he continued, "should have learned by now that negative restrictions only whet the appetite for more. The result would surely be an illicit liquor trade. My colleague and I feel that the government's case can be based only on the worst kind of irrationalism."

Propaganda Minister Harry Hodder announced that refreshments (non-alcoholic) would be served in Wynnwood after the debate which will be held in Alumni Hall at 8 p.m.

McGill Red and White Comes Back To Life

Montreal, Feb. 16.—(CUP)—With the lifting of wartime restrictions one of the best revues ever to be staged on the McGill campus is to be presented on Mar. 13, 14, 15, and 16.

The first production of the Red and White Revue was in 1900. In 1924 it was again resumed and continued until 1940, when it was suspended due to the war. The 1940 presentation ran for three nights with a matinee.

Queen's I.S.S. Backer Is Alma Mater Society

Kingston, Feb. 19.—(CUP)—The Queen's branch of the I.S.S. will be backed by the Alma Mater Society. In response to a plea from the I.S.S. committee, the society agreed to back the I.S.S. campaign as it had supported the campaign for blood donors during the war, by expressing its approval of the organization and by arranging for adequate publicity.

NOTICE

Certificates of attendance in connection with the payment of the second instalment of University of Toronto Scholarships (not including College Scholarships) may be obtained at the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall.

Brigadier J. A. MacFarlane Is New Dean Of Medicine

Brigadier J. A. MacFarlane, O.B.E., B.A., M.B., F.R.C.S., has been appointed dean of the Faculty of Medicine, starting from July 1, 1946, according to a statement recently released by President D. Sidney Smith. He will succeed Dean W. E. Gallie who is resigning at the end of June.

Brigadier MacFarlane was born in Lanark County in 1893, and was educated in Saskatchewan where he received his B.A. in 1916. Although he was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship at that time, he enlisted in the Canadian Expeditionary Force and only resumed his studies at Oxford after the war.

After a year at Oxford, he enrolled in Medicine at Toronto and graduated in 1922. Brigadier MacFarlane eventually joined the staff of the University and became Senior Demonstrator in Surgery.

He served for six years during the recent war as Consulting Surgeon to the Canadian Overseas Army, and returned to Canada recently with the rank of Brigadier.

BRIGADIER J. A. MACFARLANE, who is to be the new Dean of Medicine, addressed the graduating class in Convocation Hall on Friday.

Dean Gallie, who is retiring, will retain the post of Head of the Department of Medicine for the past ten years, and worked to bring about many improvements during the depression period.

Kosick, Bromley Star In Thrilling Struggle

Return Match Next Week

By Al Cringan

"That was hockey!", was the comment of many of the 3500 fans as they left Varsity Arena on Friday night after the Blues' 7-4 trouncing of the famed McGill Redmen.

The homesters, lagging 2-1 going into the second period, put on a spirited show of puckmanship for the rest of the game, outscoring their Montreal rivals for the Intercollegiate Championship 3-1 in each of the last two stanzas.

Sparkplugging the Varsity drive was schoolman Jim Bromley, who hails from St. John, N.B. Jim (who was the outstanding iceman in high school circles in his home province back in 1940, lit the light three times and picked up one assist to earn top scoring honors of the night.

The McGill squad, suffering their first defeat of the season, were led by their husky right defenseman and captain, Bob Broderick. Big Bob, all 185 pounds of him, figured in three of the visitors' goals, scoring one while setting up two others.

The game was a battle all the way, and typical of the hockey rivalry between the two colleges since the inception of intercollegiate hockey in 1903. Since that time, Varsity has held the championship seventeen times to McGill's twelve and Queen's five in 34 years of competition.

It was a struggle of brain and brawn. At first bulky Broderick, teamed with still-bigger Doug Heron on the Montrealers' defense, threatened to stonewall each and every Varsity drive, but centreman Wally Halder's fade-in, fade-out tactics so tired them that the Varsity attackers had little trouble in breaking through, towards the end of the game. The fast McGill forwards found little difficulty in breaking through the Toronto defense at any time, but were hampered from behind on most of their shots.

Gelineau Stars

It was also a battle of goalkeeping. Dick Ball, in the Toronto nets won, but was overshadowed by Jack Gelineau, the Redmen's netminder, who showed marvellous reflexes on the low, fast shots.

And lastly, it was a battle of broken sticks. The checking was very keen, and every few minutes would see a stick broken. In a scramble near the Toronto net, Dick Ball's goal-stick was broken in two and before it was replaced, only the buzzer saved him from an embarrassing situation as McGill's John Pierson came in on a solo break-away. Late in the third, George Haie, winger of the visitors, breadbasketed into a broken stick suspended by two other players, and was given a great hand, when he fell on his way off the ice, with his wind seriously knocked out.

Audience of 3500

Spectator interest reached a season's high at Friday's game, and every one of the 3500 there did his part. A solid throng of Varsity students packed the east side of the emporium, and had cheerers placed strategically through the rest of the seats, while the U. of T. band gave out with the "Blue and White" from the south end of the arena. The Redmen had moral support in a body of some 60 McGill alumni, who rooted from their reserved block in section L.

The peak of fanthiasms was reached while McGill's Reg Sinclair was having his second go in the bane-box, when four Toronto

(Continued On Page 6)

Readers Cry "Done!" No Issue 85

Several lynx-eyed readers have spotted a lapse in The Varsity's files last Tuesday and appear to be suffering loss of sleep in consequences. There was, it seems, no Issue No. 85.

Why? Well, there was no number on the Literary issue, and then there was the January day we skipped publication, and two or three issues last fall carried the same number, to offset which . . . but you don't want to hear about it.

Anyway, we're back on schedule. The final issue, March 15, will be No. 100, as the constitution calls for. Seems we can't put over anything on our readers.

S.S.S.'s Salaries Are 'Ghastly Low'

Describing Toronto social service salaries as "ghastly low" Dr. Harry Cassidy of U. of T.'s School of Social Studies, said salaries would have to be raised considerably if the proper type of worker is to be obtained.

This was the report of the Hamilton Spectator on Dr. Cassidy's address to the annual meeting of the Hamilton Children's Aid Society Wednesday.

The speaker stressed that the introduction of such terrific new forces as atomic energy necessitated teaching children to "think straight, act straight, and be emotionally stable."

An effect on the broader world problems would be effected, said Dr. Cassidy—if citizens at home make every effort to overcome child welfare and social service problems.

VARSAITY RESEARCH AIDS AIR FORCE

Revealed Thursday afternoon for the first time in the course of the annual Banting Memorial Lecture was the role of U. of T. scientists in solving the dead-weight problem of supplying liquid oxygen to transport planes.

Working in deep secrecy for over a year, Varsity physicists achieved for Canada the distinction of being the first country in the world to solve the problem and put a practicable unit in operation. Prof. H. Grayson Smith of the Physics dept., who directed the work, told a Convocation Hall audience.

The liquid oxygen evaporator system, which saves between 400 and 500 pounds of weight on standard passenger aircraft, only recently came off the Ottawa secret list, and details of its manufacture are still closely guarded. The models used in testing the unit were made in the physics dept. workshop. The unit delivers oxygen "exactly according to demand, at a pressure suitable for operating demand valves or other flow regulators of standard types," Prof. Smith said.

Prof. Smith, Prof. F. E. J. Fry, and research assistant John Findlay tested the equipment on a transatlantic flight in November, 1944. The plane, a Dakota transport with seven aboard, took off from Dorval, Que., and the trip took three days with actual flying time of 24 hours.

To give the system a thorough test, gas was allowed to blow through the meter at a rate suitable for 27 persons. In spite of adverse winds which forced the pilot to follow a roundabout route, the equipment stood up to all demands.

The Canadians placed their data before the British government before returning to Canada, and full-scale designs of a quantity production model were subsequently delivered to the R.C.A.F.

The weight-saving of nearly a quarter of a ton has tremendous significance in increasing the all-important payload on commercial aircraft.

"I think we can give ourselves a pat on the back," Prof. Smith said. "We were the first country to successfully test a unit of this kind. At least two groups in the United States started work on the problem at the same time, but we finished first."

The achievements of Sir Frederick Banting, who was killed in a plane crash on February 21, 1941, were briefly outlined by Chancellor H. J. Cody and Prof. E. F. Burton, head of the Physics Dept. Prof. J. O. Wilhelm delivered a paper on "Oxygen and High Altitude Flying," and Prof. F. E. J. Fry spoke on "The Oxygen Demand Valve."

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI. 6611

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 4T6
 Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 4T8
 Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
 Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor.....John Rooke, 4T7
 News Editor.....George Forster 4T7
 Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 4T8
 Assistant.....Pete Phillipott
 Feature Editor.....E. Rose McLean, 4T7
 Assistant.....Reg Herman, 4T8
 Ajax.....Cliff Dixon
 Sports Editor.....Bredin Stapells, 4T6
 Assistant.....Don Mason, 4T6
 Ajax.....Ed. Caldwell
 Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 4T6
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 4T6
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor.....Philip Freedman, 4T6
 Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 4T6
 Staff Photographer.....Ralph Jones, 4T7
 Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Monday, February 25, 1946

On Student Government

Next week the men of the University will elect their representatives on the Hart House Committees. In the next few weeks most colleges and faculties will be electing their class executives and their representatives to the Students' Administrative Council. This week there will be submitted to the student body for comment a number of proposed changes in the organization of the S.A.C.

As a contribution to this the political season of the year, we propose to comment in the next few days on a few aspects of the much-controverted principle of student government. And first, and largely for the sake of a text representing the extreme right, we propose to reprint in some fulness the cutting comments of Mr. Truscot.

In "Red Brick University", a survey of conditions in England's universities, especially the smaller and younger ones, Mr. Bruce Truscot comments on the congress reports of the British National Union of Students, a body analogous to our N.F.C.U.S. "Organized with the cooperation of societies representing opposed political views, of the Student Christian Movement and of a number of other bodies, it commits none of these by its resolutions, nor for that matter the N.U.S. itself, but only the delegates. But that 600 delegates should have attended a six-day congress in 1940 and 1,100 a five-day congress in 1941 is significant of the fixity of purpose surmounting war-time difficulties which will also surmount the greater difficulties of peace.

"None the less," Mr. Truscot goes on, "one is bound to look critically at some of the congresses' pronouncements. At Leeds, in 1940, the 600 students, apparently excited by a 'recent encroachment upon student liberties', drew up a document which they termed a 'charter of student rights and responsibilities'. It had five points, each asserting a student's right:

"(1) To the free expression of opinion by speech and Press.

"(2) To organize meetings, discussion, and study on all subjects within the University and College precincts.

"(3) To belong to any organization, whether cultural, political or religious.

"(4) To participate to the full in all activities outside the universities, and to collaborate with extra-university organizations.

"(5) To a share in the government and administration of the university.

"Provided they kept within the law of the land and that of the university of which they voluntarily became members," Mr. Truscot comments, "it would be difficult for any liberal-minded person to deny them the first four rights; the fifth, however, shows an entire misconception of the nature of a university—essentially, as we have seen, a body of mature seekers after knowledge, who have accepted, as part of their work, the training of the immature, some that they may in time join them or other bodies pursuing their aim, some to follow other occupations. If the 'discipuli' are to become 'socii' before they have in fact attained the maturity of 'socii', there seems no reason why schoolboys elected by their fellows should not have full representation on masters' meetings, or one child elected by every family should not sit in conclave with Father and Mother to determine the penalty for every breach of nursery discipline.

"Given these rights," continues the Charter, "we pledge ourselves to fulfil our responsibilities to the community." But these students have, of their own free will, joined the society known as a university, and it is their clear duty either to fulfil their responsibilities to that society whether any demands they may make are granted or not, or to resign their membership in it. One responsibility of a student, for example, is to apply himself to study during the whole of his course, and acquit himself as well as his ability permits in the examination. Now it is notorious that certain of these student-politicians do very little academic work at all. Such students are clearly not fulfilling their responsibilities to the community. Do they mean that, if they are given a share in the government of the University, they will henceforth devote themselves to their work? Whether they do or not, the counter-question arises: Are students who have failed to fulfil a primary obligation of their membership in the university society fitted, quite apart from their immaturity, to have a voice in its government?"

(To be continued)

—W. H. K.

Uncover Atomic Plot Here

News Item—All explosive material seized in McGill University during Soviet spy scare.

A candle guttered in the vodka bottle on the table while the huge shadow cast by its only occupant, Bronwd Offsky, wavered on the wall. Bronwd was absorbed in making bombs. The door creaked open and in slithered Tchrfi. He sidled over to a case of TNT, where he brushed aside the cobwebs, leaned sullenly, and picked his teeth with a stiletto. The silence was broken only by an occasional scream and the pounding of feet echoing down the corridor.

"Did you get the plans of the new building?" muttered Bronwd, out of the side of his mouth, trying to look up while freeing his RAF moustache from his zipper.

"Aw, give me time, comrade, give me time. I got a couple more guys to bump off yet," whined Tchrfi, shaking his time-bomb which had stopped.

Bronwd looked up sharply. "You told Alma you would have them today."

"Now what for would I want to double-cross Alma Materov for?" pleaded Tchrfi, taking off his hat to shake out a rat's nest, adroitly clipping off a tail and proudly adding it to his collection.

"Watch them prepositions," rapped out Bronwd fiercely, beginning to rise but sinking back when he recalled Tchrfi was first year.

"You just dropped a capital," observed Tchrfi, nervously paring his nails with a scimitar, dragged from beneath his red sash.

Remembering the issue, Bronwd seized a sickle from the stack, rose, and advanced on Tchrfi, occasionally kicking aside a bat which had succumbed to the vodka fumes.

"There is no reprieve. For that you must be punished."

"Punishment C?" asked Tchrfi brightly, since he rather enjoyed having his feet tickled with a lighted cigar.

"B?" he tried again, for he was a philosophical soul and since everyone had to die anyway, why not in boiling wine? Then a look of horror penetrated the hair hanging from his eyebrows and lowbrows.

"NOT—NOT A?" he whispered in terror. A hoarse scream broke from him as Bronwd tugged on a nearby noose. From behind the curtains sprang two ogres who dutifully saluted with raised eyebrows. "Punishment A," growled Bronwd.

Tchrfi was dragged from the room, kicking and screaming hysterically. "NOT THAT! NOT THAT!" he sobbed between shrieks. "NOT MY GOVERNMENT ALLOWANCE. YOU CAN'T TAKE THAT FROM ME!"

His screams echoed through the halls as Bronwd Offsky slumped into his chair and stared unseeing at his felt boots.

—IGOR BIEFFER.

SETTLEMENT APPEAL

The University Settlement depends upon volunteers to carry on its welfare work among this community's needy.

Wanted urgently are: Nursery school helpers every morning, Monday through Friday;

A girl student to assist with young teen-agers Friday evenings;

Leaders for special interest groups Sunday evenings in photography, dramatics, pottery with older teen-agers;

A young man to supervise hobby groups, boys 12 and 13 years, Friday evenings.

Any interested students wishing to volunteer to assist the Settlement may telephone AD 6736.

Attention Schoolmen

Schedule For Coming Elections

Nominations —

Today, 9 a.m. to Tues., Feb. 26, 12 noon.

Election Speeches —

Tues., Feb. 26, 4 p.m., place to be named later.

Campaigns —

Thurs., Feb. 28.

Elections —

Fri., Mar. 1, 12-2.30 in Engineering Building. Parade and dinner in Hart House at noon Friday.

Proceed directly to Shea's Annex after you vote. Results of elections will be announced on the stage.

SEE YOU ALL AT THE POLLS AND AT THE OPERA.

TEXT BOOKS and SUPPLIES

FOR ALL COURSES

Save Money on Your Text Books

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 10 P.M.

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE

RA. 1148

(One Block South of Bloor)

S.C.M. Calendar

(KEEP FOR REFERENCE)

Tuesday, Room 101 Biology Building, 3.00 p.m.: Social Conditions and Their Effect on Health, Rev. Roland Hill.

Wednesday at 1.30 in Victoria College Chapel: Rev. James Finlay, Implications of our Faith; at 8.00 p.m. in the Women's Union: U.C. Open House.

Thursday at 1.30 in Trinity Board Room; 5.00: What do you Believe? Upstairs in the Women's Union, Rev. Douglas Candy.

Saturday 2.00-10.00 in the Women's Union: Labour-Industry Forum.

Sunday 8.00-10.30 in the Women's Union: Coffee Party.

University Symphony Orchestra

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council

Hans Gruber, Conductor

Will Present

A Second Concert

—at—

Convocation Hall

Wednesday Evening, Feb. 27th.

ELEANOR TAIT, Organist

Guest Artiste

Hart House Bulletin Board

Annual Night on Colour Photography

The annual night on colour photography featuring coloured slides and movies will be held in the music room of Hart House at 7.45 p.m. on Tuesday, 26th February. Mr. Fred Moffatt, commercial artist and photographer, will lead an informal discussion on colour photography. All members of Hart House are invited.

pictured above are two Ontario College of Art students costumed for the 25th. Annual Costume Ball last Thursday. Theme of the Ball, only costume event of the year, was "The Bohemian Period".

Must Not Jar Campus Plan With New Centre Building

Construction of the proposed co-educational centre and office buildings on any site available at the time "would produce chaos", in the opinion of Prof. E. R. Arthur, head of the department of Architectural Engineering. Unofficial proposals for the site include the front campus, the area in front of Hart House, and the St. George St. lot near Knox College. "These things must be planned," dissented Prof. Arthur, "so that when the need for a new building arises we will be able to choose a spot and proceed with the construction without upsetting the plan of the campus." He argued that the present unprecedented registration was another reason for planning ahead. "This university cannot continue to plan haphazardly. At the present time no set plan for expansion is available; we should have one embracing the next 25 years." Questioned on the style of architecture he would like to see adopted in the memorial building, Prof. Arthur said that that again hinged on a master plan. "When such a plan has been formed," he said, "I think that the proper type of architecture for the proposed center would be modern. We are living in the twentieth century, and it is only proper that the building be modern in materials, plan, and every other sense."

Art, Music and Drama Hart House Glee Club

The Hart House Glee Club gave its annual concert last night in Hart House before an overflowing audience. The conductor is Dr. Charles Peaker, Director of the Toronto Conservatory, and the accompanists are Harold Brown and Lorne Watson. This large choir of 120 voices demonstrated what magnificent results can be achieved by amateur musicians when they are thoroughly drilled for a long period of time under a brilliant leader. Many of the numbers last night were better performed than is often the case with professional groups. The tone of the Glee Club was very good, the basses being particularly noteworthy. The diction was clear and expressive and the men followed Dr. Peaker's musical instructions with sensitivity and intelligence. The versatility of performance was unusual; everyone seemed completely at home whether the mood was one of religious devotion, pastoral tranquility or the rousing figure of a regimental march. In fact, it is difficult to single out any work for special mention, except the opening "Adoramus Te", by Palestrina. It was superb. In Purcell's "Fairest Isle", the solo was taken by N. J. Kelemen, who sang with taste and feeling. Lorne Watson and Harold Brown played Brahms' "Variations on a Theme by Haydn" on two pianos, the medium for which it was originally composed, although it is generally heard in the orchestral form. It is probably the greatest work ever written for that combination, and one of the most difficult assignments, was played in a manner which showed that these two young men are musicians of the highest order, and incidentally, that both possess prodigious techniques. Our one complaint of the evening concerns the exclusion of women from the Glee Club. Attitudes which were widespread in 1910 appear obsolete to anyone familiar with the work of women in the recent war. The entire musical reputation of the University suffers as a result of this discrimination. We should have a mixed choral society containing the talents of all the campus. If Hart House is not allowed to do so, one surely it should be done by the Students' Administrative Council.

GRADUATING SCIENCE

All men and women students graduating in June, 1946, and enrolled in courses from Groups C or D in the Faculty of Arts, including Household Economics, are required to fill out Science Student questionnaires by the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel; forms should be completed immediately in the Registrar's Office, Simcoe Hall. Graduating students in the Faculties of Applied Science and Engineering, Household Science, and Forestry, will complete the questionnaires at their Faculty office.

Word on the willingness of the Alumni Federation to share the cost of the proposed center is expected following a meeting Wednesday night. At a meeting last week, the Board of Directors of the Federation referred the scheme to their college and faculty sub-executives for comment.

Graduating Meds Meet New Dean At Friday Convocation Ceremony

Ajax Rumblings

The boys of Residence 736 have decided to name their cosy nook "Quarter Mile Inn." At present they are at the top of the inter-house sports league. Could it be the result of the setting-up exercise they get dashing down the stretch to breakfast every morning? The newsreel filmed at Ajax in January will be shown at the Whitby theatre Monday night. Here's your chance to see yourselves in pictures chaps. Students taking the special bus into Toronto, Friday night are asked to cooperate by boarding the bus whose number is on their ticket. It will facilitate the loading of the buses. The installation of fluorescent lighting in the study rooms and the work of equipping the kitchenettes in the various residences with hot plates has been completed in most cases, according to Mr. Perry, superintendent of residences. The Chess Club is now in full swing. Several pages have been filled in the challenge book. A number of members have climbed several rungs in the ladder. Originally, the names were in alphabetical order; they are now beginning to appear in order of merit. The club has a furnished room in Hart House and members are invited to drop in. The picture show in the recreation hall has been cancelled for Sunday evening. An I.S.S. Service will be held in its place. The speaker who is a Dane by the name of Ingvald Pedersen was a leader in the Danish resistance movement.

Love In Spanish Raises I.S.S. Funds

Pierce duels, epic love-scenes, gagful dialogue, Iberian romance and sangre, oozing from taped-off sabre points, will all be found packed into the plot of "Esgrima y Amor", it was rumored to The Varsity yesterday. The comedy, whose title, freely translated, reads "Love at First Smite", will be presented by the U. of T. Spanish Club on Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Women's Union. "Hundreds of students now at University have read this play in classes and they probably all want to see it," said Ross Davidson of Trinity College, producer of the play. "Not only can students in language courses thus combine entertainment with a useful preparation for forthcoming exams, but we promise any other students a good time at the club", he added. Actors in the comedy hail from five different corners of the globe, ranging from South America to Germany (one is from Toronto), in a plot that is based on mistaken identity. Proceeds of the meeting will go to the current I.S.S. campaign. Besides the play there will be records from the Dominican Republic, dancing, refreshments and other attractions.

Scientific Jobs For the Summer

Summer employment for undergraduates in Science and Engineering may now be found in the Registrar's Office where a list of the various employments is available. Due to the removal of wartime controls applying to science students, employers and students alike are free to negotiate directly for summer employments. This work is directly connected with the students' professional future, and should be applied for on the fact that it can only be secured by doing so.

Polyglot Group Present

The last of the University's accelerated classes in Medicine graduated last Friday afternoon at a ceremony held in Convocation Hall. Of the class of 126 students, 122 still wore the uniform of the Canadian Army Medical Corps. The graduates' names, read by Dr. W. E. Gallie, Dean of the Faculty, prior to receiving their degrees from Chancellor H. J. Cody, represented the Anglo-Saxon World, as well as every country of Europe, Russia, China and Japan. At the convocation, President Sidney Smith introduced to the students the new full-time Dean of the Faculty, Brigadier J. A. MacFarlane, who will succeed Dean W. E. Gallie who is retiring at the end of June. Dr. Smith also awarded several prizes after the conferring of the degrees. Winner of the Cody Silver Medal was Theodore Yun Chan, who was told that the winner of the same medal in the class of 1903 had recently written from Singapore where he is at present practising.

U.B.C. Debaters Okay Liquor Laws

Vancouver, Feb. 16—(CUP)—In a University of British Columbia debate, supporters of the argument "that B.C.'s liquor laws should be liberalized" went down to defeat. The affirmative attacked the existing liquor laws stating the English pub as being "infinitely preferable to Canadian beer parlors, which are nothing but guzzling places." The first speaker concluded that "moderation is to be secured only through the liberalization of the liquor laws." The negative quoted the findings of the Rockefeller Committee, declaring that "only through state control can the minimum unstimulated demand be obtained." It was stated that the trend in the U.S.A. was towards state liquor control.

College French Clubs To Hold Joint Meeting

Victoria College will be the host for the annual joint meeting of the U.C., Victoria and Trinity French Clubs, on Wednesday, Feb. 27, at 8:00 p.m. in Wymilwood. Each club will present a short play—U.C. will stage "La Paix Chez Soi", by Courteline; Trinity's play is Act II of "La Poudre aux Yeux", by Labiche; and Victoria's offering will be "Une Main Leste", also by Labiche. Besides the plays, French songs will be sung, and refreshments and dancing will conclude the evening.

Thyratrons Light Backdrop At Engineers' Grad Ball

The orchestra was playing a soft introduction; the backdrop was blue. Suddenly there was a blast of the trumpets and the lights on the backdrop changed to red and then yellow, pulsating with the beat. Truly it was an engineer's dream to have lights on the backdrop controlled by the music through an amazing electronic circuit. The idea of a fourth year electrical student, the circuit was used at the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering Graduation Ball Friday night at the Royal York. Basically the circuit consisted of several Thyratron tubes arranged to fire at various grid voltages. The variation of sound intensity from the band provided the varying grid voltages. "We would like to express our gratitude to the Electrical Engineering Department who supplied most of the equipment for the control circuit," commented the student in charge of the job. The ball was held at 7:30 p.m. and resulted in an impromptu jam session in the Concert Hall after the banquet. The Engineers' Society Executive by Murray McCulloch, President of the Society. Leather medals were awarded others who had done outstanding work on various committees. These were presented by Prof. W. J. T. Wright. Dr. Sidney Smith, who replied to the toast to the University, said that he had heard rumours that the Faculty Council were not going to fail anyone this year, but this was quickly denied by Dean C. R. Young, who, in replying to a toast to the staff, said that attendance at the Grad Ball was done in a spirit of "faith and hope of things to come." Following this banquet music was played by the Cambridge rhythm, and a dance orchestra for those who wished to dance. One of the highlights of the evening was a performance by the Cambridge rhythm, and a dance orchestra for those who wished to dance. The Cambridge rhythm, and a dance orchestra for those who wished to dance.

—BROCK-MEELHERAN.

University of Toronto War Effort Story Now Beginning To Unfold

By John McRae

The story of the University of Toronto's magnificent war record is just beginning to come out. More than anything it is a story of co-operation. At first a mutual pooling of resources and abilities in the University itself, then an international co-operation of all Universities in Canada and the United States working toward a common end. It is the story of the little known man and his contribution to world shaking discoveries. It is the story of the Atom Bomb, of Radar, of Penicillin

"At the height of the war the University of Toronto was doing a job second to none on the continent," said C. E. Higginbottom, Bursar of the University, whose office handled all the war contracts from the Dominion Government. To look after the increased business the staff of the Bursar's Office was more than doubled and the latest counting and adding machines were installed to cope with the complicated government forms. The system initiated in this office for the distribution of grants to the various research branches and preparation of reports to the National Research Council at Ottawa was adopted in similar institutions and projects throughout Canada. In writing a letter of appreciation to the Bursar's Office Dr. C. J. MacKenzie, President of the National Research cated government forms. The system initiated in this office for the distribution of grants to the various research branches and preparation of reports to the National Research Council at Ottawa was adopted in similar institutions and projects throughout Canada. In writing a letter of appreciation to the Bursar's Office Dr. C. J. MacKenzie, President of the National Research Council said: "Yours is an . . . unspectacular service and does not appear in the glamorous pages of our activities, but those of us who are close to the administration of projects realize that we could not carry on without you."

At the peak of war activity the University was receiving nearly a million dollars for purposes other than those regularly included in its operations. Of this more than $622,000.00 came from the Dominion Government to carry on 66 different war projects.

A great deal of the research work was carried on in the Connaught Laboratories. In August 1943 the Federal Government asked the Laboratories to become one of the two centres for large scale production. (Continued on Page 5)

The T.O. Style

By BILL HEMMERICK

This week we move on to a discussion of the Davidson herd, currently featured at the now remodelled Palace Pier. We grade this group C musically, and C commercially.

Trump came originally from Sudbury, appearing in T.O. in 1936 with Romanelli. The next year he fronted his own band, but chucked it a year later to go with Ray Noble on his Great Britain tour. In '42 he was with Horace Lapp, and stayed with him till last year when he organized his own band again. While he was with Horace, Trump played at the Top Hat matinees with Boogie Bogart.

When Trump first organized in the fall of '44, the band was very rough indeed, but it has improved no end since then. Trump was very outspoken in his thanks to Bert Niosi and Ellis McLintock for their help after the big fire in the Queensway last February.

This ork is rather peculiar in the flavour of its music. It is one of the very few in the area to play Dixieland. The little band in this group plays the standards with gusto, and a beat.

Personnel: Sax—Reg. Seville, Nat. Kasselles, Teddy Davidson, Maurio Zene, Jack Watkins; Trumpets—Trump, Stan Gallant, Al. McMullen, Jerry Zeigman; Trams—Bill Wheeler, Bill McCauley, Bob Burgess; Piano—Harry Silver; Bass—Stan Wiener; Drums—Jimmy Paul; Vocals—Teddy, Trump, Frank Cramer; Arrangers—Trump, Reg. Seville; Little band—Rhythm plus Teddy, Seville, Trump, (Al. sometimes), Wheeler.

Outstanding men here are Teddy, Trump, Burgess, and McMullen. Horn of the Week

First let it be known that there are many types of ten-per-cent-ers in the area. They are called agents, bookers, promoters, and several other not so nice names. In this day and age of specialization, someone has to do these most necessary jobs.

Foremost in the booking field is Bert Mitford and agency. He handles Horace Lapp, Ellis, Bogart and the Modernaires exclusively, represents Jack Evans, Red Jackell, Gimby, and Benny Louis. Bert specializes in arranging dates (acts as an in between man for leaders and buyers). Bert has been doing the for about ten years, and seems quite happy about it. Other bookers include the Kenney agency (Kenney Hallman, Stan Patton) and such as Bill Stewart and John Adaskin who specializes in classics and acts.

There are several promoters . . . biggest of which is Babe Kerin, brings up name bands, owns Kingsway, half of Queensway, etc. etc., Billy Cross (half queensway) and such small timers as John Cowan and ourselves.

There is also a group of managers such as George Hardy of the Castle and Ken Cooper of the Queensway Local News Dept.

Since we have been cut on space we can't touch arrangers . . . however . . . back from overseas is Tony Braden (Mr. Judy Richardson) and Jimmy Cooke (Mr. Doris Dean) . . . maybe we can squeeze a little more out of the next one.

NEW DANCE CLASS

All the smartest New York styles of Fox-Trot, Waltz, Jive, Rhumba and Tango.

STARTING TUESDAY, 8.30

DA COSTA

Studios of Dancing

1139 Bay St. Corner Charles MI 541

Varsity Officials Seeking "Easy Way Out" With Library Congestion?

By Harold B. Atin

"It's a dirty trick, that's what it is."

"They scare me so much I can't think."

"If they don't take 'them' out soon, I'm transferring to McGill."

For over a week now these and similar remarks have been heard on this campus. And what is the cause of these violent expletives and dire threats? What is "them"? "Them", dear reader, are the four sombre gilt-framed portraits of former, very former, university and government officials which some malevolent genius has prompted some official to hang in the men's reading room of the University Library.

A tabulation of reactions from the vantage point of a seat facing the front door reveals that surprise, amusement, irritation, and horror have registered upon the faces of innocent male undergraduates upon first catching sight of these chilling samples of the art of portraiture.

Nor does the matter end there. The effect of these crushingly dignified, austere, pillars of a dead (thank goodness) society is even more insidious. Under their influence, students squirm in their seats, look up, shudder, look down, find they can't concentrate, give up and go out for a smoke,—the consumption of cigarettes is rising, soon there will be a cigarette shortage,—find they can't sleep at night any more, for always before them they keep seeing these faces, FACES, FACES!!!—and there they sit, these grim patriarchs, in the mournful splendour of their golden frames, and know not what they do!

As Mortimer J. Schopenhauer, well known fourth year Philosophy student, commented: "Looking at them from the standpoint of Logic, (the only way one can look at them without shuddering), it appears to me that they serve no utilitarian end whatsoever, since decoratively their contribution can be expressed in a minus quantity and the atmosphere they lend to the room bears an unhappy resemblance to that disseminated by that depository of deceased mortals known as a morgue. And regarded from the standpoint of Inspiration the effect they produce is of so dismal a nature that they can only inspire undergraduates with a firm resolution to steer their lives in such a path as never to approach in any manner to the qualities suggested by these 'prototypes'."

But a darker thought crosses our mind than that the portraits are merely intended somewhat naively, as inspirational models. Our faithful readers (?) will recall that The Varsity quoted officials as stating that the Library was becoming grossly overcrowded due to increased enrolment and that something would have to be done. Thus this demoniacal scheme, worse in its eventual effects than all the tortures of Torquemada, is a dastardly attempt at the easiest solution of an immediate difficulty.

Shall we tolerate this corruption of the noble minds of one of the world's noblest universities? Never! Student opinion must unite . . . er . . . that is . . . sorry, wrong journal.

However, the fact remains that something must be done. Any students (male) sending in a possible solution will be awarded two free tickets to the next return engagement of "School for Brides", and, by special arrangement with the University officials, a permanent seat in the girls' study room.

Ex. Forestry Dean Died Last Friday

Dr. Clifton Durant Howe, 71, who retired as Dean Emeritus of the Faculty of Forestry in 1941, died at his home Friday after a short illness. Appointed Forestry dean in 1920, he had previously been assistant professor of botany and forestry. He joined the university staff in 1908.

Dr. Howe was born in Newfane, Vt., and attended the University of Vermont and the University of Chicago, receiving the B.A. degree in 1908. He later obtained M.S. and Ph.D. degrees. He was instructor in biology at the University of Vermont in 1900-1901, and was later an assistant in botany at the University of Chicago.

A recognized authority on forestry, he wrote many magazine articles and government reports.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacleware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762 (Ground Floor St. George Apartments) OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

THE CAMPUS EVENT YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR
2 NITES ONLY—CONVOCAATION HALL
Wed. & Thurs., March 6 & 7

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESENTS FIRST EDITION

All-Varsity Revue

Featuring

WHITEY BELSHAW AND HIS SENSATIONAL 6 PC. ORCHESTRA AND THE BEST FROM:—

- SCHOOL NITE
- U.C. FOLLIES
- DAFFYDIL NITE
- DENTANTICS
- VIC BOB
- TRINITY

Including Those Top Comics

ALEC SIEGEL AND DON HARRON

TICKETS ON SALE NOW—$1.00 PER PERSON

12-2 P.M. in all College and Faculty Rotundas and Hart House Rotunda. Get yours now and avoid disappointment.

Entirely In Aid of International Student Service

A Year's Entertainment In One Show

Nominations for Hart House Committees Are Now Open
Have You Nominated Your Candidate?

New and Entrenous

The Woozel

By Ross McLean

Science has at last found a way to assay "S.A."

The element of risk in the blind date, taunting men of science for aeons, has been almost entirely removed by discovery of a formula to measure charm.

Completed under wartime shrouds of secrecy, today the veil was drawn on The Woozel Number.

Product of a pair of Toronto engineering graduates, R. J. Templin and John L. Orlando, The Woozel Number presents mankind with a reliable formula for the rating of feminine appeal.

Hailed as a scientific milestone and as a step toward the elimination of blind-date disappointment, The Woozel Number (originally called the Woo-Woo Number which was not deemed sufficiently impressive) employs an elaborate series of tests to determine the physical and spiritual assets of any female subject.

The recognized Otis Test is used to determine intelligence quotient. Physical facts are ascertained by use of a tape measure in the customary way.

Two sets of figures are required for the plane plot. Imaginaries are charted vertically and reals horizontally.

Assessment of esthetic qualities posed the greatest problem for the originators of The Woozel Number, but a problem whose difficulty was not in excess of their imagination.

Templin and Orlando require the subject to doff a fur coat in a crowded room. The noise of those males present is given a decibel rating. Thus is reckoned one of several intangible elements in charm.

Personality can be of three degrees; hubba, hubba, hubba; hubba, hubba; or hubba.

The Woozel Number checks DA and DK. This is distance between ankles and knees when standing erect. Distance should be zero. Amplitude of hip sway is also noted.

Imaginary findings are divided by the real and then subjected to an intricate formula not yet divulged.

To Rate "S.A."

The resultant figure will lie between one and ten. There is small problem attached to rating as high as five. Over five provides the real test. There each decimal place assumes extreme significance.

Amplification of The Woozel Number is expected to be contained in the forthcoming issue of Toike Oike with diagrams to reveal it in all its scientific trappings.

Co-discoverers of the miraculous formula, Templin and Orlando are now with the National Research Council and the Douglas Aircraft Company.

Museum Curator Gives Low Down On Snakes: Not Slimy Or Cold!

By BOB COOKE

Are You superstitious?

Of course, you aren't. But wait a moment. Do you believe that milk snakes suck milk from cows? Do you believe that snakes are cold and slimy? Do you shudder at the thought of touching a snake?

Very few people would answer No to these questions and yet, according to D'Arcy LeRay, Assistant Curator of the Zoological Museum, milk snakes do not suck milk from cattle. "Why, they are so small that they could only hold a teaspoon of milk even if they did suck it from cattle," he said, pointing to a brown snake about the thickness of a fountain pen.

"Snakes aren't slimy or cold," he continued, lifting a six-foot Boa Constrictor out of its cage and holding it out for inspection. Its skin was smooth and the ripple of powerful muscles could be felt as it struggled for freedom, but there wasn't the slightest suggestion of coldness or sliminess about it. "Notice how clean his skin feels," commented Mr. LeRay.

And as for touching and handling snakes, according to Mr. LeRay, it's just a matter of getting over one's fear of them. "Of course poisonous snakes are handled with care. If the rattlesnakes or the water moccasins or the copperhead snake have to be removed from their cages they are lifted out on a special hooked stick keeping them out of striking distance. All the other snakes are picked up by hand when they have to be put into another cage."

There are three Boa Constrictors in the museum. One came from Central America via Germany. The one that was held out for inspection, a small one, is handled frequently so that it will become accustomed to handling and will offer little trouble when it is full grown. The other Boa, a nine-footer, came from South America. He has rather a cranky disposition and is handled no more often than is absolutely necessary.

The small one who came from a circus, arrived in a half frozen and half starved condition. At first it was thought that he would die, and for over a month all that could be fed him with the blood of mice and rabbits. Even now he has to be forced to eat.

Besides the Boas and the poisonous snakes there are garter snakes and water snakes as well as three indigos, circus favorites. It seems that indigos are a fierce-looking breed of snake and the rumour has been well circulated that they are poisonous, whereas they are really quite docile, and not at all poisonous. For this reason they are a favorite in side shows.

One of the three indigos, however, is rather ferocious. In eight years in a cage he has not yet learned that it is quite useless to strike at the glass in an effort to get at hands that tap on his cage. When a hand is tapped on the side of his cage he makes a terrific lunge at the glass, coming to a sudden stop with a crash that can be heard all over the building. In eight years he has hit the glass so often that his nose has become permanently blunted. All over the glass are streaks of dried blood, the results of other false alarms.

His eating habits are no more polite than his returns to friendly taps on the glass. With several lunges he catches a rat that is thrown into his cage and with the full strength of his coiled body he crushes it against the side of his cage. Then he swallows it whole.

Much cleverer is the deadly water moccasin in the next cage. Tapping at the glass brings no reaction from him, but should one bring one's hand near the wire grill on top of the cage he coils to strike. He has learned that he can bite through the grill and students have to be constantly warned not to lean on his cage.

So far the safety record of the museum is perfect. If you really want to see the snakes please don't go the week they are due to be fed.

War Effort Story Now Told

(Continued from Page 4)

tion of Penicillin in Canada. By April 1944 the old Knox College buildings on Spadina Crescent had been taken over, completely re-modeled and vast quantities of equipment installed. Already the method of large scale production of penicillin had been perfected by University research scientists and production began at once. Improvements in the equipment for drying blood soon made it possible to produce 5,800 bottles weekly. Enough Typhus Fever vaccine was produced for the preventive treatment of more than 300,000 persons monthly. Research was carried on Gas-gangrene anti-toxin, and many other serums and vaccines.

The Psychology Department also took an important part in the war effort. In the first years of the war it supplied personnel experts in Great Britain and in the Army and Air Force Branches of the Canadian Services. Psychology Staff members aided the Canadian Government on the Wartime Information Board at Ottawa, where work was done on morale and on war attitudes. During the Blitz in England Psychology experts went overseas to aid the British Government in their programme of establishing the evacuated children of London and the larger cities in nursery schools in the safer districts in the country. Much of the Canadian Armed Services personnel work and research was handled by members of the Psychology Department.

One of the first Altitude Chambers in Canada for the study of altitude pressure on fliers was erected in the University by the late Sir Fredrick Banting. Many other, now world famous, inventions were worked out here. The famous sea-sick pills of Dr. Best, Dr. Franks' water suit to prevent black-outs in dive-bombing pilots, and many other inventions brought on by the pressure of war.

One of the biggest jobs which the University staff took on was the training of Navy and Air Force personnel in Radar and other specialized work. Many thousands of dollars of Government Grants went into this work. From June 1943 to June of the following year over $500,000.00 was spent in training service personnel.

Every Faculty accelerated its courses to enable men to get through faster. In the Faculties of Dentistry and Medicine two years were covered in one and men in last year Meds were automatically officers in one of the Forces on graduation.

Of the 255 staff members on Active Service there were enlistments in every Branch of the Armed Forces. There were men in the Intelligence Service and the Federal Security Agency in Washington. There were Economic Advisors to nearly every controlling body set up in Ottawa. Nutrition and Hygiene experts contributed greatly to the comfort of the armed forces, especially in the Navy where a food packet was devised for torpedoeed sailors which would have the greatest nutritional value in the smallest possible space. Extension courses were sent to service men and women and prisoners of war were supplied with free text books.

The list of the Universities war achievements is almost without end. Of course many are still on the secret list. Many are still in the process of perfection. But these just add strength to the University's enviable record.

The University played a major part in every war activity. Though its work is mostly done in secret; though the workers are generally unrecognized, when the history of Canada's war effort is written the work of the University of Toronto will fill a glorious chapter.

3 ONE-ACT PLAYS

PLAY-NITE

- THE MONKEY'S PAW—Jacobs.
- THE HAPPY JOURNEY—Wilder.
- THE DEVIL AND DANIEL WEBSTER

—Benet

THURS. • 28 FEB. • 8:15 P.M.

Tickets Available at Office of Ontario College of Education, Bloor and Spadina, or at Door.

¡SALUD!

The SPANISH CLUB

invites all students over 16 years of age to the blood-curdling, romantic

COMEDY

"LOVE AT FIRST SMITE"

("Esgrima y Amor")

Hundreds have read it!! Thousands want to see it on TUESDAY, FEB. 26TH, 8 P.M., WOMEN'S UNION

20c.

PROCEEDS TO I.S.S.

20c.

DANCING

MUSIC

REFRESHMENTS

See That YOUR FACULTY Is Represented on
HART HOUSE COMMITTEES

Hand In Your Nomination Form to the Warden's Office

Nominations Close at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 27th

McGill Captures Assault-At-Arms In First Postwar Meet at Queen's

University of McGill boxing and wrestling teams captured the first postwar intercollegiate Assault-at-arms last Friday and Saturday in the Queen's University Gym.

The meeting found entrants from Queen's, McGill, Varsity and O.A.C. battling for the championship before capacity crowds on both evenings.

McGill and O.A.C. each won five of the 16 final bouts with Varsity and Queen's tying with three apiece.

However the scores proved to be the deciding factor for the McGill Redmen, as points were at a slightly higher premium for the boxing than the wrestling. The Montreal boys had two of their men winning titles in boxing while O.A.C. only placed one.

The best bout of Saturday night's final was between Wilson of Varsity and Axmord of Queen's. These two boys went at it from the opening gun and never let up until the end. Each registered four knockdowns with Wilson getting the nod by a very slight margin.

Saturday night's final results.

Wrestling

118 lbs.—Eichenberger (O.A.C.) defeated Holmes (Varsity). Two falls.

125 lbs.—Hurley (O.A.C.) defeated Dickson (Queen's). Decision.

135 lbs.—Raymond (McGill) defeated Cassels (Varsity). Decision.

145 lbs.—Sokereign (O.A.C.) defeated Sklar (Varsity). Decision.

155 lbs.—Saddath (McGill) defeated Health (Varsity). Decision.

165 lbs.—Miller (O.A.C.) defeated Taylor (Varsity). Decision.

175 lbs.—Kowal (McGill) defeated Gray (Varsity). Two falls.

Heavyweight—Campbell (Varsity)

(Continued on Page 7)

Speaking OF SPORT

By Bredin Stapells

Basketball Notes

Professor Dilworth was very pleased with the results of the expedition to Buffalo. And he had every reason to be just so, for the lads put on a very excellent show for him. It might be recalled that Niagara college beat the famous Assumption squad by six points, so consequently our Blues did themselves proud by holding them down to eight points.

With the coming Western showdown on Wednesday these results looked good—for us! At the beginning of the season, the Blues were unable to handle the large floor, but, as "Doc" Crowdie, of Madison Square Garden's fame commented, "this club is the most improved I've seen."

Another high light of the bout was the new scoring record set by Ebresck with 36 baskets. Before the Auditorium had proudly boasted of an all time high of 29. Hart House has a record of 32 at the present moment.

Fools, Fools

It seems even in this dignified institution there are a few inmates who, for all their supposed high intellectual assets, show no common sense, no decency, no sportsmanship. Why do little children have to amuse themselves at a hockey game by throwing a bottle or some popcorn on the ice? Do they not realize that they are endangering their own players, let alone the visitors? Moreover they are holding up the game for the rest of the fans. We are very surprised that the spectators surrounding these fools did not give them a very forcible "bums rush". We are very sorry that they did not! Sat. Nite

The Gym team won their competition in the intercollegiate series and the fencing lost by two bouts. Due to the week-end festivities these could not be covered in detail—again we say festivities, Wow!

8000 Watch Blue Cagers Lose To Niagara College

In another basketball tilt in the Buffalo Memorial Auditorium the Niagara College took Senior Blues 67-58. The return engagement was watched and applauded by over 8,000 fans.

The Blues opened the offense with a 9-3 margin, which illustrated the difference in Canadian tactics as opposed to Amerik styles. But the Americans soon found themselves, and the play evened up by half time with the Blues on the short end of 28-25 score.

The last four minutes of play were the high light of the tussle as Toronto and Niagara went up the scoring board neck and neck until in the last minute and a half the opposition ran up the baskets one after another to gain the fruits of victory.

Both Doug Spry and Cranham pleased the fans with excellent displays of ball—beautiful set shots by the former, and remarkable trick ball handling on the part of the latter.

The outstanding feature of the College boys was their skyscraper stature, two of the squad were over 6'4". This formed one of the major handicaps for the homesters.

Foul shooting by both teams was ragged, in a game which gave plenty of opportunity for running up a good count. Both Cranham and Thomson were distinctly hampered by injuries.

Lineup:

Toronto: Wallace (12), Thomson (6), Mayell (13), Zealon (12), Clayton (6), Himmel (2), Gibson, Cranham, Scott, Total 58.

Niagara—Jarvis (13), Towell (1), Buckley (7), Schwab (8), Ebresck (36). Total 67.

Ajax Sports

BASKETBALL

732B	defeated	722B	—23-12
733B	defeated	731B	—20-15
730B	defeated	736B	—26-10
729	defeated	738	—by default
724B	defeated	729B	—41-23
728B	defeated	725B	—22-14

HOCKEY

726	tied	723	—2-2
731	defeated	737	—6-5

BOWLING

Winner	Loser	Score
729D	725C	1864-1877
737D	731D	1513-1416
734C	723E	1177-1474
723G	738	1876-1553

BASKETBALL PLAYOFFS MAJOR LEAGUE

GROUP PLAYOFFS

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26	1:00	PHE II vs ST. M. A.Lye
	4:00	VIC. III vs ST. M. B.McAdam (if necessary)

PLAYOFFS

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27	Game 1	1:00	FOR. A vs JR. VIC.Maxwell, Jackson
	Game 2	4:00	TRIN. A vs DENT. A.Swan, McAdam

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28

Game 3	1:00	PHE II or ST. M. A vs VIC. III or ST. M. BLye, Swan
Game 4	4:00	SPS V vs SE. VIC.Maxwell, Rotman

FRIDAY, MARCH 1

Game 5	1:00	WINNER (1) vs PRE-MED. AJackson, Swan
Game 6	4:00	WINNER (2) vs JR. U.C. A.Lye, Jackson

MONDAY, MARCH 4

Game 7	1:00	WINNER (3) vs SR. SPSMaxwell, McAdam
Game 8	4:00	WINNER (4) vs JR. SPSLye, Rotman

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6

Game 9	1:00	WINNER (7) vs WINNER (5)Lye, Maxwell
Game 10	4:00	WINNER (6) vs WINNER (8)Lye, Swan

FINALS—Friday, March 8, Monday, March 11 and Wednesday 13 (if necessary) 4:00 p.m.

N.B. Re game (3) If both St. Michael's teams should win group, will managers concerned call at Athletic Office so that a re-arrangement can be made.

BASKETBALL PLAYOFFS MINOR LEAGUE

GROUP PLAYOFFS

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27	6:30	FOR. E vs I ELEC.Mott
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26	6:00	I DENT. vs III ELEC. (if necessary)Strathearn

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27

Game 1	7:30	PHE VI vs VIC. XII (if necessary)Mott
Game 2	8:30	U.C. HOLWOOD vs VIC. X (if necessary)Mott

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28

Game 3	1:00	III AERO vs VIC. VIII (if necessary)Farrell
--------	------	--------------------------------------	--------------

PLAYOFFS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28	Game 1	4:30	I CIVIL vs VIC. IVHamm
	Game 2	5:30	PHE III vs III CHEM.Hamm

FRIDAY, MARCH 1

Game 3	6:30	II ELEC. vs U.C. ST. GEORGERotman
Game 4	7:30	I DENT. or III ELEC. vs KNOX BRotman

SATURDAY, MARCH 2

Game 5	1:00	PHE V vs VIC. XIEwins
Game 6	4:00	FOR. E or I ELEC. vs PHE VI or VIC. XII, BabcockRotman

MONDAY, MARCH 4

Game 7	1:00	TRIN. III vs II ENG. BUS.Rotman
Game 8	4:00	II DENT. vs U.C. V.Hamm

TUESDAY, MARCH 5

Game 9	1:00	WINNER (5) vs III AERO or VIC. VIIIMott
Game 10	4:00	U.C. III vs IV METALKerrison

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6

Game 11	5:00	U.C. HOLWOOD or VIC. X vs I CIVILKerrison
Game 12	7:00	WINNER (6) vs WINNER (7)Strathearn

THURSDAY, MARCH 7

Game 13	4:00	WINNER (8) vs WINNER (9)Holman
Game 14	1:00	WINNER (10) vs WINNER (11)Volght

FRIDAY, MARCH 8

Game 15	4:30	WINNER (12) vs WINNER (13)Holman
---------	------	----------------------------	-------------

Semi-Finals—Friday, March 8, 4:00 and Saturday, March 9, 1:00

Finals—Tuesday, March 12, Thursday, March 14 and Saturday, March 16.

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY

1:00	WYC vs SPS VAtkinson, Horkins
4:00	KNOX A vs FOR. ASmith, Crawford (Game cancelled)
6:00	DENT. A vs ST. M. A.Andison, Weedon

WATER-POLO

1:00	U.C. (PHE) vs SPS IIILyon
6:00	TRIN. vs FORESTRYAllore

BASKETBALL MAJOR

4:00	TRIN. B vs ST. M. B.McAdam
6:30	PHARM. vs SPS IVRotman

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00	III AERO vs FOR. C.Volght
4:00	III MINING vs TRIN. IIIGeary
6:00	I DENT. vs III ELEC.Boud

INDOOR TRACK
5:00 50 yds high hurdles (3 ft); 1 Mile Relay (4 man teams)

HOCKEY STANDING COMMITTEE MEETING

TUES. FEB. 26TH—1:00 P.M.

Athletic Directorate Room, Hart House, to make arrangements for playoff schedule, etc. A full attendance would be appreciated.

Varsity Mermaids On Top In Intercollegiate Meet

On Saturday night, the Varsity swimmerettes free-styled it out of the Hart House pool, taking away with them the first post-war intercollegiate Women's Swimming Championship.

The Blues' were on top with 44 points, 18 points ahead of McGill in second place with 26 points. Queen's and Western were in a ten-point third place tie, and McMaster, rounding off the list of entrants, did not place in the two events they entered.

The night began with Sue Gray of P.H.E. winning the long plunge with a dive of 65'1", while Western's entrant was in second place with a plunge of 62'10". Sue also brought off another first in the style event, making her the high individual performer of the meet with 10 points.

Barb. Hinchcliffe (Vic.) far outclassed the other competitors in ornamental swimming, with 40 points above that awarded to McGill's Merelle Cayford, who placed second. Though the night's diving was not up to a very high standard, Varsity divers took first and second awards in this event. Lois Lloyd (Meds.) hit the high mark with 135.5, Maureen Martin came off the diving board with a close second, 130.9.

The excitement in the packed gallery rose to a high pitch when Mora Howson, Queen's, headed the 50-yard free style race, and McGill's Sidney Fullerton taking the 100-yard free style.

Lowe of Toronto back-stroked her way to hit the tape first, and Molly Beley still kept the spotlight on Varsity by winning the breast stroke. Both relays, the 200-yard dash and the Medley, went to McGill.

The individual high scorers of the night were: Sue Gray, Varsity (10), Sidney Fullerton, McGill, and Mora Howson, Queen's (8), Maureen Martin, Varsity, and Merelle Cayford, McGill (6), Barbara Hinchcliffe, Lowe, Molly Beley, Lois Lloyd of Varsity (5).

Whip McGill

(Continued from Page 1)

fans in the rail seats started scraping with him.

The game was one which just couldn't compare on paper, with what it was on ice. Little can be said other than pointing out the top playmakers, and giving a detailed box-score for the statistics-hungry.

Shifty Varsity Line

The Varsity line centred by Dave Bauer, and winged by Bromley and Bill Kosick really pulled down the crowd's praise for their shifty play. Dave Bauer surpassed pre-season expectations in masterminding top forward trio in Friday's fray.

"Fearless" Kosick was just that, and produced some of the prettiest shows of stick-handling seen in the Arena this year, while Bromley was just plain infallible. Together, these boys don't just star, they constellated.

Besides Broderick, centreman Jim O'Connor, and goalie Jack Gelineau were the cream of the McGill team.

Toronto's win over the Montreal ties the two teams for first place in the Intercollegiate standing, and though McGill have played one more game than Varsity, the deciding game of the series will be next Friday night, in Montreal. A win for the Blues will put them solidly, and probably undefeated into first place, while a win for the Redmen would probably end the series with a first place tie.

Toronto—Dick Ball, Doyle, Wade, Puttock, Kryzanowski, Henry, Halder, Kosick, Bromley, Bauer, Gord Ball.

McGill—Gelineau, Gosselin, Broderick, Biegler Sinclair, Tom Hale, George Hale, Porteus, Heron, O'Connor, Pierson.

First Period

1. McGill—Sinclair (Broderick)	4:18
2. McGill—O'Connor (Broderick)	14:32
3. Toronto—Halder (Henry, Ball)	18:14
Penalties—Wade, Bromley, Biegler, Gosselin.

Second Period

4. McGill—Broderick (T. Hale)	1:48
5. Toronto—Bromley	2:37
6. Toronto—Kosick (Bromley, Halder)	13:50
7. Toronto—Bromley (Bauer, Puttock)	16:40
Penalties—Doyle, Sinclair (2), Biegler.

Third Period

8. Toronto—Ball (Kosick, Henry)	1:47
9. Toronto—Bromley (Bauer)	5:27
10. McGill—Sue Gray	16:33
11. Toronto—Halder (Henry)	18:25
No penalties.

• Sportswoman •

By J. D. Wray

Wandering into the Varsity office after a lost week-end, and consequently in a weakened condition, we were convinced by young Mutz that even we could write a Woman. So today you have a column written by someone who knows absolutely nothing about sports, particularly women's sports, since we are known to be a confirmed misogynist.

However, Mutz has thrown a bunch of facts at us, and we shall attempt to interpret them. If they come out all wrong, you know the reason.

Well, the badminton picture has come out of the developer and is ready to be printed. The tourney reached the final stages at St. Paul's Saturday afternoon, when, in the singles, JUDY PRICE, of Trinity, defeated PAT PATTERSON, also of the Scarlet and Black college to the tune of 11-7, 11-3, (whatever that means). JOAN CANNON, of U.C. edged out JOAN CRACKNELL, of U.C., at a count of 11-7, 12-10. It seems to us that there should be a match between these two, but probably there is some reason why there isn't going to be. At least as far as we can find out there isn't one. See how confusing this sports stuff is? Give us something simple like Chemical Thermodynamics.

In the doubles, KEIR and CANNON, of U.C., trounced RICE and AGNEW, of Trinity, the points adding up to 15-7. The winners will play SANDERS and PATTERSON, (Trinity), on Wednesday at St. Paul's to wind things up in the local doings.

Good looking, or whatever you call it, gals!

Our Readers Write —

More Taxation

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:
In The Varsity recently Miss Elizabeth McPhedran objected to certain statements and emphases in my recent review of Canada's Burden of Taxation. The review did contain one unintentionally mis-leading statement, but I cannot agree with Miss McPhedran's other remarks.
I wrote that "Full Employment has been suggested as a possible solution to this problem" (of continuing high taxation). Actually, of course, those favouring a policy of Full Employment regard this as one of a number of needed reforms. And, as I emphasized in the review, it is likely that taxes will be high for some time to come, regardless of any reform program.
There was no intimation in the book that certain business leaders apparently desire a pool of unemployed; nor did I say that there was any such suggestion. It is my own impression that some business leaders desire a certain amount of unemployment, and that a new depression would be welcomed by these men as an excuse for lower wages and for disciplining workers and unions.
My impression is strengthened by such articles as "Propaganda by the NAM" (New Republic, Sept. 10), "Plotting a New Depression" (New Republic Editorial, Dec. 17), "Capitalism and Full Employment" and "The New Reservationists" (The Nation of Sept. 1 and 22); by articles appearing in such magazines as Politics and Common Sense; by quotations and reports in the columns "In The Wind" (The Nation) and "The Bandwagon" (The Nation Republic); and by the actions of certain Canadian and American Corporations which, during recent industrial disputes, have shown little interest in compromises suggested either by the unions or by the government officials involved.

I remarked that such books could be improved by more attention to the social implications of taxation; and Miss McPhedran writes that "the book is concerned throughout with the damage which excessive taxation may do to all classes of society", which is no criticism at all. The suggestion that high taxes mean sacrifice by all members of society does not go nearly far enough; in fact, it might be construed as an effort to satisfy those whose incomes are far too low even before taxation. To millions of people in the lower income groups taxes mean real hardship; they mean no such thing to those who have long enjoyed a more adequate standard of living. I insist that the authors made no effort to differentiate; I also insist that this is a vitally important point.
When I wrote that the book was dull I was not attempting to be smart. The publishers issued this report as a pamphlet costing twenty-five cents; presumably they did so in an effort to assure wide circulation among readers who would not ordinarily be interested in the technical aspects of taxation. I do not suggest that authors attempt to lead to those whose tastes constitute the lowest common denominator. But I do feel that a little care might be taken; that books of this kind might be given the advantage of interesting writing. It is my impression that they need it.
Robert Weaver, II P. (E. or H.)

Chinese Prices

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:
Your statement in Monday's (Feb. 18) Varsity that one Canadian dollar is equal to 100 Chinese dollars needs a little clarifying. The figures you quote were the rates of exchange about two years ago. The latest figures put present exchange at 900 (plus) to 1. That is, one Canadian dollar will bring 900 Chinese dollars, BUT the BUYING POWER of one Canadian dollar is equal to only 75 cents or less. This sum varies considerably of course for different articles, depending on the supply and demand. Following are a few recent (Jan. 15/46) prices in some articles, with the equivalent Canadian amount.

Chinese	Can. Equiv.
a—$ 2,000.00	$ 2.20 approx.
b—$ 750.00	$.75 "
	(.07 in Canada)
c—$ 600.00	$.70 "
d—$ 1,200.00	$ 1.20 "
	(.40 in Canada)
e—$100,000.00 (1)	$100.00
	(In Can. $15-$20)
a—Board per day (food only).
b—Sugar per lb.
c—Meat (pork) per lb.
d—Coffee (available rarely) lb.
e—Coal per ton.

The figures quoted above are already out of date for prices are still rising!
Your statement certainly gives the wrong impression. Let it not be thought that in donating a dollar one's charity is multiplied 1,000 times whereas in reality it is diminished by one-third or more ! !
—ROBERT M. KILBORN,
Ex-service Meds.

McGill Captures

(Continued from Page 6)
defeated Deever (O.A.C.). Two falls.
Boxing
118 lbs.—Bassett (McGill) defeated Millikin (Queen's). Decision.
125 lbs.—Amado (Queen's) defeated Smith (O.A.C.). Decision.
135 lbs.—Bell (Queen's) defeated McAdam (McGill). Decision.
145 lbs.—Underwood (Queen's) defeated Roberts (Varsity). Decision.
155 lbs.—Wilson (Varsity) defeated Axmord (Queen's). Decision.
165 lbs.—Biggs (O.A.C.) defeated Piper (McGill). Decision.
175 lbs.—Common (McGill) defeated Crowhurst (Varsity). Foul.
Heavyweight—Stewart (Varsity) defeated Soden (Queen's). T.K.O.

Graduating Meds

(Continued From Page 3)
suffering from diabetes."
Chief prize winners in the convocation were D. A. Gibson who received the Cody Gold Medal, the David Dunlop Memorial Scholarship for his year, and the Dr. Roy Simpson Scholarship in Paediatrics, W. H. Allemang who received the Chappell Prize in clinical medicine and the Ontario Medical Association prize in Hygiene and Preventive medicine, T. H. Chan, who received the Cody Silver Medal; F. E. Bryans, the Chappell prize in clinical surgery; W. J. McGarity, the William Hendry Memorial Scholarship in obstetrics and gynaecology.

"LEAVE THE SPOONS"

"At the counter", says the coffee caterer at the Tuck Shop.—Tuck, that is.
And leave your clothing problems at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)
RA 8995-6

We'll solve them in 3-4 weeks by custom tailoring your new spring suit or sport jacket in the latest styles, and at down-to-earth prices as well.

Open nine to nine. Saturdays until 6. Special fussing over students.

Editorial Encores

Films For The Future

From the McGill Daily comes an editorial, which reflects the feeling one receives on realizing for the first time the tremendous, through somewhat neglected potentialities of documentary films.
Those who attended yesterday afternoon's Film Society meeting learnt some very interesting facts about documentary films. Mr. Ernst Borneman, of the National Film Board of Canada, who spoke at the meeting certainly has the necessary background to make his lecture interesting.
When one hears about the making of these films and a few examples of such work by various nations, as the Film Society audience could yesterday, one realizes the tremendous possibilities of documentary films. Here, without any false emotions and "happy endings" a real true story can be told. The stirring developments and achievements of human endeavor can be portrayed calmly.
Today, with the world becoming more and more interested in international affairs, documentaries will certainly play an increasingly important part, not only in educating and enlightening one particular nation, but in drawing together the peoples of the world, thus giving them an insight into the problems, and an understanding of the achievements of their neighbors. While feature films are today the blatant agents for pleasantly unmolested thoughtlessness, documentaries can hold an audience by the mere presentation of facts.
Feature films generally have usually to invent an irrelevant story to hold the audience to the drug of escapism; documentaries depend on the truthfulness of their producers. So far, we are glad to find, documentaries produced in the English-speaking world at least (we have not seen others and would therefore not judge) are keeping up a good reputation and thus promise a future for truthful and factual reporting.

Radio

"Wake Up!"

The University of Toronto must wake up!
Prominent broadcasters, while wishing to remain anonymous until official sanction is given, are outspoken in their conviction that this campus should come abreast of the times with a radio station. They also favor a radio course in the University, pointing out that any student wishing to enter radio must now, outside of the newly-established Academy of Radio Arts and a summer course at Queen's, seek training in the United States. Since Canadian radio requires experienced men, a radio course here was felt to be of great mutual value to the broadcasting industry and to radio-minded students.
"Today, radio is the most powerful instrument for moulding opinion," said one eminent commentator, "and the University station can serve as a laboratory to improve all important standards." The campus station was seen, not only as a training project, but as a cultural medium undertaking a function which could not be adequately handled by commercial broadcasters.
Our informants felt that, with the assistance of trained ex-service men, advanced engineering students, and campus people already doing air work, the plan is highly feasible. In fact the plan is at work today, in American universities which have recently organized a network of their own, and in at least three Canadian universities: the U. of Alberta, St. Francis Xavier, and our old friend Queen's. And, of course, before the war the CBC used to allow time to various camps, on a rotary system, for broadcasting.
If St. Francis has CJFX, Alberta has CKUA, and Queen's has CFRC, what will Toronto have? Or, as we were asked:
"Will Queen's continue to beat Varsity?"
You, the students, must answer.
—DONALD G. ROBERTSON.

ABERDEEN'S Floral Stores

Main Stores: 31 Bloor W., MI. 2495
Special Attention to University Students

15% Discount Upon Presentation
OF ADMIT-TO-LECTURES CARD

Corsages are a Specialty—Have Your Date Wear One to the
P.H.E. AT-HOME

ORCHIDS AND ROSES ALWAYS IN STOCK

ST. GEORGE'S PRE-LENT TEACHING MISSION

DOES RELIGION MATTER TO THE WORLD?

Can modern man stand on his own feet in this new order of atomic energy? Have the humanities been abandoned for the test-tube and the atom cracker?

All students—antagonistic or friendly to the cause of Christianity—are invited to hear The Archbishop of Quebec, Most Rev. Philip Carrington, M.A., D.D., Litt.D.

ST. GEORGE'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

John St. South of the Art Gallery
MARCH 3rd. TO MARCH 10th.

smoke the mild
cigarette

Classified Advertisements

Am driving to London late Thursday afternoon. Room for 4 passengers. LO 7900.

WANTED

Student to help with evening meal and dishes in small rest home. Apply Miss Edith Cox, 120 Walmer Road, MI 8061.

OKEY's

"Hour of Dreams" has a new voice! Listen tonight at 10 o'clock.

LOST

Dark brown brief-case, initialled
"E.A.L.", vicinity Economics
Bldg. or Wymilwood. Phone
Elspeth Latimer, KI 2789.

Intermission Aquacade
The MODERNAIRES
DANCING 9 to 1

P.H.E. AT HOME

HART HOUSE

MARCH 1st.

TICKETS—2.50 per couple
From any Physical Ed.
SEMI-FORMAL

Jean Macdonald
Victoria College

Ladies and Gentlemen!

"The Queen"

Pardon us for bragging . . . but we knew her WHEN! We saw her first . . . and it was because we knew she was pretty royal stuff that she was an Eaton Junior Fashion Counsellor . . . way back "when" in HI-YEAR '43-'44.

NOW she's "Miss Varsity" . . . crowned queen of the campus with a "hep" rating made up of equal parts of sugar and spice and everything nice . . . with a flair for wisdom, which she ferrets at Varsity . . . with a flair for fun, which runs half-way to meet her . . . with a heart for causes (isn't this all for the International Student Service?) . . . and with an appreciation of clothes, and a fashion consciousness developed at Eaton's! No wonder we say "Yes, Sir . . . that's our Baby!"

P.S. This year, Miss Varsity is Jean Macdonald.

Last year, Miss Varsity was Joan Cameron.

The year before, Miss Varsity was Dana Duthie.

and all are former EATON'S Junior Fashion Counsellors.

EATON'S The Store for Young Canada

Prohibition No Answer Say Victoria Debaters

The resolution: "Resolved that this House approves of Prohibition as the best solution of the present appalling liquor situation in Ontario" was defeated by a vote of 40-16 in Victoria Debating Club, last night.

John McNie in upholding the argument contended that his opinion was not based on irrationality as previously reported by the opposition. He said: "Prohibition is the only way to solve this vexing problem." Prohibition is not dictatorial according to McNie but the essence of democracy, it is part of social legislation in that it protects weak and strong.

Russ Disney opposing the resolution said there was no justification for prohibition. "Prohibition caused bootlegging and smuggling." He noted that between 16-20 per cent of Ontario smuggling came from the tax on liquor.

Joan Thomas of the government stressed the fact that this grave social problem warranted strong action. She pointed out that 25 per cent of accidents in Ontario resulted from drunken driving. She also mentioned that P.E.I. had prohibition "Beer and bread are both made from grain but beer is not the staff of life."

Dorothy Spears, second speaker for the Opposition, said that prohibition was not a solution to the problem. She contended that opinion is always changing and "old wine cannot be poured into new bottles". She advocated nationalization of liquor and heavier taxation.

Speaker John Trueman, pinch-hitting for the regular speaker, had a restless audience to cope with.

Airman Meets Benefactor Who Helped Him to Escape

An inadequate answer to much wondering was the nonchalant "Hello there," directed at former Danish Resistance leader Ingvard Pedersen.

Reunited last night after more than a year's uncertainty of each other's welfare were Mr. Pedersen and Bill Parks, the crashed flier whose safety in Denmark was dependent upon Mr. Pedersen's underground-organizing ability.

Speaking at Ajax Sunday night, Mr. Pedersen wondered about the validity of the rumor that the young R.A.F. man ("I knew him only as Bill") was in the vicinity. He was startled to see, at the end of the lecture, this young civilian with the familiar face wander up and say calmly "Hello there."

Surrounded by questioning students, Mr. Pedersen was unable to clear his path to Bill; Bill was reluctant to take the speaker's time.

Bill vanished.

A plaintive plea in The Varsity yesterday—"..... wants very much to see him again. (His) name is Bill..... Will he please call....."—brought the student to Toronto from Ajax.

Ingvard Pedersen listened eagerly to all the little details of Bill's story. After the two separated in Denmark, Bill was taken by Underground fighters by train and taxi across most of Denmark to the coast, where he was carried half way by a Danish fishing boat, the other half by a Swedish fishing boat to Sweden—to safety.

"Once, after I left you, I was in the taxi with your friends when we were stopped by five Germans. They searched the car, checked all our identity cards.

"My identity card said I was a deaf-and-dumb broom maker....."

Year of Expansion Is Varsity Theme

"The Year of Expansion" will be the theme of the hundredth issue of The Varsity, to be published Friday, March 15, editor Hugh Kenner announced last night. Regular publication will continue until March 8, and the hundredth issue will appear after a week's breathing-spell.

The issue, expected to run to at least 16 pages, will mark the 65th anniversary of The Varsity and a prose-picture resume of the most crucial, most colorful year in University history. For students of 1945-46 it will be a permanent souvenir of the year of transition and expansion.

Included topics will be the opening of Ajax, the visit of General Eisenhower, the installation of President Smith, the bloodless capture of the campus by thousands of returned servicemen, and all the exciting features of the University's biggest and most significant season.

After a further ten-day break, it is planned to circulate The Varsity on the Ajax campus only until late in June, with a possibility of re-summing Toronto circulation in mid-April if summer-course enrolment warrants it.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 91 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Tuesday, February 26, 1946

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE PLANNED FOR VARSITY

 THREE CLUBS WILL SEEK ROCKEFELLER HELP ***

The International Student's Club has entered into correspondence with the Rockefeller Foundation to seek financial assistance for the construction of an International House on this campus.

According to I.S.C. President Thelma Kerr the building would serve not only as a co-educational residence but also as an international cultural center in which students from foreign countries could meet to exchange ideas and viewpoints.

In addition it would facilitate the amalgamation of all international clubs and remove the overlapping which now exists. It is understood that the I.S.C. is receiving the full co-operation of both the International Affairs Society and the International Students' Service.

International Houses already exist in Chicago, New York City, and Berkeley, California performing these functions. They are not restricted to university students and it is not expected that any similar organization here would be restricted to the campus.

The executive of the I.S.C. stated that they intend to proceed with their plans even if they are unable to obtain outside financial aid.

They feel that it would be possible to combine their project with the co-educational center being planned jointly by the Students' Administrative Council and the Alumni Federation.

Scholarships

Second term payments for University scholarships may now be obtained at the Bursar's Office, Simcoe Hall.

Co-Discoverer of Insulin Given Doctorate By Paris

Professor C. H. Best, head of the Department of Physiology and the Banting Institute, has been awarded the degree of Docteur de l'Université honoris causa at the annual convocation held at the Amphitheatre of the Sorbonne in Paris, France.

According to a statement by President Sidney Smith, the degree was awarded in absentia to Dr. Best who was unable to leave his duties at the University of Toronto. It is believed that he is the first Canadian to receive this honor.

The co-discoverer of insulin in the twenties with the late Sir Frederick Banting, who was killed in an airplane crash in Newfoundland in February, 1941. Dr. Best was awarded the degree as well for his work in physiological research which led to the discovery of the vitamin choline and the enzyme histaminase.

At the convocation ceremony attended by the President of France and members of his latest cabinet, similar honors were given to two British scientists, Sir Henry Dale, Past President of the Royal Society, and Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin. One scientist from each of Russia, the United States, Norway, Czechoslovakia, and two from Brazil also received the degree.

Criminologist Visits Varsity

Prof. Thorsten Sellin (pronounced Sel-leen), head of the Department of Sociology at the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, is visiting the University of Toronto this week, as the special guest of the Department of Sociology here. Prof. Sellin, one of the outstanding American experts in the field of criminology and penology, will give special lectures on crime for University of Toronto students, as well as address several luncheons and gatherings during his stay here.

The Varsity Sociology Club has arranged to have Prof. Sellin address their regular monthly meeting at Wymliwood this Wednesday evening, Bob Endlemann, President of the club, announced today. He will speak on the topic of "Problems of Crime in the Post-War World".

Owing to the wide general interest of this topic in these chaotic days of post-war reconstruction, and the specialist insights Prof. Sellin is able to bring to bear on these problems, the Sociology Club has decided to throw the meeting open to all those interested, and a large campus audience is expected.

Relief For The Germans Topic at S.C.M. Discussion

Readers, Remember!
Now It's Mi. 8742.

The Varsity's new day and night private line is MI 8742.

This phone is located in the old day office, Room 42-a University College, which is now in use until 11 p.m. nightly.

Business office, for the insertion of advertising, is still the S.A.C. Office, Hart House, MI 6221.

NOTICE

Applications for the Maurice Coady Research Fellowship for the coming session (with an outline of the research project selected by the candidate) must be submitted on or before March 1st to the Registrar of the University, from whom application forms may be obtained.

"Should relief be extended to Germany?" will be the topic at the University College S.C.M. open house Wednesday night. The World Committee of the S.C.M. who have been conducting this forum have been studying all aspects of the problem and are prepared to discuss both sides of the question.

The question of German food requirements will be dealt with. It is said that the minimum diet for a human being is 2000 calories daily while in Germany at the present time the individual is receiving 1350 calories.

One S.C.M. man recently said: "If we allow large numbers to perish from cold and starvation when their land is completely in our control, we are responsible for mass deaths (4,000 die each day in Berlin) as if we killed these people by more direct and violent means."

All students are invited to attend the S.C.M. open house and to take part in discussions involving the above matters. The meeting will take place in the Women's Union at 8:00 p.m.

Students In Nazi-Occupied Countries Fight Back Through Underground Press

By GEORGE LEGRIS

During the occupation of Denmark and Norway, a number of student weekly newspapers were printed and distributed regularly to underground resistance workers still in the schools. Operating under the name of "The Students' Information Service", the publishing service was under the direction of four undergraduate editors who somehow managed to squeeze this dangerous work into their study schedule.

This information was given by Ingvard Pedersen, leader of the Danish student resistance movement who spoke recently at Ajax and at Varsity under the auspices of the International Student Service.

Mr. Pedersen went on to explain how this novel news system worked. The four editors worked together in hiding-places, and only one of them knew the printer personally.

News was received by radio and other underground channels from Britain, and Sweden, a complete network of relays being built up in this way. Articles against the Nazi regime were written by foreign writers who smuggled their copy into the occupied countries or else by courageous students who worked under the noses of the Nazis.

The distribution of the papers, printed on duplicators or on bootleg presses, was done by mail, under cover, or else from hand to hand, despite the danger of discovery by occupation troops.

Not only were news-sheets printed, but also foreign books smuggled in from Great Britain, translated, and reprinted secretly for nation-wide distribution. Churchill's speeches were distributed in this way within a few days after they had been made.

Editorial offices, like those of The Varsity, were nomadic. Fear of capture by the Germans forced the underground pressmen to wander wherever they could find shelter and protection. Secret rooms, dark, badly-lighted garrets, barns and outages were all used in succession by the newspapermen who developed a completely mobile system of offices.

In order to find the paper required for the printing, the students relied on the assistance and generosity of established printing-houses which would demand an increased quota of newspaper. The excess quantity would be slipped out to the underground under the vigilant eyes of the Nazis.

Businessmen with allied sympathies gave assistance financially. Ink and printing machinery had to be found and this would have been almost impossible without the aid given cheerfully by all the citizens.

The German authorities were aware of the existence of the underground student newspapers because copies would frequently fall into their hands accidentally. They were never able to find the leaders of the movement, because all their friends and acquaintances protected one another. Attempts were twice made in Norway to capture the students responsible but without success, much to the joy of the students who kept up their work until the liberation of their countries.

Appoint Architect Fellow of R.A.I.C.

Prof. E. R. Arthur, Head of the School of Architecture in S.P.S., was made a Fellow of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada at the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Institute held in Quebec recently.

The R.A.I.C. is the parent body of various architectural associations in Canada, of which there is one in each province. Membership amounts to a total of 950, and for service to the profession a member may be honored by being made a Fellow of the Institute.

Prof. Arthur, editor of the Journal of the R.A.I.C. received the honor for service to the society.

ORGAN RECITAL

Dr. Healey Willan, University organist, will give a recital this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Convocation Hall. Students and staff are invited to attend.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI 8742

Business OfficeMI 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor...Peggy Bates, 476
 Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
 Ajax Editor...Mike McAuliffe
 Make-up Editor...Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
 News Editor...George Forster, 476
 Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 477
 Ajax...Pete Philippott
 Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
 Assistant...Reg Herman, 476
 Ajax...Cliff Dixon
 Sports Editor...Bredin Stapells, 476
 Assistant...Don Mason, 476
 Ajax...Ed. Caldwell
 Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor...Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant...Dorothy Harley, 476
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor...Phillip Freedman, 476
 Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477
 Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Tuesday, February 26, 1946

That Pass Question

The perennial Pass Arts question which has been smoldering in our correspondence columns since last December, reached its annual climax with the recent U.C. debaters' denial that the Pass Arts Course is the Tombstone of our Civilization.

The obvious evaluation of any course for any student is that it depends what he comes to college for. If he comes for an education, and if, as we have assumed all year, education is the preparation of the student for what he is to do and for what he is to be, the problem begins to solve itself along unexpected lines. For there is a sense in which the narrowest course is the broadest.

The Arts student is generally little concerned with preparation for what he is to do. Arts courses prepare students chiefly for academic work, and anyone determined despite all prayers and entreaties to become a professor will have decided upon his line of work and can be trusted to enrol in the appropriate Honor course without help from us or anyone else.

Excluding, then, academic apprentices, one may say that the backbone of Arts registration is the body of students who are more concerned with becoming mature, intelligent, responsible citizens and human beings than with preparing themselves, just at present, for any specific kind of work.

Now there is a sense in which what we study is less important than the discipline we undergo in studying it. There is a sense in which it is less valuable to trace the growth of the English Romantic Movement than to understand that men's thought is susceptible to currents of opinion that can be traced. There is a sense in which it is less important to marshal the evidence on the culpability of James the Second than to understand that true historical judgments, like all judgments, require that the evidence be marshalled.

Now in that sense, in the sense that method is apt to be more educative than content, it is obviously an advantage to study one subject thoroughly. In that sense the argument that what artsmen seek is a "broadening" course turns and rends its pro-pass proponents.

It is better to study one subject thoroughly because, paradoxically, one puts in that way less emphasis on the subjects and their uses. If at the prospect of many alluring options the student crams his time-table with Architecture and Paleontology and Chaucer and Freud and Geranium-growing, he may become prey to the fatal delusion that he has come to university to learn those subjects, and hence the more of them he learns the better.

The Honor professor on the contrary says, or should say, not that his subject matters terribly but that it does not matter at all: except for specialists with an eye on professorships. Dwelling for four years on any study from pork to pyrotechnics, he will inculcate the great truths, or some sense of those truths, because they are implicit in any subject.

In other words, if we keep changing subjects, we may come to think that we are concerned with subjects, as we should not be, because not having time to study them thoroughly anyway we may emerge with nothing more educative than a smattering of ignorance.

Method and proportion in a four-year course are more important than matter, or at least as important. When you are in a hurry the outline is everything. When you have to model a statue of Apollo against time, you will be more concerned to give it the outline of Apollo than to debate clay vs bronze as the more fitting material. And you will certainly not make it of six materials indiscriminately.

We do not pretend that this insistence on method rather than content is the upshot of Honor courses; we do claim, what is more important, that it is their theory, their guiding idea. If Honor professors are enlightened enough to deprecate the importance of the subject in which they urge specialization, if they are wise enough to perceive the paradox they preach, the Honor course is infinitely educative.

— W. H. K.

"J.J. and Sam"

Characters:-

J. J. Funguli:-

Job:- Dont be silly!

Income:- Estate of late father who made 18 million dollars scalping tickets for Athletic Night.

Awards:- I:- Holds worlds record for the greatest number of consecutive "lost week ends" from the American Legion Convention 1928 to the American Legion Convention 1929. II:- Seagram's "Man of the Year" 1933.

Sam:-

Nominal Occupation:- J.J.'s man.

Character:- What a !

Duties:- Negligible.

Hobbies:- None.

Profession:- Drunkard.

Reason for employment:- J.J. "He is the one man I can be sure will never join the Temperance Movement."

CHAPTER II—"THE STRANGE CASE OF G. V. McFOSTER"

"Sam" said J.J., "do you remember George?" Sam opened one eye, rolled over on the floor closer to where J.J. had fallen and spoke in a low grating voice, "Yes Sir, he's the secretary of the 'Ale & Quail'."

Both parties after this brilliant exchange of words passed out and we continue the conversation ten hours later.

"Well Sam", J.J. mumbled, "George's doctor says if he doesn't give up the bottle he has only three weeks to live."

"What a lovely way to die" gurgled Sam in ecstasy.

"Yes" replied J.J. "but the point is George has only 4 weeks to go to make up 53 consecutive "lost week-ends" and set a new worlds record for the everlasting glory of the "Ale & Quail".

"Oh" said Sam at last grasping the real seriousness of the problem.

"Have you a solution" queried J.J.

"A solution! Why right here" cried Sam springing to his feet and rushing to the nearest portable bar and downing in rapid succession seven cases of O'Beef's Old Austria Ale and a coke for a chaser.

"No No", J.J. interrupted, "I mean a solution for George's problem."

Sam's eyes gleamed with a strange ethereal light and lowering himself gently up and down by his legs from the nearest chandelier he spoke in a strange oracle-like manner. "The solution to George's problem is simple. Let him drink himself to death in three weeks and for the fourth week we will keep his body in alcohol; thus he will have been pickled for 53 consecutive week-ends."

"Magnificent" said J.J. hopping violently around stamping on his collection of W.C.T.U. pamphlets.

"Nothing unusual" said Sam dropping gently from the chandelier and breaking three vertebrae from his spinal column, "merely ale-y-metary my dear J.J. merely ale-y-metary."

"The Rook"

McGill Campaigns For Memorial Rink

Montreal, Feb. 21.—(CUP)—$100,000 for the construction of an addition to the Currie gymnasium in the form of a hockey rink is the goal of the McGill War Memorial Campaign to be renewed for one week starting February 23. According to campaign chairman J. Dixon this will supplement the $400,000 raised last year to complete the gymnasium built in 1939 as a result of the efforts of the Graduates' Society and to build a swimming pool and memorial hall as a "living memorial" to all McGill men who fell in the second great war. Work on the swimming pool and memorial hall has had to be curtailed owing to construction problems.

Plans for the new campaign include contacting McGill grads all over the world as well as students at McGill.

Probably a similar procedure will be followed as that in last year's campaign when students were asked to sign pledges up to $10 which were fulfilled in two installments covering one session or more, along with regular payment of tuition fees.

LIGHT UP AND Play

When it's time out for fun and games Sweet Caps just naturally join the party for smoking enjoyment.

Bank on a Sweet Cap for satisfaction — anytime! And when you tune in

"LIGHT UP AND LISTEN" WITH

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES

Station CKEY — CJBC
9.30 p.m.—Every Thursday Night

Hours: 9.30 to 5.30 including Saturday

Fairweather on Yonge

Suits Make Spring

and we have such a beautiful collection in our Fashion Salon THIRD FLOOR and also a smart casual collection in our Sportswear MAIN FLOOR

NO BRANCH STORES

FAIRWEATHER Limited ★ 88-90 Yonge (at King)

University Symphony Orchestra

Full Rehearsal TONIGHT 7.30 SHARP

CONVOCAION HALL

The Orchestra is urgently requested to come at 7.20, in order to be in their seats and ready to start at 7.30.

Hart House Bulletin Board

Annual Night on Colour Photography

The annual night on colour photography featuring coloured slides and movies will be held in the music room of Hart House at 7.45 p.m. tonight. Mr. Fred Moffatt, commercial artist and photographer, will lead an informal discussion on colour photography. All members of Hart House are invited.

Press Skulegirl Campaign For Hart House Facilities

Letter Follows Petition

(To the President has gone a letter, printed below, summarizing the stand taken by the women engineers in their campaign for permission to attend engineering meetings held in Hart House.

This follows on the heels of a petition circulated among Hart House members for endorsement of this campaign. The results have not as yet been tabulated.

An interview between the writer of the letter and Mr. Bickersteth, the Warden, is reported as "to no avail.")

The letter:

"Dear Sir:

I respectfully direct your attention to the current campus issue of women students in engineering being denied the benefit of extra-curricular lectures on engineering topics.

A glance at the 1944-45 examinations results will assure you that the scholastic achievements of these young ladies demand that these injustices be corrected. There was no failure among the female registration. Miss P. Synge, a graduate in Architecture received the gold medal in Architecture; the highest ranking student in second year Chemical Engineering was a young lady, Miss C. Allum Poon; Miss Beverly Meredith earned honour standing and ranked third in Second Year Electrical Engineering. Is it fair to bar these girls from lectures on topics of keen importance to them and their future careers?

"Granted that conditions existing at present must be remedied, various proposals have been made:

(1) To hold all engineering meetings outside of Hart House.

(2) To support the proposal of a Co-educational Establishment on this campus.

(3) To go through the necessary formalities of making Hart House a co-educational institution.

(4) To so modify the interpretation of the Hart House Charter to admit women students to engineering lectures.

"Unfortunately, the engineering students have no place even remotely resembling a common-room where their meetings could be held, and the added expense makes rental of a hall out of the question. Also what purpose does Hart House serve, if its regulations are such as to encourage students to meet elsewhere?

"There is certainly a definite need on this campus for a co-educational building and the women engineers, in common with a large majority of the undergraduates are backing its proposed erection. But we feel that our needs demand some immediate, if only temporary, action.

"The S.A.C. have discussed this matter and have passed a "Resolution to draft a letter to the Hon. Vincent Massey protesting a stringent enforcement of the Hart House 'no women' rule."

"I sincerely hope that I have succeeded in pointing out to you the necessity for some definite and immediate action being taken, and I feel confident that you will, as president of the University, do everything in your power to see that these injustices are remedied.

Yours sincerely"

(MISS DORMER ELLIS).

Enclosing several copies of the circulated petition, the letter was sent as representative of the S.P.S. Women's Committee of Misses Dormer Ellis, III Engineering Physics and Beverly Meredith, III Electrical Engineering; Mrs. Laina Garriock, III Chemical Engineering, and Mrs. Sheila Rounthwaite, IV Architecture. The committee suggested a presidential interview.

Radio

Dr. Willan's Opera

The first full-length opera to take its place in the literature of Canadian music will shortly be given its premiere in a special radio presentation by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The opera is "Deirdre of the Sorrows," by Healey Willan, with libretto by John Coulter, a work especially commissioned by the CBC for broadcast performance. It is to be staged for a coast-to-coast listening audience over the CBC Trans-Canada network on the Saturday afternoon following the conclusion of the Metropolitan Opera matinee broadcasts early in April. Ettore Mazzoleni, associate conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the performance, in which leading Canadian soloists will sing the principal roles. Albert Whitehead is the opera's chorus-master.

John Coulter and Healey Willan were commissioned to write the opera in November, 1943. It was they who earlier wrote and composed the short radio opera, "Tram-It Through Fire," which was also commissioned by the CBC and which has since been broadcast several times. In "Deirdre of the Sorrows," they retell the ancient Irish legend of the love of Deirdre and Niall and of the tragedy that befell them through Conchobair's love for Deirdre. The libretto has already been published in book form by Macmillans of Canada.

The scene of the opera is set in Ulster and on the coast of Scotland. There Deirdre and those who loved her lived out their lives in accord with the fateful Druid prophecy. As one of the principal tales of the heroic cycle, "Tales of the Red Branch Knights of Ulster," the Deirdre legend has a particular meaning for the opera's poet-author, for he was born in Ulster and spent his boyhood among the hills and woods where Conchobair ruled his kingdom. Since coming to Canada in 1936, John Coulter has become one of the leading literary figures in the Dominion.

Healey Willan, dean of Canadian composers, also looks to Ireland as the home of his forebears. In the music of his opera he has recreated the Celtic spirit that flows in his blood and in the blood of thousands of Canadians who know of the Emerald Isle only by story.

The dramatic centre of the opera, the town of Aran Macha (now Armagh) where Conchobair maintained his palace, is but a few miles distant from the paternal estate of Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander who arrives in Ottawa in April to become Canada's Governor-General.

Ernest Morgan of the CBC production staff, Toronto, will be in charge of the broadcast.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 91 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Tuesday, February 26, 1946

Baby-Kissing Still Questionable For Hart House Election Campaign

King of Queen's Named At Kingston

Kingston, Feb. 22.—(CUP)—Crowned "King of Queen's" recently in a masculine Queen's University beauty contest was Stuart Burns Laird of Essex County, Ontario. The 19-year-old ex-army winner placed ahead of four runners-up.

Said King Laird—"I was extremely surprised at being nominated. I didn't quite realize the effectiveness of the appeal until I was mobbed by a group of Queen's loveliest co-eds on Tuesday at Grant's Hall. My cup was filled to overflowing to-day when at the downtown annex of the Union, my success at the polls was announced. However I think that things are going too far when my already busy days are made even more disorganized by clubs such as that recently organized under the name of the "Burning For Burns" Club.

And now for the message you wanted.... I sincerely hope to meet as many as possible of my loyal subjects, and most particularly the pretenders to my crown at the Coronation Ceremony, at Club '50 on Friday night."

Trailer Village Replaces Houses

Morgantown, W. Va.—(Exchange)—One hundred and fifty trailers, each including furniture, oil and heating stoves, refrigerators, and equipped with modern bathrooms have been allotted to the University of West Virginia to ease the housing situation.

These trailers, expected to be completed within a month, will be situated on State property near the University Demonstration High School. Rent will be set by the University officials and approved by federal authorities. The trailers will be of a size to accommodate a man and wife, one or two children.

The job of building a main sewer, an access road, and sidewalks in the area has been assigned to a local firm. Each trailer will be wired with electricity but families will have to provide themselves with water from a nearby supply centre. Laundries will operate on a community basis.

V.D. is Symptom Of Social Upsets

"I don't think that venereal diseases are essentially medical problems," declared Dr. Gordon Bates, Director of the Special Treatment Clinic of the Toronto General Hospital, who will give the concluding lecture in the public health series in the north theatre of the Medical Building at 5:10 p.m. this afternoon.

"Because the social and moral problems have not been solved we have venereal disease as a symptom. As long as it is treated solely as a medical problem, we will always have V.D."

General Director of the Health League of Canada, which housed the transient Varsity staff during their search for an office this winter, Dr. Bates will speak to all students on "V.D., the Medical Symptom of a Social Problem."

Lectures in this series are open to all students on the campus, free of charge.

Kingston — The Editor's Mailbox of the Feb. 22 Queen's Journal contained a letter from Oliver Makl, Engineering I, offering to catch the live bear which Queen's has been seeking as official university mascot. Replying to the Students' Council request, the Engineering student claims he has caught six bear cubs in the past ten years and thinks he can catch one for Queen's in April or May.

Find Old Enthusiasm

Nominations for the forthcoming Hart House Elections, one of the principal annual events of University-wide interest, will close this coming Wednesday Feb. 27, at 6 p.m. "This year" said Mr. H. J. A. Brown, Graduates' Secretary, "should find the old enthusiasm revived as in days of yore before the war."

Last year, from a total of 103 candidates, 90 were elected to the various committees. The 1257 students that voted represented 40% of the Hart House membership, and this was the largest number since 1939. Engineers led the voting with 465, followed by U.C. with 203. Meds. with 199, Vic. with 118 and Dents. with 92.

S.P.S. had at least two members on each of the major committees, on which Meds. and Vic. were represented by one, while U.C. saw action in all but the Library. "To secure membership on all committees colleges and faculties should limit the number of nominated candidates, and then support them with as large a vote as possible," advises Mr. Brown.

Eight members will be elected to each of the major committees which include the House, Library, Music, Art, and Debates Committees, and five members to both the Camera and Squash Committees. Forms are available in the Warden's Office.

Posters no larger than 24" by 36" may adorn the halls in Hart House, and while a maximum of $5.00 may be paid out for individual campaigning, hand-bills and blotters are a few suggestions. But passing out cigars is strictly taboo, along with chocolate bars, chewing-gum, Ford cars, and etc. Baby-kissing is still questionable.

Fire!... Where?

The firemen having rushed to the scene with two hose and one ladder car, not including the chief's car, pushed the door of the girls' Delta Delta Delta frat open and were greeted by anxious females who wanted to know where the fire was.

"The chief was really very nice about the false alarm. We think that it must have been some Frat man who paid us the compliment," said the girls. "He took our 'phone number, just in case he had to call again."

"On hearing the fire-engines, we all leaned out the window, as did everybody else along the street," said Muriel Smart. "Then when the cars stopped in front of our house, we all looked at each other and wanted to find the fire. I rushed to open the door, but alas... no fire."

Beaton And Stephenson Win S.A.C. Honor Awards

Miss Dorcas Beaton, a medical graduate at last Friday's convocation, who received one of the S.A.C. awards.

Honor Awards of the Students' Administrative Council went to Dorcas Beaton (pictured here) and Murray Stephenson, members of the graduating class in Medicine, last Friday.

The awards, consisting of a gold key and a scroll, are presented annually by the S.A.C. to graduating students who have distinguished themselves in University, as distinguished from college, student activities.

For the thirty-odd awards to be presented at the June convocation, each college and faculty sends its nominations to an S.A.C. Committee which examines the qualifications of nominees and prepares an award list.

Stephenson in his final year was President of the Medical Society; Miss Beaton held the corresponding post of President of the Medical Women's Undergraduate Association.

Stephenson was also president of the Medical Society at his former alma mater, the University of New Brunswick.

Post Graduate Studies Vic. Group's Next Topic

In the Victoria College Vocation-Guidance series, Post Graduate Studies is the topic for discussion on Tuesday at 5 p.m. in Room 18. This group is to be led by Dean Bennett, a Vic. Graduate of 1915 in Classics. After service in the First Great War, Dr. Bennett did Post Graduate Work at the University of Chicago, followed by an appointment to the University of Wisconsin. In 1932, he returned to Victoria to become Professor of Latin.

Through his varied academic experience and his experience in Victoria as both Registrar and Dean,

Dr. Bennett is well fitted to advise students on requirements and openings for Post Graduate Study. Dean A. C. Lewis of the Ontario College of Education, a Victoria graduate of 1915, will lead the group on teaching on Thursday at 5 p.m. After war experience, Dean Lewis did graduate work at the University of Toronto. For a time he was principal of East York Collegiate Institute, then Headmaster of U.T.S. followed by his appointment as Dean of Education. Dean Lewis is recognized as one of the top men in the country in the field of education.

Cinemarathon

SEVENTH VEIL at the Victoria and Eglinton, 85%. The British Government has a special commission investigating a means of breaking the monopoly held on British films by J. Artie Rank, tycoon extraordinaire. However, if Artie continues to turn out pictures like the recent Madonna of the Seven Moons, now Seventh Veil and soon-to-be-shown Shaw's Antony and Cleopatra the Government boys have tough competition on their hands.

Seventh Veil is a top-notch picture with an exceptionally interesting story, excellent acting, good direction and beautiful music. The story is the psychoanalysis of a concert pianist (Ann Todd) who thinks she can never play again because of a slight hand-burn that occurred in an accident while she was eloping—without benefit of clergy, of course. The psychiatry is handled perfectly, professionally true-to-life, and so all the more fascinating.

Outstanding actors are Miss Todd and the doctor, but James Mason dominates every scene in which he appears, even when all he does is sit with his back to the audience and growl "Come here." But his character is just a little too harsh at the beginning, probably because he neglected his Cod Liver pills for a few days.

The photography is still inferior to Hollywood's, too much grey and not enough black-and-white. And perhaps you'll dislike the type they cast as the American band-leader as much as I did.

SCARLET STREET at the Uptown, 40%. This is Hollywood's idea of being really risqué, boy oh boy! Sex in the Raw and definitely not recommended for junior and bed-room scenes galore. Nuts!

However, if you weren't satiated by the typical co-ed contest, the drop into the Uptown and the "Lazy-Legs" Joan Bennett husky murmur "Joohhhhhnnnnnyyyy" to her gallant lover, Dan Duryea. And as a lover Johnny has quite a technique—you know, the biff-bang-swoot Hollywood variety where the girl begs for more—but as an actor Dan Duryea is my idea of how to carefully avoid delivering an effective line in an entire motion picture.

Edward G. Robinson as the doddering casanova is pretty well perfect, if you like doddering casanovas. Joan Bennett definitely knows how to use her Personality. But this is the second picture with these three characters and if the third is any worse than this one I'm glad I won't be writing Cinemarathons next year.

WONDER MAN at the Imperial, 80%. Everybody's comparing this picture with Danny Kaye's first, his Up In Arms. That's unfair because a comedian's first picture always has the advantage of freshness and no second picture could be as funny as the first except in a case like Chaplin's, who kept a period of about five years between each of his big movies.

However, Kaye is still sensationally funny, from the first moment he appears as a happy-go-lucky night-club entertainer to the final scene on his brother's wedding night. The story is about super-identical twins, the night-club Danny getting bumped off and as a ghost using the body of the bookworm Danny to get revenge.

Vera-Ellen, as the night-club Danny's ghoul-friend, is a very cute reason to go into the night-club business, and also dances. All for the Goldwyn girls, I wonder what Goldwyn has that the University of Toronto hasn't?

This is the kind of picture Hollywood should turn out more of, a delightful evening's entertainment threatened.

"In English," I confirmed.

"I believe . . ."

"Yes?"

"I believe a woman's natural function is creative in the most profound sense. Agree?"

"For the sake of the argument, yes."

"A Pass Arts Course is the nearest thing to a survey course. . ."

"What's that?"

"A synthetic . . . integration of everything. An education directed at lifting you above the complex world around you, high enough to provide some kind of bird's eye view, perspective . . . well, idea of the pattern."

"So what?"

"So if I knew my son was going to be a chemist, I'd learn enough chemistry to be able to guide him. But I don't know. And if the world isn't going to be filled with confused, misled, disillusioned dual personalities, crying for psychopathologists, and if there are going to be better citizens, intelligent mothers have a job to do. If I'm going to guide someone else up, I'll have to be sitting higher myself. What do you propose a future wife ought to learn? Civil engineering, vivisection or how to split atoms?"

"I . . ."

"And just what is so degrading about home making. So preposterous. And what's so important about Yvonne de Carlo to pay her whatever she's getting? The environment of a happy modern housewife is conducive to the fullest creative life. Proof is easy enough to find."

"In that most babies nowadays are being had by women!" (I said that.)

And Peggy said, "You make me sick."

"I'm sorry," I amended, "What's the proof?"

"Outside of Hugh McLennan, who got mixed among the women by accident."

(Continued on Page 8)

THE VARSITY EDITOR-IN-CHIEF 1946-47

Applications for the above position will be received by the Associate Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council in Room 82, University College, up to 12 noon, Monday, March 4th.

Associate Secretary,
Students' Administrative Council,
A. E. M. Parkes.

TORONTONENSIS 1947

Applications for Editor of Torontonensis will be received by the Associate Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council in Room 82, University College, up to 12 noon, Monday, March 4th.

Associate Secretary,
Students' Administrative Council,
A. E. M. Parkes.

Vignette

Peggy Said No

A trio of honeyed blondes were loitering around the front of the library when I passed on my way to the Skule. I recognized one of the flowers and said, "Hello Peggy-the-Figure-Grable!"

Peggy made a gesture and said, "Kids, meet Morbid!" to the other two. I scowled my best and asked for confirmation of the rumour which had it that Peggy said No to Anita Colby who, as if everybody didn't know, was on the Campus last week advertising Selznick's "Spellbound" and, incidentally, scouting for another Jennifer Jones.

Peg is a misty, blue eyed, wheat straw blonde, lithe and lazily, contemptuously, tantalizingly, deceitfully, to get to the point, languid. She's a type producers cast for wow-reporters. I add to all that my smattering of camera-photography prompts me to hazard that Peggy's photogenic too; at any rate it would take a prejudiced camera to discover a hard line in her features. In short, Peggy's got that indomitable something with which she can get into Pop's trousers and the Professor's hat and still look attractive. What I said, way back there, was,

"I understand The Face asked if you'd like to take a screen test and you said No."

"That's right."

"No! . . . You mean . . ." I stumbled and one of the other sweet things promptly squealed, "The man's getting panicky!"

"It's just impossible for you to conceive of anything in skirts which could possibly not want to change places with Grable, isn't it!" Peggy commiserated.

"Well . . ." I hedged, "No more impossible than to conceive of anything more attractive than a Pass Arts Course is going to get you."

"You wouldn't begrudge a girl an education, would you now?"

"That's not the point. And quit asking all the questions. I don't begrudge anybody anything. And anyway, what's the difference; it only leads to marriage."

"Only to marriage!" Peggy was getting as mad as a hornet—and fascinating. "Would it appall you if I told you I was getting educated to be a wife?"

"I'm appalled whenever any attractive girl starts trying to talk sense."

"That's it. That's just it! Being sensible, just plain, ordinary sensible is not living up to a modern man's expectations of a girl. And if you don't live up to expectations, you're a flat failure. You're just the kind of fellow who has decided in his divine wisdom that all women are dumb Doras and the minute you discover that brains happen to go with the swell legs you've been trailing and the . . . the . . ."

"And the?" I prompted. ". . . you run. You drop her because you're afraid your inflated ego couldn't take it."

"Allright, tigress," I compromised, "Be sensible. As sensible as a can opener. I'll stand here and listen if it kills me. I meekly asked what there was about an arts course that was more important than taking a chance on stardom. What's the theory?"

"You're asking for it . . ." Peggy

THE CAMPUS EVENT YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR 2 NITES ONLY—CONVOCATION HALL Wed. & Thurs., March 6 & 7

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESENTS FIRST EDITION

All-Varsity Revue

Featuring

Whitey Belshaw and his Sensational 16-pc. Orchestra and the best from:—

- SCHOOL NITE
- U.C. FOLLIES
- DAFFYDIL NITE
- DENTANTICS
- VIC BOB
- TRINITY

Including Those Top Comics

ALEC SIEGEL AND DON HARRON

Tickets Now on Sale $1.00 per person

12-2 P.M. in all College and Faculty Rotundas and Hart House Rotunda. Get yours now and avoid disappointment.

Entirely In Aid of International Student Service

A Year's Entertainment In One Show

Are You Interested In Hart House? If You Are, Why Not Stand For Election To One Of The Committees?

CURC, The Voice of Columbia U, Began on Shoe-String and Pipe-Line

(The author of this article is a 3T9 graduate of the University of Toronto. Since graduation connected with the radio industry as an announcer, actor and writer and in the R.C.A.F. Public Relations, he is currently taking post-graduate studies at Columbia U. and N.B.C. in radio, directing and television production. His article on Columbia's campus station is written for The Varsity as a challenge to its readers.)

By Hal Lawrence

"This is CURC, the voice of Columbia University". With this simple statement, broadcast over a pipe-line campus hookup, began the career of an ambitious college station. The time was February, 1941, the place—Morningside Heights, New York.

Once a part-time activity of W2AEE, Columbia's name station, the original broadcast plant consisted of one microphone and one turntable in John Jay Hall, a Columbia Administration Building. Guided by three undergraduates, William Hutchins, Martin Scheiner, and Carl Carlson, the cub station was tenderly moved to more private quarters in a narrow corridor in Hamilton Annex, and broadcasts were begun to all the college dormitories using the central-heating pipe-line as a transmitter in February 1941. The station has always been manned entirely by students. The Federal Communications Commission classes CURC as a "record oscillator" rather than a radio station.

At the outset it must be explained that this unusual station has a very weak transmitter, and can only reach buildings on the campus. However, the fact that the students are really listening to their radiators and not their radios does not disturb them. In fact, the radio station helps a great deal to liven up the quiet dormitories with spirited debates, and a variety of broadcasts ranging from "Meet the Professor", "Interfaith Discussions", all the way to drama and transcribed symphony music.

Laboring under difficulties during the war years, CURC has maintained a mature and vigorous outlook. Although it is really a war-baby, the station has been able to expand its plant, program and services.

Shortly after its move to Hamilton Annex in 1941, the station set up transmission to Fernald Hall, a men's dormitory and, more important, across the streetcar tracks of Broadway to Barnard College and its dormitories. This move was hailed with much gusto by the co-eds, who promptly began to take an active interest in the station's activities. There followed days on which the station was run entirely by the women, flurries of scripts, debates, and lusty yells of "Bloomer Days are Here Again!"

Coming in at 600 Kilocycles on the dial, the campus station broadcasts from 8 p.m. to midnight from Monday to Friday each week during the Academic year. There was a time late in 1941 when CURC attempted a 16 hour daily schedule by linking up with the New York frequency modulation station, W7INY, but this venture was destined to be short-lived. Subsequently a short broadcast period of from 7.30 to 9 a.m. was introduced in order to offer the students a morning service that would supplement the evening schedule.

This period featured symphonic music, campus & world news, and live music. With the entry of the United States into the war, a large influx of Navy personnel invaded the campus, and the early morning broadcast period was turned over to the Navy. This practice still exists today.

The traditional rivalry between radio and the press has found good-natured expression at Columbia. CURC and the Spectator have formed rival baseball, football & debates teams, and they have had some very spirited games & debates in past seasons. This past year, undaunted by many earlier defeats, the Spectator once again challenged the radio men to an encounter on the diamond, and true

(Continued on Page 7)

C.U.P.

National News

Western Medsmen Extend Prep Course

London, Feb. 25.—(CUP)—Western is preparing to extend their general course in Medicine from

C.U.P. Flashes

Ottawa—Debating on the topic "Est-ce que la situation actuelle du Canada au point de vue moral social politique et économique est satisfaisante", The University of Ottawa Debating Team won the French Inter-University Debating Society Villeneuve Trophy last week. Three universities, Laval, Montreal and Ottawa were entered in the competition.

Vancouver, Feb. 16.—(CUP)—U.B.C.'s drive to finance a war memorial gymnasium reached Time magazine in a two page spread last week. Time's education section gave a history of the University, pictures, and an editorial giving special prominence to the gymnasium campaign.

During the week $2,000 was collected, through parades, dances, and collections taken in crowds, at one of which a member of the Joker Club threatened to jump off a roof unless the crowd contributed to the fund.

Homecoming U.B.C.'ers are carrying a pamphlet and sticker campaign to Victoria College asking their support for the drive.

Montreal—After an intensive three week search for the campus body beautiful, the Directors of McGill's Red and White Review announce that they have at last found the right coed. Billed as "The Shape", the coed's name is being withheld as part of the publicity campaign and as a precautionary measure to offset the wolves who might want to elope with her.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacleware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Never Abandon Plans Engineers are Advised

"How to achieve success irrespective of your ambitions". Mr. John Webb, self-described "editor of numerous outstanding biographical publications and interviewer of more than eight hundred outstanding personalities of our time," proposed a formula and two hundred engineers,—judging by their applause after the Thursday afternoon speech—thought it was good. Mr. Webb is apparently making something of a Dale-Carnegie-How-To-Influence-People stir across the country.

Mixing with the strata of people you wish to succeed among is, scientifically and resolutely pursued, "the infallible road to success". Mr. Webb maintained. To prove it he went through the case histories of Rockefeller, Hungerford, Carnegie and others who started from the station of railroad hand or two dollar a week labourer and climbed to dazzling pinnacles.

Don't abandon what you are doing to tread the hard and bitter road to greatness. Drawing on his African experiences, Mr. Webb said, "a crocodile on land can be handled by a child. But with its tail in the water, that creature can overcome and draw in an animal much more powerful than itself." Make of your present job your provider of bread and butter, a base of operations from which you can mingle with the people to whose station you wish to rise.

Success is a man with a plan. Witness Sir Kingsley Wood, the Hon. Herbert Morrison, Ernest Bevin. "Make a plan and start acting on it. Don't dream and brood over it. Act and if the plan is stupid, you'll soon find out and improve it."

Connecticut Campus Revives Radio Review

Storrs, Connecticut, Feb. 19.—(Exchange)—Plans for the revival of broadcasts early in March by the Husky Network were revealed by Daniel Harris and Alan Campbell, Station managers of the student-operated radio station that last functioned on the Connecticut campus prior to 1943. Operations were discontinued owing to personnel depletions by the Armed Forces.

Programs will once again reach every dormitory and house at the university when rehabilitation of equipment is completed, and the present dearth of program technicians, program managers, and staff announcers is remedied.

University Symphony Orchestra

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council
Will Present

A SECOND CONCERT

—at—

CONVOCAION HALL

Wednesday Evening, February 27th

ELEANOR TAIT
GUEST ARTISTE

HANS GRUBER
Conductor

DREW

OPEN MEETING

of the

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CLUB

...

"Strengthening Dominion-Provincial Relations"

...

WOMEN'S UNION

...

8.00 p.m.

Thurs., March 7th.

DREW

Neilson's

VERY SATISFYING

VERY NOURISHING

8445U

Nominations For

Hart House Committees Close To-morrow At 6 p.m.!

Is Your College or Faculty Represented?

Dozen Teams Will Compete In Major Hoop Playoffs

Intramural Major Basketball heads down the home stretch this week as play-offs commence this Wednesday and continue until March 8 when the final two out of three series will be held. Contests leading up to the finals will be "sudden-death" with a total of twelve teams competing.

The play-off positions are settled except for two which will be determined in games this afternoon. By virtue of their high standing in the higher groups, Sr. SPS, Jr. U.C. A. Jr. SPS and Pre-Med. A all receive byes into the quarter-finals. Champions of Group I and class of the league this year are Senior SPS whose only black mark in eight games is a tie with P.H.E. I (last the running this year. Tredgett, Wilson, Hamm and Hallowell are the "scoresome foursome", whose sharp-shooting has boosted the Engineers to the top. Jr. U.C. A. and Sr. Vic. are the remaining teams of Group I which have made the charmed circle.

Toughest rivals of the Sr. Schoolmen in play-off competition will probably be their little (?) brothers of Jr. SPS and Jr. Vic who completed regular play docketed with five wins and one loss apiece.

The Group II champs inflicted that single loss on each other, and cage-men such as Meschino and McReynolds for School, and Topp and Drummond for Victoria will be year's champs) who finished out of

Sport In Short

FRIDAY, FEB. 22
Basketball—Major
St. M. B. 29	Vic. III 26
Dent. B. 28	Trin. B. 18
Minor
For. E. 26	I Elec. 25
Hockey
Bus. Adm. 6	U.C. III 2
Dent. A. 8	SPS III 2
Vic. I. 2	U.C. I 1
Water Polo
Jr. SPS. 10	Sr. Med. B. 2
SATURDAY, FEB. 23
Basketball—Minor
Vic. XI. 43	Wyc. B. 5
MONDAY, Feb. 25
Basketball—Major
St. M. B. 33	Trin. B. 19
Minor
III Mining. 36	Trin. III. 20
For. C. defaulted to III Aero.
Water Polo
SPS III defaulted to P.H.E.

fighting to renew that rivalry in the crucial series.

Groups III, IV, and VII are topped by the undefeated Pre-Med A, Trin. A and SPS V respectively. Trin. A demonstrated the class of these lower groups when they so handily drubbed the Ajax team in a recent exhibition game.

Other teams billed to enter the elimination rounds include For. A, Dent. A, and the winners of the aforementioned group play-offs. Competition will be wide open but keep your eyes on SPS and Vic who both send three good teams into the twelve-team competitions.

Queen's Lose 36-20 To McGill Cagers

On Saturday night, McGill Redmen downed the hapless Queen's basketballers by a score of 36-20. Hale Greenburg, McGill forward, was the star of the contest, which was witnessed by a large crowd in Montreal.

The Redmen were much superior in their passing, but the shooting of both teams was erratic, with Queen's finding it difficult to work the ball in under the McGill basket. First half score was 17-14.

The Montreal boys' lead was never threatened, and they were content to match Queen's basket for basket, relying on their superior basket-getting to keep ahead.

Dave Greenburg got 11 points to top the Redmen's scoring, while Bill Devitt, Queen's forward, netted 12 points, to head all players.

This win puts McGill solidly in the third slot of the Intercollegiate Basketball race, and gives them a chance to tie the Varsity for the second spot.

U.W.O. Beats Wayne

On Friday night, Western Mustangs defeated Wayne Basketballers, 51-30, in an exhibition match played in London.

"Moose" McNair and Curry starred for Western, while Jackson and Abe Parness were the pick of the losers. The Detroit team trailed by only 10 points at half time, the score standing at 29-19, but the powerful Mustang machine forged ahead in the last half.

Western: Phibbs (9); McNair (9); Scorgie (14); Curry (12); Gauld (2); Farley (5).

Wayne: Parness (10); Friedman (3); Torres (4); Jackson (4); Kay (4); Alexander (2); Arnold (3).

Sask. Beaten By Bears

The first two in a series of four hockey games for possession of the Halpenny Trophy, were played in Edmonton on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The University of Alberta Bears defeated the U. of Saskatchewan Huskies 7-5, in the first game, 5-3 in the second.

The return and final game will be staged in Saskatoon on March 1st and 2nd. Although they lost both games, the Huskies were hampered by the loss of star Max McNabb who broke his wrist in the first game.

Ajax Sports

Basketball
724A defeated 738	— default
730B defeated 722B	— 30-16
730A defeated 732A	— 56-21
733A defeated 731A	— 31-11
Hockey
722 tied 724	— 2-2
736 defeated 734	— 3-1
723 defeated 725	— 6-1
737 tied 738	— 3-3

'Ten Old Men' Top Jaxs And Want Still More

The "Ten Old Men" are looking for a challenge bout in the Gardens.

Reduced to seven in number, some of Canada's "once best" showed the U. of T. Jaxs where the seams lie in a basketball as the former gang came out on the better end of a 50-46 score last night in the Ajax Rec. Hall.

Putting on a good show as well as some good basketball before an enthusiastic and well-packed gallery, both teams played a fast, furious, funny game, warranting over 20 fouls.

The "Old Men" boasted the following forbidding display (all by the way ex-R.C.A.F.): Bodrug—U. of T. star for 20 years, now coach at Northern Vocational; Hayman—once Syracuse All-American, former coach of Argonaut Football Club, now owner-coach of Montreal big four entry; Stevens—also former Syracuse All-American, now Athletic Director of U. of T.; Pitton—played for Broadway "Y" Seniors when they won Ontario championship, now coach at Forest Hill; Horton—starred with Broadway, Riverdale and U. of T., now Athletic Supervisor at Ajax; Munro—former Canadian high jump champion, represented Canada in '32 Olympics, still clears six feet with ease, now coaching at Northern Vocational; Steele—grad of Chicago "Y", now Physical Ed. Instructor at U. of T.

The Jaxs opened strong against their opponents (who averaged 40 years of age) and quarter-time saw them on top 14-5. But, as Lew Hayman put it, "Experience outplayed brawn." And at half-time the Jaxs were trailing 21-19. A terrific show of style put the "Old Men" over 20 points up going into the last quarter and, although the School lads came back gamely, they couldn't get the last two points, and the oldsters notched another as the horn blew to win by a final 50-46 count.

"Old Men"—Bodrug (16), Hayman (10), Stevens (8), Fitton (6), Horton (4), Munro (4), Steele (2).

U. of T. Jaxs—Robson (13), Pearce (7), Taylor (6), Torrens (5), Bate (4), Doty (4), Roe (3), Crang (2), Harvey (1), Andrassy (1), McHenry, Clough.

GAMES TODAY

WATER-POLO

5:00 WYC vs KNOX	Ballou
5:45 VIC. I vs DENT. I	Rosen
6:30 SR. MED. B vs JR. SPS.	Rosen

BASKETBALL MAJOR

Group Play-off—
1:30 PHE II vs ST. M. A.	Lye
4:00 VIC III vs ST. M. B.	McAdam (if necessary)

BASKETBALL MINOR

1:00 PHE VI vs VIC XII	Ewins
4:00 ST. M. C vs III CIVIL	Ewins
7:00 VIC X vs U.C. HOLWOOD	Robson
Group Play-off—
6:00 I DENT. vs III ELEC.	Strathearn (if necessary)

INDOOR TRACK

5:00 50 yds high hurdles—1 Mile Relay (4-man teams)

HOCKEY Standing Committee Meeting

TODAY AT 1.00 P.M.

To Arrange Playoffs, etc.

UNIVERSITY CLUB ELECTIONS THIS WEEK

SOCCER	5 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27th in Athletic Directorate Room.
TENNIS	1 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27th in Athletic Directorate Room
GOLF	1 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27th in Athletic Directorate Room
RUGBY	5 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 28th in Athletic Directorate Room
TRACK & HARRIER	5 p.m. Fri., March 1st in Athletic Directorate Room

Will all members of Intercollegiate teams make an effort to be present.

SKIERS!!

Tickets for a Ski Bus for March 2nd., will be sold in the Athletic Office up to Thursday night. We need 20 Skiers in order to contract for a bus. If we do not get our minimum number, the bus will be cancelled, and information printed in Friday's Varsity, and money refunded.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

SWIMMING AND LIFESAVING TESTS

Men who wish to qualify for the swimming awards of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be required to attend the lectures on Artificial Respiration and Water Safety, and pass the required examinations.

Test items for the various awards are posted on the notice board in the Swimming Pool.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION:

.....LECTURE: Monday, March 4th, 4.45 p.m.
LECTURER: Dr. R. W. I. Urquhart
TEST: Tuesday, March 5th, 4.45 p.m.
PLACE: Debates Room, Hart House.

WATER SAFETY:

LECTURE: Monday, March 11th, 5.00 p.m.
LECTURERS: M. G. Griffiths and A. R. T. Chetwynd.
TEST: Tuesday, March 12th, 5.00 p.m.
PLACE: Debates Room, Hart House.

Men who wish to qualify for the awards of the R.L.S.S. only, must attend the lecture on Artificial Respiration and pass the examination.

Speaking OF SPORT

By Bredin Stapells

For Those Who Have Eyes, Let Them See—

Day after day, we are told that this University is the home of advanced thinking and scientific research. Tire-some, isn't it? And why should it be so, because it is here that progress should be nurtured. But it is not! This noble institution still lives in a dream of two decades ago at least. True, as we see the war effort of our Alma Mater unfold in the pages of The Varsity, we swell with pride. But our Governors sleep on.

The particular problem we have in mind is the abominable lighting equipment which is the curse of the thousands of students who pass through our educational machine. Why must this be so? Why must our supply of good sportsmen be curtailed for the lack of modern lighting? Eyesight, we are told, is important to both studying and participation in athletics. Now it seems very strange to us that the Governors, who take such pains to administer this University in an acceptable manner, should overlook this so obvious defect.

Off hand, we can think of no place which even resembles modern lighting. Take the main Library—a building which contains the wisdom of the ages, waiting for student consumption. Some of the bulbs have shed their uncertain light since the building was first constructed—25 watts no less!

We were sitting in a lecture one day thinking of this gripe, and in the row in front of us there were only TWO students out of fifteen who were not bespectacled—only two we repeat!

We really should not have to say any more on this subject. The condition is more than obvious.

A new slogan for the University would certainly be in order—COME TO UNIVERSITY TO BE EDUCATED, AT THE SMALL PRICE OF IMPAIRING YOUR EYE-SIGHT.

After all, say our Governors, what is eyesight compared to the great benefits of higher education.

And The Band Played On.

We ask—who was in charge of getting the Band out? We commend those who did turn up. If the University is going to do something, we ought to make very sure that it is done well. Those McGill supporters got quite a laugh out of this effort—twelve bandmen without uniforms—HA!

We also understand that the S.A.C. was supposed to look after the arrangements. That being the case somebody ought to be on the mat for the bungling.

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

The Last Act

Everything must come to an end . . . and the hockey teams are now practicing curtain calls . . . the semi-finals, no less, are being played this week. The four teams that have proved their worth, now P.H.E., Meds., O.C.E. and Vic. can smilingly look into their mirrors and say "We made it."

Yesterday the first in said series was played between P.H.E. and Meds. P.H.E. carried most of the play, winning by the meager majority of 1-0. The surprise package of the game proved to be Olive Harvey, who led the second line, (heretofore considered the weak link in the chain), and administered the "coup d'etat" which brought success to the winners.

Estelle Heakes played her usual good game in honour of Meds. . . . the goalie, Mary Thornhill, covered the whole net at the cost of much energy and art.

Short Shorts on Women!

The latest thing in women's hockey, as modeled by Earle of P.H.E., is brevity of costume . . . lack of stockings and brief shorts, which could prove uncomfortable in a stick-slashing or puck-lifting brawl.

Another Grand Finale

In the shape of volleyball is upon the campus. With the first whisperings of Spring the co-eds seem in a rush to finish off all extra-curricular activities . . . could be the shadow of exams. Today sees the four survivors of the long winter's battle meet on the courts for semi-final games. Vic. I and P.H.E. IA play at 5:00. The Saints and O.T. the following hour . . . the two winners to face off across the net on Wed. at 5:00.

Our Readers Write —

Nonsense!

The Editor,
The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

What is all this nonsense about short-wave radio broadcasts by students from the West Indies?

Understand me clearly, I have no objection to the idea of Caribbean student broadcasts itself. But I should hope there is some error in your front-page representation of the contents of the letter from Mr. E. Fitzpatrick Sampath.

I see from your own wording that a) Canadian Forum is to be a half-hour discussion of West Indian problems by West Indians for the benefit of listeners in the West Indies. (Italics mine); b) Canadian spotlight, a half-hour variety programme designed to portray the effect of Canadian education and culture on students from the Caribbean.

On a), I make no narrow nationalistic distinctions; but I am bound to admit that the confusion in programme title and description taken together rather amuses me. The word 'problems' has taken on a new significance for me since I have been in this country. It appears to be the general belief that certain of the human species must always be considered as undergoing tremendous mental strain about something—exactly what is not quite clear. I myself think that a guilty conscience or a complex in those who always refer to these bogeys makes itself apparent. The argument seems to be—since these people are not us, they must be the most miserable creatures on earth. This is a most preposterous situation, Mr. Editor, if what I say is correct.

But it would be silly to assert that any country lacks troubles altogether. I myself cannot, however, see how the discussion of these e.g. in Canada merely 'for the benefit of listeners in the West Indies' tallies with common sense. Either (i) West Indian students should keep in touch collectively, while they are away from home, with news from home, and receive opinions and facts for discussion here, rather than attempt to interpret conditions 4,000 miles away for the benefit of those actually on the scene, or (ii) from information received as above and from previous knowledge, give to the Canadian public. If they desire it, much-needed enlightenment on the geography of the islands, at any rate, or (iii) transmit regular message programmes, as is done by the British Broadcasting Corporation, to homes in the West Indies. I am sure that the few remaining people in the West Indies at present are fully qualified to deal, and capable of dealing, with our 'problems'.

b) is very distasteful to any West Indian, and would be to any other 'foreigners' in a strange country. Granted that certain idioms, and even mannerisms, are adopted by visitors to any country whatever: what 'effect' worth broadcasting can be portrayed, in connection with the Canadian education which we now receive and the Canadian culture, which now occupies our interest? Cultures, and education for that matter, are just not superimposed upon people who have a distinct pride in our own achievements. And, as I have said, I cannot see that any amount of either attribute less than that which could only be superimposed within our short sojourns in this country would be worth shouting about for half-an-hour each week. The sort of thing your article suggests would blow a hole through the strongest transmitter.

Truly, I think that the only bit of your article which makes sense is the actual quotation from Mr. Sampath's letter, which speaks of "the interchange of cultural and intellectual activity between Canada, the Caribbean, and South America" (Italics mine). I incline to think that the printing of the letter free of journalistic adulterations would once again have presented the true picture.

—NOEL CHAPMAN, II LAW, Jamaica.

Adler Slipped

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

With regard to Professor Adler's article published in The Varsity of February 14, I wish to say that he is to be congratulated on his excellent analysis. However, there are certain things which Professor Adler has evidently overlooked.

Implicit in his argument is the statement that man, and more particularly, the college professor, has control of the world's destiny. He implies that if the professors could agree on his policy, then they could roll up their sleeves and go to work to make the world what it should be. This manifestly they cannot do. There are many forces that contribute to making the world and the people in it act as they do, and most of these forces are not at present under man's control.

For instance, consider Jesus Christ, the greatest influence on western man's life in the past two thousand years. Obviously, other men had little to do with the appearance of such a personality. Certainly such an event could not even be predicted, much less controlled. As another example, let us take modern science itself. Science arose because certain geniuses were born, and certain conditions obtained. Under other conditions we may not have had science at all. In any case, these conditions were not controlled by man, they controlled man.

Thus, looking back at the history of man, we see that very few things happened as a result of planning by man. Any understanding of social phenomena usually came after the phenomena were history. We thus come to the conclusion that our destiny is not ours to control, at least at our present state of development. Man has never yet been able to apply his intellect such as to control all the forces which concern him, nor is it certain he ever will.

I do not wish to say that man has no control over himself. That, of course, is not true. However, to assume that any man or group of men can control the world's onward march is simply to maintain that that man or group of men have the power of an omniscient being, or a god. Professor Adler thus contradicts himself when he calls for men to order their ways better by believing in an all-controlling God.

We thus arrive at the conclusion that Professor Adler, although making an excellent attempt, has not succeeded in being the prophet who shows the way.

—ARNE CHRISTENSEN,
IV SPS.

In Mausoleum...?

The Editor, The Varsity
Dear Mr. Editor,

Russia, Russia, and more Russia—of late that seems to be all that appears in this column.

I refuse to take any sides in this fiery battle. I want it understood that I am impartial. But please, dear Editor, would you be kind enough to ask some of your readers to answer a question that has perplexed me. This question was raised in the editorial columns of a popular Toronto newspaper, namely The Toronto Evening Telegram, and went something like this—

"What has been going on in the Mausoleum?"

The editors, themselves forwarded some rather speculative answers, but they didn't give me much satisfaction.

So in desperation, I am referring the matter to you. I am a regular reader of your paper, and I feel sure that there are many students who would be only too willing to help me out. Mr. Rosenthal, a splendid writer (writer that is) and who seems to be up on his Russia, can surely solve my problem or maybe he would rather pass it on to Miss Nowack. I would prefer however, (no reflection on you Miss Nowack) to hear from Mr. Rosenthal—I take a fancy to his style.

As I said before, dear Mr. Editor, I am impartial, but you know how easily one can be misled in this day and age.

Mr. Rosenthal won't you please give this matter your attention and set my mind at ease. I would appreciate an answer. I repeat—the question is... "What has been going on in the Mausoleum?" Refer to The Evening Telegram of Wed. Feb. 20, page 6 column 2.

N. Fitzpatrick
I Arts.

P.S. I hope I made myself clear about being impartial.

Voice of Columbia

(Continued from Page 5)

to form, were beaten twice by the CURC team. The station's winning ways continued throughout the year, Spectator being beaten last August in the first of a series of inter-organization quiz programs, and again in December as CURC's versatile squad took to the gridiron to trounce the Spectator boys twelve to nothing.

LINKS WITH NETWORK

The Columbia station's link with IBS, the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, is interesting. Ever since 1937, when Brown University began experimenting with wired broadcasts over steampipe channels, there has been a growing number of campus stations in the Eastern United States. In February, 1940, out of such hook-ups as the Crimston Net-Work of Harvard, and the Cardinal Network of Wesleyan, there emerged the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System. As far as this writer can determine, the IBS consists less of hook-ups than of note-comparing & exchange programs via transcriptions. On one occasion there was a telephone-line hook-up between all the IBS stations. The broadcast consisted of a variety hour from International House & the Juilliard Institute. It was set up as an experiment and also as a showpiece for potential advertisers. Attempts at short-wave broadcasts by the IBS, in order to reach students in South America and England, have to date met with but little success. But the efforts in this direction point out the possible scope of this collegiate venture.

Celebrities have had their full share of the CURC spotlight in the past four years. Such luminaries as Alexander Woolcott, Eddie Duchin, Erik Barnouw, Nicholas Butler, and Dean Gildersleeve of Barnard have graced the Columbia microphone with their words of wisdom.

WIDE FOOTBALL COVERAGE

The broadcasting of reconstructed football games by use of long-distance phone & typewritten summaries has created student acclaim for this enterprising station. During the past seasons games have been broadcast from Yale, West Point, Princeton, and the U. of Pennsylvania. Out-of-town basketball broadcasts were also carried.

CURC carries commercials, and its rate-card sets up a very modest scale. The charge is three dollars for a one-minute spot, or twelve dollars for a half hour. Business has been improving lately, making possible the installation of a new studio, improved equipment, and the acquisition of a basement store-room.

Through the co-operation of the School of Journalism, CURC has access to United Press news bulletins. Thus the station is enabled to offer both campus and national news services. The 1944 Presidential election, and the recent Mayoralty campaign in New York were both covered by frequent reports that were both speedy and accurate.

From the viewpoint of the student, CURC fills an important place as a campus activity, as a training ground in radio, and as a responsible voice in the University. From the viewpoint of the radio industry, it is obvious that radio must benefit from this steady supply of trained men & women. Radio executives may snare prize material almost at will from this remarkable campus sideshow of radio that has dubbed itself "wired wireless".

What's On Today

"V.D. a Medical Symptom of a Social Problem" is the topic of Dr. Gordon Bates, General Director of the Health League of Canada, in the north theatre of the Medical Building at 5:10 today. All students welcome.

Coming Events

The nominations and elections for the new executive of the Mathematics and Physics Society will be held Wed. Feb. 27th at 4:00 p.m. in Room 18 of the Physics Building. Mr. George Duff, student, will speak on Quaternions. Refreshments will be served.

WOMEN'S COMMERCE CLUB
Mrs. M. Rotenburg, demonstrator in Physics Department will speak to the Women's Commerce Club at Wymilwood on Thursday, February 28th, 8 p.m. The topic will be: "Marriage versus career or marriage and career." Everyone welcome. Refreshments will be served.

YOU'LL BE SPELLBOUND

When you see the grand array of barathas, serges, flannels, chevists, and English worsteds that we've assembled for your personal analysis at

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)

Just drop in anytime from nine to nine. Saturday's until 6, and let us show you what we can do for you.

For best selection, we urge you not to Dail.

Our prices are most reasonable to students.

Attention Schoolmen

Schedule For Coming Elections

Nominations —

Today, 9-12 noon.

Election Speeches —

Today, 4 p.m.

Campaigns —

Thurs., Feb. 28.

Elections —

Fri., Mar. 1, 12-2:30 in Engineering Building. Parade and dinner in Hart House at noon Friday.

Proceed directly to Shea's Annex after you vote. Results of elections will be announced on the stage.

SEE YOU ALL AT THE POLLS AND AT THE OPERA.

HARRY GRAHAM'S GARAGE

GENERAL REPAIRS

ALL-NIGHT TOWING

MI 4978

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

WANTED

Home for healthy, playful, six-months puppy. Fine with children. Lo. 9093, evenings.

TYPING DONE

Rates reasonable, near campus. K. Lacey, MI 3806.

LOST

Brown Parker vacuumatic, lost in Varsity Arena, Friday night. Please leave at S.A.C. office.

LOST

Single strand pearls, Sunday, between Hart House, Bloor and Avenue Rd. and Yonge St. Please call MA 6204.

FOR SALE

Suit of tails, complete with 2 shirts and hat. 6'-6 1/2". MI 5513, after 7.

FOR SALE

Tails with white vest, size 38. In excellent condition. LY 5985.

LOST

Would person who borrowed keys in Chess Room, Hart House, Friday noon, please return to S.A.C. office, Hart House.

Have you heard Terry Arlen?

Dial 580 tonight at ten.

LOST

Feb. 15. Waterman's black "Taperite" pen. Gold band. Keepsake. Please return to S.A.C. office.

Getting On Its Feet-

That's Torontonensis!

But there's still material missing-
MAYBE IT'S YOURS!

What's Ahead!

Get A LOAD of the
ALL-VARSITY REVUE

Wednesday and Thursday;
March 6 and 7. We know you'll be all KEYED up when you hear those two top comics, Alec Siegel and Don Harron, and Whitey

Belshaw and his 16-piece band will BOWL you over.
Besides, we have acts from School Nite, the U.C. Follies, Dentantics, the Vic Bob, Trinity and Daffydil
Nite. With all proceeds going to I.S.S., there's a terrific demand for seats, but

KEEP COOL! We still have some at 1.00 per person. So just SLIP IN to your College or Faculty

Rotunda between 12 and 2 and get yours.

Art, Music and Drama

Selected, But Good

Among the many transformations effected on this campus by the influx of so many men, may now be listed unequivocally the annual Hart House Undergraduate Exhibition, which opened last Thursday. The improvement over last year's is most remarkable.

The general lines of the show—traditions is more the word—follow a time-honored pattern. As usual, the "undergraduate" show tends to belie its name and, whether by design or force of circumstances, consists essentially of several groups of individual work rather than an over-all survey of campus art. In my opinion, (for what it's worth) the Art Committee in an amateur show of this nature should hang everything submitted, rather than exercise its discriminating taste, no matter how good that may be. Even if the pictures have to be hung two deep on the walls, the result, in the form of a more comprehensive over-all picture of amateur art on the campus would be desirable. Due to a perhaps understandable reticence in the Secretary's office, I was unable to ascertain how many or what proportion of the entries were not hung; it probably would have been easier to extract a pint of their blood than this information. However, anyone can count, and simple addition reveals the fact that of the sixteen large pictures in the show—exclusive of S.P.S.—ten are the work of three men, all in first year U.C. But this is a bad time to criticize on that score, for the "featured" individuals this year have work of a very high calibre to show.

Of these, Nick Kelemen shows the most mature aesthetic sense. Always competent in his previous exhibits, he appears here on the verge of turning into a first-rate artist. E. F. Cooke's conceptions are a little on the immature, tentative side, but his technique is skilful. One of the most successful pictures, to my mind, was Bloore's "Priest"; he wanted to say something and got his idea across very effectively. Whether it was an idea worth getting across is, of course, another matter again, and to pursue that point is to raise the question of the autonomy of art and how far an artist is entitled to express himself in the name of art and on and on we could go... Makes the spare time pass most effectively...

But to return to another tradition of the Undergraduate show... the annual contingent of watercolors and pencil drawings resulting from the School of Architecture's week in the north country, and other assorted inspirations, which on occasion in the past threatened to turn the show into an Exhibition of Architectural Drawing, has this year not only been cut to more reasonable proportions (assuming the Secretarial Office's evasive statement that "most of the entries submitted were hung" is trustworthy—as no doubt it is), but has been discriminatingly chosen as well, and adds a great deal to the show...

All in all, this year's Undergraduate Exhibition reflects a very high standard of campus art, and is certainly worth seeing.

ALAN GOWANS

G.&S. Done Well

What makes musical history? When Richard Wagner incorporates into "Tristan" music's greatest romantic outburst; when Richard Strauss infuses music with sensuality in "Salome"; when Beethoven creates in "Fidelio" the apotheosis of the heroic in man's nature. Again, and here I quote Antheil in his highly readable autobiography, "Bad Boy of Music": "Classical music consists of a strict keeping of the rules, and operating to best advantage within them." I believe that it is this spirit of writing great music within preconceived limits that animated Sir Arthur Sullivan and W. S. Gilbert. Certainly the humor in their comic operas bears an easily traceable resemblance to that of "Die Zauber Flöte"; and if The Gondoliers, for example, travels on a lower plane of creative effort, it is happily conscious of just that fact and makes no pretensions to be otherwise.

Canada Packers Operatic Society inaugurated a whole week of comic opera at Eaton Auditorium last night with a presentation of The Gondoliers whose achievement rested with a small margin on the credit side of the ledger. There were two conspicuous faults which caught the notice; the singing was hindered by a lack of enlivening pantomime and histrionics, and the orchestra dragged badly on occasions, confusing the stage artists by muffing cues. Conductor Curry labored manfully over the score with workman-like results, although niceties of subtlety were sadly neglected and the whole treatment savored slightly of the meat-cleaver.

On the other hand, the costuming was elegance itself and the properties beyond reproach, aided and abetted by careful lighting. The cast was excellent in most respects, endowed with good voices and going about their roles with ardor and deftness. Nominees for standouts were William Currie and Arthur Slater as the irrepressible boat men. The latter especially brought to his role of Giuseppe grace of movement, wealth of humor and a dulcet baritone, which are nowadays as rare as they are welcome.

D. GORDON ROSS

AJAX LOST AND FOUND

The Ajax Lost and Found Department, located in the Engineering Society Office in Building 313A, reports that several articles of clothing, equipment etc. have been picked up about the buildings. Owners may collect these articles by calling at the Engineering Society Office and identifying their possessions.

Peggy Said No

(Continued from Page 4)

cident, most of the contemporary trail blazing novelists are women. Violet King, Gwen Graham, Dorothy Dunstan, Dorothy Livesay, Anne Marriott. Across the line, Marg. Mitchell, "Forever Amber, practically all the mystery writers..."

Peggy paused for wind and I sorted around my attic for ways and means of rescuing my superiority complex from the level of the curb. Before I found any ammunition, Peggy added, "So I'm building up for a home and a man, a... well, maybe a good engineer."

"You're really not interested in a screen test!" I reiterated.

"No."

Peggy wasn't kidding. She's svelte. Maybe photogenic.

What chance has Hollywood got if Veronica Lake and deCarlo are the best it can get! ...

It occurred to me as I beat my retreat, that there's far less sense and harmony in any conception of purpose I might have in getting educated. If Peggy had put me on the witness stand... Oh well, does any engineer want her phone number?

—OSCAR HALINA

The Students' Choice:

BLOOR TAXI

LIMITED

Sub-station at

HARBOR and ST. GEORGE

RA. 5151

Switchboard connecting

all branches

ALL-NIGHT SERVICE.

ALSO GENERAL REPAIRS AND TOWING

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE S.C.M.

OPEN HOUSE

FORUM

Should Relief be Extended to Germany

8.00 In The Women's Union

ONTARIO COLLEGE of EDUCATION

presents

3 ONE-ACT PLAYS

THE MONKEY'S PAW — Jacobs

Director: Charles Jolliffe, Trinity

THE HAPPY JOURNEY — Wilder

Director: Bill MacKenzie, Western

THE DEVIL and DANIEL WEBSTER—Benet

With: Jack Munkley, O.A.C.

THURS., 28 FEB., 8.15 p.m.

Tickets Available at Office of O.C.E. (Bloor and Spadina) or at door

ABERDEEN'S Floral Stores

Main Stores: 31 Bloor W., MI. 2495

Special Attention to University Students

15% Discount Upon Presentation

OF ADMIT-TO-LECTURES CARD

Corsages are a Specialty—Have Your Date Wear One to the F.H.E. AT-HOME

ORCHIDS AND ROSES ALWAYS IN STOCK

Co-discoveror of Insulin Will Speak on Research

To Talk at Science Forum

Physiological Research at the Banting Institute will be the topic of an address by Dr. C. H. Best, director of the Banting-Best Department of Medical Research, tomorrow at 8.15 p.m., at the Women's Union.

Dr. Best, who has attained international reputation for his work in the field of physiological research, is probably most widely known as the co-discoverer of insulin in the twenties with the late Sir Frederick Banting.

In his lecture, which will be the feature of the second regular Science Forum presented by the Toronto Branch of the Canadian Association of Scientific Workers, Dr. Best will discuss topics such as blood transfusions, insulin, the vitamin cholin and the enzyme histaminase. The properties of the latter had been studied extensively by Dr. Best when, after his graduation from Toronto University he went to England to work with Sir Henry Dale in that field. Later, Dr. Best and his staff made important advances in the study of cholin as a dietary factor. During the war he was director of Naval Research in Canada.

Dr. Best has been awarded the Nobel Prize and he is a Fellow of the Royal Society both of Britain and Canada. Only seven months ago he was made a member of the French Academy of Sciences. He received the degree of Docteur de l'Université honoris causa, at the Sorbonne in Paris. The ceremony was held at the annual convocation at the Amphitheatre of the university, but the degree was awarded in absentia of Dr. Best, who was unable to leave his post in Toronto.

The Canadian Association of Scientific Workers is a relatively new organization, but has been rapidly gaining influence in Canada. Its aims are to insure the fullest application of Science to the welfare of society and to back the economic rights of scientists.

A University of Toronto section has been formed this year and student membership, which differs from full membership only by a limitation of voting powers, is open to any student proceeding to a degree. Associations of Scientific Workers have been formed throughout the British Empire. There is also one in the United States, which has been making itself heard in such international questions as Atomic Power, Food Control and Scientific Research.

Admission for the meeting is free, but during the evening a collection will be passed, whose proceeds are to go to the I.S.S. in its current campus-wide drive.

Aid To Czechs Given By ISS

Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 22.—A party of 30 Czechoslovakian students, selected by the Czechoslovakian Committee of World Student Relief, recently arrived at the International University Sanatorium in Leysin, Switzerland, to receive hospitalization under the I.S.S. program of medical relief for European students. Zdenek Suda, secretary of the Czech Committee, expressed the thanks of his country at the executive meeting of I.S.S. last month.

"What pleases us most," he said, "is that this action of International Student Service has stimulated the development of a new project in Czechoslovakia. The Minister of Social Affairs, Mr. Joseph Sotek, has himself taken the initiative in arranging for the establishment in Slovakia of a student sanatorium for at least 200 students. We hope that this new institution will be ready by spring."

"The Ministry of Social Affairs," he continued, "will pay over half the cost of the hospitalization of the next group of Czechoslovakian students who are sent to the Leysin sanatorium. When our own sanatorium is ready, approximately 30 of the 200 places planned will be available for the hospitalization of students from other countries. Thus we will be able to repay Swiss hospitality to our students by inviting tubercular students from other countries to come to Czechoslovakia."

Club To Debate In German Proceeds For ISS Campaign

"Resolved that the History of Human Society justifies a Belief in Progress", will be the topic of a debate at the U. of T. German Club, tomorrow night at 8.00 p.m. at Alumni Hall, Victoria College.

Championing the affirmative will be Otto Butz, III Political Science, and president of the club, seconded by Kurt Dahl, II Modern Languages. The negative is to be defended by Bob Endelman, IV Sociology, and Eric Kruph, IV Modern Languages. The debate will be chaired by German Professor R. K. Arnold of Victoria College.

The main speakers of the debate will use German as their arguing medium. The discussion from the floor is scheduled to be in English, in harmony with this year's policy of interesting as wide a section of the student body as possible in the aims of the club.

"We have chosen this debate not merely in order to give our guests and members a chance to follow a general argument in German language, but because German history presents an excellent background for this particular topic," said Ernst Deutsch, publicity director of the club. "We hope, for this reason, that not only language students but those in any other courses will attend the meeting," he added.

A small admission fee will be charged non-members. Proceeds of the meeting, which also includes dancing and refreshments, will go to the I.S.S. campaign.

NOTICE—EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL

D.V.A. officials will be in the Bursar's office, Friday morning March 1st to give out February maintenance grant cheques.

Record
Hour
TODAY AT 4 p.m.

The record hour, held daily in the Women's Common Room of University College from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m., is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties.

Today's program:
Mendelssohn—Symphony No. 4 in A major ("Italian").
Brahms—Violin Concerto in D major.

The VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 92 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, February 27, 1946

END NOMINATIONS FOR HOUSE TODAY

May Amalgamate Proposed Centres

"There is no apparent reason why the two projects could not be combined," said S.A.C. vice-president George Doner commenting on the possibility of amalgamating the proposed International House with the co-educational administrative centre planned by the S.A.C. in conjunction with the Alumni Federation.

"I feel however," he continued, "that if there is to be a residence in the International House it should be in a separate wing from the Administrative Building."

The S.A.C.'s proposal calls for an office building in the Students' Administrative Council and Alumni Federation. In the building would be offices for the three publications—The Varsity, Torontensis, and the University of Toronto Monthly.

The International House proposed by the International Students' Club, the International Affairs Society and the International Students' Service would be a co-educational residence for foreign students and an international cultural centre.

"Victory And..." Led By Beckett

"We should be interested in rescuing the Canadian people from the oppressive hands of a monopolistic and capitalistic system, but we should avoid the ravages of a revolution," said George Speers, chairman of the Victoria C.C.F. Club at a discussion group held Monday

Undergraduate Veterans Try For Most Committees

Elections Next Week

Nominations for the various committees of Hart House will close today at 6:00 p.m. The nominations as they stood up to last night brought forth the following results. Evidence of the increased registration is the fact that of 34 members so far nominated 13 are freshmen. Of these 13, six are Meds-men; five of these are ex-service. Ex-servicemen represent seven of the total nominations so far. Schoolmen lead the lists as 10 have been nominated. Closely following are the artsmen from U.C. who have nine men on the lists.

These are the nominations as they stood last night at 6:00 p.m.

afternoon in Wymilwood.

The group, led by Alan Beckett, studied the fundamentals of C.C.F. policy as outlined by the Regina Manifesto and "Victory and Reconstruction".

Beckett outlined the various changes proposed by the C.C.F. to establish a planned economy. He pointed out that the federal government had adopted some of these changes in order to further the war effort and maintain a sound economic policy.

"The policy of the C.C.F.," he said, "is formed by the individual members of the party as in a true democracy. Only by following this policy can the party function for the benefit of all Canadians."

Women's Hart House Prepaid

For more than 25 years, more than $100,000 has been set aside for the construction of an athletic building—to be the equivalent of a women's Hart House.

During the construction of Hart House, university authorities decided to pull down the old gymnasium and construct an athletic wing on Hart House. The Massey Foundation agreed to finance the project themselves and so the University earmarked the money for the construction of a women's athletic building.

Due to interest accumulation it is estimated that the fund is now considerably larger than the original $100,000. Assuming an investment at 3 per cent interest the fund would now amount to approximately $175,000.

Construction of the building has never been undertaken. This is said to be because the Board of Governors' policy has been to concentrate on purely scholastic buildings, feeling that athletics are of secondary importance.

Peashooters and Cellulose To Spice School Elections

By J. D. Wray

With a skirl of the pipes, and a blare from loudspeakers, one of the traditional S.P.S. events will take place Friday. The date is that of the annual School elections, when the executives of the various years, and of the Engineering Society will be chosen for the next session.

Proceedings got under way yesterday afternoon with the election speeches in which each candidate attempted to convince the voters he was the "most logical" man for office by virtue of his ability to tell the best jokes.

The Little Red Schoolhouse Thursday will be decorated in every available open spot by colourful posters extolling the abilities of all candidates. They will range from the most serious type listing the various jobs its sponsor has held, to the kind really appreciated,—that is,

The Varga Girl variety.

It is expected that Friday will be a day of bedlam in Hart House. Tradition requires that all Schoolmen parade to the House for lunch, and after a roll-thriving session in the Great Hall converge upon the polls to decide the fate of the office-aspiring engineers. Immediately after exercising his franchise the ballroom will grab the closest T.T. C. facilities, hasten to "Shea's Annex", (or the "Opera"), to annoy the chorus with such instruments of torture as rolls of practically pure cellulose, or metal tubes about 10 inches long and bags of beans. It is expected that the election results will be announced from the stage of the Opera and the newly-elected President of the Engineering Society will briefly address his public, as well as the regular patrons of the art.

House Committee

McGuire, W. B., II Meds. Bartlett, D. W., II Vic. Gwynne-Timothy, K. G. R., I Trinity. Stewart, R. M., I Meds.

Library Committee

Robinson, W. K., II U.C. (ex-service). Wheatley, E. W., III S.P.S. Brown, W. R. J., III S.P.S. Carson, J. K., I U.C. Johnson, R. H., II Meds. Lovell, S. E., II Vic. Cooke, W. J. D., I Meds. Stinson, D. A., I Meds. Johnson, A. A., I Meds. (ex-service).

Music Committee

Jackson, R. B. C., II U.C.

Art Committee

Bloor, R. L., I U.C. (ex-service). Stennett, J. D., II Trinity. Cooke, E. F., I U.C. Burns, I., III S.P.S.

Debates Committee

Scott, Reid, II Vic.

Camera Committee

Gallie, J. E., II U.C. Hill, E. H., III S.P.S. James, R. M., I U.C. Ross, J. T., I Meds. (ex-service). Storey, D. H., III S.P.S. Steinberg, L. M., II U.C. Hopper, W. H., II S.P.S. Squash Raquets Committee

Ewins, G. M., III U.C. Carter, F. C., III S.P.S. Fitzpatrick, N. J., I St. Mike's. Callahan, G. A., I Meds. (ex-service).

Chess Committee

Orlando, R. E., IV S.P.S. Dobier, M. M., II S.P.S. Rodgers, R. F., I U.C. Torrie, F. G., II S.P.S.

McGill Professor At V.C.F. Service

Professor George Kimble of McGill University will be guest speaker at a service being held Sunday morning in Convocation Hall.

Born and educated in London, Professor Kimble studied Geography in King's College. He served on the staff of University College, Hull, and later in the University of Reading.

He left in 1939 to enlist in the Meteorological Service of the Royal Navy where he served for five years, attaining the rank of Lieutenant-Commander. He was engaged in invasion weather projects in the European and Far Eastern theatres.

In 1944 he made a complete tour of the world in 80 days.

Professor Kimble was released by the Admiralty to join the staff of the department of geography in McGill University. He later became Director of Meteorological Services at McGill Observatory.

Professor Kimble will speak on the topic "By Guess or by God". President Sidney Smith will read the lesson.

U.B.C. RADIO STATION

Vancouver—The University of British Columbia Radio Society has installed a broadcasting line to local stations in Vancouver. In the future the Society will be able to broadcast their shows directly from their campus studios.

The Undergraduate Newspaper

The Varsity

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI 8742

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.

Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates 476

Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478

Ajax EditorMike McAuliffe

Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.

Rewrite Editor ... John Rooke, 477

News Editor.....George Forster 476

Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 476

AjaxPete Philippott

Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 477

Assistant.....Reg Herman, 476

AjaxCliff Dixon

Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald B.A.

Sports Editor....Bredin Stapells, 476

Assistant.....Don Mason, 476

AjaxEd. Caldwell

Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476

C.U.P. & Exchange

Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.

Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 476

Art, Music, and Drama

Editor.....Phillip Freedman, 476

Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Wednesday, February 27, 1946

Library Lighting

We understand, with an ear cocked for subterranean rumblings, that a new library is high on the list of University projects; and nothing is needed more. It is false, however, to let the imminence of a new building blind the Governors to the need of improving on the old. And the old library needs improvement: especially its lighting.

The lighting in the study-rooms is lamentable; in the stacks, especially the basement stack where the periodicals are kept, it is impossible. We would not like to calculate the total damage wrought by this lighting over the years to student eyesight.

We know at least one student who takes a 100-watt bulb along in his pocket for his evening study sessions in the stacks. If a dozen more did that, the fuses would blow.

The mere fact that a new building is on the way should not deter plans to have the old one re-wired; if re-wiring is feasible without utter demolition. Students should not be asked to spend long hours concentrating under such conditions.

— W. H. K.

Postscript On Pass

Type, as they say, is not rubber; and in our recent remarks on the Pass Arts question we lacked the space to acknowledge the presence and needs of a certain type of student: the student who does not come to university for classroom work at all. For him, we concede grudgingly, the Pass course is eminently fitted; and of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

We hold unswervingly, as we said before, that there is more value, because more discipline and less mental gear-changing, in studying one subject thoroughly than ten lightly. That potential value, however, is as we pointed out in our closing sentences largely at the mercy of the Honor professors; who being human and therefore short-sighted are inclined not to perceive it, much less to exploit it.

Professors, having stuck to their subjects and become scholars, are inclined to assume that their students are likewise determined to stick to the subject and become scholars. They are inclined, in fact, to concentrate on educating whole broods of young professors: a solemn thought.

In other words, the honor courses as taught today are more valuable for those who intend to pursue the subject than for those who seek an education and are capable of deriving it from the methods and proportions of any subject.

In this fix, the student who is mentally disinclined to see the woods for the trees may see nothing on the Honor horizon but one enormous tree blocking out the sun and moon.

Pass Arts is no immediate answer to his dilemma, because its classrooms merely display not one stultifying tree but half a dozen; which is small improvement.

But Pass Arts has one distinct advantage for such a student, especially if he does not work at it too hard; and the reduction in standards means that he need not work too hard. The advantage of Pass Arts for such a student is that he has time to do other things. He has more time than his Honor brother to debate, to write, to sing, dance, draw, play hockey, sit on committees, and otherwise praise his Maker. He has more time to live, if he is not especially suited to the intellectual life.

And he enjoys this advantage not because he is studying more subjects; nor because his course is (as its upholders falsely pretend) "broader", but because it makes fewer demands on his time and energy.

It is open to question whether provision for the wants of the un-intellectual student is one of the functions of a university, whose avowed twin aims are teaching and research in all branches of knowledge. But as long as the Pass Course remains, such a student may as well exploit its unique advantage. As long as the light lasts, let him caper.

— W. H. K.

Fingles Fable

We find the Ajax Commuters union gathered together in Hash Hall all conducting themselves as gentlemen—(busy seeing who can kick the biggest piece of plaster out of the wall.)

Max: Order please—

Jake: Ham on rye.

Max (ignoring Jake's remark) We are gathered here today (applause) —to discuss the mistreatment some of the commuters have had to endure.

The Commuters immediately swarm about Max and various complaints are heard—"My driver makes me lean out of the window when I want to smoke."—"My driver makes me put my coat over the hood to keep the engine warm."

Max: Quiet!—(applause)—we must open the meeting formally (Turning aside to Jake) What's the date?

Jake: I'll look it up on my slide rule.

Max: A slide rule what, I always use simple six place logarithms myself to find a date.

22nd Commuter: Are the dates seedless—heh, heh.

All the rest of the commuters swarm over him, rip up his union card and toss him out.

Jake: The date, according to my slide rule, is February 31, 1874.

Chorus: Dirty-slide-rule, dirty-slide-rule . . .

Max: Silence! (applause) Now we will get down to business, the secretary will read the minutes of the last meeting.

Secretary: But I didn't take the minutes of the last meeting.

Max: Why not?

Secretary: I was trying to think up a slogan for my father's beer business. (Everybody whistles and stamps his feet)

Max: What kind of beer does he sell?

Secretary: Why BLUE BEER of course.

Chorus: Blue beer, blue beer . . .

Max: Quiet. The secretary said 'of course' not chorus.

Quentin: Please sir? I have a problem.

Max: Yes my son. (Max is nearly 19)

Quentin: My car won't go.

Chorus: Stuck piston, stuck piston . . .

Max: That reminds me of a joke —about a coal heaver (for Ajax students only) Commuters: We've heard it.

Max: Well that takes care of all the commuters problems for this week.

Commuters: (all as one)—But—

Max: Smoking only in the corridors and now Jake will play something on his slide rule.

Jake: But I'm not very good of course.

Chorus: BLUE BEER, BLUE BEER, You ain't died Till you've tried— BLUE BEER, BLUE BEER.

Max: 'Ain't' ain't grammatical. The commuters surround him and there is a cry — "You just go to Ajax to get healthy!"

NOR.

Boston Student Poll Upholds Voting Age

Boston, Mass., February 19 — (Exchange)—The majority of the students of Boston University contacted in a poll conducted last week by the News, campus daily, agreed that the voting age should remain at 21. This was a complete reversal of a News survey conducted at the height of the war in 1943 when three-fifths of the student body favored the extension of the voting franchise to 18-year olds.

The general opinion of students opposing the proposal was that 18-year olds lack the maturity and experience which the three flexible years between 18 and 21 would give them in order to cope with national problems.

Upholding the proposal students stressed the role of late-teen-agers during the war and argued that "if an 18-year old is mature enough to fight for democracy, then he is old enough to vote".

CANADA PACKERS OPERATIC SOCIETY PRESENTS

A GILBERT & SULLIVAN WEEK

BOTH OPERAS BY PERMISSION OF RUPERT DOVLY CARTE

AT EATON AUDITORIUM

THE GONDOLIER

VENINGS FEB. 25th 26th 27th AT 8.15 P.M.

MATINEE MARCH 2nd AT 2.30 P.M.

AND UTOPIA LIMITED

EVENINGS FEB 28th MAR. 1st 2nd AT 8.15 P.M.

TICKETS ON SALE AT EATON AUDITORIUM AND AT CANADA PACKERS

NET PROCEEDS IN AID OF THE SAVE THE CHILDREN FUND

VICTORIA COLLEGE PUBLIC LECTURE

Professor S. H. Gould

"EINSTEIN"

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27th, IN ALUMNI HALL AT 5 P.M.

JOAN RIGBY

COATS DRESSES TWEEDS SWEATERS SUITS

54 BLOOR W. MI. 4969

CASH! CASH!

FOR USED TEXT BOOKS FOR EVERY COURSE

Bring them in today—we will pay HIGHEST CASH PRICES

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 10 P.M.

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE RA. 1148 (One Block South of Bloor)

First University JAZZ CONCERT

featuring the 7 pc. combo that was such a sensation at the Beauty Contest.

BERNARD COWAN — M.C.

Jazz Authority, and formerly, co-chairman of the 10-10 Swing Club.

1-2 p.m., U.C. JUNIOR COMMON ROOM

Thursday, March 7th Admission 15c

In aid of INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICE

In line with plans considered for the Varsity co-educational centre are proposed increases to Brock Hall, co-educational centre pictured above which was built in 1939 at the University of British Columbia. New additions for the use of all UBC students will include a cabaret-style dance floor, amphitheatre to accommodate 250 persons, a smaller salon and office space for administrative offices. Additional annexes will include numerous club rooms, a set of photographic dark-rooms, a catering centre, chess and billiard rooms, banquet hall, barber shop, employment office and workshop. Suggestions have been made to the Students' Administrative Council to build a similar Toronto campus building which could supplement inadequate Hart House facilities.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 92 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Wednesday, February 27, 1946

Remedies For Venereal Diseases Are Solution Of Social Problem

Says Health Director

"The venereal diseases are a medical symptom of a social problem because the social problem is so intimately connected with the spread of venereal disease that one cannot discuss its solution without an understanding of the social factors involved" stated Dr. Gordon A. Bates, General Director of the Health League of Canada yesterday afternoon in the concluding lecture in the Public Health series.

He gave a description of venereal diseases and their dangerous natures, contacted primarily sexually. "There are two main venereal diseases—gonorrhoea and syphilis." The first is transmitted from generation to generation, the latter starts as a local disease and becoming a general infection, passes to all parts of the body.

Gonorrhoea itself is a cause of serious disability in men and women, he continued. "It is a cause of blindness, and it has been stated that it is responsible for 80 per cent of blindness in the newborn."

The companion disease, syphilis, he said, has results equally drastic or worse. He said it was "a cause of abortions, miscarriages, and stillbirths. It had a serious effect on the infant death rate. It was a cause of heart disease, it was a cause of cerebral hemorrhage. It was responsible for a dilation of the great artery leading from the heart which ultimately resulted in rupture and death. It was a cause of locomotor ataxia and a serious form of incurable insanity—general paralysis of the insane. It was responsible for a large proportion of the cases of insanity in hospitals for the mentally ill. But in addition, the disease is carried from generation to generation."

The development of penicillin and the sulphamidines in recent years have revolutionized the treatment of gonorrhoea, he said.

An outstanding event in the history of these diseases was the discovery of a new means of treating syphilis. This was elaborated by Wasserman in the first decade of this century, and it became possible to diagnose the disease by a simple blood test. The immediate application of this test in the earlier years of the century revealed the fact that in hospital beds in all parts of the world there were individuals suffering from syphilis, individuals in whom the disease had never

(Continued on Page 5)

PORTIA DEBATES

The schedule for the Portia Debates, to be held in Room 5, University College, is as follows:

Thursday, Feb. 28—

4:30 p.m.—Marg. Delaney and Joan Langstaff vs. Phyllis Cohen and Jackie Singer.

5:00 p.m.—Mary Dingle and Bea Thorleson vs. Joy Sanderson and Ginny Smith.

Dean of Pharmacy Talks to Eye-men

"A sense of humour will keep you out of trouble, or get you out of it if you do get into difficulties," said Dean R. O. Hurst, of the College of Pharmacy, in addressing the Mid-winter Banquet of the College of Optometry at the Club Top Hat Monday night.

Dean Hurst, who opened his talk with the remark that people don't like to listen to speeches or advice, told the students that he would only give a few hints which might be helpful to them.

He suggested that they develop a hobby to release them from the prison of business, and give them satisfaction when they become old. "People who have a hobby remain normal, but those who get into trouble, almost invariably have never had a hobby, or done anything just for the fun of it," he said. "Read a lot of good books," he said. "A man with only a public school education who is an inveterate reader will know more in 10 years than a university graduate who follows only his profession." He told them to mix with people and contribute their share to all activities in which they partake.

Mr. E. Fisher, Canadian authority on contact lenses, showed a film on this subject. Mr. Fisher, who was wearing contacts, compared them to a ring on a finger. "At first you play with it for a few days, and then you get used to it, and if you take it off you miss it," he said.

At the conclusion of his talk, Dean Hurst was presented with a twelve-inch cigar, reputedly the largest in Toronto.

House Glee Club To Entertain Ajax

The Hart House Glee Club under the direction of Dr. Charles Peaker will entertain musically in the Ajax Recreation Hall, this evening.

The Club consists of 110 male voices and has received nation-wide reputation as one of the best male choral groups and has broadcast shortly before Christmas on a coast-to-coast C.B.C. network.

A two piano team of Toronto students, Mr. Brown and Mr. Watson, will play during intermission.

Admission is free. Tickets may be obtained at General Office, Hart House, or at the Rec. Hall door before the concert. Preference will be given to students who have tickets from Hart House. Students desiring admission with tickets obtained at the door will be limited due to fire laws.

Coming Events

V.C.F. AJAX

The Ajax Christian Fellowship will meet tomorrow at seven p.m. in Hart House. The subject for discussion will be "A Christian's Task at Ajax". All are welcome to attend.

P.H.E.'s Prof. E. S. Ryerson will speak on public health in the Soviet Union, 8.15, Thursday, at the Canadian Council for Soviet Friendship, 365 Yonge St.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Symphony Orchestra

Sponsored by the Students' Administrative Council

HANS GRUBER—Conductor

ELEANOR TAIT—Organist

CONVOCAION HALL

Tonight at 8.10 p.m.

PROGRAMME

- I. Rosamunde OvertureSchubert
- II. Ballet Suite from Céphale et Procris....Grétry
- III. Symphony No. 5 in B flat.....Schubert

INTERMISSION

- IV. Adagio and Allegro.....Blow-Hurst
- V. Concerto for Organ and Orchestra in B flat —Handel

ELEANOR TAIT—Organist

- VI. Eine Kleine Nachtmusik.....Mozart
- VII. Triumphant March from Aida.....Verdi

What's On Today

SOCIOLOGY CLUB

Tonight at 8:15 at Wymilwood, Prof. Thorsten Sellin, criminologist of the University of Pennsylvania, will speak on the subject of "The Problems of Crime in the Post-War World". Refreshments, Open invitation to all.

VIC S.C.M.

Rev. J. M. Finlay will conclude this lecture series on the "Practical Applications of Christianity" at 1:30 in Vic Chapel today.

MEDS. V.C.F.

Meds. V.C.F. group will meet in Room 410, Banting Institute, on Wednesday February 27 from 1:10 p.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Studies on "Hebrews" will be continued. Next year's Meds. V.C.F. President will be elected.

JOINT FRENCH CLUB MEETING

The Joint meeting of the U.C. Victoria, and Trinity French Clubs in the Women's Union at 8:00 p.m. Admission proceeds to the I.S.S. Bring clothes for France and books for the I.S.S.

U.C. S.C.M.

"Should Relief be Extended to Germany" Forum at the U.C. S.C.M. Open House Wednesday at 8:00 in the Women's Union.

Editorial Encores

A Free Press

The following article, written by Stuart J. Shaw, Associate Editor of the Edmonton Journal, placed first in a recent contest sponsored by the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association. Mr. Shaw is a graduate of the University of Alberta.

Fundamentally, it is not a special privilege reserved for newspaper publishers. It is rather a phase of a much larger freedom—the freedom of all men to speak their minds openly and without fear. The press claims no right which should not belong to every citizen in a democracy, but freedom of the press is an all-important part of this larger freedom because under modern con-

What Is This Thing....?

Much has been written about the difference in meaning, if any, between the words "jazz" and "swing". Perhaps these have not all been wasted words, but every dance band musician, critic, jazz fan and platterbug has his own unchangeable opinion as to their meaning, or else just enjoys the music without worrying about the words. We present a few ideas on the subject, more as a matter of interest than trying to change anyone's mind.

Of course, "jazz" was THE word throughout the Roaring Twenties. So much so, that it acquired many strange and unusual meanings, completely foreign to music. About 1930, everybody was talking jazz, jazz, jazz, and "jazzing about", or "jazzing it" or "jazzin' on down" etc. Paul Whiteman, with one or two hot men buried under a multitude of fiddles, was the "King of Jazz" and his band appeared in a talkie of that name. In two or three years more, the word had expended itself, and the dancing public were ready for something new.

If any proof be needed, it is provided by the record of the Fascist and Nazi dictatorships. Rigid control of all sources of public information, and especially newspapers, was the cornerstone upon which these regimes were founded. Without it, they could never have held power. With it, they could do as they pleased, to the eventual ruin of their own peoples as well as much of the rest of the world.

This disastrous chapter of history should provide a warning against any attempt, by governments or by private interests, to restrict the essential freedom of the press. A free people must stand on guard, not only against direct ownership, but also against more insidious encroachments. Nominal freedom is not enough. The only true free press is one which can record the the more subdued New York style, if there is such a thing. Some jazz record collectors will listen to nothing but rare old "items" recorded 25 years ago, putting up with a lot of horribly old-fashioned music, and scratching just for one toot from Louis Armstrong, or King Oliver, or Frank Teachemacher or some other jazz "Great". There are even a few people who seriously believe that everything recorded since 1920 stinks, so they happily listen to their beat-up copies of the Original Dixieland Jazz Band's "Tiger Rag", "Livery Stable Blues", and "At the Jazz Band Ball", which were the rage in 1917.

(Continued on Page 5)

Perhaps closer to the truth is the explanation accepted by many of the name band musicians who saw swing on the way up. They are perhaps more rational in their views, and more qualified to speak on this confusing subject than are the critics, fans, collectors, etc. They say they used the word "swing" as a verb in connection with their playing long before it gained popularity as a noun about 10 years ago. But then, older musicians say that "jazz" was first used as a verb signifying a very special way of playing Ragtime, so perhaps the whole thing is just relative.

THE ROUND ENDS

Roy Eldridge was once quoted as saying that there was absolutely no difference in the meaning of the two words, and that he would play a solo the same in a little jazz band as in a large swing outfit. He said he saw no reason for a controversy on the subject, so with apologies to Roy, we herewith bring this controversy to a close.

—ART BLAKELY

THE VARSITY
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

1946-47

Applications for the above position will be received by the Associate Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council in Room 82, University College, up to 12 noon, Monday, March 4th.

Associate Secretary,
Students' Administrative Council,
A. E. M. Parkes.

TORONTONENSIS

1947

Applications for Editor of Torontonensis will be received by the Associate Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council in Room 82, University College, up to 12 noon, Monday, March 4th.

Associate Secretary,
Students' Administrative Council,
A. E. M. Parkes.

THE CAMPUS EVENT YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR

2 NITES ONLY—CONVOCATION HALL

Wed. & Thurs., March 6 & 7

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESENTS FIRST EDITION

All-Varsity Revue

Featuring

Whitey Belshaw and his Sensational
16-pc. Orchestra and the best from:—

- SCHOOL NITE
- U.C. FOLLIES
- DAFFYDIL NITE
- DENTANTICS
- VIC BOB
- TRINITY

Including Those Top Comics

ALEC SIEGEL AND DON HARRON

Tickets Now on Sale $1.00 per person

12-2 P.M. in all College and Faculty Rotundas and Hart House Rotunda. Get yours now and avoid disappointment.

Entirely In Aid of International Student Service

A Year's Entertainment In One Show

NEW DANCE CLASS

All the smartest New York styles of Fox-Trot, Waltz, Jive, Rumba and Tango.

TUESDAYS, 8.30

DA COSTA

Studios of Dancing

1139 Bay St. Corner Charles MI 5624

ANCHOR BALL

Sponsored By Delta Gamma Fraternity
Proceeds to I.S.S.

Saturday, March 2, 1946

Bob Shuttleworth and his Orchestra

Bob Shuttleworth and his Orchestra

$2.50 PER COUPLE

Tickets on sale at 138 St. George, MI 3015 from 12 to 2 p.m.
DRESS OPTIONAL

Do You Intend To Stand For Election To A Hart House Committee?

Machine Tabs Scores of Kansas Students

Lawrence, Kansas.—(Exchange)—An international scoring machine by the guidance bureau of the University of Kansas can grade papers at the rate of from 250 to 400 an hour, or in one-eighth the time required for complete and scoring of the same number of papers.

Speed and psychological tests determine their readiness to do college work answered by 900 new students at the beginning of the semester were graded and checked in six hours by the scoring machine. The mathematics tests were the only ones not graded by the machine because answers involving words and figures cannot be machine-scored.

Tests must be written with special graphite pencils because the marks ordinary lead pencils do not have enough electrical conductivity to make the machine record the score.

Remedies For

(Continued from Page 3)

men suspected but who, nevertheless, developed all sorts of conditions as a result of the disease. On investigation it was found that many deaths caused by syphilis were not recorded as caused by syphilis.

"It is therefore apparent that we should have on our statute books a law compelling medical examination before every marriage," said Dr. Bates.

Syphilis, if treated very early, can be cured. Therefore treatment facilities should be made available and regular education should be carried on in order to make sure that people know the facts and come forward for treatment. However, he did not feel that this took the form of sex-education in the schools. "By sex-education," he said, "too many people mean instructing in the biology of sex. I am not suggesting that such education should be entirely left out of our curriculum. But this information alone will not prevent venereal disease."

To prevent the spread of communicable disease it is necessary to prevent the contact of infected and non-infected people. In the case of venereal diseases this means a venture into the field of morals. If we could make certain that all people were moral the task of controlling venereal disease would be very simple.

Last year in a panel held in Montreal it was revealed that among the houses in the vice district in that city there were 90 houses averaging 20 girls to a house owned by seven individuals who netted in profits no less than 4 million dollars a year.

"I suggest," stated Dr. Bates, "that under these conditions there can be no prevention but methods should be used to improve standards of human conduct."

About two months ago Dr. Bates spoke to four Russian specialists. When asked how Russia had succeeded in ridding the country almost completely of V.D. before the war they replied, "In Russia we do not consider this to be essentially a medical question."

"In venereal disease," concluded Dr. Bates, "we have the most serious of all public health problems with which we are confronted. For their cure we must develop a public health conscience. It is high time that we organized our country to prevent disease rather than to spend money in hospitals and institutional beds."

A Free Press

(Continued From Page 4)

news faithfully and comment on it frankly without fear of direct or indirect punishment. Neither the press nor the public is safe with anything less than this.

Obligations Involved

All liberty, of course, involves obligations. The obligation of a free press is to be truly free. It must be thorough, accurate and unbiased in its reporting, sincere and thoughtful in its editorials, and resistant to all outside pressure. It must be both cautious and bold—cautious until it knows all the facts, bold when it is sure of its ground. It must, above all, be inspired by devotion to the public welfare as its staff understands it.

Such a newspaper is worthy of the privileges which the English-speaking peoples have traditionally granted to their press. Such a newspaper is also the best guardian of the liberties of the people.

Drive For Funds
By McGill Grads

Montreal, Feb. 25 — (CUP) — The gratifying response to last year's War Memorial Campaign, "leftovers" of which amounted to $100,000, have prompted the Graduates Society to extend the drive to raise funds for the erection of a rink-auditorium, which will not only afford McGill her own hockey arena but will serve as a concert hall as well.

The rink will have an ice surface of 200 ft. by 85 ft. and will be available for hockey from the close of the football season to the beginning of the baseball season, and in addition the year round for concerts, etc. Seating capacity will be 5000.

The gym itself is to be extended to seat 1000 extra people, with additional floor space as well. The swimming pool, probably the most talked about addition to the gymnasium is to be in a separate section of the building and will be suitable for exhibitions with seating accommodation for 1200 people.

Work will get under way as soon as labour and materials are available, and hopes are high that the building will be ready for use next session.

Canadian College of Organists
HANDEL'S "MESSIAH"
ST. PAUL'S CHURCH
Bloor St., East
March 18th and 25th at 8 p.m.
CHOIR OF 150 VOICES
FREDERICK SILVESTER, F.R.C.O. — Conductor
DR. CHARLES PEAKER, F.R.C.O. — Organist
SOLOISTS

MARCH 18th	MARCH 25th
Alice Strong Rourke...Soprano	Lillian Smith.....Soprano
Mary Palmateer.....Contralto	Evaileen Kilby Dunlop, Contralto
Jean Letourneau.....Tenor	John Biddle.....Tenor
George Lambert.....Bass	Norman Cherrie.....Bass

TICKETS $1.00 at
Toronto Conservatory of Music
College St.
Heintzman & Co. Limited,
195 Yonge St.
Mail Orders: Mr. A. E. Clarke 383 Huron St., Toronto 5
Proceeds in Aid of British Organ Restoration Fund (Coventry Cathedral)

North American Life Assce. Co.,
112 King St. West (Ground Floor)
Promenade Music Centre,
83 Bloor St., West.

VARSAITY IN A FACTORY

Also In March 1 Maclean's

Britain Can't Be Defended

"All the King's horses, all the King's men, and all the King's scientists can't put the British Humpty Dumpty up on her sea wall again," declares Britain's famed news commentator, Stephen King Hall. "About 10 atomic bombs (1945 variety) would put London and the U.K. out of business."

Your Child Can Go Wrong

"Any child may swear, lie or steal," says Dr. Blatz, noted Canadian psychologist, "and any child can be made into a socially adjusted adult." As told to Geoffrey Hewelcke.

2,4-D Kills Weeds

It doesn't hurt most grass, but it's death on weeds. Just spray your lawn with 2,4-D and watch dandelions vanish. By Charles Cornell and Gratton Gray.

See Here, Dr. Chisholm!

Brock Chisholm's advice to parents, reported in Maclean's, brought a flurry of comment. Here are some typical letters—March 1 issue.

$500-Prize Story

Surgeons could mend his battered face, but it took a girl with an understanding heart to heal his spirit. A $500 Maclean's prize story, by Anka Stewart.

The Great Gorman

Thomas P. Gorman loves hockey, racing and needing stuffed shirts. Championships follow him around—and often catch up. A lively word-portrait by sportswriter Jim Coleman.

Those Hats x Beverley Baxter x Washington Memo x Backstage at Ottawa x Is the U.S. Fit to Lead the World? by Bruce Hutchison x Blond Mink x Nazi Ideas for Canadians x Fiction x Editorials x In The Editor's Confidence x Laundry Wrinkles x Wit and Wisdom x Parade x Cartoons.

March 1 MACLEAN'S
ON SALE TODAY-10.

Meet the Peace-Swollen College Class of '49, Digging for Learning in Army
Huts, RCAF Barracks, Even War Plants

The mass migration of 22,000 Canadian servicemen out of uniform into cap and gown has Canadian universities bulging like a football stadium on a Saturday afternoon. Because it's Canada's largest university—almost double the size of any other—Toronto's problem is the biggest.

Maclean's writer, Gerald Anglin, takes you for a wind-swept stroll on University of Toronto's new auxiliary campus at nearby Ajax, where classrooms, labs, and residences for 1,500 students have been fashioned from a giant warplant.

Don't miss this article—March 1 Maclean's!

DIEPPE AS THE ENEMY SAW IT

By L. S. B. Shapiro
Maclean's European Correspondent

Author's note: This article, taken from German intelligence reports on the Dieppe raid of Aug. 19, 1942, reveals hitherto undisclosed facts which underline the raid's function. In these reports the Germans do not deal kindly with the Canadian effort at Dieppe. But the writer has not lightly undertaken this article. The documents are authentic. They were professional battle reports, not subject to propaganda treatment in Berlin.

MACLEAN'S
CANADA'S NATIONAL MAGAZINE
A MACLEAN-HUNTER Publication

Nominations For Hart House Committees
Close At 6 p.m. To-day!

Speaking OF SPORT

By Don Mason

Scooped ! !

Did you notice your early-morning paper boy carrying a flag yesterday morning? You did? Well, there was a very good reason for it. Said publication that morning had scooped the Varsity sports page for the first time since George Brown became editor of the old Mop and Pail.

We have wired congratulations to our rivals, who, due to all-night celebrations, will probably not be printing to-day. Fact is, we didn't have the space to print the story on the Intermediate-O.A.C. hockey contest in Guelph.

Tops In Two Leagues

If you didn't see the results in some other paper, we might tell you that the Intermediates won by the very decisive score of 7-3.

McMaster and O.A.C. have both been defeated twice by these, our favoured sons, which puts them very much at the top of the league.

Latest reports have it that this will see the close of the Intermediate Hockey series. If this is so, it will mean that the Baby Blues have established the enviable, and somewhat unique record of having knocked off top spot in two leagues in one season—the Junior "B" League (with only two defeats), the Intermediate Intercollegiate loop (with no defeat).

The boys, all of whom are under 20, deserve the highest praise for their efforts this year. They received very little fan-support for any of their games, but, undaunted by this, went ahead and showed the way to every team they met in competition. Well done, fellas!

Crucial Contest

To-night the Sr. Blue Hoopsters face their severest and most decisive test of the year. The Metras-coached Mustangs are definitely out for a kill as a win will practically clinch the championship.

Any way that you look at it, to-night's battle promises to be a struggle deluxe. This is one game on which we'd hate to bet our last greenback one way or the other. Both teams are well-coached, both are loaded with starry performers. Only time will tell.

Boners Blow In From The West

Incidentally, this Metras man really believes in the advantages of publicity. Western sent out more pamphlets, bulletins, placards, etc., on the doings of their rugby squad (remember them?) than the Jehovah's Witnesses can produce in a year. Only yesterday, this department received two fat documents from said Metras, proclaiming the wonders that the Mustang teams have performed this year. The contents are very interesting, but whoever wrote it must be spending his sixth consecutive year in Grammar School.

Prime example: "Dick Farley, London Centrals addition to the Mustangs this year, leg has not been in any too good shape..."!! Farley seems to have become separated from his leg. Tough!

No Alibis

The McGill Daily, in covering last week-end's Varsity-McGill hockey battle, offered no alibis for their defeat at the hands of the Blues, but promised to make it hot for the Baileyites when they head Montreal-way this Friday. The writer freely admitted that Varsity carried the play for last two periods, even hailed the Blues' front lines as "two of the fastest and best balanced forward lines of the Intercollegiate league". Such praise for another team, even though well-deserved, is seldom seen among the rank of sports-writers—even us!!!

Support the I.S.S.

Most popular sport of the week is trying to figure out whether the funds-for-the-I.S.S. Anchor Ball is formal, informal or optional. Latest report from the D.C.'s is that it is strictly optional, which should be jolly good news to all those social-lights who have been spending all their bridge money in various florist shops for the past two months.

The I.S.S. whose pocket book will materially benefit from this affair, is in need of all the moola they can collect, so why not combine an evening's dancing, etc., with giving another boost to the I.S.S. Ye sports eds. who usually never attend any type of social function, are even planning on attending, so you can judge for yourselves. (Who said that??)

Blue Cagers To Face Crucial Test Meet Western Mustangs Tonight

LEAGUE STANDING

Senior Intercollegiate Hockey
	G	W	L	T	F	A
TORONTO	4	4	0	0	35	10
McGill	5	4	1	0	40	16
Montreal	4	1	3	0	28	32
Queen's	5	0	5	0	5	50
Senior Intercollegiate Basketball
	G	W	L	T	F	A
Western	4	4	0	0	211	145
TORONTO	4	3	1	0	219	163
McGill	5	2	3	0	196	226
Queen's	5	0	5	0	219	260

NOTICE

All hockey and major Basketball managers please file their nominations for the All Star Interfaculty team at the Athletic office no later than Friday, March 1, 1946.

Please be impartial!

Tonight, the London Arena will be the scene of the most crucial Intercollegiate basketball game of the season as the Varsity Blues take their arch-rivals, the Western Mustangs.

The Metras-coached London Mustangs are at this moment on top of the loop with four wins and no losses while the Blues are right behind with only one loss to McGill, in their starts.

If the Varsityites can eke out a win in this contest, they will place the Mustangs for top position, while a loss will ruin their chances of the championship.

The two aggregations have met only once this season, and at that time, the Blues scratched out a 47-46 victory over their U. of W. rivals.

Hoop fans will remember the Maple Leaf Gardens' match as the top in basketball with neither team showing any decisive edge as the Mustangs could have tied the game on a technical foul shot after the final whistle had gone.

Mustang-coach Johnny Metras is confident that his starry charges, playing on home grounds, can take the Blues, but the Toronto camp is equally confident that they will hand their opponents a set-back.

Centering the Western quintet will be flashy Al Scorgie, who has netted 149 points in 15 games this season, while winging him will be Phibbs and Captain "Moose" McNair, both tricky ball handlers and great hoop artists. Dick Farley and Fab Curry, both high scorers for guards, make up the starting Western quintet.

Coach Roy Dilworth has all his basketballers in top shape, and, after practising on a large playing floor yesterday, does not expect that the larger London Arena floor will bother his point-getters.

The entire Scott - Wallace - Mayzel - Cranham - Thomson - Gibson - Zeaton - Clayton - Fry - Fountain aggregation will be raring to go tomorrow night. No mention of the respective merits of this starry gathering is necessary. Each and every one of them will be giving their all tonight to beat the Mustangs.

Sportswoman

By Polly Mutz

Elections

Are funny things. They can be as complicated as the mechanism of a Swiss watch, or as simple as an everyday "yes" or "no". Two years ago the system used for the election of the executives for the campus sports clubs was a make-shift version of the preferred system of balloting... the elections, held in the Household Science building, were reminiscent of the hey-day of the stock markets. All members of all nine clubs met to choose not only the president, but also the full executive of the organization they represented. Three, or less, overseers would be posted at the blackboard, and record nominations, which could come from anyone present, not necessarily a member of the club concerned, or from the same faculty. Not to mention the confusion resulting from such disorganization, this did not make for the most efficient of executives... one never knew what combination would result from one's ballot marked with first and second choices, much less who the individuals were.

Happily, the elections have undergone a face-lifting operation... more or less. Now the spring meeting of club members is concerned solely with choosing the presidents of individual clubs. The head of each club can be nominated only by the outgoing executive... or one of the club members. Then when the smoke from exams has cleared, and students have returned, each faculty chooses their own representatives to all clubs... and the president chooses her own executive.

Thus much chaos of former years is cut... making the voters happy, the new presidents likewise... which all makes one reflect on the potentialities of the franchise.

Favor Sr. SPS In Playoffs

The interfaculty hockey playoffs will open next Monday night at 8 p.m. in Varsity Arena when Trinity A meets U.C. II, to be followed an hour later by the School Fifts vs Trinity B contest. The other games in the quarter-final round will be played on Tuesday and Wednesday by Sr. S.P.S., Vic I, Jr. S.P.S., Business Administration and the winner of group five who will be determined this Friday.

The semi-finals will be run off at the end of the week and the finals, a two-out-of-three series, will begin on Monday, March 11 at 4:30 p.m. The second game will be on Wednesday at the same time, and the third, if necessary will take place Friday afternoon, March 17.

The winner will receive the Jennings cup, won last year by Sr. S.P.S. in two straight games from the 1944 winners, U.C., by scores of 3-1 and 7-2.

Junior and Senior School, Vic, and Trinity A are the squads favoured to reach the semis, but an ever-improving team from Bus. Ad. may throw a monkey wrench into these prognostications.

In group five the winner is still undecided with Meds III, the favourite, leading the league with six points. But closely following them are the others, S.P.S. (5), Dent B (5) and Pharm (4).

It might be pointed out again that each team is expected to supply two men to help with timing and judging. If they fail to do so there is a fine in the form of three greenbacks and 100 points on the faculty's Reed Trophy standing.

However, the Senior Engineers are picked to capture the laurels from Vic in the finals in a tight series that may go the full three games. Varsity student referees will be used up to the finals when an outside ref. will officiate. Schedules and referee assignments will appear in the Varsity this week.

GAMES TODAY

WATER-POLO		4.15	U.C. (PHE) vs ST. M.Maxwell
BASKETBALL MAJOR
Playoffs	1.00	For. A vs Jr. VicMaxwell, Jackson
	4.00	Trin A vs Dent AMaxwell, McAdam
BASKETBALL MINOR
Group Playoffs--	1.00	For. C vs Vic VIIIMcPhedran
	4.00	Trin VII vs Knox BKerrison
	6.30	For. E vs I Elec.Mott
	7.30	U.C. Holwood vs Vic. XMott (if necessary)

Water Polo Standing Committee Meeting

Friday, March 1st., 1.00 p.m.
Athletic Directorate Room, Hart House
To Arrange Playoffs, etc.

SKIERS!!

Tickets for a Ski Bus for March 2nd., will be sold in the Athletic Office up to Thursday night. We need 20 Skiers in order to contract for a bus. If we do not get our minimum number, the bus will be cancelled, and information printed in Friday's Varsity, and money refunded.

UNIVERSITY CLUB ELECTIONS THIS WEEK

SOCCER	5 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27th	in Athletic Directorate Room.
TENNIS	1 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27th	in Athletic Directorate Room
GOLF	1 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27th	in Athletic Directorate Room
RUGBY	5 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 28th	in Athletic Directorate Room
TRACK & HARRIER	5 p.m. Fri., March 1st	in Athletic Directorate Room

Will all members of Intercollegiate teams make an effort to be present.

Ajax Sports

BASKETBALL
Commuters A defeated	729A--55-32
725B defeated	724B--19-16
736B tied	731B--14-14
726 defeated	737--41-15
728B defeated	723B--20-12
BOWLING
Winner	Loser	Score
730B	731B	1533-1502
734B	724C	1519-1480
728B	733B	1869-1550
730B	722B	1672-1530
726B	736A	1641-1513
734A		1487-1474
737A	Commuters A--default.
731A (Girls)	Commuters B--default.

Sport In Short

MON. FEB. 25
Basketball Major	S.P.S. IV default to Pharm.
St. M. B.....33	Trin. B.....19
Basketball Minor
III Elect.....22	I Dent.....17
Hockey
Dent. A.....2	St. M. A.....2
S.P.S. V.....3	Wyc.2
Water Polo
Trin.2	For.1
TUES. FEB. 26
Basketball Major	P.H.E. II.....27
St. M. A.....23
Basketball Minor
P.H.E. VI.....52	Vic. XII.....33

Our Readers Write—

Appeal

The letter below was received recently at the President's Office. Interested readers are invited to respond.

My friend:
I am sure you will be surprised to receive this letter from an unknown person who takes the liberty of addressing you as a friend.

Before I tell you the purpose of this letter, I would like to give you an idea of my personal history. I am a boy of 21, studying in B.A. Junior class of the University of Bombay. I have greyish green eyes and dark brown hair. I am 5' 8½".

As regards my hobbies, I collect autographs of great personalities, stamps, coins, film stars' photos and pictures of war. I am also interested in photography. I am son of Dr. Hemandas R. Wadhvani, till recently Minister of Health and Defence for the Province of Bombay (Western India).

Canada is of great interest to me and I very much wish to have some friends in it. I wonder if you could put me in touch with two of your students (One boy and one girl) between the ages of 18 and 21. They may be interested in any of my hobbies mentioned above. I may mention that in B.A. I have taken English, Politics and Economics.

Let us hope that in the years to come the world will be united into a single unit. Then we will be able to make this world a garden—better and happier place to live in, devoid of wasteful wars—Where children will enjoy their lives in peace and mutual love. How glorious it will be to see the countrypersons of the world working and playing as a great commonwealth of nations with perfect cohesion!

I sincerely trust that you will ask a boy and a girl of your institution to correspond with me. If you don't do so, you may please send me a letter to one of your student agencies concerned with the development of good rapport among students of various countries with a request to do me the above favour. We will gain first hand knowledge of our respective countries. Thus we may acquire a clearer insight and create better understanding between our two nations.

With all good wishes,
Very Sincerely yours,
Gopal H. Wadhvani,
C/O Dr. H. R. Wadhvani,
Sakraan Road,
Karechil 1, India.

Executive ability is taxed by a graded tax on income (salary limiting) with subnormal incomes exempted. Why not a graduated instead of a fixed "profit limiting" corporation tax—based on percentage of profit earned on capital invested or book value of tangible assets.

The government provides tariff and patent protection to boost prices. Hence, should it not protect consumers against exorbitant prices and drain off part of any overcharge or unusual profit by taxing excessive profits more heavily.

A progressive tax—from 10% tax on a 5% profit to 30% tax on a 15% profit—plus 60% of any further profit illustrates what I have in mind. True, we now have a 60% tax on excess profits but this applies to any excess over average pre-war profits, whether moderate or excessive. If the latter, the tax doesn't apply until the excessive profit is exceeded.

All the talk about cartels and monopolies reminds one of Mark Twain's remark about the weather. How about a graduated corporation profit tax?

JOHN W. GILBERT

Wicked Woozle

The Editor, The Varsity,
Dear Sir:

Just what your Feature Editor Mr. McLean had in mind in his "feature" article on the Woozle Unit appears to me to be a disgraceful display of sabotage and a violation of literary practice, in or out of a University campus. Your tactics in this case were typical of the low journalistic systems that base their sole claim for existence on these well-to-be-avoided things called scoops (especially when the full truth is not known—e.g., the current daily adventures of Superman).

What I am driving at is that you had no right to make use of material to be printed, nor to review it or exploit its wealth of wit and wit before publication. (Not only is the paper one of the best humorous articles that has ever floated onto this campus on a zephyr of ale vapours, but it also has a dense concentration of Applied Mathematics to support its development and application and therefore I decry its interpretation by an Artsman who it is easy to see is not a member of M. & P.

It must be admitted that Ross McLean managed to do a commendable job of introducing the article to appear in the magazine edition of Toike Oike by skimming over its basic features but this practice is to be discouraged as much as possible—it is of the same order as stealing a theme from a symphony from its setting in the work and using it in a medley to accentuate the oscillations of the girls on-stage at the Queen St. Mecca. I also object to the article on the grounds that it stresses the risqué nature of Toike Oike and refuses to recognize the fact that the magazine is among the most refined publications ever to appear on the campus.

Apologies, I feel, are in order and I would prefer to see it in 12pt. caps., please oblige.

—GORD. ROSENTHAL,
IV Aero. Eng.
(Toike Oike Editor).

I WANT YOU !!

The finger eagerly points. You are pulled from your plywood perch and spread on a table.

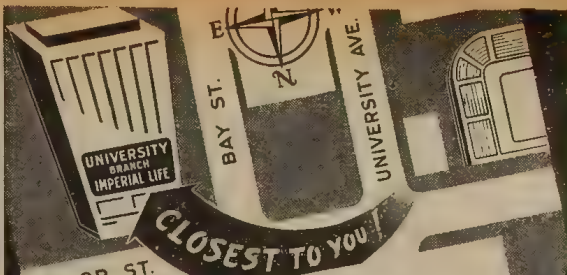

Sharp shears cut you, stabbing needles relentlessly pierce you again and again, hand-pressed flatten and roll you . . .

. . . After 3-4 weeks the activity ceases. In a box you are carried away from

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)

thus ending the saga of a suitlength.

BILL BRYERS

The smiling soldier featured elsewhere on this page rightfully belongs in the sporting section. Beginning with Varsity Junior Dominion Champs of 32—then the Senior Intercollegiate Champs of 33—he finally hung up his cleats after starring with the Argo Dominion Champions in 1937.

In September 1940 Bill left civvy street to organize sports in Army Camps. In the Spring of 1941, he later transferred to overseas in the Canadian Intelligence Corps.

After four years overseas he returned to Canada in January, 1946 and promptly joined the sales staff of our Branch. We are proud to have him with us and if anybody wants to swap confidential stories about Holland—you can get him at KI 4136.

published by b. a. stevenson, c.l.u. and associates of the university branch 57 bloor street, west.
ki 4136.

Canadian Association of Science Workers
Toronto Branch

PRESENTS, IN ITS SECOND SCIENCE FORUM:

DR. C. H. BEST

Nobel-Prize winner and co-discoverer of Insulin, who will speak on the topic

Chemical Methods In Physiological Research

Thurs., Feb. 28, 8:15 Women's Union, 79 St. Geo. St.
Admission Free Collection at the door for I.S.S.

Support the I.S.S. Drive

ST. GEORGE'S PRE-LENT TEACHING MISSION

MARCH 3rd to MARCH 10th

Most Rev. Philip Carrington, M.A., D.D., Litt. D.
Archbishop of Quebec

SUNDAYS AT 11 A.M. AND 7 P.M.
WEEKDAYS AT 8.15 P.M.

MARCH 3rd — MARCH 10th

Is man worth saving? Can religion do it? Has Christ become a "Pale Galilean" to the modern world?

What Do You Think — or --- Do You?

Classified Advertisements

24 HOUR SERVICE Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.	WANTED A size 15 dress shirt. Phone MA 2975.
WANTED Student to help with evening meal and dishes in small rest home. Apply Miss Edith Cox, 120 Walmer Road, MI 8081.	LUNCHEON Relaxation with Terry Arlen, at 12.55 daily.
WANTED Tutor, actuarial science, for first year C. & F. Apply Box N, The Varsity.	LOST Pipe, probably in Great Hall in Economics Bldg. Please return to S.A.C. office.
WANTED U. of T. Band crest—1940-41. Wanted for copy, will be returned to owner. S.A.C. office, Hart House.	LOST Waterman's "Taperite" blue pen, in either Hart House or Medical Bldg., Sat. Reward. Please return to S.A.C. office.

Double Taxation

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:

The corporation income tax, in the limelight recently because governments need revenue, appears to be a tax with many faults and one which it doesn't tax you when you are in the red. The tax grew, more revenue was required or governments became more callous, from 1% in 1906 to 40% in 1945.

A fair criticism is that it results in double taxation—first as profits in the hands of the company, then the investor pays income tax on profits received as dividends. On the other hand, while interest rates were dropping between 6 to 3% this tax was climbing—a sort of equalizer between dividends and interest rates. In view of this and the fact that venture capital deserves a higher return than interest rates this tax might be justified where capital is earning 10% or higher profits. It doesn't seem right that the firm making a subnormal profit also has to pay the tax.

Excellence in manual skill or ex-

Opticist Prescription Co.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacleware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service

1 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
Ground Floor St. George Apartments
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Flowers for All Occasions

COOPER FLORIST

PARK PLAZA HOTEL MI. 6361
10 Avenue Road WE DELIVER

BILL BRYERS (3T4)

The UNIVERSITY BRANCH OF IMPERIAL LIFE announces that Bill Bryers has returned from four years' overseas service with Canadian Intelligence Corps, and is now a member of our staff. Sports fans will remember Bill's gridiron record with Varsity and Argo teams. He will specialize in the insurance needs of university veterans.

Intermission Aquacade
The MODERNAIRES
DANCING 9 to 1

P.H.E. AT HOME

HART HOUSE MARCH 1st

TICKETS—2.50 per couple
From any Physical Ed.
SEMI-FORMAL

DANCING

Every

Saturday Night

PICCADILLY CLUB
of the

HOTEL GENOSHA

to the music of
THE AMBASSADORS OF MELODY

Cover charge $1.00 per person.

DINE . . .

In the beautiful
EMPIRE ROOM

Luncheon 11.30
to 2
Dinner 5.30 to 8

THE GRILL
FINE FOOD
QUICK SERVICE

Piccadilly
Room, Rose
Room, Blue Room, available for Banquets, Dinners
Monday to Friday
See Banquet
Manager

Phone 3000 for Reservations

Support the L.S.S. campaign for funds NOW.

Art, Music and Drama

Organic Excellence

A pleased audience heard Dr. Healey Willan, University Organist at his best yesterday afternoon in Convocation Hall. Dr. Willan drew every bit of meaning from some of the most difficult works of four modern composers. The audience's attention was irrevocably drawn in the first few minutes of Walter Hay Sangster's Prelude and Fugue in G minor, which opened the programme.

Direct opposites in flavor were two choral-preludes by C. Hubert Parry, on the hymn-tune, "Martyrdom" and the well-known plain-chant, "Christ, Redemptor Omnium". These subjects are very different, but Parry has given them similar quiet treatment.

As a build-up to the climax of the programme was the modern-style Rhapsody by Herbert Howells, of which Dr. Willan says in his programme-notes, "The Rhapsody is one of a set of three, and is characterized by a sane chromaticism in which the composer is content to be sincere."

The final and crowning glory of the programme was the Introduction, Passacaglia and Fugue in E flat minor, from Dr. Willan's own pen. To appreciate such a work as this, one must hear it played by a good organist, as both the theoretical and practical details of the piece are insurmountable except by the best performers. The Passacaglia and Fugue are examples of incredible complexity of imitative counterpoint. Dr. Willan was certainly not taken aback by the difficulty of his programme. On the contrary, he showed, as indeed he always does, the utmost of musicianship and precise clarity.

The next and last recital of this series will be given on March 12 by Mr. John J. Weatherseed, F.R.C.O.

—JOHN GARTSHORE.

it's dashing!
it's debonair!
it's a derby! .. by Stetson

A classic in fine fur felt—with clean cut lines, sleek as a wing! Pert with its upturned edge and rayon grosgrain ribbon trim and jaunty bow at the back. In black, brown or navy.—Only one from a collection of Stetson Hats at EATON'S

EATON'S—Main Store—Third Floor

THE T. EATON CO. LIMITED

WING I, R.C.A.F. ASSOCIATION (Canadian Legion)
ANNOUNCES

R.C.A.F. Veterans' REUNION DANCE

Windsor Room, Savarin Hotel.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28th.

DANCING 9-1

DRESS INFORMAL

Tickets $3.00 per couple, on sale now at Cigar Shop, at Savarin Hotel — Reservations WA. 1126

West Virginia Paper Will Become a Daily

Morgantown, W. Va., February 22, —(Exchange)—The Athenaeum, bi-weekly newspaper of the University of West Virginia, will become the Daily Athenaeum in September and resume publication of world news obtained from a leading press association, according to Athenaeum sponsor P. I. Reed.

Plans have been made to select editors and business managers this spring for the 1946-7 Freshman Handbook, the Moonshine, campus magazine, and the Monticola, the yearbook, to ensure the best possible campus publications for next year.

COCA-COLA LTD. - TORONTO

The right note

Drink
Coca-Cola

3 ONE-ACT PLAYS PLAY-NITE

- THE MONKEY'S PAW—Jacobs.
- THE HAPPY JOURNEY—Wilder.
- THE DEVIL AND DANIEL WEBSTER—Benet.

THURS., ★ FEB. 28 ★ 8:15 p.m.

Tickets Available at Office of Ontario College of Education, Bloor and Spadina, or at Door.

ONCE THEY SAID . . .

that the hill country of Palestine was useless for man or beast . . .

March 5

to

March 15

TODAY . . . while the Jews constitute 32% of the population, they possess only 6% of the land. Help make possible the purchase of land for the tens of thousands of derelict European Jews who are actually walking to their homeland . . .

Give Them A Lift

SUPPORT THE COMBINED PALESTINE APPEAL
ON THE CAMPUS

TO A NEW LIFE IN PALESTINE

ORCHESTRA
BENNY LOUIS

DANCING—8.30—12

$2.00 per couple

For Vic. Students Only

VICTORIA COLLEGE ATHLETIC AT-HOME

Burwash Hall

Friday, March 8th.

TICKET SALE
MONDAY, MARCH 4th
For Sports Participants only and TUESDAY, MARCH 5th
OPEN SALE
At V.C.U. Office From 12-2
INFORMAL

List Complete Nominations For Engineering Society

The nominations for the Engineering Society Executive are complete and the following men will stand for election. The elections will be held Friday from 12 noon to 2.30 p.m. in the Engineering Building while the results will be announced later in the afternoon at the Queen Street Mission.

The following are the nominations and the posts for which they will run: President of the Engineering Society: G. W. Daniel, J. A. Whitten; 1st Vice-President: J. A. Brown (accl.); 2nd Vice-President: F. A. Huyke, P. G. Kingsmill, Harold P. Kottler, James Service, R. W. Stephenson, Eldon Yundt; Secretary: Ken Redsell, W. H. Robinson, J. R. A. Walker; Treasurer: Frank Godfrey, R. S. Hill, Bernard A. Warren.

Athletic Association, President: K. C. Henrick (accl.); Vice-President: R. M. Brown, W. J. McCann, J. A. Grieson; Sec.-Treas.: Jack Swan (accl.).

Executive 4T7, President: W. Flanagan, H. L. Coons, Norman R. Miller, R. J. Smith; Vice-President: H. J. Hamm (accl.); Sec.-Treas.: D. G. Henshaw (accl.); Athletic Representative: M. R. Davey, L. R. Farquhar, T. L. Hennessey.

Executive 4T8, President: J. B. Adams, Bill Macdonald, J. P. Temple; Vice-President: R. Grass, Bruce A. MacLeod, G. R. Muddiman, M.

G. Ryan; Sect.-Treas.: E. W. Granfield, W. O. C. Miller, G. J. Thomson; Athletic Representative: M. D. Guppy, W. H. Nord, J. W. McReynolds.

Executive 4T9, President: J. Cameron, G. A. Johnson, R. J. Landry; Vice-President: J. B. Ashbourne, W. C. Winegard; Sec.-Treas.: T. A. Harwood, G. J. Williamson; Athletic Representative: W. Lawrence (accl.).

Club Chairmen: Civil: J. Walker, R. A. Weir; M. and M.: D. V. Roland, C. W. Eggert; Architectural: N. McMurick (accl.); Mechanical: W. G. Gansler; Eng. Physics: W. E. J. Brown; Chemical: M. E. J. O'Loughlin; Electrical: D. J. T. Glenn, B. H. McGregor; Aeronautical: E. L. Davis; Engineering and Business: F. J. Langman; Debates: C. A. Fry.

Permanent Executive: President: F. Belshaw, R. Davidson; Vice-President: A. N. Campbell, M. D. McCulloch, E. T. Sheppard; Sec.-Treas.: A. M. Lount, G. Rosenthal; Councilors: Dept. 1—G. E. Evans, 2—E. W. Dufoe, 3—W. A. Freedman, 4—D. A. Price, 5—J. E. Allingham, 6—A. Cooke, 7—G. R. Slemmon, 8—G. M. Johnston, 10—C. E. Burrell.

Elections will also be held for the man considered most outstanding in Athletics, the Bronze "S". The nominees are: J. D. B. Bromley, A. N. Campbell.

Foliage Features Faces Through Ajax Week-Days

By J. J. Brigham

As on the arms of Canada, the beaver should be included on the Ajax crest. Beards are becoming more and more evident on the campus.

Naval tradition is noticeable in a few neatly-trimmed, trained hirsute adornments. More common are the loose lumberjack style, greatly publicized a short time ago in connection with the North Bay Carnival.

The shaggy type of beard is greater protection against the cold, cutting Ontario County breeze and more in keeping with the plaid-shirt-and-parka, rapidly becoming the Ajax uniform. A few prefer not to go the full distance but indulge in moustaches ranging from "fighter-pilot" to "Chaplin" with individual variations.

THAT 5-DAY SHADOW

As the week rolls on, various stubble growths appear, to be viciously hacked away Friday morning, preparatory to a week-end. Some of the luckier Skulemen do not grow a noticeable shadow between Monday and Friday but, in keeping with custom, whisk away the invisible sprouts with great deliberation.

Beards are not generally considered dangerous but they do present a hazard when cafeteria soup freezes into a concrete mass that hinders respiration and defies speech. The hapless victim, suffocating and choking, unable to plead for help, must rush to the nearest radiator to thaw his frozen jaws.

An even graver risk is that of fire. Any bearded Ajax who walks through the smoking corridors between lectures takes his life, his beard in his hands.

Lit Nominations At Debate Finals

Nominations for the University College Men's Literary and Athletic Society will be held on Tuesday, March 5 in the Junior Common Room at an open meeting to which all male undergraduates of U.C. are invited.

The finals of the Robinette debates will be contested at the meeting, and presentation of prizes and awards and the reports of the retiring executive officers will be given.

In order to aid U.C. men in their choice of representatives, copies of the constitution, containing information on the offices to be filled will be posted in the Junior Common Room and the Rotunda.

Elections will be held in the Junior Common Room on Monday, March 11, from 10.00 a.m. to 2.00 p.m., and the results will be announced at the Red and White Nite the same evening.

The nomination meeting will take place at 8.00 p.m.

CORRECTION

The Victoria College Union elections for next year's executive will be held this Friday. Yesterday's issue of The Varsity incorrectly stated that election day was Monday.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 93 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Thursday, February 28, 1946

NOMINATIONS

Poster Campaign Commences Today House Nominations Now Complete, Voting Will Take Place March 6

By GEORGE LEGRIS

The nomination lists for the Hart House elections closed last night at 6:00 p.m. with a total of 95 members running for election in the eight committees.

Election day for the male campus is to be Wednesday March 6, when the polling booths will be open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Voting will take place in the East Common Room of Hart House where strict supervision will be maintained.

Throwing some gay light on the gloomy electoral procedure will be the campaign day, to-day February 28, when posters restricted in size to 24 inches by 36 may be put up in the main corridor of the House. Blotters and handbills may be given out but nothing edible or of any value, such as food, chewing-gum and cigarettes may be handed out to voters.

The list of broken-down candidates for office according to committees is as follows:—

House Committee: (8 members to be elected) W. B. McGuire, II Meds; D. W. Bartlett, II Vic; K. G. R. Gwynne-Timothy, I Trin; R. M. Stewart I Meds ex-serv.; R. F. M. Yuill, III Vic; S. J. Hajdasz I Pre-med; W. K. Redsell, II SPS; J. A. Palmer, II Meds; J. J. Cowan, I U.C.; R. H. Beggs, I Vic; L. Sklar, III SPS; W. M. Hall, II Vic; K. E. Hunter, III SPS; G. D. Linton, III Vic; B. E. Pivnick, I Pre-med; M. L. Bunker, I Meds; A. J. Kerr, II U.C. J. J. Broderick, I St. M.; E. R. Lovekin, I Trin; M. Turko, III Meds; F. W. Banford, IV Dents; C. B. Harrow, III SPS; G. L. Hargrave, II Wy-cliffe.

Held over from this year's committee: J. C. G. Palmer, II U.C.; W. T. Sharp, III U.C.

Library Committee: (8 to be elected) W. K. Robinson, II U.C.; E. W. Wheatley, III SPS; W. R. J. Brown, III SPS; J. K. Carson, I U.C.; R. H. Johnson, II Meds; S. E. Lovell, II Vic; W. J. D. Cooke, I Meds ex-serv; D. A. Stinson, I Meds ex-serv; W. F. Wright, I Vic; H. B. Atin, II U.C.; J. A. McLachlin, II SPS; A. Jamieson, I Pre-med; I. E. Alger, I Meds; H. D. Strachan, I Wy-cliffe; W. B. Carter, I U.C.; R. E. Lau, II Meds; A. J. Cameron, I U.C.; D. D. J. Molecki, I Meds; W. L. Shantz, I Meds; R. R. J. Buckley, III St. M.; H. W. B. Nickle, IV Wy-cliffe; J. G. Wagner, I Pharm; J. H. Crookston, III Meds; H. E. Ansley, IV SPS; J. A. Reid, IV Dents; F. T. Kingston, III Trin.

Held over from this year: E. A. McCullough, II Meds; J. H. True-man, III Vic.

(Continued on Page 8)

Labor vs. Industry At S.C.M. Forum

In a statement to-day Morley Clarke president of the Student Christian Movement told The Varsity that the current tension between labor and industry presents a challenge to all students, and especially to Christian students. To help meet this challenge the student christian movement is holding a labor-industry forum from 2:00-10:00 in the Women's Union on March 2.

Mr. Clarke stated that three speakers will take part at the conference, all of whom have taken an active part in different aspects of the labor-industry question. In the afternoon C. H. Millard, director of the United Steel Workers, and C. B. C. Scott, Works manager for Massey-Harris will discuss the Rand report from the viewpoints respectively of labour and management.

In the evening Rev. John Frank will continue the discussion by setting out some of the practical ways in which students in their different vocations may take an active and intelligent share in the matter. Mr. Frank is Rector of Holy Trinity and a former alderman of the city.

REV. JOHN FRANK

TODAY AT 4 p.m

The record hour, held daily in the Women's Common Room of University College from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m., is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties.

Today's program: Mendelssohn — Midsummer Night's Dream — Overture Tschalkowsky — Concerto No. 1 in B flat minor Mozart — Symphony No. 40 in G minor

Food For Starving Germans S.C.M. Petitions Premier

A letter has been sent to the Prime Minister in the name of the National Student Christian Movement stating: "We believe that a policy which deprives the German people of their basic needs gravely imperils the peace and security of Europe and of the world", it was announced at the open forum of the University College S.C.M. last night at the Women's Union.

Those participating in the forum quoted the words of Dorothy Thompson to emphasize:

"starving masses are soil for anarchy, chaos, crime, insanity, epidemics, and nihilism."

The speaker, quoting from the letter, said that it is contrary to allied policy of pre-surrender days to refuse admittance of U.N.R.R.A. into Germany. They said that any attempts to democratize the Germans would be foiled by keeping them on a daily diet of what corresponds to a half a loaf of bread, a bowl of porridge, and a bowl of soup.

They felt that this was unfair, since the United Nations in not allowing a higher standard of diet, would be reducing their capacity for work, but the opposite view was held by some who stated that this would keep her weak and so deprive her of the power to prepare for another war.

The S.C.M. Committee has petitioned the government to influence allied occupation policy so that the official food ration be increased to subsistence level. They also asked that restrictions on private relief organizations be removed, and that food consumption be so controlled in Canada as to enable supplies to be shared more fully with Germany.

ATTENTION VARSITY STAFF

All reporters of The Varsity, Ajax and Toronto, are invited to a tea in the Women's Union at 4.30 Friday afternoon, to discuss the final issue and vote for next year's editor.

C. H. MILLARD

who is the director of the United Steel Workers of Canada. Mr. Millard is to speak at the labour industry forum in the name of labour. Mr. Millard has been very prominent as a spokesman for labour in strike situations. We were unable to get a cut of Mr. C. B. C. Scott, of Massey-Harris Ltd., who will represent management at the forum.

Vespers, Violinist For Jaxes

On Sunday evening there will be a non-sectarian vesper service in the Ajax Recreation Hall, followed by a violin concert by Robert Graham, brilliant young musician. The service will begin at 7.30 and will be run by the students of Ajax.

The speaker will be Canon F. H. Wilkinson, of St. Paul's Church, Toronto.

Bob Graham, Meds. II, brilliant concert violinist, has appeared as guest soloist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and on Hart Harts, Toronto, Sunday Evening concerts. The chairman will be Andy Matthews of Ajax. The Ajax Choral Group and the Ajax Orchestra will both appear in public for the first time.

No tickets are required for either service or concert and parents and friends are invited to attend.

Appoint Dr. Gold To Social Workers

Dr. E. H. H. Gold has been appointed professor of Social Work in the University, and has taken up his duties this session after discharge from the United States Army. President Sidney Smith announced yesterday.

Under his direction, the School of Social Work is to undertake a specialized program of training in group work and recreation.

A native of Toronto, Professor Gold took a master of science degree at the School of Applied Social Sciences, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, after graduation from Varsity in psychology in 1937.

Dr. Gold was assistant director of the Irene Kaufman Settlement in Pittsburgh, and was also connected with the Cleveland Council Educational Alliance, the Pittsburgh Child Guidance Center and the Family Society in the same city.

From 1939 to 1943 he was on the staff of the School of Applied Social Sciences, University of Pittsburgh.

CORRECTION

The Jazz Concert is to be held to-day in the Junior Common Room at 1 p.m., not next Thursday as the Varsity reported yesterday.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI. 8742

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-In-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor...Peggy Bates, 476
 Managing Editor...Wally Belfry, 478
 Ajax Editor...Mike McAuliffe
 Make-up Editor...Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor...John Rooke, 477
 News Editor...George Forster, 477
 Assistant...Blanche Stanley, 476
 Ajax...Pete Philippott
 Feature Editor...E. Ross McLean, 477
 Assistant...Reg Herman, 476
 Ajax...Cliff Dixon
 Sports Editor...Bredin Stapells, 476
 Assistant...Don Mason, 476
 Ajax...Ed Caldwell
 Womens Sports Editor Polly Muta, 476
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 Editor...Barbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant...Dorothy Harley, 476
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor...Phillip Freedman, 476
 Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477
 Business and Advertising Manager...E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Thursday, February 28, 1946

On Student Government (2)

Last Monday we quoted at length from the extreme and even Toryistic right, in the person of Mr. Truscot. Mr. Truscot, it will be remembered, denied the right of students to a share in the government and administration of the University, on the ground that it would be analogous to a child elected from the nursery sitting in conclave with Father and Mother to determine the penalty for nursery offences.

Mr. Truscot as far as he goes is, we think, completely right; and the value of his statement is that it clarifies the desire of those who demand more, and more effective, student government.

We think it is important to define the claim of students to self-government, precisely because its proponents so frequently forget that what they really want is self-government. They are apt to fade off into an inimitable democratic dawn whereof the logical conclusion (if anything so vague possesses logic) would be total or partial control by students over admissions, lectures, professors, and (for all we know) janitors.

Throughout human activity, there is no set of contrary claims so hard to balance as the conflict between liberty and authority; and to destroy authority, to undermine the second of the terms, is not to effect a balance. You might just as well end the strife between cats and dogs by abolishing cats.

Dogs, however, even underdogs, have total rights in the affairs of dogdom, with reservations only where (as often) those affairs touch the larger affairs of dog-and-catdom. Students have a right, and we think a clear right, to govern what are clearly their own affairs.

Now the inevitable difficulty for a student governing body (quite apart from the question of how it is to be constituted) is conflict of aims with the governing body of the university as a whole.

We speak from experience when we say that far too often the Students' Administrative Council, the highest instrument of student government on the campus, is reduced to begging cap in hand from the authorities.

We do not mean that it begs for money: the finances of the Council lie within its own control. Nor do we mean that authority is unduly officious; authority has proven wholeheartedly willing to let the Council run its show. We mean that on matters concerning both the student body and the university as a whole, but in which the impetus comes from the student body, endless negotiations must needs be launched with Simcoe Hall authorities, to the waste of much time, temper, and spirit. The fact that the negotiations are generally successful does not alter our claim that the system is faulty.

The solution, as Mr. Truscot has demonstrated, is not to grant undergraduates representation on college councils; nor should the S.A.C. be called upon to sacrifice one iota of its present independence from harassing faculty surveillance. The university should run its own show, as it does; the Council should run its own show, as it does. But there is need of liaison machinery.

We have in mind a three-man board of faculty advisers, to meet with the Council only at the Council's call, whose duty it would be to attend to the perilous and time-wasting negotiations between the Council and the University heads which large-scale Council operations constantly call for.

These men could be appointed by the President of the University in collaboration with the Council, and should hold office for at least three years. Their availability as a consulting body would be valuable to the Council many times; and it would be clearly defined that their authority covered nothing like a veto on any Council proposal; only advice as to its feasibility. Once a measure was passed by the Council, it would be the job of this board to negotiate with the appropriate officials and report to the Council on progress.

As matters stand, with no specific liaison machinery, the President of the University and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Council are called upon to waste entirely too much time and energy discussing, referring, and manoeuvring. A Board of Faculty Expenditors would give student government in the university precisely the foothold in Simcoe Hall it needs.

—W. H. K.

(To Be Continued)

THE TRUTH ABOUT BOODLE BIRDS (—A Ballad—)

I
 Boodle birds eat Chelsea buns
 They eat the skins and all
 They never fall in love in spring
 (They wait until the fall)

II
 They go about in groups of three
 To comb the streets at night
 They stir up things that have no wings
 And put them all to flight

III
 A boodle bird will give his word
 To serve you buns for tea
 But he'll turn up late with an empty plate
 At twenty after three.

IV
 A thing no one will ever know
 Is how the boodle walks
 For if you care to look you'll see
 No feet inside his socks

V
 Don't ever trust a boodle bird
 To clean your tennis shoes
 He'll take them away to Mandalay
 Wrapped up in The Evening News.

VI
 The worst about the boodle bird
 Is how he eats a meal
 He bites his oysters on the shell
 (Imagine how they feel)

VII
 A boodle bird once came to me
 To sell a pound of filberts
 I gave him a lock and a pruning hook
 And sent him off to the Gilberts

VIII
 The king of all the boodle birds
 Lives in the Tower of Pisa
 He listens to jokes between his smokes
 And smiles like the Mona Lisa

IX
 A boodle bird once ran for mayor
 In the town of Mataroa
 He ran so fast he ran right past
 The island of Samoa.

X
 We'll say good-bye to boodle birds
 And shake them by the hand
 As one by one they grab a bun
 And head for the promised land.

XI
 But they'll be back in town again
 Before I end this tale
 Having larks in public parks
 And mussels in a pail.

—JAKE

Ajax Schoolmen Plan March Dance

The students at Ajax will hold their informal Skule Dance at the Banquet Hall of the Royal York Hotel, on Tuesday, March 19.

Said Gord Beatty, Chairman of the Dance Committee, in an interview with The Varsity: "The farmers among us will throw their inhibitions to the winds as they plot their courses across the floor to the music of Art Hallman and his band. The more intellectual students will have the opportunity of drafting out the paths traced by the limbs of the girls in the intermission floor show."

Lyon Sachs, who has been working on the dance committee, has established a Date Bureau which will enable Ajax students who do not normally live in Toronto to find escorts.

"Forms will be left with the Ajax House Chairman and distributed to the various women's residences on the Queen's Park campus by Miss Parkes of the S.A.C.," said Lyon.

Beatty, speaking for the committee, said that 500 tickets will go on sale at the Engineering Society store, Monday, 8 o'clock to 5 p.m. Transportation into the city will be supplied in the evening at 7:00 p.m. and back to Ajax at 3 a.m.

LIGHT UP AND Relax

Yes sir, there's nothing like a Sweet Cap to put you in a relaxed mood when the 'gram session's over!

Bank on a Sweet Cap for satisfaction—anywhere... anytime! And when you tune in "LIGHT UP AND LISTEN" WITH

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES

Station CKEY — CJBC
 9.30 p.m.—Every Thursday Night

The Campus Event You've Been Waiting For

2 NIGHTS ONLY — CONVOCATION HALL
 WED. AND THURS. — MARCH 6 AND 7

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESENTS FIRST EDITION

All-Varsity Revue

TICKETS NOW ON SALE—$1.00 Per Person
 12-2 p.m. in All Colleges and Faculty Rotundas,
 And Hart House Rotunda

Get Yours Now And Avoid Disappointment

ENTIRELY IN AID OF INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICE

A Year's Entertainment In One Show

ABERDEEN'S Floral Stores

Main Stores: 31 Bloor W., MI. 2495

Special Attention to University Students

15% Discount Upon Presentation

OF ADMIT-TO-LECTURES CARD

Corsages are a Specialty—Have Your Date Wear One to the P.H.E. AT-HOME

ORCHIDS AND ROSES ALWAYS IN STOCK

3 ONE-ACT PLAYS

THE MONKEY'S PAW — Jacobs

THE HAPPY JOURNEY — Wilder

THE DEVIL and DANIEL WEBSTER—Benet

Ontario College of Education

(Bloor and Spadina)

TONIGHT 8.15

Tickets on Sale at Door

Hart House Bulletin Board

Photography Talk

C. D. Woodley, Chairman of the Camera Committee, will give a talk today at 1.15 p.m. in the Camera Rooms on the Fundamentals of Good Photography.

Repeat Performance

Last night's concert by The University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra under Hans Gruber came off more smoothly than their first concert last week. The pace of the programme was faster, both in the music and the pauses between compositions, and consequently, it did not leave the audience tired as it did last week.

Once again, the orchestra was at its best while accompanying. They provided sympathetic accompaniment in Handel's Organ Concerto in B flat. Eleanor Tait handled the solo passages elegantly. The concerto is delightfully fresh and free from didacticism. Miss Tait produced an admirably fluent performance.

The quality of the orchestra's playing was again erratic. It ranged from a surprising fullness and accuracy to a disappointing meekness and raggedness resulting from technical difficulties. The fact that the orchestra was at its best in both concerts while accompanying, that is, while the full attention of the audience was not on them, suggests that their playing will improve as they become more accustomed to audiences. Certainly, the performance last night was an improvement over their last concert.

At any rate, Ajax men may look forward to a notable evening of music when the orchestra plays there next Wednesday.

—PHILIP FREEDMAN.

The Dream of Gerontius or, I'll Still Take 'The Messiah'

In the streetcar on the way home from the Mendelssohn Choir's performance of Elgar's "The Dream of Gerontius" a middle-aged woman who happened to be standing on my foot said with a sigh to her husband, who was standing on the other one, "Yes, it was very beautiful". Then she yawned.

Most of the longer great works of music sound dull on first hearing. This is usually what keeps jitter-bugs away from classical music. Recognition seems to be one of the essential ingredients of musical enjoyment, and listening to completely new music is tough going even for musicians. Modern composers have good reason to regret this fact. World premieres are frequent in any concert hall—patriotism finances that—but world deuiemes are notoriously bad box-office.

This may have been why Elgar's setting of Cardinal Newman's mystical poem appeared somewhat monotonous last night although undeniably exquisite. Possibly this is a superficial opinion due to unfamiliarity. The prevailing mood is one of sublime devotion and awe, but with comparatively little variety for the full 90 minutes. The blood-curdling chorus of Demons was a welcome relief.

The performance was good for the most part, Sir Ernest MacMillan conducting with his customary brilliance, but the orchestra sounded under-rehearsed as is generally the case with such works. The prominent tenor and contralto solo parts were capably sung by William Hain, of New York, and Eileen Law of Toronto. The short but exacting bass solos were done by James Pease, also of New York, who sang with such success at the Pop concert last Friday. This extraordinarily gifted young man proved that he can perform the most serious music with dignity and artistry. In my opinion he will soon rank with Tibbett and Nelson Eddy.

The Choir demonstrated once again that there are few, if any, large choral bodies to touch it on this continent.

—BROCK McELHERAN.

Woodwind Ensemble

Yesterday's five o'clock at the Conservatory presented Sir Ernest MacMillan and woodwind ensemble. Neither the Brahms second Clarinet Sonata nor the Mozart Quintet for Piano and Woodwinds were first-rate works of their composers (whatever Mozart may have said), but the Mozart work, in addition to occasional impressive passages, provided the opportunity for some delightful textures and ensemble work. The bassoon, oboe and horn were all excellent, the clarinet, however, was a bit inflexible and wheezy, and Sir Ernest, with all his vigour of style, was often inaccurate. The Poulsen Trio for piano, oboe and bassoon combined a healthy respect for Mozart, Gluck and Weber with an energetic jazzing-up of their styles. The piece was amusing, but this sort of thing has been done better by others.

—MILTON WILSON

Carmen Jones

The other Saturday afternoon the experts on the Metropolitan Opera quiz decided that they did not approve of CARMEN JONES: that it was not good for opera. It is a point that can be argued. There can be no argument, however, about the approval which Toronto audiences have been giving it at the Royal Alex. during the past week. Toronto has probably never seen a more satisfying, super-colossal (Billy Rose style) spectacle than this.

The last Carmen I saw on the stage was a dominating personality—all two hundred pounds of her. Carmen Jones, as portrayed by Urylee Leonardos (I think, though it could have been Muriel Smith—they alternate in the role, but there is no indication on the programme which is which), was dominating too, but in a somewhat different way. There were no cries of "Hubba Hubba!", when she first appeared but then you know how dignified Toronto audiences are. The girl was built for show, and with her splendid voice, and above all, her acting ability, made a Carmen for whom many a man would gladly go to ruin.

Oscar Hammerstein II has given the to-me boring Carmen

(Continued on Page 7)

Psychology Department War Work Covers Varied Field Here, Abroad From Nurseries To Rehabilitation

By John McRae

From squalling babies to worried war veterans, crawling around coal heaps and navigating Ottawa offices—the Psychology Department took it all in their stride as their contribution to the war effort. Members from this University were in responsible posts in Ottawa; they were training personnel for nursery schools in England, for rehabilitating war veterans and for adjusting men in the right branch of the armed services. The Psychology Department of the University of Toronto joined the war effort from the very beginning. All through the war they worked and their projects are still continuing.

In September, 1939, when war broke out Canada's psychologists across the nation offered their services. Professor E. A. Bott, Director of the Psychological Laboratory of this university and Director of the Canadian Psychological Association, which includes members from every university in Canada, called an emergency meeting of the association. The meeting, held in Kingston, Ontario, drafted a brief for the Federal Government in which they offered their services and gave their advice as to how work should be done in the selection of service personnel, in the selection of industrial personnel, and in the distribution of Wartime Information. Through the efforts of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, then Director of the National Research Council, and Sir Frederick Banting, the Psychological Association planned the manning of the Personnel Service by competent trained psychologists from different Canadian universities.

British Invite

Professors E. A. Scott and C. R. Myers were invited by the British government to come over to England to help in the selection of men for the R.A.F. When the Canadian psychologists arrived the English methods were not very good. They had men fighting and training, at the same time. A better method of selection on the line of tests was worked out, in accordance with the best principles being applied in Canada and the United States at the time. The result of the program was that the output of qualified pilots was very appreciably increased in number and quality.

Professor J. D. Ketchum was on the Wartime Information Board in Ottawa making surveys of wartime attitudes and advising the government. Professor S. N. F. Chant, now head of the Department of Philosophy and Psychology at the University of British Columbia, was Director of Personnel Selection in the R.C.A.F. and was assisted by Dr. D. C. Williams. Towards the end of the war, Prof. Chant was Director General of the Dept. of Veterans' Affairs and organized the present rehabilitation program. Prof. G. C. Cogrove conducted research in R.C.A.F. Selection Tests, under grants from the government for the first three years of the war. Dr. W. Line was Director of Personnel Selection for the Army and was helped by Dr. Mary Salter who had charge of the women's division.

In the work with the Canadian Army the consulting psychology staff worked in association with the Medical Board at all Induction Centres, and as advisors to the Commanding Officer in all Training Camps. This specially trained staff examined the men periodically to make sure that they were in the right unit of their outfit. Men obviously suited for other personnel problems were transferred; such positions were adjusted by these psychologists. Special instruction by the psychological staff was given at the Royal Military College, Kingston, and at special training centres, such as the North Bay School for literacy.

Training Personnel

One of the most interesting projects carried on by the Psychology Department was the training of British Personnel to look after Nursery Schools which were set up in England during the war to look after the young children whose parents were in war work or who were evacuated from blitzed areas. Early in 1942 a group of prominent Canadian psychologists, among them Dr. C. M. Hincks, Director of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene of Canada, Dr. S. K. Jaffray, Director of the School of Social Work, and Dr. W. E. Blatz, Director of the Institute of Child Study, visited England to survey the need for child welfare and other services. Out of this came the project to set up a training school for nursery school personnel.

In the spring of 1942 Dr. Blatz took a group of five women teachers including Miss D. A. Millichamp, Assistant Director of Institute of Child Study and Miss M. Fletcher, Principal of the Nursery School, to England to staff the first training school. This was situated in Garston Lane, Birmingham. It was an old house, but had been completely overhauled by the authorities and was in good condition when the group arrived. The only catch was that it was without furniture. All the old desks, tables, chairs and other antiquated equipment (of about 1857 vintage) had been taken out and stored in sheds in the backyard. The place was as bare as the proverbial cupboard. However this didn't phase the intrepid psychologists. They had sent equipment through the I.O.D.E. to the school and it would surely arrive soon. It did not arrive. As the days wore on, with the time for the opening of the school getting nearer they began to get worried. The sheds in the yard were attacked. Everyone who would listen was canvassed for equipment. The inventors of the group got to work and ingenuity flowed freely. In no time at all a miraculous change came over the pile of junk in the backyard. Drawers and casters were turned into free-wheeling wagons; the old desks, painted and polished, were installed once more. From every nook and cranny playpens, sand-boxes, ink-wells, blackboards, blocks, toys of all descriptions were salvaged or made with the materials at hand. What need had they for the missing equipment?

Hide and Seek

The first day was a classic of school opening days. About fifteen children arrived, somewhat soiled, somewhat suspicious, very small. The staff thought that perhaps they had

(Continued on Page 7)

Did You Know That...

These Tid-bits of information have been scratched from the latest jax-mags and are presented here in order to keep you fans up on the latest doings in swing....

DID YOU KNOW THAT...

Artie Shaw after winding up his engagement at the Meadowbrook Gardens gave his men two weeks with pay. He says he wants a rest. Artie plans to get into the movie producing business....

Buddie Rich former drummer with Tommie Dorsey, who gave way to Alvin Stoller, who used to beat the skins with Charlie Spivak, is out getting together a band of his own. Big money is backing the band....

Rex Stewart has left his trumpet chair with Duke Ellington to get a unit of his own.... Ray Nance also left the Duke and is doing a one man dance, violin, trumpet show on Broadway....

Hoagy Carmichael who skyrocketed to popularity after his singing opus in that Bacall-Bogart feature, To Have or To Have Not, now has his own West coast radio program and is pulling down $4000 for a guest appearance.... that ain't hay....

Glenn Miller's band is coming back! Fronted by singer-saxophonist Tex Benecke, it will have Miller tunes and arrangements. Part of the profits will go to Mrs. Miller. This is the band, strings and all, that Glenn wanted to bring back....

Count Basie is now in the Lincoln Hotel, New York.... Henry "Red" Ten and trombonist Jay C. Higginbottom are blasting in the Onyx Club, New York.... Bob Crosby is going into the Palladium.... incidentally, Bob will be playing hot music via the air waves for Ford!....

Igor Stravinsky, maestro of the classics, was thrilled by the mill wide brass figure on Woody Herman's Caldonia, and accordingly scored a work in honour of the Herman band. Igor has long been an admirer of Duke Ellington.... now Woody is on his list.... the number will be played on the Wildroot show some time in March....

Haj McIntyre has left Victor....

Stan Kenton nearly broke with Capitol over a dispute for a larger recording studio. Kenton now has more room, and everything is rosy again.... Kitty Kallen is chirping on her own after leaving Harry James....

Frank Sinatra is the money power behind Buddy Rich even though they were sparring partners while with Tommy Dorsey. Frankie is also co-operating with Harry James on a new west coast ballroom....

Georgie Auld has given up his band again. Something's wrong when a terrific tenor man like him can't make a go of it. He had one of the five top orchestras on the continent. But that's the music racket—you can't tell why things go wrong....

Woody Herman will be at the Queensway Ballroom Friday night. The whole Herd (Bill Harris, Chubby Jackson, Neil Heft, Flip Phillips, etc.) will be with him.... trumpeter Pete Condolly left a while ago.... Francis Wayne his vocalist, has given way to four chirrupers known symbolically as the Blue Flames the Wildroot show will be broadcast from this good old Queen City....

Dave Pepper, trombonist, well known to Varsity and Toronto fans (he played with Nisi and is now with Gimby) will be playing in the U.C. Junior Common Room to-day (Thursday Feb. 28) from 1-2 P.M.... this boy plays a hot ram packed with interesting Jazz ideas....

Graham Topping, trumpeter, Harry Laughton traps, Bill Prestie tenor, Bob Wilson on alto and Phil Foster on bass will be there with Pepper....

Walter Gurd is strictly fine on piano.... he is another boy with outstanding ability who is not getting the recognition he deserves....

Bernard Cowan, former CJBBC announcer and co-chairman of the 10-10 Swing Club, will M.C. this Impromptu Jazz Concert. Bunny, together with Gordon Kieble, has revitalized the Swing Club, and has been responsible for much of the fine Jazz music on that station.... proceeds of concert go to I.S.S.... get out to-day from 1-2 and hear U.C. sizzle.

Twelve Records

In the early stages of the Japanese entry into World War II, Harry Lim, the now famous jazz critic, was forced to flee from his East Indian home to the United States. Esquire magazine as a jazz feature asked Harry to pick the 12 records that he would have brought to the States with him, had he been able to retrieve them from the Japanese.

The article on "12 Records and Exile" then included the selections of musicians, critics, disc jockeys alike, of the records they would take into exile with them.

In my choice of 12 records, I have tried to take into consideration my all-time choices, and not just the recent stuff, which I enjoy very much.

(1) When It's Sleepy Time Down

South: Louis Armstrong; Bluebird.

Louis' "Sleepy Town" will always be my favorite record. Recorded in 1932, it is the peak of his playing. The freshness of the early Hot Five numbers and the mellowness of Louis' later Vocalion seem to fuse on this record. Brilliant snatches of "The Campbells Are Coming" and "Rigoletto" seem to heighten the intensity of the jazz.

(2) Sorry: Bix Beiderbecke; Vocalion.

This is Bix at his poignant best. His accompaniment is a shade too razz-ma-taz, but in the ensembles and in his solos, Bix rises to thrilling climaxes. His tone is clear and beautiful. Don Murray gives smooth intro, but Bill Rank's tram chorus unfortunately is in the class of his name.

(3) Blues in E Flat: Red Norvo; Columbia.

Red did this side in 1935 with Bunny, Chu Berry and Teddy Wilson sharing the solo honors. Berigan plays down to earth blues. Chu overcomes his habit of standing still, and Teddy Wilson plays—stuff only rivalled by his Musicraft sides recently. Norvo tops everybody, and the sensitive, delicate work is superb.

(4) Easy Living: Billie Holiday; Columbia.

Just a kid from Baltimore, Billie did this side in New York in 1937. Many critics consider it to be her best recorded work. With Lester Young, who is at his grunting best, Teddy Wilson, in a fine groove, and Buck Clayton, soft and sensitive as ever, accompanying her, Billie sings wonderfully. Catch the bent notes, and compare with Sinatra.

(5) Memories of You: Bobby Hackett; Commodore.

Commodore started out in a blaze of glory in 1938, pressing two great Hackett sides, "Ja Da" and "Memories of You". Bobby's lyrical style is in a melancholy mood. He bends notes, at times, his suggestive playing excites you. Compare this with the cold exhibitionistic version by Sonny Dunham.

(6) The Blues My Baby Gave To Me: Frank Newton; Bluebird.

Frank has been buried too long in Boston to suit his vast array of followers. The record is Newton muted all the way, except for a lush piano bit by Jimmy Johnson. It's tasty, simple and heart-felt trumpet.

(Continued on Page 7)

First University JAZZ CONCERT

featuring the 7 pc. combo that was such a sensation at the Beauty Contest.

BERNARD COWAN — M.C.

Jazz Authority, and formerly, co-chairman of the 10-10 Swing Club.

1-2 p.m., U.C. JUNIOR COMMON ROOM
TODAY Admission 15c

In aid of
INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICE

Visit of Skunk to Campus Passes Unnoticed (Almost)

By Mary McKeown

No luncheon at Hart House, no stately organ music, no ornately robed officials, no honorary degree, welcomed the latest visitor to the campus, or more particularly to University College, Tuesday. No record of his accomplishments is available. His visit was unofficial, and his intentions unknown.

Peering surreptitiously through a cellar-window, a skunk was observed by a member of the staff. Very shortly he made his presence most obvious by attempting the use of poison gas. Although presumably native-born, he may have been attempting to ferret out atom-bomb secrets which he believed were hidden beneath the storied halls of University College.

Alternatively, he may have come as an emissary from a foreign faculty. His approach, however, was most undiplomatic.

When the appropriate authorities had been notified, the behaviour of the interloper was most nauseating.

and, while resisting arrest, he was shot and fatally wounded, by Humane Society officials, being denied even the privilege of a fair trial, as he consistently refused to produce his National Registration card, or give any reason for the attempted break-in.

Last night, however, his ghost still hovered around the College entrance, and it is anticipated that it will so linger for the next day or so.

C.O.T.C. PIPE BAND

All unit Pipe Band instruments will be returned to Pipe Major ROSS on parade on 4-Mar-46.

(H. C. H. Miller)

Major.

U. of T. Cont. C.O.T.C.

Editorial Encores

Student Steam

From the Louisiana State University's Reveille comes a thought-provoking bit of editorial.

"That editorial recommending administrative and educational progress in universities has a point," the teacher said, "but what about student progress?" When the editor took a trifle startled at such a revolutionary idea, he explained: "You point to the University of Chicago and Harvard as examples of progressive schools but have you considered that such schools also expect progress from the students? They hold them responsible for keeping up with their changes in curricula. If they don't show interest or aptitude for their studies, they fail."

He did not stop his discussion

there. Instead he threw out this challenge: "Now that colleges are so over-crowded that they have to turn away many applications, do students who are not doing satisfactory work have the right to stay in school?"

Now it was the editor's turn to admit that the teacher had a point. It does seem that uninterested students should not be taking up the time of a university which could be helping those who are sincere in their desire for an education. It is too bad we can't say "You give us progress in education and we'll give you scholastic progress."

The challenge of progress in education is definitely two-fold. Will students and the faculty, BOTH, meet it?

Organization of Social Club Is Married Students' Plan

Married students returning to university after service during the war have found that their particular interests are not being adequately served by existing organizations and functions. Accordingly under the direction of Victoria College Union, a Married Students' Club has been organized in Victoria College to remedy the situation.

The aim of the organization will not only be to provide social functions suitable for the group, but to bring the students together at more convenient times to discuss their common problems, the material in their courses and current affairs. Another aim will be to see that students' wives meet one another, and by means of the function of the club, participate in University life.

The social activities of the club begin with a dance at Wymilwood on Saturday, March 9. Married students of Victoria and their wives are urged to attend. Arrangements will be made to ensure that all will become acquainted. Those who plan to attend are asked to sign lists for that purpose on the bulletin board.

Because University records do not indicate marital status, married veterans are asked to leave their names and addresses at the V.C.U. office.

Design for Spring

Softly detailed suits . . . so adaptable that they will take all the cares of your wardrobe on their exquisitely tailored shoulders. Carefree, collarless cardigans or casual one-button jacket styles designed to take you everywhere with that indispensable look of Spring. Fine wool in lovely pastel tones or vibrant deeper shades as well as tweeds in plaid, check and herringbone combinations. Sizes 12 to 20

$11.95 to $24.50

Sorry, No Mail Orders.

Evangeline

- 113 Yonge at Adelaide
- 751 Yonge at Bloor
- 1458 Yonge at St. Clair
- 3414 Yonge at City Limits
- 444 Eglinton W. at Castleknock
- 656 Danforth at Pape

In Hamilton—King and John Sts.

smoke the mild
cigarette

Buckingham

Intermission Aquacade
The MODERNAIRES
DANCING 9 to 1

P.H.E. AT HOME

HART HOUSE

MARCH 1st.

TICKETS—2.50 per couple
From any Physical Ed.

SEMI-FORMAL

Ajax Rumblings

Ajax engineers now don't have to curse every morning while trying to put on a pair of shrunken socks. The Ajax laundry has just received from the States some Hutsch steam-heated sock forms which dry your socks to their original size. Socks are not marked with ink but are classified according to Mr. Wheeler's "Master Tag" system to guarantee against loss.

Mrs. Clark, who has been in charge of Ajax Engineering Society stores since the start, was the recipient of a beautiful silver chop dish from the Engineering Society. In token of their appreciation for her work. The presentation was made last Friday.

PARADAY HOUSE has been chosen as the name for Residence 732. A good name for the home of a bunch of engineers. As these names are to be of a permanent nature they should be distinctive and have at least some semblance of dignity. Let's get going and get our other residences named.

Much has been said about the people at Ajax, and the time has come when the campus canines enjoy a glimmer of the proverbial spotlight. There are several pooches, and most of them have a curious habit of getting into odd places at the wrong time.

Possibly the most famous dog is a little wire-haired terrier belonging to Mr. Shepherd, Assistant Director of Studies. Her name is Peggy. She has blue eyes, light curly hair, personality plus, and has been around the university so long the boys were thinking of entering her in the typical co-ed contest. Last week she got lost, which caused mild alarm in the Shepherd household, but was discovered giving a Destructive Geometry lecture to a group of Mining Engineers. When asked to explain her conduct, she explained coyly, "I'm just Mining my own business."

Then too, there is a large white dog which has been seen on numerous occasions around the cafeteria. Tuesday morning it was discovered in a surveying lecture, no doubt trying to find a convenient method of determining the distance between telephone poles. Finding the discussion of an elementary trigonometrical nature, it fell asleep. When it awoke, it emitted a loud yowl, which was somewhat disconcerting to the lecturer, who immediately figured it was Ted Snyder and Co.'s rendition of "0200 hours leap", recently made famous by a Mr. H. James.

A little fun-loving collie invaded electrical classes the other day, and had a playful gambol with another mutt of questionable ancestry. With resistance and watts flying to and fro, the pups had their fling. It was really too good to last, and when they were finally ejected, one was heard to remark, "Whenever I gambol I always lose."

The billiard room opens in Building 2040 on the 28th. Eight tables have been obtained from Hart House, Toronto, where the billiard room was converted into a lunch room. "One man's meat is another man's pool". Four ping pong tables have also been installed in 2040. Place is open Monday to Friday 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Special for students spending their week-ends at Ajax: The Friday night movie under the auspices of the Employees' Recreational Association is open to the students who are staying over the week-end, according to Mr. Brock, boss of the Rec. Hall. And for your further information this week's picture is "Frisco Sal" with Susanna Foster and Turhan Bey.

Virginia Dare

BLOUSE MEDLEY FOR SPRING
1.98 each

A trio of charming blouses... new note for the Winter costumes you're still wearing... high note for the Spring ensembles you'll be donning soon.

String Section—smart drawstring neckline on a button-back blouse, in a colorful print suggesting flowers and leaves and warm spring breezes. Sizes 14, 16, 20. 1.98 each.

Variation on a Theme—one of your favorite blouse styles... with button front, yoke and pocket... perked up with a crisp little bow. Color striped accent on Blue, Green or Brown. Sizes 14 to 20. 1.98 each Classical Symphony—the button-front blouse classic with pocket, convertible collar and action styling. Herringbone-patterned in Beige-and-White or Gray-and-White. Sizes 14 to 20. 1.98 each.

A Store in Your Neighbourhood

MAIL ORDERS

With money order send 10c to cover cost of mailing. Send to Head Office, Kent Building, Toronto.

Virginia Dare
LIMITED

University Vespers

RECREATION HALL

AJAX

SUNDAY, 3rd MARCH, 7.30 p.m.

Speaker: Canon F. H. Wilkinson, M.A., D.D.
(St. Paul's Church, Bloor St. E., Toronto)

Followed by a CONCERT

featuring

ROBERT K. GRAHAM
VIOLINIST

TORONTONENSIS

1947

Applications for Editor of Torontonensis will be received by the Associate Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council in Room 82, University College, up to 12 noon, Monday, March 4th.

Associate Secretary,
Students' Administrative Council,
A. E. M. Parkes.

THE VARSITY EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

1946-47

Applications for the above position will be received by the Associate Secretary of the Students' Administrative Council in Room 82, University College, up to 12 noon, Monday, March 4th.

Associate Secretary,
Students' Administrative Council,
A. E. M. Parkes.

FOR ENGINEERING SOCIETY PRESIDENT

WHITTEN

Late Flash

U.W.O. Down Blue Cagers 63-39

Speaking OF SPORT

By Bredin Stapells

A Return To The Good Old Days

Reconversion in the Athletic wing of Hart House continues. The pre-war athletic clubs are being re-formed. During the war, these clubs were replaced by the Standing committees of the various faculties. Now the clubs are being asked to elect their executives which are made up of a President, Vice-President, and a Secretary. Their main duty is to act as a colour committee when the time comes for awarding Varsity "T"s, and they also call the clubs together to decide who will cast the allotted votes for the club in the Athletic Directorate election.

Who Gets The Money?

This annual question as to where the receipts from the Athletic Nights go has harrassed your reporter recently. The final answer can only come after the Directorate has voted on the matter, but it might be in order to point out what has been done in the past. In previous years the profits have all been donated to some charity organization, such as the University Settlement. There is no reason to doubt that this tradition will not be continued. In addition to this source of funds, there are the mid-week basketball monies which we understand will be included in the statement. Of course, the costs of staging these affairs are deducted.

Another question which has bothered a number of students is the raise in the price of admission. This was done solely as control measure. The increased enrolment caused the Directorate to fear an over crowded Hart House. The 50c charge was designed to allay this fear.

More Band Troubles

We wish to clarify our position re—the band—in last Tuesday's S.O.S. We were not calling down the efforts of the band. We were condemning those responsible for what we considered a poor show, and a very poor advertisement for the University of Toronto. Either a full band should have been out, or no band at all. Those that were out did not have sufficient numbers to give a proper rendition of the selections required.

Those who did turn out under such adverse conditions are to be warmly commended. They showed genuine spirit, not often seen on this campus.

Heartfelt Recognition

As a token of appreciation for the time and energy they had spent in turning out a championship squad, Hec. Phillips and Abbey Foster, coach and trainer of the Intercollegiate Track Team, received silver cigarette cases last Thursday.

The presentation was made by co-captain Bill Fielding on behalf of the entire team. Frank Fordyce, the other part of the co—unfortunately being unable to be present. Simply inscribed with 'Hec and Abbey', the cases will serve as mementos of this year's squad, which garnered 84½ points—an intercollegiate record!

Hec and Abbey have always done great work, and it must be gratifying for them to have their boys recognize their efforts. We wish them all the success for next year's endeavours.

Championship In Sight

Despite the almost unusual write up in the McGill Daily, we are still watching the Red team. On Friday next they will have all the advantages of their own ice. "This and many other reasons" said Al Rae, the manager, "will give us the game". The Redmen are the fastest opposition we have yet encountered; they break fast and often catch our defense off-guard. But this week the lads are acclimatized to them, and they will not get a first period break as in Friday's game.

A number of Varsity fans are going down to the happy province to take in the game. We only hope that they will be able to see the game—ish a wonderful shity! We also hope that our Alumni residing in that town will come out as they did here—we don't really count on our immigrants from the "holy" city.

Ajax Sports

BOWLING
Winner	Loser	Score
722C	723C	1864-1369
730B	737B	1728-1369
731C	730D	1917-1752
725D	723D	1718-1576

ANNUAL MEETING OF FENCING CLUB

(Tuesday, March 5th, 1946)
Fencers will meet in fencing room at 5:45 p.m. and proceed to Great Hall in a body for supper where 2 tables have been reserved, after which there will be a general meeting in the Map Room, Hart House.

Western Planning Building Increase

London, Ont., Feb. 26.—(CUP)—The Vice-President of the University of Western Ontario has announced that when students return to Western next fall there will be three new buildings or additions to buildings ready for use.
There will be the large addition to the Science Building, the new Botany Building and the new Zoology Building. The Board of Governors hope they will have let the contract for the Physical Education Building, and that work may have actually started on it.
The Science Building contract is for $250,000. The addition will increase the laboratories for physics and chemistry while geology will in future occupy the whole of the top floor once the cafeteria is removed.

Trin. "A" and Jr. Vic. Win In Hoop Playoff Opener

High Scoring Tilt As Trin A-Dent A Fight For Position

In a high scoring basketball tilt Trinity "A" romped home to victory over Dentistry "A" 70-50.
The game had hardly got underway when Paul Luxford of Dentistry sprained his ankle on a tip off. Forwards Gall, Turner, and T. Turner sparked the fast moving Trinity sextet, bringing 24, 15 and 16 points respectively.

LINEUP
TRINITY "A"—Gall (24), T. Turner (16), Walker (4), Sage (20), R. Turner (15), Mendra (9). Total 70
DENT "A"—Rotman (3), Starr (8), Olynyk (7), Whitely (4), Hoffmann, Jones (14), Luxford (2), Coop-erblom (12). Total 50.

Jr. Vic Beat For 'A' Win in Overtime Hamilton Stars

Forestry and Victoria opened the major basketball playoffs with their "A" and junior teams. In a thrill-packed overtime period the scarlet and gold won 32-29.

The game ended in a tie 21-21 although Forestry had held the lead in points up to half time.

Hamilton of the wood choppers started with 16 points proving to be the strength of the squad. Second in the scoring limelight was Munroe of Vic Juniors with 10 markers.

LINEUP:
JR. VIC—Johnston (2), Ellis, Heinehuck, Drummond (2), Bates Topp (7), Scott (2), Munroe (10), Pease (3). Total 32.
FOR "A"—Shaw, Klein (2), Hamilton (16), Rubl, Desion (2), Kallis, Sinzon, Ryan (2). Total 29.

Ajax Schedules

HOCKEY SCHEDULE
Thursday, February 28th
Cus. 1—6:30 p.m.—736 vs. 730—Caldwell and Stefanyshyn.
Cus. 1—7:30 p.m.—Practice Period.
Cus. 3—6:30 p.m.—Practice Period.
Cus. 3—7:30 p.m.—738 vs. 729—Caldwell and Stefanyshyn.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE
Thursday, February 28th
Gr. 1—6:15 p.m. 723A vs. 738
Gr. 3—7:15 p.m. 732A vs. 734A
Gr. 6—8:15 p.m. 729A vs. 733C
Gr. 3—9:15 p.m. 736A vs. 730A
Gr. 5—10:15 p.m. 732B vs. 733B

BOWLING SCHEDULE
GROUP 9
Thursday, February 28th
6:15 p.m. 1 & 2 722E vs. 729D
6:15 p.m. 3 & 4 733E vs. 726C
7:15 p.m. 1 & 2 727C vs. 728D

GROUP 10
Thursday, February 28th
7:15 p.m. 3 & 4 723E vs. 737D
8:15 p.m. 1 & 2 730E vs. 731D
8:15 p.m. 3 & 4 733C vs. 734C

GROUP 11
Thursday, February 28th
5:15 p.m. 1 & 2 723F vs. 736D
9:15 p.m. 1 & 2 730F vs. 734D
9:15 p.m. 3 & 4 733D vs. 732D

GROUP 12 Teams have completed one round and are not scheduled this week.

U. N. T. D.

Following U.N.T.D. ratings to attend parade Thursday evening:
Donald A. FRASER
W. N. GREER
E. MacG. GRUETZNER
William JOHNSTON
F. T. KINGSTON
Lorne B. McINTYRE
H. K. NAYLOR
T. C. TURNER
Signed
(D. A. F. Robinson)
Lieut. Commander, R.O.N.(R)
Commanding Officer
U.N.T.D.

Trin. "A" and Jr. Vic. Win In Hoop Playoff Opener

NOTICE
All hockey and major Basketball managers please file their nominations for the All Star Interfaculty team at the Athletic office no later than Friday, March 1, 1946.
Please be impartial!

GAMES TODAY

HOCKEY
5:00 ST. M. A vs TRIN. A.....Brownridge, Mosher
WATER-POLO
3:00 JR. SPS vs VIC. I.....Ballou
BASKETBALL MAJOR
Playoffs
1:00 PHE II vs VIC III.....Lye, Jackson
4:00 SPS V vs SR. VIC.....Maxwell, Rotman
BASKETBALL MINOR
Group Playoffs
1:00 II AERO vs VIC. VIII.....Farrell
4:30 II CIVIL vs VIC. IV.....Hamm
5:30 PHE III vs III CHEM.....Hamm
6:30 II ELEC. vs U.C. ST. GEORGE.....Babcock
7:30 I DENT. vs KNOX B.....Babcock

HOCKEY — PLAYOFF SCHEDULE

MONDAY, MARCH 4
1:00 GROUP PLAYOFF, GROUP V (if necessary)
Game 1 3:00 TRIN. A vs U.C. II.....Lawler, Davison
Game 2 9:00 TRIN. B vs SPS V.....Lawler, Davison
TUESDAY, MARCH 5
Game 3 1:00 BUS. ADM. vs SPS II.....Doyle, Mosher
Game 4 4:00 WINNER (V) vs SPS I.....Brownridge, Davison
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6
Game 5 4:30 WINNER (2) vs VIC. I.....Andison, Brownridge
THURSDAY, MARCH 7
Game 6 4:00 WINNER (1) vs WINNER (4).....Doyle, Lawler
FRIDAY, MARCH 8
Game 7 4:30 WINNER (5) vs WINNER (3) Andison, Brownridge
FINALS
Mon., March 11, Wed., March 12, Fri., March 15 (if necessary) 4:30 p.m.

P.T. CREDITS

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS PLEASE NOTE—Forms for P.T. credits have been sent to all managers of intramural teams. If you didn't receive one please check immediately with Miss Boyd in the Athletic Office. Further information can also be secured at the Athletic Office, if required. THESE FORMS SHOULD BE FILED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION SWIMMING AND LIFESAVING TESTS

Men who wish to qualify for the swimming awards of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be required to attend the lectures on Artificial Respiration and Water Safety, and pass the required examinations.
Test items for the various awards are posted on the notice board in the Swimming Pool.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION:
LECTURE: Monday, March 4th, 4:45 p.m.
LECTURER: Dr. R. W. I. Urquhart
TEST: Tuesday, March 5th, 4:45 p.m.
PLACE: Debates Room, Hart House

WATER SAFETY:
LECTURE: Monday, March 11th, 5:00 p.m.
LECTURERS: M. G. Griffiths and A. R. T. Chetwynd.
TEST: Tuesday, March 12th, 5:00 p.m.
PLACE: Debates Room, Hart House.

Men who wish to qualify for the awards of the R.L.S.S. only, must attend the lecture on Artificial Respiration and pass the examination.

SKIERS!!

Tickets for a Ski Bus for March 3rd, will be sold in the Athletic Office up to Thursday night. We need 20 Skiers in order to contract for a bus. If we do not get our minimum number, the bus will be cancelled, and information printed in Friday's Varsity, and money refunded.

PLEASE NOTE CORRECTION OF DATE

Twelve Records

And Exile

(Continued From Page 4)

peting, far removed from Frank's work of today.

(7) Just Me, Just You: Lester Young; Keynote.

One of Keynote's first sides and one of their best. Basie-ite Guarnieri tinkles satisfactorily, and Slam turns in a great effort. Lester is sensational. His society tone grunts and groans and he sails through the best recorded example of his work, available. Big Sid Catlett whisks properly behind him.

(8) One Sad Thursday: Cyril Haynes; Comet.

The Red Norvo sextet sides issued on Comet at the same time over-shadowed the brilliant work of this combo. Cyril Haynes fresh from his success with Joe Marsala plays a sparkling type of piano. Don Byas plays lots of notes. Al Casey resembles "Buck Jumping", and Dick Vance plays one of the best horn choruses of 1945.

(9) Stormy Monday Blues: Earl Hines; Bluebird.

Big band blues. The "Sepia Sinatra", Billy Eckstine sings in his ballad, but good, style. Hines murders the key board excitingly and Shorty McConnel plays stratosphere notes with some meaning. There is very moving guitar, behind Hines played by Ulysses Livingstone.

Compare McConnel's work with present-day McGhee or Dizzy Gillespie.

(10) How High The Moon: Asch (Jazz Concert at the Philharmonic).

Norman Grantz' experiment at the Los Angeles Philharmonic turned out well. Joe Guy, Billie Holiday's husband plays a solid, bouncing horn, and Illinois Jacquet, last in Toronto with Basie, screeches happily. It's a great record displaying all the clinkers in a session, but retaining the spontaneous feel of a jam session.

(11) McGhee Special: Andy Kirk; Decca.

Howard's greatest side. From a melodic theme into a sky-rocket finish, it's Howard McGhee all the way. The Armstrong influence is evident in the brass background, and Howard's arrangement swings.

(12) Co-Pilot: Georgie Auld; Apollo.

Modern big band jazz, arranged by Dizzy and given a rousing treatment by the great Auld band. Georgie's tenor howls it's way through 16 bars of good jazz. Dizzy takes over after the thrilling brass ensemble, and brings the record to a spirited finish.

There are my 12 records and the exile has yet to come.

—Lloyd Graburn

Art, Music and Drama

(Continued from Page 3)

story a modern, vivifying twist, and the acting of the all-negro cast makes the proceedings not just believable, but absorbing. It remains grand opera; the music of Bizet is there, almost intact, and is noticeably jazzed up in only one scene, the frenzied, Kathryn Dunham-like Drum Dance, which brought equally frenzied applause. But the opera is so well integrated that the music becomes what it should be, the most important factor in an artistic whole, instead of being an end unto itself. There was splendour for the eyes and splendour for the ears. Other operas come to mind which would benefit from the same treatment.

We cannot have a review without its sour notes. Enough of these were provided by the orchestra, which was adequate before the intermission, but succeeded in being obnoxious thereafter. It was particularly wretched in what should have been the delicate accompaniment to Cindy Lou's "My Joe". Not even this was enough, however, to keep this aria from being the most moving experience of the evening.

—ROY WOLFE

I.S.S. SLOGAN

In war and peace the I.S.S. supports students with student support the world over.

DIRECT TO AJAX

BUSES LEAVE

TORONTO BUS TERMINAL

a 6:25 a.m. a 2:30 p.m.

b 7:45 a.m. b 3:55 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

(b—except Sat., Sun. and Hol.)

TO AJAX ROAD AND NO. 2 HIGHWAY

a 6:30 a.m. 8:40 a.m.

7:30 a.m. 9:30 a.m.

and every hour on the half hour until 10:30 p.m.

Also 11:40 p.m.

(a—except Sun. and Hol.)

GRAY COACH LINES

Bay at Dundas—ADelaide 4221

Manitoba Campus Asked For Blood

Winnipeg, February 22—(CUP)—Winnipeg's Central Volunteer Bureau has asked students of the University of Manitoba to assist them in their current drive to replenish the blood banks of Winnipeg's hospitals. The Red Cross has, for the present, discontinued its blood drive and the Volunteer Bureau has the problem of maintaining the Winnipeg Blood Bank.

If sufficient donors can be provided the $15.00 penalty for blood row charged in all blood transfusions in addition to the service charge of $10.00 can be cancelled. This charge was established because of difficulties of obtaining repays from relatives or friends of the patients.

Psych. War Work

(Continued from Page 3)

better let the children get used to the place before any work started. They spent the rest of the morning looking for them. As soon as the children discovered that they were free for a moment they began to flee. Some down manholes, others up trees, behind desks, and in the coal pile, not one hiding place was missed. The first game played in the Garrison Lane Nursery School was one of hide and seek.

Soon the children became used to the routine. The people who were being trained to look after them caught on very quickly. The most astonishing change, however, was in the parents of these children. Where before children had been considered a sort of nagging responsibility they are now individual human beings with needs and desires to be looked after. The parents began to take a real interest in their children. They saw the need for careful handling of each child and began to experience the, hitherto unknown, thrill of watching the personalities of their children develop. The parents too learned and began to be really happy and knowingly proud of their children.

School Blitzed

This work was carried on at the height of the Blitz. Fortunately the school was only hit once when an incendiary bomb smashed through the roof at night. The city was bombed many times while the staff was there, and often they spent the night in the nearest air-raid shelter. On one day when the attendance was poor Dr. Blatz with a couple of his staff visited the families of the children. While none of them had been actually blitzed the effect of the bombing was terrible. The Canadians were greatly impressed with "quiet calm and stubborn efficiency" of the people as they went to work to repair their homes.

Many trained nursery school workers were passed through the school that year. More and more courses of psychology involved in handling young children were added to the curriculum. People from all over England came for training. Lectures in courses for Public Health Matrons Course, Head Teachers, Wardens and many others were given all over England. Schools were established in other sections of the country and soon the work was in full swing.

The children themselves benefited greatly in the training school. Regular meals, daily naps, a judicious use of soap and water, lots of new toys and the routine of creative work interested and pleased them. They were taught that adult entertainment was really unnecessary as long as the children were busy among themselves. So they gradually learned they should always be doing something.

Everything that the staff of Psychology Department could do to further the war effort they did. The people of England are grateful to them. The Canadian Government is grateful to them. The University of Toronto is proud of them!

C.U.P. Flashes

Montreal, Que., Feb. 26—(CUP)—"Resolved there is a basis for industrial peace under capitalism", is the subject of an Inter-University Debating League debate between the University of McGill and Middlebury College, Vermont. I. Rosenfeld and C. Shatner will take the affirmative stand for McGill.

Sackville, N.B., Feb. 28—(CUP)—Mount Allison veterans of the University of New Brunswick have staged a ball, where the gym was decorated with flags, airplane propellers and colored lights. Horns were dropped from the flag in centre of the ceiling. Half an hour of the evening's program was broadcast over CKOW, Moncton.

DREW

OPEN MEETING

of the

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CLUB

...

"Strengthening Dominion-Provincial Relations"

...

WOMEN'S UNION

...

8.00 p. m. Thurs., March 7th

DREW

Classified Advertisements

LOST

Single strand of pearls between Huron St. and St. George, Saturday night. Please leave at S.A.C. office. Reward.

WANTED

Tutor, actuarial science, for first year C. & F. Apply Box N, The Varsity.

LOST

Waterman's "Taperite" blue pen. In either Hart House or Medical Bldg., Sat. Reward. Please return to S.A.C. office.

WANTED

U. of T. Band crest—1940-41. Wanted for copy, will be returned to owner. S.A.C. office, Hart House.

LOST

Brown billfold, last Thursday, Convocation Hall. Please return to Jean Smillie, at MI 4550.

24 HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

LOST

Brown Parker vacuumatic, lost in Varsity Arena, Friday night. Please leave at S.A.C. office.

FOR SALE

Man's evening suit, size 40, excellent condition, $35. ME 5484.

LOST

Bottom half of blue Parker fountain pen. Leave at S.A.C. office.

Qualified tutoring, Calculus and Statics, 1st. year Engineering. Special rates for groups of four. MO 2549.

LOST

Pair of glasses in brown leather case, Monday night, between Main Library and Bloor St. Please call GL 0214.

School graduate will pay up to $500. cash for car or half ton pick-up. Must be in good condition. Apply Box O, The Varsity, or phone KI 0111.

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE

(At College)

RA. 8995-6

Open house from nine to midnight. Saturdays until 6.

INTERESTING JEWELLERY SHOP

NECKLACES, EARRINGS, BANGLES and BROOCHES.

32 Bloor St. East

(Near Red Cross Headquarters)

MI. 5875

WING I, R.C.A.F. ASSOCIATION (Canadian Legion)

ANNOUNCES

R.C.A.F. Veterans' REUNION DANCE

Windsor Room, Savarin Hotel

TONIGHT

DANCING 9-1 DRESS INFORMAL

Tickets $3.00 per couple, on sale now at Cigar Shop, at Savarin Hotel — Reservations WA. 1126

ROMANCE

In the air at 10 p.m. It's CKEY's Terry Arien.

Talking Shop!

MAKE SURE AN AGREEMENT is reached between the rouge and lipstick you choose and the predominating colour of your costume. Men approve of the gal who decides on close harmony between costume and make-up. Blues require certain shades of rouge and lipstick, reds other shades, yellow and browns still other tones which tie up compatibly with the general effect. Three Flowers lip-stick and rouge come in shades designed to help you match your colour effects accurately . . . such shades as Carmeen, Crimson, Raspberry, Regal Red, Orange Red and Cherry.

YOU ARE INVITED TO A FASHION SHOW at Northway's, the day—Saturday, the time—one thirty. Professional models will show you how to wear those rounded-shoulder, nipped-in-at-waistline suits to best advantage, what kind of sweater or blouse does most for 'em, how to get the last potential of credit out of the new "Boy" hats, which are exclusive with Northway's in Toronto. These very special New York "Boy" hats are designed by the man who did the millinery for Show Boat, and they're creating a trend; glorified Breton sailors, Postillion styles, new off-the-face berets, etc., and Northway's are very happy about them, they tell us

IF WINTER COMES again and again, it no doubt will impress upon the feminine mind the importance of being gay in its teeth so to speak and flaunting the bright, chipper accessories which lift a weary costume out of the doldrums. The Evangeline Shops are brimming over with such manner of inspiration, and welcome you with the same good service whether it's a tweed you're shopping for or only a bit of eye-brightening kerchief. They specialize in clothes to make your money go farther and dress you more becomingly by building a wardrobe the "mix or match" way.

AFTER YOU APPLY your nail-polish, do you flap your hands helplessly in the air to dry it, then just when you think all is well, try it to see, make a smudge that has to be wiped off, causing you to go through the same routine all over again? Well then you ought to do what smart women are doing, and use NAIL-DRI, that wonderful new product which is applied to the polish while it is still wet, dries it instantly into a hard, brilliant finish. Good for cuticle too. Costs only 1c or less per manicure, the bottle, 50c. Tamblin's, Simpson's, and all druggists.

AT JOAN RIGBY'S they are individualists, which is why we never describe one particular suit or dress lest by the time you get there it has walked out with a proud customer. The best we can do is to tell you that if you are looking for something to wear that has its own good fashion story to relate, and a continued story, at that, we recommend looking into the variety of very independent clothes at Joan Rigby's, and by independent, we mean the sort of clothes that do not follow but lead in workmanship, detail of cutting, and quality of fabric.

25 years ago in
The VARSITY

By Eleanor Dickson and Joyce Pratt

A DAY AT VARSITY: 1920

8:00 a.m. Opening Scene: Queen's (Whitney's predecessor) Hall. The Queen's Hall breakfast bell softly chimed a last chime and Clementine (Clammy to her more intimate friends) is gathering forces; slip, stockings, corselet and . . . ah, forces; anyway she is well on her way to being first at the table to say morning grace.
9:00 a.m. Clammy makes her way to U.C., rather self-and ankle-conscious, as she has on the latest Whoopes skirt, which shows the ladies "dainty" ankles.
10:00 a.m. Weary from a lecture and being a broadminded young woman, Clammy drops into The Varsity office. There she has a marvelous chance to try Mary Pickford's new technique. Sliding up to William, the hero of her dreams, the dummy at the bridge table, Clammy drops her "What Every Woman Knows" (by Barrie). But William merely removes his pipe, rests his eyes two feet above the book, remarking that Miss Clementine's dress was charming.
"Of course", sighed Clammy, "Mary Pickford never had a first year Arts Man like William to contend with".
12:00 a.m. Miss Modern of 1921 not only skips her Ec. Theory lecture but she also scorns the corned beef and cabbage of Queen's for tea and cinnamon toast at the Red Cross Cafe . . . with William.
1:00 p.m. Interval for rest and penitence.
2:00 p.m. Clammy is off to the Tea Dance; music supplied by none other than J. Jardine Wilson and after the whirl it's back to the Hall to make all good girls envious.

A DAY AT VARSITY: 1970

8:00 a.m. The electric blanket, covering the Form of Virginia (Gin to her friends) Pizz, shut off the heat, which automatically started the Wash-Brush and Dress machine, which automatically starts the Zip-Sip-and-Rip machine.
9:00 a.m. Gin opens two beautiful blue eyes. Really something has to be done about the dial on the Dress machine, it indicated winter and here she was in pale blue shorts and nylon bra.
2:00 p.m. Gin is off to Stanford University's T-Dance in Vic's new Jet-propelled plane. In the hour's ride to Stanford, Horrie Otis and his Jag-Shaggers give out to the "Radar Rag" or "Come To The Moon And Back With Me", punctuated by whoops from the revolving bar.
7:00 p.m. Gin's evening maybe spent quietly at home or perhaps ? ? ? ? ?

Poster Campaign

(Continued from Page 1)

Music Committee: (8 to be elected): R. G. B. Jackson, II U.C.; H. A. Mann, III U.C.; J.F. Farmer, II Wyc; D.A. McGowan, I Pre-med; W.J. Hemmerick, I.U.C.; K.B. McMillan, I U.C.; W.R. Knowlton, II UC; H. Alsberg, Iix SPS; N.H. Slater, II SPS; R.A. MacMillan, II SPS; R.H.D. Farmer, I pre-med; W.R.G. Stewart, III Vic; K.C. McMillan, I Trin; J.N. Barry, I St. M.; W.R. Hossack, II Vic; J.F.R. Fleming, III Meds; W. Reiter, I U.C.; J. A. IV Dents; G.K. Blair, III Vic; B.F. Elliot, I Pharm.

To be held over from this year: R.K. Graham, II Meds; N.J. Turnbull, I U.C.

Art Committee: (8 to be elected) R.L. Bloore, I U.C.; J.D. Stennett, II Trin; E. F. Cooke, I U.C.; I. Burns, III SPS; C.C. Lindsey, I U.C.; M.S. Wilson, II Meds; F. E. Fletcher, III SPS; S. H. Irvine, I Vic; L.G. Singer, II U.C.; P. C. Sears, II U.C.; R.E. Rambusch, II St. M.; J. I. Leventhal, I Meds ex-Serv; J. E. Harvey, I Wyc; C. E. Sanborn, II Vic; S. J. White, II S.P.S.

Held over: W.N. Greer, III SPS; R.B. Hall, I U.C.
Debates Committee: (All eight elected by acclamation) R. Scott, II Vic; A.D. Knox, III U.C.; M. Shubik, III U.C.; I. M. Owen, III Trin; B.D. Allen, III U.C.; J.G. C. Templeton, III Vic; L. H. Shackleton, II Vic.

Held over: D.H. Hay, I Vic; W.D. Lyon, III St. M.
Chess Committee: R.E. Orlando, IV SPS; M.M. Dobler, II SPS; R. F. Rodgers, I U.C.; F.G. Torrie, II Held over from this year: J. Paterson-Smyth, II Trin.

Camera Committee: (Elect five): J.E. Guillet, II Vic; E. H. Hill, III SPS; R.M. James, I U.C.; J.T.

Ross, I Meds ex-serv; D.H. Storey, III SPS; L.M. Steinberg, II U.C.; W.H. Hopper, II SPS; J.A. Evans, II SPS; J.M. Mansell, II SPS; R.O. Heinbecker, III Meds; J.R. Connell, III SPS.

Held over: J.D. Hisey, III SPS.

Squash Committee: (Five to be elected) G.M. Ewins, III U.C.; F.C. Carter, III SPS; N.J. Fitzpatrick, I St. M.; G.A. Callahan, I Meds ex-serv; S. Moses, III SPS; S. Kofman, I Pre-med; J.W. Huborn, II Trin; S. Ginsberg, I Pre-med; R.M.C. Harrison, I Meds.

Held over: W. Zimmerman, II Vic.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762 (Ground Floor St. George Apartments) OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

NEW DANCE CLASS

All the smartest New York styles of Fox-Trot, Waltz, Jive, Rhumba and Tango.

TUESDAYS, 8.30

DA COSTA

Studios of Dancing

1139 Bay St. Corner Charles MI 5624

What's On Today

V.C.F. AJAX

The Ajax Christian Fellowship will meet tonight at seven p.m. in Hart House. The subject for discussion will be "A Christian's Task at Ajax". All are welcome to attend.

TRINITY S.C.M.

Dr. Hugh MacMillan will address the group in the Trinity Board room on the recent developments in the Japanese-Canadian issue at 1:30.

S.C.M.

Dr. Smith is to address the members of the S.C.M. council in the blue room of Wymilwood at 7:30 on the University Your Job and Mine.

U.C. S.C.M.

Forum series "What do you Believe?" Leader: Rev. D. C. Candy. 5:00 upstairs in the Women's Union.

GERMAN CLUB

8:00 p.m. Alumni Hall, Victoria Coll. German Club: Debate on Progress, dancing, refreshments. Proceeds to I.S.S.

C.A. Sc. W.

8:15 p.m. Women's Union, 79 St. George St. Canadian Assn. of Scientific Workers, (Toronto Branch): Dr. C. H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin and Nobel-prize winner, to speak on: Chemical Methods in Physiological Research.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS' CLUB

8:30 p.m., Women's Union, the club will be shown a Warner Bros. picture, "It Happened in Springfield".

WOMEN'S COMMERCE CLUB

Mrs. Rotenburg will address the Women's Commerce Club at Wymilwood at 8:00 p.m. The topic will be "Marriage vs. Career or Marriage and Career." Refreshments. Everybody welcome.

Coming Events

NEWMAN CLUB

The usual Thursday night discussion group has been postponed until Friday night at 7:30. Please be on time.

U.C. PARLIAMENT

On Friday, March 1st the U.C. Parliament will debate the resolution that "This House deplores the preponderance of lawyers in the public life of this country," in the Junior Common Room at 4 p.m.

Upholding the affirmative will be Ed. Safarian and Sam Telford. The opposition will be supported by Messrs. Hamblin and VanCamp, the Osgoode Hall Debating team.

Dance, Harry Bedlington

Arcadian Court (Simpson's)

Night of March 1st 9-1

Cost—$2.00 per couple

Everybody Welcome.

TICKETS AT THE DOOR
Proceeds For Bolton Camp

STAFF POSITIONS

WITH SALARY AT BOLTON CAMP
AND COBOURG

For Programme, Music, and
Swimming Directors, (Female)

APPLY KI 3126

GIVE THEM A LIFT . . .

Help make possible the redemption of land for the tens of thousands of derelict Bedouins who are actually walking from Mecca back to their Homeland in Palestine.

WATCH FOR THE COMING APPEAL
A NEW DEAL FOR PALESTINE ARABS

SAVE-MONEY-SAVE ON SUBSCRIPTIONS TO

	STUDENT RATE	REGULAR RATE	SAVING
TIME	3.50	5.00	1.50
ONE YEAR
LIFE	3.85	5.00	1.15
ONE YEAR
FORTUNE	6.60	11.00	4.40
ONE YEAR

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESS
TORONTO Book Dept. AJAX

ORCHESTRA
BENNY LOUIS

DANCING—8.30—12

$2.00 per couple

For Vic. Students Only

VICTORIA COLLEGE
ATHLETIC AT-HOME

Burwash Hall

Friday, March 8th.

TICKET SALE
MONDAY, MARCH 4th
For Sports Participants only
and TUESDAY, MARCH 5th
OPEN SALE
At V.C.U. Office From 12-2
INFORMAL

STUDENTS AID ISS IN BROADCAST

Special feature of the closing of the International Students' service campaign will be a radio show over the Dominion network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Written by Dick Simmonds, a first year student in University College, the show will be a dramatization of the functions of I.S.S. during the war and what it has done to rehabilitate students and universities since the war.

The script is Simmonds' first attempt at radio work. Written with the assistance of Lloyd Bochner it was submitted to the C.B.C. and accepted instantly.

It is understood that there is a possibility that some of the actors in the show will be recruited from university students.

The program will be broadcast over the Dominion network on March 7 from 10:30 to 11:00 p.m.

Geologist Speaks On Map-Making

Techniques developed during the war have made possible the rapid and accurate mapping of huge areas. The new methods and new equipment developed to meet war-time requirements will be described by Mr. William E. Wrather in the next lecture to the Royal Canadian Institute Saturday night.

Mr. Wrather, Director of the United States Geological Survey in Washington graduated from the University of Chicago in 1907. He served as a petroleum geologist in Texas for many years.

During the war he was Associate Chief, Metals and Minerals Division in the Board of Economic Warfare. He has given special lectures at various universities and has travelled extensively in foreign countries, involving both scientific and economic investigations.

The lecture, illustrated with slides, on the subject "Map Making for War and Peace" will be given Saturday evening in Convocation Hall at 8 p.m.

Reach The Quota Object of I.S.S.

Approximately $2,500 has already been realized in the I.S.S. campaign to raise funds for needy students according to Committee Chairman June Wong.

"The response so far has been satisfactory but we still need $5,000 to make our objective," said Miss Wong.

The tag-day resulted in $2,100, $100 of which was collected at Ajax Division where another tag day is being held today. Individual contributions total $400 to date.

Still being canvassed for donations are members of the faculty and staff, the Board of Governors, professors emeritus, fraternities, and alumni associations.

The University's quota is $10,000, national quota is $50,000.

Annual Alexander Series Brings Bryn Mawr Scholar

The Alexander Lecture Series, established in 1926 by friends of Professor W. J. Alexander of the English Department, University College, will be continued this year with a series of four lectures to be given in Hart House Theatre.

Scheduled for March 11, 12, 13, 14, the talks in this year's series, to be given by Professor Samuel C. Chew of Bryn Mawr, will be under the general title of "The Virtues Reconciled: A Comparison of Visual and Verbal Imagery".

The four lectures, of which the first is to be on "The Friendship of the Arts", will be open to the public. The three succeeding talks will be on "The Parliament of Heaven," "Truth and Justice" and "Mercy and Peace."

The Alexander Foundation, es-

Vocational Guidance Topic at Wymilwood

Miss Elizabeth Gowan, M.A., of the School of Social Work in this University will open a series of lectures in vocational guidance for women students at Victoria University. The first speaker has had experience with social work in Australia.

Other speakers will include professional women in this series to be held every Tuesday afternoon in Wymilwood beginning March 5th.

Hart House Votes In Changed Style

Revision of the Hart House voting regulations to protect candidates from the smaller faculties from being totally swamped by the mass vote of the larger bodies was announced by Hart House election officials recently.

Replacing the much-controverted "300-vote Rule" of former years and its 1945 revision, the new regulation provides for election of the candidate who has polled the largest vote in each faculty or college until the required number of committee seats is filled.

This protection against large-faculty dominance, however, operates only in favor of candidates who have polled more than 50% of the total vote. Any remaining vacancies are then filled by taking candidates in order of magnitude of votes received, regardless of whether they are above or below the 50% line.

Not more than three candidates from any faculty or college can be elected to a committee.

Voters and candidates seeking an elaboration of this procedure are asked to visit the Chief Returning Officer, Mr. H. J. A. Brown, in the Comptroller's Office, Hart House.

CORRECTION

One of the candidates for Hart House elections, H. E. Ansley, II S.P.S., was erroneously reported in yesterday's Varsity as being in fourth year S.P.S.

established in memory of Professor Alexander's work from 1889 to 1926 on the staff of University College, was formed with the intention of having a course of three to six lectures given each year on a subject related to English literature. The talks are subsequently published.

Professors from various European and American universities have come to Toronto from time to time to fulfill the terms of the foundation. Among these have been Professor Cazamian of the Sorbonne, in 1930, Professor Irving Babbitt of Harvard in 1932, Professor Stoll of Minnesota in 1936 and Mr. H. Granville-Barker in 1943.

Record Hour

TODAY AT 4 p.m.

The record hour, held daily in the Women's Common Room of University College from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m., is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties.

Today's program:
Oscar Franck—Pastorale.
Mendelssohn—violin Concerto in E Minor.
Beethoven—Symphony No. 6 in F Major (Pastorale).

The VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 94 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO Friday, March 1, 1946

FEMALE ATHLETES URGE LEBENSRAUM

Osgoode Visitors To Defend Charge

The pre-war custom of a visiting debating team from Osgoode Hall coming to a session of the University College Parliament will be revived this afternoon when the resolution "that this House deprecates the preponderance of lawyers in the public life of this country" is debated in the Junior Common Room.

Supporting the resolution will be Ed Safarian and Sam Telford of University College. It will be opposed by D. V. Hambling and M. N. Van Camp of Osgoode Hall.

The legal profession was chosen as the debate topic in view of the fact that the visiting team consists of legal students.

"We feel that the social and economic adjustments necessary to day cannot be put through a parliament dominated by the legal mind," Safarian commented. "A fundamental precept of democracy has been violated when one group, representing the conservative temperament, dominates the Canadian parliament."

It is expected that the visitors will maintain that the intricacies of modern law require legislators with legal training. Unless legislation is worded in legal terms it becomes extremely difficult for the courts to interpret it.

$175,000 Is Held In Trust But Building Priority Low

Nomadic Physedders Weary.

By MARGARET BOWES

"We have the girls. We have the money. But where's the building?" Well, where is it? The Department of Physical Education wonders, and so do the 800 or so young ladies who have to "make do" with accommodation originally intended for some one hundred and ninety.

The money, about $175,000., is being held in trust until such time as the Board of Directors may see fit to endorse the erection of a Women's Athletic Building. According to those who know, there was a time when the project had a high priority. In fact, work was about to commence on it when war broke out. The priority rating fell overnight and has remained at a "low" ever since.

Miss J. M. Forester, Assistant Director of Physical Education, pointed out that the athletic facilities for the women of this university were, to put it mildly, somewhat strained. The out-of-the-way corner of the Lillian Massey Building where the freshmen do their swimming and push-ups was considered hardly adequate to handle 190 U.C. women twice a week in the good old days; however, now that the affiliated colleges have swollen the ranks, there are 800 gals coming twice a week...figurez-vous! (Reminds one of the chap who told his mother that he was "bringing a few friends home for dinner" and then turned up with his regiment...?)

"We feel that we are imposing on Hart House," says Miss Forester. "They have been very good about letting us use the pool for the intercollegiate swim-meet, and the gym for the inter-faculty basketball finals." While the pool in the Lillian Massey Building is excellent, it is too small to satisfy all the demands made upon it to-day. Large numbers of the girls in the elementary swimming classes can scarcely find standing-room in the shallow end of the pool, let alone room enough to stretch out and make motions like mermaids.

If the basketball teams want to Nominations Monday For U. C. Association

Nominations for the University College Women's Undergraduate Association executive will be held on Monday, March 4, at 8.00 p.m. in the Women's Union Theatre.

All U.C. women are asked to attend, and nominators will be required to say a few words about the person nominated. Before the nominations the retiring officers will give a report on the year's activities, and the treasurer will sketch the year's expenses.

The constitution of the W.U.A. will be read before the nominations are taken.

Man's Position In Nature Dewey's Historical Method

The philosophy of John Dewey conceived history, not mathematics, as the model of true knowledge, according to Prof. D. Savan, Dept. of Philosophy, speaking at the last U.C. lecture yesterday afternoon. This outlook, the speaker stated, embodied to Dewey the dynamic principle of nature, unifying the indiscriminate form he gave it in his exposition, while vigorously opposing a malevolent, materialistic idea of nature.

Dewey's purpose, Prof. Savan claimed, was to reconcile physical nature, social relationships, divine worship, and the daily round of everyday activities, at the same time preserving the individuality of each. The unity of nature is to be found in the inter-relationships among these happenings and processes, each having a pattern, but each event being "a society of events". A natural process, Dewey asserted, was in itself neither good nor bad, only a fact. Chance and accident are real, and based on an ultimate novelty and freshness in nature.

Dewey wavers on the issue of Time, Prof. Savan declared, never deciding whether immediate qualities and substances are unchanging, discrete entities, having a certain recurrence, or are each in a "historical" sense, unique, changing, having no repetition, no eternal qualities. In the world, both are true and observable, and Dewey lacks a dialectic, or concrete logic, to show a possible reconciliation between two such opposite and conflicting positions. The speaker exemplified this as applied to man, who may be regarded either as a minute part of nature, or as an individual with freedom and will.

In his aim of synthesis, then, Dewey displays metaphysical and logical ambiguities, the speaker continued. He illustrated these further in Dewey's picture of man and man's relationship to nature.

Prof Savan complained that Dewey realized the interaction between events and man, but "dissolved the individuals on which such interaction rests. In his extreme naturalism, individuality becomes so transparent it cannot be seen," he said.

In such a concept, experience is a serial course of events, within

(Continued on Page 7)

Add Cody, Smith, Phillips To Plaque In Simcoe Hall

History is in the making. It is also being recorded. On the marble plaques in Simcoe Hall additions are being made to the long lists of names. In the hands of stonemason Brin Powell a small chisel is chipping away at the stone surface and the names of President Sidney Smith, Chancellor H. J. Cody, and Chairman of the Board of Governors Col. W. E. Phillips are being added to the names of those who were before them.

Master craftsman Powell stands at his work chipping at stone that is about the level of his eyes. "That's the proper way to work," he explains. "We always have our work upright when we are carving so that we can see whether the letters are straight and we get used to standing at our work."

With a very hard pencil he draws lines on the outline of the letters. Then it's time for the chisel with which he chips out the letters using a small but heavy hammer. When the letters are out a spectacular gold solution is painted over the surface of the marble and a special black paint is painted over this. When the paints are dry the surface is rubbed carefully and all the paint except that in the out letters comes off leaving the clean white marble with the black letters showing in relief.

Mr. Powell is a free-lance, accepting orders from large companies and institutions such as the University. Much of the lettering around the University has been cut by him. To mention only one example, many of the names on the memorial arch are the work of his chisel.

"There are only two of us in Toronto," he claims, "and we both have enough work to keep us going for many months. It's a good trade and there is very little competition. In Canada they don't take the time to teach the trade to apprentices, they're in too much hurry to make money."

And truly Mr. Powell's trade is one where craftsmanship and patience are essential. He learned his work in "the Old Country" fifty years ago and has been working as it in Toronto for almost half a century now. One might say that he is one of the few remnants of the old trade guilds.

Harron at CHUM

Tomorrow morning Don Harron, ad-lib king of campus M.C.'s, appears on Breakfast at CHUM as the guest of chief Harvey Dobbs. The 15th student to be interviewed in Dobbs' series, Harron is expected to give his own interesting resume of the approaching All-Varsity Show.

Still recuperating from his financial set-back in the sensational Flint vs. Harron Moot Court Case and his exertions in the Typical C-Ed Contest, Harron's chief worry is whether he can rise early enough for the 8:45 interview.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI 8742

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 476
Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478
Ajax Editor.....Mike McAuliffe
Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
Rewrite Editor... John Rooke, 477
News Editor.....George Forster, 477
Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 476
Ajax.....Pete Philippott
Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 477
Assistant.....Reg Herman, 476
Ajax.....Cliff Dixon
Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Sports Editor.... Bredin Stapells, 476
Assistant.....Don Mason, 476
Ajax.....Ed. Caldwell
Women's Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
C.U.P. & Exchange
Editor.....Barbara Jones, B.A.
Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 476
Art, Music, and Drama
Editor.....Philip Freedman, 476
Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477

Friday, March 1, 1946

Wanted—A Writer

Feature stories in The Varsity recently have been summarizing the unparalleled contribution of this University to the war effort of the United Nations. This work was, and in large part still is, on the secret list. By now it has accumulated proportions far exceeding The Varsity's capacity for adequate treatment.

Furthermore, we think that a larger public is concerned than that reached by The Varsity. We think it would build an incalculable amount of good-will for the University if the complete, vivid story of the war contribution of its resources and staff were written in a thin book, at least a pamphlet, placed on general sale.

We think it should be better written and better illustrated than official University publications generally are. We commend to the President and governors the idea of commissioning a suitable writer immediately. For once the case for the University, given a proper chance, will shriek from the housetops. Let it not be muffled.

— W. H. K.

Apologies In Order

The Varsity, regretful for the relaxation of editorial vigilance that occasioned it, publishes the following letter from Prof. Watson Kirkconnell of the Department of English, McMaster University, lecturer, author, and anti-Communist publicist.

The Varsity gladly apologizes for having printed the letter containing the sneer in question, rebukes reader Rosenthal as author of the letter, and repeats that while publication of the letter makes it technically liable, it at no time sanctions editorially the opinions of its correspondents. Prof. Kirkconnell's letter follows:

The Editor, The Varsity.
Sir:

On page 5 of your issue of February 20, one of your correspondents, Mr. Henry M. Rosenthal, is guilty of the following unqualified lie: "Kirkconnell received (gratefully) a medal from Hitler for services rendered." In view of the war that has just been waged between our country and Nazi Germany, this false accusation amounts to defamatory libel of a very serious sort, in which you, as editor, are jointly responsible. I therefore intend to bring legal action against The Varsity unless you publish promptly (i) an unequivocal editorial apology and retraction, and (ii) this present letter setting forth the facts.

The truth is that I have always been an outspoken enemy and critic of Hitler's regime. In my book, "Canada, Europe, and Hitler" (1939), largely written before the War, I stated (page 6): "The symbol of the Nazi world revolution is the concentration camp, the living grave of civil and religious liberty." On April 23, 1941, at a time when Mr. Rosenthal's Communist friends were in Canadian concentration camps for helping the Nazis in the interests of the Stalin-Hitler Alliance, I gave a public address in Hamilton referring to the Hitlerites as "a new horde of barbarians, savage with the brutality of a curdled culture." (printed in my book, "Twilight of Liberty", 1941, page 6). And on page 20 of my "Seven Pillars of Freedom" (1944), I stated that "from the regime of Nazism no good thing may come, for the system and its motivation are utterly evil". All these things are on the public record. I have never at any time in my life had any dealings with the Nazis, and no Canadian has been more emphatic in his denunciation of Hitler.

Since, however, I have been equally opposed to the Communist conspiracy against human liberty, the Communists in Canada have maintained a long campaign of lies against me, accusing me of forgery, perjury, and fifty-seven different varieties of fascism. In all their years of busy prevarication, however, they have never dared to invent Mr. Rosenthal's fantastic falsehood, which could have been too easily disproved by my anti-Hitler record. The current revelations at Ottawa are showing at last that I have been as correct in my anti-Communist writings as in my equally voluminous anti-Hitler ones. It has remained for The Varsity to print the most defamatory lie of all. An apology is in order.

—WATSON KIRKCONNELL

Book Refuse

The Art of Living by Maurois

Chapter I: The art of loving
Q. "Is loving an art or merely an instinct?"

A. Yes.
"Nature . . . she divides human beings into two sexes."
You wouldn't kid us, would you, Maurois?

"Long ago . . . I heard the story of the old gentleman who, when buying a book for his daughter, timidly asked: No sex in it I hope? The saleswoman replied: No sir, it's a love story. . . . This joke . . ."
HAW! HAW!

"Why, among the thousands of men and women we encounter, do we choose one rather than another upon whom to focus our thoughts?"
Thoughts ????

"A motor goes over a bump and two hands touch and remain unnecessarily in contact. That suffices."

It does???
"Beauty lies in the eye of the beholder."

Love is blind, isn't it?
"A look, a pressure of hands, an enthusiastic reply are immediately effective."

Hmm. What's the effect?
"Such was the procedure in primitive or archaic civilizations; if a man desired a woman, he carried her off."

Try it with some co-ed. Then live and regret.

"But the love of slaves does not appeal to the exacting. We want to be chosen, not endured."
Even when chosen, a lot of us must be endured.

"The longer the road to love, the keener is the pleasure to be experienced by the sensitive lover."

So what does the poor jerk do? He hires a taxi.

What can I do to make him love me?"

Shall we tell the poor frustrated dear, fellows?

"Animals, like human beings, do their courting at the appointed seasons."

Ah yes. Luv in winter, spring, summer and fall.

"One of the most familiar methods of attracting attention is the use of adornment."

In Africa, the adornment is war paint, ear rings, leg and wrist chains. In America, likewise.

"Foolish virgins rely upon the immodesty of the cut of their gowns; wise virgins upon the more lasting allurements of mystery."

About the gowns we will make no comment, but is a wise virgin really wise?

"Every lover strives to show his skill, and his ways of so doing are infinitely varied. Certain birds dive into pools in order to bring up water plants for their mates."

So that's what those characters have been doing in the Hart House pool.

"To the man in love the giving of gifts is a way of asserting his power."

Yes dear, I'll save the butt for you.

"After a courtship . . . love comes into being."

After love comes marriage. After marriage . . . aaaaaahhh. May the best man win.

"A beautiful face ages gracefully and it is a joy to find beneath white hair the look and smile that one loved long ago."

We always thought that one's hair hung over the back of the head.

"It is a rare happiness, (love), but it can be achieved."

RARE! Obviously he has never crawled along unnoticed, any evening, on the Queen's Park campus.

And so we close our book, to return later with the next instalment of THE ART OF LIVING by MAUROIS.

The next chapter is entitled The Art of Marriage.

—"THE WIK".

Miss Varsity

Here's your own Jean MacDonald, the very bright and "sparkly" girl who was crowned Miss Varsity of 1946. Jean is a Victoria College Arts student, and is definitely a "typical" U. of T. co-ed. She's as smart as a cricket, and has unusually good fashion taste . . . 'specially when it comes to college fogs. The suit she's wearing is definitely hers, which she chose at Simpson's. It's a wool gabardine in a heavenly blue shade with the newest fashion details . . . new rounded shoulders and belted waist. Don't you agree it suits her?

Simpson's

The Campus Event You've Been Waiting For

2 NIGHTS ONLY — CONVOCATION HALL
WED. AND THURS. — MARCH 6 AND 7

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESENTS FIRST EDITION

All-Varsity Revue

TICKETS NOW ON SALE—$1.00 Per Person
12-2 p.m. in All Colleges and Faculty Rotundas,
And Hart House Rotunda

Get Yours Now And Avoid Disappointment

ENTIRELY IN AID OF INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICE

A Year's Entertainment In One Show

ABERDEEN'S Floral Stores

Main Stores: 31 Bloor W., MI. 2495

Special Attention to University Students

15% Discount Upon Presentation
OF ADMIT-TO-LECTURES CARD

Corsages are a Specialty—Have Your Date Wear One to the
P.H.E. AT-HOME

ORCHIDS AND ROSES ALWAYS IN STOCK

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

SHORT REHEARSAL FOR FULL ORCHESTRA ON Sunday, March 3rd., at 2.30 p.m. Sharp

CONVOCATION HALL

ALL ORCHESTRA MEMBERS AND THEIR FRIENDS

ARE

CORDIALLY INVITED TO A TEA

Saturday, March 2nd.

From 5-8 p.m., at 94 Lytton Blvd. (North Toronto)

All players please watch The Varsity for announcement re transportation to Ajax for concert on Wednesday, March 6th

'Not Many People Angels' States Professor Sellin

"The present increase in crime may be accounted for by the fact that thousands of our youth have returned from overseas," stated Professor Thorsten Sellin, Head of the Department of Sociology of the University of Pennsylvania recently.

"They are not angels," he continued. "In fact, not many people are angels. This is clearly illustrated by a recent experiment in the U.S.A. A couple of people, one woman and man, obtained a very old car which was in very poor repair. Starting from California they made a tour of the southern portion of the States, stopping at the majority of the repair shops along the route. Their procedure was for the man to leave the car as they approached a garage and loosen a wire or some other instrument in the car. The woman would then drive up to the station alone and announce to the mechanic that she knew nothing about cars.

"In a great majority of the garages the mechanic would not only fix the original wrong but also charge the woman for some other imaginary repairs.

"Ask any industrial employer how many tools are stolen yearly in his industry. Enquire as to the amount of money lost annually by telephone companies due to the fact that people insist on using 'slugs' for the pay phones."

"That," the professor continued, "illustrates the attitude of people to dishonesty. How this situation is to be righted I do not know. It is a job for the experts on public opinion.

"How do you account for the great amount of juvenile delinquency during the past war?" he was asked.

"Lack of proper parental care was the chief reason for the upsurge of delinquency amongst the youth of our nation. During the war the man-power shortage made it possible for women and children to find employment with wages at an all-time high. Mothers were away from home in many families. Fathers worked on night shifts. Children were free to wander uncared for and generally became members of gangs which ran loose at night."

"Young people, too young to go to war, earned money and spent freely. Since they worked, and earned adult wages, they were of the opinion that they could behave as adults. They tried to live like mature adults but could not.

"As a result there was an increase in delinquency," concluded Professor Sellin.

Engineers Unite Request of E.I.C.

Problems that face Engineers, Architects, Forest Engineers, Chemists, Physicists and Surveyors, will be discussed in a meeting on "Co-operation between the Engineering Institute of Canada and other Engineering bodies".

According to Ross Graydon, Chairman of the Toronto Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, these professional groups should unite in peacetime as they did in wartime, since such an organization would have a backing of 30,000 members, and could be very effective.

Many of the problems overcome by the United Nations, such as the Atomic Bomb, Radar, Aeronautical Problems, were solved by the active co-operation of Engineers and Scientists. Such co-operation is already in effect in five provinces, and, while it would be difficult in Ontario, it would not be impossible, and should be achieved.

Dr. Austin Wright, General Secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Mr. Percy Dobson, President of the Canadian Council of Professional Engineers and Scientists, and Dr. Ross Lord, President of the Ontario Association of Professional Engineers, will take part in the discussion on Monday, March 4, at 8:00 p.m. in the Debates Room, Hart House.

School Abandoned By Unhoused Vets

Many married ex-service students who registered in the January class at the University of Western Ontario are thinking of leaving, owing to a serious housing shortage, according to a Canadian Press report published in the Toronto Star last night.

The report said that "some have already given up the search and abandoned their courses. They say they have been separated from their families during the war and do not want to continue."

Definitely named as a withdrawal was one student veteran, Grant Davy, who owns a house in Warton, Ont., and has a son four years old who hardly knows his father because of his war service. "Davy has decided he will give up his course and live with his wife and child," the story said.

No Election For Debates, Chess Roster Still Open

The debates committee of Hart House for the coming year have been chosen by acclamation because of the insufficient number of nominees required for a full quota of eight men. Only seven men have been nominated. They will automatically take office and the required eighth man will be chosen in the fall from one of the faculties.

"This situation arose several times during the war, forcing us to resort to appointment of a sufficient quorum," said H. J. Brown, Secretary of Hart House when questioned on the matter.

"Although nominations were restricted by the fact that the candidate had to be a man who had spoken from the floor of the House during the debates, only a few seem to have availed themselves of this chance to get on the committee."

This year's representatives were appointed to fill the posts when debating was resumed last fall after being discontinued during the war.

The Chess committee, restricted to members of the Chess Club, has not yet closed its nominating lists which are to remain open until Monday, March 4. Elections for that committee will be held a day later than the others, because the original election day is taken up by a chess tournament. Voting day will be on Thursday, March 7.

The Camera committee, in charge of the Hart House camera rooms, is similarly restricted to members who can vote on the day decided on

Mardi Gras Party Dances to Graham

"The Student Christian Movement will try to recapture the atmosphere and spirit of the ancient custom of Mardi Gras to the music of Hugh Graham's orchestra," said Shelagh Kennedy, member of the executive of the U.C. S.C.M.

In former days a Mardi Gras was held for two days, and sometimes for a week, before Lent, with parades of masked, costumed revellers. There will be no costumes at the party on Tuesday night in the Women's Union, but masks will be worn.

Shelagh was a little dubious about the origin of the practice, but said that she believed it to have been a pagan custom taken over for Shrove Tuesday as a means of a last revelry and festive joy before the forty days of penitence.

Tickets may be obtained from Helen Wasman (Med.), Art Edmonds, Kay Morrison, Marie Bond, Marg Smith (Vic.), Alice Martin, Reg. Stackhouse (U.C.), Bill Bohmwell (Trin.), Bill Shaver, Lorrie McIntosh (S.P.S.).

for the ordinary elections, Wednesday, March 6, when voters may decide on the personnel of the standing committees for the House, Art, Music and Squash.

The VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 94 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Friday, March 1, 1946

Both In Civvies And In Uniform Toronto's Scientists Have Worked To Improve Allied Air Equipment

Altitude Flying Stressed

By John McRae

Medical research in the field of aviation was one of the most important projects carried on by University of Toronto scientists during the war. Civilians and service personnel from many Faculties worked together to cut down the hazards of flying. Night-flying, high altitudes, black-outs, nutrition and many other problems were handled and solved by members of this University. The success of their efforts was due almost entirely to the marvellous co-operation between Faculties and their members, and between the civilian and military authorities.

Professor F. E. J. Fry of the Department of Zoology, who did much research on oxygen masks described the situation this way.

"Some of us joined one of the armed forces and others stayed here doing work at the University. Most of the time we both were working together anyway, doing the same work following the same lines of research. The civilians had more freedom than we had. They could write to the States, buy materials and generally had greater freedom of movement. However we had perfect freedom inside the air-force. We could fly whenever we liked and had easy access to all military stations and laboratories. So, because of the convenience afforded by having the two groups we accomplished a lot of work."

"The story of physiological and medical research in the R.C.A.F. is an excellent example of efficient co-operation between civilian and service agencies," said Professor J. K. W. Ferguson, Head of the Department of Pharmacy and Pharmacology in the University. Prof. Ferguson was a wing commander, in the R.C.A.F. and was the officer in charge of No. 1 Clinical Investigation Unit, an R.C.A.F. research unit situated in the University, for three different periods in its history. Prof. Ferguson went on to explain the founding of the unit and the work it carried on during the war.

Money Grant

At the beginning of the war the Air Force granted money to the National Research Council for the prosecution of research for the benefit of the Air Force. The spending of the money was supervised by the Associated Committee of Aviation Research under the chairmanship of the late Sir Fredrick Banting who was largely responsible for this organization. Dr. G. E. Hall, of Dept. of Med. Research and now president of Western, also helped organize much of the research activity for the R.C.A.F. With headquarters in Ottawa as chairman of two committees of the N.R.C.—one on protective clothing and one on oxygen equipment. The membership was made up of civilian scientists and representatives of the Engineering Division, the Medical Branch, the Supply Division and the Air Staff Division of the Air Force. The Air Force supplied buildings, personnel and many stations, the most prominent being at the old Eglinton Hunt Club and the Unit here at the University. Many university staff members served here and at many other similar units across the country, in Regina, Vancouver, McGill University, Halifax and other places. The unit here is still carrying on its activities in peace time, still under the auspices of the air force and reorganized into the Institute of Aviation Medicine.

One of the great problems in high altitude flying is supplying the right amount of oxygen to the pilots at the right time. This problem was tackled by University scientists under the direction of Prof. Fry. Working mostly in the Department of Physics they soon developed what was called a demand oxygen regulator. This device gave automatic delivery of oxygen to the pilots with the amount being regulated for the different altitudes through a valve controlled by a delicate metal spring which was affected by the slightest change in barometric pressure. This regulator is now used almost entirely by the Canadian Air Force.

The work of Dr. W. R. Franks on the water-suit to prevent black-outs in dive-bombing pilots is already well known, but the work of some of his associates is still relatively unpublicized. Two men from this University did invaluable work in the field work testing of the suit.

One, R. Martin was on a carrier at Oran and Malta during the blitz there. Kennedy was in Burma and India for some time. These men were testing the anti-G suit under various flying and weather conditions.

Test Acoustics

A unique acoustics laboratory was developed by J. W. Rogers, son of L. J. Rogers of the Department of Chemistry, and John Goodwin of the Department of Medical Research. The purpose of this lab was (Continued on Page 8)

Canadian Campus

By Barbara Jones

While thousands of European students struggled to restore life to their bomb-gutted universities, Canadian students last week sat back smugly in their undamaged ivory towers and half-heartedly acknowledged their debt to their continental brothers-in-books. The International Students Service offered the opportunity for these Canadian students to repay their debt for peaceful camp, an opportunity which, in too many cases, was refused.

The classic example of this isolationist indifference came from the University of Manitoba where, under pressure of a few posters, about $800 was extracted. Students frankly admitted they "didn't want to worry about other university students when trying to get a new university in Winnipeg."

Queen's University, traditionally renowned for the enthusiasm of its students, began its I.S.S. Campaign with a costume dance and a general meeting at which thought-provoking films of China's and Europe's war-haggard populace resulted in a successful tag day. But too little co-operation and a too late publicity campaign forced the postponement of the I.S.S. Carnival.

Other reports were slightly more encouraging. At the University of Alberta where the campaign was getting under way, an interfaculty competition was announced with an award for the most generous. An Edmonton-wide tag day, circular letters, skits in the rotunda of the Arts College were planned to lead up to the I.S.S. climax, The Club 400 Ball.

The University of Montreal acknowledged no specific I.S.S. campaign but, instead, adopted the University of Caen, France, which was completely demolished during the war. Some 500 food parcels and over a thousand dollars had already crossed the Atlantic from the students of New France to the students of Old.

Following the efficiency trend of the times, McGill University conducted a Combined Charities Drive which asked $2 per student. The highlight of the campaign week, the Athletic Festival, netted the amalgamated project a sum sufficient to cover the I.S.S. and the Red Cross.

Beaver-busy Mount Allison University organizers were set to spring the gates on an early March drive that was to net European brethren $2,000. The agenda included stag dances, a tag day and a formal.

Two Ontario universities, slightly tinged with pride, renewed concentrated efforts to further their fraternal friendship. Loran's University of Western Ontario had surpassed the original fifteen hundred dollar objective and was already well on its way towards smashing the eighteen hundred mark. A mock "Information Please" program with four professors as masterminds met favor with the student body as did the novelty idea of an admission and an exit price. An auction, tags, posters kept the student interest alive as did the London Free Press and downtown theatres.

A newsreel I.S.S. appeal spotlighting University of Toronto's Chancellor Cody was warmly received not only by Torontonians but also by theatre-goers in London, Kingston and Montreal.

The University of Toronto went one step further however. It centred its drive around a typical co-ed contest which the Ustick-conscious Toronto press gobbled up. Students dug down, purchased tags to gain them admittance to the fun-muscle-girl packed elimination program. Social directors grasped the opportunity to organize the first edition of the long-awaited All Varsity Revue, a composite of various faculty productions. Other features staged: a jazz concert featuring a top-flight campus combo, a fraternity-sponsored Anchor Ball and refugee speakers.

I.S.S. organizers, for the most part, kept their thoughts and disappointments to themselves. Observers noted that men and women who had experienced Europe's plight were more liberal with their donations. They also noted a slightly selfish attitude among the average Canadian university student and paused to wonder: "Is Canada slightly high-hatted?"

Robinette Debates Enter Semi-Finals

The Robinette Debate semi-finals will be held today in Room 11, U.C., when the winning teams of the four years meet to find the finalists for the open Lit. meeting next Tuesday night.

At 1 p.m., the second year debaters, Atin and Boas will meet the fourth year team, Stapells and Mason, to discuss whether every Canadian youth should have a year's military training.

At 1:30 p.m., the first year contestants, Kirk and Harris, will debate whether Communist imperialism is a threat to world peace against the third year speakers, Georges and Simmonds.

Finals to be held at the open Lit meeting Tuesday night, March 5, will be the occasion of the giving of the Robinette trophy. On Monday, March 10, the Robinette finalists will meet the winners of the Portia Trophy women winners at the Red and White Night to be held then.

Radio

The New Canada

School students in the United States are to have their attention drawn to "The New Canada" that has emerged from the war, in a special broadcast next week from Toronto.

The dramatized broadcast will be heard by American students as one in the series, "This Living World," in the CBS American School of the Air. It will go to Canadian listeners over mid-east and midwest stations of the CBC Trans-Canada network on Thursday, March 7, at 5:00 p.m. EST.

A special committee of five was set up to plan the program. Its members included Captain R. G. Cavell, chairman of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs;

Walter Herbert, director of the Canada Foundation; Dr. C. E. Phillips, secretary of the Canada and Newfoundland Educational Association; R. S. Lambert, supervisor of Educational broadcasts for the CBC; and Arthur L. Phelps, head of the United Kingdom and Commonwealth section, CBC International Service.

Andrew Allan, CBC supervisor of drama and a former editor of The Varsity, is to produce the program, which will be written by Lister Sinclair, with a musical score by Lucio Agostini. Exhibiting technique which combines narrative and satire, the drama will endeavor to show the dangers as well as the advantages of Canada's key posi-

LPP Housing Bill In McGill Debate

Montreal, February 25 —(CUP)—McGill's Mock Parliament reopens tonight to discuss the Housing bill presented by the Labour Progressive Party government. The official opposition will be the Liberal party.

Presented by the Minister of Reconstruction, Norman Nerenberg, the bill bases itself on the principle that only the government can solve the problem of homes for the low income group of Canadian people.

The Government proposes a National Housing Authority with supreme powers to carry through a publicly-financed program under a system of priorities for material and labor which would include construction of 250,000 homes in the next five years while encouraging the building of a further 250,000 homes by small home-owners. A fixed proportion of slums are to be cleared at the same time.

tion in today's world, summarizing with a touch of gaiety the mixed impressions of Canada that exist abroad.

The music will include some of the Agostini tunes and Lister Sinclair lyrics, which attracted the attention of the press to Andrew Allan's recent production, "We All Hate Toronto."

The Functions of

In this column there appear every day the observations of "critics" in the various branches of the fine arts. It would seem that we are read a good deal—sometimes with ire, sometimes with approbation, sometimes with indifference, and therefore an attempt at self-analysis might not be amiss, to determine if possible what makes a critic tick, or how much he should tick and why.

The art critic—speaking primarily of the graphic arts—is a relatively recent phenomenon in Western art history, although the Chinese, especially in T'ang and Sung times, had a reasonably good facsimile, I believe. Disciples of Oswald Spengler would say the critic makes an appearance in the early stages of decadent cultures, when a Volk's creative genius has run dry. Their own creations being a mere trickle, the degenerate heirs of old civilizations busy themselves with minute preservations and analyses of the great creative flood that poured from their more vital forefathers.

Spengler's ideas should be treated with respect, but not adulation. As a matter of historical fact, the art critic appeared in the West partly as a cause and partly as a result of the socially accepted status of artists. Up until roughly 150 years ago, the artist was primarily thought of as a specialized sort of craft worker. If you were building a church, the bill you likely got from your artist was much the same as from your carpenter: the one would charge so much for so many nails, so many board feet of lumber—the other for so many saints, so many angels, so much gilt, so many buckets of paint. And then there came a change: public opinion, abetted vigorously by the artists themselves, came to consider the artist a superior being, of more than human propensities, possessed of the mysterious quality of "genius"—the cult developing rapidly to the point where the artist liked to consider himself as above censure for the ordinary human foibles and frailties, though by no means immune to them. Simultaneous with this development was the growth of mass democracy, with a great many more people than ever before having the time and the inclination to take an interest

The T.O. Style

We shall deviate slightly from our usual make-up this week by talking about arrangers and trumpet men. There will be no band review this time. Next week we will do Ellis for sure, and perhaps another band.

FIRST HORN OF THE WEEK.

An arrangement is one or more musical scores which enable one or more musicians to play in harmony. It can be readily seen that the arrangement is of prime importance, because (1) every musician in a band couldn't play the same note, or if they did, there would be a lot of unemployed musicians, and a lot of bored people (2) it serves to distinguish works and sidemen (3) it incorporates the three essentials, melody, harmony, and rhythm.

There are several types of popular arrangement—stock, head, and original. The stock arrangement is one written by a well known arranger to be used by average musicians. Stocks are the same the country over (they are published to sell cheaply). Their trouble is their commonness and simplicity. The original is written for one band only, and usually with thought to the personnel (i.e. they feature the better men). These are quite expensive, but are worth their price. Niosi, Ellis, Gimby, etc., use originals almost entirely. The head arrangement is an original with a minimum of written passages, it just gives chords and solo cues. This can be written, or decided on the spot.

Trumpet Trailing Today
During the last forty years a great change has come about in the style of arrangements. (We speak here about jazz). In the beginning, the trumpet was the lead horn, seldom varying from the tune. This was a carry-over from the brass band style. Later on, when the big (Continued on Page 5)

Canadian College of Organists
HANDEL'S "MESSIAH"
ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Bloor St., East

March 18th and 25th at 8 p.m.

CHOIR OF 150 VOICES

FREDERICK SILVESTER, F.R.C.O. — Conductor

DR. CHARLES PEAKER, F.R.C.O. — Organist

SOLOISTS

MARCH 18th

Alice Strong Rourke... Soprano
Mary Palmateer... Contralto
Jean Lelourneau... Tenor
George Lambert... Bass

MARCH 25th

Lillian Smith... Soprano
Evaileen Kilby Dunlop, Contralto
John Biddle... Tenor
Norman Cherrie... Bass

TICKETS $1.00 at

Toronto Conservatory of Music
College St.
Heintzman & Co., Limited,
195 Yonge St.

North American Life Assce. Co.,
112 King St. West (Ground Floor),
Promenade Music Centre,
83 Bloor St. West.

Mail Orders: Mr. A. E. Clarke 383 Huron St., Toronto 5
Proceeds in Aid of British Organ Restoration Fund (Coventry Cathedral)

ULTRA MODERNA :::

Nuevo tipo de crema de afeitar
SIN BROCHA para los que
se afeitan diariamente

Para afeitadas suaves y rápidas que no dan trabajo... protege la cara

Para tener éxito en los negocios —y también en el mundo social, es importante lucir siempre bien afeitado, a ras de piel. Sin embargo, afeitarse diariamente requiere tiempo y esfuerzo y, a menudo, deja el rostro irritado y dolorido.

Millares de hombres elegantes

"Una afeitada ultra sencilla"

Para usar la Crema Glider, lávese la cara con agua y jabón. Luego, espárzase la crema por la cara usando la punta de los dedos—jamás con brocha—y afeítese. Glider protege la cara. Permite que el filo de la hoja se deslice y corte la barba a ras de piel, sin irritarla ni herirla.

Fricciónese con el residuo de la crema que quede en la cara. Tiene un ingrediente que actúa como una loción. Da un acabado perfecto a la afeitada y refresca la piel—se siente el cutis más suave y más liso.

IMPORTANT! Send in your translation of this advertisement, with your name and address, to J. B. Williams Co. (Canada) Ltd., Dept. TV-1 LaSalle, Montreal.

We'll send you a big tube of GLIDER, giving you at least 30 days clean, comfortable shaves.

Only
HONEY DEW
Serves
HONEY DEW

We're mighty proud of our famous refresher—"Honey Dew; the drink for you". Served only in Honey Dew Restaurants, this appetizingly tangy orange drink is

THE FAVOURITE OF MILLIONS

Morning, noon or night, step into a Honey Dew—and on your way really refreshed. Remember too—Honey Dew goes well with the fine foods you'll find at every Honey Dew shop.

HONEY DEW
COFFEE SHOPS

The cost of

A CIGARETTE PER DAY

is a small contribution to ask from every Jewish student on the campus to mitigate the sufferings of Jews.

IN THE DARK
shadows of Europe

This Small Denial Will Make Your Contribution A Worthy One

SUPPORT THE COMBINED PALESTINE APPEAL

On The Campus

TO A NEW LIFE IN PALESTINE

HARRY GRAHAM'S
GARAGE

GENERAL REPAIRS

ALL-NIGHT TOWING

MI 4978

VIC STUDENTS—VOTE TODAY!
ALUMNI HALL, 10 TO 2

.... A Critic

in art, but very few having any previous cultural training or tradition behind them. The result was a demand for persons to interpret the mysterious goings on of the geni of Art to the multitudes ignorant, but fondly adulated of it.

So arose the Critic—a sort of shaman or priest, mediating between demigods and men, as it were. In his early existence he was more often a glib talker than an expert on his subject, and his work consisted of listening to what other people were saying about art and repeating it in a louder voice. (This state of affairs is by no means unusual today, but the situation is vastly improved.) Consequently, the art critics since their inception have been guilty of a long line of colossal errors in judgment. Every great artist in the last 150 years fought a long battle against ignorant, carping critics, who only changed their minds after everyone else had. Even John Ruskin, the greatest critic of the last century, who "found" J. M. W. Turner, ruined Whistler's career in England by his acid depreciations.

As to the modern critic: his greatest handicaps are: (a) usually having to criticize all three of Art, Music and Drama, when an expertly critical appreciation of one field is a lifetime's work; and (b) the fact that he criticizes for a livelihood—and with a dependent family, it is a rash man indeed who will attack too many reputations, however badly founded they may be.

In view of his past dismal record of mistakes, the modern trend of criticism is to speak with less and less authority. He is coming to see his job, as that of an educator—he educates people to make judgments on art for themselves, rather than tells them what is or what is not good. He describes art for the benefit of those unable to see the exhibitions, rather than sets himself up as an oracle on them. He passes opinions on their merit, which fall into the category of descriptions, not judgments. Such, at least, is my idea of the modern trends in art criticism.

—ALAN GOWANS

.... By Bill Hemmerick

(Continued from Page 4)

bands appeared (Whiteman, Goldkette) the lead shifted to the reeds. Often, at that time, there was a clarinet lead. Now the emphasis has definitely been placed on the alto sax, although the lead trumpet, and the lead team do their bit.

T.O. has its share of arrangers. The popular field is headed by names such as Kenny Campbell (Ellis), John Bert, Bill Isbister, Bert Niosi, Johnny Dobson, ad infinitum. All by himself is Howard Cable. Howard is able to do almost anything with an arrangement. If any of you will remember that very fine show 'Arrangements by Cable' you will understand what we mean. Howard likes the unusual, but does an excellent job with the usual as well.

SECOND HORN OF THE WEEK

We finally use 'horn' in its literal sense. Hurray, T.O. has plenty of good hornmen. We consider Jimmy Reynolds to be tops in jazz, although he plays around with his horn too much. It is impossible to tell whether he will play good jazz, or whether he will make poor comedy. Coming down, we place Bobby Gimby next on the list. Bobby has a Hackett-like style, and is at his best on numbers with a moderate tempo (Stardust, Honey-suckle Rose).

Also

We might mention Ellis McClinton, who plays with a pseudo-James style, and is too 'commercial' (he can't play jazz) to rate much more here. Then we come to Tony Furrana (Niosi) who combines a good jazz feeling with a good technique. There are many others—Bert Niosi, who still should stick to clary Tommy Cronin Al McMullen etc.

New And Different

We know of only one new star. He is Graham Topping, heard in his own band, other bands, and in the jazz concerts of last Thursday and yesterday.

Next week, Ellis.

Wymilwood Concert

A concert will be given by Victoria Students on Sunday, March 3rd, at 9 p.m. Mary Leuty, Douglas Valteau, Bill Harper, Stella Grunder, Lois Bouck, and Lorne Watson will participate. All facilities invited. Refreshments served.

Guest artist on Sunday, March 10th will be Elie Spivak. Concert master of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

NEW DANCE CLASS

All the smartest New York styles of Fox-Trot, Waltz, Jive, Rhumba and Tango.

TUESDAY, 8.30

DA COSTA

Studios of Dancing

1139 Bay St. Corner Charles MI 5624

Mock Parliament Amends LPP Bill

Montreal, Que., Feb. 26—(CUP)—Amendments to the Labor Progressive Party's Bill on Housing were presented at a Mock Parliament held last Tuesday at McGill University. Half an hour of the session was broadcast over the CBC.

The Liberals in their Amendment modify the clause on billeting, and change the clause on slum clearances, stressing that slums shall be destroyed as areas rather than by units. Otherwise the Liberals express themselves in favor of the bill. The Progressive Conservatives will support the Housing Bill as amended by the Liberal Opposition.

The C.C.F. go further than the government by advocating the immediate government control of specified industries, such as Canada Cement Ltd. and other plants producing housing materials.

The official opinion of the C.C.F. Party is that the suggestion of the "Billion Dollar Loan" is an emotional bid for votes rather than an intelligent approach to the fundamental housing project.

Cosmopolite Cast In Spanish Play

Romance in the Spanish style was presented Tuesday night at the Women's Union with the play 'Eggrima y Amor' (translated freely by 'Love at First Smite'). The cosmopolitan cast of the play included: Enid Nielson (from Colombia); Ruth Burden (Trin. I, from Ottawa); Bill Taylor (from Venezuela); Ernest Deutsch (from Germany). The director and producer was Ron Davidson (Trin. I), casting and assisting was done by Shelagh Higgins (from Ohio).

Senor Danilo Brugal, Dominican Republic Consul in Toronto, briefly addressed the meeting on the Dominican Republic's Independence Day. Tuesday night's meeting coincided with that Independence Day.

Since the last meeting of the Spanish Club will be held next month, President John Hairton has extended an invitation to all Ajax students interested in Spanish to be present. Elections for the Spanish Club executive for next year will be held at the meeting.

Ajax Rumblings

The candy counter at Arbour Lodge has been moved to Hart House. However, the sale of cigarettes will still be continued at Arbour Lodge.

Thursday morning the Ajax hills echoing the student-hummed strains of "Lillibulero" attested to the popularity, the enjoyment of the previous night's Hart House Glee Club concert.

So at last the Toronto skunks have awakened to the advantages of a university education. Out here our skunks have been "in evidence" for some time.

Hart House has acquired a record-player so lovers of good music will be able to indulge to their heart's content.

Camera fans—keep your eyes peeled for the formation of a camera club to be announced next week.

THAT FIRST IMPRESSION

People judge you first by your appearance, by the clothes you wear. You are always the smartest-dressed man on parade when your suit or sportjacket bears the label!

LOUIS COHEN CLOTHES

449 SPADINA AVENUE
(At College)
RA. 8995-6

MEN OF AJAX: A warm welcome waits for you until 6 p.m. on Saturdays. Hop in that Blue Goose and drive down.

Special discounts and service to students.

AJAX DIVISION Engineering Society Announces

FIRST ANNUAL ENGINEERS' BALL
ROYAL YORK HOTEL

MUSIC BY ART HALLMAN AND HIS BAND

Tuesday, March 19th.

ADMISSION $2.00

SEMI-FORMAL

DANCING 9—1

FOR THE LAST WEEK

5,000 New Titles
To Choose From In

Cole's
RUMMAGE SALE OF BOOKS

Several new private collections and a shipment of publishers' clearings have been placed on our great sales stacks. Classics, best sellers, technical books, they're all waiting for you to look them over.

Many originally priced as high as $25.00. Most of them are now yours for 5c to $1.00 each.

BOOK MARKET
AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE ST. (1 BLOCK SOUTH OF BLOOR)

Open Evenings 'til 10 p.m. — Saturdays 11 p.m.

LISTEN TO

"Canada in the Modern World"
by Professor Bertie Wilkinson, M.A., Ph.D.

Dept. of History, University of Toronto

CFRB — Every Sunday — 2:15 p.m.

Copies of Talks available on request

Sponsored on behalf of the Optical Profession by

IMPERIAL OPTICAL COMPANY

Pioneer Canadian Optical Manufacturers

FOR ENGINEERING SOCIETY PRESIDENT

WHITTEN

Blues Lose Wednesday Seek Win On Saturday

By Bob Morrison

The Varsity cagers wrote the "Bow Out Blues" on Wednesday night as they went down 63-39 before the Western Mustangs in front of more than 5,000 fans. The win clinched the Intercollegiate title and the Gibson Cup for the Londoners.

The purple and white now have a four-point edge with but a game to play—that to be played here at Hart House on Saturday night. The Blues are out to keep their unbeaten-at-home record intact; a win will give them undisputed possession of second place in the league.

Coach Roy Dilworth, who believes in letting the roses fall where they are most deserved, said that he could definitely offer no excuses. "The boys weren't on, but they couldn't win, they were beaten by a better team," were the words of the local mentor. He added: "The Blues had never tried harder—remember any team can put up a shining front when a game is close, but when they're trailing by a good margin, that's when the iron shows up."

Toronto had no individual star, everyone gave his all. A pile of credit goes to Captain Gordy Wallace—a real fighter, Harry Mayzel who had an injury, but gave his usual starchy performance, and Walby "Zoot" Zeaton.

Western showed form and finesse at all stations. Their shooting was phenomenal or to quote the coach again, "They just couldn't miss." McNair was fire-water offensively and fireman defensively. In the first quarter alone, he prevented 4 almost sure baskets. Fable, Currie, and Phibbs were also standouts for the Mustangs.

Western were spurred to a leaping start by Moose McNair and held a very definite edge throughout the first quarter when they led 20-4. Several Blue shots misfired during that ten minutes which accounted for the difference. Varsity rallied effectively in the second quarter and carried the play till half time. The strategy of keeping the dangerous Al Scorgie handcuffed did not jell as the other men on his line broke loose and the Mustangs again ran away in the second half to seal the contest.

"I still like my Varsity team though," confided Coach Dilworth. "I think we should take them on our small floor in Hart House Saturday night." The Westerners will be out to beat their rivals on their own floor, while the Blues will be fighting for the second slot in the league. Stu Scott was not dressed at Western and likely will not play Saturday. The visitors will be at full strength.

Line-ups:

Varsity: Mayzel (14), Wallace (13), Thomson (4), Clayton (2), Gibson (2), Zeaton (4), Cranham, Spry, Fountain.

Western: Farley (10), McNair (11), Scorgie (9), Humphrie (4), Cunningham (7), Currie (8), Phibbs (10), Guild (8), Hych.

NOTICE

Due to lack of space, we are unable to run the Major Basketball Playoffs, results, the Sportsman, nor a story on the Women's Basketball team. These will appear in Monday's issue.

Results of Major Basketball Playoffs

P.H.E. II.....35 Vic. III24
S.P.S. V49 Vic. Sr.38

Speaking OF SPORT

Al Cringan

Beat Western !!!

That's your cue for the big basketball game at tomorrow night's Athletic Night, when Varsity Seniors engage WESTERN UNIVERSITY in a scheduled Intercollegiate fixture, at 8:45 sharp in the Big Gym.

The MUSTANGS are now firmly settled in top position in the league standing, but the Dilworth-coached crew is out to give the home fans a win, and at the same time give the WESTERNERS a severe jolting.

This will be your last chance to take in an Intercollegiate hoop match at an Athletic Night this year, and your hosts, the Engineers and the Foresters, have taken every effort to provide entertainment for you after you've come out and helped BEAT WESTERN.

Lots of Games . . .

Prior to the big WESTERN game, at 7:15 in the Lower Gym, Ajax and Senior School will meet in an exhibition hoop match for the early birds.

Third basketball on the evening's card is at 8:45, in the Upper gym, which will take the form of an inter-host contest. School has elected to pit their Junior team against the Forestry A squad.

Rounding off the sports show in the two gyms, we find an exhibition of trampoline work in the Lower Gym at half-time during the major B.B. game. Stu Heffernan's crew of gymnasts and tumblers have consented to return to Hart House for another exhibition on the suspended tarps, after last year's crowd-pleasing display.

And lastly—Spectator Sport! Yes sir, that's what it is! The game is volleyball, and its slated for the Upper Gym, to take place for one full hour, starting at 7:30. It's a real chance for everyone to let off that extra bit of steam, but all we suggest is that you save some of it for spectator activities later on in the evening.

And in the Pool . . .

Sharing the limelight with the VARSITY-WESTERN hoop match, is the Varsity-Central Y water polo game beginning at eight o'clock in—where else could it be—the pool.

To fill the pool program, an all-star Engineer's polo team is taking on Dents, immediately afterwards, at 9:00 o'clock.

Extracurricular Activities . . .

Schoolman Gus Campbell and Foresters Mel Lawson and Tom Hayes, have combined their talents to provide sideline amusements that won't be forgotten for a long time.

It is hoped that the OSCULOMETER will be presented to the public, for the first time in history. Invented by Don Storey, it is a sensitive instrument designed to measure the emotional impact of a kiss—HUBBA-HUBBA! The osculometer will be in the "Lab Room", along with other examples of the Engineers' genius, the Fencing Room, in everyday use.

The Boxing Room will be as usual, devoted to ping-pong and other allied games.

Forestry's special room will be the Wrestling Room. A propos of the Faculty, Christmas trees will be the furnishings, in their lavishly decorated Lounge Room. From the past two years, we'd say that the Forestry Lounge was as near a place a wolf could get to his natural surroundings as possible—Wow!

Hamilton Cagers Down Blue Thirds

Varsity Thirds went down to defeat Wednesday night before the team they trounced 51-19 last week in Hart House gym. The men from McMaster eked out a 39-37 win in a rugged contest that saw 43 personal fouls called by an over-anxious pair of Hamilton referees.

Either team could have clinched the game by ten points through simply capitalizing on its free throws, but both McMaster and Varsity displayed an amazing inability to find the basket range.

The Hamiltonians scored seven in 26 attempts, while the Blues counted five of 22. Varsity handed the Mac boys a ball game, and seriously jeopardized their fond tie hopes, by sinking only one of 11 foul shots in the closely-contested last half.

McMaster led 22-18 at the half, but the Blues tossed in two quick field goals after the intermission to tie the score. The teams waded through a dull second half, and McMaster came out on top 39-37.

Bob Nutley was outstanding for McMaster, tossing in a total of 19 points. Miller and Koncar were cast in minor supporting roles. Shimmy Shimizu and Joe Meschino carried the Varsity attack, while Smith turned in a good effort defensively.

Varsity Seconds Edge Mac Cagers

Varsity seconds made it two straight over their McMaster rivals by downing them 49-42 in Hamilton Wednesday night. The Blues had that extra spark throughout the game that left the issue never in doubt. They led 25-20 at the half.

Play threatened to get out of hand in the first half, as the referees, Trudy and Souter, called several cheap fouls and were rewarded with vociferous protests from the players. Varsity accumulated three technical fouls, one against Swan, one against Tettmar, and one against the bench, and feelings ran pretty high for a while. Both teams settled down, however, and played good basketball in the second half.

Bob "Hole" Leggat and Jack Gurney were outstanding for McMaster. These two men carried the rest of the team along, displaying real ability in spite of a mediocre supporting cast. Leggat counted six of seven free throws in amassing a total of 18 points.

The Blue team showed two "hot" men in each half. Barry Lowes counted all of his eight points in the first half, while Sid Himel hooped 11 of his 14 aggregate. Andy Andrews scored ten of his 12 in the second half, and Jack Swan found the range to his liking for a preferential 11.

Toronto — Andrews 12, Glait, Lowes 8, Sturgess, Swan 11, Tettmar 4, Hennessy, Himel 14. Total 49.

McMaster — Ingram 3, Leggat 18, Davey 2, Gurney 12, Trutt, Seagers 3, Rutledge 3, Baker 1. Total 42.

Toronto, McGill Clash For Thompson Trophy

BY BRIAND LAND

The winner of the Thompson trophy, symbol of Senior Intercollegiate Hockey supremacy, may be decided tonight at the Montreal Forum when the University of Toronto Blues vs McGill University Redmen.

A win for the Ace Bailey-coached Blues would clinch the trophy and the C.I.A.U. championship, with one game still to play at Varsity Arena next Friday against U. of Montreal.

Having been downed 7-4 here last week, McGill must win tonight or forfeit all chances of entering possible playoffs. Should McGill trim Varsity tonight, the championship would in all probability be decided by staging playoffs for the first time in Intercollegiate hockey competition. Previously the champs have been automatically declared from the final league standing which has never warranted playoffs.

Out of some dozen games McGill has played, ten have been victories as against two defeats. Varsity's season record stands at sixteen wins and one loss, that to People's of the T.H.L. League.

In their last encounter both teams showed plenty of fast, clean hockey. McGill was best in the first frame, but Halder and Co's infiltration tactics wore down the Montreal defence. Big Doug, Heron and Bob Broderick were plenty rugged on defence until tired out early in the second period by Varsity, who on the admission of the McGill Daily, boast "the two fastest and best balanced forward lines in the Intercollegiate League."

As one result of the Redmen-Blues contest the league leading scorer will be determined. At present there is a close race for the top positions between Halder with 19 points and O'Connor with 18.

The Blues are injury free (manager Harvey Spence excepted) for the game tonight.

The McGill rooters are pulling for a victory and Varsity is just as determined to make it a "Blue-Friday" for the Redmen, and tote home the trophy in the form of the Thompson Trophy, successfully concluding the first post-war hockey season.

GAMES TODAY
HOCKEY
4:00	MED. II vs VIC. II	P. Fyfe, Davison
5:00	KNOX B vs FOR. B	P. Fyfe, Davison
6:00	KNOX A vs FOR. A	P. Fyfe, Davison
8:00	DENT. B vs MED. III	Horkins, Farrell
9:00	PHARM. vs SPS IV	Horkins, Farrell
WATER-POLO
4:15	SPS III vs ST. M.	Brace
BASKETBALL MAJOR
PLAYOFFS
1:00	JR. VIC. vs PRE-MED. A	Jackson, Swan
4:00	TRIN. A vs JR. U.C. A	Rotman, Jackson
BASKETBALL MINOR
PLAYOFFS
1:00	PHE V vs VIC. XI	Evins
4:00	I ELEC. vs PHE VI	Evins
SATURDAY'S GAMES
BASKETBALL MINOR
1:00	TRIN. III vs II ENG. BUS.	Rotman

WATER POLO STANDING COMMITTEE MEETING

TODAY — 1.00 P.M.

To Arrange Playoffs, etc.

INTRAMURAL SQUASH PLAYOFF

Deadlines

PRELIMS—Monday, March 4th.
SEMI-FINALS—Thursday, March 7th.
FINAL—Monday, March 13th.

For court reservations:—First named player to arrange.
For referee:—See Warden's Office.
For further information:—See Intramural Office.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

24 HOUR SERVICE

Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.

FOR SALE

Man's evening suit, size 40, excellent condition, $35. ME 5484.

SCHOOL GRADUATE

School graduate will pay up to $500. cash for car or half ton pick-up. Must be in good condition. Apply Box O, The Varsity, or phone KI 0111.

LOST

Black Sheaffer pencil, Room 6, U.C., Thurs., 11 o'clock. Please turn in at S.A.C. office Hart House.

WANTED

Co-eds for Osculometer Calibration. Experience not required but preferred. Photographs necessary. References unnecessary. Apply Box Q, The Varsity.

WANTED

Tutor, actuarial science, for first year C. & F. Apply Box N, The Varsity.

WANTED

Elect Ken Robinson, II U.C., for Hart House Library Committee.

WANTED

Tutor, Actuarial Science for 1st year M & P. Apply Box P, The Varsity.

LOST

Green Parker pencil, in U.C. or Economics Bldg., Tues. Phone Cameron, MI 2700.

GIRLS

He's single and willing. Terry Arlen, 10 p.m. nightly from CKEY.

LOST

Black and white Parker vacuumatic, south end of campus, Wed., Feb. 27th. Please leave at Women's S.A.C. office, room 82, U.C.

LOST

Elect Harry Ansley, II S.P.S., for Library Committee. "Volumes of Better Books."

How right they were when they said Picobac was every man's tobacco - its so cool and mild!

Picobac
THE PICK OF TOBACCO

CITY CHURCHES

Faculty, Students, Friends

SUNDAY MORNING SERVICE

In

CONVOCATION HALL

University of Toronto

Speaker—Prof. George Kimble, McGill University

Topic—"BY GUESS OR BY GOD"

President Sidney Smith Will Read The Lesson

Sponsored by Varsity Christian Fellowship

Man's Position

(Continued from Page 1)
which occurrences are events which we call "selves". Thus, Dewey regards man as an agent, rather than an end, the speaker asserted, living in a fundamentally hazardous world. "Man fears because he exists in a fearful and awful world," the speaker quoted. This dismal picture is the beginning, not the end, of wisdom for Dewey, the speaker explained, adding that Dewey regards human effort as the only conscious purpose in nature. Man alone can control and use all nature for envisaged ends, chosen and changed at will. Human freedom is possible, then, only because nature is present to be impressed by man, controlled use and achieved enjoyment making for unity in human life, the speaker concluded.

Female Athletes

(Continued from Page 1)
practice they can make use of the court in the gym, which incidentally is not even the proper size, provided they leave before the building closes at 6 p.m. Those interested in badminton or archery must make the pilgrimage down to the Physical Health and Education School, which through the courtesy of Messrs. Eaton & Co. finds temporary shelter in the Margaret Eaton Building. Bowlers, too, must look afield for accommodation. Alas and alack—a sad lack.

The members of the Physical Education Department are suffering under present arrangements too. Miss Forester must gravitate from the Posture Clinic on Hoskin, to the Lillian Massey Building, to the Margaret Eaton Building, carrying with her whatever the day's work demands. Office space in the Lillian Massey Building is at a premium; there are so many desks, chairs and filing-cabinets here, (not to mention people eternally coming and going.) that work requiring concentration cannot be done justice.

All of which would seem to indicate that a new Women's Athletic Building should go up on the priority list again, 'n'est-ce pas?

Wistfully, Miss Forester and her co-workers dream of a building equal in size to Hart House, containing a large swimming-pool, several gyms, offices for the P.H. & E. School, Physical Education Department and Posture Clinic, a lecture hall, and facilities for games and informal recreation. Suggestions for possible location of the building are that:

- 1.) The Flavell residence be rebuilt or that a wing be added to it.
- 2.) A wing be added to Hart House.
- 3.) A special wing be included in the proposed Co-educational Centre.

"But please," stipulate the Physical Education Department, "make it central!"

ATTENTION VARSITY STAFF

All reporters of The Varsity, Ajax and Toronto, are invited to a tea in the Women's Union at 4.30 this afternoon, to discuss the final issue and vote for next year's editor. In order to secure fair representation voting will be restricted to staff members who have worked for the paper since the change of printers early in January.

Westminster Central United

117 Bloor Street East

Sunday Services

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.:

Minister:

Rev. J. Bruce Hunter

D.D., LL.D.

Fireside hour at close of Evening Service.

Students Cordially Invited

A M & D

John Hall at Ajax

Running concurrently with the students art exhibit in Toronto, there is at Hart House Ajax a slightly different display, a group of oils by a young Torontonian, John Hall.

Mr. Hall's paintings, while unorthodox in many ways, are still typically Canadian. The collection at Ajax consists mostly of nature scenes; some quiet and peaceful some wild and boisterous; interspersed with a few, I feel, comparatively mediocre, portraits. All are in a bold, vigorous style which, while it brings a few uncomplimentary remarks denotes the assuredness and maturity of the artist. The two paintings which critics claim as Mr. Hall's best; 'Hills near Palgrave' and a scene of a windswept hill; emphasize as well as any the artist's ability to capture the spirit of nature on his canvas.

Judging from those frequenters of Hart House Ajax we would say that this exhibition is being well received. While admittedly, the majority of students are no connoisseurs of art it is refreshing to see so many of them, especially since they are applied science students, taking enough interest to admire, discuss and criticize the art of a fellow Canadian. Our only wish is that many more Ajaxians will drop into Hart House common room to see this display before March 4, when it must be returned to its owners and be replaced with the student art now in Toronto.

—FRED BOYD

CITY CHURCHES

KNOX CHURCH

Spadina and Harbord

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

REV. W. T. MCCREE, M.A.
Minister of Glebe Presbyterian Church.

8.30 p.m.—"Knox Sunday Fellowship"

CONDUCTED BY MEMBERS OF THE INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Students Specially Invited

Friday, 8 p.m.—
Preparatory Service.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

Huron Street—Just South of Bloor
7 a.m., 8 a.m. and 9.30 a.m. Holy Eucharist

11 a.m.—Junior Congregation

11 a.m.—CHORAL EUCHARIST

Preacher:

Rev. Fr. Cotton, Community of the Resurrection.

3.50 p.m.—Quiet afternoon, conducted by Rev. Fr. Cotton, C.R.

7 p.m.—CHORAL EVENSING

Preacher—REV. D. R. L. CLARKE

ST. MARY MAGDALENE'S

(ANGLICAN)

(ULSTER STREET AT MANNING)
From the University, west along Harbord to Manning, south one block

STUDENTS WELCOMED

REV. R. T. F. BRAIN, M.C.

Rector

Healey Willan, Mus. Doc., Organist.

EVERY SUNDAY:

8 and 9.30 a.m.—Holy Communion.

11 a.m.—Solemn Eucharist & Sermon.

7 p.m.—Evensong & Sermon.

DAILY SERVICES—PARTICULARS IN BULLETIN WEEKLY.

Students who would like to serve at the Altar, please see Rev. T. E. Downey, Trinity College.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

First Church of Christ, Scientist
St. George St. at Lowther Ave.

Branch of The Mother Church
The First Church of Christ,
Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

SUNDAY SERVICES

11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

11 a.m.

Sunday, March 3rd.

"Christ Jesus"

Wed. Evening Meeting

at 8.00 o'clock

Including Testimonies of Healing through Christian Science

Free Public Reading Room where the Bible and Authorized Christian Science Literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.
80 Richmond St. West

St. Paul's Anglican Church

BLOOE STREET EAST

Rector:

REV. CANON F. H. WILKINSON,
M.A., D.D.

8 a.m.—HOLY COMMUNION

11 a.m.—HOLY COMMUNION.

Preacher:

THE RECTOR

Sermon series on "Vital Christianity and Basic Beliefs".

I "Creeds—Dead and Living"

3 p.m.—BIBLE CLASSES.

7 p.m.—EVENING PRAYER

Preacher:

THE REV. R. S. K. SEELEY,
M.A., D.D. PROVOST OF
TRINITY COLLEGE.

Organist:

Charles Peaker, Mus. D., F.R.C.O.

University Students Welcome at All Services

HOLY BLOSSOM TEMPLE

Bathurst Street At Ava Road

at 11:00 a.m.

RABBI S. GERSHON LEVI

will speak on

"THE RIGHT TO BE DIFFERENT"

Public cordially invited

Free Bus Service from Bathurst and St. Clair every 15 minutes, commencing at 10:40 a.m. until 11:20 a.m., and leaving the Temple at 12:30 p.m. and 12:50 p.m.

RADIO BROADCAST RABBI FEIN-

BERG, CKEY, SUNDAY, 9-45 A.M.

St. Andrew's

KING AND SIMCOE STS.

Minister

VERY REV. STUART C.

PARKER, D.D.

116TH ANNIVERSARY

David Ouchterlony—Organist

11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

MAJOR REV.

JOHN W. FOOTE, V.C.

Students specially invited

BLOOR STREET

UNITED CHURCH

Corner Bloor and Huron Streets

11 a.m.

Rev. Geo. C. Pidgeon

D.D.

7 p.m.

REV. PRESTON MACLEOD, M.A.

"The Faith We Declare"

(1) "We believe in God—the Father"

6.40 p.m.—Organ Recital.

8.15 p.m.—Friendship Hour.

FREDERICK C. SILVESTER

Organist and Choirmaster

STUDENTS ESPECIALLY

WELCOME

THE RELIGIOUS SOCIETY OF FRIENDS (QUAKER)

MEETING FOR WORSHIP

on Sunday morning at 11 a.m.

AT THE

Meeting House, 109 Maitland St.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED

TO WORSHIP WITH US.

"There, syllabled by silence, let me hear the still small voice which reached the prophet's ear."

—John Greenleaf Whittier

THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY

Trinity Square

(Off Yonge, 2 below Dundas)

Invites students to join with us in services that combine beauty of worship with progressive Christian action

Regular Sunday services at 8, 9.30, and 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m.

VIC STUDENTS - In V.C.U. Elections Today

VOTE

WATSON

VOTE

MORGAN

VOTE

HURLBUT

Air Research

(Continued from Page 3)

to test the efficiency of microphones, telephone receivers, flying helmets and oxygen helmets, all important parts of radio transmission in an air craft. The problem of radio communication is very important because of the high noise levels in air craft. In this work they were assisted by the Department of Physics under Prof. E. F. Burton and Dr. MacKay. They also co-operated with the R.C.A.F. ear testing unit under Wing Commander J. T. Sullivan of the Department of Oto. Laryngology.

Night vision is another problem to be contended with in the Air Force. This work was largely carried out at the University of McGill under the guidance of W. C. Evelyn of that University and B. F. Crocker of Toronto University. The training was done in darkened rooms with silhouettes projected on a white wall. The men were trained to distinguish the dim outlines and how to use their eyes to the best advantage at a very low level of illumination. The equipment developed here was finally adopted as the R.A.F. system of night training vision and used in the U.S. Navy.

Nutrition research was carried out by Dr. F. F. Tisdall of the Department of Paediatrics of the Sick Children's Hospital. Laboratories were established in Guelph, Toronto and elsewhere. Dr. W. J. McCreary did the field work in this. He was with the R.C.A.F. in Holland, France and Germany. He kept right behind the invading army examining conditions as they advanced. He visited the notorious prison camp at Belsen to study the effects of malnutrition.

Problems of difficulty in breathing at high altitudes, air-sickness, protective clothing against the cold were also dealt with. Dr. G. W. Manning, now official medical historian of Canada, and once in charge of No. 2 Clinical Investigation Unit in Regina worked on the causes of air-sickness. He tried to find a prevention or at least some way of alleviating the condition. The work on protective clothing was handled by Dr. H. C. Bazett, on leave from the University of Pennsylvania, and Doctors Burton, Page and Kitching of this university. Flight Lieut. J. S. Hart did work of great importance in the physiology of breathing as related to the use of oxygen in aircraft. He determined the degree of resistance in breathing apparatus which could be tolerated without discomfort, and assessed the amount of leakage which could take place at different altitudes without danger. J. E. Moore did this same type of work in Edmonton. One man, Prof. E. T. Waters of the Department of Physiology, was seriously injured while training crews under actual flying conditions near Vancouver. The plane he was in crashed; half the crew was killed and he escaped with two broken legs, a broken arm, and other injuries. After spending nearly two years in the hospital Prof. Waters rejoined the staff this Fall.

Designs "Ice-Box"

Much of the work in high altitude flying was facilitated by the aid of John Shortreed, now Deputy Director of Ajax, of the Superintendent's staff. He designed a decompression chamber used for experimental work in the training of air crew. He also designed a refrigeration decompression chamber to simulate the extreme cold and low pressure found at high altitudes. When it looked as though much flying would be done in the tropics he designed a chamber to give tropical conditions. Thus every condition found in flying was studied and much valuable information gained.

It can be easily seen that the University was putting forth an all-out effort in this field as well as all the others. Willing experimenters were found in every Faculty. Obviously not all their names could be mentioned. Literally hundreds of men and women worked day and night to make flying conditions as safe as was humanly possible.

The important thing to remember is that all these people volunteered their services. There was none of the forced drafting so evident in totalitarian states. There was no "Do it, or else" attitude. These people worked for the war effort because they wanted to. They fought just as hard as any front line soldier. They should be honored just as much.

SMART on or off the Campus

WOOL and CAMEL'S HAIR PULLOVERS From SCOTLAND

For good looks, trimness and soft, almost weightless warmth, you'll find these pullovers of wool and camel's hair hard to beat. They're sleeveless . . . easy to slip on and off . . . and comfortable under your sports jacket or worn with a suit. Fawn shade only in an attractive, fancy knit. Sizes small, medium and large. Each5.95

PHONE TR. 5111

Main Store—Main Floor

T. EATON CO. Limited

ST. GEORGE'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

JOHN ST. S. of the ART GALLERY

GREAT PRE-LENT TEACHING MISSION

The Archbishop of Quebec

SUNDAY, MARCH 3rd

11 A.M.—"FACTS ABOUT FAITH"
7 P.M.—"THE GOSPEL OF JESUS".

WEEK DAYS AT 8.15 P.M.

- | | |
|----------------------------------|------------------------------|
| (1) Reality in Religion. | (4) Judgments of God. |
| (2) Life, Death and Resurrection | (5) The Apostolic Order. |
| (3) Destiny of Man. | (6) The Power of the Spirit. |

This is your invitation to come. Don't miss this opportunity, will you

S.C.M. LABOR FORUM

C. H. MILLARD

C. B. C. SCOTT

REV. JOHN FRANK

SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 2.00 — 10.00

In The Women's Union

For Pipe Smokers of Discriminating Taste

GOLDSTEIN'S Perique Mixture

The Same Old Formula Since 1883

A high-grade blend of Turkish, Perique, Virginia and Latakia Tobacco, approximating those excellent imported brands made in Scotland and England.

Every user of it is an ardent advocate of its merits.

Its popularity is growing fast. You cannot pay less and get as good; you cannot buy better if you pay more.

For the present it is packed in a heavy waxed bag, in a cardboard container. It keeps in excellent condition.

It is put up in half pounds and sells at $1.50, plus tax; and also in a pocket package containing 1/10 lb. at 30 cents, plus tax.

WM. GOLDSTEIN & CO.

152 YONGE STREET
Toronto

52 SPARKS STREET
Ottawa

S.C.M. "MARDI GRAS"

WOMEN'S UNION

Tuesday, March 5

Hugh Graham And His Orchestra

$1.50 COUPLE

REFRESHMENTS

Dancing 8.30—12.00

TICKETS: S.C.M. OFFICE

BE SMART—LOOK SMART USE BRYLCREEM

THE PERFECT HAIR DRESSING

● Applied every morning, BRYLCREEM will keep your hair looking smart and well-groomed all day long. The natural oils in BRYLCREEM overcome dandruff and dry scalp, give the hair a healthy, natural lustre without that greasy appearance. All druggists sell BRYLCREEM in the handy, convenient tube. Buy today.

NO GUM • NO SOAP • NO ALCOHOL • NO STARCH

Coming Events

V.C.F. AJAX

All Ajax students week-ending in Toronto are encouraged to attend the Sunday Morning Service, at 11:00 a.m., in Convocation Hall, University of Toronto. Professor George Kimble, of McGill University, will address the audience on the topic "By Guess or by God." Everyone welcome.

NEWMAN CLUB

A 60-minute sound movie "The Story of The Vatican" will be shown Sunday, March 3, at 9:15 p.m. in Newman Hall. Narrator is Mgr. Fulton J. Sheen. The discussion group will meet Friday 7:30 p.m.

MACPHERSON LECTURE

Miss MacPherson will lecture to the first year women of Victoria College in Wymilwood on Monday March 4, at 5:05 p.m.

The Students' Choice:

BLOOR TAXI

LIMITED

Sub-station at

HARBORD and ST. GEORGE

RA. 5151

Switchboard connecting

all branches

ALL-NIGHT SERVICE.

ALSO GENERAL REPAIRS

AND TOWING

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices.

Quick, accurate repair service

321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762

(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)

OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING

Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Polling Hours

11 a.m. - 2 p.m.

4 p.m. - 6 p.m.

HART HOUSE

ELECTION DAY

Wed. 6th March

Camera Committee

11.45 a.m. - 1.30 p.m.

4.45 p.m. - 5.30 p.m.

CHURCHILL TO VISIT VARSITY NEXT FALL

The

The Undergraduate Newspaper

THE VARSITY

VOL. LXV—No. 95 THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Monday, March 4, 1946

"Winnie" Gets Degree At Special Convocation Held Early In Autumn

Rt. Hon. Winston S. Churchill, Britain's wartime Prime Minister, will receive an honorary degree from the University of Toronto at a special convocation next fall, President Sidney Smith told The Varsity yesterday.

The President said that he could not understand a Toronto paper's guess that the Churchill visit would be "probably in April."

"I don't know where they got that information," he said. "We had been hoping he would come here at the end of March or early in April, but his official acceptance Friday said that he would be unable to visit Toronto on his present trip."

Mr. Churchill is returning to England late in March, and will visit the University when he returns to this continent as guest of Lord Alexander, who is expected to arrive as Governor-General April 4.

"We have been hoping to secure Mr. Churchill since before Christmas," President Smith stated. "Early in December, when his plan to visit this continent was first announced, we cabled him an invitation."

"He replied that he did not want to make any definite plans until he had arrived on this side of the Atlantic."

"When Premier Drew visited him in Florida in January he took it up with him personally."

"Mr. Churchill's definite reply arrived last Friday. In it he said that he would be unable to visit Ontario on this trip because of the necessity for a complete rest, but he promised to come when he is back as guest of Lord Alexander."

Announcing the visit last Friday, Premier George A. Drew said that when he saw Mr. Churchill in Florida he had "indicated a keen desire" to visit Ontario, but had expressed some doubt as to whether he could undertake the visit on this trip.

"No man living," said Premier Drew, "contributed so much to the possibility of ultimate victory and I know that all the people of Ontario will be glad to have this assurance of the opportunity to express their appreciation to the man who rallied the forces of freedom throughout the world in the darkest hours of the war."

To Receive Degree Next Fall

RT. HON. WINSTON S. CHURCHILL

McGill Leads League As Blues Beaten 5-4

By Don Coles

On Friday night in the Montreal Forum, with 7000 frenzied fans screaming themselves hoarse, McGill's Redmen ensured themselves of a first place tie in the Intercollegiate Hockey League by edging out Ace Bailey's favored Blues, 5-4. Patrons of Gorman's Gorgeous Garret saw one of the best hockey games of the year, as Canada's two top college teams battled it out in a real Frank Merriwell classic.

For McGill, it was an uphill battle all the way. Georgie Hale's winning goal in the dying minutes of the game marked the first time the Redmen had ever held the lead, and climaxed a terrific third period drive which netted them four goals and brought them out from under a 4-1 deficit.

The Blues, who had controlled the play until the midway mark in the final canto, and who deserved a better fate, can thank 'Gino' Peirson for their rude awakening. The starchy right winger lit the light three times, and in so doing lifted himself into third place in the individual scoring race, six points behind Varsity's Wally Halder.

The luminaries in the Toronto scene were, as usual, Halder, who figured in all four Varsity goals, and Bill Kosick, Ball, Kryzanowski, Henry and Bauer also played heads-up hockey, and Bill Wade turned in his best performance of the year.

Kosick opened the scoring at 5:05 in the first period, taking a trailer pass from Halder and rifling a 20-footer home in the best Conacher tradition. Peirson's first goal, which deadlocked the game just five seconds later, was a 'soffie' which apparently caught custodian Ball in a 'reflexless' mood.

From here in, until the third period deluge, it was the Blue and White all the way, as Bailey's boys rammed in three markers without a reply. Jack "Legs" Gelineau, be-

Ajax Committee To Improve Mail

At last week's meeting the Ajax Joint House Committee:

—decided to open a letter box for outgoing mail inside the Engineering Society offices in 313b. Mail will be picked up daily by a runner but the Post Office authorities can assume no responsibilities for such mail. There is no possibility of two mails a day because of inadequate train service.

—discussed the possibility of seeking to obtain a branch of the Post Office Savings Bank at Ajax. At present there is an insufficient number of potential depositors but with sufficient demand an Ajax branch could be opened. A survey will be made of the number of students interested.

—heard Superintendent of Residences R. H. Perry report that a supply of dishes was now available for the residences to facilitate mid-night snacks. The cafeteria can supply bread, cheese, and coffee, but—no butter or sugar.

tween the pipes for McGill, was sensational in withstanding the barrage of rubber that was tossed his way. Was it not for his acrobatic (Continued on Page 7)

"Mystic Crew of Comus" Rides Again at Newman

By Don Goudy

Costumes gay and colourful will be the tad in Newman Hall this coming Tuesday evening where a revival of that gala festival known as the Mardi Gras will take place.

Mardi Gras, popular French name for "Fat Tuesday", or more properly "Shrove Tuesday", is the day before Ash Wednesday. It is celebrated in Catholic countries as the last day of the carnival, with feasting and merry-making. In England, the eating of pancakes alone survives as a social custom, the day at one time having been called Pancake Tuesday.

In the United States the festival season preceding Lent, particularly associated with New Orleans, La., is known as the Mardi Gras. The season begins with the New Year and terminates with parades and a ball on Shrove Tuesday.

This carnival season, of ancient and obscure origin, was introduced into America by the French colonists as early as 1702, on the site of Mobile, Ala. Similar festivities were observed by the residents of New Orleans from its foundation and were continued during the Spanish control of Louisiana. In 1857 "The Mystic Krewe of Comus" was organized by a group of former residents of Mobile, and the first spectacular parade with floats was staged at New Orleans.

Since that date "King Rex" has yearly ruled over the city on Shrove Tuesday or Mardi Gras, and appeared in the streets accompanied by his "Mystic Krewe of Comus". In the evening the frolic season terminates with a brilliantly illuminated pageantry, depicting scenes from literature from history, and is followed by a ball.

Hart House Candidates

Candidates for election to Hart House Committees will be allowed space in The Varsity to assist them in campaigning.

Stories about the candidates, not exceeding 25 words will be accepted up to 4 p.m. to-day in the news room of The Varsity, Room 42-A, University College.

Vesper Services Started at Ajax

A brilliant performance by violinist Bob Graham, II Meds, featured the initial Vesper Service and Concert before 200 Ajax students in the Recreation Hall last evening. Accompanied on the piano by his mother, Bob's rendition of the Concerto in D major by Paganini and Kreisler's Caprice Viennois drew prolonged applause from the audience meriting Londonerry Air as an encore. Bob also played one of his own compositions.

In keeping with an arrangement for a 7:30 Vesper Service and an 8:30 Concert on the first Sunday of each month, Padre Carl Swan, assisted by Gord Easter and Bob Diebel, led the short non-denominational service. Canon F. H. Wilkinson, himself a veteran with a distinguished record in the first World War, in a frank and direct manner spoke on "Christianity in Democracy", stressing its peace-time maintenance being of equally great importance as its wartime preservation.

The recently formed Ajax choir, ten in number, contributed an anthem to this service while Andy Matthews introduced the concert artist.

Correction

In the issue of February 26 of The Varsity it was incorrectly stated that Mr. Ingvald Pedersen was formerly leader of the Danish student resistance movement.

Mr. Pedersen was on the general staff of the Danish resistance movement for North Jutland.

Science Fellowships Open at Liverpool

A number of research fellowships open to men and women have been instituted at the University of Liverpool by Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., for the purpose of research in chemistry, physics or allied subjects such as biochemistry, metallurgy, chemotherapy, pharmacology.

Three fellows whose tenure will begin Oct. 1, 1946, will be elected by the university. The normal value of each fellowship will be £600 per annum but the university may fix a different stipend depending on the qualifications of the candidate.

Normal tenure of the fellowships will be for three years, renewable for one or two years. If a candidate is on national service the fellowship may be deferred until his release.

Further information may be obtained from the office of the registrar in Simcoe Hall.

Personalities In Ajax Show

Ted Reeve, sports columnist of the Toronto Evening Telegram, will feature "Special in Sports", first of a weekly series at Ajax, 7:00 p.m. Monday night as announced Wednesday by Supervisor of Athletics 'Bud' Horton. Following his "Sports Shorts", Mr. Reeve will join with Ted Morris, coach of Argonauts; Lew Hayman, owner-coach of Montreal team; Warren Stevens, U. of T. Athletic Director, and, probably, Roy Dillworth, Toronto Blues basketball coach and radio sports announcer, in a hot-stove discussion of football.

The program will also include Ted Snyder and his "Hot Jaxs" and a 90-minute stage show by the Sophista Swings.

Dean C. R. Young is to present the pennant to the intra-mural winner for February now hanging in the balance between Residences 732 and 725.

Plans for future programs include a basketball game between Carlton Ladies and the Montgomery Maids or York Lions, all of Toronto, Monday, March 11, and a return match-up of the U. of T. Jaxs and the "Ten Old Men", possibly for this night as well.

Monday night, April 1, will see a repeat of the show being put on Monday with the addition of the "Hit the Jackpot" Revue.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University College

Business Office

Agitation Effects Shakedown

Agitation for architectural reform on the campus has brought results. Pepsodent Kidney Myth announced last night.

In a phone call from the Liquid Diet Kitchen on Lure Street, Myth informed your Faculty borespondent that he had secured the services of Egad Poltroon whose circumference is well known in architectural circles. Said Myth, "the Unliversity is fortunate in having this man to reconstruct our buildings and to solve our architectural hell problems. He is outstanding in his line—he has been standing out there since three o'clock this morning waiting for the liquor store to open."

In conclusion Myth stated that Poltroon had been secured for a relatively small figure—he would release neither phone number nor address.

Poltroon is noted not only for his work with gargoyles in the lascivious leer department but also for his investigations in Europe which resulted in the revelation of a new slant on the leaning tower of Pisa (any resemblance between this and the lean tower of Canner is purely cataclysmic and is to be taken with a grain of arsenic.)

During a press conference this morning Poltroon said, "Pan's fifty cents, suits one buck."

When asked what change he planned to make in the local architecture he lovingly caressed his Ajax Little Giant Atom Bomb and replied, "Intensive—I would rather see classes held in tents than in the present draculocities."

His only definite proposal (excluding the one made to the Hipical Dough-head) was the immediate furnishing of the Heartless (gents only) House billiard room in Early Restoration.

In stating, "My work's been all gummed up since I lost my upper plate," Poltroon admitted that he may have bitten off more than he can chew in accepting this job.

Of interest to the illiterate set on the campus (that is not a capital "C") is the fact that Poltroon graduated from Skule with the third degree summa cum fraud.

While Poltroon leafed through an old copy of the Police Gazette the fact came up in the coarse of the conversation that he was from old Norse and Souse stock. With the mention of this he poured a beer down your reporter's neck and asked if we felt a draught.

When your Faculty representative rose to leave Poltroon said, "Well, good buy."

We replied, "No tanks, we get our water from a tap."

Ismael.

Haystax Hintellectuals

Scene: the Haystax newspaper office.

Time: 7.34 p.m.

Enter Diamond Macalof, mayor of Haystax, editor of the Haystax News, and Keeper of the Flame (a chain-smoker). He seats himself before the typewriter. He has a blank page, a blank typewriter, and a blank mind. His ambition is to be a blank manager. He speaks:

"Whoa is me. Deadline in ten minutes and my ace reporter, Arborous Nelson, hasn't returned from Gillette's office. On a charge for not shaving."

Die, as his friends call him, hope-fully, switches on the radio.

"The Black and White Coach Company bring you the Green Hornet."

"Goody-goody," chorles Die, "My favorite serial. It's been running so long."

Enter Arborous Nelson, chewing a

COLLEGE TEXT BOOKS NEW and USED

Try Cole's for that hard-to-get Text book you need

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 10 P.M.

BOOK MARKET AND BOOK EXCHANGE

726 YONGE RA. 1148 (One Block South of Bloor)

The Chemistry Club considers "The Opportunities of A Chemist" at its next meeting

Thursday, March 7, at 8 o'clock in the large lecture room

All Welcome

Refreshments

IMPORTANT!

"Are You Kidding Yourself?"

DON'T BE SHOCKED — FIVE FAMPFERED CHILDREN DID!

This is the second of a series of fortnightly lecture-discussions on "Creative Living In An Atomic Age"

by

LEE KASSARJI, B.A.

A psycho-analyst who speaks his mind after many years' clinical experience in many lands — Egypt, Palestine, Turkey, Bagdad, etc.

BATHURST STREET UNITED CHURCH (1 Block below Bloor)

on

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1946, AT 8:15 P.M.

COME AND BRING YOUR FRIENDS TO HEAR THESE STORIES

Auspices: Bathurst Street United Church Young People's Society, Toronto

Hart House Bulletin Board

VOTE IN HART HOUSE ELECTION

11:00 A.M.—2:00 P.M. East Common Room

12:00 A.M.—2:00 P.M. Debates Room

4:00 P.M.—6:00 P.M. East Common Room

Camera Club vote for Camera Committee in Camera rooms: 11:30 — 1:45 P.M. — and 4:30 — 5:30 P.M.

TO VOTE IN THE HART HOUSE ELECTIONS YOU MUST PRESENT YOUR ADMIT TO LECTURE CARD

Informal Recital

Howard Brown (III Music), pianist, will give an informal recital in the east common room at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Senior Members' Art Exhibition

The exhibition of paintings by senior members and faculty will be held in the art gallery from 13th to 27th March. Entries should be handed in to the Warden's office by 6 p.m. on Monday 11th March. There will be a Visitors' Day for this exhibition on Sunday 24th March.

straw. He looks blandly around the room.

"Don't blandly look," snarls Macalof.

"Sorry, Chief," mutters Nelson, surreptitiously slipping Diamond's overcoat into his hip pocket.

The reply is muffled. Diamond Macalof is wearing his overcoat longingly but decides it would be noticeable.

"Why don't you get a portable, Chief?" mutters Arborous, cunningly, surreptitiously slipping Diamond's overcoat into his hip pocket.

The reply is muffled. Diamond Macalof is wearing his overcoat

—"JO-JO"

Off To Smith!

By MARY McINTOSH
Smith Exchange Scholar, 1945

An outstanding institution of many American colleges which unfortunately has not been adopted by Canadian universities is the practise of sending students abroad for one year of undergraduate study. Realizing the value of this educational opportunity the Canadian Women's Committee for International Relations sponsored the University of Toronto-Smith College student exchange last September.

It is difficult for us present exchangees to evaluate precisely the benefits of this year at Smith College. Above all, we have gained a greater knowledge and better understanding of the United States and her people. Canadians tend to believe that they, as a people, are identical with Americans and that therefore their way of life, their government, their organizations, their economy and their problems are identical with ours. This is not the case. Basically we have the same ideals but our means of attaining these ideals will be necessarily different because our institutions are different. There is no better way of understanding a country than to live within it. Consequently, we exchangees feel that we have gained greater insight into the national affairs and international relations of the United States through attending Smith College. The benefits which will accrue to us and to future exchange students in the form of better understanding and international good-will are immeasurable.

Not only have we gained by the exchange but we hope that we have spread knowledge of Canada and her people to American students. At least we have been able to correct many misconceptions and reduce many exaggerations. Because the United States is the greater power she often fails to recognize the potentialities of Canada and yet we have found her students eager to hear about the country "up north". This is not only an exchange of people but also an exchange of information, beliefs and ideas.

Smith College has one of the highest scholastic standings of any college in the United States. The students alone cannot attain this standard. The faculty is composed of some of the most outstanding educators in the country and it is a privilege to acquire knowledge first-hand from these persons. The guest lecturers and artists who come to Smith are of international eminence. The fact of being able to study under American professors is in itself a valuable asset of this exchange. Not only can they offer us new and different courses but they can express new ideas, new philosophies.

The day-to-day contacts and activities in which one participates may increase one's circle of friends to include girls from California, Kentucky, Washington, North Carolina, Argentina, China, Czechoslovakia, Hawaii or practically any country in the world. This not only increases one's sentimental attachments but also one's breadth of vision. The student government and clubs are different to those at Toronto and these should be of particular importance to Toronto girls interested in extra-curricular activities. The social aspects of college life are equally as important as the academic aspects in developing a well-rounded personality and we Varsityites feel that there is much to be gained from both sides of Smith College life.

For those Women sophomore students at the University of Toronto who are interested in learning about the United States, in promoting international harmony, in acquiring new academic and social experiences of the broadest sort, we present exchange students from Varsity to Smith encourage you strongly to take advantage of this educational project. Not only for next year but in your future careers you would be benefiting greatly from a year at Smith College.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 95

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Monday, March 4, 1946

Boisterous Balloting By Skulemen As Daniel Becomes New President

Colorful posters proving the experience of candidates and the blaring of sound trucks and PA systems opened the elections at S.P.S. Friday, as Skulemen prepared to cast their votes for next year's executive of the Engineering Society.

Although the record players had been blasting forth all morning the day did not really begin until noon when the Engineers marched with kilted pipers and S.P.S. sweaters leading, to Hart House for lunch. After lunch they returned to the Engineering building to cast their votes and then adjourned to "Shea's annex" on Queen Street where later in the afternoon the following election results were announced from the stage:

President of the Engineering Society: C. W. Daniel; 1st Vice-President: V. A. Brown (Accl.); 2nd Vice-President: J. Service; Secretary: J. R. A. Walker; Treasurer: B. A. Warren.

Executive 417: President: R. J. Smith; Vice-President: H. J. Hamm (Accl.); Sect.-Treas.: D. G. Henshaw (Accl.); Athletic Rep.: T. L. Hennessy.

Executive 418: President: W. MacDonald; Vice-President: R. Grass; Sect.-Treas.: W. O. C. Miller; Athletic Rep.: M. D. Guppy.

Executive 419: President: J. C. Cameron; Vice-President: W. C. Winegard; Sect.-Treas.: T. A. Harwood; Athletic Rep.: W. Lawrence (Accl.).

Athletic Association: President: E. C. Hendrick (Accl.); Vice-President: W. J. McCann; Sect.-Treas.: Jack Swan (Accl.).

Club Chairmen: Civil—R. A. Weir; M. and M.—C. W. Eggert; Mechanical—W. G. Gansler (Accl.); Architectural—N. McMurick (Accl.); Engineering Physics—W. R. J. Brown (Accl.); Chemical—M. E. J. O'Loughlin; Electrical—D. J. T. Glenn; Debates—C. A. Fry (Accl.); Aeronautical—E. L. Davies (Accl.); Engineering and Business—P. J. Langan.

Permanent Executive: President: R. Davidson; Vice-Presidents: M. D. McCulloch, A. N. Campbell; Sect.-Treas.: A. M. Lount; Councilors: Dept. 1—G. E. Evans; 2—E. W. Dajoe; 3—W. A. Freeman; 4—D. A. Price; 5—J. F. Allingham; 6—S. A. Cooke; 7—G. R. Slemmon; 8—G. M. Johnson; 10—C. E. Burrell. Bronze "S"—J. D. B. Bromley.

Manitoban Students Elect New Union Head

Winnipeg, Feb. 28—(CUP)—Lynn Watt, Senior Stick of Science at the University of Manitoba, beat his opponent, Dave McQueen, by 169 votes out of 3,000 ballots cast to become President of the U. of M.'s Students' Union for the coming year.

At the same time students voted 1,539 to 1,468 in favor of the Fort Garry site outside the city as the permanent site of the campus and overwhelmingly approved the proposed drive for a students Union Building.

Robinette Finals, Lit. Awards, Tues.

The final open meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society will be held Tuesday night when nominations will be received for next year's executive of the "Lit".

The meeting will also feature a summary of the year's activities and the finals of the Robinette Debates with the second year team of Andy Boas and Harold Alin meeting last year's winners, Telford Georges and Monty Simmonds of third year.

In addition Lit. Keys and other prizes and awards will be presented to graduating students who have distinguished themselves during their undergraduate careers.

The meeting will be held in the Junior Common Room at 8.00 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Campaigning for Monday's elections will commence this Thursday. The election will be combined with a tea dance Monday afternoon and results will be announced that evening at the final Red and White Night of the year.

Connecticut 'Campus' Swollen for Students

Storrs, Connecticut, March 2.—(Exchange)—The Connecticut Campus, weekly journal of the University of Connecticut, is returning to bi-weekly publication in a move precipitated by the expanding student body.

Inaugurated under Editor James Dawson in 1942 the two-issue a week system was discontinued in 1943 with the editorial staff disappearing into the armed services.

Approved by the University's Student Senate the new paper will appear in two 4-page versions instead of the present 6-page edition.

● EYES RIGHT

Nineteen-year-old Paula Denney, of London, will wear the University of Western Ontario beauty crown for the next year following coronation ceremonies at the Arts and Science Ball in London Arena last Friday night. First queen to be selected in the University's history, Paula is a second-year chemistry student whose "high B" scholastic averages add to "cover girl" charms. Votes were awarded for personality, poise, charm, beauty, participation in student activities and scholastic standing. She competed with 24 Western beauties.

Thomson New President Of Victoria College Union

Murray Thomson, third year Sociology student was elected president of the Victoria College Union in the annual spring elections Friday defeating this year's V.C.U. vice-president John Trueman and "reform candidate" Charles MacMillan.

A star forward on the Varsity senior basketball team and a prominent athlete, Thomson was assistant social director of the V.C.U. this year and will be one of two Vic representatives on next year's Students' Administrative Council.

Other S.A.C. representative from

Vic will be Joan Chalk who narrowly defeated Barbara Ewing in the contest for the office of associate president. Miss Chalk served as V.C.U. secretary this year.

Complete V.C.U. executive for next year is:

President: Murray Thomson.
Associate President: Joan Chalk.
Treasurer: Bruce Pierce.
Secretary: Helen Hulse.
Social Director: Lindsay Mitchell.
Social Directress: Jean Nethercott.

Assistant Social Directress: Jean Birkenshaw.

Final results of the contest for assistant social director and assistant treasurer are not yet available. It is understood that there is a very close race between John Teeter and Jack Pearce for the assistant social directorship while Jack Morgan, Don Paisley and Bill Mounfield are neck and neck in the other contest.

Results of voting for the executives of affiliated societies:

Japanese Deportation Rapped By Sandwell

Kingston, Mar. 2—(CUP)—Dr. B. K. Sandwell, editor of Saturday Night, addressed a mass rally of Queen's students Friday protesting the Jap deportation policy of the Ottawa government. Dr. Sandwell cancelled a previous engagement to participate in the meeting which was arranged only earlier in the week.

Petitions being circulated among the students will be sent to the Cabinet asking that the government restore full legal rights to Japs. The entire student body is being mobilized to support the drive.

Friday's Journal devoted the whole editorial page to the rally and the issue.

President, V.C.A.U.: Akira Hiki-chi.

President, A.S.G.A.: Joan Robins.
President, V.C.W.A.A.: Betty Fullerton.

"Is This Toronto?" Wonder Stripteuses As Skulemen Visit

By Stan White

"We weren't expecting them exactly, but they come every year," Miss Gold said. "We were delighted to entertain the Engineers—we'd even have given them permission."

Svelte Miss Gold, the theatre's assistant manager, said that she had no objection to the S.P.S. election results being announced from the stage of the theatre and insisted that she likes Skulemen.

"It's a bit difficult for our performers to face them en masse, but at the managing end we only see them in small groups. It was opening day and of course we didn't have time to warn the imported performers who only knew Toronto audiences by reputation. They were a little disturbed."

"There was no destruction. We enjoyed having them—it will make backstage talk for weeks," she concluded.

Miss Rose, choreographer, was full of the beans—she didn't like the beans, the beans weren't a good idea.

She found the Engineers a bit more trying than Miss Gold.

"It was opening day," she said, "and the girls weren't sure of their routines. They had to feel their way through them. With the audience pelting them with banana skins, oranges, tomatoes, toilet paper and beans from the front, me giving them their cues from the wings, and the scenery falling on them from behind, they had a rather hectic time."

"We usually take our timing from the audience reaction on opening day, but Friday's audience was no gauge. We'd like the boys to see the show now that it is set."

"But the beans—the girls weren't dressed for that sort of thing!"

Miss Jane Power (third from the right, hair: red, weight: 115 lbs., height: 5'4", bust: 36", hips: 37") ran into the wings from the Radium Routine saying she was definitely in favour of Sunday performances.

"Or isn't that what you wanted to know?"

"Oh—about the university boys. Well if they had bigger beans we could see them coming and duck. It wasn't as bad as this last year, but Miss Rose says that four years ago it was terrific!"

"Why didn't we leave the stage?" another chorine asked. "And let the Engineers get the better of us? Don't be silly!"

All of the "14 Casino Lovelies" showed a keen interest in the All-Varsity Revue. "Are you boys doing a show too? We poured a lot of water on Skulemen leaving the theatre but if we can get to the revue we'll really show them how it's done!"

Blonde Rose Marie "Xylophone Wizard" King said she'd never seen anything like it. "I wasn't scared but I've never had an audience like that before—and I've played to New Year's Eve audiences. I thought at first they didn't like me but I guess they were just showing their appreciation when they applauded all through my number."

Phil and Bonnie Bonita were worried about doing their act on a stage covered with banana skins—and rightly too! "We wondered if Toronto was going to be like this for a whole week! We didn't think this city could have changed that much since the last time we played here."

"Migawd! What is this?" wondered Miss Diane Shaw, premiere stripteuse running back into her dressing room to slip into something.

She yelled through the door at us: "I loved them—Windsor! I adored them!"

"There just weren't enough of them," she said when she came back, still showing a trim thigh. "Such innocent, shining faces—and I do want an autographed photo of the new president!"

"You're too young yourself," she told us, "but come back in three years!"

"Do you smoke?"

Report From Smith Exchangee

By Mary McIntosh

Within the first year of its operation it has been decided that the Smith College-University of Toronto student exchange will be continued under the sponsorship of the college concerned. It was inaugurated last year by the Canadian Women's Committee for International Relations to promote international good-will and to give girls at Smith and Varsity an opportunity to live and study in their neighbor country.

Although the terms of the exchange have not yet been completely settled for the coming year it would be well for eligible Varsity women to begin to consider the opportunity which lies before them. The exchange is open to all present women sophomore students at the University of Toronto, enrolled in one of the four Arts colleges, who have at least a B-average scholastic standing. Although only students honoring in Political Science and Economics, Sociology and History were eligible this year the field of study will probably be extended to include other honor courses. Pass Arts students are also free to apply if they are willing to enter one of the specified honor courses at Smith and return to Toronto for fourth year. Actually they would not be at any disadvantage for Smith students major only in junior and senior years.

There were four girls chosen for the exchange this year but the number may be increased to a maximum of eight. Regular University of Toronto residence and tuition fees are paid to the Varsity bursar so there is no exchange of money whatsoever. Scholarships obtained at the University of Toronto do hold good for a year at Smith.

We four Varsity exchangees can vouch for the great success of this new experiment and cannot over-emphasize the many valuable experiences which we have had during our year at Smith College. Although it is impossible here to tell all that is important a few pertinent facts might prove helpful to interested sophomores.

Smith is in Northampton, Massachusetts, about 100 miles southwest of Boston and 200 miles north of New York City, in a very beautiful section of New England near the Berkshire Mountains. The college has an enrolment of over two thousand women including many foreign students as well as girls from all over the United States. Included among its faculty are such outstanding persons as Mary Ellen Chase, Hans Kohn, Frank Hankins and Hallie Davis, former director of the W.P.A. theatre project. Both President and Mrs. Davis were former professors of English at University College.

Two outstanding features of Smith residences are the co-operative and language houses. In the campus "co-op" houses the students do all the housekeeping themselves, except for the cooking. As a result we feel that the girls living in these houses have more fun, greater experience and stronger group feeling than any other group on the campus. There are three foreign language houses at Smith—French, German and Spanish Houses and a Russian House may be established next year. This offers a wonderful opportunity for girls wishing to learn these languages. Perhaps in the future Varsity girls may have the chance to live in either a co-operative or language house if they so desire.

Some of the most impressive features of Smith College to us Varsityites have been the many organizations completely directed by women students. Student Council, Judicial Board, and House of Representatives are vital parts of the democratic student government, composed of elected student representatives and having no direct assistance from faculty members. Dramatic Association, Smith College Association News, Flying Club, Labor Relations Group, Press Board, Student Committee for Defense and Reconstruction are only a few of the clubs organized and controlled by the women students. We have formed many new ideas about student government and organizations during our year at Smith, where they play such a dynamic role in student life.

You, who are considering coming to Smith, may fear entering a new college and making new friends. Let us assure you that no one could have received us more warmly or made us feel more at home than the students and faculty of Smith College. They have not only offered

(Continued on Page 5)

"Hoike Poike For President"

A Radio Drama

OPENER: (VIA ECHO CHAMBER) The time has come. Make democracy work? A better Engineering Society depends on your exercising your democratic rights. Democracy needs voting democrats. (FADE UNDER THE NARRATOR AND RETAIN IN THE FOLLOWING VEIN:) Did you complain that the Engineering Society did not represent your enlightened opinions on the Japanese Question? Has it paid sufficient attention to your problems as ...

NARRATOR: The Manufacturers of EXPURJEE LAXATIVE, the Laxative which accomplishes results with scientific method, present the radio drama of the year: "HOIKE POIKE FOR PRESIDENT". The lights dim, the audience hushes; it's Theatre Time:

OPENER: (FADING IN FROM BACKGROUND) ... as ex-servicemen? It is the responsibility of every student to see that he knows the right candidate for every office, to hear out the platforms of your candidates and vote intelligently. A FAST STEPPING MARCH WHICH IS RIDDEN OUT BY BAG PIPES AND THE SOUND OF A MOB, BOOING, CHEERING, HURRAHING TOGETHER WITH THE SOUNDS OF ROTTEN TOMATOES, WHISTLES AND WOLF HOWLS.

CHAIRMAN: Gentlemen Engineers. Your candidates speak! It will be my privilege to introduce to you, in the forthcoming half hour, the candidates for this year's executive. The time allotted for speeches is as follows: To Candidates for President: two jokes. All others, one joke. Now, our first candidate: Hoike Poike for President.

MOB: CHEERING AND BOOING AS BEFORE.

HOIKE POIKE: My name is ...

MOB: BOO. SIT DOWN. ETC.

HOIKE POIKE: This reminds me of a joke. A man with a wooden leg bumped into a woman on the street and (FADING OUT) she said to him ...

MUSIC: CARRY AWAY WITH A SUGGESTIVELY PROVOCATIVE THEME AND CROSS FADE TO:

HOIKE POIKE: (FADING BACK IN) ... and the moral is: A man who has a wooden leg is not entirely unfortunate! Now, don't forget, Vote Hoike Poike for President.

MOB: CHEERING AND BOOING AS BEFORE.

CHAIRMAN: Now, Olum Cholum for Vice-President: OLUM CH: (SHOUTING ABOVE THE TUMULT OF THE MOB) This reminds me of a joke. A man bought a fish and (FADING) carried it home in his ...

MUSIC: RESUME PREVIOUS MARCH THEME AND CUT AFTER ONE SECOND.

ANNOUNCER: And now, ladies and gentlemen, before the second act of this stirring and graphic re-enactment of democratic processes proceeds, the manufacturers of EXPURJEE have a message for you.

You cannot be an efficient citizen of a democracy, nor can you enjoy our way of living unless your vital juice flows at the rate of a gallon a day. EXPURJEE is the stuff that will do it or kill you. Don't forget, EXPURJEE is the laxative that really laxes. Now for the second act of our dramatic drama.

SPECTATOR 1: (Reading an election poster) What a babe, woo. Vote for Bill Blue.

SPECTATOR 2: Wine, women and song, You can't go wrong. Vote for Hoagy Stogy.

SPECTATOR 3: Vice, VICE that is, Vote Homo Sappy for 2nd Vice.

SPECTATOR 4: Don't get caught with your pants on a wire, Vote for Zachariah Plier, 3rd Vice, VICE that is.

MUSIC: SOME SILLY DITTY LIKE "I SAID NO—SHE SAID YES".

NARRATOR: And so the election campaign proceeded, hectic and hot; dazzing with Varga Girl posters, haunting and vaunting. The great issues of the day were posed before Hoike Poike who, unperplexed, propounded straightforward, courageous and clear panaceas for each one of them. At length the election was over and Hoike Poike was President!

MOB: CHEERING, BOOING AND THROWING TOMATOES AS BEFORE.

VOICE: Mr. President!

PRESIDENT: Yes, citizen.

VOICE: I have a question. Where do we go from here? What is your plan of action?

PRESIDENT: A very good question. And I the President have the answer: It says in this paper: "Lolita G-String is the most super swivelous, dansatious grindation ever to come from Broadway to Queen Street."

So, I say: To the best burlesque in town!

MOB: A WILD SPASM OF CHEERING. CROSS FADE TO:

NARRATOR: On to Queen Street the citizens thronged. There, amidst tremendous applause and shouts of "Take it off!", Lolita gave forth of her sensuous and hypnotizing hot-test. Thus did the democratic way again triumph. To the men who not only know how to resolve the potential energy of a stretched spring but also how to make democracy work, we offer our cheers.

VOICE: (Quietly) Hurray!

MUSIC: CONCLUDING FANFARE.

—SCARO

STAFF POSITIONS

WITH SALARY AT BOLTON CAMP
AND COBOURG

For Programme, Music, and Swimming Directors, (Female)

APPLY KI 3126

ALL-VARSITY REVUE

'ANGELS'

Confidentially I hear the All-Varsity is the campus event of the year!

What a show! Don Harron and Alec Siegel, with Gals and Skits and Music!

I hope I'm not too late to get tickets.

Sold Out

DON'T BE ALSO DISAPPOINTED. FEW TICKETS REMAINING. GET YOURS NOW.

Tickets sold in every college Rotunda and Hart House Rotunda from 12-2 p.m. Tickets $1 per person.

ORCHESTRA
BENNY LOUIS

DANCING—8.30—12

$2.00 per couple

For Vic. Students Only

VICTORIA COLLEGE ATHLETIC AT-HOME

Burwash Hall

Friday, March 8th.

"TICKET SALE

MONDAY, MARCH 4th

For Sports Participants only
and TUESDAY, MARCH 5th

OPEN SALE

At V.C.U. Office From 12-2

INFORMAL

Books

They Sing Democracy

Margaret Fairley's Spirit of Canadian Democracy (Progress Books, $3.00) is a monument to the anthropologist's exhaustive research and generally careful and intelligent selection. A deep continuing instinct of Canadians to democracy and freedom is reaffirmed. The spirit of the objectors and rebels of the past rises from their own words with a warmth and vigor which has been somewhat impaired by even the ablest historians.

"In politics I hold myself as having to do with men..." Robert Gourley wrote in 1819 (while in jail); his words might easily constitute the theme of the early sections of the anthology, a theme which has been repeated and stressed in recent times primarily by our poets. A wide general agnosticism, consistent refusal to fight authority by appealing to some similar abstraction, repeated insistence on the fundamental importance of the individual—these seem to me the priceless tendencies by which we recognize true freedom. Fortunately for Canadians they form the basis of the social and political theories of at least some of the individuals represented in the Spirit of Canadian Democracy.

Mrs. Fairley's selections from the speeches and writings of our contemporaries make her own political bias fairly obvious. It might possibly be argued that the Communist's theories of democracy are neither consistent nor correct (in fact, their theories are far from my own ideal conception of freedom and real democracy). But I would prefer to object to her omissions: comparatively speaking, non-letists and non-Communist radicals are not always very well represented. Mrs. Fairley has herself commented favourably upon Wilfrid Laurier's remark that, "Yes, if a people want to remain free, they must like Argus have a hundred eyes and be always on the alert..." It seems to me that sometimes the eyes belong too completely to one party.

The work of the younger poets stands out from the contemporary selections and adds immeasurably to the generally high literary value of the anthology taken as a whole. A number of the quotes are so intriguing that I am sorry Mrs. Fairley was unable to print the complete speeches. Mr. John Hall illustrates the book, and for one who believes that democracy, if it is anything, is subtle, alive, ever-changing, his work was disappointing. But despite defects and even distortions the Spirit of Canadian Democracy remains an interesting and provocative collection.

Notes: I have received an announcement of the Oxford-Crowell Competition. A prize of one thousand dollars is offered for a book by a Canadian author, fiction or non-fiction. Deadline is July 1, and full details may be obtained by writing the Oxford University Press, 480 University Avenue, Toronto.

Young creative writers should be interested to learn that Northern Review (635 St. Paul Street West, Montreal) is anxious to obtain new contributors. This is the "Little" magazine formed by the recent union of First Statement and Preview, and the editors are presumably interested in poetry, short stories, articles and essays.

ROBERT WEAVER

Smith Report

(Continued from Page 4)
us every opportunity to participate in college life but they have been eager to learn more about Canada and the University of Toronto. Both they and we have benefited by the exchange. We are not overlooking the activities at Varsity which we have missed but those things which we have gained far outnumber those which we have lost.

This article doesn't begin to enumerate the many aspects of life at Smith College which we exchange value so highly. The Deans of Women of the four Arts colleges soon will be giving more publicity to the exchange for 1946-47. Calendars of courses, personal handbooks and pictorial booklets of Smith College have been sent to them which prospective exchanges would may see. We four Canadians asking for more information in regard to the exchange. Please address such letters to Allison Kemp, Ruth McDougald, Margaret Whitsey or Mary McIntosh, Smith College, Northampton, Mass.

Where To Put Them?

By Donald Forgie

"Definitely I am not impressed with the suggestion that the co-educational centre and the International House be placed under the same roof" said Dr. Sidney Smith during an interview with The Varsity. "Offices and a residence are better separated" he continued.

During the past year the University Property Committee has had some thirteen proposals for new buildings under its consideration. These include a new Physiology building, a Woman's Hart House, a new Central Library, the memorial co-educational centre and a Chemical Engineering building. Tenders for the latter have already been sought. The building will be erected on College Street, east of St. George.

"If all these proposals were to be carried out it would cost the University upwards of 15,000,000 dollars. The proposed Woman's Hart House would mean an expenditure of seven or eight hundred thousand dollars of which the $175,000 now held in trust would only be a beginning."

"But where would we put them all?" queried Dr. Smith. "I would hate to see it disfigured by buildings" he remarked, making a sweeping gesture to the slush sopped campus which lay in full view from his office window. "We can't go east because of Queen's Park" he remonstrated, "and all other directions seem equally impossible."

Other organizations around the campus are equally concerned about new building projects and the architects should soon be having a field day. This afternoon a delegation, including Don Robertson, president elect of the I.S.C., will approach Dr. Smith about University support of their proposed International Student House. The House would be of prime interest to past and present members of the university but would be open to the community in general. "It should be good medicine for Toronto's notorious provincial attitude" said Thelma Kerr, president of the I.S.C.

"The House would be more than just a residence," she continued. "It is hoped that it will contain a library, possibly the Carnegie library now in Baldwin House, as well as the Record library at present housed in the Women's Union. We also hope to unite the language clubs under our roof."

President Wonders

The I.S.C. are being aided by an Alumni group of International Students in the city, and have also applied to both the Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundation Funds for financial aid.

According to June Wrong, President of the I.S.S., her organization is very interested in the proposed International House, but are "exceptionally glad that other people are making the effort." For the next two or three years, all the funds and resources of the International Student's Service will be turned exclusively to student relief throughout the world.

Meanwhile the Students' Administrative Council is awaiting the go ahead signal from the Alumni Federation before they begin any concrete planning of the co-educational war memorial centre. The University is going to expand rapidly in the next few years, and worried students and officials alike are calling for gold, silver, dollars to the tune of "Don't fence me in".

University Of Toronto Symphony Orchestra

HANS GRUBER—Conductor

Sponsored By The Students' Administrative Council
Will Present

THE SAME CONCERT

As given on two successful evenings in Convocation Hall

FOR STUDENTS AND STAFF OF THE

AJAX DIVISION

In the

RECREATION HALL

AJAX DIVISION

on

Wednesday Evening, at 8 p.m. Sharp

EVERYONE ATTENDING THIS CONCERT IS ASKED TO BE SEATED BY THIS TIME

All members of the staff and student body of Ajax Division, University of Toronto invited.

Attention

Male students, preferably ex-serv-ice, who would be free for temporary work with the Board of Education from Monday, April 22nd, to Friday, April 26th. (8 hour day, 65c an hour.)

Special applications must be filled out now, Students' Administrative Council, Hart House.

OCULIST PRESCRIPTION CO.

Prescriptions for glasses filled with quality spectacle-ware at reasonable prices. Quick, accurate repair service.
321 BLOOR ST. W. Phone MI. 6762
(Ground Floor St. George Apartments)
OPPOSITE MEDICAL ARTS BUILDING
Special Discount to Students and Members of the Faculty

Where will you be?

Class of '50

WHERE will you be when the class of 1950 is graduating?

Whether you plan to be an artist or an engineer, a doctor or a draftsman, a businessman or a housewife, you'll find that the financial angle will play a big part in the success of your career. And one of the best ways you can insure yourself against failure is to start right now and develop a habit that will pay dividends—the habit of banking.

By opening an account, no matter how small . . . by handling it yourself — by making deposits and withdrawals — by writing cheques and learning banking procedure . . . you will be acquiring an invaluable asset, in the form of money sense, for the time when "money management" will have an important bearing on your life.

You can open an account with a dollar at any of the branches mentioned below.

BANK OF MONTREAL

Bloor & Bay Streets: S. G. HAZELL, Manager
St. George & Bloor Streets: J. R. A. GRANT, Manager
Grosvenor & Yonge Streets: J. BURDOCK, Manager

• Sportswoman •

By Polly Mutz

PASSING IN REVIEW

All but two of the current teams competing in the hockey series have been de-iced. That is . . . the semi-finals have been dealt with. Meds were declared off-side for the last time in their bout with P.H.E. The same fate . . . but by a larger margin . . . overtook O.C.E. when faced with Vic. The Vic. girls place a portion of the blame for the latter victory on the small amount of practice the O.C.E. team could muster. Then their expressions turn from commiseration to sadness as they recall that one of the Vic. stars was injured in first of a series of three final games, played on Friday.

As the matter now stands . . . either Vic. or P.H.E. will be awarded the glass hockey stick . . . or whatever the hockey trophy is. Vic. has the edge on the reps of Phys. Ed., seeing as how the former won the Friday game 1-0 . . . sole scorer Leona Eunson. Yet even they concede that ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN . . . in the next sortie today at 4:00.

Major Basketball Teams Vie For Playoff Positions

SPS V Take Sr Vic Shonk, Dewar Star

Senior Vic fell before the concerted 49-38 onslaught of a classy S.P.S. V aggregation in a Major Basketball playdown which took place in the big gym yesterday afternoon. The game brought forth the same fast-breaking, crowd-pleasing type of ball which has been evident in the majority of the Major playoff eliminations to date.

School showed a squad which could give their highly-regarded Senior S.P.S. brothers a good game, and might well cause several of the other strong Major teams considerable trouble. They were ahead 25-20 at the half.

The individual efforts of Dewar of Vic and Shonk of S.P.S., each of whom hooped 14 points, provided the highlights of the contest. Hall and Hickichi played headsup ball for the Vicmen, while Earling, McNeill and Fletcher turned in good performances for the Engineers.

S.P.S. V—Earling (8), Shonk (14), McGaw (4), Fletcher (7), McNeill (6), White (4), Gibson, Jackson (3), McBride, Drohan (3). Total 49. Sr. Vic—Broad, Sloan (1), Elliott, Burford (4), McNeill (2), Dewar (14), Small (2), Hickichi (8), Hall (7). Total 38.

Mac Girls Win 13-9 Against Varsity Last Wed. Night

In a close-scoring game Wednesday night at McMaster gym the McMaster women's basketball team trounced the Varsity women's intercollegiate basketball team.

The outstanding feature of the game was the inability of both teams to make shots on the basket count, which kept the score pared down to the size of 13-9, in favor of the Mac girls.

A slippery floor toned down the speed of the players, which took them by surprise in the first quarter, resulting in many falls. The Blues exhibited individually flawless play, but not much team coordination, as contrasted to the Mac girls' impeccable co-operation as a group.

McMaster carried most of the play, with the Varsity guard line necessarily working overtime with a maximum of finesse. The Blues, confused by the vast expanse of the McMaster gym which is three times the size of their practice floor, continued to miss numerous passes and basket shots all through the second and third quarters.

With the arrival of the Varsity cheering section, the Blues renewed their attack on the Mac basket with more vigour. Allowing McMaster only one successful shot on the basket, the Varsity girls raised their quota of baskets to swell the score from 11-4 to 13-9.

Betsy Quinsey and Shirley Easley proved themselves the stars of the Mac team, with Kay McMullan and Tracy Stinson showing what Varsity could do at their best.

P.H.E. II- Vic III 35-24 Quarter Finalists

P.H.E. II earned the right to enter the Major Basketball quarter-finals by defeating Vic III 35-24. On Monday the winners play Sr. SPS whose efforts will not be as uncoordinated as those of the Vic team.

The Physical-Ed. boys had a 7 point margin at half time and added 8 more baskets in the second stanza while effectively breaking up the attacks of Scarlet and Gold basketballers. Their early lead was never relinquished and their defensive tactics were entirely clean; the game was, on the whole, clean and fast throughout.

For P.H.E. MacDonald played a very good game both offensively and from his own keyhole; the two Volpe boys supplied a big proportion of the 35 points to round out the story of the winners' success. Hart and Patterson made the most notable efforts to keep Vic in the running.

P.H.E. II—P. Volpe (8), N. Volpe (7), MacDonald (6), McMillan (5), Bart-Gerries (5), Cheeseman (3), Dupino (1), Gibson, Clayson.

Vic III—Hart (6), Patterson (5), Harris (4), Hinde (4), Jones (2), Wiggins (2), Christopher (1), McCowan.

Pre-Med. A Upset Jr. Vic - 66-35

Pre-Med. A upset Jr. Vic to the tune of 66-35 in the first round of the playoffs last Friday afternoon.

Varga and Chieftitz were hitting the old basket in grand style for Meds as they potted 16 and 20 respectively to make up over half their team's total score.

The first period saw Meds definitely in possession of the offensive, but by the closing half Vic rallied to keep pace with their powerful rivals.

Line-ups:

Pre-Med. A—Varga (16), Gora (5), Smith (4), Halliburton (3), Silverburg, Anderson (2), Monk (2), Shack (11), Chieftitz (20), Ryley (3).

Jr. Vic—Pearse (3), Meyers (8), Topp (4), Scott (6), Munroe (4), Heinbuck (2), Drummond (2), Bates Johnston (6), Ellis.

Jr. U.C. A Cagers Beaten by Trin. A

In one of the tightest basketball tilts yet seen in the playoffs Trin. A edged out their potent rivals Jr. U.C. A by a 39-37 margin.

The two Turners for Trinity turned in a really stellar game both hitting the high scoring place with 14 for "T" and 11 for "R". Maxwell and Borhneck were U.C.'s strength and the reason for the closeness of the game.

Line-ups:

Trin. A—R. Turner (11), T. Turner (14), Gall (6), Sage, Hendra (8), Farquharson.

Jr. U.C. A—Richardson (4), Gibson (2), Doborzelaki, Maxwell (10), Shapiro (3), Bossin, Gibson, Borhneck (11), Robson (7).

Western Wins Wilson Cup In Week-End 49-39 Triumph

Ajax Lose to Sr S.P.S. In Sat. Nite Cage Tilt

At Saturday's Athletic Night the boys from Senior Skule managed to defeat their blood brothers from Ajax by the margin of 44-33. The play was much closer than was indicated by the score with failure on the part of the Jacksons to capitalize on some nice fast breaks the main reason for the difference in scoring.

The game began slowly with both teams probing each other's defenses with the Jakes getting the best of the exchange of baskets, but by the second quarter Skule dominated the play completely, pumping home shots with amazing regularity, including a nifty pivot by Hallawell to change the score to 24-14 at half-time. The Skulemen were using their experience and ballhawking ability to good advantage.

The last half was a see-saw affair with shooting being somewhat erratic on both sides and the defenses quite tight. Roy Tredgett's smooth ball-handling made him a standout for Skool as well as leading scorer while all his team-mates scored at least one field goal with Johnny (Tip-Top) Wilson and Lorne Farquhar hot on his heels with 7 and 8 respectively. Spike Hennessy and Keith Hendrick performed yeoman's service on defense.

Robson led the scoring for the evening with 11 points, exactly one-third of his team's total. Fred Doty proved to be a very tricky individual at all times and once he attains a higher degree of accuracy he may well prove himself a valuable addition to the future Blues. The entire Ajax team looked much smoother and speedier than on their previous outings.

Badminton Playoffs

The badminton tournament held at St. Paul's Saturday afternoon has reached its final stages. 22 entries in the singles dwindled down until in the semi-finals Judy Price, Tr., defeated Pat. Patterson, Tr., 11-7, 11-3; and Joan Cannon, U.C., defeated Joan Cracknell, U.C., 11-7, 12-10. Judy Price and Joan Cannon will be the two to go to Queen's for the tournament Friday.

Of the 16 entries in the doubles, Keir-Cannon, U.C., defeated Price-Agnew, Tr., in the semi-finals, 15-7. They will play Sanders-Patterson, Tr., Wednesday to decide the issue.

Rivalry Finishes As Blue Swimmers Tie Y.M.C.A. 8-8

Winding up a long season of rivalry, Central Y.M.C.A.'s water polo squad tied the Blues 8-8 in the main feature of Saturday night's pool doings.

Opening up with a bang, the Y scored on the first play of the game only to have the goal called back because of an offside. Speed and dash characterized Central's playing all during the game, but Bob Bell-Irving's starry goal-keeping and Varsity's more polished team-play kept the University on the heavy end of a 5-2 score, during the first half.

The most outstanding goal of the evening was scored during the second quarter by Phil Rosen, Varsity defenceman, from three-quarters of the way out, by means of a long, low, unbeatable shot that just hooked into the corner of the net to fool Ernie Wright, Y goal-minder.

In the second half, Varsity's lack of conditioning began to tell on them, and Central completely dominated this frame even managing to score one of their goals while one man short.

A change of goalies at the half, when Jim MacNally, goal-tender of the one-time Dominion Championship team from Central, took over for Ernie Wright, also changed the tenor of the play.

The YMCA team put up an excellent showing considering the fact that most of them had played a game that very afternoon.

Augmented by Jim MacNally, Bob Pratt, and Jack Brooks of the aforementioned championship team, who accounted for two, one and two points respectively, Central dealt the home team the heaviest blow of the year.

The captains of both teams led

By Henry Westcott

Well—the Western cage quintet have laid the Intercollegiate Basketball Trophy, the Wilson Cup, right down in front of Coach Johnny Metras' size 11 brogues. And Saturday night they showed that they deserve said trophy as they dribbled, passed, and scored their way to a 49-39 win over Varsity in Hart House. They had all the finesse of a championship squad.

They had to be good to beat the Blues on their own floor. In fact, they're the only team that's done it this year. Other teams, some of considerable renown such as Assumption or Wayne have come, played, and gone home with their tongues hanging out, and a slight glint of awe glazing their respective (and respectful) countenances.

The Blues wanted the win for several reasons as follows and to wit—(1) To avenge their loss last Wednesday at Western, (2) To keep their unbeaten-at-home-in-1945-46 season record preserved for posterity, (3) To clinch second slot in the Intercollegiate goings-on, and (3a) Simply because it's kinda nice to win a game just on general principles.

But they lost. They fought hard, they did their best, but the fact is they were beaten by a better team. Maybe they were a trifle non-plussed by the Westerners' attitude. Several are constructed roughly along the lines of the Bank of Commerce Building.

The Varsity valiants were ahead for a couple of minutes though when Harry Mayzel bounced three rebounds back through the hoop. This so irritated the visitors that they immediately started forging ahead and were up 24-21 at half time.

Everything went smoothly for Varsity in the first six minutes of the second semester as the Mustangs got no baskets. However, neither did Varsity. Then Western apparently decided to pull up its socks. Bob Phibbs did this so violently that he broke his shoelace which forced a brief time-out for the visitors.

Colin Cranham was going great cannons in the battle, especially the last quarter. His swivel shot was really something to behold. He takes a pass, pivots, and slides his shot, practically in one movement. And Saturday night the last manoeuvre—the shot—was unerring. He picked up 8 points in the last ten minutes alone, and 12 in the game to pick off top-scoring honours for Toronto.

Dick Farley was high scorer in the game (13 points) and played a beautiful game both ways.

With players like Scorgie, Farley, McNair, and Phibbs on the team it's not too difficult to discern how Mentor Metras has come up with a crack, smooth-functioning, winning combination. They're all top ball-manipulators. The proof was uncovered Saturday night.

Of course, the Varsity are not exactly raw-hands at the game either. Roy Dilwores is really quite proud of them, and rightly so. They've beaten some of the toughest opposition in the region.

And so the Senior Intercollegiate schedule is over. The Blues placed second, tied with the McGhouls. There could, of course, be plenty of allying and yapping about how on

(Continued on Page 8)

GAMES TODAY

WATER-POLO	1:00	ST. M. vs U.C. (PHE).....	Tilston
HOCKEY
PLAYOFFS
	1:00	MED. III vs SPS I.....	Brownridge, Davison
	3:00	TRIN. A vs U.C. II.....	Lawler, Davison
	5:00	TRIN. B vs SPS V.....	Lawler, Davison
BASKETBALL MAJOR
PLAYOFFS
	1:00	SPS V vs Jr. SPS.....	Maxwell, Rotman
BASKETBALL MINOR
	1:00	II DENT. vs U.C. V.....	Voight
	4:00	VIC. IV vs PHE III.....	Kerrison
INDOOR TRACK
	5:00	50 YDS. LOW HURDLES (2'6")—2 MILES SENIOR.

WATER POLO PLAYOFFS

Wed. March 6th — 5:00	(1) PHE or ST. M. vs. Dent	Rosen
Wed. March 6th — (2) Jr. SPS vs. Trin.		Rosen
Fri. March 8th — 5:00	Sr. SPS vs. winner (1)	Rosen, Brace
Fri. March 8th — 5:45	U.C. I vs. winner (2)	Tilston, Brace
FINALS — Tues. March 12, Thurs. March 14, Mon. March 18 (if necessary) at 5:00 p.m.	Referees, DeMarco and Brace.

HOCKEY PLAYOFFS

Note Change:— Med III will play SPS I on Mon. March 4th at 1:00 p.m. instead of Tues. at 4:00 p.m. Referees, Brownridge and Davison.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION SWIMMING AND LIFESAVING TESTS

Men who wish to qualify for the swimming awards of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be required to attend the lectures on Artificial Respiration and Water Safety, and pass the required examinations. Test items for the various awards are posted on the notice board in the Swimming Pool.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION:

LECTURE: Monday, March 4th, 4.45 p.m.
LECTURER: Dr. R. W. I. Urquhart
TEST: Tuesday, March 5th, 4.45 p.m.
PLACE: Debates Room, Hart House.

WATER SAFETY:

LECTURE: Monday, March 11th, 5.00 p.m.
LECTURERS: M. G. Griffiths and A. R. T. Chetwynd.
TEST: Tuesday, March 12th, 5.00 p.m.
PLACE: Debates Room, Hart House.

Men who wish to qualify for the awards of the R.L.S.S. only, must attend the lecture on Artificial Respiration and pass the examination.

Our Readers Write —

Too Much Talk

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:
We cannot but take exception to the article in Monday's issue written by Mr. John McRae. Truly the greatness of Toronto University overwhelms us. How proud Mr. McRae must be to belong to such an institution!
"The list of the University's war achievements is almost without end", says Mr. McRae. "The University played a major part in every war effort". Frankly Mr. McRae was there anything left for the rest of the Empire to do as its share in the war effort? How unpatriotic the students of other Canadian universities must have been, for how dead and useless was their contribution to the winning of the war.
My dear Mr. McRae, it is just such a thing as this that makes Ontario so popular with the peoples of other provinces. In our section of Canada the deep respect and love that is felt for Ontario is best expressed in the words, "You talk too much (in Ontario)".
Yours from the Maritimes,
J. S. Farmer, Wycliffe,
(Woodstock, N.B.)
E. V. Porrior, Wycliffe,
(Halifax, N.S.)

Mighty Souls

The Editor The Varsity.
Dear Sir:
I have been asked by colleagues to write the following letter. Some of the coeds, wishing to attend the forthcoming All-Varsity Revue, March 6 and 7, with their men cannot see what contribution to the I.S.S. it would be from them if the fellows were to buy the tickets. These mighty souls, however, never seem to like the idea of the girls buying their own, due to injury to their chivalry.
Could it be suggested to the propagandists of the Revue that they advocate everyone buying his or her own ticket; then coming in couples if they so prefer?
Reen M. Campbell
Assoc. Pres. Vic 477.
"Not what we give, but what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare."

Unfair, Insulting

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:
In your editorial, "Postscript on Pass", of Wednesday, February 27, you calmly made a number of unfair, to say the least, statements which are an insult to every earnest Pass Arts student. You said not only that "the Pass Course is fitted for the type of student who does not come to University for classroom work at all," but that the student in Pass is un-intellectual.
The standard of this course is still very high. The student who intends to pass in May has a great deal of work to do in order to keep up to this standard, and has not as much free time as you credit him with having. You say that the Pass student has more time "to live, to debate, to write, to sing, to draw, and otherwise praise his Maker" and yet you term him un-intellectual. If he had not a high quota of intellect his leisure time, such as it is, would not be spent in the above pursuits.

A student shows that he is intellectual by entering University in the first place. He is not exactly "un-intellectual" if he has chosen not to specialize by taking an Honour Course but to pursue his interest in the Arts and the search for Truth. The Pass student may not become a specialist but he may become a thinker and a more open-minded citizen.
Perhaps the theologians, teachers and lawyers-to-be will object to being termed "un-intellectual" as they waste their time taking their B.A. via the Pass Course, before completing their education for their chosen profession.
Finally, about capering. The sincere student in any course uses discretion in dividing his time for work and play.
—DOROTHY DALEY,
I PASS.

Hot Babies

The Editor, The Varsity.
Dear Sir:
Mr. Truscot's statements, quoted in your recent editorial, may or may not be right. There can be no doubt, however, that his comparison of University students with tottering babies, just out of the nursery, is absurd. It would be ridiculous to have babies sit in on family discussions, since they have obviously not yet acquired the powers of reasoning intelligently.
What Mr. Truscot implies, if we follow his comparison to its logical end, is that students cannot be given an active share in University government, because their intellect is likewise not yet developed.
Mr. Truscot seems to forget that the student body is made up of relatively mature men and women, some of them married and themselves parents of children, and many of them soon called upon to fill leading positions in society.
It is fantastic to imply that the position of babies and students is equal since they are both undergoing training. Universities may have lowered their standards;—they have not yet reached the level of nurseries.

—HENRY KREISEL,
IV Eng Lang. & Lit.

Dean of Manitoba Visits Ajax Today

Dean Saunderson of the Faculty of Arts and Science in the University of Manitoba will visit the Ajax Division of the Faculty of Applied Science today, President Smith told The Varsity last night.
Dr. Saunderson intends to spend the day inspecting the expanded facilities established at Ajax to accommodate the influx of students this year, the President said.
Dean Saunderson will spend the morning visiting the academic section of the Ajax Division and will then have lunch at Arbor Lodge.
"Since Toronto has known the largest total increase in registration of all Canadian universities, several heads of other universities have shown great interest in the methods used to meet the situation," Dr. Smith said.
Chancellor Gilmour of McMaster University and Principal Wallace of Queen's have already inspected the Ajax project, he said.

Have You Lost
Anything?

Have You Anything
For Sale?

For quick results
put a Classified Ad.
in "The Varsity"

Phone MI. 6221

McGill Leads

(Continued from Page 3)
ics, plus the stalwart defensive combinations which mentor Dave Campbell paraded, the game would have been lost beyond hope of salvage in this period of Varsity supremacy.
Big (236—count 'em—pounds) Doug Heron, one of the above-mentioned McGill burly boys, was very generous with his excess ballast at all times. To the worshipful accompaniment of prolonged "Vives!" and "Moider da bums!", the large lad draped incoming forwards into the boards with great gusto and discouraging regularity. Strangely enough, he went unpunished, while one of the two equally incompetent referees gave a very cheap penalty to Halder for an alleged tripping infraction—his first of the year.
The final period was ushered in auspiciously by Capt. Halder, who sent an innocent-looking back-hander winging its way toward the upper right corner of the Montrealers' mesh exactly 27 seconds after the opening bugle. It was to be the last chance for the few Varsity supporters to cheer, so naturally they took good advantage of it.
Peirson's second goal two minutes later put new life into an apparently wilting McGill crew, and his third (52:12) inspired the Red and White cheer leaders to action. The band was still blaring its approval when Reg Sinclair scored after an interval of only 11 seconds, to put his team back on even terms with the Blues. At this goal the Forum erupted. A five minute respite was called so that the debris could be removed, said offerings including a large number of pennies(!).
When play was resumed, it was apparent that the Blues had become thoroughly demoralized. The fight was still there, but the vital spark just wasn't. Anyway, with the McGill victory drum beating ominously, and the big electric scoreboard with its sooooo-altered 4-4 reading glaring balefully through the murky haze, the dice were loaded against them.
Dick Ball was literally all over the place in protecting his net. He spread-eagled to rob shifty Danny Porteous of a chance, and then nearly broke the fellow's heart with a 'splits' when Danny was again set up in the clear. It was obvious that the goal was coming, so that when it did, with only two and a half minutes to play, the "McGILL!" yell was less frightening to the uninitiated than it would otherwise have been.
Even after Hale's deciding counter, the Redmen continued to press, and Bailey's quintet of forwards posed no real threat to Gelineau in the enemy cage. Halder was still manfully trying to organize a rush when the siren wailed to officially pronounce dead Varsity hopes for an undefeated season. It also broke the spectator tension, which had risen way above fever height, and it sent the crowd home in ecstasy.

The rival coaches, one happy, one not too happy, both agreed that the thriller was "a tough one to win, and even tougher to lose". And both foresaw a similar struggle if (after we beat U. of M.) and when the playoff is staged.
St. Patricks Win Debating Laurels
Montreal, Mar. 2 — (CUP) — St. Patrick's College, Ottawa, edged out McGill by 250% to win the championship of the International University Debating League.
"Resolved that every Canadian should undergo one year compulsory military training" was the topic debated simultaneously in Montreal and Ottawa to determine the finals.
In Montreal McGill lost 2 to 1 when Shatner Hemens, McGill defended the topic against Sully Freeland, St. Patrick's. In Ottawa, Rosenfeld Hugesson of McGill, taking the negative, won the decision 2 to 1 against McNeely Collingwood, St. Patrick's.

Ajax Camera Club

While camera-minded students at Ajax awaited delivery on equipment orders, the organizational meeting of an Ajax Camera Club was scheduled for this evening at seven o'clock.
Enlargers, trays, sinks and other necessary paraphernalia are expected soon. Tonight students and staff personnel interested in photography will meet in Hart House, Ajax, to report on progress already made.
Gord Broomhall, acting chairman, and the deputy superintendent have planned a building to house the club, which will be completed in two weeks.

"Life Guard to have complete charge of a swimming beach one hundred yards long. To teach life saving and swimming classes. Salary $300.00 for the season. Write giving qualifications to John Wright, Niagara Lions' Club, Box 234, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario."

Classified Advertisements

24 HOUR SERVICE Guaranteed radio and appliance repairs. Special discount to students. JU 9321.	WANTED Girl for mathematics tutor, to teach High School Geometry. Apply Box R, The Varsity or phone KI 6667, between 6 and 7 p.m.
WANTED Air Force officer's uniform, size 40; waist 36; Ht. 5'8". Apply Box S, The Varsity.	LOST Pair of red-rimmed glasses in brown leather case, Monday night Feb. 25th. Please return to S.A.C. office.
WANTED Good men for the Library Committee. So elect Harry Ansley II S.P.S., "The Bookworms' Friend" (and yours, too!)	LOST Copy of Forrester and Stedman, "Writing and Thinking", in Chemistry Bldg., about 2 weeks ago. KI 3084.
WANTED Portable typewriter, good condition. $25.00 c.a.h. Phone KI 7787, before 8 p.m.	WANTED Commuter wants daily ride from Ajax to North Toronto. Phone HY 0459.

S.C.M.

"MARDI GRAS"

WOMEN'S UNION

• ★ •

Tuesday, March 5

Hugh Graham And His Orchestra

$1.50 COUPLE REFRESHMENTS

• ★ •

Dancing 8.30—12.00

TICKETS: S.C.M. OFFICE

Talking Shop!

BETTER HARVEST by Violet King (McClelland and Stewart) is a book which gets closer to the true Canadian background than anything we've read. Tells the story of the struggle put up by your forefathers for responsible government between 1826-38. Makes you think that there's something pretty satisfactory about being a Canadian, no fooling.

WHEN IT COMES TO FOOD, give us the Chinese technique, "Sixty-A", the International Cafe at 60 A Elizabeth Street is where we take our more exacting friends when the question of really good food is in order. Frankly we have every reason to believe that if our own Canadian chefs don't take a few lessons in the science of preserving vitamins and food flavour as expressed to a fine art by fine Chinese cooking, they're going to take second place in their own home town as restaurateurs! It's smart to be "International-minded!"

DU BARRY DERMA SEC is a cleverly developed formula designed to care for the beauty of the throat. It's lubricating qualities encourage a soft and supple skin. Slightly stimulating, it helps to draw new vitality to the skin surface. Derma Sec may be used on the face once or twice a week if the complexion is lacking in natural oils and has a tendency to mild flaking or chapping. DU BARRY DERMA SEC is a product which stimulates beauty by reaching below the surface of the complexion.

IT'S ALWAYS FAIR WEATHER when you know you're attractive to look at, and it's the business of the Evangeline Shops to keep you that way.... Their policy is to make costume-building easy financially by providing separate items which are easy to purchase one by one and which can aggregate into a very personable costume, albeit inexpensive, when chosen with discrimination. The Evangeline Shops are particularly adept at collecting suits which are campus in character, priced inexpensively.

NAIL POLISH DRIES IN A FLASH with Nail-Dri, that wonderful new liquid which gives an immediate dry brilliant finish when applied to wet polish. Effective on any shade or brand of polish, it prevents much of that annoying chipping and makes your manicure last days longer. Good for the cuticle too. It's economical as well, gives a manicure for one cent, or fifty for 50c....and when you add that up in time-saving, you'll see what we mean when we say "wonderful." Tamblin's, Simpson's, and all druggists.

IT'S NOT TOO SOON to get serious about a Spring outfit. Joan Rigby is busy making smart young things smarter and it's a pleasure to tell you that all is in readiness for the girl with a "choosy" set of values. We like that word "choosy" in describing Joan Rigby clothes because they are precisely "choosy", highly select aristocrats of the dress world which have been selected to represent a very leading clothes house.

SPRINGTIME HAS ARRIVED at Northway's Fashionland as you can testify if you were one of the Varsity gals at the Fashionland Fashion Show on Saturday. They're well stocked with clothes that are more tantalizing and brilliantly flattering than they've been since pre-war days. From suits smothered in silver-pointed fox to brisk little numbers with a know-their-way-around look, all those new Northway Bronnleights are out to remind one and sundry that clothes are fun. A fact that Northway's intend to make it very very hard for you to ignore.

Art, Music and Drama

No Aspirations

Three one act plays were presented Thursday night by the O.C.E. Dramatic Society with somewhat dubious results. After the first few moments, the audience was called upon to realize they were witnessing a group of people who were eager to be in a play but had no artistic aspirations. To perform before an audience is always a healthy attitude and much credit must go to the O.C.E. Dramatic Society for presenting their night's entertainment despite their heavy curriculum.

The first play of the evening was The Monkey's Paw by W. W. Jacobs—a play which requires particular handling in order to create the atmosphere of a supernatural force. This the director did not accomplish. We would recommend a greater concentration on pace and tone in order to capture this. Outstanding in the cast was Charles Jolliffe who was extremely convincing as the sergeant-major. Ordinarily a gripping drama, the results last night did not come up to the mark.

There followed Thornton Wilder's little opus, The Happy Journey, written in the best Wilder tradition without benefit of scenery or props. This was a fortunate choice since the inadequacies of the U.T.S. stage are notorious. A comedy, it fell more within the scope of the actors' abilities than the other two plays. The stellar role in this play is the stage-manager ably performed by Jim Carson. Mary Hallett, as Arthur, played a little boy role with a naturalness only equalled by Elaine Smith as Caroline. Roy King was admirably reserved as the husband, but Edith Wilcox as Ma Kirby carried her naturalness to the point of monotony.

The Devil and Daniel Webster by Stephen Vincent Benet "finished off" the evening. This play depends on skilled characterization and oratory which the cast did not obtain. Here again the atmosphere of the supernatural was missed although the lighting and make-up were surprisingly effective. Robert Sharratt, as Jabez Stone, lacked maturity in his performance, and Marian New as Mary Stone at no time convinced the audience of her great love for Jabez. Jack Murkley as Daniel Webster somewhat redeemed the venture by his strength of voice and character, but his oration in defence of Jabez was not convincing. Also, we felt that Ewart Carberry as Scratch was concentrating too much on looking like Walter Huston to be a sufficiently sardonic Devil. However, the jury of dead men did assist remarkably in creating the illusion. Plaudits should go to the director for careful staging.

Two things more—there was so much waving of the Star Spangled Banner in the night's entertainment that it began to annoy the audience. Also, we would advise that in the future plays be chosen to suit the talent.

—VERNON CHAPMAN

As Who Likes It?

Shakespeare and I took another beating on Thursday last. This time the object of Producer Annand's afflictions was 'As You Like It'.

It is hardly likely that the dramatist entertained any delusions concerning the extraordinary merit of this play. He took his clap-trap plot from a popular novel, as is nowadays the custom, and adapted it to form a shallow, indulgent, insincere pleasant and popular comedy; few of the Elizabethans and none of Thursday's bobby-soxers felt the sting in the sardonic title 'As You Like It'.

All that a good Shakespearean actor like myself demands of a production of this play is that the beautiful verbiage it contains be enunciated audibly and with some religious sense, and that the business of production interfere as little as possible with the lyricism. But that was not to be.

Several members of the cast indicated that they were by no means devoid of talent, but were suffering solely from an acute lack of direction. In this category were C.B.C. staff announcer Gordon Keeble who played Orlando, Norman McLean (Touchstone), Joan Annand (Rosalind), and Marjorie Ellis (Phebe)—the latter two should have traded parts. Harold Bourne sang quite well.

The rest of the cast did not indicate any understanding of acting technique, and clothed as they were in Santa Claus outfits, ermine furs and handle-bar moustaches they were a sorry sight. Of their speeches I caught very few other than the ones that the bobby-soxers around me knew and could recite with them. Gross mis-casting (such as the elderly gentleman with a build like Available Jones who masqueraded as Charles the wrestler) was altogether too common. All of which brings me to the real subject of my polemic.

I hold the director, Mr. Annand, personally responsible for the two travesties that the Shakesperian Society has put before the public this year. Whether this man should be allowed to continue under law the insidious practice of impinging Shakespeare on the high-school mind in this guise of addled and masticated 'artiness' is a moot point. But certainly he would be well advised to restrict his activities to the American comedy of bad manners.

The more I think of this play, and in particular the Annand production of it, the more resemblances I find between it and 'Wonder Man'.

—JEFF WAITE

University College Literary and Athletic Society

NOMINATION MEETING

- ★ Nomination For Lit. Offices
- ★ Summary Of Lit. Activities
- ★ Robinette Debate Finals
- ★ Presentations Of Awards and Prizes
- ★ Refreshments

Tuesday, March 5, 8 p.m.
JUNIOR COMMON ROOM

Hair-raising Students Out to Raise Funds

Winnipeg, Man., March 3.—(CUP)—Hairless Jock, Dogpatch style, will soon run rampant at the University of Manitoba. The reason—approximately 15 junior students are signing a pledge to go without haircuts until $25,000 have been raised for a student gymnasium and Union Building fund. Meanwhile they are donating 50 cents each every two weeks to the fund.

Protested one pessimistic student: "Long hairs will trip the students in the crowded halls of the buildings."

Replied long-hair J. T. Jones; leader of the nonconformists: "The hell with it." We will still see where we are going, and so should they." Jones also stated that he intends to do a Lady Godiva ride down Portage Avenue, one of Winnipeg's main streets, in the fall if the objective is not reached. He claims he has a head start on the project as his hair is already 9 1/2 inches long.

The plan originally called for brush-cuts but University governors quelled the move as permission had not then been given to raise funds. "What a university," quipped Jones, "I can't even get my hair cut without permission from the governors."

Ajax Schedule

*Monday Night, March 4th is Athletic Night in Recreation Hall—7.00 p.m. sharp.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE FOR WEEK OF MARCH 4TH

Tuesday, March 5th
Cus. 1—6.30 p.m.—Com. vs 729. White & Graham.
Cus. 1—7.30 p.m.—738 vs 728. White & Graham.
Postponed from Feb. 26th.
Cus. 3—6.30 p.m.—726 vs 733. Caldwell & Stefanyshyn.
Cus. 3—7.30 p.m.—737 vs 731. Caldwell & Stefanyshyn.
Postponed from Feb. 27th.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE FOR WEEK OF MARCH 4TH

Tuesday, March 5th
Gr. 6—6.15 p.m.—Res. 733C vs Com. "A" A. Frame.
Gr. 1—7.15 p.m.—Res. 727A vs Res. 738. A. Frame.
Gr. 1—8.15 p.m.—Res. 722A vs Res. 723 A J. Robson.
Gr. 1—9.15 p.m.—Res. 724A vs Res. 725A J. Robson.
Gr. 2—10.15 p.m. Res. 737 vs Res. 731A B. Black.

School Poloists Drown Dents 7-2

The second attraction in Hart House Pool Saturday night was an exhibition water polo game between an all-star School team and a Dents squad, containing two S.P.S., one Meds and one Blues player from U.C., in which "Dents" went down to a 7-2 defeat.

In the first half the Skulemen amassed 6 points; B. Brown notched three; H. Ballou, two, and B. Gray one. The addition of Ed Lindgren of the Varsity regulars in the second half seemed to add more drive to the Dental College team's playing, for it was during this half that Dents' two points were marked up, one by B. Morrow and the other by A. Hardman.

The final School tally was eked out by Ballou, even though Dents were in charge of the play during most of this period.

Western Wins

(Continued from Page 6)
sundry occasions 'we wuz robbed' but it wouldn't change the record book, so why bother? Despite the atom bomb there'll likely be a next year.

Lineups: Varsity: Wallace (7), Mayzel (9), Thomson (4), Gibson, Clayton, Scott (3), Cranham (12), Zeaton (4).

Western: Humphys (4), Gauld (3), Phibbs (8), Farley (13), Curry (6), Hnyok, Cunningham (1), McNair (4), Scorgie (10).

Ajax Sports

BASKETBALL
723A	defeated	738	— 42-15
732A	tied	734A	— 37-37
732B	defeated	733B	— 28-17
729A	defeated	733C	— 19-9
730A	defeated	736A	— 44-20
BOWLING
Winner	Loser	Score
729D	722E	1904-1593
733E	726C	1442-1363
728D	727C	1722-1677
723E	737D	1531-1439
730E	731D	default
733C	734C	1536-1526
733D	732D	1557-1480
730F	734D	1659-1515
723F	736D	1565-1561
VOLLEYBALL
737	defeated	734	— 15-8, 15-2.
724	defeated	725	— 15-4, 15-3.
732	defeated	733	— 15-8, 15-3.
731	defeated	730	— 6-15, 15-13, 15-8.
728	defeated	729	— 15-13, 12-15, 15-7.
727	defeated	726	— 15-12, 11-15, 15-10.

Rivalry Finishes

(Continued from Page 6)
the scoring: Jim Martin of the Blues notched up four goals and Jerry Bryars of the opponents was held to three. A weak shot belonged to the latter kept him off the score-sheet when he had many tally-getting opportunities. Bill Arthurs and Harry Kohl were the other point-getters for Varsity, Arthurs with two and Kohl one.

"NOT BREAD ALONE" I.S.S. RADIO SHOW

Four Varsity undergraduates will participate in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's feature program "Not Bread Alone" which depicts the functions of the International Student Service during the war and it's post-war job of relief and rehabilitation. They are Lloyd Bochner, Vincent Tovell, Pegi Brown, and Ken Graham.

The show is the first radio drama to be written by U.C. undergrad Dick Simmonds. He was assisted in the story by Lloyd Bochner. J. Frank Willis, in charge of C.B.C. feature broadcasts will produce the show.

"Not Bread Alone" will mark the closing of the local I.S.S. drive to raise funds for needy students and educational institutions throughout the world.

It will be broadcast over the C.B.C.'s dominion network Thursday night at 10 p.m. and is to be carried locally by CJBC.

Physics Student Wins Kylie Award

The Honorable Dana Porter, secretary of the Edward Kylie Trust, announced yesterday that the Kylie Award for the year '46-47 has been granted to Hugh David Cochrane, who is now in the fourth year of the honor course in Mathematics and Physics at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Cochrane obtained first class honors in each of the first three years of his course.

He joined the R.C.N.V.R. during his undergraduate course and saw active service during the last few months of the war. He is now 20 years of age.

The Kylie Award was established in memory of the late Edward Kylie. It provides approximately $650 towards the expenses of a course in an English University. If the record of the appointee is satisfactory it may be renewed for a second year.

Mr. Cochrane is the son of the late Professor Charles N. Cochrane who was Dean of Residence, University College, and Professor of Ancient History.

Five applications for this award were received.

Accounting is Topic For Guidance Group

Mr. J. R. M. Wilson will conduct a discussion group on "Accounting" in tomorrow's meeting of the Victoria College Vocational Guidance Group series. A Vic graduate of 1929, Mr. Wilson is a member of the firm of Clarkson, Gordon, Dilworth and Nash, chartered accountants.

The Vocational Guidance Groups are held each Tuesday and Thursday, conducted by Vic graduates who are eminent in their respective fields. They are designed to assist undergraduates in the choice of a profession and to give them information about occupations in which they are interested.

GEORGE DREW
Ontario's Premier, Col. George Drew, is announced as coming to the Progressive Conservative Club Thursday. This he is doing despite the opening of Ontario's parliamentary session yesterday.

New V.C.F. Executive Chosen at Ajax

Last Thursday, the newly-organized V.C.F. chapter on the Ajax campus elected its 1946 executive. The election was delayed so that the candidates might have a chance to become better acquainted with the electors.

Howie Rank is the new Chairman. Rank was previously in the RCAF with Coastal Command. Also ex-RCAF is John Suckling the new Vice-Chairman. Ted Hiltz and Fred Hertha hold the offices of Secretary-Treasurer and Publicity respectively.

In addition to its regular Thursday discussion group, the fellowship holds two weekly meetings for prayer and Bible study.

Fund For Female Athletics May Find Different Uses

The $100,000 allocated by the Board of Governors for the construction of a women's athletic building will not necessarily be used for that purpose, according to Mr. C. E. Higginbotham, university bursar.

The money was originally raised by the university as its contribution to the construction of Hart House but was returned by the Massey Foundation. At that time it was suggested by the Board of Governors that the money be used for a women's athletic building.

Mr. Higginbotham emphasized that there was, however, no compulsion on the board to use the money for that specific purpose. The fund was transferred unconditionally to the Board who may use it at their own discretion.

Record Hour

TODAY AT 4 p.m.

The record program, held daily in the Women's Common Room, University College, from 4.00 to 5.30 p.m., is open to men and women of all colleges and faculties. To-day's program:

Schumann—Manfred Overture.
Liszt—Piano Concerto No. 1.
Faure—Lydia Song.
Brahms—Symphony No. 1.

The VARSITY

The Undergraduate Newspaper

VOL. LXV—No. 96

THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Tuesday, March 5, 1946

I.S.S. DELEGATES TO VISIT EUROPE

Atomic Scientist To Give Lectures

Dr. E. P. Wigner of Princeton University will come to Toronto this week to deliver a series of three lectures on Nuclear Physics, according to an announcement from President Sidney E. Smith.

Dr. Wigner, one of the leading physicists on this continent did extensive research work in the development of the atomic bomb. His efforts have been mentioned in detail in Professor Smyth's report on "Atomic Energy for Military Purposes" which has come in for mention recently in Russian news reports relating to the current espionage investigations in Canada.

Born in Budapest in 1902, Dr. Wigner came to the United States in 1930 and took over the position of Jones Professor of Theoretical Physics at Princeton in 1938.

The first two lectures, in Room 8, University College, are to be held Thursday and Friday, March 7 and 8 at 4:30 p.m. and will both be on "Relativistic Wave Equations". The last lecture of the series, to be held at the same place, Saturday March 9, at 11 a.m., will be on "Resonance Reaction in Nuclear Physics."

Will Choose 12 Canadians For English Conference

Geneva Discussion Scene

Twelve Canadian delegates will be sent to the annual conference of the International Student Service at Cambridge University in England from July 20 to 24, Professor Marcus Long, chairman of the Canadian Committee of I.S.S. announced recently.

After participating in the conference the students will be sent to different countries in Europe to live with students and get a firsthand picture of the situation. They will reassemble at Geneva where they will pool their experiences, receive an overall picture of the European problems and decide on the best methods for reporting their findings to Canadian students.

HART HOUSE CHAPEL ASH WEDNESDAY

7:50 a.m.—Holy Communion—the chaplain

9:30 a.m.—Morning Prayer

4:45 p.m.—Evening Prayer

There will be no service of Holy Communion on Thursday of this week in view of the service of Holy Communion tomorrow, Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent.

Queen's Deportation Rally Addressed by B. K. Sandwell

Kingston, Mar. 4.—(CUP)—Addressing 600 Queen's students at a rally there Saturday night, protesting the proposed Japanese deportation this Friday afternoon, Dr. B. K. Sandwell said: "If you make noise the government will listen to it, so make all the noise you can. The government does not want to deport the Japs but it will have to if only those favoring the deportation scheme make the noise."

"The Jap-Canadians," he continued, "are subjected to the operations of three orders because of Japanese origin. The Atlantic Charter forbids discrimination because of race and the argument that they multiply too fast has been disproved. According to the Canada Year Book the average number of children per Jap-Canadian family is 2.7."

Odds and Ends Even Barometer In Lost and Found

Perhaps some psychologist will do a thesis on it some day. Until then, nobody will know what goes on in people's minds when they lose pens, jewelry, books, and even hard cash. One thing is sure, though—they don't inquire at the likely places.

Caretaker Keale of University College has a whole officeful of debris gleaned from college classrooms: some 50 textbooks, 8 or 10 pairs of rubbers, scarves, gloves, pens, and knick-knacks.

"And nobody ever comes to ask about them?" he queried.

"Oh, people come, but we never seem to have the stuff they come for."

Everything in the office must have an owner somewhere, though. Mr. Keale wishes a few owners would show up.

The S.A.C. office in Hart House has miscellaneous oddments tucked away in its drawers too.

In fact, it probably boasts the prize mystery of all. Brought in years ago—nobody can remember whence or when—is a six-inch aneroid barometer: se far unclaimed.

Dr. Sandwell stated that most of these Japs were in concentration camps when asked to sign the order. At this time they were asked to co-operate and they thought that this meant signing. They were not told that the agreement was revocable but it was instead described as voluntary repatriation, when it was actually neither. Most of those about to be deported have never seen Japan and have no desire to do same. All citizens, contended Dr. Sandwell, have a right to change their minds and these are citizens.

This is not just a question of Japs. Our tolerance of inhumanity and our intolerance of peoples differing from us have increased tremendously during the last two decades. We should do everything in our power to see that this policy is checked, concluded Dr. Sandwell.

Students From B.C. to N.S. To Live In Co-op. Camps

This summer about 60 students from across Canada will work and study at one of the labor camps situated in three different centres—one near Montreal, one at Brantford, and one at Winnipeg, Manitoba. They will come from universities located at points between Vancouver and Halifax, going to the camp nearest their homes.

Any student with one year, at least, of university is eligible, if they are willing to work hard and live co-operatively, and to study the area in which the camp is situated. The idea underlying this plan, sponsored by the Students' Christian Movement of Canada, and the Christian Work Camp Fellowship of Canada, is to discover whether the existing structure of society fits in with the Christian idea of life, and, if not, what can be done about it.

These camps will be run co-operatively, on an interdenominational basis, with each student doing his or her own housework, and sharing the cost of living. The co-op runs itself, and returns any monetary surplus to the residents at the end of the season.

It will be a co-educational system, with men and women working in the factories as ordinary laborers. (Continued on Page 2)

Boom Boom

In case you're still wondering why you were so rudely awakened in the last dozing moments of yesterday's 2 o'clock lecture, here is the answer. . . . The 208th Field Battery Reserve elected to serve Lt. Gov. Albert Mathews with a fifteen gun salute in the event of his opening Parliament for this year.

Four 25-lb. Direct-firing cannons accompanied by Field Artillery Tractors, and a division of the RCA(R) were on hand for this celebrated occasion.

The Varsity

The Undergraduate Newspaper

ESTABLISHED 1880

Member Canadian University Press

Published five times a week by the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto. Opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily the official opinions of the Students' Administrative Council.

Editorial Room, Rm. 42-a

University CollegeMI 8742

Business OfficeMI. 6221

Editor-in-Chief...W. Hugh Kenner, B.A.
 Women's Editor.....Peggy Bates, 476
 Managing Editor.....Wally Belfry, 478
 Ajax EditorMike McAuliffe
 Make-up Editor.....Peg Wallace, B.A.
 Rewrite Editor ... John Rooke, 477
 News EditorGeorge Forster, 477
 Assistant.....Blanche Stanley, 476
 AjaxPete Philippott
 Feature Editor.....E. Ross McLean, 477
 Assistant.....Reg Herman, 476
 AjaxCliff Dixon
 Sports Editor.... Bredin Stapells, 476
 Assistant.....Don Mason, 476
 AjaxEd. Caldwell
 Womens Sports Editor Polly Mutz, 476
 C.U.P. & Exchange
 EditorBarbara Jones, B.A.
 Assistant.....Dorothy Harley, 476
 Art, Music, and Drama
 Editor.....Philip Freedman, 476
 Staff Photographer...Ralph Jones, 477
 Business and Advertising Manager—E. A. Macdonald, B.A.

Tuesday, March 5, 1946

Welcome Winnie

Sharing though it does the universal disappointment that his visit had to be postponed until fall, The Varsity is unfeignedly glad that the Rt. Hon. Winston S. Churchill is to receive the highest honor the University of Toronto can bestow.

It has been ironically said of Mr. Churchill that his is a lustre no honorary degrees can dim; with the implication that an honorary degree is a cheap sort of honor. It is not. Degrees are occasionally tossed out with ill-advised abandon; but however they may be misused they bear a certain authority. They mean that the University, guardian of the permanent virtues, has weighed men's work and found it good.

We are glad that the University has rightly weighed Mr. Churchill's work; for from an eminence whereon it was impossible to praise him sufficiently, he has strangely slumped into a discard wherein he almost needs to be defended.

It is not enough to say that while Churchill the party leader will be forgotten, Churchill the architect of victory can never die. The man himself is living among us; neither a party leader, nor an orator, nor a statesman, nor a strategist, but a living man who has worked with us and for us all. And his fortunes have taken such a turn that he is receiving cheap sneers and small thanks.

We remember a man who was loud in Churchill's praises last spring. The day after the election he was calling Churchill an impostor who had bluffed his way through the war.

Of such effect is mere success on men's minds. Of such effect is a mere alteration of circumstances, a mere passage of months and of ballots.

We believe that Churchill will one day again be remembered as the hero of the democratic world. We believe that his legend, when the election campaign of 1945 is long forgotten, will go forward into time invulnerable.

Warrior and doughty philosopher that he is, Mr. Churchill has surely had the wisdom to rest his case at the bar of posterity; and the irony to reflect without bitterness on the anomaly whereby it is left to the unborn to reward the dead.

We are none the less glad that while he lives the University has publicly championed him and publicly adjudged his worth in offering him the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa. Never have these two ancient words carried more weight.

— W. H. K.

Bad Business

"If all these proposals were to be carried out it would cost the University upwards of $15,000,000. The proposed Women's Hart House would mean an expenditure of seven or eight hundred thousand dollars, of which the $175,000 now held in trust would be only a beginning."

That was President Smith's comment on the University's proposed 13-building expansion, as quoted in The Varsity yesterday.

More detailed is the President's Report of 1944, whose estimates include: Chemical Engineering, with equipment—$1,000,000; Extension to Chemical Building—$500,000; Extension to Mechanical Engineering—$200,000; Addition to Banting Institute—$450,000; School of Nursing—$700,000; Women's Building—$500,000; Men's Residence for U.C.—$500,000; Addition to Dental Building—$400,000; Additions to Main Library—$950,000; New Central Heating and Power Plant—$1,000,000. These estimates are based on pre-war costs.

"Since the above list was published two years ago, very, very little has been done. Tenders are now being sought for the first building on the list.

"The money is the problem", stated President Smith. The money is one problem; lack of land is another; lack of a master plan is a third; but lack of foresight 25 years ago is the gravest problem of all; and by now it seems insoluble.

It would have been contrary to "sound business principles" to buy up land while the university was small. "Sound business principles" landed us in our present state of bursting at every seam. The moral is obvious.

—W. H. K.

The Hunting of The Booodle Bird

The Hunting of the booodle bird
 Oh hunter of the booodle bird,
 In hunting take your care;
 And follow well these words I tell
 To track him to his lair.

The time to catch this feathered freak

Is just the in between
 The tiffin and the crumpet time
 From four to four-fifteen.

Of the fifty different species
 The best to trap are eight
 The first the early risers
 The last that get up late.

A buttered scone will tempt them
 If its not too underdone,
 Or failing that, a friendly chat
 And perhaps a hot-cross bun.

Approach the timid booodle
 With a cold and haughty air
 And answer his 'good-morning'
 With a penetrating stare.

Then offer him a cigarette,
 A Turkish brand is best,
 And blow the smoke into his face
 And seize him by the vest.

Beware the booodle number three
 Who wear a silken scarf.
 Never try to give him tea,
 But offer 'arf-and-arf

The booodle number four, I fear
 Is full of artful guile
 He tells you how to cook him
 In the best of Gallic style.

And as you start to boil him
 He gives a mournful wail,
 Looks at you with soulful eyes
 And then begins his tale:

My father and mother were honest though poor
 And taught me too soon how to roam

So all through my youth, to tell you the truth
 I never was brought up at home.

I never had the chances
 That other hoodies had.
 Oh hunter, hunter! spare me
 I'm really not so bad.

Once you stop to listen
 And shed a salty tear
 The booodle bird with eyes of flame
 Descends upon your beer.

And in a trice, a goodly slice
 Of hunter's in the stew
 On looking up you soon will find
 The hunter's namely you.

Enough about this famous bird.
 Too much, I fear, will bore;
 But let me explain once more and again

Beware of number four!
 SUNBEAM.

Students From

(Continued from Page 1)
 ers, receiving the same wages as other workers. Preparation was made for the work camps by the weekend camps held during February of this year, and by the Labor-Industry Forum which was held last Saturday.

The most important aspect of the summer camps will be the study of local conditions said Miss Margaret Albright, member of the staff of the Christian Work Camp Fellowship of Canada. Scattered among the different industries, some with unions, some without, each student will be able to investigate different forms of organization and discuss them with his fellows. Besides the actual factories, they will study the people in the district, especially the minority groups and the leaders of the communities.

There will be daily worship, though in a very simplified form, concentrating on silent meditation in which one can think about any problems of the moment. Apart from this, there will be the stimulation of living with wide-awake students and indulging in discussions of various subjects, said Miss Albright.

Applications for these camps are now being taken at the S.C.M. office in Hart House.

"I thought you invited me to see your etchings."
 "Nonsense! We're here to Light Up and Listen!"

"Light-Up-and-Listen"
 With SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES
 Every Thursday 9.30 p.m.

CKEY — CJBC

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

AJAX TRANSPORTATION

All players please meet in front of Hart House on Wednesday, March 6th, at 6 p.m. sharp.

BUS LEAVES AT 6.10 P.M.

S.C.M. "MARDI GRAS" WOMEN'S UNION

Hugh Graham And His Orchestra

Tonight Tonight

$1.50 COUPLE

REFRESHMENTS

Dancing 8.30—12.00

TICKETS: S.C.M. OFFICE

HEAR

GEORGE DREW

SPEAK ON

"Strengthening Dominion-Provincial Relations"

AT

8.00 p.m. WOMEN'S UNION
 Thursday, March 7

PROGRESSIVE - CONSERVATIVE CLUB

Hart House Bulletin Board

Vote in Hart House Election

11:00 A.M.—2:00 P.M. East Common Room
 12:00 A.M.—2:00 P.M. Debates Room
 4:00 P.M.—6:00 P.M. East Common Room

Camera Club vote for Camera Committee in Camera rooms:
 11:30 — 1:45 P.M. — and 4:30 — 5:30 P.M.

TO VOTE IN THE HART HOUSE ELECTIONS YOU MUST PRESENT YOUR ADMIT TO LECTURE CARD

Informal Recital

Howard Brown (III Music), pianist, will give an informal recital in the east common room at 1.30 p.m. today.

Glee Club

Orders for photographs of the Glee Club will be received in the Warden's Office till Thursday, March 7th.

U. Of Manitoba Dean Views Ajax Reconversion

Dean Sanderson of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, University of Manitoba, yesterday inspected the recently-opened branch of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering at Ajax.

Accompanied by Professor W. J. T. Wright, Director of Studies at Ajax, Dr. Sanderson visited the academic area as well as the residences used by the students.

Said Dr. Sanderson to The Varsity: "The gigantic task of reconverting this former shell-filling plant has been accomplished remarkably well considering the shortage of labor and materials. Congratulations are due to the planners of this new university division as well as to the staff who have surpassed all expectations."

"The new laboratories with their fine equipment and exhaust facilities, as well as your well-lighted lecture rooms are really surprising."

Dean Sanderson also expressed his satisfaction with the renovated residences which "are adequate without over-crowding."

"Out in Winnipeg," he added, "we have pretty much the same problem on a smaller scale, a high increase in student population as a result of so many ex-servicemen wishing to complete their education."

The same type of reconversion was going on at the Manitoba campus where army huts were being erected on the campus and converted into residences and study rooms.

